THE AMERICAN ADVISER OF KOREANS SHOT THREE TIMES WHILE AT FRISCO

For Favoring the Course of Japan in Korea.

Was Also Knocked Down in Hotel Sunday Night

On His Way Home From His Post of Duty.

San Francisco, March 23.—D. W. Stevens, American adviser to the Korean council of state, who was attacked by a committee of Koreans in the Fairmont hotel, last night, for favoring the course of Japan in Korea, was shot three times by two Koreans at the Union ferry building today. Stevens drew a pistol and shot one of the Koreans. The extent of Mr. Stevens' injuries is not yet known.

San Francisco, March 23.—D. W. Stevens, diplomatic advisor to the Korean council of state, who arrived Friday from Korea, was attacked and knocked down by a committee of four angry Koreans last night in the lobby of his hotel. Only the prompt arrival of guests and employes of the hotel, in response to his loud cries for help, saved his life, for the Koreans declared later they would have killed him. Stevens was severely bruised and scratched, but was not dangerously injured.

Stevens, in an interview upon his arrival, said the Korean people have been greatly benefited by Japanese protection, and that they are beginning to look more favorably upon it. He also said that the Korean peasants have welcomed the Japanese and the official class is beginning to think well of them on the ground that the only hope for Korea is in a reorganization of the old institution on the lines proposed by Japan. Other statements, all of which were favorable to Japan in relation to their native country, made the Koreans angry.

After the assault, Stevens went to his room. The hotel lobby was thrown into a state of excitement by the affray. Stevens had his injuries attended to and he refused to be seen, as he was in no condition to discuss the attack, which he firmly believes was murderous in its intent.

FALLING LAMPS CAUSE A PANIC

Chandelier Drops From the Ceiling of Muskegon Hotel.

Muskegon, Mich., March 23.—Falling fifteen feet into the aisle of the Fourth Reformed church, a central chandelier startled 200 worshipers during the singing of the closing hymn at last night's services. Women screamed and men were on the verge of rushing for the exits in a panic. But the choir, led by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Brock, continued singing as though nothing unusual had happened and the coolness of those on the platform quieted the fears of the congergation so that a panic was averted. The spilling of the oil lamps set fire to the carpet in the central aisle, but the blaze was quickly stamped out by the men and the people left the church in an orderly procession.

POISONS SWEETHEART.

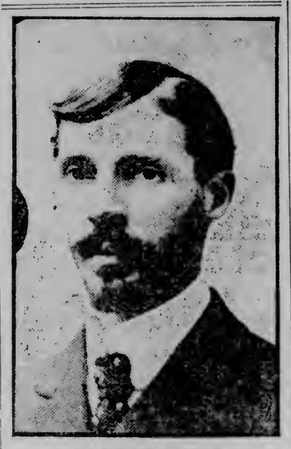
Wisconsin Man on Hearing of Her Death, Kills Himself.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 23.—Miss Nettie Plaschek, aged 17 years, daughter of Mrs. Ida Plaschek, 764 Tenth avenue, died early today from strychnine poisoning administered by her sweetheart, Leo Wojelski. The fatal drug was mixed with some ice cream. When Wojelski learned of the death of his sweetheart, he hastened to make the tragedy a double one by taking a dose himself. He died an hour later. The crime was probably inspired because the man's parents had objected to a proposed marriage to the young girl.

MICHIGAN'S LUMBER CUT IS FALLING OFF.

Bay City, Mich., March 23.—According to statistics compiled by Editor E. D. Cowles of the Bay City Tribune, the annual lumber cut in the state of Michigan has dwindled to considerably less than half of what it was in 1888, which was the banner year in Michigan lumbering. The total production of lumber in Michigan in 1907 was 1,743,584,000 feet, a reduction of 10 per cent from the output of 1906. This year it is predicted will show a reduction of 30 per cent from 1906. Unless reforestration is extensively adopted, it is said, that Michigan lumber will be practically exhausted in thirty years.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION DECIDES CASE AGAINST ITSELF



HENRY FARNAM,
Who Is Astonishing the Aeronautic World by His Remarkable Flights in His Aeroplane. He Made Two and One-half Miles in a Little Over Three Minues Last Week.

Holds It Has No Authority Over Ocean Transportation,

Nor Over Foreign Commerce by Rail and Steamship.

Washington, March 23.—A decision was promulgated today by the interstate commerce commission in what probably is the most important case which the commission for a long time has been called upon to determine. It is that of the Cosmopolitan Shipping company, a Philadelphia organization chartered under the laws of New Jersey, against the Hamburg-American Packet company, the North German Lloyd Steamship company, the Wilson (Hull) lines and the Scandinavian-American lines.

The complainant's petition was filed with the commission nearly a year ago. Some time subsequently the defendants filed a demurrer, attacking the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. Oral arguments on the demurrer were heard by the commission, Ward W. Pierson appearing for the Cosmopolitan company, and Former Senator John C. Spooner, Judge William G. Choate and Harrington Putnam for the defendants. The oral arguments were followed by extensive briefs which the commission has had under consideration for several weeks.

The opinion in the case, which is very voluminous, was prepared by Commissioner Franklin K. Lane. It is an exhaustive discussion of the law bearing upon the case and a lucid statement of the conclusions of the commission.

Decision Important.

The decision is peculiarly important, not only because it affects large interests which hitherto have not been brought before a judicial tribunal of this country, but because it affects

INTRIGUES OF COURT

In Time of Alfonso XII of Spain May be Bared

In Suit Brought by Two Half Brothers of King.

Madrid, March 23.—The judges in the Elena Sanz affair called at the palace yesterday to take the evidence of the queen mother.

Elena Sanz was a Spanish actress by whom King Alfonso XII had two natural sons. These children are now suing the heirs of Alfonso XII for an annuity, which they claim was left to their mother by the king and which was to revert, after death, to them.

The queen deposed that a few days after the death of Alfonso XII, Senor Salmeron came to Senor Abella, who was then master of the household, and told him that Elona Sanz had in her possession certain letters from the late king, the publication of which would cause a great scandal. She would give them up for $15,000 and in addition Salmeron claimed $1,000 for his services in the matter. Trusting to the integrity of Salmeron, the queen paid over these two sums and was assured by him that all the letters in question had been destroyed. The present suit of the Sanz heirs, however, is based entirely upon letters identical with those which the queen paid to have burned.

The Sanz matter is to come up before the supreme court, that tribunal having declared itself competent to try the case.

VALUABLE BALLAST.

German Ship Carries 60,000 Bricks to Keep Her Steady.

New York, March 23.—The four-masted British built German clipper ship Peter Rickmers, in yesterday from Bremen, has aboard 6000 German white bricks, shipped at Bremerhaven, which she is going to carry to Rangoon, whither she will also take from this port a cargo of case oil. Capt. Bachman said his employers had found that the Rickmers, which is slim and heavily sparred, needed a lot of ballast to cross the sea. There was no reason why she could not have profitable ballast and so they put aboard the bricks which are sold at a big profit in India, and 200 tons of stone fit for Burmese foundations. Incidentally, such is the cargo capacity of the big ship she took aboard 1,350 tons of sand ballast. She will dump that at South Brooklyn before going to Bayonne to load with case oil, and the sand will be sold. A cargo of case oil alone would not be heavy enough to keep the Rickmers from ducking under the pressure of a stiff breeze and that is why she has to take the bricks and stone the roundabout way from Germany.

WAGES TO BE REDUCED.

New Bedford, Mass., March 23.—Notices of a wage reduction averaging 10 per cent effective April 6, were posted in all the cotton cloth mills in the city today. The yarn mills which are outside the New Bedford cotton manufacturer's association, it is estimated will take similar action. About 22,000 operatives will be affected, 18,000 in the cloth mills and 4,000 in the yarn mills.

Bakersfield, Cal., March 23.—The American car in the New York to Paris race arrived at this city at 12:40 a. m., today from Ballarat. The run yesterday was 150 miles. The car will leave for San Francisco today.

PRINCE HELIE DE SAGAN IS BELIEVED TO BE IN NEW YORK

New York, March 23.—Prince Helie de Sagan, who is a suitor for the hand of Mme. Anna Gould, is believed to have arrived in New York within a few days with the object of renewing his attentions to the American heiress. The man who is believed to be Prince Helie registered at a New York hotel as "W. H. Thomson" and gave no address. He reached New York two days after Mme. Gould, and dined with Mme. Gould last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse.

The visit of Prince de Sagan here at this time was unexpected, at least by those who know something of the affairs of the prince himself and of Mme. Gould. She left Paris to spend some time in this country, away from the cares that had weighed upon her in the French capital.

MINNESOTA'S RAILROAD LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL; YOUNG'S PETITION DENIED

Act Regulating Both Freight and Passenger Rates is Void

United States Supreme Court Hands Down Important Decision.

Washington, March 23.—The supreme court of the United States today denied the petition of Attorney General Edward T. Young of Minnesota, for a writ of habeas corpus in the case in which he is held for contempt of court by the United States circuit court of Minnesota, because he refused to abide by an injunction issued by that court forbidding him from taking any action looking to the enforcement of the maximum railroad rate law. The court, at the same time, pronounced invalid the Minnesota law regulating both freight and passenger rates. The opinion was announced by Justice Peckham, who held the Minnesota law to be unconstitutional in its face because of the enormous penalties imposed for disobedience to it.

Harlan Dissented.

Justice Harlan delivered a dissenting opinion in which he expressed the view that the decisions of the court in the Minnesota and North Carolina cases mark a new era in the relationship between the states and the federal government, and between the federal and state courts. He contended that the

ANOTHER INJUNCTION AGAINST LABOR UNIONS IS MADE PERMANENT

Appeal Will be Taken to District Court of Appeals.

Washington, March 23.—The American Federation of Labor and President Gompers and others of that organization were permanently enjoined from "conspiring, agreeing, or combining to restrain, obstruct or destroy" the business of the Bucks Stove & Range company in a decision rendered by Chief Justice Clabaugh of the supreme court of the district of Columbia today, making permanent the temporary injunction of Justice Gould against the federation in that case. The federation's counsel immediately noted an appeal to the district court of appeals. Today's decision bars the federation from in any manner calling the attention of the public to the Bucks company, or its business or products, and also bars the federation from placing the company on the "unfair list" or from stating that the company's products should not be purchased, either in Missouri or anywhere else.

Ashland, Wis., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Barta and Mrs. Anna Kadel, an eloping Chicago couple, were arrested and locked up in the county jail at Ashland last night. Mrs. Kadel arrived here last Thursday, with her two small children. Barta arrived a day later. His grown up son and daughter arrived Sunday and assisted in locating them. Officers from Chicago are expected tonight.

OVER 30,000 VISIT CONEY

Advance Guard Could Wait No Longer for Spring.

New York, March 23.—More than 30,000 persons, an advance guard that would wait no longer for the approach of spring, visited Coney Island yesterday. The islanders were surprised at the size of the crowd they were called upon to entertain, but were not at all unprepared. There were plenty of frankfruters to go around, and roller coasters, merry-go-rounds, and other forms of amusement were eagerly accepted by the premature pleasure seekers in the absence of the more elaborate entertainments of the big parks.

The early exodus from the city to the island was regarded as a favorable omen for a memorable season when the warm weather arrives to stay.

SHIP'S SAFE ROBBED.

Thief Gets Away With $3,800 From Milwaukee's Paymaster.

Washington, March 23.—The official report of the investigation held on board the cruiser Milwaukee of the taking of $3,800 from the safe of Paymaster Skipwith shows that the safe probably was locked and the paymaster was not away from the ship during the time when the abstraction of the funds must have occurred. The vessel was at target practice in Magadalena bay at the time. The report shows that all possible precautions were taken and that the robber in some way must have obtained the combination of the safe.

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST IN COLLISION.

Tokio, March 23.—The Mutsu Maru, an 800-ton coasting steamer, belonging to the Yusen Kaisha line, was sunk in a collision with the Hieyweshi Maru, 696 tons, early today, two miles off Toaohkke, near Hakodate. The captain of the Mutsu Maru, a majority of her 244 passengers and forty-three of the crew perished. The Hideyashi Maru and another steamer rescued the survivors.

THOUSANDS OF FOREIGNERS

Of Undersirable Character Will be Deported From Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, March 23.—An investigation is in progress here which, it is said, will result in the deportation of thousands of undesirable foreigners from the Pittsburg district within the next few months.

John T. Harper, agent at large for the immigration bureau of the department of commerce and labor, is in Pittsburg now, gathering statistics incident to commencing deportation. While he could not give an estimate as to the number of foreigners who will be taken out of the Pittsburg district, he said it "would run into thousands."

The crusade is the carrying out of the recent order of federal authorities to use deportation as a means of checking the growth of anarchistic sentiment and the ridding the country of the burden of taking care of indigent foreigners.

THROWN OVER 60-FOOT BANK

St. Paul, March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—While returning from a theater in St. Paul Sunday night, Bert Pepis, New Canada; E. L. Miller and two children, Forth Worth, Tex., and Ida and Edith Pepis were thrown from a wagon at the corner of Crosby and Rice streets and seriously injured.

The party was returning to New Canada. Their horses became frightened at an automobile and threw the occupants of the buggy down a sixty-foot embankment.

Mr. Pepis received a sprained leg. Mr. Miller's arm was sprained. The rest of the party received internal injuries. All were taken to their homes.

SUCCESSOR TO BRYAN.

Speculation is Rife as to Whom Governor Will Name.

Pensacola, Fla., March 23.—Speculation is rife here as to whom Governor Broward will name as the successor to United States Senator William J. Bryan, who died in Washington yesterday. The Florida campaign is now in full blast, with three candidates for United States senator, Congressman William B. Lamar of Monticello, John S. Beard of Pensacola and Albert Gilchrist of Jacksonville. It is not believed the governor will name any of these men and the selection may be State Senator Thomas West of Santa Rosa. Ex-Senator Samuel Pasco of Monticello was an applicant for the position when Mr. Bryan was named, and it is probable that he will again apply.

The Copper Handbook.

Volume VII of the new edition of the "Copper Handbook" has just been issued by the author, Horace J. Stevens of Houghton, Mich. The book has 1,228 pages, octavo, brevier type, being materially larger than before. The author apologizes for his inability to revise the book throughout, explaining that fire, sickness and loss of five months' time prevented, but the new volume contains about 180,000 words of new matter, equal in length to three ordinary works of fiction, in addition to the matter remaining unchanged from the preceding issue.

The new edition of the "Copper Handbook" contains twenty-five chapters, an increase of nine, treating of copper under the headings of history, geology, chemistry, mineralogy, mining, milling, concentrating, hydrometallurgy, pyrometallurgy, electrometallurgy, alloys, brands, grades, uses, substitutes, terminology, geography, copper deposits, copper mines and statistics. The treatment given the subject in 1,228 pages is encyclopaedic in scope, but the logical and orderly arrangement of the great mass of facts presented, coupled with a table of contents, full index and alphabetical arrangement of districts, countries, mines, minerals and glossary, render it possible to ascertain any given fact with almost as much ease as a word is found in a dictionary. This is a point of much value to readers that has been overlooked in many otherwise excellent works of reference.

The "Copper Handbook" is not intended to replace other works for the use of technical men, but it does supplement all other technical books on copper, while for the average reader its hundreds of pages devoted to the scientific and technical features of the subject will be found to cover every point of interest. The language is plain throughout, and the layman, whether miner or investor, will find the clear and easily understandable exposition of scientific facts a great aid, as the highly technical language used in many of the best scientific works is a serious stumbling-block in the path of the man not technically trained, who is forced to read such books with a dictionary at his elbow.

Unionism the First Step to Success.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It cannot be denied that unionism means success wherever it is found and if not, why did the people in the early history of this country find it absolutely necessary in the year of 1761 to form a colony union? It was simply because one colony, if left to its own weak self, could only totter in existence and sure to make trouble for the others. Another reason is that it required all of the colonies to pull together in one uniform way in order to be strong and wise enough to compete with other nations. That being true, one humble wage-earner, if he starts out unprotected and alone, can never successfully compete with capital and he is sure to make trouble for those who are working for his welfare and their own.

The French alliance, drawn up in America in 1778 was to inspire the Americans with new courage, strengthen their financial standing and teach them to refuse all overtures for peace that did not recognize the respective rights of their states. Then what can the trades' alliance mean to every trades-man who works for a wage? Who was the first to kick about the early colonial union and French alliance? It was England, and what was her reason? It was because she feared the Americans would get strong and wise enough to compel her to recognize their rights.

That is why capital in some cases kicks about unions and their alliances. Capitol is needed, but it is useless for any one person to start out alone in trying to compete with it. England become of great value to the United States after she learned to recognize its citizens as men and not as subjects, and so will capital be of great value to the wage-earners when it learns to recogize laborers as men and not merely as manufacturing tools. Let their own judgment tell non-unionists that when they turn down a lober union, capital is chuckling up its sleeve, for the same reason that England did when she found some of the colonists who were opposed to a colonial union.

Some people say, they cannot see any good in a labor union, but if they cannot, it is because they do not want to, or that they are too ignorant to realize its meaning, or those who do not care to better their condition, or that of any one else, and the beings who try to teach us government reform by assassinating our presidents and a chief of police now and then. England and some of the colonists could not see any good in a colony union until they were taught to see it. People have been known to say that the union laborers are dissatisfied with conditions, but what about the employers? They are dissatisfied because men refuse to coin gold United States money for them without a fair show.

What is the cause of unionism? It is the result of oppression, ambition and a desire for prosperity. That being a fact, all persons who are guilty of being would-be labor crushers are evidently opposed to seeing ambition and prosperity in their fellow men. Let wisdom teach the would-be labor crushers that the only way to kill ambition is to wipe out history and the knowledge of a just God, and not until then will they accomplish their selfish desire. Not until capital has learned to consider a fellowman as man to man will they know or remember what it means for another man to sell his labor at any price, in order to protect himself and the ones he loves.

Bismarck, N. D., March 23.—Bismarck is as dry as any town in the country where all the people are saints and teetotallers to boot. Every digger in the town has surrendered his government license to the state's attorney and a bottle of beer is worth its price in gold to the thirsty. The more firey liquid may be had at drug stores, however, by putting up a sufficient tale of woe, so there is no danger of anybody drying up and blowing away.

MONEY FOR BREAD LINE

Employes of Wholesale House Subscribe $35 Toward Fund.

Cash Will be Used to Buy Food for the Hungry.

Employes of the F. A. Patrick company raised $35 in about five minutes, Saturday afternoon, for the relief of the men in the bread line.

The subscription was taken up as a result of the appeal published in The Herald for the men in the bread line, and the statement that the Bethel authorities were finding the burden of feeding so many men daily, a heavy one.

The money will be used to buy eggs, coffee, flour and ham, and the food will be sent to the Bethel authorities this afternoon.

The sum was contributed in amounts of from twenty-five cents to $1, and nobody was urged to contribute who did not feel inclined to do so.

It is believed that other wholesale houses and business firm will take up the work, and aid the Bethel authorities in feeding the idle men in the city, until conditions are improved.

SPRAINED ANKLE CASES FINISHED

Witnesses Claim School Teacher Had an Accommodating Limp.

Two "sprained ankle cases" were argued to as many juries today in the district court.

Closing testimony for the defense was given in Judge Cant's room this morning in the action brought by Miss Ida Ostlund, a teacher, to recover $5,000 from the Duluth Belt Line Railway company for an injury to her ankle, caused by jumping from one of the company's cars when a collision was thought to be imminent.

Miss Ostlund testified that her injury was severe and of a seemingly permanent nature. The company had expert medical testimony to the effect that so far as an examination was concerned no defect could be found in the ankle. Several witnesses testified that Miss Ostlund limps worse at times than at others and that the limp is much more perceptible when in the vicinity of the power house, the Belt Line cars, or in the presence of people connected with the company.

In Judge Dibbell's room the city of Duluth sought to have the suit of Mrs. Katherine Ferguson dismissed on the ground that she had already made one settlement with the Duluth Telephone company and had been paid $500 for the injury to her ankle, received by stepping in the hole left by the removal of a telephone pole.

Mrs. Ferguson admitted that she received $500 from the telephone company. She claimed that it was not received as a full settlement of the case, but merely to drop the suit against the company. The jury was charged to reduce the total amount of damages claimed by the $500 already received, in case an agreement was reached to award any damages.

The Liquor Traffic.

In these days when temperance waves are running high all over the country, and we might say the world, it may not be out of place for people in general to express their opinions, and I know of no other medium for quick circulation than the newspapers. I, for one, am strongly against the present system of the liquor traffic, yet I do not favor prohibition, but by all means let us do away with the saloons. I do not need to tell the reason why. They have told their own story, and we all know it. Now, then, what shall we do? Simply turn the whole business over to Uncle Sam, and all we would need in a city the size of Duluth would be one, or at the most, two places where liquor should be sold. These places should be in charge of the government officials under bond and on a straight salary. No one should be allowed to drink in the place, all to bring their jugs or bottles, buy the goods and walk out. Under no consideration should liquor be sold to intoxicated persons or persons known to be habitual drunkards, and it should be made a crime for anybody else to buy liquor for a drunkard. Part of this system is in vogue in some European countries, and I know of one place where liquor is sold only one day in the week. Yours respectfully, A. CITIZEN.

The No. 3 and No. 4 companies went to 607 East First street, on account of a mistake in receiving the directions, and the fire had a fine start before the firemen reached it. The Copper Handbook.

Volume VII of the new edition of the "Copper Handbook" has just been issued by the author, Horace J. Stevens, of Houghton, Mich. The book has 1,325 pages, octavo, brevier type, being materially larger than before. The author apologizes for his inability to revise the book throughout, explaining that fire, sickness and loss of five months time prevented, but the new volume contains about 180,000 words of new matter, equal in length to three ordinary works of fiction, in addition to the matter remaining unchanged from the preceding issue.

The new edition of the "Copper Handbook" contains twenty-five chapters, an increase of nine, treating of copper under the headings of history, geology, chemistry, mineralogy, mining, milling, concentrating, hydrometallurgy, pyrometallurgy, electrometallurgy, alloys, brands, grades, uses, substitutes, terminology, geography, copper deposits, copper mines and statistics. The treatment given the subject in 1,228 pages is encyclopaedic in scope, but the logical and orderly arrangement of the great mass of facts presented, coupled with a table of contents, full index and alphabetical arrangement of districts, countries, mines, minerals and glossary, render it possible to ascertain any given fact with almost as much ease as a word is found in a dictionary. This is a point of much value to readers that has been overlooked in many otherwise excellent works of reference.

The "Copper Handbook" is not intended to replace other works for the use of technical men, but it does supplement all other technical books on copper, while for the average reader its hundreds of pages devoted to the scientific and technical features of the subject will be found to cover every point of interest. The language is plain throughout, and the layman, whether miner or investor, will find the clear and easily understandable exposition of scientific facts a great aid, as the highly technical language used in many of the best scientific works is a serious stumbling-block in the path of the man not technically trained, who is forced to read such books with a dictionary at his elbow.

It cannot be denied that unionism means success wherever it is found and if not, why did the people in the early history of this country find it absolutely necessary in the year of 1754 to form a colony union? It was simply because one colony, if left to its own weak self, could only totter in existence and sure to make trouble for the others. Another reason is that it required all of the colonies to pull together in one uniform way in order to be strong and wise enough to compete with other nations. That being true, one humble wage-earner, if he starts out unprotected and alone, can never successfully compete with capital and he is sure to make trouble for those who are working for his welfare and their own.

The French alliance, drawn up in America in 1778 was to inspire the Americans with new courage, strengthen their financial standing and teach them to refuse all overtures for peace that did not recognize the respective rights of their states. Then what is the trades' alliance mean to every trades-man who works for a wage? Who was the first to kick about the early colonial union and French alliance? It was England, and what was her reason? It was because she feared the Americans would get strong and wise enough to compel her to recognize their rights.

That is why capital in some cases kicks about unions and their alliances. Capitol is needed, but it is useless for any one person to start out alone in trying to compete with it. England become of great value to the United states after she learned to recognize its citizens as men and not as subjects, and so will capital be of great value to the wage-earners when it learns to recognize laborers as men and not merely as manufacturing tools. Let their own judgment tell non-unionists that when they turn down a lober union, capital is chuckling up its sleeve, for the same reason that England did when she found some of the colonists who were opposed to a colonial union.

Some people say, they cannot see any good in a labor union, but if they cannot, it is because they do not want to, or that they are too ignorant to realize its meaning, or those who do not care to better their condition, or that of any one else, and the beings who try to teach us government reform by assassinating our presidents and a chief of police now and then. England and some of the colonists could not see any good in a colony union until they were taught to see it. Peoples have been known to say that the union laborers are dissatisfied with conditions, but what about the employers? They are dissatisfied because men refuse to coin gold United States money for them without a fair show.

What is the cause of unionism? It is the result of oppression, ambition and a desire for prosperity. That being a fact, all persons who are guilty of being would-be labor crushers are evidently opposed to seeing ambition and prosperity in their fellowmen. Let wisdom teach the would-be labor crushers that the only way to kill ambition is to wipe out history and the knowledge of a just God, and not until then will they accomplish their selfish desire. Not until capital has learned to consider a fellowman as man to man will they know or remember what it means for another man to sell his labor at any price, in order to protect himself and the ones he loves. Bismarck, N. D., March 23.—Bismarck is as dry as any town in the country where all the people are saints and teetotallers to boot. Every digger in the town has surrendered his government license to the state's attorney and a bottle of beer is worth its price in gold to the thirsty. The more fiery liquid may be had at drug stores, however, by putting up a sufficient tale of woe, so there is no danger of anybody drying up and blowing away.

MONEY FOR BREAD LINE

Cash Will be Used to Buy Food for the Hungry.

The subscription was taken up as a result of the appeal published in The Herald for the men in the bread line, and the statement that the Bethel authorities were finding the burden of feeding so many men daily, a heavy one.

The money will be used to buy eggs, coffee, flour and ham, and the food will be sent to the Bethel authorities this afternoon.

The sum was contributed in amounts of from twenty-five cents to $1, and nobody was urged to contribute who did not feel inclined to do so.

It is believed that other wholesale houses and business firm will take up the work, and all the Bethel authorities in feeding the idle men in the city, until conditions are improved.

SPRAINED ANKLE CASES FINISHED

Two "sprained ankle cases" were argued to as many juries today in the district court.

Closing testimony for the defense was given in Judge Cant's room this morning in the action brought by Miss Ida Ostlund, a teacher, to recover $5,000 from the Duluth Belt Line Railway company for an injury to her ankle, caused by jumping from one of the company's cars when a collision was thought to be imminent.

Miss Ostlund testified that her injury was severe and of a seemingly permanent nature. The company had expert medical testimony to the effect that so far as an examination was concerned no defect could be found in the ankle. Several witnesses testified that Miss Ostlund limps worse at times than at others and that the limp is much more perceptible when in the vicinity of the power house, the Belt Line cars, or in the presence of people connected with the company.

In Judge Dibbell's room the city of Duluth sought to have the suit of Mrs. Katherine Ferguson dismissed on the ground that she had already made one settlement with the Duluth Telephone company and had been paid $500 for the injury to her ankle, received by stepping in the hole left by the removal of a telephone pole.

Mrs. Ferguson admitted that she received $500 from the telephone company. She claimed that it was not received as a full settlement of the case, but merely to drop the suit against the company. The jury was charged to reduce the total amount of damages claimed by the $500 already received, in case an agreement was reached to award any damages.

The Liquor Traffic.

In these days when temperance waves are running high all over the country, and we might say the world, it may not be out of place for people in general to express their opinions, and I know of no other medium for quick circulation than the newspapers. I, for one, am strongly against the present system of the liquor traffic, yet I do not favor prohibition, but by all means let us do away with the saloons. I do not need to tell the reason why. They have told their own story, and we all know it. Now, then, what shall we do? Simply turn the whole business over to Uncle Sam, and all we would need in a city the size of Duluth would be one, or at the most, two places where liquor should be sold. These places should be in charge of the government officials under bond and on a straight salary. No one should be allowed to drink in the place, all to bring their jugs or bottles, buy the goods and walk out. Under no consideration should liquor be sold to intoxicated persons or persons known to be habitual drunkards, and it should be made a crime for anybody else to buy liquor for a drunkard. Part of this system is in vogue in some European countries, and I know of one place where liquor is sold only one day in the week. Yours respectfully A. CITIZEN.

VIRGINIA MAYOR SCORED BY FINNS

The Temperance Societies Claim He is Not Enforcing Liquor Laws.

Virginia, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mass meeting called for the discussion of saloon law enforcement was held yesterday afternoon at the Finnish Temperance hall, and about 300 persons, mostly members of the Finnish Temperance society, were present.

J. G. Maatala, a prominent Finnish Socialist, and also a member of the temperance society, acted as chairman and did a great part of the talking. Nearly all the speaking was done by Finnish Socialists. One woman spoke in the Finnish tongue. The general tenor of their remarks was that they were disappointed with the mayor on the ground that he has not taken steps to enforce the law regarding the closing of saloons nights and Sundays.

There were a few Americans present, mostly as onlookers, but none of them took any part in the meeting. An effort to choose an American as one of the secretaries failed, because none could be found to accept the place.

INFANT'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Expires in Mother's Arms While Traveling to Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Death came suddenly to the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Booth Saturday, the child dying in its mother's arms as its parents were driving into town. The couple live near the Powers-Simpson lumber camp, where they have a homestead.

The child was never ill, and it was in perfect health, apparently, when the parents started from home. When near the Powers-Simpson camp the little one suddenly gasped and died while it was in its mother's arms.

NOT TO SELL TO PIGGERS.

Representative of Fitger Company Signs an Agreement.

Aurora, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The decisive action taken by the Aurora council against blind pigging by refusing to renew saloon licenses unless assured by brewing companies that no blind pigs in this vicinity would be furnished beer has already borne fruit. The Fitger Brewing company, through its representative, Mr. Hawkinson of Virginia, appeared before the council Saturday afternoon and signed an agreement not to sell beer to blind pigs in this section.

After the agreement was given, the council granted a renewal of the licenses to Charles Hill and Matt Alto, two representatives of the Fitger interests in Aurora. Hill runs a hotel and saloon and is opposed to blind pigs and has often expressed himself to that effect. He has said that the only reason the Fitger Brewing company has been selling to blind pigs on the Mesaba range was because others were doing the same.

It is expected that the other brewing companies will be either coaxed or clubbed into line.

SINKING WELL RAPIDLY.

Hibbing Soon to Have a Liberal Water Supply.

Hibbing, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly 200 feet of the proposed city well that is being sunk at the city hall, has been driven. It is expected that at a depth of 300 feet, a satisfactory flow of water will be secured, sufficient for all purposes for years to come. Water meters are being installed rapidly and the benefits of the meter system are becoming apparent, the city already having noted more care being exercised in the consumption of water.

FOOLED RAPIDS FRIENDS.

Couple Came Here and Got Married on Quiet.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elmer Stevens and Mrs. Sophia Remer, both of the town of Remer in Cass county, were married in Duluth a few days ago. The contracting parties did not announce their intention when leaving Grand Rapids, and hence their friends were not advised of the interesting event until several days after the nuptial knot had been tied.

Mrs. Maud Rex of Deer River appeared before Judge of Probate Huson Thursday with her three children, aged 12, 9 and 6 years, and asked for assistance of the court to find homes for the little ones, as she was unable to care for them any longer. The judge agreed to assist the woman in securing places for the children whose father deserted them last fall.

Word has been received here announcing the death of John Quist at Red Wing. Mr. Quist had been in poor health for more than a year, being a sufferer from tuberculosis. He had been a resident of Grand Rapids for about three years, and was a member of the local order of Eagles. He leaves a wife and one child.

The next regular meeting of the Mother's club will be held Friday afternoon next. The subject for discussion will be "Discipline of Children," lead by Mrs. Gendron and Mrs. Erskine. Misses Hessian, Samson, Connell and Somerville will each make short talks. Mrs. Bolter and Miss Whiting will favor the meeting with a duet.

The amount stated is the largest they have yet gotten out in one season, and larger than any other loggers have ever gotten out in this section. It will take about twenty cargoes to transport it down the lakes.

President B. H. Hayes and Supt. H. Wilson of the Lake County Lumber company, who have a mill at Stewart, were in town Saturday on business. They are now cutting over 40,000 cedar shingles per day at their mill, and the plant is running in excellent shape. PULPWOOD SHIPPERS

Will Have Season's Cut Cleaned Up in Two Weeks.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pulpwood shippers are rapidly cleaning up their winter's work, have nearly finished hauling and will have all their stock shipped within another couple of weeks. There are still thousands of ties piled up along their spurs and the right of way, which are yet to be shipped, and an endeavor will be made to forward them before their is danger of forest fires. Owing to the slow demand for ties this winter and lower price than usual the loggers have been holding them back and shipping in preference the pulpwood, which is bringing quicker and better returns. In getting out pulpwood, however, other stumpage was cleaned up at the same time and suitable timber made into ties. The winter has been the most successful in a number of years, every condition being favorable, but with the small amount of snow, which will disappear quickly, fires are much to be feared unless continued wet weather is had until vegetation gets sufficient start to prevent fire from spreading.

Ab Smith has completed his shipments of pulpwood from Hornby and Mile 44, but still has some logs to ship from 44 and 39 to Duluth and Skibo, and some ties at both points before cleaning up.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE

materially the powers of the interstate commerce commission. In brief and in effect, the commission decides against itself. It holds that it has no authority over oceanic transportation and thus determines the case adversely to the contention of the complainant.

Commissioner Lane says that it is clear, under a plain reading of the interstate commerce act, that no basis exists for the contention that the commission has jurisdiction as to shipments from ports of the United States to a foreign country not adjacent when such shipments are not carried by rail, or by rail and water, from an inland port of origin to a point of transshipment. There may be an unlimited volume of all-water commerce from the American seaboard to the European seaboard, but over such commerce or the carriers engaged therein, the commission has no regulating power whatsoever so long as the shipments originate at the seaboard and are not transshipped to the ocean carriers.

"Accordingly," continues Commissioner Lane's opinion, "it has been the uniform interpretation of the law that an all-water carrier engaged in carrying freight originating at New York or New Orleans may engage in such traffic between such ports without publishing its rates with this commission, and so may the steamships plying between Seattle and San Francisco, or the carrier which transports freight from Duluth to Chicago, or the river carrier from Memphis to New Orleans, but if such water carriers are controlled or managed by the same corporation as controls or manages a rail line, or if between a rail-and-water line there is an arrangement for continuous carriage, then such water line becomes subject to all the provisions mandatory and prohibitory of the act to regulate commerce."

Complainant Asked Extension.

"The complaintant now asks an extension of this principle so as to govern foreign commerce when such traffic is carried by rail to the seaboard and thence by steamship to European ports, it being the theory of the complainant's case that because a through bill of lading is given at the inland point where the freight is received, upon which the traffic moves to the point of foreign destination, that all the carriers participating in such through bill of lading are parties to an "arrangement for continuous carriages," and therefore that such transportation and the carriers therein engaged are subject to all the regulative provisions of the law and are necessarily as completely under federal control as if they were rail or water carriers within the United States engaged in interstate business.

"The jurisdiction of this commission is not to be determined by anything other than the language of Section 1 of the act, and in this section we find a clear distinction drawn as between interstate commerce and foreign commerce to a country not adjacent to the United States; and this distinction, in our opinion, saves such foreign commerce from the effect of that provision of the section as to continuous carriage beyond the American seaboard. From the language of the act itself and the evident purpose of congress in passing the act, and from the decisions of the courts, meager and generally unsatisfactory as they are, we are inevitably drawn to the conclusion that this commission has no jurisdiction over the trans-Atlantic steamship lines herein involved, even though they may be parties to a through arrangement for continuous transportation in connection with a railroad within the United States. On foreign commerce to a non-adjacent country the jurisdiction of this commission over the carriers therein engaged ends at the seaboard."

BACK TO OLD HOME.

Calumet, Mich., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-five years ago Capt. John Broan, the veteran mining captain, at the Winona mine, left his home, mother and relatives in England and came to America to win his fortune. His life in this country has been a busy one, and now, after a quarter of a century, he is going back home to see his aged mother, and spend a couple of months at the place where his youth was spent. Capt. Broan has departed en route to New York, where he will join Dr. L. L. Hubbard, and the two will sail together. Dr. Hubbard goes on to Italy, to be gone several months. It is expected the two will make the trip together.

Grape-Nuts food is made of Wheat and Barley, in large 10-lb. loaves which are first baked, then sliced and again baked until rock hard. The slices are then ground into the granules called Grape-Nuts.

The long baking, changes the starch of the cereals to a form of sugar which is easily digested and quickly absorbed by even a child.

It affords ideal nourishment for all ages—from infancy to maturity; for all conditions—from the invalid to the Athlete.

PREPARING TO HANG HIMSELF

Eilij Johnson Had Rope Ready When Police Broke In.

Eilij Johnson, a Norwegian laborer, about 40 years of age, had all preparations made to hang himself in the Nicollet hotel this morning, when Officer Wilcox broke into the room.

Johnson is suspected of being mentally deranged, and the officers had been notified of his condition. He is said to be constanty raving about a girl back in Norway, and it is believed that an old love affair has worked upon his mind until he is mentally unbalanced.

When the officer broke into the room, Johnson had a sheet twisted into a rope, and was on his knees praying. He was taken into custody and will be examined before the probate court.

Good For Everybody.

Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequaled. 50c at all drug stores.

FORGERY WAS CLUMSY WORK

Claiming that a pool room hanger-on persuaded him to commit the crime, William Bailey, aged 21 years, is under arrest charged with raising a check from $5 to $80. He was arrested Saturday night on information furnished by the Fifth Avenue Clothing company, where the boy attempted to cash the check.

The job was clumsily done. The check was payable to Bailey and from the Dupont Powder company. In making out the check, black ink had been used, but the boy used blue ink in raising it, it is said, and the result was anything but a success. The clerk to whom the check was presented instantly discovered the fraud, and held Bailey waiting for change, while the police were summoned.

Bailey has no relatives and no friends in Duluth. He says his sister sent him $25 to go East and live with her, and he intended to do so, but the money frittered away until only the check for $8 was left him. He says he took his pool room friend's advice and raised the check. He does not know the name of his friend, but has furnished a nick-name to the police, and a search is being made.

NO DECISION IN CONTEST CASE

Decision Would Have No Immediate Effect on Council's Action.

Up to a late hour this afternoon, Judge Cant had not filed his decision in the Bloedel-Cromwell aldermanic contest case, although it seemed to be the general impression that the court's ruling would be made some time today.

Even if the decision were filed today it is stated that it would in no way affect the action of the council this evening in the matter of the confirmation of the men selected by Mayor Haven for city engineer and health commissioner.

No matter which side wins, the court will grant a stay of judgment for several days, as the losing side will, undoubtedly, take an appeal to the state supreme court.

When the case was tried Judge Cant stated that he would render his opinion at the earliest time possible, but the court has been very busy ever since the contest was tried.

JOHNSON AS MODEL MAYOR

Interesting Lecture on Cleveland Man by Former Secretary.

That Mayor Tom L. Johnson's ambitions are not national in their scope, but municipal, was the statement made by Peter Witt, formerly secretary of Mayor Johnson, and now city clerk of Cleveland, in a lecture delivered last evening at Fhaaten's hall.

Mr. Witt stated that Mayor Johnson's ambitions were bound up in Cleveland, and that he aimed to make it the best governed city in the world, and to improve the conditions under which the people of Cleveland live and work. Mr. Witt repeated Mayor Johnson's statement that he would be a candidate for mayor for the fifth term at the expiration of the fourth, and he related in a most interesting manner the story of Mayor Johnson's fight against the political machines of Cleveland.

Mayor Johnson was held up as one man whom money could not buy. He already has all the money he needs and Mr. Witt claimed that no bribe could influence him.

An innovation in good city government, which Mr. Witt called attention to, is a farm of 40 acres near Cleveland, where old people are given comfortable homes in cottages, and may work and be self-supporting, amid home surroundings, instead of going to the poorhouse.

Mr. Witt is an eloquent speaker, and his talk was thoroughly enjoyed. Owing to the sudden change in the date from Friday to Sunday evening, the attendance was small.

Mr. Witt has delivered his lecture in several cities in the Northwest, and was brought to Duluth by G. W. Ross of the firm of Ross & McKnight, who is an admirer of Mr. Witt, and is much interested in the municipal problems being worked out in Cleveland.

SEWERS FOR HILLSIDE

Extension of Water System to be Followed by Sewers.

More Work for Coming Season Than for Many Years Past.

In the petitions flowing into the office of the board of public works are any indication, there will be more sewer work in Duluth this coming season than for a good many years past. Every day or two, a new petition puts in an appearance and many districts will be provided with adequate drainage.

Much of the work is in the hillside district, following the extensions of the water system last summer. The water mains have been laid in Sixth and Seventh streets and sewers will be laid there also this summer. Petitions are being circulated for Ninth street and Ninth alley, also, the highest points ever to be touched by the sewer system of the city.

None of the petitions call for large contracts. The petitioners take a block or two, secure an outlet, and they usually have little trouble securing the necessary number of signatures, as no vacant blocks are taken in, as would be the case were the sewers in other parts of the city, but the following of the middle water system by the sewers is the most important work to be done and by the end of next fall, the hillside will be completely furnished with water, gas and sewer mains.

TUGMEN SATISFIED.

Local tug captains, engineers and firemen are pleased with the wage agreement that has been affected between the tugmen and the Great Lakes Towing & Wrecking company. The wage agreement was reached today at the Cleveland meeting.

The captains will receive for the coming year, $136.29; the engineers, $116.29; the firemen, $60. In view of the curtailed amount of business that will result this year, the men are very well satisfied to accept the wage scale of 1907. There were rumors of a reduction of wages, because of the business conditions that have affected business on the lakes, and therefore the 1907 wage scale is agreeable to the men.

"THERE'S A REASON"

CHILDREN URGE MAYOR

Childish Communications on Playgrounds Received by Executive.

Start Will Probably be Made During Coming Season.

Mayor Haven is figuring on plans for public playgronuds, which will be submitted to the park board and also to the different clubs interested in the project. On the occasion of the visit of Lee F. Hanmer, field secretary of the National Playground association, it is expected something will materialize, so that the movement will have results this coming summer.

The children have taken up the campaign for playgrounds, also. The mayor has received several communications, in childish writing, asking him to do what he can to provide breathing spots for them throughout the city.

Mr. Haven is enthusiastically working on his plans for gratifying the children. He believes that Duluth should do something this year, at least in an experimental way, so that there might be a basis on which to lay the plans for the future. He believes that there are a number of vacant lots in the heart of the city, the use of which would be donated by the owners for the experiment. At a small expense, the park board could put them in condition and they would serve the purpose until permanent locations could be secured.

"I believe we should have little trouble disposing of the $50,000 park bonds now," said the mayor this morning. "People are loaning more toward investment in municipal bonds rather than speculative securities, and Duluth's bonds will robably be disposed of. With the funds thus given them, the members of the park board will be able to go ahead with their plans. I believe Duluth should do something this year, at least as an experiment, and we can gradually extend the system of playgrounds as we see the necessity."

WAGE SCALES ARE UNCHANGED

Tugmen and Dredgemen Will Receive Same Wages This Year.

F. B. Daugherty, general manager of the Great Lakes Tug & Dredge Owners' association, who is at the Spalding, states that contracts with labor organizations affiliated with the longshoremen have been signed for the coming season. Mr. Daugherty stated that no reduction of wages has been made.

The contracts contain an arbitration clause. All grievances will be arbitrated, thus preventing any strikes or walkouts. While the tug business is feeling the effects of the dullness that is effecting all lines of business, the men engaged in it look for an improvement in the near future. Mr. Daugherty also predicts an improvement in the iron and steel business within a very short period.

Mr. Daugherty says that in Washington members of both parties realize that business must be encouraged and do not desire to enact any legislation which would make present conditions worse.

The wage scale for tugmen upon the Great Lakes for the next two years was also formally agreed upon Saturday as a result of a week's conference between the tugmen and the officials of the Great Lakes Towing company at Cleveland.

The agreement, it is said, will be signed today. No charges were made in the rates, and the same rate which prevailed during the past two years will maintain during the coming two years. The contract will go into effect May 1. Negotiations for the tugmen were, conducted by President Keefe of the International Longshoremen, Marine & Transportation Workers' association.

COURT WILL HEAR FAMILY TROUBLES

The family troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Jankowsky and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Neill will be heard in municipal court tomorrow. The two men were arraigned this morning, Jankowsky on a charge of non-support and O'Neill on a charge of threatening to beat his wife.

Mrs. Jankowsky's story is one of a hard struggle to get along in the face of difficulties furnished by her husband. She says that for four months he hasn't given her a cent for the support of herself and her little girl. Not only that, but one day, she says, when she collected some money for washing and laid a $5-bill on the table, Jankowsky picked it up and went out and spent it for whisky. They live at 223 East Fourth street.

O'Neill is not making his debut as a principal in police court. He has been there several times for beating his wife, resulting in the woman having filed divorce proceedings. She charges that O'Neill called at her house Saturday and threatened to beat her. She wants him placed under bonds to keep the peace. The O'Neills were married about a year ago, and their path has had few roses and many thorns. He is a railroad man and lives in the West end.

Andrew Halberg, very drunk and correspondingly broke, thought the saloons owed him a bed Saturday night, after having shot all his money across the varnished board. He kicked in the door of the Caledonia saloon on West Superior street, gracefully deposited himself in a corner and there the officer found him. He pleaded guilty to a charge of trespass this morning and was given a sentence of $10 and costs or fifteen days.

Arthur Lewis, formerly a porter in a Superior street restaurant, was found wandering around on the roof of a low building between Fourth and Fifth avenues west on Superior street yesterday morning. He pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge this morning and couldn't explain his presence on the building. He was let off with a sentence of $1 and costs or three days in jail.

PEOPLE LEAVE BY WINDOWS

Fire Sunday afternoon badly damaged a building at Sixth avenue east and Third street occupied by Peter Beschenbossel, with a saloon, and grocery owned by William Schuman on the first floor and apartments on the second floor.

The fire is believed to have originated in the saloon on account of defective wiring and the whole building quickly filled with smoke. The flames cut off the escape of several people, who were in the upper rooms and the firemen were compelled to take them out of the upper windows.

The firemen experienced some difficulty in locating the fire, on account of a mistake in the directions and before they arrived at the scene, the blaze was burning briskly. A few of the occupants of the rooms were partially overcome by smoke, but there were no serious results. The loss will total about $1,600.

Will Fit Out Kerr.

This sum was for services rendered in the recovery of a certain amount of money from the former officials of the bank.

MAY REFUSE TO TREAT

Lake Carriers Association Will Name Conditions to Men.

If They Are Unsatisfactory, Only Alternative Will be Strike.

It was stated this morning upon reliable authority that the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association would refuse to treat with the affiliated body of laborers composed of the firemen, cooks, witchmen, wheelsmen and deckhands, at the approaching meeting of that committee.

It is said that cards will be handed to the men, naming the conditions fixed by the executive committee, and should the men refuse to accept these conditions they will have no alternative but to strike.

The refusal of the executive committee to treat with the representatives of the affiliated body of lake laborers will practically amount to a declaration of the open shop policy upon the Great Lakes.

In the event of a strike of the Seamen's union, the vessel owners can well afford to wait until late in the season for a settlement. It is estimated that not more than 30,000,000 tons of ore will go foward this year, compared with 41,000,000 tons that went down the lakes last season. There will be thirty-six new boats on the lake this year. If last year's tonnage was made with a less number of boats, and in the face of a strike among the ore handlers, it can readily be seen that the vessel owners need be in no hurry to start the downward ore movement.

It is said that the stand of the vessel owners is aimed more particularly against the cooks and firemen. As these two unions are affiliated with the Seamen's union, the deckhands, watchmen and wheelsmen will be included in any refusal to treat with either the cooks or the firemen.

It is further stated that preparations have been made to meet any conditions that would result in the event of a strike. Men are plentiful at the present time, and it is said that the vessel owners have made preparations that will enable them to secure men at an early notice.

ALLEGED HIGHWAYMAN.

Dennis Conway Has Been Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Houghton, Mich., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county and Laurium village authorities have apprehended Dennis Conway of Larium on a charge of highway robbery, preferred by Steve Dudjensky, who claims that Conway, with two other men, held him up on Lake Linden avenue Saturday and relieved him of a gold watch and chain and about $60 in cash.

Conway was identified in Justice David Armil's court by Dudjensky as one of the men who held him up and is willing to swear that Conway is the right person. He is not so sure about the other two holdup men, however, and the authorities will be forced to work out a case for themselves. The case against Conway is said to be a strong one.

Conway was given a preliminary examination before Justice Armil, denied his guilt and demanded an examination, which was set for Saturday, March 28. Conway was held in $1,300 bonds, which he was unable to furnish and he was remanded to the county jail.

A Beautiful Display.

The formal opening which takes place at the Gidding store tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, will fully reveal the foremost things of fashion as our Eastern cousins see them in the great metropolis. To view them is like a fresh dandelion salad to the jaded winter appetite. The garments are as smart and dashing as the pinch of paprika of the salad, and lend the same stimulus to the eye and spirits as the fresh green does to the palate. They are positively refreshing and there never was a budding springtime blessed with things more beautiful.

These showings of spring comers invite attention like the first crocuses that push their heads through the frosty turf. They are so absolutely correct that it becomes a liberal education in the matter of dress to linger for a time in their midst.

It has been the Gidding idea since the beginning of their career to provide Duluth women with fashion ideas simultaneously with the Eastern cities.

The latest things are assembled in distracting array. Dashing cavalier coats divide favor with artistic things that owe their fascination to Chinese mandarins. The soft silky princesse and semi-princesse dresses, Port linens and dainty lingerie dresses share attention with the heavier wearables. • • •

DURUM MEET POSTPONED.

Continued Nearly a Month Because of Secretary's Illness.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—President J. L. Cashel of the Durum Wheat association has issued a notice to the effect that the conference called for March 27 at Devils Lake has been postponed until April 21 because of the illness of Secretary T. R. Atkinson. Mr. Atkinson was taken ill just at the close of the conference, which was held in this city, and on that account has been unable to get out the notices of the proposed gathering.

The boosters of durum wheat in North Dakota have received aid from the Great Northern railway in their work, a circular just issued by the line covering the good seed question gives durum a most prominent position.

ANTI-BRYAN CAMPAIGN

Three Southeastern States About to Turn Against Bryan.

Washington, March 23.—The anti-Bryan campaign is looking up, and there is now a possibility, nay, it may almost be said a probability, that that campaign will be effective in at least three of the Southern states, which, if true, means that Bryan's chances for being nominated have begun to diminish.

The states in question are Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia. Members of congress from these states state that within the next ten days it seems likely that the Democracy of those states will break away from Bryan. Said one of them, asking, however, that his name be not published:

"The Democracy of these three states would have gone against Bryan a long time ago, but it supposed that Bryan would surely be the nominee, and did not care to lead a movement against him. Now, however, the opposition is so strong in other parts of the country that we begin to think it is time to recognize it. The conventions will be held in Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia next month to choose delegates to Denver, and it is now my belief that those delegates will be uninstructed and will be men who will if the opportunity presents itself, vote for Governor Johnson."

If what has just been said is true, it is claimed here that West Virginia also will fall into line, it being controlled by the same forces which control Virginia.

It is further pointed out that if Bryan should lose these states of the old South, his nomination would be entirely out of the question.

Maryland, it now appears, will also send an uninstructed delegation to Denver, and thus most of the states of the Atlantic seaboard, from Maine to Florida, may be found opposing the continuation of the Bryan despotism.

The anti-Bryan wave which is now sweeping over the East and South began to appear early last week. Now it appears to have such force and weight, that, unless it is stopped very soon, it will gather enough votes to make Bryan's nomination out of the question. These statements, however, are made with numerous reservations, for politics is an uncertain thing. But while this is true, it is also true that the chance that Bryan will not be the Democratic presidential nominee is now stronger than it has been thus far in the contest. It is also true that the friends of Governor Johnson now have more reason for being hopeful than hitherto.

One of the most significant features of the case is the very evident alarm of Bryan himself, and the unusual activity of his supporters in the Eastern states, including New York.

There are reasons for believing that the crisis of the Democratic situation is rapidly drawing on, and that the next ten days or at the longest, the next month, may definitely determine what will happen at Denver.

ORGANIZE OUTING CLUB.

Floodwood Citizens Are Preparing for Boating and Fishing.

Floodwood, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—An organization to be known as the Prairie Lake Outing club was perfected last week, and the following officers elected: Martin Johnson, president; J. E. Brandmier, secretary, and Chris Requam, treasurer. The club will erect a bungalow and boathouse and put several boats on the lake for usse by the members.

The second of the series of card partics by the ladies of the Five Hundred club was given at the home of Mrs. C. D. Rutherford on Tuesday evening at which Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Schussler and Miss Anna Requam were hostess.

Emil Daellenbach and Charles Westine are the latest acquisition to the membership of Floodwood Cornet band.

HIS LIBERTY SHORT LIVED.

Released From Penitentiary, A. L. Parsons is Started There Again.

Crookston, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. L. Parsons, whose term at the state penitentiary expired last Thursday for forgery, was Saturday held to the grand jury on another charge of forgery, preferred by R. Butler, a saloonkeeper, of East Grand Forks, who was caught last spring for $160 by cashing checks which Parsons worked off on him, representing himself to be a well known farmer of North Dakota. Parsons was held to the grand jury by Judge Sullivan and is again languishing in the Polk county jail. He will probably plead guilty and take his medicine at once, otherwise he would have to wait until the June term of court with no hope of being found not guilty, as the evidence is clear against him. In fact, he is said to have admitted it.

MAY BE MURDERER.

John Hill, Now Doing Time, May Have Killed Charles Laine.

Blanchar, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traill county authorities believe that John Hill, who is serving a sentence in Bismark penitentiary for using a knife on Narve Narveson in a row at Nekoma a few months ago, is the man who killed Charles Laine near Blanchard in the fall of 1905. Laine's body was not discovered until April 9, 1906. It had been buried under a pile of straw. Laine was a Finlander and Hill is of the same nationality. With Edward Laine, a brother of the deceased, and two other Finlanders, they were employed on a farm. They drew their pay and started for Moorhead. They became separated and Charles Laine and Hill failed to show up in Moorhead. Nothing was heard from Hill until recently when he was sent to the penitentiary and officials of Traill county looked him up. He denies he is the Hill who was in Traill county.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

Under the statute forbidding the use of the mails to transmit anything "intended or adapted for any indecent or immoral use," Postmaster General Meyer has barred from the United States mails an Italian weekly, La Questione Sociale, published at Paterson, N. J.

This is straining the law, which was obviously not intended to cover such action as this, but the case is so flagrant an abuse of the liberty of the press that the public will undoubtedly approve the postmaster general's course.

At the same time, it is a bad precedent. Admitting that La Questione Sociale has abused its privileges and that it has thereby forfeited its right to existence, the continuance of this practice will give the postmaster general power that he should not have. It will enable him, if he is so disposed, to shut out from the mails any publication expressing economic ideas that are not thoroughly orthodox. There is much virtue in economic heterodoxy, and the people are beginning to accept more of it as truth. Yet if the postmaster general has the power to prevent public expression of economic heterodoxy at the behest of those interested in maintaining the complacent orthodoxy that protects their special privileges, that power is certain, sooner or later, to be as greatly abused as La Questione Sociale has abused the freedom of the press.

What is needed is a fair law determining the character of publications that shall be debarred from the mails. This should not be left to the discretion or lack of discretion of a single official, but should be set down in detail upon the statutes. Furthermore, there should be the right of appeal to the courts from rulings made by the postoffice department under that law. Such a law would unquestionably cover the case of La Questione Sociale, and it would not help such a publication to appeal to the courts, because a ruling against it would be upheld there. But the right of appeal to the courts should be provided for the protection of less violent publications which do not confine themselves to orthodox ideas.

As to the merits of this particular case there is no doubt. La Questione Sociale, an anarchistic weekly published in Italian, had advocated, venomously and bitterly, the use of violence in the solution of social problems. It has counselled the use of dynamite as an argumentative force, it has urged the murder of enlisted men of the United States army and of police officers, and it has approved the burning of houses of private citizens. There is no place in this country for such ideas, and there should be no mercy for men and newspapers that advocate them. It is proper and necessary, therefore, that this particular publication should be suppressed, even if the law has to be strained to do it. But at the same time such straining of the law is a bad precedent, and it should be made unnecessary by the enactment of a reasonable law providing for the suppression of journals advocating murder and rapine. The abuse of such a law should be guarded against by a provision for appeal to the courts to determine the applicability of the law to cases in which it is invoked.

SHOULD BE WATCHED.

Chicago is very jubilant over the stand taken by Secretary Root regarding the right of Canada to set a limit upon the amount of water that can be drained out of the Great Lakes through the Chicago drainage canal.

He has held that Lake Michigan is wholly within the United States, and that therefore Canada can have no voice in the control or use of its waters, even though draining Lake Michigan should involve lowering the levels of connecting lakes which have Canadian shores.

Chicago takes this to mean that it can use as much water as it wishes in its drainage canal, and that when the drainage canal is made into a deepwater channel from the lakes to the Mississippi, there shall be no limit upon the amount of water to be taken for that purpose.

Chicago is probably carrying its hopes too far. Even if the principle were established that Canada has no control over the use of Lake Michigan water—and beyond any question Canada will protest against such a holding—the government of the United States can and should set a limit upon the amount of water to be taken out of the lakes to make the Lakes-to-Gulf waterway, and the other lake states will see to it that the government watches this matter very closely.

There is no objection anywhere to a Lakes-to-Gulf waterway, always providing it can be created without interfering with the immensely useful waterway already provided in the chain of Great Lakes, a waterway that will always carry a larger commerce than any Lakes-to-Gulf canal can hope to enjoy.

It would be the height of folly for this country to jeopardize this existing waterway, even to satisfy Chicago's laudable ambition for greatness.

Great interest is being taken in waterways, and public sentiment undoubtedly favors building them wherever they can be made to pay; that is, to provide a service to the public that will justify the expense of creating them. Opposition to any particular waterway should not be based upon sectional jealousy, nor should any waterway be built to profit one city or one section at the sacrifice of other cities and other sections.

If the Chicago Lakes-to-Gulf canal can be built without interfering with lake levels, well and good. If it cannot, it should not be permitted. This is not saying that it cannot be built without injury to the lake waterway, but it is saying that every step of the project must be watched closely, to see that it does not involve disastrous lowering of lake levels.

The joint commission of American and Canadian experts that was formed some time ago agreed that Chicago's drainage canal should be allowed to take a flow of only 10,000 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan. This is ample for drainage purposes, and sufficient to provide some sort of a waterway as well. But Chicago's idea is to have an 18-foot channel that will allow large boats to go from the lakes to the gulf, and this cannot be provided without endangering the waterways that connect the lakes.

TAFT CAMPAIGN MONEY.

The other day The Herald published a report from Washington to the effect that Secretary Taft's campaign for the Republican nomination for the presidency has thus far cost his brother Charles nearly a million dollars.

Now this isn't quite so bad as it would be if it were reported that his campaign had cost Mr. Morgan or Mr. Rockefeller that much money, but it is not good at the best.

It is not at all improbable that this estimate is exaggerated. Such estimates usually are. But it is unquestionable that Brother Charles is "loosening up" liberally in his ambition to make Brother William president, and that money is flowing like water in the various states where there is a fight against Taft.

Such reports do not look well, and will do Mr. Taft no good. Whatever the sources of the money, it never looks well for a nomination or an election to be captured by lavish expenditures of money. Certain expenses are legitimate and necessary. There must be workers, and workers must be paid. There must be literature written, printed and distributed, and this costs much money. It is easy to spend a large sum of money in a presidential campaign, and where one candidate or one side is scattering money lavishly it is hard for the other candidates or the other side to succeed without money. But there is a decent limit not only to the uses to which campaign money may be devoted, but to the amount of campaign money that may be used.

If Brother Charles has spent anywhere near a million dollars, the amount goes beyond that limit of decency, and gives rise to doubt whether it could be spent without also going beyond the bounds of decency in the manner of its expenditure.

Secretary Taft himself has no money. For many years he has been a public servant, living upon his salary. It is stated that when he returned from his latest globe-encircling he owned no property whatever, not even a home, and had but $1,500 in the bank. So of course Brother Charles, who is rolling in money, has to foot the bills for the campaign. It is pleasant to see him doing it, too, and his brotherly ambitions are commendable. But if he goes too far in this fraternal endeavor he is likely to do his brother more harm than good.

For one thing, the knowledge that vast amounts of money have been spent will give altogether too tangible support to the charge that the Taft enthusiasm has all been bought and paid for. That would send Mr. Taft into the campaign with a heavy handicap. A man who has to buy his nomination is likely to be compelled to buy his election, too—if he can.

Secretary Taft, if he is nominated, will have to overcome the popular impression that he is merely a Roosevelt echo, that he will be president in name only and really a puppet with Roosevelt at the governing strings. That will be bad enough, without adding to it the menace of a popular belief that he had to buy his nomination, even if it was with the money of Brother Charles and not the money of the "System."

STEMMING THE TIDE OF ORATORY.

One of the things that stand in the way of the free movement of legislative machinery in this country is oratory. The legislative machine at times becomes clogged in every gear and shaft by avalanches of talk, and work ceases until it is cleared away.

A recent incident in Berlin is immensely important in that it seems to point a way for preventing this obstruction. In brief, it is to have the correspondents go on strike and refuse to report the deliberations of congress. The result there was that speech-making ceased, promptly and completely. There was nothing left to do but work. Maybe it would act that way here; if it would, it is worth while.

The other day, in a debate in the German reichstag, some daring member ventured the statement that negroes have immortal souls. Not so much because of their skepticism about this claim as because of their resentment at its application to the point at issue, some of the excitable reporters in their gallery hissed.

Herr Groeber, leader of the Center party, arose, turned toward the reporters' gallery, and hissed—very likely through his clenched teeth, though the cables are silent on this important point—the epithet "Swine!"

The reporters didn't like it. In this country, very likely, they would have made merry over it and contented themselves with sending out nice funny pieces to their papers about the brilliancy and tact of Herr Groeber. But in Berlin they got mad about it, and went on strike for an apology.

The next day they sent an ultimatum to the various party leaders. There were to be no reports of parliamentary debates until full and complete retraction and apology were received. Herr Groeber must earnestly state his conviction that he was in error when he assigned his porcine classification to the reporters, and say he was sorry. Not a reporter attended the meetings of the reichstag. The news agencies refused to receive the official reports of the proceedings, and the reporters refused to provide their own.

The result was that the proceedings were as dull as dishwater. A dozen deputies who had intended to speak withdrew their names from the president's list and refused to address the house at a time when their remarks would not be given publication. There was no oratory, no fiery debate; nothing but deadly routine work.

It is worth trying on congress, but there is one obstacle in the way—our esteemed contemporary the Congressional Record. The members could have their speeches printed in that and distributed, free of postage, to their constituents. They do that now, of course, and they do even better than that. They put into the Record speeches which were never delivered at all, though you would never guess it from the manner in which phrases like "great applause," "loud laughter," etc., are sprinkled through them.

But it might be worth trying.

Unless the unexpected happens, Grover Cleveland will not be the only member of the ex-presidents' association after March 4.

E. H. Harriman wants to be a delegate to the Chicago convention, but he probably is not anxious to pose as a Roosevelt or Taft delegate.

The first step in remedying an evil is to let the public know it exists. The New York-to-Paris automobile race may help toward better roads in this country.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Did you ever hear of Braddock's defeat?

This is not the story of the general who crossed the raging main to give battle to the noble Redmen, and, who, but for the bravery of George Washington, might have lost a lot more than a West end London reputation. No. This is the story of the Braddock, Pa., baseball team's downfall at the hands of the McCalvey boys.

The story is vouched for by Col. John Lapsley, who has told it to many patrons of the McKay hotel and has never variated an iota in the telling. That is the true test of veracity. The colonel says that every incident of the story is true.

Braddock had gone through the Pennsylvania and Ohio league like the scythe of a farmer cuts through timothy hay. Youngstown, Oil City, Wheeling and others had been met many times on the diamond and had been vanquished by the Braddock team. The citizens of that city began to think their team invincible. It had only lost a couple of games during the entire season. Many chests swelled with pride when the feats of the Braddock boys were recounted.

Not very far from Braddock was the McCalvey farm. Here the seven McCalvey brothers held forth. They did everything but work. They left that to father and the hired men. They played ball most of the time. They got to be wonders. They could hit a ball on the nose and knock it out of the reach of the fleetest fielder. In all departments of the game they were very strong. They did nothing much but play ball from early morning until dewy eve.

Then the McCalvey boys challenged the Braddock team.

The challenge was treated as a joke. Hadn't the Braddocks made the teams of the O. & P. league look like country cousins at a society event. The call to battle of the rube McCalveys was indeed a thing to laugh at. But upon second consideration the Braddock team decided that it could pick up a little easy money by beating the McCalveys, and accepted the challenge.

The grounds were packed when the time for play was called. When the McCalvey team walked onto the field for warming up practice it was seen that it had only seven men. The captain of the Braddock team protested. He didn't want to beat only seven men. The captain of the McCalveys, big Rus McCalvey, was offered two of the extra Braddock players, but he refused to accept their services. Finally the captain of the Braddock team decided to play the seven-man team.

"Big" McCalveys won the toss and chose to go to bat first. John McCalvey was the first man to bat and he knocked a two base hit. Tom followed with a base on balls. Seth got a single, crowding the bases. Then Rus came to the plate and slammed the first ball square on the piccalo. It was still ascending when it cleared the fence.

Then Mel McCalvey came to bat and knocked a ball straight into the air. The ball kept right on ascending the atmosphere. It went so high it looked like a freckle on the moon. Mel completed the circuit of the bases before the catcher of the Bradduck caught the descending ball. There there was an awful hubbub as to whether Mel was out. Some held that he had scored before the ball was caught, while others held that he was out on a caught fly. Finally he was called out. Kirt McCalvey got out for interfering with the third baseman, those being the only two of the side to retire during the day.

To make the story of Braddock's defeat short, let it be said that that the game continued until darkness enwrapped the diamond like sin blindeth the eyes of the wicked.

Lamps were brought out, but it was finally found necessary to call the game on account of darkness. Only the first part of the first inning had been played. Two of the McCalveys were out and that team had garnered forty-four runs. Seventeen home runs, forty-eight triples and two or three centurys of two baggers and singles had been accumulated.

Col. Lapsley swears that no incident of the game is exaggerated.

J. D. Owens, better known as "Diamond Joe," to his friends and near-relatives, had the pleasure of attending his own obsequies yesterday morning.

Mr. Owens was late in arising yesterday morning. In fact he didn't arise until his friends made a demonstration in front of his door. The scene of the wake was the Lenox hotel. The door of "Diamond Joe's" room was decorated with crepe. Signs informed passing lodgers that the "deceased" had cashed in at the venerable and highly respectable age of 105. Pity, not censure was invoked for the life of the man that until recently was.

When guests of the house really began to get wise to the fact that Mr. Owens was only indulging in a seventh day prevarication, the inventors of the hoax took a new tack. They brought up a syphon and injected a dewey sprinkling of carbonated water over the transom of the door of the sleeping Owens.

Right into the aperature formed by the widely drawn mouth of the deep breathing Owens, went the stream of carbonated water. The sleeping man was awakened with a start. When he emerged from his room he discovered the decorations on his door, telling of his demise and seeking pity and the sympathy of a cold world for his somewhat irregular life. His many weaknesses were condoned; his virtues raised from nonpariel to primer size prominence.

A wreath of flowers decorated the place where Mr. Owens sits when he partakes of the nourishment of life. Other signs asked indulgence of other diners. Crepe was substituted for the more conventional napkin that is usually found at the place of diners. Messages of congratulation upon the appearance of the "dead one" were quickly brought in when Mr. Owens took his seat at the breakfast table. So passed an epoch in the life of "Diamond Joe."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Brainerd Dispatch: Editor Hamilton of the Aitkin Republican has got himself into prominence that is liable to land him in the legislature through his able efforts at the editorial meeting in January. The moulders of public opinion in the north half of the state seem to think he is made of the right stuff to occupy a position where the peoples' rights are to be protected.

New Ulm Review: The Princeton Union is of the opinion that the state of Minnesota is heavily indebted to J. F. Jacobson, in fact owes him the governorship. On the contrary, the state of Minnesota doesn't owe anybody an office, and there is not one of us but owes a whole lot to Minnesota.

Princeton Union: The only thing which prevents the country from going prohibition at one fell swoop is that women are not permitted to vote on the question.

Aitkin Age: "If all men had too much education to wear overalls and use tools, what would the world be?" asks a tradesman in the Duluth Herald discussing the present labor troubles in that city. Here we are again confronted with the supposition that education divorces men from "wearing overalls and using tools." Education is a curse rather than a blessing when looked upon in this light, and not until education is obtained for the purpose of making intelligent and more efficient workmen will it have reached its proper usefulness. There is no more honest money made than that paid for a hard day's work, and the workman who can go to his bed at night having produced something useful by the day's efforts is not only a benefactor to the world, but is pretty sure to have a strong body and healthy mind.

Le Sueur News: The more the question is investigated the more convinced you become that the Republican voters are a unit for Roosevelt and care but little for other candidates.

Anoka Union: The only people in this district who insist that Bede must be retained in congress are the postmasters who feel that they must retain their jobs.

Austin Transcript: The St. Paul Record, the saloon organ, says that in the judgment of well informed men, the bill for prohibition in the District of Columbia will never leave the committee rooms. Possibly the committee is fixed the same as the last Minnesota legislative committees on temperance. Our present congressmen are good for such a low lived job.

Albert Lea Standard: Hearst is said to be opposed to both Bryan and Johnson as presidential candidates. Having flopped in favor of ship subsidy and the hold up tariff he seems to have chosen to flock by himself, in which case he will find that his hold on popular favor has petered to pretty small proportions.

Virginia Enterprise: Evelyn Thaw has commenced action for divorce from Harry K. Thaw on the ground that he was insane on the day of his marriage. Looks as though Harry had one piece of good luck coming, anyway.

Hawley Herald: President Northrup of the Minnesota university says he favors large families as they mean a "strong, vigorous race," while the small family means a "weak, puny, luxury-loving race." On the other hand, Judge Lindsay, the "children's friend," says, "no man has a right to have more children than he can care for." If both gentlemen will kindly leave this delicate matter to the fathers and mothers of the land, we have no doubt it will be adjusted satisfactorily, at least to the parties directly interested.

INSULTING THE DEMOCRACY.

St. Cloud Times: While the Times has twice supported Mr. Bryan for president, and expects to do so again this year, we confess to a feeling of indignation and resentment at the intimations of some of his earnest Minnesota supporters that he is the only Democrat who, like Caesar's wife, is above suspicion. If any other member of the party is mentioned, no matter how exalted his position, or how unblemished his reputation as a man of honor and integrity, at once the cry is raised that he is brought out by the "interests;" that the "system" favors him; that the corporations are back of him, and a lot of like tommyrot.

Here comes T. T. Hudson, Minnesota member of the Democratic national committee, in answer to an inquiry of the Minneapolis Tribune sent to officials of the party all over the country as to their preferences as between Bryan and Johnson, and says:

"Replying to your telegram, would say I favor the nomination of W. J. Bryan for president, because he more than any other candidate, represents the opinions and hopes of the Democratic masses who are opposed to the domination of monopoly and special privileges. This makes him the only candidate who will be acceptable to the Democratic masses this year. If a candidate is wanted who represents the aspirations and interests of the masses of the people, Bryan is most certain to represent them faithfully because he has educated the people to his standard principles. If a candidate is wanted who speaks platitudes for the people, but thinks with the special interests, any candidate will do, because he will necessarily be a choice against Bryan."

There it is in plain English—"Bryan is the only candidate who will be acceptable to the Democratic masses this year." Now, we protest most vigorously against any such assumption. The expression of such an opinion illustrates the narrowmindedness of Mr. Hudson. He is not a good Democrat—this is not Democracy!

It has come to a pretty pass when among 7,000,000 of Democrats there is only one fit to lead the party.

CASES WERE EXPENSIVE

County Spent $776 Trying to Convict Michael Kane.

Evidence Secured Failed to Convict Any of the Prisoners.

The "election fraud" cases which were dismissed by County Attorney Norton Friday morning last, following the acquittal of Michael T. Kane, on the charge of repeating his vote at the primary election, Dec. 17, 1907, cost the county nearly $800.

The prosecution of Kane, five other members of the United States marine corps and Ben Vail, a bartender in the St. James hotel buffet, resulted from the grand jury investigation in January of the charges that Vail had induced the others to vote illegally in the Fourth precinct of the Sixth ward and the First precinct of the Seventh ward.

The grand jury indicted Vail for inducing the men to vote and indicted Kane and his companions for voting illegally.

Vail was arrested and arraigned in the district court where he entered a plea of not guilty. He furnished bonds and was released from custody pending trial. His case was dismissed last Friday.

Kane and the other members of the marine corps who were charged with illegal voting left the city the afternoon of the primary election day for the Mare Island naval station in California.

To prosecute the men on the charge of illegal voting and to obtain evidence against Ben Vail meant that Kane and his companions in the alleged election fraud should be brought back to Minnesota.

About the middle of January Assistant County Attorney Stevenson, Sheriff W. J. Bates and Carl A. Anderson, who was expected to identify the men wanted by the state, went to California to secure the requisition papers, make the arrests and bring the accused men to Duluth for trial. On their arrival at the Mare Island station the officers found that with the exception of Michael T. Kane all of the men indicted had deserted and their whereabout were unknown.

Kane was arrested and brought back and search was made for the others, particularly one, John Carver, but without success.

Kane was first tried on the charge of voting in the First precinct of the Seventh ward under an assumed name. The jury disagreed and was discharged, the vote standing seven for conviction and five for acquittal.

The state immediately proceeded to the trial of Kane on the charge of repeating his votte and the jury acquitted the defendant.

The state had no new evidence to use in case Kane should be tried again on the charge of voting under an assumed name and, as the county had been put to a considerable expense without a conviction in the first trial, County Attorney Norton decided to drop the matter by dismissing the indictment. The indictment against Vail was also dismissed for the reason that the same testimony given at the two trials of Kane would have to be depended on in the prosecution of Vail and the chances were strongly against any conviction.

Following are the items of cost to the county in the prosecution of the alleged "election fraud cases:"

W. J. Stevenson, expenses trip to Mare Island	$186.55
Sheriff W. J. Bates, expenses, same including two round trip tickets and a ticket for Kane	385.30
Carl A. Anderson, twelve days' service as deputy sheriff	96.00
M. T. Kane, board in county jail	18.00
Jury fees, four days' trial	96.00
Witness fees before grand and petit juries	63.90

IN FAVOR OF CAPT. CARTER

All Costs of Suits Taxed Against the Government.

Chicago, March 23.—The final decree in the case of Oberlin N. Carter, former captain in the United States engineer corps, was entered Saturday by Judge Kohlsaat in the United States circuit court. Practically all the findings are in favor of the former army officer. While he does not get a large share of the funds which have been held in trust by the government, yet all the costs of this and other suits against him are taxed against the government. Carter is awarded, without question, about $45,000, which was held by the court to be "without taint."

In an opinion announced by Judge Kohlsaat some weeks ago, it was held that a large part of the funds received by Carter from his father-in-law, Robert F. Wescott, were "tainted," and that, while the former captain may not have known of the secret partnership between Wescott and Greene and Gaynor, yet in the eyes of the law he was supposed to have had knowledge that the contractors in the Cavanaugh district were reaping abnormal profits.

All the expenses of suits against Carter in Chicago, New York, Savannah and other places, except possibly a small per cent to be determined later, are to be paid by the government. This amount is estimated by Carter's lawyer, Horace G. Stone, to be about $150,000.

Hardwood Very Scarce.

J. R. Kenny of Mattoon, Ill., who was at the Spalding Sunday, stated that hardwood is becoming so scarce that the United States government is devising means to find an available substitute. Mr. Kenny believes that within twenty years almost all of the hardwood will be exhausted. Mr. Kenny is a heavy timber operator on the Pacific coast.

Only ten cents a week to keep yourself at your best. To always feel as you feel on your good days. Cascarets ward off all the little ills.

Primitive men did not need Cascarets.

They lived out-doors, ate plenty of fruit, and all of their food was coarse.

We modern people are different.

We exercise too little, eat little fruit; and our food is too fine, too rich.

We can't have the bowels clogged up and keep well.

It means that the food retained there decays. The decay creates poisons. And those poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment.

So we must make our choice.

We must live, to an extent, like the primitive man, else we must eat Cascarets.

Cascarets do what the right food would do, what plenty of exercise does.

The question is one of convenience.

If you choose Cascarets, take them as you take food. Not in large doses rarely, but a tablet at a time.

That is the way to keep well.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C C C on every tablet. The price is 50 cents, 25 cents and

10 Cents per Box. 805

The above is a modest list of the needs of the Bethel Rescue Home as outlined in the latest issue of the Bethel Record. This list is in addition to the necessary financial help of which the institution is always in need. An announcement in the March Record relates that the sum total of all the contributions towards the support of the Bethel Home for Women, since Nov. 7, 1907, has not been sufficient to pay the running expenses for one month. To carry forward such work as that done by the Home, whose avowed object is "to seek those who have gone astray and wish to forsake a life of sin; to save them by ministries of loving help, and to fit them to fill honorable positions in the community," funds are necessary.

That the needs of the Home are appreciated by the young women who have received the benefits which it has to offer is shown in the following item from the Home notes:

"One of the grateful ones asked the privilege of spending the first money she earned in buying a couch for the Home. We protested against a present so expensive as that, but she was so anxious to do it and said the price of a couch was so small compared with what she had received in the Home that we waived our objections, and we are now in possesion of a very pretty Boston leather couch."

LARGE AUDIENCE

Greets Prof. Maria Sanford at Library Hall.

Prof. Maria Sanford of the department of literature of the University of Minnesota, appeared at the library Saturday evening before the Twentieth Century club of this city, and presented one of the finest lectures of the year. "The Study of Literature" was the subject that Miss Sanford chose and the large audience of club members and university alumni listened with intense interest to the speaker. Miss Sanford dwelt especially upon the value of the study and knowledge of poetry in a life, of the responsibility of parents and teacher in early training of the young in memorizing passages of poetry which will remain as a comfort and inspiration during life. Illustrations of peotry in its many phases were read from Longfellow, Browning, Tennyson, Brete Hart and the lecture closed with a delightfully humorous poem of Holmes.

Miss Sanford was introduced by Clarence B. Miller, an alumnus of the university. The lecture is the last to be presented by the evening department of the club.

Lecture on "Faust."

The German literature class of the Twentieth Century club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the club room of the library. Dr. Maurice Lefkowits will lecture on the second part of "Faust."

Part II of Faust is comparatively little known among even those who have a broad knowledge of the classics. As the play closes with the first part so it seems has also the interest of the general reading public. It is this latter portion which carries out the development of the soul of Faust to its salvation. In part I he uses the magic Mephistopheles to further his own plans, and is not satisfied. In Part II he uses the power for the benefit of others and attains the goal for which he has been seeking.

Any one interested in the lecture is invited to attend the meeting at 2:45 o'clock.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Mack-Leone players in "At Piney Ridge."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

"RED FEATHER."

Fourth Year Company is Something of a Disappointment.

To the enthusiastic admirers of the brilliant comic opera "Red Feather," the fourth-year company which presented the opera at the Lyceum Saturday was a disappointment. The production dragged, from the tempo of the music, which just lacked dash enough, to the jokes which came just a second too late, and with a little too much weight. The auditor was in the state of mind of him who clucks to a reluctant horse.

Duluthians were interested in the production because of the presence in the company of Charles Derrance, a former Duluth young man who has made his first essay in professional theatrical work. He sang the role of the boatman in the opening scene, and his tenor voice was heard to good advantage, and he was warmly welcomed by his many friends in the audience. His career will be watched with interest by his many Duluth friends.

Green Room Gossip.

The Mack-Leone players will open an engagement of five nights and two matinees at the Lyceum this evening in the romantic Southern play, "At Piney Ridge."

The big spectacular presentation of the story of "Parsifal" will be seen at the Lyceum next Saturday evening. The company is one of the largest booked for Duluth this winter. Owing to the length of the performance the curtain will be raised promptly at 7:45. The play is given in English and is said to be one of the most pretentious productions of the famous story ever attempted.

The seat sale for Viola Allen will open Thursday. She will be seen here for two nights and a matinee on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 31 and April 1.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Grape fruit, 2 for 25 cents.
Lettuce, 5 cents a bunch.
Head lettuce, 10 cents a head.
Milwaukee rye bread, 15 cents a loaf.
Green onions, 2 bunches for a nickel.
New York cheese, 25 cents a lb.
Shad, $1 each.
Leaf lard, 10 cents a lb.

At the risk of being insistent, it is again mentioned that German rye bread, cut in wafer-like slices, and between the slices an insertion of cheese of your favorite blend, is a combination that is utterly delicious. A mild cream cheese or a luncheon cheese or a thin slice of New York cheese, or brick cheese, or if your taste is so well developed that it will stand limburger—even then these sandwiches are the best yet.

Head lettuce, over which are minced green onions, the whole dressed with oil and vinegar and seasoning enough, supplies that taste of greenness which spring seems to demand.

EASTER SUNDAY

The observance of Easter dates back to about the year 68. Up to the year 1752 some churches adopted one rule and some another as to the exact date of its observance. In this year all differences were settled by the adoption of the rule making Easter day the first Sunday after the full moon which appears on or after the 21st of March. If the full moon happens on a Sunday Easter is the Sunday after. Easter Sunday this year is just four weeks from yesterday.

LABOR ENTERS THE CAMPAIGN

Washington, March 23.—Organized labor is to enter into the presidential campaign.

In a spirited address to "organized labor and farmers' associations," President Gompers and the committee of labor leaders which this week presented their protest to congress, call upon the "workers of our common country to stand faithfully by our friends, and to oppose and defeat our enemies, whether they be candidates for president, for congress, or other offices, whether executive, legislative or judicial."

Laboring men throughout the country are asked to hold mass meetings in every town on the evening of Sunday or Monday April 19 or 20, "to voice fully and unmistakably labor's protest against the supreme court decision which strips labor of the right and liberties which we had supposed were guaranteed by the Constitution."

Every member of organized labor is urged, also, to write a personal letter to the congressman of his district and the two United States senators of his state, insisting that the Sherman anti-trust law be amended so as not to penalize labor unions in the exercise of their rights and "warning them that labor and its friends will hold them responsible."

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently yet promptly on the bowels and allays inflamation at the same time. It is pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

RHODE ISLANDERS

Providence, R. I., March 23.—The Democratic state convention, in a lively session in Music hall Saturday afternoon decided not to indorse resolutions fovoring the nomination of William J. Bryan for the presidency, but referred the resolution to the delegates at large to act upon their individual discretion. The convention selected eight delegates at large who will go to the national Democratic convention unpledged.

The delegates at large elected follow: Governor James H. Higgins, Pawtucket; Former Maryor George W. Greene, Woonsocket; Judge Frank E. Fitzimmons of Lincoln; Col. Patrick H. Quinn of Warwick; Peter C. Cannon of Providence; Former Senator Patrick J. Murphy of Newport; David J. Barry of Providence and Former Senator Sumner Mowry of South Kensington.

FIFTY YEARS OLD.

Philadelphia Clearing House to Celebrate Semi-Centennial.

Philadelphia, March 23.—The Philadelphia Clearing House association was fifty years old yesterday and the semi-centennial will be observed tonight, when a dinner will be given at the Bellevue Stratford hotel. One representative from each of the thirty-two national banks in the city will be present. There were seventeen banks in the association, when it was formed, their aggregate deposits amounting to $16,000,000. Today the thirty-two banks of the association show aggregate deposits of nearly $240,000,000. The two largest banks each hold deposits to an amount greater than the total deposits of all the banks here fifty years ago. In this half century the population of Philadelphia trebled, but the deposits of the clearing house banks are fifteen times greater.

NO INDORSEMENT

Of Bryan Given by Democratic Committee of Connecticut.

New Haven, Conn., March 23.—William J. Bryan will be disappointed if he expected a vote of indorsement by the Democratic state central committee of Connecticut or a recommendation that the state convention pledge its delegates to the convention in Denver for him. The state central committee met here and selected April 28 and 29 as the dates and New Haven as the place for the state convention. No motion was made to indorse Mr. Bryan.

THE AMERICAN TYPEWRITER

Washington, March 23.—The popularity of the American typewriter in other countries as well as the United States, which is shown in recent consular reports published by the bureau of manufactures, is further illustrated by the figures of the bureau of statistics, showing the actual growth in exports and the wide distribution of this class of American manufactures. While the typewriter has been for more than a quarter of a century an important feature of manufacturing industries in the United States and considered indispensable in its business establishments, it was only a decade ago, in the fiscal year 1897, that the number exported became sufficient to lead the bureau of statistics to make a separate record of these exportations and the countries to which sent. Prior to that date the machines had been included under the general head of "other machinery."

Contrasting the figures of 1907 with those of 1897, the records of the bureau of statistics show that the total value of typewriters exported was $6,250,000, against $1,500,000 in 1897; that the value of those sent to the United Kingdom was more than $1,500,000, against $750,000 in 1897; that the value of those sent to Germany was more than $1,000,000 against less than $250,000 in 1897; to France $500,000 worth, against less than $100,000 worth a decade earlier; to Mexico $373,000 worth, against $25,000 worth in 1897, to Canada $259,000 worth, against $22,000 worth in 1897, and to British Australasia $283,000 worth, against $68,000 worth in 1897.

Mr. Fugle was compelled to take two or three weeks' rest and went East to recuperate. PREPARE FOR COAL STRIKE.

Railroads and Dealers Lay in Large Supply at Chicago.

Chicago, March 23.—Three million bushels of coal are stored in railroad yards and other places in the vicinity of Chicago in preparation against the possibility of a strike by the miners.

The operators have in mind the seizure by citizens of supplies of coal on railroad tracks during the last big strike, and are taking time by the forelock by daily bringing trainloads of fuel. They are putting the coal in protected districts, where they can guard it.

Every big dealer in Chicago has laid in a supply limited only by the capacity of his bins.

The attending physicians, says the paper, declare that amputation is imperative.

Avoid Secret Stomach Remedies

Thousands of people, having dyspepsia or stomach troubles in some form, continually "dope" themselves with all sorts of secret tonics, drugs, pills, cathartics, etc., which not only inflame and irritate the stomach and intestines, but in many cases cause the opium, morphone and cocaine habits.

You have a right and should demand to know what any medicine contains before you take it, unless it is put up or recommended by some reputable physician. Fakes and quacks will put most anything into their secret preparations, to make you like their useless stuff so as to want more of it, until it makes you the victim of some drug habit, which will ruin your health in a short time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy, they do not contain injurious drugs, and they are recommended by thousands of physicians in the United States and Canada to their patients for dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, and all other stomach troubles resulting from improper digestion of food.

These wonderful tablets actually digest food because they contain the very elements that are required of a healthy stomach to properly digest food, thus acting as a substitute and giving the overworked digestive organs a rest and a chance to regain their former health, strength and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain fruit and vegetables essences, the pure concentrated tincture of hydrastis, and golden seal, which tone up and strengthen the mucous coats of the stomach and increase the flow of gastric and other digestive juices; lactose (extracted from milk); nux, to strengthen the nerves controlling the action of the stomach; bismuth to absorb gases and prevent fermentation, and pure aseptic pepsin (gov. test) of the highest digestive power. All of these are scientifically incorporated in these tablets or lozenges and constitute a complete, natural, speedy cure for any stomach trouble.

Write us for a free sample package. This sample alone will give you sufficient relief to convince you. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

AMATEURS DID WORK

Wholesale Robbery at Fisher Not by Professional Crooks.

Crookston, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marshal O'Brien of the village of Fisher spent Saturday and Sunday in Crookston trying to locate the gang that recently broke into Kile's general store, Hamilton's hardware store, Widenhoefer's jewelry store and the saloons of Albert Jance and Carl Vinji of Fisher, rifling the tills of about $50 in change and helping themselves to about $500 worth of merchandise in the five places. He is of the opinion that as no attempt was made to blow any of the safes that the work was done by amateurs. There were no strangers in Fishers the night before, barring a number of men dressed as lumberjacks, and who it was supposed had just returned from the lumber camps.

GIVE BAD ONES HOT RECEPTION

Citizens of North Dakota Town Shoot Two Ruffians.

Minot, N. D., March 23.—In a pitched battle with the citizens of Glenburn, W. B. Bennett, a stranger, was shot in the stomach and probably mortally wounded. The trouble started over the actions of Bennett and a companion, who struck Glenburn. They went into the place of Tony Roble, who sells soft drinks. They drank some beverages and in addition to not paying for it, said that unless the proprietor gave them $15, they would file an information against him charging him with running a blind pig. At any rate the two men left the place and went to the livery stable of Sheridan & Snook. There they engaged a team and it is alleged that they refused to pay for it. A quarrel ensued and Bennett and his companion allege that one of the men at the barn struck him (Bennett) over the head with a beer bottle. The two men opened fire. The citizens and the two men met near the elevator, and it is alleged that shots were fired back and forth on both sides. The name of Bennett's companion is Ed Brooks. Brooks was brought to Minot with Bennett.

WOUNDED GIRL IS VERY NERVY

Refuses to Testify Against Boy Who Accidentally Shot Her.

Menominee, Mich., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the use of her right arm is permanently lost and her breathing made difficult by a number of gunshot wounds, Miss Kate Lenz, daughter of Frank Lenz, a farmer, refuses to testify against Antone Schick, who by the accidental discharge of a gun which he pointed at Miss Lenz and his sister, Mary Schick, seriously wounding them as they were walking along a country road. The boy having just returned from a hunting trip met the two girls, took him and said:

"Look out, I am going to shoot you."

The boy escaped and was found by an officer. When arrested he exhibited no signs of emotion over the affair.

IS HELD FOR MURDER.

Alleged Slayer of North Dakota Farmer is Bound Over.

Leeds, N. D., March 23.—At his preliminary hearing, held here, Paul Jones was bound over for trial at the June term of the district court in Minnewaukan, for the murder of Hans Halvorson, a rich bachelor farmer last Thursday. He was taken to Minnewaukan and lodged in the county jail. Many witnesses were heard in the hearing and a large amount of evidence against Jones accumulated. The evidence tended to show that the gun used was that belonging to Walter Ryan, the farmer for whom Jones worked. Shot taken out of the body of Halvorson was identical with the loading size used in the other shells owned by Ryan and wads found in the vicinity of the murder also corresponded with those in Ryan's shells. These shells were bought some time ago and were all of a kind. A measurement of the footprints found leading to and away from the scene of the crime tallied with the size of the overshoes worn by Jones.

Little Falls, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Vaughn, a farmer residing three miles east of Rice, committed suicide at his home Thursday afternoon. The dead body was found in the granary by two daughters.

MILLERS WIN FIGHT

With Food Inspector Ladd in Bleached Flour Cases.

Bismark, N. D., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court has handed down a decision denying the writ of prohibition sought by the attorneys for Professor Ladd, the state pure food commissioner, restraining Judge Pollock of Cass county district court, from assuming jurisdiction in the suit by the millers of the state to restrain Ladd from enforcing his edict against bleached flour, Professor Ladd some months ago issued a circular declaring bleached flour as being against the state pure food law and setting a date when the manufacture of the same should stop.

The millers secured a temporary restraining order from Judge Pollock against enforcing the order of Ladd, when Ladd's attorney asked the supreme court for a writ of prohibition estopping the district court from hearing the case on its merits.

This writ is denied and the district court will now proceed with the case. The outcome has been eagerly awaited by millers over the Northwest as, had the decision been the other way, it might have put many millers out of business.

Menominee, Mich., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—No inquest was thought necessary to determine the cause of death of yardmaster Amos Walling, who was fatally crushed between two box cars in the St. Paul yards Friday. The icy condition of the roadbed which caused the yardmaster to slip just as he was stepping from the cars was responsible for the accident.

The body was shipped to Coopertown, Wis., for interment, the father and brother residing in that city.

Walling was 43 years old and is survived by his wife.

We can give you names of many who have been cured through its use. Write for advice.

"My son John had epilepsy for years, and after having him treated by specialists for over two years he still continued to have spells. I had almost given up in despair, but knowing the virtue of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick headache, I concluded to try the Nervine. During June, 1906, I gave him a teaspoonful three times a day, then in July I gave it as directed, and he has not had a spell since August 28, 1906, and has taken no medicine since January, 1907. I am writing the case just as it is, hoping it will induce others to try it.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

ALL RECORDS SHATTERED ON CHESTER SKI JUMP

With nearly every rider coming down the slide breaking his American record of 122 feet, set at Ishpeming, Washington's birthday, John Evenson was put to the test in the benefit tournament on Chester hill yesterday, and he made good. He jumped 131 feet and stood, and the American record of 1908 was established on Chester hill.

In point of spectacular features and long jumps, the tournament was the best of the year, and old followers of the game, who have seen scores of tournaments, in this country and in Norway, pronounced it the best they had ever seen. Despite the balmy air and the rivulets trickling down the hillside, the slide was in fine condition. Snow had been hauled and placed where needed, and both the slide before the bump and the incline after were in as good condition as for any tournament this year.

The results were surprising. After the first regular run, there wasn't a jump under 115 feet. There were some spectacular falls, but the riders were in good form and the tumbles were few. Amateurs and professionals alike repeatedly broke the former American record of 122 feet, but Evenson retained his prestige by great jumping, and he is the champion of 1908.

Ole Fehring's great work yesterday was gratifying to his friends. On his three regular runs he broke the American record every time, making 127, 126 and 128 feet. On his jump for the longest standing jump, he gave one of the most spectacular performances seen on the hill this year. He shot out into the air, beautifully poised, and landed far down the slide. He wavered and finally fell, having made 131 feet. The jump was a beautiful one, the longest of the day, and the unfortunate fall prevented him from setting a record which would probably stand for the year, at least.

All of the riders jumped well. August Nordby jumped 124 feet and stood, and Elling Delsen of Colfax and Victor Skogstad of Superior made 119 feet. George Jacobsen, a Duluth amateur, came dangerously close to setting an amateur record, when he covered 130 feet, but he failed to hold his feet and the record didn't go. Christ Grinden, also of Duluth, jumped 127 feet, but fell.

In the contest between Barney Reilly of Coleraine and Arnold Olson of Duluth the possibilities of the amateur riders were shown. Olson set a new American amateur record of 119 feet in his last jump, standing to the finish. On his last jump young Reilly cleared 121 feet, but he failed to stand.

The contest was one of the features of the meet. Heavier and more graceful, Olson showed better form than the little Coleraine boy. Reilly is small for his 16 years, and he was unable to hold his feet yesterday, tumbling on every jump. Olson, however, was in the best of form, and every jump was long and successfully carried through.

Olson started the contest by making 109 feet. Reilly cleared 113 feet, but failed to stand. Olson stood at 107 feet on the next trial, but Reilly fell at 106 feet. On the third jump Olson covered 113 feet, while Reilly fell at 110 feet. The run for the longest standing jump brought out their best work. Olson started it out by making 119 feet and establishing the new American amateur record. Reilly made a desperate effort to make up for lost ground and made a good try. He covered 124 feet but could not hold to his skis and toppled, cutting out the record.

Following the events the ski riding season of 1908 was formally brought to a close at the clubhouse on Chester creek, where all of the riders were gathered and addressed by George M. Jenson and County Attorney John H. Norton. Their achievements of the year, including the setting of three distinct American records, were recounted, and the riders encouraged to keep at the good work in future years and make Duluth the skiing center of the entire country.

The awards for yesterday's tournament were made as follows:

Rider.	Residence.	Points.
Ole Fehring,	Duluth	435½
Olaf Larson,	Duluth	388
Victor Skogstad,	Superior	386
John Evenson,	Duluth	385
H. Trannum,	Duluth	384½
A. Nordby,	Stoughton	378

Most Graceful Rider—Olaf Larson, Duluth.

Best Twin Jump—P. Landfald and Arnold Olson, Duluth.

In the contest between Olson and Reilly the former had a total of 230½ to the latter's 229. Reilly's inability to hold his feet was what defeated him.

SOME COIN TO DULUTH

Bowlers Stand a Good Chance of Getting Money at St. Paul.

Campbell's Score Still Leads in Single Events.

The Duluth bowlers have completed their work in the state bowling tournament at St. Paul and have returned home. In the team play, doubles and singles, they stand a show of getting some of the money and the chances are that a good sum in prizes will come to Duluth.

Harry Campbell was the star of the crowd. His mark of 621 in the singles still stands as the high score. Sam Olsen is in fourth place, with 600. Nobis is seventh with 584, and Massey eighth with 540. The Centrals are sixth now in the team events, four St. Paul teams having passed them Saturday.

Massey and Olson, with 1,145, fell back from second in the doubles to fourth Saturday, two St. Paul teams jumping between them and the Dodd and Tracey pair of Minneapolis, which still leads. Steigler and Olson are eighth in the doubles.

The tournament will continue all this week and promises to grow interesting as it goes along. Thus far, none of the big marks in the history of the association have been touched and some good teams have yet to roll. The scores, while high, have not been exceptional and somebody is bound to break loose from the rut soon and start something.

The St. Paul and Minneapolis teams, of which there are a myriad entered, are making good and they promise to hold the big end of the prize money right in the Twin Cities. Minneapolis teams lead in the five-men and two-men events thus far, but their scores are not unbeatable and they may fall before the tournament is over.

TO CURTAIL NEXT FALL

Harvard Prepares to Apply New Policy in Athletics.

Cambridge, Mass., March 23.—Although the outcome is problematical, it is generally believed at Harvard university that the vote of the faculty last Friday night recommending an inter-collegiate agreement to reduce the number of inter-collegiate contests will have no effect whatever upon any of the matches arranged for this academic year. The baseball schedule for this spring has been completed and includes twenty-seven games.

But in the opinion of many Harvard men, there is a strong possibility of a radical change next fall in the football schedule. There is even a prospect, it is asserted, that the schedule may be cut to two games, and that the Harvard public activity in this sport may eventually be limited to contests with Yale and one other college, probably Dartmouth. The supporters of this plan take the view that the football team, like the boat crew, should be trained and velepode for not more than two or three contests.

At a conference last fall the New England college presidents voted in favor of curtailing the schedules of inter-collegiate athletic contests. Following this action, the Associated Press canvassed the faculty representatives on the athletic committees of the various New England colleges, and, with one or two exceptions, all favored the proposed plan.

Princeton Liberal.

Princeton, N. J., March 23.—Speaking of the move at Harvard for a reduction in the number of athletic contests, Prof. J. B. Fine, head of the athletic executive committee of Princeton, said:

"There are two questions involved in reducing the number of contests in athletics the academic and the athletic. From an athletic viewpoint and that of developing strong teams, the present system is needed; but as far as the academic side is concerned, that is a question for the athlete himself to decide. At Princeton an athlete can compete in only two branches of sport, so that there has been little difficulty for the individual, although university teams have lost many a valuable man in this way."

President Woodrow Wilson has declared himself personally in favor of reducing the number of contests in athletics, but said last night that there had been no official discussion of the question among the faculty, and that there was no intention of such action in the future.

Favored at Madison.

Madison, March 23.—President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, today expressed himself as being entirely in accordance with the Harvard faculty in its recommendation to the Harvard Athletic committee to reduce the number of inter-collegiate contests. President Van Hise says the faculty of the University of Wisconsin is unanimous in this opinion.

"The number of baseball games which have been played by Eastern colleges or universities is about double that of the university," said President Van Hise. "According to the papers, Harvard is scheduled to play twenty-seven baseball games and not more than a year ago their football schedule called for ten games. The West has preceded the East in the line of reducing the inter-collegiate contests. The faculty of Wisconsin university favor the moderate scale and are wholly in accord with the action taken by the Harvard faculty."

No Effect on Michigan.

Ann Arbor, March 23.—It is said here that the action of Harvard university in reducing the number of athletic contests will have no effect upon Michigan athletics.

Athletic Director Charles Baird when asked if he thought the Harvard action would be reflected here, said:

"We seem to be getting along very well here at Michigan. I do not anticipate that Harvard's action will have any effect here."

The regents of the University of Michigan have virtually taken the stand that athletics are part of university life, and when the agitation for dismissal of all professional coaches came up in the West two years ago, they were not listened to. Then followed the movement among "Big Nine" colleges to cut down the number of football games to five, and it was for this reason the board of athletic control withdrew Michigan from the Western conference.

HOT SESSION OF QUESTION CLUB

The Socialists and single tax advocates had a warm debate at the meeting of the Question club yesterday afternoon, in the public library building. Morris M. Kaplan, Duluth Socialistic leader, and Peter Witt of Cleveland, single tax man, were the principal talkers. The debate became so heated that personalities were indulged in at times. Questions from the audience only increased the warmth of the affair.

Mr. Witt entered the hall as an onlooker, but was spotted by the chairman and asked to give his views. Mr. Witt said he believed the Socialists were sincere in their doctrines, but that they could never work out their theories, because they were fundamentally unsound. He declared Socialism to be wholly impracticable, because it depends upon some one being manager of the vast system which it involves. The question is, who would be the manager. Following the Cleveland man's talk, everybody indulged in a discussion, and the affair finally became so mixed that the chairman cleared the floor for Messrs. Kaplan and Witt. The debate was declared a draw, when darkness put an end to proceedings.

CONGRESSMAN RESIGNS OFFICE

Charles E. Littlefield of Maine to Resume Law Practice.

Rockland, Me., March 23.—A sensation was caused in political circles here by the receipt by Governor William T. Cobb of a letter from Congressman Charles E. Littlefield, tendering his resignation as a member of congress, to take effect Sept. 30, next.

In the same mail was a communication to the chairman of the Second district Republican congressional committee from Mr. Littlefield, in which the latter gave as the reason for his resignation his desire to resume his law practice, which, in a large degree, he has been compelled to abandon because of his congressional duties.

The resignation came as a great surprise to Governor Cobb and to the congressman's friends in this district, and was received with much regret. The letters were as follows:

"Washington, March 20, 1908.—Hon. William T. Cobb, governor of the state of Maine: Dear Sir—I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Sixtieth congress from the Second district of Maine, to take effect on and after Sept. 30, 1908.

"I am, sir, with the highest regard, your obedient servant.

"CHARLES E. LITTLEFIELD."

"Washington, March 20, 1908.—Fred W. Wight, chairman Second district Republican congressional committee—Dear Sir: I have been a member of the house of representatives for nearly nine years. In order properly to discharge my congressional duties, I have been obliged to practicallly abandon my law practice. The result has been what is to me a large financial loss. I now feel constrained from a sense of my duty to my family to resume the general practice of the profession.

"In withdrawing from congress, I wish to express my most profound thanks to my friends, both in and out of the district, who have so cheerfully, generously, loyally and effectively supported me in the past, through good report and through evil report. I felt that I ought to make my resignation at this time in order to make it unnecessary for the district to be subjected to the expense and trouble of a special convention and election for the selection of my successor for the unexpired term.

WOULD HAVE WOMEN VOTE

Rev. H. K. Madsen and J. J. Moe Talk on Suffrage.

Rev. H. K. Madsen of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church, declared last night that women should have a right to vote. The occasion of his remarks in this direction was a temperance meeting held in his church. He said that if every woman were given the right to vote, the country would have a better government, and more would be accomplished in many lines.

"The women ought to vote," said the minister. "They have every right to vote. The women of today are accomplishing things which the men cannot accomplish. I believe that the women are as bright as the men, and in many instances brighter. Statistics show this. When we examine the records of the schools we find that the girl students are graduating with higher honors and better marks than the boys.

"In Norway, the women were given the right to vote upon all questions regarding the liquor traffic, in 1895, and since then Norway has won the greatest victory in the fight for temperance that the world has ever seen. I believe the day is soon coming when the women of this country will have the right to vote on all questions, and when that time comes we will have a better government."

Alderman J. J. Moe also spoke on women suffrage, and declared himself in favor of allowing women to vote. A. Thoren gave a short talk on "The Destroyer's Judgment," in which he told of the great evil being done by liquor. He said that when people recognize liquor as their greatest destroyer, and begin to fight against it, they will commence to throw additional safeguards about their homes and their children.

Mrs. Merritt, district president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, talked of the work being done by the society int his territory, and spoke of the feasibility of organizing a Women's Christian Temperance union among the Scandinavian people of the West end. Mrs. J. Culbertson, president of the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union, told of the work done by the West Duluth organization.

ELKS BEATEN BY TRAVELERS

Large Crowd Sees Good Indoor Ball Game at Armory.

Before one of the largest crowds attracted to the armory for indoor baseball this year, the United Commercial Travelers pulled off a "sell" on the Elks Saturday night. The antlered boys went down by a score of 9 to 7 and weren't any too willing to do so, either. They fought to the last ditch and only went under when the last man was out. They didn't throw down their colors at any stage and were fighting at the finish.

The game was well played and interesting for the spectators. The rooting was enthusiastic and disinterested ones enjoyed it almost as much as they did the game. The two teams were about equalling by represented by supporters in the crowd and the din at times were deafening. The commercial men were handier with the club and better in the field all the way through, but the Elks had a break of luck and just enough science to enable them to hold the score down.

The teams lined up as follows:

Elks.	Position.	U. C. T.
Hollo	1B	Mason
Borgen	2	V. Culbertson
Reinhart	C	E. Parker
Melby	RS	Wilson
Clippert	C	Horr
Lyle	P	R. Culbertson
Hansen	3B	J. Parker
Medley	LF	Schuler

LEAVE TO JOIN THEIR TEAMS

Duluth Boys to Perform on Other Diamonds This Year.

Newt Randall, the Duluth boy, who was last year a member of the Chicago and Boston National league teams, left yesterday for Chicago, where he will join the Milwaukee American association team for a trip to Oklahoma. Randall was sold to Milwaukee by the Boston people and he should have no trouble making good in the Association. He is a good fielder and batter and two years ago was one of the stars of the Western league with Denver.

St Bernard, another Duluth boy, left yesterday for Everett, Wash., where he will join the Butte team of the Northwestern league for the spring training. Bennett played last year with Edmonton in the Western Canada league and had a good record for the year's work.

Frank Summers, who has signed with South Bend in the Central league, will leave about Saturday of this week, reporting at South Bend April 1.

INDIVIDUAL STARS.

American Crew for Olympic Regatta Will be Made Up.

New York, March 23.—Plans for the selection of an American eight to row in the Olympic regatta in England in July were announced yesterday by James Pilkington, president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen and member of the committee which has in charge the forming of the American crew.

"The original plan formulated by Julian Curtiss and myself will be adhered to," said Mr. Pilkington. "According to the rules of the association we can pick twenty-seven oarsmen who show up well in all or many of the regattas held before June 1. These men will contest against one another until we have selected eight oarsmen and several substitutes. There is no truth in the report that we intend to pick a crew as a whole. By picking eight of the best oarsmen in the country we will have no trouble in boating them in time for them to get plenty of practice together before they go abroad, early in July."

No Use to Die.

"I have found out that there is no use to die of lung trouble as long as you can get Dr. King's New Discovery," says Mrs. J. P. White, of Rushboro, Pa. "I would not be alive today only for that wonderful medicine. It loosens up a cough quicker than anything else, and cures lung disease even after the case is pronounced hopeless." This most reliable remedy for coughs and colds, la grippe, asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness, is sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal it is because the blood is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which corrupts and pollutes the circulation. Nothing is more trying than a non-healing, chronic old ulcer. The very fact that it resists all external applications, and ordinary treatments, is good reason for alarm, for the same germ which produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore, and especially is this true if the trouble be from any inherited taint. Surface treatment cannot reach the trouble—the blood is at fault and must be purified before a cure can be hoped for. In S. S. S. will be found a remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It is a perfect blood purifier—one that goes directly into the circulation and promptly cleanses it of all impurities, poisons and taints. The ulcer can never heal while the blood discharges into it the noxious matter with which it is infected, but when S. S. S. has rid the blood of this cause and freshened and built up the circulation the sore will heal naturally, and of its own accord. S. S. S. begins at the bottom and heals the place as it should be healed and makes a permanent and lasting cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any special medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write.

LINCOLN PARKS AFTER KELLEYS

Roller Polo Champions Want to Meet New Team.

The Lincoln Park roller polo team is consumed with joy over the organization of the Kelleys. The West end boys have been lonesome for lack of opponents. The Fedjes were no match and the two Superior teams fell comparatively easy victims to their prowess.

The Northerns and Lincoln Park teams were always worthy foes. They were both good at the game and played at their best when opposing each other. Some of the games last fall were great exhibitions of rolo polo and all winter, while the Northerns were playing hockey, the Lincoln Parks were waiting for springtime and a few more hard games.

Some members of the Northern team have gone over to the Kelleys and the Northerns are no more. The Kelleys look strong with a few of the Northern stars and they should make things interesting for the Lincoln Parks, who now hold the championship of the city. The Lincoln Parks stand ready to arrange a game at any time and would be glad to make a date with the new five.

NO SMUGGLING.

Business Has Been Stamped Out Along Rainy River.

Smuggling is practically a thing of the past along the Rainy river, according to William Fisher, deputy customs officer at Baudette, Minn., who arrived in the city yesterday, on customs business, and to see his brother, E. L. Fisher.

"Baudette is a center of activity in the summer time, during the season of navigation," said Mr. Fisher. "Last summer there were twenty boats arriving and departing at regular intervals, and 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber passed through the American boom. The boats operate on the Rainy and Baudette rivers and the Lake of the Woods."

HUDSON AT ST. PAUL.

Conferring With Members of the "Bryan Volunteers."

St. Paul, March 23.—T. T. Hudson of Duluth, Democratic national committeeman for Minnesota, was in St. Paul yesterday, conferring with members of the "Bryan Volunteers," an organization formed immediately after the Minnesota Democratic committee had indorsed Governor John A. Johnson for president, for the purpose of combatting the Johnson movement at the primaries in May. He predicted that the state convention that will meet in St. Paul, May 14, will elect a Bryan delegation to the Democratic national convention.

REPORT OF THE STEEL COMPANY

Site for the Duluth Plant Contains About 1,580 Acres.

The report of the United States Steel corporation for 1907 contains the following references to the Duluth steel plant:

"There has been purchased a site containing about 1,580 acres, of which 300 acres are now submerged, located in St. Louis county, Minnesota, ten miles from the center of the city of Duluth, on which it is proposed to construct a moderate sized iron and steel plant. The tract fronts on the St. Louis river, which is navigable for large lake steamers, and is located on the line of the Northern Pacific railway. It is expected, however, that there will be constructed in connection with the steel plant a belt railway extending northwardly therefrom to a connection with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway to enable the prompt and economical delivery of ore to the plant from the Minnesota ore ranges; also eastwardly from the steel plant across the St. Louis river into Superior, Wisconsin, where connections will be made with five trunk lines of railways reaching the head of Lake Superior from the south and west. It is proposed to have the plant constructed by the Minnesota Steel company, a subsidiary corporation. The plans for the scope and construction of the steel plant have not yet been fully developed. The expenditures on account of this property during 1907 include the purchase of the real estate and some clearing and leveling of the site."

MESSAGE BY PRESIDENT

On Legislative Program to Go to Congress This Week.

Washington, March 23.—President Roosevelt has determined on a legislative program, the enactment of which will be urged on congress in a special message which he said will go in this week.

Each of the measures to be proposed involves perplexing difficulties and each will have far-reaching effect on the business and economic conditions of the country.

The program is the product of important conferences through which the president has been put in possession of the views of all interests concerned. Likewise, the attitude of the leaders in both branches of congress has been made known. Its success depends on the combined effort which he believes can be brought to bear in benalf of the whole plan by those affected, especially by some one of its features.

The program includes:

A declaration in favor of a revision of the tariff at a special session to be held after March 4, 1909.

An amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law so as to make important concessions to combinations of both labor and capital. Limiting the powers of certain courts in the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

Passage of an employer' liability bill.

Passage of the Aldrich financial bill.

PUBLIC CONTROL FAVORED

By the Greatest Public Service Corporation in the Country.

New York, March 23.—The greatest public service corporation in the country has come out in favor of the public control advocated by President Roosevelt for great corporations, as is shown by the annual report of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, the central company of the Bell system, made public by President Theodore N. Vail.

In view of the dominant position of the company in the telephone business and following so closely upon the declaration of Judge Gray of the Steel corporation for the same policy, the official declaration of the American Telephone & Telegraph company is especially noteworthy. The report says: "It is contended that if there is to be no competition there should be public control. It is not believed that there is any serious objection to such control, provided it is independent, intelligent, considerate, thorough and just, recognizing, as does the interstate commerce commission in its report recently issued that capital is entitled to its fair return, and good management or enterprise to its reward."

With the completion of the new Y. M. C. A. building, Third avenue west has become a most metropolitan business street, from Second street south to Michigan street. The only thing that mars the view is the frame building on the southeast corner of Second street and the avenue. The property owners on the avenue hope to see the time when a handsome office building will occupy the corner, making a solid line of brick business blocks on each side of the avenue.

BEGINNING OF SPRING

New York Cannot Recall Earlier or More Settled Season.

Many Thousands Are Planning Speedy Escape to the Suburbs.

New York, March 23.—Real spring has for the first time in many years given a touch of sun and softness to Manhatten Island before the blustery month of March is near its end. Today the wild ducks up in Central park are setting to work on their summer nests, full three weeks before their usual time; and Gotham knows no surer sign for shedding coats and slacking tires. Spring sure and steady, has held a tightening grip on things here for a week or more and few weather sharps of this generation can recall a season earlier, firmer or more settled. Never in its history will New York have experienced such a turning inside-out as the open air weather has already begun this year. Thousands on thousands of "cave dwellers" from upper Manhattan's solid tiers of flats are planning speedy escape to the almost limitless regions of suburb which the winter's work on new tunnels and bridges has drawn within easily habitable distance. By May day whole townships peopled by these metropolitan refugees will spring up toward every outlying point of the compass. For the fresh smell of earth and air an army from this island will migrate to the far end of the river tubes and bridges. Already their old niches in the city walls are bespoken, the landlords declare, however, and not one man, woman or child less will continue to fill the stifling summer city. Such signs show no limit today to the greater girth of Greater New York.

Taft in Town.

Buzzing like bees about the banquet sweets of Gotham the great men of the presidential horoscope are today darting in and out of this city. Bryan and Folk have just danced attendance on a round of metropolitan audiences, while St. Patrick's day saw Taft and Hughes starring together here in after-dinner parts. Hughes we have always with us; but the genial presence of Taft is now gracing almost as familiar a feature of Gotham's public banquet boards. Next month, however, New Yorkers are waiting for a real message from the big secretary of war, from which politics and presidential possibilities will be eliminated. As head and front of the American National Red Cross, Taft is coming here to tell of this rising movement, which is to protect life, limb and lungs in time of peace as well as in war. The organization of the Grand Legion of the Red Cross throughout this state has roused an unusual interest in this volunteer first-aid work among the people of this city and Taft will find at this gathering a crowd worth facing.

Garvan's Grief.

Balked at the start of the first big prosecution he ever commanded alone, Frank Garvan, the moving spirit in a score of the most famous trials of recent years, is today the center of commiseration at the district attorney's office. For ten long years Garvan has swung mighty court campaigns under Osborne, Rand and Jerome. Every strand in the web of evidence which the district attorney wove about Patrick, Molineaux, Kennedy, Nan Patterson, Florence Burns, Thaw and every other conspicuous prisoner has been produced under the deft fingers of this hard working assistant. With Garvan and his green bag beside him, many a celebrated prosecutor has won fame in court, little of which has come to the man who prompted and prepared. At last, however, the Hitchcock case was turned over to the modest man with the green bag and high hopes of his distinction in it were held by his friends. The sudden reversal in his witness which met Garvan at the very outset was a blow the like of which no district attorney has been called to face in years. Today, however, it is whispered that it will not be long before the young prosecutor will fully redeem himself.

Postal Prods.

When 3,000 New Yorkers take the trouble to buy, write and send 3,000 postal cards on any one subject or in any one direction it seems a sign that Gotham is for once in earnest. This is just what was done in this town one day this week however, by constituents who wanted their men in the legislature to know that they stand for enforcing the state constitution on race track gambling. A volley of telegrams and phone messages and a rapid fire of personal interviews is also being promoted by the churchmen, bankers and business men who have organized here to fight the attempt of the racing trust to keep the gambling law a joke as regards their own particular game. It has always been considered a long way to Albany; but the legislators who are still flirting with the race track lobby are finding that their constituency can keep at their elbows in more ways than one.

Hidden Hunters.

That many mighty hunters and men who have tracked the remotest trails are scattered thick throughout every skyscraper on Manhattan island has been brought to light this week. The talk of making a national park of the far region of the Montana Rockies by the bill introduced by Senator Carter in congress, has unearthed hundreds of big game hunters even in effete Gotham. These men, who know the beauties of this rugged region best, shout loudest for its addition to the nation's charms as Glacier National park. It is only in the enthusiasm of the moment that New Yorkers see in United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson, for instance, the "Harry" Stimson who is famed throughout this region of the Blackfeet as a grizzly killer, or in the head of the "Forest and Stream" office the Grinnell who once explored every square mile of its unmapped fastnesses. That some day every man, woman and child in the country may have the chance to enjoy this glorious section as their own is the unanimous wish of all these civilian hunters here today.

SENATOR BRYAN PASSES AWAY

Prominent Young Floridan Succumbs to Typhoid Fever.

Washington, March 23.—United States Senator William James Bryan of Florida died at the Providence hospital Sunday of typoid fever. It was only seventy-three days since he took his seat as the successor of the late Senator Stephen R. Mallory, who died Dec. 23, and thirty-one days of that time was spent in his fight against the disease. His death came as a surprise and a distinct shock.

In physique, Mr. Bryan was unfitted to withstand a protracted fever. He was slight of build and of nervous temperament. He came to Washington early in January from the warm climate of Florida and from the day of his arrival was far from well. Finally he was compelled to give up and was taken to Providence hospital. During the last few days of his illness he was attended by specialists from Johns Hopkins University hospital, Baltimore.

In Mr. Bryan the senate loses the seventh member by death since the adjournment of the fifty-ninth congress on March 4, a year ago. They were the two late senators from Alabama, Mr. Morgan and Mr. Pettus; Mr. Mallory of Florida, Mr. Latimer of South Carolina, Mr. Proctor of Vermont, Mr. Whyte of Maryland and Mr. Bryan.

Curiously, the last two were the oldest and the youngest members of the body. Mr. Whyte was 84 years old and Mr. Bryan less than 32.

Although Mr. Bryan was in the senate too short a time to impress his individuality on legislation or take a prominent part in the consideration of matters in committee, it is conceded that had he lived, he would have become a forceful part of the minority.

Mr. Bryan was born in Orange county, Florida, Oct. 10, 1876. He attended the public schools and Emory college, Georgia, graduating from the latter institution in 1896. Three years later he was graduated from Washington and Lee university. In 1899 he began the practice of law in Jacksonville. Until a short time before his appointment to succeed Mr. Mallory, he had served as solicitor of the Duval county criminal court. He was married to Miss Janet Allen of Lexington, Va.

THE LAST STAND FOR GAME BIRDS

Dying Breeds to be Defended Throughout the Land.

New York, March 23.—Until all the mating birds of spring may fly from their winter homes to the north to rear their young, safe from the pot shots of unsportsmanlike and market hunters, a national campaign against spring shooting will be carried from state to state, it was announced here today. Acting on the protests of sportsmen and the warning of the department of agriculture, the National Association of Audubon Societies has undertaken to make a last stand for the existence of the dying races of American game birds in every state in which shooting during the breeding season is not forbidden by law. In Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Oklahoma a determined fight is today being carried on against the commercial interests which are organized to fight the movement.

That the most desperate measures have been taken by the men who butcher birds for the market to prevent protective legislation in these states as well as the twenty others in which the law still leaves the game birds easy prey while breeding, is known today. Although this market lobby has always been active in opposing laws which threatened to curtail their gains in any particular state, the possibility of such a general protection throughout the country has aroused them to finance a widespread and unscrupulous fight. To pit against this rich and selfish interest, the Audubon workers have simply the moral support of sportsmen and the general unselfish desire of the people to save the game birds from extinction.

From Jan. 1 on to a reasonable open season in the fall is the period in which protection is to be asked for the mating birds and their young. In fifteen states and nine Canadian provinces the game birds are already shielded by law during this crucial time. Unless such measures are taken at once by the remaining states the government authorities have agreed that game shooting in this country will soon cease to exist and every species become extinct.

On the legislatures in the Dakotas, Wyoming, Iowa, Nebraska, New Mexico, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and all the southern states will depend the life or death of American game when this matter is brought before them this year or next. In each of these states all of the money and influence of the commercial bird killers, is already at work for their short-sighted policy of exterminating slaughter for tomorrow's table.

"Every real true sportsman is behind us in the fight for the dying game birds of this country," said William Dutcher, president of the association at its headquarters, 141 Broadway, today. "We will make our stand for these game species just as faithfully as we have worked for the protection of the non-game birds. If every patriotic citizen will take his place with us to defend the birds against rapid extinction, we shall be equipped to oppose all the selfish interest that money can buy and the gruesome story of the wild pigeon, the heath hen, the Eskimo curlew and the Carolina paroquet species, exterminated by the wasteful greed of man, will not be repeated."

TROUBLE OVER TECHNICALITY

W. E. McEwen Explains the Oil Inspection Tangle.

W. E. McEwen, state oil inspector, who returned home from St. Paul Saturday evening, says there is no foundation for the published statement that he will be liable for the $2,700 paid to him by his predecessor, Mr. McDermott. The Duluth man says the course he has followed all during the affair is not subject to criticism, and that it was so found when investigated.

"The reported difference between Treasurer Dinehart and myself was largely newspaper talk," said Mr. McEwen. "Mr. Dinehart admits that so far as he is concerned he has no official knowledge of the discrepancies in Mr. McDermott's accounts. He denies many of the interviews credited to him. If there is any difference between us, it is purely of a technical nature. I held that all moneys coming to the oil inspection department must come through the department from the oil companies to the state auditor, and then to the treasurer. The money in question was intercepted between the oil company and the oil department. When it was turned over to me, I merely placed it in its proper channel.

"Mr. Dinehart first thought that it should have been paid to him directly. That is practically the only difference between us. In transferring the oil company account from the old ledger to the new one installed by me, it was found that certain companies were indebted to the oil department for inspections prior to my incumbency. The balances had to be wiped out. In some cases it was found that the money had been paid to Mr. McDermott. In others we discovered that the companies still owed the money. When I collected the fees in both instances they were credited in the same manner.

"While I did not proclaim Mr. McDermott's discrepancies from the house tops, I made no effort whatever to conceal them. My books contain a full and concise notation of the source and cause of each receipt of money from Mr. McDermott. The system of bookkeeping installed in the office by me is practically self-checking, and the people can rest assured that they will receive every dollar due the state treasury for the inspection of oil."

MINNESOTA BANKS

Would Benefit From Nelson Amendment to the Aldrich Bill.

The only effect of the Nelson amendment to the Aldrich bill, now pending before the senate, say Duluth bankers, would be to enable Western banks to secure funds in times of dire need of money. Except in cases of extreme needs of funds, the amendment would have little effect on the banking situation in the Northwest.

The Nelson amendment provides that the New York banks cannot withhold reserves from Western banks, and at the same time hold that reserves of Western banks as part of their own reserve.

Had not currency payments been stopped last fall the banks of Duluth would have been in imperative need of calling upon their Eastern reserves. It is to prevent such a condition recurring in the banks of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, that Senator Nelson seeks the amendment to the bill.

Duluth bankers say they ordinarily have but little need for calling upon their reserves.

Boston, March 23.—A review of the marine casualties of the coast of New England and British North America during the fall and iwnter seasons show that about 350 lives were lost. Of this number, 251 persons perished in the wrecks of ten vessels belonging to the French fishing fleet of St. Pierre, Miquelon, last fall. These vessels foundered in heavy gales, which swept the Grand Banks. About twenty-five Newfoundland fishermen were also lost in these storms.

SALOON MEN ARE ANXIOUS

Are Likely to Lose Licenses and $500 Fees.

The action of the district court in overruling the demurrer of William Carlin to the answer made by County Auditor Halden in the mandamus proceedings started to compel the auditor to issue a liquor license to Carlin, has caused quite a stir among the county saloonkeepers whose licenses are likely to be affected by the ruling.

The county auditor claimed in his answer that under the law Carlin's bond was void because the surety company on his bond was on more than 100 other liquor bonds within the county, contrary to statutory provision. The court sustained his point, and now the other aloonkeepers, who comprise the number having the same surety company on their bonds, are wondering "where they are at."

The main issue, wether the court will compel County Auditor Halden to issue the license to Carlin, will be tried at the regular term of the district court, and it is quite probable that the ment with the questionable bonds will seek counsel with a view of getting legal advice as to the steps they can pursue for their own protection.

If the law shall be construed by the courts to apply to surety companies as well as individuals who go on bonds, then the licensees having the same surety company bonds will be placed in a peculiar position. They will be running saloons with the permission of the county board, but with their bonds void their licenses will be void and they will have nothing more than blind pigs in the eyes of the law.

Another interesting feature about the situation is that if the bonds and licenses are void and the licensees have paid their $500 fees to the county, they are likely to lose that amount. Whether the county board could make a rebate of $500 in each case is said to be a question. If a saloonkeeper whose license has been found void is compelled to forfeit his fee of $500 and put up another $500 fee for a new license, the privilege of selling liquor in some localities within the county will be far too costly and some retail liquor places will be put out of business.

One of the most interesting scientific discoveries connected with the Simplon Tunnel is the existence in the rocks through which the tunnel was bored of a surprisingly large amount of radium. The greatest percentage was found more than two and a half miles from the Italian entrance. SAFETY PIN IN ITS THROAT

The extraction of an open safety pin from the throat of the 8-weeks-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Kuth was the delicate operation performed by Drs. Fahey and Robinson at St. Mary's hospital this morning. It was successfully performed and the child will suffer no inconvenience on account of the strange accident.

How the pin became lodged in the child's throat is a mystery. It was an ordinary brass safety pin, about an inch and a quarter long, and it lodged in the larynx, with the point up. After the parents discovered the condition, Dr. Fahey was called and the pin was located by an X-ray examination.

The child didn't appear to be inconvenienced by the pin in its throat, but its position was dangerous and the operation was attended with some difficulty.

"BOYVILLE" IS DESCRIBED

Method Used in Cleveland of Dealing With Delinquents.

"Boyville" is the name of the farm near Cleveland, where deliquent boys are sent.

Peter Witt told a small audience about it last evening at Flaaten's hall, and those who heard him conceived the idea that the plan could be worked out to excellent advantage in Duluth.

"Boyville" is a model farm, where delinquent boys are sent. Each boy is given a little plot of ground to work. Vegetables are raised and the farm is self supporting. The boys are taught various trades at the farm, and the importance of leading a busy, useful existence is impressed upon them.

Such an institution was always the dream of the late H. C. Withrow, former probation officer of Duluth, and he claimed that it would be better than a detention home school.

Woman Is Discharged.

Anna L. Peterson, who was arraigned Saturday afternoon before Judge Ensign of the juvenile court on the charge of having instructed her son and Louis Costello to steal from a grocery store at Twenty-eighth avenue west and Sixth street, was dismissed as not guilty. The boys were punished, Peterson being put on probation and Costello sent to the reform school.

Teacher Takes Out Papers.

Miss Alice Esther Mary Butchart, who for the past twenty years has been a teacher in the city schools, took out her first citizenship papers at the office of the clerk of the district court this morning. It is understood that Miss Butchart desires to take up a claim, and found that it would be necessary to get her first papers before she could make the legal filing. Though the issuance of first papers to women is not a daily or even a weekly occurrence, quite a number of applications are received during the year, mostly in cases where the women desire to take up claims.

Wants Damages For Leg.

The personal injury case of Nick Anderson against the Pitt Iron Mining company is being tried today in Judge Ensign's room. Anderson was injured while employed in one of the company's mines, by having his leg broken. He has sued for $10,000 damages. Heino & Hollister represent Anderson.

The members of North Star lodge, No. 25, Knights of Pythias, will meet tomorrow evening at Elks' hall for the purpose of conferring the first rank on a class of candidates and for the transaction of other important business. A large attendance of the lodge is expected.

Building Inspector Moves.

The slumbering fire of battle, which was noticeable in the Northwest corner of the first floor of the city hall, has gone out entirely, and there isn't even an odor of smoke. Building Inspector S. M. Kielley has moved his desk to an office in connection with the city engineer's office, and the assessor has the building inspector's former office for his extra help.

To Set Grade Levels.

The city engineer's office is preparing to set the grade levels on Michigan street, from Third avenue east to Fifth avenue east. The street is now unopened between those points.

Boys Need Homes.

Judge Ensign of the juvenile court has made a request that all families who desire to adopt boys should have their names with Probation Officer Resche at his office, 115 East Superior street. Mr. Resche constantly has a number of boys in his care, and Judge Ensign believes that good homes might be found for many of these boys, instead of allowing them to become wards of the state.

EVANGELIST ASSAULTED.

Utica, Neb., March 23.—Twenty men assaulted Rev. F. A. Miller, an evangelist of Lincoln, Neb., here today as he was on his way to the railway station and seriously injured him. In a sermon Rev. Miller is accused of having criticized the members of a woman's church society.

ON TRAIL OF ANARCHISTS

Party of Milwaukee Men May be Liable to Deportation.

Inspector in Charge William H. Dean of the local United States immigration office left this afternoon for Milwaukee on official business. The object of the visit to the Wisconsin city has not been given out officially, but it is understood that it has something to do with the apprehension and deportation of a party of anarchists.

Police authorities of Duluth and the range towns, as well as those of cities and towns throughout Wisconsin and Minnesota, are offering their hearty co-operation in the movement to rid the country of anarchists, in response to suggestions contained in an order issued by the department of the interior, and it looks as if Mr. Dean would be rendered every possible assistance in matters of this kind in his territory.

It is expected the law in regard to the deportation of anarchists will be relied upon in several instances the coming summer at the different mining locations on the Minnesota iron ranges, where the "reds" occasionally make their appearance, and deliver inflamatory addresses. Private detectives in the employ of the several mining companies, as well as police officers of the different towns, will be continually on the watch for persons of this character, and wherever sufficient excuse is found, arrests will be made, and Mr. Dean will endeavor to bring about the deportation of the undesirable citizens. The fact of the order has been pretty well advertised, and it is expected it will have a wholesale effect in maintaining order where foreigners of anarchistic disposition are concerned.

Additions to the force employed in the Duluth immigration office during the past year leave Inspector in Charge the present force to cover this territory in the performance of his duties, and to keep in close touch with the situation throughout Minnesota and Wisconsin. He is now able to leave the Duluth office on special missions without in any manner interfering with the local immigration inspection system.

COPPERS HAVE GOOD ADVANCE

The copper stocks had a good advance during the session today. An improvement in the metal outlook caused a better demand for stocks and they closed about a point higher than Saturday.

Greene-Cananea opened at $8.62½, declined to $8.37½, rallied to $8.50 and closed at $8.50 bid and $8.62½ asked. Butte Coalition opened at $20.87½, declined to $20.75, rallied to $22.87½ and closed at $22.62½ bid and $22.87½ asked. Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper continues active and strong. Lake is now 13 to 13¾ cents and electrolytic 12⅞ to 13 cents per pound. For the first time in many months domestic consumers are buying copper quite freely for delivery sixty to ninety days in advance. A great many million pounds of copper has been sold for April and May delivery. Surplus stocks of copper are quite thoroughly cleaned up and the prospect is much more cheerful than it has been for some months past.

"Of course the political situation is still a factor in the metal market. Unfavorable developments may bring chills, and the gradual growth of sane, conservative political sentiment will increase the buying demand and may advance prices. There should be a large demand for sheet copper as a result of present low prices; but it will require a resumption of electrical development, and its resultant demand for wire bars, to put copper above 13 or 14 cents."

INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN INTOXICATING LIQUORS.—In Adams Express Company vs. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 605, 206 U. S. 129, 51 L. Ed. 987, the United States supreme court takes the position that an agreement by a local agent of an express company to hold for a few days a C .O. D. interstate shipment of intoxicating liquors, to suit the convenience of the consignee in paying for such liquors, and taking it away, does not destroy the character of the transaction as interstate commerce, so as to render the express company amenable to prosecution for violating a state local option law. This decision is based on the recent case of Heyman vs. Southern R. Co., 203 U. S. 270, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 104, 51 L. Ed. 178, and by it the supreme court reverses the decision of the Kentucky Court of Appeals to the contrary in 27 Ky. Law Rep. 1096, 87 Southwestern Reporter, 1111.

EFFECT OF INVALIDITY OF LEGISLATIVE APPORTIONMENT.—The Kentucky court of appeals in Adams vs. Bosworth, 102 Southwestern Reporter, 861, announces a doctrine indicated in Ragland vs. Anderson, 100 Southwestern Reporter, 865, that the declaring of an act apportioning the state into legislative and senatorial districts as invalid because creating unequal districts does not require that an earlier apportionment act must also be declared unconstitutional, because it also created unequal districts, though in a lesser degree. As the apportionment made by the earlier law had been accepted without question by the people of the state for a long period (thirteen years in this case), the court was of the opinion that, if for no other reason, the long acquiescence of the public in such act would be a sufficient reason for now refusing to declare it unconstitutional.

PRESUMPTION AS TO VALIDITY OF MARRIAGE.—The Missouri supreme court in Johnson vs. St. Joseph Terminal Railroad Company, 101 Southwestern Reporter, 641, holds that the presumption of innocence on the part of parties to a marriage contract, which presumption is stronger than all counter presumptions in such cases, throws the burden of proof on parties denying the validity of the marriage, even to the extent of requiring such parties to prove a negative. As supporting cases are cited Klein vs. Laudman, 29 Mo. 259; Hunter vs. Hunter, 111 Cal. 261, 43 Pacific Reporter, 775, 31 L. R. A. 411, 52 Am. St. Rep. 180; Schuchart vs. Schuchart, 61 Kan. 597, 60 Pacific Reporter, 311, 59 L. R. A. 180, 78 Am. St. Rep. 342; and Boulden vs. McIntire, 119 Ind. 574, 21 Northeastern Reporter, 445, 12 Am. St. Rep. 453.

USE OF PUBLIC ROADS BY AUTOMOBILES.—The constitutionality of a law regulating the speed of automobiles on public roads, and requiring the licensing of such conveyances, was questioned in State vs. Swagerty, 102 Southwestern Reporter, 483, on the ground that it was class legislation because applicable only to automobiles. The Missouri supreme court, in deciding the case, was, however, of the opinion that, as the law applies to and affects all parties of the same class, it is not vulnerable to the question raised.

STREET CAR ADVERTISING. — In Burns vs. St. Paul City Railway Company, 112 Northwestern Reporter, 412, the Minnesota supreme court refused an injunction sought by a newspaper publisher to restrain a street railroad company from placing advertisements in its cars. The carrying advertisements in its cars says that counsel for plaintiff in court says that counsel for plaintiff in the case stated with a "refreshing vivacity" and a "rather surprising plausibility" that the application for the injunction was not "a path-breaker," but that the path was not only "broken" but "well paved—macadamized—with precedents;" but the court was, however, of the opinion that the cases cited were not in point, and refused to grant the injunction, even though the action of the street car company in carrying advertisements in its cars was ultra vires.

RIGHT OF STATE TO ENJOIN POLLUTION OF AIR.—In State of Georgia vs. Tennessee Copper company, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 618, 206 U. S. 230, 51 L. Ed. 1038, the United States supreme court lays down the proposition that a foreign corporation will be enjoined at the suit of the state of Georgia from so discharging sulphurous fumes from its works in Tennessee as to pollute the air over large tracts of territory in Georgia, and to cause and threaten wholesale damage to forests and vegetable life therein, if not to health. When the states by their union made the forcible abatement of outside nuisances impossible to each, they did not thereby agree to submit to whatever might be done. They did not renounce the possibility of making reasonable demands on the ground of their still remaining quasi sovereign interests, and the alternative to force is a suit in the United States supreme court.

SUICIDE NO DEFENSE TO ACTION ON INSURANCE POLICY.—The validity of the Missouri statute (Rev. St. 1879, page 5982), which excludes suicide as a defense in suits on life insurance policies unless such suicide was contemplated at the time application was made for the policy, is upheld by the United States supreme court in Whitfield vs. Hadley, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 578, 206 United States, 439, 51 L. Ed. 895. It was suggested that the statute "merely encourages suicide, and offers a bounty therefor, payable, not out of the public funds of the state, but out of the funds of the insurance company." But the court says that an insurance company is not bound to make a contract which is attended by the results indicated by the statute. If it does business at all in the state, it must do so subject to such valid regulations as the state may choose to adopt.

REPLEVIN AGAINST BANKRUPT AFTER ADJUDICATION.—The question whether replevin against a bankrupt after adjudication may be maintained to recover property belonging to a third person, where nothing has been done to obtain possession under the bankruptcy proceedings, was answered affirmatively in the case of Ayres vs. Farwell, 82 Northeastern Reporter, 35. The Massachusetts court held that the mere fact of the adjudication was no bar to such action under the facts of this case.

APPROVAL OF BILL BY ACTING GOVERNOR.—Where the acting governor of Arkansas signed a bill just passed by the legislature, but it was not filed with the secretary of state, it was held, in the case of Powell vs. Hayes, 104 Southwestern Reporter, 177, that it was not subject to veto the next day by his successor, it being unnecessary to file the same before it became law.

RESTRAINING CONTROL OF CORPORATE AFFAIRS BY COMPETITOR.—In the case of Bigelow vs. Calumet & Hecla Mining company, 155 Federal Reporter, 869, defendant and the Osceola company, of which plaintiff was president and stockholder, were competitors in the production of lake copper. Shortly prior to the annual election of officers of the Osceola company defendant purchased a large amount of stock in the Osceola company. It also wrote plaintiff that it expected to obtain control of his company. Thereupon he filed a bill asking for an injunction against the voting of the stock, on the ground that it was in violation of the state and federal anti-trust laws. The court held that the plaintiff was entitled to the relief asked for.

RECOVERY OF INSURANCE PAID UNDER MISTAKE AS TO DEATH.—A most unusual insurance question was decided in the case of New York Life Insurance company vs. Chittenden, 112 Northwestern Reporter, 98. A person holding policies of insurance with plaintiff company disappeared, and was not heard of for several years thereafter. After seven years had elapsed, an administrator was appointed, who threatened to bring suit on the policies if they were not paid. The policies were finally paid. Subsequently the missing person reappeared. The defendant brought an action against the administrator to recover the proceeds of the policies. The court held the decision to be res adjudicata on the question of the death of the insured and liability of defendant.

NEGLIGENT BURNING OF PROPERTY LEFT ON HIGHWAY.—A person building a fire on his own premises, which spread to and destroyed a quantity of wood piled on the sides of the highway adjacent to the premises, was held by the supreme court of Massachusetts in King vs. Norcross, 82 Northeastern Reporter, 17, to be liable therefor, notwithstanding the fact that plaintiffs used part of the road for such purpose, this constituting but a reasonable use thereof, which the owner had a right to exercise.

COMPELLING COMPETING TELEPHONE COMPANIES TO GIVE CONNECTIONS.—In the case of Billings Mut. Telephone Co., vs. Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone Co., 155 Federal Reporter, 207, the court held that, under the Constitution and statutes of that state, one telephone company may compel a competing company to give connections for long distance service, and that the right to connect included the right to use. The court intimated, however, that this relief could not be granted except under the Constitution and statutes referred to.

ROLLER SKATING.—In Billington vs. Miller, 67 Atlantic Reporter, 925, the supreme court of New Jersey held that an ordinance forbidding roller skating on the street was valid. It was contended that this ordinance would interfere with skating as a means of travel, but the court held that this was not the intention of the city authorities, and, if a right to use the street for mere sport existed, it was a subject of municipal control.

RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS.—The validity of a law prohibiting one to organize, maintain, and employ an armed body of men was questioned in the recent case of State vs. Gohl, 90 Pacific Reporter, 259, on the ground that it violated the constitutional guaranty that the right of a citizen to bear arms in defense of himself or the state shall not be impaired. But the Washington supreme court upholds the constitutionality of the law, saying that the constitutional guaranty of certain rights to the individual citizen does not place such rights entirely beyond the police power of the state.

TRADE-MARKS AND TRADE-NAMES.—The right of publishers of uncopyrighted books to restrain unfair competition receives the attention of the New York supreme court, in E. P. Dutton & Co., vs. Cupples, 102 New York Supplement, 399. Plaintiff had conceived the idea of getting out a set of Christmas books, consisting of well known hymns and poems, printed in illuminated type, and illustrated with copies of old masterpieces, and in some instances by pictures made by artists employed by them. Portions of the work were in colors, and the volumes were bound in highly decorated covers. The subject-matter was old and, of course, not subject to copyright. Defendants, by some photographic process, made cheap copies of plaintiff's books, and put them on the market. The court granted a preliminary injunction, saying: "Upon the general right of plaintiff to protective relief, we cannot see any reason why the same rule should not be applied to a game or to cigars or to anything else which is distinguished by a label or by the distinctive form or style of the package."

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LICENSE LAW.—In Sopher vs. State, 81 Northeastern Reporter, 913, the trial court held that a liquor license under the Indiana License Law did not authorize the sale of intoxicating liquors for the reason that the state license law was unconstitutional, such traffic being dangerous and hurtful to society. The Indiana supreme court reversed this decision, holding that under the common law any person had a right, without license, to sell intoxicants, and that it was a means of livelihood which any one was free to follow.

G. A. Tomlinson Says Outlook is for Quiet Season on Lakes.

G. A. Tomlinson, who returned today from the East, says that he sees no prospect for the general opening of lake navigation before the first of June. The outlook at the present time is very dull, according to Mr. Tomlinson.

No call has been issued for the meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association. Mr. Livingstone, one of its members, is ill at the present time in California. No meeting of the committee will be called before Mr. Livingstone is able to be present. It will probably be well into next month before the committee is called.

Mr. Tomlinson says there is little prospect for any activity for some time in any line of lake transportation. Both at the lower end of the lake, and here he sees little prospect for either an early opening or a brisk trade for some time. In all lines of lake industry the outlook, according to Mr. Tomlinson, seems to be one of general quietness.

Mr. Tomlinson said that he had not heard of the executive committee's rumored intention of refusing to treat with the affiliated body of lake laborers. He stated that it was too early just now to predict any trouble on the lakes.

"Quietness," said Mr. Tomlinson, "is the most dominant feature in the navigation situation at the present time."

STEEL TRUST RIVALS.

Edwin C. Eckel in the Engineer Magazine: The best steam and coking coals in the United States are those of the Appalachian coal field, which reaches from Pennsylvania to Alabama in a belt trending almost parallel to the Atlantic coast, and distant 150 to 350 miles from it. These Appalachian coals are, in general, far superior to those of other portions of the United States. For most of its extent this coal field is paralleled, on its Eastern or coastal side, by a series of extensive iron ore deposits. These iron ores, however, though enormous in quantity, are usually of relatively low grade; but they can be placed on the seaboard at a very low price per unit of iron. A plant located at the coastal end of a coal-carrying railroad could therefore depend on securing a cheap supply of high grade fuel, and a cheap supply of low grade domestic ore. But it would also be in a position to avail itself of still cheaper supplies of high grade foreign ores, imported from Canada, the West Indies, South America and Spain. The duty on such ores is rebated in case the products made from them are exported, but even without this provision the ores used by a seaboard plant would not cost more than lake ores at Pittsburg.

In view of these facts it is remarkable that only one plant—that of the Maryland Steel company, near Baltimore—is located so as to take advantage of this situation, though several Eastern Pennsylvania plants depend partly at least on foreign ores. The principal points which offer the combination of factors necessary for the success of a seabord steel plant are Baltimore, Norfolk, Brunswick, Pensacola and Mobile. Of these, Norfolk has such direct advantages that is is improbable that it will long remain entirely undeveloped.

FEDERAL COURTS ARE SUSTAINED BY DECISION.

Washington, March 23.—The case of Thomas F. Hunter, sheriff for Buncombe county, North Carolina, vs. James H. Wood, agent of the Southern railway at Asheville, N. C., involving a conflict over the North Carolina railroad rate law, was decided today by the supreme court of the United States in favor of Wood. The decision was announced by Justice Peckham and its effect is to sustain the federal courts and thus holds invalid the law.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

The action of the district court in overruling the demurrer of William Carlin to the answer made by County Auditor Halden in the mandamus proceedings started to compel the auditor to issue a liquor license to Carlin, has caused quite a stir among the county saloonkeepers whose licenses are likely to be affected by the ruling.

The county auditor claimed in his answer that under the law Carlin's bond was void because the surety company on his bond was on more than ten saloon liquor bonds within the county, contrary to statutory provision. The court sustained his point, and now the other saloonkeepers, who comprise the number having the same surety company on their bonds, are wondering "where they are at."

The main issue, whether the court will compel County Auditor Halden to issue the license to Carlin, will be tried at the regular term of the district court and it is quite probable that the matter with the questionable bonds will seek counsel with a view of getting legal advice as to th steps they can pursue for their own protection.

If the law shall be construed by the courts to apply to surety companies as well as individuals who go on bonds, then the licenses having the same surety company bonds will be placed in a peculiar position. They will be running saloons with the permission of the county board, but with their bonds void their licenses will be void and they will have nothing more than scrap paper in the eyes of the law.

Another interesting feature about the situation is that if the bonds and licenses go void and the licenses have paid their $500 fees to the county, they are likely to lose that amount. Whether the county board could make a rebate of $500 in such case is said to be a question. If a saloonkeeper whose license has been found void is compelled to forfeit his fee of $500 and put up another $500 fee for a new license the privilege of selling liquor in some localities within the county will be far too costly and some retail liquor places will be put out of business.

One of the most interesting scientific discoveries connected with the Simplon tunnel is the existence in the rocks through which the tunnel was bored of a surprisingly large amount of radium. The greatest percentage was found more than two and a half miles from the Italian entrance. A scientific investigation proves that golden grain belt beer is the most nourishing because it contains every particle of the healthful, wholesome nutriment of the malt and all the tonic properties of the hops from which it is made. SAFETY PIN IN ITS THROAT

The extraction of an open safety pin from the throat of the 8-weeks-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Kuth was the delicate operation performed by Drs. Lahey and Robinson at St. Mary's hospital this morning. It was successfully accomplished and the child will suffer no inconvenience on account of the strange accident.

How the pin became lodged in the child's throat is a mystery. It was an ordinary sized safety pin, about an inch and a quarter long and it lodged in the larynx, with the point up. After the parents discovered the condition, Dr. Lahey was called and the pin was located by X-ray examination.

The child didn't appear to be inconvenienced by the pin in its throat, but its position was dangerous and the operation was attended with some difficulty.

ON TRAIL OF ANARCHISTS

Party of Milwaukee Men May be Liable to Deportation.

Inspector in Charge William H. Dean of the local United States immigration office left this afternoon for Milwaukee on official business. The object of the visit to the Wisconsin city has not been given out officially, but it is understood that it has something to do with the apprehension and deportation of a party of anarchists.

Police authorities of Duluth and the range towns, as well as those of cities and towns throughout Wisconsin and Minnesota, are offering their hearty co-operation in the movement to rid the country of anarchists, in response to suggestions contained in an order issued by the department of the interior, and it looks as if Mr. Dean would be rendered every possible assistance in matters of this kind in his territory.

It is expected the law in regard to the deportation of anarchists will be relied upon in several instances the coming summer at the different mining locations on the Minnesota iron ranges, where the "reds" occasionally make their appearance, and deliver inflammatory addresses. Private detectives in the employ of the several mining companies, as well as police officers of the different towns, will be continually on the watch for persons of this character, and wherever sufficient excuse is found, arrests will be made, and Mr. Dean will endeavor to bring about the deportation of the undesirable citizens. The fact of the order has been pretty well advertised, and it is expected it will have a wholesale effect in maintaining order where foreigners of anarchistic disposition are concerned.

Additional to the force employed in the Duluth immigration office during the past year leave Inspector in Charge Dean more free to cover this territory in the performance of his duties, and to keep in close touch with the situation throughout Minnesota and Wisconsin. He is now able to leave the Duluth office on special missions without in any manner interfering with the local immigration inspection system.

The copper stocks had a good advance during the session today. An improvement in the metal outlook caused a better demand for stocks and they closed about a point higher than Saturday.

North Butte opened at $53.75, declined to $53.50, rallied to $54.87½ and closed at $54.62½ bid and $54.75 asked. Amalgamated opened at $57.75, declined to $56.87½, rallied to $58.50 and closed at $58.50 bid.

Greene-Cananea opened at $8.62½, declined to $8.37½, rallied to $8.50 and closed at $8.50 bid and $8.62½ asked. Butte, Coalition opened at $20.37½, declined to $20.25, rallied to $22.87½ and closed at $22.62½ bid and $22.87½ asked.

Calumet & Arizona opened at $105, declined to $104.25, rallied to $109.50 and closed at $108 bid and $106 asked. Anaconda opened at $87.50, declined to $87.37½, rallied to $87.75 and closed at $87.62½ bid.

Globe at $7.37½ and $8 and closed at $8 bid and $8.25 asked. Butte & Superior at $1.12½ and closed at $1.25 bid and Copper Queen at $1.12½ bid and closed at $1.25 bid and $1.37½ asked.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper conditions active and strong. Lake is now 13 to 13¼ cents and electrolytic 12¾ to 13 cents per pound. For the first time in many months domestic consumers are buying copper in the open market for delivery as to nearly two in advance. A great many million pounds of copper has been sold for April and May delivery. Supplies stocks of copper are quite thoroughly cleaned up and the prospect is much more cheerful than it has been for some months past.

"Of course the political situation is still a factor in the metal market. Unfavorable developments may bring chills, and the gradual growth of sane, conservative political sentiment will increase the buying demand and may advance prices. There should be a large demand for sheet copper as a result of present low prices; but it will require resumption of general development, and its resultant demand for wire bars, to put copper above 13 or 14 cents."

INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN INTOXICATING LIQUORS.—In Adams Express Company vs. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 606, 205 U. S. 129, 51 L. Ed. 387, the United States supreme court takes the position that an agreement by a local agent of an express company to hold for a few days a C. O. D. interstate shipment of intoxicating liquors, to suit the convenience of the consignee in paying for such liquors, and taking it away, does not destroy the character of the transaction as interstate commerce, so as to render the express company amenable to prosecution for violating a state local option law. This decision is based on the recent case of Heyman vs. Southern R. Co., 203 U. S. 270, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 104, 51 L. Ed. 178, and by it the supreme court reverses the decision of the Kentucky Court of Appeals to the contrary in 27 Ky. Law Rep. 1096, 87 Southwestern Reporter, 1111.

EFFECT OF INVALIDITY OF LEGISLATIVE APPORTIONMENT.—The Kentucky court of appeals in Adams vs. Bosworth, 102 Southwestern Reporter, 861, announces a doctrine indicated in Ragland vs. Anderson, 100 Southwestern Reporter, 885, that the declaring of an act apportioning the state into legislative and senatorial districts as invalid because creating unequal districts does not require that an earlier apportionment act must also be declared unconstitutional, because it also created unequal districts, though in a lesser degree. As the apportionment made by the earlier law had been accepted without question by the people of the state for a long period (thirteen years in this case), the court was of the opinion that, if for no other reason, the long acquiescence of the public in such act would be a sufficient reason for now refusing to declare it unconstitutional.

PRESUMPTION AS TO VALIDITY OF MARRIAGE.—The Missouri supreme court in Johnson vs. St. Joseph Terminal Railroad Company, 101 Southwestern Reporter, 31, holds that the presumption of innocence on the part of parties to a marriage contract, which presumption is stronger than all counter presumptions in such cases, throws the burden of proof on parties denying the validity of the marriage, even to the extent of requiring such parties to prove a negative. As supporting cases are cited Kleih vs. Laudman, 29 Mo. 259; Hunter vs. Hunter, 111 Cal. 267, 43 Pacific Reporter, 599, 31 L. R. A. 411, 52 Am. St. Rep. 180; Schinchart vs. Schuchart, 61 Kan. 737, 60 Pacific Reporter, 321, 50 L. R. A. 130, 78 Am. St. Rep. 342; and Boulden vs. McIntire, 119 Ind. 574, 21 Northeastern Reporter, 445, 12 Am. St. Rep. 453.

USE OF PUBLIC ROADS BY AUTOMOBILES.—The constitutionality of a law regulating the speed of automobiles on public roads, and requiring the licensing of such conveyances, was questioned in State vs. Swagerty, 102 Southwestern Reporter, 485, on the ground that it was class legislation because applicable only to automobiles. The Missouri supreme court, in deciding the case, was, however, of the opinion that, as the law applies to and affects all parties of the same class, it is not vulnerable to the question raised.

STREET CAR ADVERTISING.—In Burns vs. St. Paul City Railway Company, 112 Northwestern Reporter, 412, the Minnesota supreme court refused an injunction sought by a newspaper publisher to restrain a street railroad company from carrying advertisements in its cars. The court says that counsel for plaintiff in error stated with a "refreshing vivacity" and a "rather surprising plausibility" that the application for the injunction was not "a path-breaker," but that then was not "a path-breaker," but that the path was not only "broken" but "well paved—macadamized—with precedents." We concur in the opinion, but the court was, however, of the opinion that the cases cited were not in point, that the cases cited were not in point, that the cases cited were not in point, even and refused to grant the injunction, even though the action of the street car company in carrying advertisements in its cars was ultra vires.

RIGHT OF STATE TO ENJOIN POLLUTION OF AIR.—In State of Georgia vs. Tennessee Copper company, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 618, 206 United States 230, 51 L. Ed. 1048, the United States supreme court lays down the proposition that a foreign corporation will be enjoined at the suit of the state of Georgia from so discharging sulphurous fumes from its works in Tennessee as to pollute the air over large tracts of territory in Georgia, and to cause and threaten wholesale damage to forests and vegetation, if not to health. When the states by their union made the forcible abatement of outside nuisances impossible to each, they did not thereby agree to submit to whatever might be done. They did not renounce the possibility of making reasonable demands on the ground of their still remaining quasi sovereign interests, and the alternative to forcible suit in the United States supreme court.

SUICIDE NO DEFENSE TO ACTION ON INSURANCE POLICY.—The validity of the Missouri statute (Rev. St. 1879, page 582), which excludes suicide as a defense in suits on life insurance policies unless such suicide was contemplated at the time application was made for the policy, is upheld by the United States supreme court in Whitfield vs. Hadley, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 578, 205 United States, 489, 51 L. Ed. 895. It was suggested that the statute "merely encourages suicide, and offers a bounty therefor, payable, not out of the public funds of the state, but out of the funds of the insurance company." But the court says that an insurance company is not bound to make a contract which is attended by the results indicated by the statute. If it does ousiness at all in the state, it must do so subject to such valid regulations as the state may choose to adopt.

REPLEVIN AGAINST BANKRUPT AFTER ADJUDICATION.—The question whether replevin against a bankrupt, after adjudication, may be maintained to recover property belonging to a third person, where nothing has been done to obtain possession under the bankruptcy proceedings, was answered affirmatively in the case of Ayres vs. Farwell, 82 Northeastern Reporter, 35. The Massachusetts court held that the mere fact of the adjudication was no bar to such action under the facts of this case.

APPROVAL OF BILL BY ACTING GOVERNOR.—Where the acting governor of Arkansas signed a bill just passed by the legislature, but it was not filed with the secretary of state, it was held, in the case of Powell vs. Hayes, 104 Southwestern Reporter, 177, that it was not subject to veto the next day by his successor, it being unnecessary to file the same before it became law.

RESTRAINING CONTROL OF CORPORATE AFFAIRS BY COMPETITOR.—In the case of Bigelow vs. Calumet & Hecla Mining company, 155 Federal Reporter, 869, defendant and the Osceola company, of which plaintiff was president and stockholder, were competitors in the production of lake copper. Shortly prior to the annual election of officers of the Osceola company defendant purchased a large amount of stock in the Osceola company. It also wrote plaintiff that it expected to obtain control of his company. Thereupon he filed a bill asking for an injunction against the voting of the stock, on the ground that it was in violation of the state and federal anti-trust laws. The court held that the plaintiff was entitled to the relief asked for.

RECOVERY OF INSURANCE PAID UNDER MISTAKE AS TO DEATH.—A most unusual insurance question was decided in the case of New York Life Insurance company vs. Chittenden, 112 Northwestern Reporter, 98. A person holding policies of insurance with plaintiff company disappeared, and was not heard of for several years thereafter. After seven years had elapsed, an administrator was appointed, who threatened to bring suit on the policies if they were not paid. The policies were finally paid. Subsequently the missing person reappeared. The defendant brought an action against the administrator to recover the proceeds of the policies. The court held the decision to be res adjudicata on the question of the death of the insured and liability of defendant.

NEGLIGENT BURNING OF PROPERTY LEFT ON HIGHWAY.—A person building a fire on his own premises, which spread to and destroyed a quantity of wood piled on the sides of the highway adjacent to the premises, was held by the supreme court of Massachusetts in the case of Norcross, 74 Northeastern Reporter, 17, to be liable therefor, notwithstanding the fact that plaintiffs used part of the road for such purpose, this constituting but a reasonable use thereof, which the owner had a right to exercise.

COMPELLING COMPETING TELEPHONE COMPANIES TO GIVE CONNECTIONS.—In the case of Billings Mut. Telephone Co., vs. Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone Co., 155 Federal Reporter, 267, the court holds that, under the Constitution and statutes of that state, the telephone company may compel a competing company to give connections for long distance service, and that the right to connect includes the right to use. The court intimated, however, that this relief could not be granted except under the Constitution and statutes referred to.

ROLLER SKATING.—In Billington vs. Miller, 72 Atlantic Reporter, 925, the supreme court of New Jersey held that an ordinance forbidding roller skating on the street was valid. It was contended that this ordinance would interfere with skating as a means of travel, but the court held that this was not the intention of the city authorities, and, if a right to use the street for mere sport existed, it was a subject of municipal control.

RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS.—The validity of a law prohibiting one to organize, maintain, and employ an armed body of men was questioned in the recent case in State vs. Cobb, 96 Pacific Reporter, 259, on the ground that it violated the constitutional guaranty that the right of a citizen to bear arms in defense of himself or the state shall not be impaired. But the Washington supreme court upholds the constitutionality of the law, saying that the constitutional guaranty of certain rights to the individual citizen does not place such rights entirely beyond the police power of the state.

TRADE-MARKS AND TRADE-NAMES.—The right of publishers of uncopyrighted books to restrain unfair competition receives the attention of the New York supreme court, in E. P. Dutton & Co. vs. Cupples & Hyde, 102 New York Supplement, 399. Plaintiff had conceived the idea of getting out a set of Christmas books, consisting of well known hymns and poems, printed in illuminated type, and illustrated with copies of old masterpieces, and in some instances by pictures made by artists employed by them. Portions of the work were in colors, and the volumes were bound in highly decorated covers. The subject-matter was old and, of course, not subject to copyright. Defendants, by some photographic process, made cheap copies of plaintiff's books, and put them on the market. The court granted a preliminary injunction, saying: "Upon the general right of plaintiff to protective relief, we cannot see any reason why the same rule should not be applied to a book that has been applied to a game or to cigars or to anything else which is distinguished by a label or by the distinctive form or style of the package."

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LICENSE LAW.—In Sopher vs. State, 71 Northeastern Reporter, 943, the trial court held that a liquor license under the Indiana license law did not authorize the sale of intoxicating liquors for the reason that the state license law was unconstitutional, such traffic being dangerous and hurtful to society. The Indiana supreme court reversed this decision, holding that under the common law any person had a right, without license, to sell intoxicants, and that it was a means of livelihood which any one was free to follow.

Washington, March 23.—The case of Thomas F. Hunter, sheriff for Buncombe county, North Carolina, vs. James H. Wood, agent of the Southern railway at Asheville, N. C., involving a conflict over the North Carolina railroad rate law, was decided today by the supreme court of the United States in favor of Wood. The decision was announced by Justice Peckham and its effect is to sustain the federal courts and thus holds invalid the law.

G. A. Tomlinson Says Outlook is for Quiet Season on Lakes.

G. A. Tomlinson, who returned today from the East, says that he sees no prospect for the general opening of lake navigation before the first of June. The outlook at the present time is very dull, according to Mr. Tomlinson.

No call has been issued for the meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association, Mr. Livingstone, one of its members, is ill at the present time in California. No meeting of the committee will be called before Mr. Livingstone is able to be present. It will probably be well into next month before the committee is called.

Mr. Tomlinson says there is little prospect for any activity for some time in any line of lake transportation. Both at the lower end of the lake, and here he sees little prospect for either an early opening or a brisk trade for some time. In all lines of lake industry the outlook, according to Mr. Tomlinson, seems to be one of general quietness.

Mr. Tomlinson said that he had not heard of the executive committee's rumored intention of refusing to treat with the affiliated body of lake laborers. He stated that it was too early just now to predict any trouble on the lakes.

STEEL TRUST RIVALS.

Edwin C. Eckel in the Engineer Magazine: The best steam and coking coals in the United States are those of the Appalachian coal field, which reaches from Pennsylvania to Alabama in a belt trending almost parallel to the Atlantic coast, and distant 150 to 350 miles from it. These Appalachian coals are, in general, far superior to those of other portions of the United States. For most of its extent this coal field is paralleled, on its Eastern or coastal side, by a series of extensive iron ore deposits. These iron ores, however, though enormous in quantity, are usually of relatively low grade, but they can be placed on the seaboard at a very low price per unit of iron. A plant located at the coastal end of a coal-carrying railroad could therefore depend on securing a cheap supply of high grade fuel, and a cheap supply of low grade domestic ore. But it would also be in a position to avail itself of still cheaper supplies of high grade foreign ores, imported from Canada, the West Indies, South America and Spain. The duty on such ores is remitted in case the products made from them are exported, but even without this provision the ores used by a seaboard plant would not cost more than lake ores at Pittsburg.

In view of these facts it is remarkable that only one plant—that of the Maryland Steel company, near Baltimore—is located so as to take advantage of this situation, though several Eastern Pennsylvania plants depend partly at least on foreign ores. The principal points which offer the combination of factors necessary for the success of a seaboard steel plant are Baltimore, Norfolk, Brunswick, Pensacola and Mobile. Of these, Norfolk has such direct advantages that it is improbable that it will long remain entirely undeveloped.

WHEAT HAS FIRM CLOSE

Flax is Weak and Closes at a Fractional Loss.

An improved demand helped the market during the latter part of the session. The visible supply of wheat decreased 1,102,000 bushels, and is now 39,047,000 bushels against 47,773,000 bushels a year ago.

The world's shipments were about as estimated. Cables were weak. Liverpool closed ½@¾d lower, Berlin ⅞c lower and Budapest ¼c higher.

The May option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, ⅜c higher in Chicago, ¾c higher in Minneapolis, ½c lower in New York and ⅛c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, ½c higher in Chicago, ¼-⅜c higher in Minneapolis, ⅛c lower in New York and ⅜c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅝-⅝c higher in Chicago and ⅝d lower in Liverpool. May oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a quiet trade in the speculative wheat market at the start and values were ⅜d to ½d lower. Offerings were larger and support lacking, stimulated by the weakness in American markets on Saturday and larger American receipts. Later, there was some support given to the market as a result of London firms buying and prices steadied slightly. At mid-day, however, further selling developed and values lost an additional ¼d to ⅜d from the opening and a lack of demand for both cargoes and parcels and the very fine spring weather in the United Kingdom. At mid-day, the market was easy and from ¾d to ⅞d lower than Saturday.

"Corn was quiet at the start, ¼d lower, followed later by a further decline of ¼d. Pressure resulted from the weaker American cables on Saturday and the fact that offerings of La Plata was 4½d lower. The market was dull at the decline."

World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago are shown as follows:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Fine Weather and Lower Cables Cause Weakness in Wheat.

Chicago, March 23.—The wheat market opened weak today because of lower cables and favorable growing weather for the Southwestern crop. May opened ¼@⅜c lower at 93⅜c to 93¾c, sold at 94¼c and then declined to 93½@⅝c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 611 cars against 702 cars last week and 641 cars one year ago.

Demand improved in the last half of the day, and May advanced to 94⅜c. The close was firm, with May ⅝c higher at 94⅝c.

The corn market was easy at the opening because of lower cables, good weather for the movement in the corn belt and local receipts, which were above the estimate. Prices rallied later on covering by shorts. May corn opened a shade to ⅜@½c lower at 65c to 65⅜c and sold at 65⅜c. Local receipts were 238 cars, with nine of contract grade.

Reports of small acceptances from farmers caused an advance in the latter part of the day. May going up to 66⅜c. The close was strong, with May ½c higher at 66c.

The oats market was dull and prices were steady. May oats opened ⅛c to ¼c lower at 53⅝c to 54c, and for a time held within that range. Local receipts were 302 cars.

The provisions market was steady because of a 5c advance in the price of live hogs. May pork was unchanged at $12.45. Lard was 2½c lower at $7.52½. Ribs were 5c lower at $6.80.

Close: Wheat—May, 94⅜c; July, 88⅞@89c; September, 86⅝c. Corn—May, 66c; July, 63½c; September, 62⅜@62⅝c. Oats—May old, 54½c; May, 52⅞c; July old, 48¼c; July, 46¼c; September, 35½c. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 23.—Lighter receipts than expected made the strong local feature in wheat, much of the outside news being bearish. Lower cables, world's shipments of 10,528,000 bus, the increase on passage to 6,100,000 bus, better winter wheat crop news and fine weather and preparation for spring wheat seeding caused selling, but the railroads brought only 444 cars into Minneapolis against 461 a year ago, and 31 in to Duluth against 113, the comparison for the two markets being 475 against 604. May fell to $1.03¾, but rallied to $1.04⅜, the May-July spread widening to 2¼c. Near the close the market was very strong. May opened at $1.04; high, $1.04⅞@1.05; low, $1.03¾; close, $1.04⅞.

July closed $1.02⅝@⅞; September closed 91⅝c.

Cash wheat was firm; No. 1 sold 2c over May and No. 2 at May price, with choice No. 2 going ¼@½c better.

Close: No. 1 northern, $1.06⅝; spot, $1.06⅜. To arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.04⅝; spot, $1.04⅜. To arrive; No. 3 wheat, 98⅝c@$1.01⅝; No. 3 yellow corn, 60¾@62¾c; No. 3 white oats, 50½c; No. 2 rye, 74¾c.

Nearly all the business was in low grade stuff in barley from 60@70c. Malsters looked over everything but did not but much. Closing range, 62@64c.

Flax was easy and sold from Duluth May price to ½c under with later bids ½c under. Close, $1.15¼.

Bran, steady, $21.50@22.00 in bulk.

Flour was unchanged. Millers reported good demand for the by-products, but not much new business in flour. Shipments, 69,846 barrels. First patents, $5.35@5.50; second patents, $5.25@5.40; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.30@3.40.

LA FOLLETTE MAY TESTIFY

New York, March 23.—A case, which is expected to develop many interesting and probably some sensational features, came up in the United States circuit court today when the trial of the suit of Emanuel L. Phillips, president of the Union Refrigerator company of Milwaukee against the McClure company, publishers, for alleged libel, was begun. Phillips asks $100,000 damages, which he says he sustained through the publication in McClure's magazine in November, December and January, 1905, and 1906, of a story, charging him with accepting rebates from certain railroads.

The objectionable matter was printed in a series of articles from the pen of Ray Stannard Baker, who had written several articles concerning corporation affairs in general and railways and rebating in particular, which had been given wide publication. The charge came in connection with a report of the state railway commission to Robert M. La Follette, then governor of Wisconsin.

Defendant's Answer Stands.

When the case was called today the plaintiff made an effort to have struck out a portion of the defendant's answer to the suit which claimed that the publication of the article upon which the charge is based was privileged because the data was taken by Mr. Baker from official reports. The motion was denied by the court and that portion of the answer was permitted to remain in the record.

It was said in the courtroom today that it is not unlikely that Senator La Follette may be called as a witness in the case. In that event it is expected that he will be questioned at length along lines which may bring out some of the obscure details of his fight against the railroads when he was governor of Wisconsin.

SEVERAL TOWNS

Reported Swept Away by Severe Storms in South.

New Orleans, March 23.—A severe wind and rain storm, accompanied by loss of life and much property damage, prevailed in portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama today. Several towns are reported to have been swept away by tornadoes. Telegraph and telephone communication has been interrupted in many instances, and details of the storm are lacking.

BAKER FAMILY FOUND.

Hermosillo, Mex., March 23.—The family of W. R. Baker, which, according to reports, had been carried away by the Yaqui Indians after the Indians had killed Baker, has been found and Baker's body has been recovered. It is thought that the family of eight children and their mother hid away until the marauding band had left their home.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Good Buying Orders Nullified Effect of Moderate Realizing.

New York, March 23. — Local stocks were not much influenced by the irregularity and heaviness of the London market and some of the important leaders made good advances. These ranges up to 1½ in American Sugar and Consolidated Gas and a point in American Locomotive, National Lead and Great Northern Ore Certificates. Atchison and Reading ruled ½ lower, but the list generally sold at an improvement, with a block of 5,500 shares of United States Steel changing hands at from 34¾ to 34⅝.

The movement of prices became very confused heavy sales of the standard railroad stocks occurring under cover of the sustained strength of the industrials. At times the diverse movements, 13½@14½c; ditto, winter-made, 12@13c; ditto, common to fair, 10@11½c; skims, 10@11c. Eggs firm; receipts 25,001. The Cotton Market.

New York, March 23.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4@5 points in sympathy with better cables than expected and during the early session increased the gain on covering in the absence of heavy offerings. After selling 9@12 points higher, however, the market weakened under a renewal of local bear pressure and liquidation with prices during the middle of the morning nearly steady and about 1@2 points net lower. Trading was not very active, either on the early bulge or on the subsequent decline, but the undertone of the market was unsettled.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower. Middling uplands, 10.45; middling gulf, 10.70. Sales, 5,000 bales. Futures closed very steady; closing bids: March, 9.50; April, 9.53; May, 9.63; June, 9.63; July, 9.65; August, 9.63; October, 9.51; December, 9.36.

Copper Gossip.

A dispatch to Gay & Sturgis from Butte, Mont., says: "Operations at the properties of the Amalgamated Copper, North Butte and Butte Coalition companies having returned to normal conditions. Development work is in progress, looking toward a bigger and greater Butte as a producer of copper. With the price of the metal remaining as it is or reaching 15 or 16 cents a pound, every mine in the district can be made to pay big dividends to its stockholders. Notably, the North Butte is making great strides toward an increased output, and it is today one of the richest mines in the world. The physical conditions of the property were never better, and its promise for the future is beyond all discount.

"On the lower levels there is an almost inexhaustible quantity of high grade ore in sight. On the 1,800-foot level alone there is sufficient ore to keep the property in the dividend paying class for at least five years, and within a few weeks the rich ore bodies on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels will be yielding heavy tonnage.

The North Butte shaft is now down 2,200 feet and a station is being cut at that level. At this point the Edith May vein, from which the company has been taking its richest ores on the 1,800-foot level for many months is close to the shaft, and as soon as the work of cutting the station and installing the pumps is completed, the vein will be producing any amount of ore that the company desires.

As a result of these developments, the American Sugar was bid up 4 points, American Locomotive 2⅜, National Lead 2¼, Canadian Pacific and American Beet Sugar 1½ and Great Northern preferred, Wheeling and Lake Erie first preferred, and Hocking Coal 1 to 1¼.

Meanwhile St. Paul, Reading, Union Pacific and Norfolk Western were hammered down a point and other representative railroads considerable fractions. Before 11 o'clock realizing began in strong industrials and the whole market became heavy.

The depression in the market was overcome when the bulls started a campaign in Canadian Pacific and the Hill stocks. All of the favorities were bought on a rising scale, but the demand for most of the railroad stocks waned when they had got up to about Saturday's closing. The buoyant rise in American Sugar was attributed to the favorable annual statement, which was also the first detailed report of the company's operations ever made public. Canadian Pacific jumped 3 points, Great Northern preferred 1⅝, the Ore Certificates 2⅛, Distillers' Securities 2 and Northern Pacific, Northwestern, Pullman American Ice, and United States Rubber first preferred and Western Union 1 to 1⅜. Bonds were irregular.

The strong demand for stocks again arose, and a number of stocks which had hung back in the forenoon were lifted into prominence, especially the Harriman group. The most substantial gains were registered in the specialties, but the general tempo of speculation was constant. Pacific Mail gained 3½; Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Iowa Central preferred and Chicago & Alton, 1 to 2.

Prices were well maintained during the latter part of the day, and some of the active features reached a higher level, although the demand was small. Manhattan advanced 2½, Union Pacific, 1⅝; People's Gas, 1¼, and St. Paul, 1.

The market closed strong and active at the highest. New buying orders appeared for selected stocks, which nullified the effect of some moderate realizing, and the entire list bounded up to the best prices of the day. The gas stocks were heavily bought, Brooklyn Union Gas soaring 10 points and Consolidated Gas 3⅝. Northern Pacific 2, Amalgamated Copper, the United States Steel stocks and others 1 or more.

GUILD VERY LOW.

Chances for Massachusetts Governor's Recovery Are Slight.

Boston, Mass., March 23.—It was admitted at noon today that Governor Guild's chances for recovery from the uraemic poisoning against which he has been contending for nearly three weeks, had decreased perceptibly during the past twenty-four hours. The continued decline in his vitality has been such that very little remains. "I do not want to predict," said Dr. Winslow, the attending physician, "but I think the governor will live through the day. There has been a change for the worse."
The doctor intimated, however, that he had not given up hope.

CURFEW FOR THE PARENTS

Mayor Haven Discusses Law Enforcement From the Pulpit.

Clarence B. Miller Decries the Modern International Marriages.

Mayor Haven threw a shock into his hearers at Holy Apostles' Episcopal church in West Duluth, when he told them that the city curfew ordinance fixes penalties for parents who allow their children to be on the street after 9 o'clock. He said that many people are not aware of the fact, but the law is more inclined to deal with the parents who allow violations of the curfew, than with the children who commit the violations.
The mayor told the congregation that the proper protection for children is that furnished by the parents. With the cooperation of the parents, he said, the city officers would do their part for the preservation of the young.
Clarence B. Miller also gave an interesting address on "The Management of the Boy." He called attention to the fact that boys were often treated like young animals in the home. They are usually given the room in the attic, he said, while the daughter has the finest room in the house. Little consideration is shown for a boy's feelings, he claimed, and parents act upon the theory that a boy can bear any hardship. Mr. Miller urged the parents to make a study of the boys and learn to direct their energies along the proper channels.
During the course of his remarks Mr. Miller also described the marriages of American heiresses to foreign noblemen, claiming that many of the young women are selling themselves for foreign titles.
He claimed that the desire for fine clothes was one of the chief causes of the downfall of young girls, and urged the parents to guard against this temptation.

DYNAMITERS' FEAST.

Annual Banquet of West Duluth Club Is Notable Affair.

Things seemed to be going on just about as usual, this morning in West Duluth. All the buildings looked unshaken and there was no unusual excitement on the streets. Since the Dynamiters held their banquet Saturday night, one day's rest appears to have put affairs again on a secure basis.
The Dynamite club's banquet was the biggest and best of its kind that has taken place in years.
From the outside only a faint ray of light from beneath the drawn shades of the Commercial club's windows, gave evidence of the shining lights gathered about the banquet tables on the inside. Even at the door only a faint rumble told of the oratorical artillery booming on the other side.
When the bomb throwers had done full justice to their sumptuous repast, L. A. Barnes arose and in splendid bursts of eloquence told of the club's glorious records since it was founded ten years ago. He also prophesied great things for its future.
"Words are by far too inadequate to even approach being able to describe the Dynamite's vast possibilities for the future," he said.
Many and powerful were the speeches that followed. Each member drew vivid pictures of what the club had done and what it could do. Among the speakers were Emil Zauft, George M. Cruickshank, G. W. Boutin, M. J. Fillatrault, who also sang several appropriate selections, and Aldermen Getchell and Foubister.
At the business meeting which followed Chief Bomb Thrower Charles Silger, presided. He was unanimously reelected to this office, this making his eleventh year in office. J. Allyn Scott was also re-elected to the office of secretary and the following officers were also chosen: Vice president, K. A. McDonald; chef, Charles Ritz; C. C. D., Henry Hewitt; O. S. O., Lou R. Clark; on the good and welfare committee, Emil Zauft, M. Fillatrault and Wallace Lovelace.
Many plans for outings were also discussed and the club's bungalow up at Fond du Lac promises to be the scene of several good times this summer.

CARBOLITE PLANT CLOSED.

Directors Hold Meeting and Decide to Shut Down.

At the meeting of the directors and stockholders of the American Carbolite company held Saturday, it was decided to close down the plant temporarily.
The plant was closed down Saturday night, and the employes to the number of about 125 were paid off.
No reason is given by the directors for their action, but it is understood that the plant will remain closed pending some changes to be made in it.

COWS AT LARGE.

Cattle Allowed to Roam Streets of West Duluth.

Many complaints have come to the West Duluth police force of the way in which people allow their cattle to roam the streets and if in the future owners do not keep their cows where they belong several warrants for arrests will be sworn out.
Sunday two cows and four calves wandered aimlessly about West Duluth, taking crosscuts across yards, breaking down fences and raising havoc in general. The owners of the yards and fences are naturally very indignant.

FROM CHURCH TO GUTTER.

Peter Erickson Fell by the Wayside Sunday Night.

From the church to the gutter describes in brief the sad, short career of Peter Ericson Sunday night.
Peter Ericson and his family went to church last evening. He meant to be good, but after the service, while he was preparing to board a street car with his wife and children for home, some friends waylaid him with a bottle, and his family went on home without him.
At 11:30 o'clock an officer found him lying in the gutter, covered with mud. Ericson says he does not remember much of what happened after he joined his friends and tempters, but he recalls that they all sat down on the edge of the sidewalk and proceeded to get rid of the contents of the bottle. He also states he had a watch, a chain and fob and $11 in money when he left home before church, but last night no trace of them could be found on his person at the police station.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Mayoralty Contest Closes.

Tomorrow a primary election will be held in Superior for the nomination of candidates for mayor and the aldermanic positions in the various wards. The campaign before the primaries has been a short but a hot one and the candidates on the Republican ticket for the mayor's job expect to make a strong finish this evening. Mayor Linley, who is opposing Alderman Frank Crumpton for the nomination at the head of the Republican ticket, has conducted one of the warmest campaigns from the platform and pulpit that the city has seen in many years. Mayor Linley stands on the lid issue. He claims that the brewing companies and the gambling houses are special interests, that they are sustained by the labor of the city and are for themselves and nobody else. He claims that he has clamped a lid on the Superior saloons and gambling houses, put the redlight district out of commission, stopped the practice of minors going into saloons and has accomplished other reforms for good citizenship. Mr. Linley's supporters claim that if he is not re-elected affairs will go back into the old rut and conditions will be as bad as they are reputed to have been before Mayor Linley took the chair.

Oshkosh School Names President.

Earl V. Sperbeck of Oshkosh was elected president of the Inter-Normal Oratorical League of Wisconsin. The vice president will be named by the Stevens Point normal school and the treasurer by the River Falls Normal. The next contest will be held at River Falls. Miss Jennie Horgan of Elroy, Wis., who won the inter-normal contest will go to McComb in May to participate in the interstate oratorial contest.

Boy May Lose Feet.

Steven Moore, aged 17 years, who claims that his home is in New Castle, Pa., is in a local hospital in a critical condition. Both feet are frozen and it is possible that they will have to be amputated. Moore and a companion, named Oliver Johnson, were found in a car checker's shanty in the Great Northern yards Saturday morning. They claimed that they had been tramping on the railway tracks for many days in search of work. Moore's feet were frostbitten during the cold weather, but he was without funds and did not go to a physician. They found the shanty unoccupied and concluded to stay there until somebody came to the rescue. The young men were found by a railway watchman who was making a round of the yards.

Company Blocks Auction Sale.

Several days ago the city of Superior seized a quantity of ties and rails belonging to the Wisconsin Central Railway company to enforce the collection of the company's taxes. Arrangements had been made to sell the property at public auction Saturday, but the company secured an order of injunction restraining the city from selling its property. The city has served an order from the circuit court directing the company to appear today and show cause why the order of injunction should not be dissolved. The city holds that an injunction to the sale of property for the collection of a tax will not hold good and that the only thing the property owners can do to prevent the sale is to pay the tax under protest and bring an action to recover the money.

Court Dismisses Orstad Case.

The case aginst Benjamin Orstad, charged with selling liquor to a minor was dismissed in the municipal court Saturday after testimony had been given by several witnesses corroborating the defendant's statement that he did not sell liquor to Freeman Butler, a 19-year-old boy. Butler was picked up by the police in a drunken condition about a week ago. He asserted that Orstad had sold him the liquor. The police think Butler is trying to shield some one else by accusing Orstad.

MUCH WORK IS IN SIGHT

Six Roads Planning Extensions for Northern Minnesota.

Within the next year or two, probably International Falls will be a terminus for four railroads. Besides the two already constructed to the town, the Great Northern is planning an extension from Dewey Lake, Minn., to International Falls, and the Minneapolis & Rainy River, at present a logging road, is planning on extending to the Rainy river town. The latter will, it is expected, be a permanent line, which will be constructed under the supervision of some large railroad company, which will use it for regular freight and passenger business when completed through to the border.
In spite of the fact that conditions in the money market are not all that could be desired, there will be considerable railroad building in Northern Minnesota this year. The Duluth & Northern Minnesota, a logging road, which the public hears little of, will be extended from Shaff Lake to Gun Flint lake, a distance of eighty miles. It will connect at Gun Flint lake with the Canadian Northern, thus giving almost a direct line from Port Arthur and Fort William to Duluth.
The Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg doubtless will begin construction work this summer on the extension of its line from Virginia to Duluth, a distance of sixty-two miles. The survey has been completed, and it is believed the clearing of the right-of-way and grading will begin as soon as weather conditions are favorable.
Besides the International Falls extension, the Great Northern is planning on a line from Greenbush, Minn., to Warroad, a Minnesota town located on the Rainy river. The distance is forty-four miles, and part of the line has already been graded. The distance from Dewey Lake to International Falls is seventy-eight miles. The extension is partially graded now. A short line, twelve miles in length, will be built by the same company between Emmert and Sax, Minn.
The Minneapolis & Rainy River is already working on a thirteen-mile extension from Big Fork, Minn., to the second crossing of the Big Fork river. The distance to International Falls is eighty miles.
The Soo road will work on its 137-mile extension from the Mississippi river, and the Northern Pacific is figuring on building from Detroit, Minn., to Bemidji, Minn., a distance of seventy-one miles. The Wisconsin Central already is working on its property in Duluth, and the United States Steel corporation is ready to begin the construction of its belt line from a point above Proctor to the St. Louis river, thence across to and around Superior.

ALTON MEN HERE.

R. J. McKay, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Expects Big Business

R. J. McKay of Chicago, assistant general passenger agent of the Chicago & Alton, and Oscar L. Hill of Minneapolis, Northwestern passenger agent for the same line, are in the city today.
"Before I say anything about the railroad business I want to impress upon you the fact that I am more than pleased with what I have seen of Duluth—this morning," said Mr. McKay. "You certainly have a live town here, and every visit shows some big improvement. As far as prosperity goes, Duluth can stand up with the best of the big ones.
"The outlook for the railroads this year is a fairly bright one. The Alton has made many improvements, especially in the passenger train service, and we look for a good business during 1908. Both freight and passenger business is picking up right along now."

BRIDGE FINISHED.

Wakpalla, S. D., March 23.—The Milwaukee railway bridge across the Missouri river between this place and Pontis is completed, and the first train to cross was the east-bound passenger from Minneapolis to Miles City. The estimated cost of the structure was $1,500,000. It has taken just two years to build it. There are three main piers varying in depth from 92 to 47 feet below the bed of the river. The three main spans are 425 feet long, and the trestle span 350 feet. The length of the trestle approach on the west side of the river is 1,300 feet.
Between 300 and 400 men have been employed since the work commenced, working night and day. Two lives were lost by accident.

TILLMAN

Washington, March 23.—A dispatch was received here today from Senator Tillman indicating grave doubt whether he will be able to return to Washington again during the present session of congress. The telegram which was signed by himself said:
"Slowly improving, but impossible to even guess when I can return to Washington."

KELLIHER FEELS LID.

Bemidji, Minn., March 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kelliher is wearing the new style of a "lid." Henry Pfund, the newly elected president of the village council, has ordered the saloonkeepers of Kelliher to close their places of business at 11 o'clock in the evening and keep them closed until the legal hour for opening in the morning and keep their places of business closed on Sunday.

RECIPROCAL DEMURRAGE

Law of Minnesota to be Contested by Great Northern.

Railroad Holds That the Federal Act Supersedes It.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. R. Begg, general solicitor of the Great Northern railway, in a letter to Attorney General Young attacks today the reciprocal demurrage law, passed by the last Minnesota legislature, and state officials infer from his letter that the railroad company will contest the law on constitutional grounds.

The reciprocal demurrage law provides for the imposition of a penalty upon the railroads for their failure to furnish cars within certain prescribed periods, as well as upon the shipper for their failure to load or unload cars within the time prescribed.

In his letter, Mr. Begg says that article 1, Section 8 of the Federal Constitution gives to congress the power to regulate interstate commerce, and that by Section 1 of the interstate commerce act, as amended by the Hepburn act, the federal government has taken jurisdiction over interstate transportation. Congress has prescribed the duty of the interstate carriers with reference to the furnishing of cars for interstate shipments. Congress, he says having fixed the duty of carriers with reference to furnishing cars for interstate shipments the state cannot interfere with that duty either by making it more definite and certain or by imposing penalties.

The Minnesota law, he says, by its terms applies to all transportation, interstate and intrastate and is void as to interstate shipments.

He argues further that if the state supreme court should construe the law as applicable only to intrastate shipments then it directly burdens interstate commerce, because of the penalties imposed.

BOOT BLACK HAD MANY FRACTURES

Was in Hospital Twenty-Four Times in Twenty Years.

New York, March 24.—After receiving treatment twenty-four times in twenty years at the Long Island college hospital, Brooklyn, for sixty-eight fractures of various bones, John Furey, of 178 Atlantic avenue, bootblack, and a well known figure in the neighborhood, died in that institution of internal injuries received in falling down stairs several days ago.

For many years Furey kept a stand at Court street and Atlantic avenue, attracting many customers through his philosophical turn of mind and general sympathy for his infirmities. He was afflicted with extreme brittleness of the bones.

Every Fall Fatal.

What were trifling mishaps to another were serious accidents for Furey. Scarcely a year passed without finding him under treatment for a broken bone in some part of his body. It became a regular thing for passersby to find him helpless on the sidewalk with a fractured leg or arm, summon the ambulance and report to their neighbors that John was "in" again.

After three or four months the cheerful little man would resume work, proud of the congratulations he received. But he would never shake hands. To do so would have been to endanger the bones of his fingers.

Three months ago Furey decided that it would be more convenient and satisfactory if he could be nearer the hospital. Accordingly he moved his stand to Henry and Atlantic avenue, one block away. After this it was not necessary to call the ambulance; he could be easily carried.

Injured Internally.

Furey's most severe accident, previous to the last, was last summer, when he sustained two fractures of his right arm and two of his right leg at the same time. He scarcely had recovered when, on St. Patrick's day, he fell down a flight of stairs.

If only bones had suffered it would have been well with him, but something also went wrong inside and the bootblack failed to rally. An examination showed he had sustained sixty-eight fractures in twenty years.

THE PRICE OF MEAT GOES UP IN NEW YORK.

New York, March 24.—The price of meat was advanced yesterday by the wholesalers. Before the butchers are through fixing the new price list, this week, meat will be 1 to 2 cents a pound higher than it was a week ago. The manager of one of the largest packing concerns in the West said yesterday:

"The scare in the beef market is not half so serious as it seems. It is true that the market price for dressed beef has advanced, but this advance has not comparatively equalled the price of live cattle, which has increased during the last month nearly $1 per 100 pounds."

IOWA BOY IS KILLED BY FEROCIOUS HOG.

Lake City, Minn., March 24.—Rushing with an attack which took the young man unawares, a ferocious Poland China boar killed John Ripley on the farm of his elder brother, O. E. Ripley, southwest of Lake City. The big boar knocked him off his feet and slashed him again and again with his tusks, inflicting wounds from which he bled to death before aid could reach him.

THE "RIGHTEOUS ARMY" OF KOREA TO UNDERTAKE EXTERMINATION OF JAPS

Political Adviser to Korea, Who Was Shot by Angry Koreans at San Francisco, Monday.

Begin by Shooting Political Adviser Who Favored Enemy.

Manifesto Reached San Francisco by Steamer on Saturday.

Physicians Believe That Adviser Stevens Will Recover.

San Francisco, March 24.—The Call today says: The attempt to assassinate Durham W. Stevens, the political adviser of the Korean council of state, it is now said, was the result of a carefully-hatched conspiracy, inspired immediately by a manifesto of the Korean "righteous army," calling upon all loyal Koreans to consecrate themselves to a holy war and exterminate all Japanese.

This manifesto reached here on the same ship which brought Stevens. The proclamation is signed by Gen. E. Yie Lin Yung, general of the Korean "righteous army," and is in part as follows:

"Manifesto.

"To all Koreans in all parts of the world: Loyalty to his nation and fealty to his parents is the primal law of man's nature. The right to live and

NIGHT RIDERS SHOOT NEGRO

Because He Failed to Run When Told to Do So.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 24.—Thirty night riders invaded Golden Pond Trigg county last midnight, dragged Thomas Weaver, a negro in the employ of the tobacco association, from his bed, and carrying him to the road, commanded him to run. When he failed to obey, the night riders began firing at him. Two bullets penetrated his body, and he was found today in a dying condition. No cause for the crime is known.

SPEECH BY VON BUELOW

Sorry That He Cannot Make Tweedmouth Letter Public.

Berlin, March 24.—Speaking in the reichstag today, Chancellor Von Buelow declared that he would personally welcome the members of the interparliamentary union when they assemble in Berlin next October for their 19oth meeting. He said he hoped the members would obtain an equally good impressioon of Berlin as they had of other capitals where they have met in the past.

Referring to the Moroccan situation the chancellor declared that the Algeciras act was equally binding upon all the signatories. France had no occasion up to the present time of reproaching Germany with a narrow interpretation of this agreement, and it was not the intention of Germany to change her views, but in return for this Germany expected France to carry out and observe the terms of the act in a peaceful and friendly manner.

Macedonian Situation.

Referring to the Macedonian situation, Prince Von Buelow said the efforts of the great powers concerned to extinguish the conflagration had been rendered futile because fresh fuel was continually being thrown on the fire from outside. The foundation of the trouble did not lie in strife between Christendom and Mohammedanism, but in the bitter struggle be-

FLEET WILL VISIT CHINA

But Will Accept No Invitations From Other Countries.

Washington, March 24.—It was decided at the cabinet meeting today to accept the invitation of China to have the Atlantic battleship fleet visit a port of that country, on its return voyage from the Pacific coast. It also was decided that no further invitations for the fleet would be accepted. The itinerary around the world will be arranged in accordance with this decision. Invitations of foreign countries so far accepted after the fleet leaves San Francisco, include Australia, Japan and, China. All other stops will be strictly for coaling purposes.

LETTER FOR LINCOLN

New York, March 24.—Whether some citizen of a land across the sea has just learned of the great American emancipator, Abraham Lincoln, or whether Fifth avenue shelters a wearer of that name, who has assumed sufficient distinction in the eyes of one abroad to be addressed with deference, is a problem the clerks of the New York postoffice are endeavoring to solve. While sorting the foreign mail, which had arrived by Saturday's steamers, one of the clerks picked up a letter which bore this inscription:

"Your Excellency:

"Sir Abraham Lincoln,

"Fifth Avenue, New York City, U. S. A."

The letter now is held at the inquiry department in the general postoffice, awaiting an applicant who can prove that it should be delivered to him. If no claimant appears, the missive will be forwarded to the dead letter office in Washington, there opened and the mystery solved. This is the first time since Lincoln's death that a letter bearing his name has been received at the local postoffice.

ELDER SHAFFER IS ACQUITTED OF SERIOUS CHARGES

Philadelphia, March 24.—The Rev. Dr. William H. Shaffer, until a few months ago presiding elder of the west district in the Philadelphia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was today acquitted by the conference of a charge of conduct unbecoming a minister. The charge was based on an anonymous letter alleged to have been written by a woman in his district. The woman involved in the case denied authorship of the letter and the paper was ruled out. With this ruling the case fell, and the committee submitted a unanimous verdict of acquittal.

LACK OF AN OPERATOR

Twenty Persons Are Injured, Three of Them Fatally.

Lexington, Ky., March 24.—Twenty persons were injured, three fatally, in a head-on collision between a passenger train on the Queen & Crescent and special freight train, No. 616, at Curdville Crossing, early today. The night operator for the Queen & Crescent had been relieved several weeks ago, and the day operator had not yet reported for duty. When the passenger train reached the depot at Burgin there was no order and the train rushed on. At Curdville Crossing the freight train was also proceeding at good speed and crashed into it. The injured were brought to Lexington on a special train.

No Doubt That They Will Have Majority of Delegates.

The Friends of Johnson Started Too Late in the Race.

Resolutions May Praise Johnson While They Indorse Bryan.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Democratic convention will be held in Grand Forks on Wednesday, and judging from the number of delegates that have already arrived in the city, it will be the most largely attended convention of the faithful that has ever been held in the state. Representatives from every county in the state are expected, something that has not occurred at a Democratic convention in this state in many years. Eight delegates and alternates to the national convention will be elected, and four presidential electors will be named.

The national delegation will be instructed for William J. Bryan as the presidential candidate, although

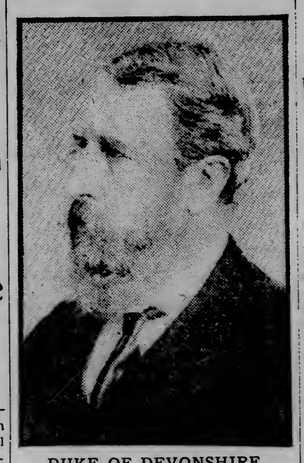
New York, March 24.—Declared dead by a physician after having received a 1,600 volt shock from a feed wire in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company's power house last night, Stephen Curtis, 15 years old, was restored by artificial inducement of respiration. After two hours work young Curtis was sufficiently recovered to allow of his removal to a hospital. It is feared he will lose his eyesight.



DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE,
Well Known British Politician and Social Leader, Who Died on Tuesday.

DEVONSHIRE IS NO MORE

Was Prominent Politically and Socially in the Kingdom.

Cannes, March 24.—Spencer Compton Cavendish, eighth duke of Devonshire, died here today of heart failure. He was born July 23, 1833.

London, March 24.—The news of the death of the duke of Devonshire, at Cannes, came unexpectedly to England, and has caused widespread regret. Although the duke had been ailing since he suffered a sudden attack of heart weakness at Windsor Castle, last June, and in spite of some alarming reports that reached London during his sojourn in Egypt, this winter, the recent accounts of his health had been so reassuring that the news of his death has come almost as a surprise. It was known that his physicians had ordered him to be most careful, but even this had not prepared his friends for the announcement of this morning. Yesterday, however, the family of the duke were advised of a relapse, and Victor C. W. Cavendish, his nephew, and Lord Charles Montague went to Cannes and were present when the end came.

Leaves Gap in Public Life.

The death of the duke leaves a gap in the public life of Great Britain, for although his withdrawal from the Balfour ministry, when Joseph Chamberlain launched his fiscal policy, estranged him from a majority of the party, he still had a large following in the country, and as president of the Unionist Free Trade league, he took an active part in the campaign against tariff reform. He delivered his last speech on this question just one year ago, on the occasion of the jubilee of his entrance upon a political career.

CLUBS TO BAIT AMBITIOUS MEN

Memberships, Offered for Sale for $50, Cost Purchasers $200.

Chicago, March 24.—When the financial panic put crimps in the bank accounts of many members of exclusive clubs, advertisements began to appear in newspapers offering memberships for sale at sums ranging from $50 to $100.

"Fine," chuckled many outsiders who have modest rolls and social ambitions. "We can become real clubmen for $50. That's nothing."

The separation from the $50 took place. Then the surprises began.

"There is $30 back dues, $150 house account, and $25 for incidentals due on this account," one of the "new members" was politely informed at the new Illinois Athletic club.

"What! $267" shrieked the "member." "But I don't owe it. I paid for the membership, not the debts."

"Oh, but the membership certificate is not good unless the bills against it are paid up," replied the officer. "That is customary in your other clubs, isn't it?"

The words "your other clubs" usually worked like a charm. The bills were paid. But before the "new member" was allowed to grace the corridors of the clubhouse there was another surprise.

"You will have to be voted upon," the purchaser of the certificate was told. "The membership is not good unless you are regularly elected."

Several men who purchased memberships and found themselves blackballed by the clubs are frantic. They have spent the money and still are not "clubmen."

DEMOCRATS OF INDIANA

Gathering at Indianapolis for State Convention Wednesday.

Will Last Two Days and Promises to be Exciting.

Indianapolis, March 24.—Indiana Democrats are beginning to gather in Indianapolis today for the state convention which will hold its first session tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Primaries for the election of delegates to the convention are being held in Indianapolis today. The various candidates for places on the state ticket are opening their headquarters in the Grand hotel. The convention will be in session for two days and is expected to be the largest held by Democrats in recent years.

The contest for the gubernatorial nomination is eager. There are seven candidates, all of whom opened headquarters today. As a majority of the delegates will come to the convention uninstructed the opportunities for ante convention work by candidates are increased.

The session tomorrow morning will be brief. An adjournment will be taken in order to allow the delegates to meet by districts and select members of the various committees and twenty-six district delegates to the national convention. The other four delegates will be selected at large by the convention Thursday. It is expected delegates will be instructed for W. J. Bryan.

At an evening session tomorrow, committee reports will be received with the exception of the committee on resolutions and Robert W. Miers of Bloomington, former congressman from the second district, will preside over his address as temporary chairman.

Thursday the Day.

Thursday morning the resolutions committee will report, delegates at large to the national convention will be selected and nominations for places on the state ticket will be made.

The platform, it is expected, will contain a strong indorsement of Mr. Bryan. John W. Kern yesterday received a letter from Mr. Bryan, asking him to use his efforts to secure in the platform several planks which he enclosed. Mr. Kern has been mentioned as a vice presidential candidate.

The national delegates will hold a meeting at Denver and select a successor on the national committee to National Chairman Thomas Taggart, Mr. Taggart is a candidate for re-election. W. B. Westlake, editor of the Marion Leader and other newspapers, is also a candidate for national committeeman.

SLEEPING MAN ESCAPES FIRE

Cloquet Restaurant Keeper Has Close Call From Being Cremated.

Cloquet, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The building occupied by Louis McCullough's saloon, the barber shop of Frank Canfield, and a restaurant conducted by Sam English, on the island, was completely destroyed by fire this morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock. The building burned rapidly, aided by a strong wind, which luckily blew off the island, so that at no time was the block of saloons on the same street in any great danger. Mr. English was sleeping in the building when the fire started, and escaped in his night clothes, badly burned on the head and arms.

The blaze is supposed to have started from a faulty chimney. The fire department did commendable work, but their efforts were fruitless against such odds. The loss of the building and its contents is estimated at about $8,000.

SLOT MACHINES

New York, March 24.—Nickel in the slot methods of collecting fares are indicated as a possibility for practically the whole Manhattan surface street car system, in statements by General Manager Root of the Metropolitan Street Railway company. Mr. Root said, yesterday, that nickel in the slot machines for receiving fares would within a short time be installed on the pay as you enter cars of the Madison and Fourth avenue line, leaving the conductors entirely free for the important task of starting and stopping the cars, which, in the opinion of the manager, will mean the elimination of many accidents.

MONOPOLY

Chicago, March 24.—After a protracted session, lasting until past midnight, the city council adopted an ordinance to legalize a consolidation of the Commonwealth Electric and the Chicago Edison companies, which have a practical monopoly of electric lighting in Chicago. The measure, which has been pending for two years, extends to the Edison and all subsidiary companies the franchise of the Commonwealth, which has thirty-eight years of life. The Commonwealth, a few years ago, was a small suburban company. The new ordinance provides that the city receive a compensation of 3 per cent on gross receipts.

NOT OPPOSED BY BREWERS

Attorney Says They Did Not Fight Foubister Resolution.

Long List of Saloons is Affected by the Motion.

"The inference that the brewing companies were opposed to the resolution of Alderman Foubister is not based on the facts," said P. C. Schmidt, the attorney for the Fitger Brewing company, today.

"During the term of Mayor Hugo the policy of having the saloons take out their licenses in the name of the brewers was favored. Ex-Mayor Hugo frequently expressed himself as favoring the plan, claiming that it was easier to reach the saloons then than it would be if they were under the control of some irresponsible person. I personally know of many incidents where this was true. I remember one case in particular where a saloon license was held by one of the brewing companies. The police complained of the disorderly manner in which it was being run, and the agent of the brewery went down and tore the license off the wall. It was later transferred to another place.

"But the brewing companies don't want the responsibility of having the license in their name or in the name of their agents, and would prefer to have them issued direct to the proprietors. They did not oppose Alderman Foubister's resolution last evening, and if the aldermen want to adopt the new policy the brewing companies will have no complaint to make."

The list of saloon men affected by the council's resolution last evening is a long one. Probably half of the saloonkeepers in the city have at some time or other been convicted of some violation of the law, even those claimed to be running the most orderly places coming within the list. Just what effect it will have on these men is doubtful. Under the council resolution the proprietors themselves must take out the license, and it is against the law to grant a license to a man who has been convicted of violations of the liquor law. These men will therefore probably be compelled to take some person into partnership with them or go out of business.

MOVEMENT NEARS END

Pulpwood Shipments Gotten Out in Record-Breaking Time.

First Spring Order for Section Men is Received.

By the end of the present month the shipments of pulpwood out of Northern Minnesota will be practically at an end. The movement for the season will break all previous records. After next Tuesday, March 31, there may be a few scattering carloads arriving, but only a few.

The total shipments out of the Duluth district for the season will be about 7,000 cars. Last season the total ran a little below 5,000 cars, and that was considered a pretty good showing. The entire movement this winter has occurred in a remarkably short time. It was not on in earnest until January, and the fact that it will be over with by the end of March brings all the shipments within a period of three months.

Probably last month saw the heaviest pulpwood movement through Duluth of any similar period in the history of the city. In the neighborhood of 2,500 cars of the product were sent on their way to the mills. The March movement will not be quite so heavy, but it is expected it will pass the 2,000 mark. Last year the end of the pulpwood shipping season did not come until well along in May, owing principally to the fact that there was a car shortage, and it was difficult to get the railroads to handle shipments promptly.

RAILROAD WORK.

The first order of spring for men to work in a railroad section gang was received in Duluth yesterday, and was filled before paint on the sign advertising the fact became dry. This is taken by the employment agents as an indication that the season's activity in railroad circles is about to begin, and that orders for railroad labor will be frequent from now on.

Beginning about this time of the year, section gangs are increased to full size for the spring and summer work. During the winter season, when not much work can be done along the tracks, the crews of section men are reduced to a quarter or even an eighth of their summer size. Bringing them up to normal again will give employment to hundreds of men in the Duluth district.

Extra gang work will start in a week or two now, opening up a field for several hundred additional laborers, and this will be followed almost immediately by new railroad construction work. At the rate men are flocking in from the logging camps, however, the demand for labor will hardly equal the supply, and the consequence will be a lower scale of wages than prevailed last year, when it was almost impossible for the contractors to get all the men needed.

J. P. Gordon Moves.

J. P. Gordon, general agent of the freight department of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road, is moving from the city ticket office of the road to Room 306 in the Palladio building. The change of offices is made necessary by the fact that both Mr. Gordon and the passenger department need more room. The office vacated by Mr. Gordon will be used as additional space for the passenger men. Partitions will be taken out and the counter extended.

For a Real Yachting Trophy.

There is much earnest talk among prominent yacht owners of providing a new trophy to represent the supremacy of American yachting and holding it up to invite the challenge of the yachting world, but on more liberal terms and conditions than the arrangement now existing. The medicine that represents supremacy in the American home today is the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Through its ability to effect cures it has progressed so rapidly that now no one ever questions or doubts its intrinsic value. It will restore the appetite, aid digestion, keep the bowels open and thus curing and preventing sick headache, bloating, heartburn, vomiting, dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, colds, grippe, spring fever, general debility or malaria. Try a bottle today and see for yourself what a wonderful medicine it is.

Given Up to Die.

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Why not let it help you? Sold by all druggists.

LITTLE DOING IN POLITICS

Politics does not seem to be occupying much attention in Duluth just now. Aside from Johnson presidential talk, very little of a political nature is heard locally. There have been no new developments during the last week or so to bring about general discussion, and the average man seems too busy to indulge in political gossip when there is nothing in particular to gossip about.

Interest in the gubernatorial contest apparently has died away for the time being, and there isn't much doing with the national delegate game, and little is heard regarding possible convention honors for this or that prominent Republican. In the matter of the delegates-at-large the situation is about the same. The sure things are E. B. Hawkins for the Eighth district, and Frank Kellogg from the Fourth.

Frank J. Putnam is in the field for delegate-at-large from Southern Minnesota, in opposition to L. P. Hunt of Mankato and James Parsons of Winona. His friends are actively working in Mr. Putnam's behalf. Letters have been sent out setting forth many reasons why his friends think Mr. Putnam, who is a resident of Blue Earth, should be honored with an election to the position, and some of them even have found their way as far north as Duluth.

Gubernatorial candidates are not saying much these days. They seem to be playing a waiting game. A. O. Eberhart of Mankato, mentioned a while ago as a gubernatorial possibility, was in the city the other day, but had nothing to say on the situation. He is said to have given up all thought of the nomination, unless, in case of a deadlock in the nominating convention, he should be selected as a compromise candidate. Like Barkis, he would be willing.

George Simpson, candidate for attorney general, and Charles Elmquist, who aspires to a place on the railroad and warehouse commission, are using up a lot of postage stamps and paper in getting their names before the voters, and are succeeding well. The live press agent of Joel P. Heatwole, who would like to be governor, also has been doing a good deal of work along that line.

SMALL TAXPAYERS WILL BE THE MOST AFFECTED

Sworn Statements of Personal Property Are Compulsory.

No Exemptions Given If This Rule is Not Observed.

Every personal property owner in St. Louis county and within the state of Minnesota must furnish the assessor with a sworn statement showing a full list of his personal property items, or the county auditor cannot grant the $100 exemption provided by law.

This is a ruling of the state tax commission, based on the opinion of Attorney General E. T. Young of this state and the attention of the county auditors throughout Minnesota is being called to the matter before the assessors begin their work May 1 next.

This ruling will, it is claimed, affect the small personal property owners more than it will the "big fellows," for the reason that the taxpayer who has a comparatively small valuation in personal property will have to swear to the list before he can get the $100 exemption in valuation, which will mean about $3 difference in his taxes.

While the same law applies to the big taxpayer, it is not so probable that he will let the matter of $3 in his taxes compel him to disclose items of personal property on which the tax would amount to many times the exemption. As a rule the large taxpayers do not care to furnish a sworn statement of their personal property.

County Auditor Halden is interested in giving the matter as wide publicity as possible before the assessor begins his work, for the tax commission insists that the county auditors live up to the law strictly, and this means that no exemptions will be granted under any circumstances, if the taxpayers refuse or neglect to provide the assessor with the requisite sworn statement.

Another important ruling of the tax commission is that all credits must be listed with the assessor before the latter can make any offsets for indebtedness.

The commission holds that the county auditors cannot issue certificates to assessors whose books do not show that they have complied with the law in all its requirements. This means that the assessors must have their books complete in every detail before they will receive any compensation for their work.

Following is the circular letter which the state tax commission has sent to all the county auditors relative to the personal property taxes:

"Your attention is called especially to section 795, subdivision 13 and section 836 of the revised laws of 1905, and to chapter 87 of the general laws of 1907. The first relates to the granting of the $100 exemption, which under an opinion of the attorney general cannot be given by the county auditor if the person assessed has not made a verified list of all his personal property according to law. The second refers to the listing of credits, which the assessors cannot offset by indebtedness, unless the person assessed make a verified list of debts, and the third to the power of auditors to refuse to issue certificates to assessors whose books do not comply with the law. The enforcement of these provisions of law by your office will be appreciated by the commission, and in their judgment will aid materially in securing a more careful assessment."

TORTURED BY INDIANS

Detroit Paper Has an Interesting Story of G. A. Tomlinson.

Tells History of His Rise From Messenger Boy.

Saturday morning at the Great Lakes Engineering works yard at Ecorse the new steel freighter, Harry A. Berwind, the fifteenth ship over which G. Ashley Tomlinson of Duluth has supreme command, was launched. Two more vessels will be launched soon.

The launching of this fifteenth ship recalls one of the most romantic and picturesque stories of the Great Lakes—the story of how G. Ashley Tomlinson rose from messenger boy to one of the most powerful vikings of the inland seas, says the Detroit Free Press.

In a novel Tomlinson would make an ideal soldier of fortune; in plain, matter-of-fact life he represents those elements which make the great men of the lakes. He is 40 years old. He has seventeen ships, with another ordered.

Yet Tomlinson began, as did many other Great Lake men of today, with just two assets—the clothes on his back and a huge ambition. He started his career as a messenger boy in the state treasurer's office at Lansing. But the messenger boy life palled on him. He was not that susceptible age, and of that roving disposition which demanded action. Like many another boy he longed for adventure. So he went West to become a cowboy. He succeeded, much to his regret; for soon after he had mastered the broncho and could handle a lasso it happened that a horde of Indians, who were also longing for adventure, went on the warpath. This was why and how Tomlinson and the White river Utes became acquainted. The worst of it happened one day when Tomlinson and his comrade cowboys were cut off by a strong war party. Tomlinson was indiscreet in two ways.

Tortured by the Redskins.

First, he got in front of a bullet. Secondly, the bullet knocked him down, stunned him, incapacitated him for retreat, and he was captured.

Tomlinson's fondest dreams as messenger boy had now bloomed into undeniable reality. He had often read of the tortures inflicted by redskins, and had been right with them in imagination. Now he took a real part. Sharp things were stuck into him. In other ways he was tortured all one night until nearly dead. The next day, when almost at the point of death, he was rescued by a strong party of ranchmen.

Tomlinson liked the West. He liked the people and things, but right after his rescue by the cowboys it suddenly occurred to him that the folks back East would like to see him immensely. He had been away a long time. It was time to return, he argued. So he hustled for Rawlins, Wyo., and worked his way from there to Chicago on a cattle train. After a little he came to Michigan, and with his savings attended the University of Michigan for about a year. He had had enough of Indian fighting; this year was enough of "higher education" for him so he sold his text books and went to work on the Detroit Journal at the munificent salary of $6 a week. His employer was William Livingstone, now president of the Lake Carriers' association.

Goes With Opera Company.

Newspaper work was all right, and Tomlinson would probably have "stuck" and made his fame at it if a man named Buffalo Bill hadn't come to town. Some say that Tomlinson joined the show with the dire intention in mind of secretly poisoning to death all of Buffalo Bill's tame redskins, but if this was his object it never eventuated. He rode a bucking broncho for a year, and then one morning he awoke to the knowledge that he had a "voice." He immediately took advantage of his discovery and joined the Mapleson Opera company. (Curtain.)

In 1880 Tomlinson became a reporter on the New York Sun, returned later to become night editor of the Detroit Tribune, then managing editor of the Detroit Tribune, and in 1893 moved to Duluth.

It was at about this time that Tomlinson discovered the Great Lakes. For a long time he planned and schemed how he could corner one of them. He had one unlimited asset at his command, and this was nerve—unalloyed, inordinate nerve. He went into the vessel brokerage business on it. The brokerage business flourished and his capital began to grow. How fast it has grown during the past dozen years one must judge by his ships. He is now at the head of a project for building a million-dollar drydock at Duluth. He is president of five steamship companies, vice president of another, secretary to three more, and a director in the American Exchange bank of Duluth, and Greene-Cananea Copper company. He has developed from a typical adventurer of fortune into one of the great men of the lakes. The launching of the Berwind is only another incident in the remarkable story of the most remarkable man who plays a part in the present greatness of the inland seas.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The equipment committee of the board of managers of the Duluth Art school is becoming interested in bringing about the sale of the painting contributed by David Ericson, the proceeds of which are to go to the school. The painting, which is one along the order of "The Spinner," which is owned by the public library, has been hung in the Kitchi Gammi clubrooms for some weeks. Mr. Ericson has been deeply interested in the welfare of the Art school, and as the work was begun without funds, it being expected that the school, when once established, would become self-supporting, he contributed this painting that the proceeds might make the beginning work easier. It is probable that the board of managers may ask the Duluth Art society and the Commercial club of the city to interest themselves in bringing about the sale of the picture. The equipment committee, which is now engaged in fitting up the room, which is in the third floor of the Washington school building, is in need of funds to continue its work.

The board of managers will meet tomorrow morning at the room in the Washington school. C. C. Rosenranz, instructor of the school, will arrive in the city the latter part of the week from Buffalo, and the classes will be organized the first of next week. Prospective pupils should send in their names at once.

SPRING WEDDING.

Miss Jessie La Salle to Become Bride of E. E. Rackle.

Mrs. F. N. LaSalle has issued invitations for the wedding of her daughter, Miss Jessie Elizabeth LaSalle, and Ernest Eugene Rackle of Cleveland, Ohio. The wedding will take place at the home of Mrs. LaSalle, 11 Chester terrace, Saturday afternoon, April 4. Miss LaSalle will be attended by Miss Lucia Sanderson of Cleveland, and the groomsman will be George Rackle of Cleveland.

Mr. Rackle and his bride will be at home after May 1 in Cleveland.

SEMBRICH CONCERT.

Brilliant Audience Assured Great Coloratura Soprano.

Mme. Marcella Sembrich, perhaps the greatest coloratura soprano in the world today, will sing in this city one week from tonight at the First Methodist church. The demand for seats at the Sembrich concerts invariably exceeds the supply and it is expected that at the Duluth concert one of the most brilliant audiences of the year will assemble. Mme. Sembrich will sing in Des Moines in May and the house is now all but sold out.

There will be no change in the program, as regards Madame Sembrich's numbers, and there is not the slightest doubt that she will thrill her hearers in the well known aria from Traviata, and in Strauss' valse "Voce di primavera." Numbers that show the wonderful coloratura singing of the artist to perfection. To those who desire the lighter class of songs, Schubert's "Forelle," Schumann's "Widmung," Hoger's "Love Has Wings," and Arne's "Lass With a Delicate Air," form a group to satisfy all tastes. Then there is the grand Duo from "La Boheme," in which Madame Sembrich will be joined by Mr. Van Hoose, who will also sing Rubenstein's "When the Roses Bloom," and Landou Ronald's "Love, I Have Won You."

The lecture by Prof. Denfeld, which was to have been given at this meeting, has been indefinitely postponed, as Mr. Denfeld will be out of the city the latter part of the week.

At Masonic Temple.

The last meeting of the year of the Matinee Musicale will be held Saturday, April 11, at the Masonic temple. The use of the new organ of the temple has been offered the society through the courtesy of the Masons, and the year's work of the Matinee Musicale will be brought to a close by the recital held at that time. The next regular meeting will be held Monday, April 6, and the last meeting has been changed from Monday to the preceding Saturday, thus making two meetings in one week. The cantata for women's voices "Sea Fairies," by Mrs. Beach will be repeated at the last meeting.

STORE OBSERVATIONS

Horseshoe pins are the style.

The most stylish kind of this stylish ornament is the sort that is studded at every available place with good sized rhinestones. During the last several months one could scarce hope for continued prosperity without a watch fob, a belt pin, a brooch, or a hat pin, in which appears the symbolic swastika symbol. Times have changed, and now a horseshoe in miniature is the thing to bring one health, wealth and happiness. For a fairly good sized horseshoe, one blazing color from many rhinestones, you must separate yourself from 50 or 75 cents.

College girl hat pins, so-called, are formed of a cluster of rhinestones, and while they are new and clean they make a very glowing bit of brightness in a hat. They also cost 50 or 75 cents.

The few fortunates who brought forth beautiful old cameos of quaint setting and tender memories have been the cause of a market flooded with imitation cameos. Some may be bought for as little as 50 cents. But many of the veil pins and hat pins and belt buckles and other such trifles the cameo appears and reappears.

It would seem that woman's barbaric love of glittering glass beads would never allow her to relinquish the style of hanging some little string about her neck and this season the racks devoted to these novelties are as crowded, or more crowded than for several seasons. Uncut amber and cut and polished amber, and glass of emerald hue and of amethyst hue and of coral dullness and of turquoise blue and of jet black and of lavender, like which there is no other, may all be bought. The price in most cases is 75 cents a string.

One of the bargain counters "fascinators" are marked down to the absurdly low price of 50 cents each. They are there in soft tender white and youthful pink ones. Of course, no one can remember back to the time when crocheted head shawls were first called fascinators and during the intervening years fashions have changed and girls, in order to be fascinating, do many and weird things, but still, even when reduced to a bargain counter for 50 cents each, the old time fascinator has its alluring charm, if for nothing more than what it used to be. Fascinators in a city shop seem sadly out of place. The country, and a moonlight night and a sleighride and a youthful swain and of course a girl with her head wrapped bewitchingly in a "fascinator," is the setting that is needful.

METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

"AT PINEY RIDGE."

Southern Melodrama is Well Presented by Stock Company.

The Mack-Leone players are giving frank melodrama at the Lyceum this week, their offering being "At Piney Ridge," with which David Higgins and Georgia Waldron were wont to incite enthusiasm. The present production can justly be classed among the Mack-Leone successes and will probably be well patronized.

To say that "At Piney Ridge" is frank melodrama does not mean that it is not an interesting or well-drawn play. All frank melodramas are not in the Lincoln Carter class, and this play ranks away above it. The scenes are laid in the mountains, which affords the Mack-Leones a splendid opportunity to portray types out of the ordinary, and they have shown in "Sage Brush" and other plays that they can do that sort of work.

Miss Leone plays Cindy Lane, the mountain outcast, to perfection. This young woman has the ability to slide from a dainty, silk-gloved role into one of gingham and bad grammar, which shows her versatility.

Frank Patton, who is about as clever a character-actor as Duluth's stage offers in a season, is a hit as Zeb Lee. John Charles appears to advantage as Rube Holler, and Will Chapman does his best with the role of the bank cashier with the tainted blood.

AT THE BIJOU.

One of the strongest bills of the current season is holding the boards at the Bijou this week. The program presents a good variety of high class vaudeville. Every act is good, while the effect of the whole program leaves a feeling of satisfaction in the mind of the auditor.

Miss Sophie Everett and company, in the one-act sketch, "A House Warming," gives a farcical performance that is highly amusing and Lawrence and Harrington give a character comedy skit that is filled with laughs.

The American Newsboys' quartet sing their way in to the good will of the audience.

Potter and Hartwell have an act they call "The Man With The Two Heads." It is novel and entertaining and would be a feature on any bill.

Another good turn is presented by Wilfred and Lottie, known as "the hand balancer and the wise dog." They give fifteen minutes of good entertainment.

Isadore Silver has a new illustrated song and the moving pictures are among the best that have been shown at the popular house during the season.

There is not a weak spot in the bill.

THE CHERRY SISTERS

Are as Self Contained and as Impossible as Ever.

After noting the complacancy with which the famous, never-to-be-forgotten Cherry Sisters go through with their third grade exercises which they seek to pass off as a vaudeville act, the question again arises in the mind of the spectator: "Can it be, that after these years, the Cherry Sisters have not found out what bum actresses they are, or do they realize it well and are making money out of their reputation for inadequateness?"

Studying the sisters closely during their act at the Metropolitan this week, the first mentioned solution of the question would seem almost probable, but the latter is undoubtedly true. A five thousand dollar prima donna, taking a layer into vaudeville for a little loose change, could not be more self-contained than the Cherrics. And the prima donna could never be as impossible.

They say the Cherry girls are giving the same act at the "Met" that was used in their earlier days. There is no reason to doubt that, or the tales of the eggs and decayed vegetables with which the sisters were often pelted. And after seeing them, the story about the net they used to hang over the proscenium arch seems like a George Washington incident to the most skeptical.

The Cherry Sisters are offered as an extra attraction. They do their specialty in a class all their own—so the entertainment as a whole is very good. Sam Rice, who is a lively, clever comedian with bunches of good ideas, has written two good burlesques and he plays well in both of them. "The elr to the Hoopla," he has done here before, but "At Coney Island" is brand new. Both of them contain a lot of hearty laughs, pretty girls, splendid scenic effects and pretty songs. "She Reads the New York Papers Every Day," and the finale to the last burlesque made big hits.

Lewis and Thompson, talking act; Lulu Beeson, champion buck dancer; Patti Carney, vocalist; Clayton and Drew, travesty artists, and "Some Quartet," with the Cherry Sisters, make up the olio. All of the acts are cleverly done. The quartet's stunt is called "Breaking Into Vaudeville," and is distinctly novel.

Parsifal.

It was in the year of 1857 that the immortal Richard Wagner first conceived his idea relating to the grand possibilities contained in the legend of the "Holy Grail" for a wonderful spectacle and drama. It was not until twenty-five years later, namely 1882, that his idea was carried out to his satisfaction and the world was given the glorious work of "Parsifal." It is said that his first intention was to present "Parsifal" simply as a dramatic production, but was induced later to change his mind and produce it in combination music form. By his doing so, the world gained two grand productions instead of the one. It requires a trained mind, a cultivated musician, to enjoy the music of Wagner. One must thoroughly understand a thing to equally enjoy it. But the simplest tyro in dramatic experience can understand the exquisite story of "Parsifal" and understanding, cannot fail to enjoy it.

Viola Allen.

Viola Allen's appearance at the Lyceum next Tuesday and Wednesday will have unusual interest by reason of the strength, novelty and originality of her play, "Irene Wycherley," and by the very high character of the company engaged by Liebler & Co., to aid her in presenting this success of the London and New York season.

The names of Edwin Arden, Paul McAllister, Grant Stewart, John Glendinning, Nellie Thorne, Marie Wainwright and Mrs. Sam Sothern, who comprise a portion of the company, suggest a degree of artistics stage work that is seldom vouchsafed to drama lovers, and it is said that the suggestion is more than realized in the actual performance.

DISPLAY OF SPRING GOWNS

No one who visited the Gidding establishment today could doubt that spring had arrived. The flower decked store and the white gowned attendants and the quantities of exquisite wearables, carried conviction when one would ignore the other ofttimes considered infallible signs such as the first robin or the timid approach of the first pussy willow.

Duluth women have never been invited to a more elegant display of a season's beautiful offerings and from the first department devoted to the pretty novelties to the beautiful French imported models and the christening outfit suitable for the newest baby in town, the store has maintained its reputation for distinctive and beautiful style.

In the smartly tailored suits showing the severe simplicity which makes the style and beauty of such a costume, to the fashionable and more elaborate afternoon costumes and the lace coats and hand-embroidered linens for southern wear or a later season here, the elegance of style is shown. The rajah silk suits, trimmed in buttons and braid are among the most beautiful of the spring models. Taffeta dresses and separate skirts are sure to meet with favor and the suits in worsteds and smooth materials are made into the jauntiest suits of the season.

The annex devoted to children's and misses' apparel is a department in which the company is much interested and is one in which the mothers of the city have shown their approval. To gown the girl between the ages of 13 and 18 has always been a difficulty. The styles in most cases are planned for those younger or older and the girl of the between ages has been neglected. In the Gidding annex are to be found misses' suits, designed especially with the requirements which good taste demands for girls of these ages. Some scarlet suits in three pieces with a jumper effect to be worn with white waists, and a smartly cut little coat are shown, and cannot help but please the girl and her mother. The dresses for the children of younger years show an individuality and style that must satisfy the most fastidious taste.

The cutest things in town are without doubt the babies' bonnets shown in that department. They are fashioned of tuscan straw, with wee small rose buds and bunches of ribbon tied in round bows or shirred into fullness, and are things of chiffon lining and immense ties. A glance at these bits of confection will repay from the mere joy of looking at them even if one is no relation to any infant who might be eligible to wear one.

The silk stockings and hand-made and embroidered lingerie in this department of the store show the latest thing in these fashions.

The formal opening will continue tomorrow and Thursday, and no Duluth woman, Lenten season or not, should deny herself the pleasure of attending.

COUNCIL DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Either the citizens at large are taking more interest in the deliberations of their representatives in the council, or there has been more to attract the curious to the council chamber of late, for all winter the crowds of spectators at the regular meetings have been larger than were ever known in Duluth.

Every Monday night, the alderman are now accustomed to having a critical crowd at their back. The empty chairs, which were known in past years, are always filled and scores stand up, craning their necks to get a view of each speaker. They sit through the dry deliberations until something stirs them, when they all lean forward, so as not to miss a word.

The lid agitation was probably the cause of the whole thing. When contests were promised last summer over liquor licenses, the people went to the council chamber out of curiosity. They found that much occurred, which they should know. Going to the council became with habit with many and now, whether anything startling is promised or not, the space in front of the railing is crowded.

A large number are becoming regular attendants. They drop around to the city hall about 7:30, pick off their favorite chairs and repose somnolently until the meeting is called to order. Usually, they don't receive any thrills, but they stick until the last resolution is run through and the motion to adjourn is put. Interspersed among the curious ones are business and professional men, with interests at stake, and the number of that class in the usual crowd is growing.

PENROSE IMPROVING.

PETITIONS ARE READY

First Assistant County Attorney W. J. Stevenson will present a petition for the vacation of portions of Fifth avenue west and Second street, desired by the county for courthouse purposes, at the meeting of the city council next Monday evening.

Mr. Stevenson has been very active in the matter of the circulation of the petition and it is practically ready for the council at the present time, containing more than a majority of the names of the owners of the property to be affected by the proposed vacation of the street and the avenue.

If the council is expeditious in the matter it is expected that the final hearing on the petition will be had not later than May 2 next. The usual form under the law will be observed by the council as in any other petition for the vacation of a street. The council will set the date for a hearing of the property owners interested and at the conclusion of the same the committee will report to the council with recommendations for or a resolution either granting or rejecting the petition.

Matters connected with the acquisition of the new site selected for the courthouse, in accordance with the grouping plan, are said to be progressing smoothly, there being no opposition or seeming inclination on the part of citizens to throw legal obstacles in the way. The sentiment of the people is strongly in favor of the group plan for Duluth's public buildings and citizens generally are too much interested in getting a new courthouse as soon as possible to block the movements that are being made with a view of hurrying the matter along.

St. Paul, March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—None of the leaders in the principal events of the state bowling tournament were displaced by last night's results, although the Bueger and Matschinger team of St. Paul, rolled the highest team score of the meet for a single game with 1,005. The Reeves of St. Paul are still in the lead in the five-men events, and Lietner and Hellhake in the doubles. IS NO LONGER SAFE FOR TEAMS

Driver and Horses Have Narrow Escape From Drowning.

The warm weather has so rotted the ice on the bay that it is no longer safe to drive teams on it. In the last two days three teams are said to have broken through, and yesterday afternoon a team, driven by a man whose name could not be learned, is said to have had a narrow escape from drowning. They were coming from Superior to Duluth, and near the Duluth side the ice gave way with them, plunging the team, driver and all into the icy water. If aid had not been close at hand they all would probably have drowned. As it was, it was only after a great deal of difficulty that the team and driver were saved.

Rumors of some pretty stiff poker games in the so-called "whist clubs" that have come into existence in the city are being circulated about town. It is understood that a certain young man, the son of a prominent citizen, lost $1,500 in a game at a "whist club" on Superior street a few nights ago. It is further reported that the young man made the money from the sale of a timber claim and that his father is taking legal advice with a view of instituting a suit for the recovery of the money. The club in question has been recently opened up.

Badly Scared Dog.

A big yellow dog, this afternoon while trotting past the Board of Trade building, received a sudden surprise and shock, when apparently a portion of the cement sidewalk gave way beneath him, letting him drop about ten feet into a coal bin.

A part of the sidewalk had been removed to permit two boilers to be moved into the Board of Trade basement. The opening thus made was covered by a canvas to keep the coal dust from being blown about from the bin, and the whole was surrounded by a barrier. The dog walked under the barrier, stepped on to the canvas, which was only secured by rocks being placed at the corners, and with a startled yelp disappeared into the cellar.

DRAW UP MEMORIAL.

At the twentieth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Duluth presbytery, the opening session of which was held this morning at the First Presbyterian church of this city, a memorial was drawn up in honor of the late Mrs. W. D. Williams, who was for many years an active member of the society, and whose death occurred the first of this year. The memorial, which was inscribed on the minutes of the meeting, was as follows:

"Resolved, That the Women's Missionary society of the Duluth presbytery, is greatly bereaved in losing one of its most active members, by the death of Mrs. W. D. Williams, a Christian woman of strong character. Her work in missionary literature and in the study classes was most enthusiastic and her place cannot be filled. She was one of our most liberal contributors, thus proving that the spirit of her Lord and Master was a living power in her daily life. She has been called to service in a higher and a wider field and we are thankful to God that He let us walk and work together for a little while; and we rejoice that her faith failed her not in her last days, when in her sickness and suffering she carried out her part of the work, arranging the work for the new year, so proving that the great work was dear to her heart.

A large representative gathering of the members of the societies of the presbytery was present at this morning's session. In addition to the local churches, societies from Carlton, Two Harbors, Cloquet and Hibbing were represented.

The sessions will continue tomorrow, meetings to be held both morning and afternoon. The talks on missionary subjects tomorrow will be given by Mrs. W. L. Whipple and Mrs. John Macleod.

COUNCIL DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Either the citizens at large are taking more interest in the deliberations of their representatives in the council, or there has been more to attract the curious to the council chamber of late, for all winter the crowds of spectators at the regular meetings have been larger than were ever known in Duluth.

Every Monday night, the aldermen are now accustomed to having a critical crowd at their back. The empty chairs, which were known in past years, are always filled and scores stand up, craning their necks to get a view of each speaker. They sit through the dry deliberations until something stirs them, when they all lean forward, so as not to miss a word.

The lid agitation was probably the cause of the whole thing. When contests were promised last summer over liquor licenses, the people went to the council chamber out of curiosity. They found that much occurred, which they should know. Going to the council became with habit with many and now, whether anything startling is promised or not, the space in front of the railing is crowded.

PETITIONS ARE READY

First Assistant County Attorney W. J. Stevenson will present a petition for the vacation of portions of Fifth avenue west and Second street, desired by the county for courthouse purposes, at the meeting of the city council next Monday evening.

Mr. Stevenson has been very active in the matter of the circulation of the petition and it is practically ready for the council at the present time, containing more than a majority of the names of the owners of the property to be affected by the proposed vacation of the street and the avenue.

If the council is expeditious in the matter it is expected that the final hearing on the petition will be had not later than May 2 next. The usual form under the law will be observed by the council as in any other petition for the vacation of a street. The council will set the date for a hearing of the property owners interested and at the conclusion of the same the committee will report to the council with recommendations for a resolution either granting or rejecting the petition.

Matters connected with the acquisition of the new site selected for the courthouse, in accordance with the grouping plan, are said to be progressing smoothly, there being no opposition or sounding inclination on the part of citizens to throw legal obstacles in the way. The sentiment of the people is strongly in favor of the group plan for Duluth's public buildings and citizens generally are too much interested in getting a new courthouse as soon as possible to block the movements that are being made with a view of hurrying the matter along.

St. Paul, March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—None of the leaders in the principal events of the state bowling tournament were displaced by last night's results, although the Bueger and Matschinger team of St. Paul, rolled the highest team score of the meet for a single game with 1,065. The Reeves of St. Paul are still in the lead in the five-men events, and Lietner and Hellhake in the doubles. Campbell's score of 621 still stands in the singles, although it has been threatened several times.

The rolling last night was good and indicated that the second week's events may send some of the leaders of last week down. Twenty-six new scores over 200 were made, but the high score of 247, held by Staley of St. Paul, and Berini of Duluth, is unbeaten.

The leaders in all events up to date follow:

IS NO LONGER SAFE FOR TEAMS

Driver and Horses Have Narrow Escape From Drowning.

The warm weather has so rotted the ice on the bay that it is no longer safe to drive teams on it. In the last two days three teams are said to have broken through, and yesterday afternoon a team, driven by a man whose name could not be learned, is said to have had a narrow escape from drowning. They were coming from Superior to Duluth, and near the Duluth side the ice gave way with them, plunging the team, driver and all into the icy water. If aid had not been close at hand they all would probably have drowned. As it was, it was only after a great deal of difficulty that the team and driver were saved.

Rumors of some pretty stiff poker games in the so-called "whist clubs" that have come into existence in the city are being circulated about town. It is understood that a certain young man, the son of a prominent citizen, lost $1,500 in a game at a "whist club" on Superior street a few nights ago. It is further reported that the young man made the money from the sale of a timber claim and that his father is taking legal advice with a view of instituting a suit for the recovery of the money. The club in question has been recently opened up.

A big yellow dog, this afternoon while trotting past the Board of Trade building, received a sudden surprise and shock, when apparently a portion of the cement sidewalk gave way beneath him, letting him drop about ten feet into a coal bin.

A part of the sidewalk had been removed to permit two boilers to be moved into the Board of Trade basement. The opening thus made was covered by a canvas to keep the coal dust from being blown about from the bin, and the whole was surrounded by a barrier. The dog walked under the barrier, stepped on to the canvas, which was only secured by rocks being placed at the corners, and with a startled yelp disappeared into the cellar.

DRAW UP MEMORIAL.

At the twentieth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Duluth presbytery, the opening session of which was held this morning at the First Presbyterian church of this city, a memorial was drawn up in honor of the late Mrs. W. D. Williams, who was for many years an active member of the society, and whose death occurred the first of this year. The memorial, which was inscribed on the minutes of the meeting, was as follows:

"Resolved, That the Women's Missionary society of the Duluth presbytery, is greatly bereaved in losing one of its most active members, by the death of Mrs. W. D. Williams, a Christian woman of strong character. Her work in missionary literature and in the study classes was most enthusiastic and her place cannot be filled. She was one of our most liberal contributors, thus proving that the spirit of her Lord and Master was a living power in her daily life. She has been called to service in a higher and a wider field and we are thankful to God that He let us walk and work together for a little while; and we rejoice that her faith failed her not in her last days, when in her sickness and suffering she caring for all part of the work, arranging the work for the new year, so proving that the great work was dear to her heart.

A large representative gathering of the members of the societies of the presbytery was present at this morning's session. In addition to the local churches, societies from Carlton, Two Harbors, Cloquet and Hibbing were represented.

The sessions will continue tomorrow, meetings to be held both morning and afternoon. The talks on missionary subjects tomorrow will be given by Mrs. W. L. Whipple and Mrs. John Macleod.

OF THE REIGNING FASHIONS OF SPRING 1908.

Coming as it does, shortly before Easter. Our opening dates the beginning of Spring styles in Duluth, and we have never been in better position to cater to the wants of Duluth's fashionable public. Never has a more thorough representation of everything that constitutes a fashionable woman's apparel been gathered together under one roof in this city. Our business creed demands it. "Satisfied customers" has always been our "slogan." A satisfied customer brings another, the other satisfied brings a friend, and so the endless chain of satisfied customers have built the trade of the Glass Block Store to its present gigantic proportions.

We have assembled for your inspection and approval, masterpieces of the world's foremost designers; everything that is new in women's garments, and nothing that does not bear the hall-mark of newness and absolute correctness.

Correct styles from fashion centers for both street and dress wear, greet the eye as one enters this department.

Dozens of the choicest and most beautiful models from the best designers—models which carry with them that air of style and elegance which one expects to find here.

Ladies' and Misses' Lingerie Dresses

Several large shipments of these Ladies' and Misses' fine Lingerie Dresses have arrived during the past few days. The very newest models, many of them exclusive here, not to be found elsewhere in Duluth. During the opening days we will display the most complete line of pattern hats ever brought to this city—among them you will find the latest Parisian models, the choicest selections from the New York shops—and the adaptations and original conceptions in millinery from our own well known work rooms.

For the ladies whose taste inclines toward the picturesque hats, we have the large models with high crowns, trimmed in elegant plumes; also the flower trimmed models—trimmed over the crown with massive clusters of flowers, combinations of several colors, being used on one hat, with bright touches of gold and silver.

Our magnificent display of the season's choicest flowers is causing a great deal of enthusiastic comment, being as it is, complete in even the most minute detail. MUST DRINK MORE WATER

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected.

Stop loading your system with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble, the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often.

This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

BROKEN GLASS CUTS CHILD'S NECK

Joseph Lanthier Wants Heavy Damages for Careless Blasting.

A claim was presented to the council last night by Joseph Lanthier and his wife, Angela Lanthier of St. Anthony street, near the intersection of Forty-eighth avenue west, for $5,500. The claim sets forth that on Feb. 26, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. Lanthier was sitting at a window in her home with her 18-months'-old child. Men in the employ of the Interstate Dredge company, contractors for the Ramsey street dock, were blasting nearby, securing gravel for the approach to the dock. The claim announces that a piece of frozen earth was hurled through the window by an unprotected blast, sending a piece of glass into the neck of the child and cutting it severely. The shock to Mrs. Lanthier is claimed to have been great, and $5,000 is claimed for her. The man wants $500 for the loss of his wife's aid and the medical attention for which he must pay.

JUDGE SPOONER RESIGNS.

Fifteenth Judicial District Jurist to Retire April 10.

Bemidji, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The reports that have been current for several weeks that Judge M. A. Spooner of the Fifteenth judicial district contemplated resigning to enter private practice in Spokane, Wash., although in some quarters denied, have proven true as the judge has sent his resignation to Governor John A. Johnson to take effect April 10. Nearly four years of the judge's term will be filled out by his successor whom it is expected the governor will name in a few days.

Judge Spooner was appointed to the bench when a second judge was added to the Fifteenth judicial district during Governor Van Sant's administration and was elected by a large majority at the next general election. He ranks high among the judiciary of the state and there is general regret among members of the bar over his resignation. There is considerable speculation over his successor, not a few believing a well known Grand Rapids lawyer may be the lucky one.

OVER ONE MILLION ACRES OF LAND TO BE LEASED.

Pierre, S. D., March 24.—The government will, on the 28th of April, open bids for the leasing of over 1,000,000 acres of Sioux Indian lands for pasturage, the leases to be let on pastures numbered 5, 6, 7 and 8, on the Cheyenne river reservation. These pastures run from 214,000 acres up to 271,000 acres in size, and would be looked upon as rather large sized to the average eastern farmer with his ten-acre pasture lot.

WEST END WILL SHOW UP THE MEN

Calculated to Make Programs of Male Members Look Cheap.

Not to be outdone by the men of the congregation, who gave a series of entertainments at which the women were not allowed to do anything but look on, the ladies of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church are planning to give a program at the church Thursday evening which they declare will beat anything the men ever attempted.

Mere man will have nothing to do with the entertainment and he may consider himself very lucky if he is allowed to witness it, which he probably will be.

If some gallant male member of the congregation wants to start the fire in the church kitchen, that the coffee may be made, he will be unceremoniously turned down and fairer hands than his will poke the sticks into the stove and touch the match.

If some man wants to speak a piece on the program—something he considers rather classy—he will be denied the privilege. He cannot speak pieces and neither can he sing. The ladies will do all of the stunts themselves and they admit that they have an elaborate program.

Ordinarily when the ladies give an entertainment at the church, the men folk are called in to do some of the heavy work, but not so this time. The ladies are anxious to put in the shade, the festivities which the men gave some time ago.

The men will be allowed to attend as spectators, however.

HARD TO KEEP KIDS IN.

No new cases of smallpox are reported from the neighborhood of the Horace Mann school and the health authorities feel that they now have the situation under control and there is small danger of any more cases making their appearance if the families which are quarantined observe the regulations.

About half a dozen families near the Horace Mann school, which is located at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street, are quarantined, as a result of the smallpox epidemic. Despite the impressive signs on the front doors, it is a hard matter for the parents to keep their children at home after they have recovered from the first stages of the disease.

In these mild cases of smallpox, the patient feels very sick for the first two or three days and after that, until fully recovered, feels no bad effects. So after the children are over the first sickness, they are anxious to get out again.

It is said that the children of the neighborhood who first contracted the disease generously handed it to some of the other children in the school.

A lively row stirred the neighborhood as a result of the smallpox. One woman intimated to another that if the latter had only kept her children at home the disease would not have spread. The second lady came back with denials and body blows. Then some one intervened.

The funeral of Christian Schars, aged 80 years, who died Sunday morning, was held this morning at the home of his son, 2806 Helm street.

The younge people of the First Swedish M. E. church will hold a business and literary session in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

Rev. J. A. Anderson, pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church, will deliver a lecture on "Temperance and Civic Righteousness" at Two Harbors Friday evening.

H. H. Stone, state organizer of the Royal League of America, is securing names for a new council of the order to be organized in the West end. Several names have already been enrolled. The new lodge will probably be named the West end council.

IS WANTED FOR MURDER

When Arrested Prisoner Denies All Knowledge of Crime.

Through a clever piece of work on the part of Marshal Mahlen of Rush City, Minn., Walter Whitbeck, wanted on a murder charge at West Union, Iowa, was picked up on West Superior street this morning by the Rush City man and Officer Hannot.

When Marshal Mahlen was notified that Whitbeck was in Rush City and was wanted, he remembered having seen the man. He made a search and found that Whitbeck had left by the last train for Duluth. Mahlen took the next train, located his man this morning, called on Officer Hannot and the two took Whitbeck in.

No details of the crime, with which Whitbeck is charged, are known to the officers and Whitbeck disclaims all knowledge of the affair. He admits being from West Union and that Whitbeck is his name, but says if any murder was committed there, he doesn't know anything of it. He is willing to return to Iowa without requisition papers. Marshal Mahlen will take him to Rush City, where an Iowa officer will take him in charge and return him to West Union. Whitlock had over $100 on his person and put up a good front when arrested.

Officer Mahlen, who made the arrest, is quite a figure. He was shot down by a gang of burglars last summer, when he discovered them in the act of going through a store and his condition was serious for a time. He is a brother of Officer Fred Mahlen of the Duluth force.

the friends of John A. Johnson have made a big fight for the control of the convention, but the campaign for the Minnesotan was started too late to achieve success. In various counties Johnson men were strong enough to head off the instruction of delegates, and this will result in the name of the Minnesota governor being presented to the convention.

Of the county conventions from which reports have been received in Grand Forks, 235 delegates elected have been instructed for Bryan, while ninety-nine delegates will come uninstructed. Walsh, Nelson, Rolette, Burleigh, Morton and Stark county furnish the uninstructed delegations, while Pembina, Traill, Benson, Cavalier, Bottineau, Emmons, Towner, Pierce, Ramsey, Williams, Griggs and Foster county delegations will be solid for Bryan. Grand Forks, Barnes, Cass, Stutsmen and Richland county delegations are being held today, and with the exception of Richland, will instruct for Bryan, which will give the Nebraskan a majority in the state convention. These counties will control 133 delegates. McHenry and Steele counties have also been promised to the Bryan men, but the result of these two conventions had not been received here today. The Nebraskan is certain of carrying a majority of the counties that are yet to be heard from. The total number of delegates in the state convention will be 686.

The Democratic executive committee met this afternoon to make final arrangements for the convention tomorrow. At this meeting, it was practically decided to put J. L. Cashel at the head of the convention as chairman, inasmuch as Governor John Burke is a candidate for a place on the national delegation.

The fight that has been waged between the Bryan and Johnson supporters will not result in any division of the North Dakota Democrats, who hope to make a good showing this fall, and will work for harmony at all stages.

May Eulogize Johnson.

State Senator Cashell, who is chairman of the Democratic state central committee and an ardent Bryan man, said that if any resolutions were adopted by the convention tomorrow they would probably eulogize Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

"We think a great deal of Governor Johnson in North Dakota," he said, "but we are for Bryan as the nominee of the national convention. The people of North Dakota know Bryan personally. He has mixed with them and they demand his nomination. While as Democrats we like Governor Johnson very much, we do not like the source from which his presidential boom gets its impetus, and the men of the Democratic party in North Dakota with whom I have come in contact believe that the Eastern sentiment for Johnson is manufactured for the purpose of injuring both Bryan and Johnson."

Joseph Kelly, known as "Honest Joe Kelly," chairman of the Ramsey county delegation, is in the peculiar position of being a warm admirer of Johnson, but instructed by his county convention for Bryan. He said that he believed Bryan would get the indorsement of the state convention tomorrow. "Johnson made the mistake in North Dakota in not coming out with some announcement of his intentions. Had he done so six months ago he would have swept the state," said Mr. Kelly. "Bryan, on the other hand, has been very active, has mingled with the people out in the country, made speeches to them and they are his friends. Since coming here I have been surprised to learn of the Bryan sentiment out in the country."

political life than the duke of Devonshire. He had been almost continuously a cabinet member in charge of some important department, as a Liberal before the split with Gladstone and later as leader of the Liberal Unionists. He led the Liberals during the temporary retirement of Gladstone in 1875, and was offered but refused the premiership after the Midlothian campaign of 1880. He was again offered this honor upon the defeat of home rule, but he again refused.

Active Socially.

The duke was also active socially, and his entertainments at his Picadilly residence and at Chatsworth House, in Derbyshire, and his other country houses were the most notable of their kind. Members of the royal family frequently were his guests, particularly at Chatsworth House, where the hunting and shooting and the theatricals in the duke's private theater offered entertainment to which King Edward was partial. The duke was often the guest of his majesty, and it was when he was with the king at Windsor last June for the Ascot races that the first serious symptoms of heart weakness were displayed. Last fall he left London for Egypt to spend the winter. In January a recurrence of the heart weakness was reported, but from this he rallied and was able to start for home, stopping at Cannes to rest.

The duke has no immediate family and the dukedom passes to his nephew, Mr. Cavendish, who married the daughter of Lord Lansdowne.

The death of the duke places a badge of the order of the Garter at the disposal of King Edward, and this, in accordance with custom, will be returned to his majesty by the successor to the title. A number of public offices are also made vacant, notably the chancellorship of Cambridge university, the lord lieutenancy of Derbyshire and the provincial grandmastership of the Derbyshire Masons, a post which the duke held for half a century. The duke owned about 186,000 acres.

tween the various Christian nationalities in the Balkans, each of which sought supremacy of interests, and would try, in the event of the downfall of the sovereignty of the porte, to secure the greatest possible amount of Turkish territory. "Germany was as much interested as any other power," the chancellor said, "in the maintenance of the status quo founded on the treaty of Berlin, and consequently Germany greeted with sympathy the project advanced by Austria to extend her Bosnian railroad to connect with the Turkish line at Mitrovita. This extension would further the advance of civilization. The barbarities which have taken place in Macedonia were blows to humanity and the civilization of Europe, but the possibility of war owing to the dissensions among the powers on this account was a contingency still more insupportable. "I hope and believe," the chancellor said, "that the European concert will be maintained, and I understand that this same feeling prevails in the other cabinets, where the slight differences of opinion probably soon will be overcome."

Tweedmouth Letter.

Continuing his remarks, the imperial chancellor said he regretted that he was unable to give the contents of Emperor William's letter to Lord Tweedmouth, first lord of the British admiralty, which had created such a stir in England. He said this communication was purely private and the assertion that it was an attempt to influence the naval policy of Great Britain, he said, was absolutely without foundation. "The purely defensive character of our naval progress, in the face of the attempts to impute to us aggressive intentions and plans toward Great Britain cannot be repeated too often or too sharply," the prince declared. "We desire to live at peace and in quiet with Great Britain and we therefore feel bitterly that some British publicists should continue to talk of the 'German danger.'"

The first thought of the physician when treating a cold is in regard to the activity of the excretory organs. He gives something to ensure the prompt action of the bowels.

And if you wait to consider, you will probably recall that your cold was contracted when the bowels were in a sluggish condition.

You will be unable to find a medicine so well suited for the purpose of preventing and curing colds as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, because of their wonderfully prompt and thorough action on the liver, kidneys and bowels.

These excretory organs when once awakened quickly carry off the poisons and thoroughly cleanse the system. Colds quickly disappear instead of hanging on and finding lodgment in the lungs or developing into kidney trouble.

SIX MONTHS WITHOUT BATH

It is customary, when a recruit applies for examination to give him a bath. Some times men from the woods make the confession that the bath that the government kindly provides is the first they have enjoyed for some weeks. This morning, however, all records were broken at the Duluth office in regard to bathless wonders.

Holen Thorsen was the name given by a recruit, who informed one of the scouts who accompanied him to the place where recruits are given the water cure, that for six long months he had not indulged in the delights of a bath. Not since the chilling winds of October began to freshen the air had Holden hied him to the bath.

He informed the officers that he did not know that the average mortal was in the habit of bathing when the thermometer hovered around the chilling mark. He thought that bathing was a luxury indulged in only when the tepid breezes of summer made one seek the shady spots. Bathing in winter was a new one to Holen.

When the recruiting officers heard of the long-time record established by Thorsen, they decided that he was not the kind of a man that would make a good soldier. He was rejected without an examination as a man unfit to join the army.

As far as is known Holen has established a record for non-bathing that will hold in Duluth for some time. He was quite ignorant of the record he had established. He was also chagrined when told that he could not join the army. He was given a few health hints and told that bathing was conducive to a more improved moral tone. Maybe Holen will take the lecture to heart.

A severe cold that may develop into pneumonia over night, can be cured quickly by taking Foley's Honey and Tar. It will cure the most obstinate racking cough and strengthen your lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

YOUNG MEN FORM CLUB

Will Not Wait for Y. M. C. A. to Establish Branch.

Rent Building and Will Go in for All Sports.

A number of West Duluth young men have decided not to wait until that part of the city gets a branch Y. M. C. A., have organized an athletic association of their own which will be known as the Raleigh Athletic club.

They have rented the building at 5808 Raleigh street and have cleaned it up and will use it for their club rooms and gymnasium.

The club has seventeen members and is working to get more. They have secured the apparatus used in the gymnasium at the St. James hall, and hope to be able to buy more after they have been going for a time. They have bought a basket ball and put up baskets in their gymnasium and have already started practice at that game. Next fall they expect to have a football team.

At a meeting last Thursday evening, the following officers were elected: Fred Blais, president; Albert Black, treasurer; Bert Guyer, secretary. With the above three officers, Clarence McClellan was appointed to serve on an arrangement committee, which will have entire charge of fitting up their gymnasium and club rooms.

Enlarge the Furnace.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by all druggists.

HOT FIGHT FOR OFFICE

A Record Breaking Vote is Being Brought Out.

The Linley-Crumpton fight for the Republican nomination for mayor is being waged at white heat today in Superior and today's vote promises to be the largest ever cast at a primary election in that city. Already the heavy voting points toward a record-breaking total when the polls close at 7 o'clock this evening.

Both the Linley and the Crumpton forces are confident of success. Mayor Linley's majority is predicted as over 500, and the Crumpton backers say that victory will be theirs by an equal or greater plurality.

The betting has been heavy on both sides, each faction willing and anxious to back up its candidate with money.

BRYAN MAY BE BEATEN

For Nomination, if Predicted Southern Bolt is Effective.

New York Times Says Nebraskan Has Visibly Lost Ground.

Washington, March 24.—The East continues to believe that the way is opening for the defeat of Bryan at the Denver convention. One of the signs of this feeling is a double-leaded editorial leader in yesterday's New York Times, beginning with these words:

"The tide is running against Mr. Bryan. He has visibly lost ground in the last two weeks. The chance of beating him in the convention is very much brighter than it was two months ago. If the effort to spread the light of reason among Democrats is intelligently kept up, there will be arrayed against him at Denver more than a sufficient number of delegates to prevent his nomination."

Reverses in the East.

The Times' editorial then proceeds to sum up the situation in Eastern states, regarding which it says:

"The Bryan leaders have counted with the utmost confidence upon Rhode Island. The Democratic convention held there on Saturday refused to adopt a resolution approving the candidacy of Bryan and pledging delegates to support him. They go uninstructed. The New York Democratic state committee adopted on Thursday, with only one dissenting voice, a resolution against instructing the seventy-eight delegates from this state. The Massachusetts state committee refused to adopt a resolution for delegates pledged to Bryan. The convention in that state will be held early next month. What course it will take is uncertain, but the vote of the state committee is at least important. The whole of New England ought to share the sentiment of New York with respect to Bryan. It is the sentiment of the entire East, and its profound conviction that his nomination would be an act of folly leading to sure defeat. New Jersey is against Bryan, and it is already known that sixty-eight delegates of Pennsylvania will go to Denver untrammeled by instructions."

Predicts Bolt in South.

The Times has heard about the threatened Bryan defection in Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia. On this point it says:

"It is perfectly well known that Democrats of the South do not want Bryan, if his nomination can be prevented. The three delegates of Delaware are pledged to Judge Gray. The outlook in North Carolina is decidedly adverse to Bryan. In Virginia the Richmond Times-Dispatch has declared against him, and an active campaign is in progress to prevent the sending of a Bryan delegation from the state. In Georgia there is a rapidly growing sentiment against instructions, and protests are heard from Alabama. Minnesota will send a delegation pledged to Governor Johnson. Assurances are given with utmost confidence that North and South Dakota, having altogether sixteen delegates, will also support Johnson."

Thinks 339 Votes Certain.

The Times points out that New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina, Minnesota and the two Dakotas have 339 votes, or more than a third of the convention. And it says that it has advices that further accessions to the anti-Bryan forces from the South are to be expected. This latter view coincides with the view of Democrats in Washington, who say that if two or three of the stanch Southern states should break away from Bryan his campaign would swiftly go to pieces. They say that there are signs of a general break from Bryan in the South, but that it has not yet gone far enough to justify definite predictions.

J. A. Nowell of St. Paul, a member of the Democratic state committee, has a long letter in the World concerning the movement for the nomination of Governor Johnson. It is prominently displayed on the editorial page.

THE "SOUL KISS" SUIT

The Latest Creation is Shown at Silberstein & Bondy Opening.

The "soul kiss suit" is one of the attractive features of the Silberstein & Bondy company's opening. The soul kiss—in suits—is very attractive. It is piquant and unusual. The special model shown by this company is of a striped material of a warm ivory and brown stripe and the decoration consists of borders in brown, which are woven into the material. Little square brass buttons add a touch of beauty to the combination. The coat is made with the large kimona sleeve and the whole tailoring features unusual and effective combinations of the stripes. The suit was the center of much interested attention.

A perfect flower garden of colors in rajah suits are shown. Pompeilan red, apricot, salmons, natural, light Copenhagen blue, dark Copenhagen blue, black, pale blue, champagne, peach and golden and dark browns are among the shades from which woman may choose her most becoming one.

"Wear a small hat, a medium-sized hat or a large hat," said Miss Mitchell of the millinery department of this store. "Fashion dictates them all." And so it would seem. The Merry Widow sailor, of net or maline, with a large net bow, is one of the popular and much talked of models. The only necessity of the spring hat of 1908 is a high effect, a very drum major effect. Achieve this how you will, so long as you achieve, no one cares whether it be with wings or ribbons or roses or plumes or feathers. Some very beautiful hats are shown. One a large sailor effect bore proudly aloft eleven plumes, five of one length and six of another. Cherry is a smart spring shade. A touch of it in a black hat made the model a most effective one, and a sailor of taupe satin and trimming had the facing of the cherry color. This department was visited by many admiring women. The formal opening will continue tomorrow.

CHECK ON PROGRESS

Prospect That All Big Street Improvements Will be Stopped.

People Claim They Cannot Bear Expense This Year.

The action of the council last night in knocking out the improvement of Second street this year is causing considerable comment around the city hall. The council did not kill the improvement entirely, but laying it over for three months practically amounts to that, although it will keep the matter alive so as to allow its being taken up again.

With the action of the council on the Second street matter as a precedent, the protesting property owners on Fourth street will have something to work on at the hearing before the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks tomorrow afternoon. The grounds for protesting the Fourth street improvement are identical with those, on which the Second street people stood and they may be successful in their efforts to balk the work.

"One can hardly blame the council for stopping the improvement in heed to such vigorous protests, but it is unfortunate that the progress of the city should be checked in that way," said one of the city officials this morning. "Of course one cannot force improvements on people, who claim they haven't the money to pay for them, but the stopping of improvements this year is a setback to the march toward the bigger, busier, better Duluth that we all want."

The improvements on Second and Fourth streets were the big street contracts in contemplation for this year. The petitions for the work are sufficient and it is within the power of the council to go ahead with the work at the risk of being accused of persecution of those, who cannot pay for their share. Should the Fourth street work also be postponed, there will be no large street improvements in Duluth this coming year and the large steps forward, which were in contemplation, will not materialize.

It is said that some of the Fourth street people are heartily in favor of going ahead with the work. The street is the principal business street on the hillside and is in bad condition. With a double-track street railway system, no wires underground and the street paved, Fourth street would be a fine thoroughfare and a big boost to that portion of the city. Should the work planned be stopped, it is said a petition will be presented for the paving of two blocks between Fourth and Sixth avenues east. Second street is also in wretched condition and some work will be necessary there, regardless of the permanent improvements planned.

WORKMEN

At the Navy Yards Will Not be Laid Off.

Washington, March 24.—Assurances having been received from leaders in congress that immediate action will be taken on the emergency appropriation of $2,000,000 for armor and armament for the navy, Secretary Metcalf today informed a committee representing workingmen in the various navy yards of the country that no lay off of workingmen would now be necessary. It had been reported that discharges were to be made in all the navy yards of the country because of a lack of funds to carry on the work. Committees representing the men had presented the urgency of the matter to congressional committees.

STATE RIGHTS HARD HIT.

The decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota commodity rate case does not appear to leave much room for state regulation of railroad rates.

The court has not decided that the state cannot regulate intrastate rates, apparently, but it has practically prohibited the legislatures from providing penalties needed to make the rate laws effective, and it has opened the way for suits in the federal courts to prevent the states from enforcing their laws, the eleventh amendment to the federal Constitution to the contrary notwithstanding. These rulings will have the effect of making state attempts to regulate rates ineffectual, if they go so far as they seem to on the face of the decision.

The Minnesota legislature passed a law fixing certain commodity rates in this state, and making it a misdemeanor to charge more than these rates. The railroads got an injunction from the federal court restraining the state officers from enforcing the law. Attorney General Young, to test the case, violated the injunction, was fined $100 for contempt of court, and took the case to the United States supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus. The state held that the suit was in violation of the eleventh amendment to the Constitution in that it was in effect a suit against the state. Shrewd railroad attorneys declared that it was not, that it was simply a suit against the state officers, and the supreme court has agreed with them. You can't sue the state, but you can sue its officers and accomplish the same results.

This does not leave much of the eleventh amendment. It destroys the principle that a state cannot be sued. As to this particular point, perhaps no great harm is done. It is not entirely clear wherein justice is subserved by giving a state immunity from suit, a condition arising from the old doctrine that "the king can do no wrong."

But Justice Harlan, in his lone dissenting opinion, says that the decision establishes a dangerous precedent, and certainly those who don't want the authority of the states merged in the authority of the federal government will heartily agree with him. The supreme court held that the penalties provided by the rate law are so severe that they tend to prevent the railroads from resorting to the courts to test the law, since the only way to do it is to subject an employe to risk of imprisonment. Yet violation of the rate law is made a misdemeanor, the smallest offense known to the law, and certainly the state would look foolish if it enacted a law and provided no penalties by which it could be enforced.

The decision is important because it tends to break down the authority of the states and increase their domination by the federal government. It is still more important because it shows that the supreme court, not content with rendering statutory law nugatory, has in this case practically destroyed a part of the Constitution itself.

The decision did not directly involve the 2-cent passenger rate law, but since that also provides penalties for its violation, indirectly the holding kills that measure as well, if the railroads choose to attack it, though they had practically accepted its provisions.

In view of such decisions as this, it is absurd to call anarchists and social revolutionists the only fomenters of revolution.

BANKING INTEGRITY.

It is doubtful if the average bank depositor gives sufficient thought to the general high average of banking integrity in this country. It is high, extraordinarily and pleasingly high; and the percentage of banks that fail, of bankers that betray their trust, and of bank employes that go wrong, is ridiculously low.

It is well that this is so, since the integrity of his banker is absolutely the only security the depositor gets for his money; that and government and state regulation, which do not begin to weigh so much, under present conditions, as the individual integrity of the banker.

The occasional lapses simply go to prove, by their scarcity and by the public attention given them, the admirable conservatism, sound judgment and honesty of the average. Some banks have been known to use their funds in questionable exploitations, but usually improvised vigilance committees of bankers get after them and bring them back on the straight and narrow path again. That happened in New York last fall, and it had much to do, unfortunately, with the creation of popular distrust that precipitated the panic. Some bankers use trust funds in private enterprises, as Banker Walsh did in Chicago, but in such cases, too, the legitimate bankers are quick to spot such methods and to stop them. The banks of Chicago had as much to do with Walsh's arrest and conviction as the courts did.

Banks that content themselves with doing a banking business are in little danger from any source. That is the moral of the Heinze and Walsh incidents. The banks that were doing a banking business were strong enough in these cases to hold up themselves and the weaker banks as well.

Judge Anderson of Chicago, in sentencing Banker Walsh to five years in the penitentiary, a fate which he richly merited for his betrayal of trusting depositors for his own selfish ends, said some things which should be framed and hung in every bank in the country. Describing the downfall of Walsh, he said: "The banker was lost in the promoter, the speculator, the railroad man. The evidence clearly establishes this. He owed a duty to the bank, his master. He attempted to serve these other interests, the other masters. To my mind there has been in recent years no clearer demonstration of the statement that a man who is a banker ought to be nothing but a banker, and that until at least those bankers who own and manage national banks understand that when they serve their banks they cannot serve other interests—until that idea prevails cases like this will probably continue to arise."

Walsh was not serving any other interest, as banker, promoter, speculator and railroad man, except Walsh's. His first duty was to his depositors, his second to his bank, his last to himself. He put his own interests first, and forgot the interests of his bank. As a result, his schemes coming to naught, he faces five years in prison, and while there is pity for a vigorous career spoiled by improper direction, there is little sympathy for the betrayer of trust.

METERS AND FLAT RATES.

This newspaper's intimation that perhaps there is more than one side of the proposal to put the entire municipal water system upon a meter basis, abolishing peremptorily all flat rates, has not been altogether pleasing to some of the officials of the water and light department, who seem to see in it something inconsistent with The Herald's friendship for the municipal plants. Criticism of an item of the system of management is not unfriendly. Criticism never should be unfriendly at all, and none of The Herald's criticisms, of this or of anything else, is intended to be anything but friendly. Unfriendliness destroys the effectiveness of criticism.

The question of whether the installation of meters is an economical move is a proper subject for discussion. Its object is to prevent waste. If it prevents enough waste to make it pay, it is a good move. If it costs more than it saves, it should be well considered and slowly approached. The Herald pointed out that while the saving in water would be considerable, it is possible that the expense of producing the saving would be more than the amount saved. Certainly this is true so far as the item of pumping is concerned, and that is the only item that can, apparently, be immediately affected. It is true that ultimately it will affect other items, but The Herald has not even suggested that "ultimately" the system should not be put upon a meter basis.

But what need is there of doing it all at once? Unquestionably there are many to whom the necessity of paying $12 for a meter will be a hardship. This is apparent from the fact that there is much complaint about the move. It means a large expense to the consumers, and the installation, inspection and repairing of the meters involves an increase of the expense of handling the water plant.

It is stated that there are consumers with flat rates who are getting more water than they are paying for. Obviously, in such cases, their rates should be increased.

It is unquestionably true that the fairest way of doing this is to require each patron to pay for the water that he uses—no more and no less. That result is reached, it is claimed, by the meter system.

But admitting this to be true, why hurry? Why subject the community to an immediate and large expense in installing meters, instead of spreading the process over a decent length of time. A rule providing that no more flat rates would be made; that in any case where a change of location or ownership occurs the meter system should replace the flat rate system; and that a certain number of flat rates should be retired each year and replaced by meter rates, would accomplish the same result, and would give the community more time in which to adjust itself to the new arrangement.

Because a consummation is considered good is no reason why it may not be vexatious and burdensome to attempt to bring it about all at once.

LARGE AND SMALL SHIPS.

Discussing the passing of the lake vessel of small capacity and the coming of the lake vessel of large capacity, the Chicago Journal says: "Marine experts are not fully agreed as to whether the entire passing of smaller vessels out of commission is a healthy sign. That problem, too, will be solved with inland waterways expansion."

If there are marine experts who protest that the passing of the small vessel is not a healthy sign they are not making themselves very noticeable at present. It would be very hard indeed to put up an effective argument in favor of the small vessel and against the large one on the lakes. It seems clear to the average non-expert observer that the large vessel is an economic gain beyond the reach of reactionary or retrogressive argument. Where a vessel can be built that will carry 10,000 tons with very little more expense than a small vessel needs to carry 3,000 tons, the gain to society is very tangible and needs no argument for elucidation. It assuredly makes for cheaper freight rates, and cheaper freight rates make for greater business and the profiting of producers and consumers alike.

The coming of the lake vessel of large tonnage is very recent. Hardly a decade ago the grain-carrying record was broken by the Selwyn Eddy with 121,000 bushels of wheat. Now there are many vessels that carry much more than twice that much grain, and nothing is thought of it. Vessels of the Selwyn Eddy class are almost obsolete, and the traffic is largely governed by vessels of the modern 500-foot class.

The change came in response to a demand, and was made possible by government generosity in improvement of waterways. That it may involve some temporary hardship to owners of small vessels which are no longer able to compete is unpleasant but beside the question. The introduction of labor-saving machinery involved some temporary hardship to handworkers, but it was useless to fight against them in the interest of handworkers. The modern "trust," by its economies of energy and elimination of waste and friction, makes it hard for individual manufacturers to compete, but efforts to obstruct consolidation of capital on the ground that it injures individual competitors is as useless as the fight against labor-saving machinery—and fully as retrogressive.

The average tonnage is still increasing, though it has doubled in less than a decade. The average for 1905 was 1,689 net tons, and that for 1907 was 2,157 tons. This change signalizes not only the coming of the big vessels, but the passing of the small ones. It is a tendency that means progress, and progress is an immutable law of nature.

There would be as good a field for a case in behalf of the small vessel as against the large vessel as there would be in behalf of the sailing vessel as against the steamer, but it would not be a bit better. The sailing vessel had to give way to the steamer, and the small steamer must give away to the large steamer.

Yes, it is springlike, but don't change 'em yet.

A man who has been arrested in Paris is claimed to have made $12,000,000 through swindling operations. No, he was not an American promoter.

If the supreme court of the United States is not going to let the states regulate railroad rates, the federal government should ask its permission to take up the work.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

F. H. Peterson at the St. Louis, once witnessed this exciting game of bursting the melon over the head of the Congo brother. You stand off at a respectable distance, just far enough so that when the melon hits the black boy athwart of the kinky dome it will send him to the grass. Some of the huskies, with an arm like a stripped maple, are adepts at the game of knocking the pickaninnies to old Mother Earth. They think it is a better game than bowling, down there south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"Want to have some fine sports," said the host of Mr. Peterson. Visions of guns and dogs and things that one usually associates with the hunting field, sprang to the mind of the Northerner. "Sure thing, you know," he replied.

When they got to the field of the day's sport there were no dogs or guns, just a lot of loafers standing around the field, and some juvenile sons of Ham playing around the "sportsmen." Here was where the day's sport was to be pulled off.

The first pickanniny to toe the firing line was a mere infant in arms so to speak. A big, rough-necked man, let fly a melon that hit the lad abroad the forward turret. Down he went with a sickening thud. Murder, thought the Northerner, as the pieces of luscious melon formad a pink wreath around the form of the modern William Tell child. But, the little African was up and assimilating portions of the melon before the horror of the thing had penetrated to the visitor's brain.

And so the afternoon wore on. They didn't desert the field until the melon supply gave out. Some of the pickaninnies were gorged before the last melon was fired. They received enough cracks on the brain cage to pay the rent of twenty undertakers, yet not one of the darkies even complained of a headache after the day's melon bursting was over. They seemed sorry because there were no more melons to do the cranium bounce act with.

After the sport had progressed for an hour, says Mr. Peterson, some of the boys found it most difficult to get up after being sent a thumping to Mother Earth. The ballast of watermelon in the midships began to make them loggy. But if the brunette boy was too slow in arising he would find that other black boys had devoured the fragments of melon.

The melon heavers would shriek with laughter. It was the best sport ever, but to the northern mind it was the weakest effort to derive amusement out of overripe fruit and children with copper riveted heads, that ever man invented.

Henry Ribenack, one of the proprietors of the Lenox hotel, came near being ejected from his own fireside last night. Like Jane, who came from the city with a merry twinkle in her eye, Mr. Ribenack came trudging into the lobby expecting everything but the fatted calf. He came very near getting the hook.

Brother Henry has been up in the Wisconsin woods for the past month or so. Last night he waltzed in upon his unexpected friends with a regular Daniel Boone costume hung upon his frame. He had a pack upon his back as heavy as the burden of sin of the chap in Pilgrim's Progress.

He was about to be turned away from the desk when his brothers recognized their long absent blood relation. Loud were the exclamations of delight, joyous was the chorus of glee from the friends of the long gone host. Little circles formed around the mighty hunter. What promised to be a cold and chilly reception to the returning host, turned into a most cordial and soul-stimulating reunion.

But it looked bad for Henry, for a while.

W. H. Conley of Washington, at the Spalding, is another man who believes that a Johnson wave is sweeping over the country. Mr. Conley says sentiment in Washington is surely coming over to the Minnesota man. Every day his strength seems to increase. On the other hand, every day seems to bring forth some failing off of strength in the Bryan support. Mr. Conley believes that on the second ballot Bryan will be beaten, if the present sentiment in favor of Johnson continues.

At first the East was the only section of the country that expressed any real strong anti-Bryan sentiment. Now, however, the wave of feeling against the commoner seems to be attaining widespread proportions. Mr. Conley says the wave has struck Washington, where they believe that it will be impossible to elect Bryan.

They see a very good chance for Johnson, however, and the men who have the true interests of the party at stake are the ones who are heartily joining in the movement to nominate the Minnesota man.

THE WEATHER.

There was an ample variety of weather yesterday and last night. It got up to 42 degs., which is warm for the season; it produced a little rain, a little hail and a little snow; and then in the night the mercury ducked to 9 degs. above zero, so that this morning it was just crisply cool enough to be joyously invigorating. The weather man says it will be partly cloudy and warmer tonight and tomorrow, and that there may be snow flurries.

The sun rose this morning at 6:03 and sets tonight at 6:26, making 12 hours and 23 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Much colder weather prevails this morning in Canada, the lake region, Minnesota and the Dakotas as a result of a high pressure area that developed north of the Dakotas during the past twenty-four hours. Zero temperatures occurred this morning in the Red River valley, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Light to heavy falls of rain or snow occurred during Monday or last night in northern, eastern and southern districts attending barometric depressions central over British Columbia, Kansas and New England. Temperatures are due to falling pressures there. Indications rather favor nothreasterly winds and possibly snow flurries in this locality tonight and Wednesday."

Is Governor Johnson a Conservative?

Washington Herald: It is evident that the "conservative Democrats" who are pressing Governor Johnson of Minnesota as their presidential candidate have not taken the trouble to acquaint themselves with the policies to which Governor Johnson is committed nor the advanced views which he holds upon public questions. Governor Johnson, for instance, believes in the actual operation of the initiative and referendum, an idea which Mr. Bryan timidly suggested and then renounced with great promptitude when he discovered that the rank and file of his party did not uphold him in his position. It is true that Governor Johnson has not, so far as we are aware, advocated the government ownership of railroads, another suggestion which Mr. Bryan cast into oblivion almost as soon as he had brought it forth, but he is strongly in favor of municipal acquisition of street railway properties, and in the difference between his position and that assumed by Mr. Bryan is one of degree and not of principle.

It so happens that the most superficial seeker after information need have no difficulty in learning Governor Johnson's views. He has submitted several messages to the Minnesota legislature, the document of 1907, for instance, emulating one of President Roosevelt's ponderous utterances, inasmuch as it contained no less than 27,000 words. In this particular message he indulged in a lengthy discussion of many questions which are semi-national in their character. First of all, it is evident that his attitude toward corporations is not altogether friendly. He inveighed bitterly against the United States Steel corporation, which owns valuable iron ore deposits in Minnesota, because the amount which it pays in taxes bears such a small ratio to its enormous dividends. He has a similar complaint against the railroads. "The people should no longer," he writes, "be compelled to pay great dividends on money that the people themselves have put into railroads by reason of excessive rates of transportation." He was one of the first state executives to assert that "The time has come when relief is demanded in the matter of passenger rates." He urged the passage of a law requiring a flat fare of 2 cents a mile; and he went even further than President Roosevelt when he suggested legislation which would make the mandates of the railroad commission instantly effective, notwithstanding appeal. "A mandatory writ enforcing such orders," he asserted, "should be issued by the court as a matter of course, without trial of the question upon its merits." Surely there is nothing conservative about this language, and even though it was written before Governor Johnson was a factor in the presidential race, it is difficult to see how the Democrats who are concerned in the protection of corporate interests can in the future hope to find in him a man after their own minds.

Surely there is enough in all these declarations to prove that Governor Johnson is not only fully abreast of the most advanced ideas regarding the treatment of railroad and other corporations, but that he is really a step or two in advance of many radical thinkers. Still more certain is it that the conservatives who place their reliance upon him will awake to find themselves in a sadly shattered state of mind.

The Problem.

Oh, ye leap year maids, to the rescue haste—
A momentous question has risen—
When a leap year girl asks a young man's hand,
Should she get on her knees—or his'n?

Ludwig Kahn arrived home from New York this morning, being the last, but one, of a small coterie of Duluthians who were blizzard-bound last week. I. Freimuth, I. Bondy and Dr. Brown have arrived within the last two days, and Capt. Triggs, who was one of the party, is in Boston. Howard Pew, press agent of Gilmore's band, formerly of Duluth, was also caught in the storm. Mr. Bondy says that no storm that Minnesota ever had can be compared to the New York blizzard.

A meeting is called for this evening at the Bay View hotel at which all Scotchmen and descendants of Scotchmen are invited to be present. The object is to form a Scotch society, perhaps similar to the Caledonian society, at one time in active operation in Duluth. It is said that there are fully 1,000 Scotchmen living in Duluth.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Mankato Review: The Review believes that the presentation of Governor Johnson's name at Denver would mean more than idle compliment. We believe his nomination would cement the ranks of the party into a solid phalanx that would march to victory next November. And in that belief we heartily endorse the sentiment of the resolution of the state committee.

Anoka Free Press: It is clear that the Bryanites in this state have the shouters, while the Johnson followers have the votes. In the central committee meeting last week the shouters numbered twenty-three to the voters' sixty-eight. In the state at large the ratio of voters to shouters is at least five to one.

Albert Lea Standard: In any event, whatever may be the complexity or complication, it must and will be the irrevocable decree and dictum that if Minnesota Democracy cannot be for both Bryan and Johnson, it will be for one or the other of them and absolutely for no one else. Between the closest friends and supporters of both, among all Democratic Democrats, upon this proposition, at least, there will be no division of opinion.

Little Falls Transcript: Vasaly declared at the Democratic state committee meeting that he would not support Johnson if he was nominated by the interests. In Little Falls Vasaly will not support a candidate for city office unless he has the interests' tag on him. That condition reminds one of the chameleon that tried to match colors on the piece of plaid cloth.

Deer River News: Minnesota would like to have its favorite son for a candidate for the highest honor within the gift of the nation, and whether she would like to have him elected over the party's choice for that honor her people would carry the state for him almost solidly, but that need not carry with it the slightest threat as applicable to the state ticket. The state can do the right thing in both instances, elect its candidate president, and in state matters revive its old standing. It's a trade well worth trying.

Chaska Herald: As we understand the situation, Governor Johnson is only seeking an indorsement of his candidacy at the hands of the delegation from this state. This is not asking too much. Why deny him this homage from his home state? We can see no reason. They say Bryan can be nominated without Minnesota; if so, what good reason can be given for opposing the indorsement sought?

Glencoe Enterprise: Since there is no question as to his ability to perform the function of that office, should he be elected, Minnesota Democracy owes this indorsement to the chief state executive who has led them from oblivion to victory and served with honor to the people, his party and himself. Such indorsement does not, necessarily antagonize Bryan, for should the approaching state convention indorse Johnson—which it undoubtedly will—it is not to be presumed that the governor will expect the Minnesota delegation to oppose the Nebraskan. A vote to indorse Johnson at the state convention is a fitting compliment to him and a vote for Bryan, and the Democrat who would oppose this puts himself up as an obstruction to Johnson's future political chances. "Honor to whom honor is due."

Stewart Tribune: Governor Johnson should have the indorsement of his home state for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. If only as a matter of state pride and a partial recompense for what the governor has accomplished for Minnesota Democracy. There are hundreds and hundreds of Democrats throughout the state who have always been for Bryan (and will be again should he receive the nomination) who feel that in the present instance their support should be given our brilliant governor. Even, were there no hope of nominating him, he should be accorded the hearty support of his home state. As near as we can learn, the Tribune is expressing the wishes of the great majority of the Democrats of McLeod county when it favors the instruction of Minnesota's delegation to the national convention for John A. Johnson.

New York Press: A man may be a hero by staying married to a red-headed wife.

When a girl kisses her brother she watches to see how it would be if it were you.

Unless a man has a stroke of apoplexy from rage he will never admit he was more than annoyed.

A woman has such faith she can be sure the baby cries all the time because he's going to be a great orator.

Would Be Unanimous.

St. Cloud Times: The fact that Governor Johnson's name has been so prominently brought forward has led Minnesota Democrats to believe that the delegation from this state to the national convention should be made up of his friends. This has been the frequently expressed opinion of the Time, and it is our judgment now. This feeling is not in the nature of opposition to Mr. Bryan or any other possible aspirant. It is a belief that the Democracy of Minnesota owes it to Governor Johnson and to itself, to thus recognize the man who has twice led them to victory. If the Democrats of the state could individually express their wishes in this matter, they would speak emphatically and in an almost unanimous voice in favor of this recognition! But a shrewd, sharp and scheming coterie of politicians will attempt to defeat this sentiment of the party. It will be necessary for Governor Johnson's friends to be vigilant, alert and active!

LAUGHING GAS.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Well," remarked the convicted grafter to his pals, "some of the papers are sorry over the outcome."

"Sorry for us?"

"No-o, not exactly; but they seem to regret that two years is the limit."

Chicago Tribune: Tombstone Dealer (venturing to offer a suggestion)—"Entered Into Rest" would be a suitable motto, perhaps, to fill that blank space.

Widow—That wouldn't do at all. I guess you didn't know him. Wherever Jerry is, he's hustling around lively.

Philadelphia Press: "Well," said Mrs. Casey, proudly, "my Dennis was wan o' the pallbearers at the funeral o' the rich Michael Hooligan th'-day."

"Ay," retorted Mrs. Cassidy, jealously, "'twas well-fitted for the job yer husband was; shure, he's used to carryin' the bier that some wan else pays fur."

Baltimore American: "Did the bulls have it all their own way in the market today?"

"Well, for a time it looked like a toss-up."

Joe Cose—Well, not entirely. Any way, I haven't found automobile in my bologna as yet.

Philadelphia Press: Citiman—Kuteley seems better satisfied with his house in Swamphurst than he was. He says he's delighted with the place now.

Subbubs—Yes, I think he imagines if he goes on talking in that way somebody may overhear him some day and be foolish enough to buy him out.

"Don't you believe it; my wife has been laughing at me ever since I had the grip and I'm not a bit better."

RAILROAD SITUATION

Analyzed by Franklin K. Lane of Interstate Commerce Commission.

Says All Indications Point to An Improvement Generally.

Washington, March 24.—Every indication points to an improvement generally in the railroad and industrial situation of the country according to reports made by the great railway systems of America to the interstate commerce commission. These reports are to the effect that, while the railroads suffered to some extent by what has come to be referred to as the "October panic," the loss was by no means so serious as generally has been supposed.

It appears from the reports that the effect was felt particularly by the Eastern lines and by the lines in the Southeastern part of the country, a few of which were embarrassed not only by a falling off of revenues, but by their inability to obtain ready cash with which to carry on improvements which they had begun while the Western lines and the transcontinental roads have not suffered materially from the financial depression. The figures available to the interstate commerce commission indicate also that the general condition in the country is improving materially, with a prospect that it soon will be normal or better.

A Careful Analysis.

Franklin K. Lane, Pacific Coast member of the interstate commerce commission, has made a careful analysis of the figures submitted by the railroads themselves to the commission. Mr. Lane was asked what loss the railroads of America had sustained from the "October panic." He replied that the railroad situation the country over is not imminently a serious one at the present time.

"There are no figures accessible by which a definite answer to your question can be given," continued Commissioner Lane. "From the figures available to the commission, however, it does not appear that, taking the country as a whole, the revenues of the railroads have fallen off to the extent that generally is believed. The interstate commerce commission now calls upon the carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce for monthly reports of their revenues and operating expenses. Such reports began with the month of July last, and I have the figures compiled by Prof. Henry C. Adams, our statistician, as to a number of systems which may be taken as representative of the railroad systems of the entire country. These systems are: New York, New Haven & Hartford; New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, east and west of Pittsburg, Southern Railway, Louisville & Nashville, Rock Island, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Northwestern, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific.

"During the three months July, August and September, the total operating revenues of these roads amounted to $399,000,000; for the panic months of October, November and December, the total revenue was $376,000,000. The freight revenues of the systems named were, for the first quarter, $264,000,000, and for the second quarter, $259,000,000. The freight revenues for November were larger than those for July or September.

Net Income Greater.

"These systems during the last six months of 1907 received from passenger and freight revenues a grand total of $775,000,000, which is $54,000,000 more than they received for the same period in the preceding year, 1906, and their net income from operation in 1907 was $14,000,000 more than in 1906. These figures certainly do not indicate that, either owing to legislation or the panic, the railroads of the country as a whole have been put in financial jeopardy. It is true that during 1907 there was a great increase in operating expenses owing to general increase in wages; but, allowing for such increase, the large volume of traffic and greater revenue derived therefrom yielded a larger net return to railroads.

"A study of these figures shows that the panic, so far as it affected the railroads, extended but slightly beyond Chicago towards the West. If we take the transcontinental roads reaching to the Pacific coast, we find that every one of them increased its gross operating revenues during the last half of the year 1907. Beginning with the Great Northern, which is near the Canadian border, and coming down the Pacific coast to the Mexican border, thus including the Northern Pacific, the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe system, each one increased its total operating revenues in the last half of 1907 over those revenues for the last half of 1906, while the net income was in some cases increased and in others slightly decreased; the net income from operation in each of these lines being, Santa Fe, $13,000,000; Northern Pacific, $15,000,000; Great Northern, $12,000,000, and Southern Pacific $41,000,000 for the six months. Taking freight revenues alone, the Santa Fe system, for instance, shows larger freight revenues in December than in July or September, and the Southern Pacific's December freight revenues were but a few thousand dollars less in that month than in any other month excepting October and November. We find, therefore, no alarming condition presented as to the transcontinental lines.

Increased Its Revenues.

"Coming this side of the Rocky mountains, we see that the Rock Island, notwithstanding the state legislation to which it has been subjected, increased its revenues during the last half of 1907 over those of 1906 by over $3,000,000. The whole of its net income from operation, $17,000,000, was over $1,000,000 less than for the corresponding six months of 1906. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul shows a decrease of approximately $200,000 in operating revenues, and the Northwestern system an increase of about the same amount; although the Milwaukee's net income was larger in 1907 than in 1906.

"Moving still further eastward into trunk line territory between Chicago and the Atlantic seaboard, we discover that the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania lines, both east and west of Pittsburg, increased their total revenues for the freight and passenger traffic in the July-December period of 1907 over that of 1906; and as to both the New York Central and the Pennsylvania lines the net income from operation was greater in 1907 than for the corresponding period of the year previous. The returns from these roads indicate, however, that the panic had its center in their territory, as there is a more notable falling off in revenues from traffic in this group during the panic months than on any other, excepting the Southern roads.

"The single New England road taken as an illustration, the New York, New Haven & Hartford, shows an increase of over $1,000,000 in gross revenues and a decrease of about $250,000 in the net.

"The two Southern roads, the Louisville & Nashville and the Southern, increased their total revenues from traffic, their total operating expenses, and also their net income from operation, over the corresponding half year of 1906.

Outlook Not Disquieting.

"Therefore, viewing the country as a whole, from West to East and from North to South, the outlook for the railroads of the United States, as shown by their own figures, is not so disquieting as has been supposed; and these figures, it must be remembered, include at least two months after the panic began in New York during a greater portion of which time banks would not make loans or discounts, and railroads in many parts of the country would not receive checks in payment of freight.

"Although the returns to the commission for January have not yet been tabulated, it is probable that they will show that conditions have been worse than in December; but this is also to be borne in mind, that the month of January is generally the slackest month during the year, and February is also poor. There are, no doubt, individual instances in which the revenues of roads have seriously declined during the past three months over corresponding periods for several years past; but there are also individual instances in which, singular to say, the last three months have been as good as any corresponding three months in other years, and in one case, the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, the commission has been officially informed that the past three months have been the best in the road's entire history.

"There can be no question but that within the past three weeks there has been a strong upward tendency in freight revenues. A greater volume of traffic is moving today than has been moved at any time during the past two, and perhaps three, months. The figures of the American Railway association show that there is less surplus of cars at this time than at any period since Oct. 30. This promises an early return to more normal conditions, and railroad men generally are more optimistic than they have been since the Knickerbocker Trust company closed its doors. But the increase from $483,000,000 in 1906 to $523,000,000 in 1907, on the systems with which I have dealt, still leaves a larger net income for 1907 than for 1906 by nearly $14,000,000."

GREAT WESTERN WINS IN SUPREME COURT.

Washington, March 24.—The case of the Interstate commerce commission vs. the Chicago Great Western railway company, known as the meat rate case, and involving the right of the company to reduce the freight rate on live stock products without making a similar reduction in the rate on live-stock itself, was decided by the supreme court of the United States yesterday in favor of the company. The suit was instituted in the interest of the city of Chicago, it being alleged that the change had worked incalculable hardship to Chicago by diverting shipments of livestock from that city to St. Paul and to Missouri river points. The interstate commerce commission found that the rate on one article without a corresponding change on the other was unlawful, but the court refused to uphold that view.

FOUBISTER RESOLUTION PASSED BY COUNCIL

Aldermen Will Grant No More Licenses to Brewery Saloons.

Confirmation of Mayor's Appointments is Again Laid Over.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Voted down substitute for Foubister resolution declaring against brewery saloons and adopted resolution by vote of 11 to 4.

Postponed action on resolution confirming appointments of health commissioner and city engineer for one week.

Instructed city attorney to report if amendment of the charter to allow a board of assessors, instead of one assessor, would be legal.

Ordered extension of three months for payment of advance assessment for improvement of Second street, between Seventh and Thirteenth avenues east.

Received protest against improvement of Fourth street and announcement of public hearing by committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks Wednesday afternoon.

Much of the excitement, which was expected at last night's council meeting did not materialize. On request of the Republican aldermen, the question of confirming Mayor Haven's appointment of E. K. Coe, city engineer, and Dr. F. J. Patton, health commissioner, was laid over for one week. The Epper license, which was expected to precipitate a clash, was not reported.

A split in which is known as the "anti-ild" faction of the council pulled Alderman Foubister's resolution, declaring it the policy of the council that no liquor license be granted except to those who are to be in actual charge of the saloons, through. Led by Alderman Shartel, a fight was made on the resolution, through a substitute, which follows:

"Resolved, that it be expressed as the policy of this council that hereafter, where there is more than one applicant for a license to sell intoxicating liquors at the same location, or where there are competing applications for different locations, that the preference will be given to the party actually conducting the business, provided that this council finds that such applicant is a responsible party."

The introduction of the substitute by Alderman Shartel brought the supporters of the Foubister resolution into a vigorous attack on it. Alderman Moore declared it would defeat the purpose of the original resolution, inasmuch as the breweries could easily prevent conflicting applications, and they could easily retain their power through the concentration of ownership of saloons.

In support of his substitute, Alderman Shartel declared that he was not averse to granting licenses to the individuals who are to conduct the saloons, but he thought also the breweries should be given a fair deal. He said he would give the council the right to use its own discretion in granting licenses, so that it may choose the most responsible party and vest the right in him. The brewery agents, he said, are often more responsible than the actual owners of the saloons, and more easy for the council to reach. He served notice that he was not on the floor as the champion of the brewery interests, but he believed in treating them as fairly as anybody else.

Alderman Moore pointed out that when jewelry auction licensse are issued they go to the man actually to use them, and other licenses are the same way. He said the council would then be able to reach the licensee, whereas the substitute would defeat the purpose of the Foubister resolution.

Alderman Tessman said that in many cases the breweries do not hold the licenses through choice, but merely because the saloonkeeper wants them to, and they do so as an accommodation.

Alderman McKnight announced that the breweries wanted a definite declaration of policy. They protested when the council took sumniary action on a previous occasion, saying that they did not have sufficient notice. He said the council should make a clear-cut declaration of policy one way or the other, and give the breweries a chance to adapt themselves to the policy, whatever it may be. The substitute was lost by a vote of 6 to 9, Aldermen Fillatrault, Jordan, Mueller, Ribenack, Shartel and Tessman voting for it.

Alderman Tessman asked for a legal opinion on the Foubister resolution before it was put to a vote, and the city attorney announced that, though the resolution was a declaration of policy, it need not necessarily be binding on the members of the council, who could vote as they pleased on any question. The original resolution passed, with only Aldermen Jordan, Mueller, Shartel and Tessman voting against it.

The bill of Contractor P. McDonnell for interest on the final payment for the Ramsey street pavement, which was held up for some weeks by an appeal from the assessment caused something of a discussion again last night. The committee on claims and the city attorney reported that in such cases formerly, the bills were paid. The committee also censured property owners, who held up assessments in that way, and thus caused the city to be compelled to pay heavy bills for interest. Action on the bill was laid over for a week.

But one vote was taken on the election of a harbormaster last night, the deadlock between Burke and Neville still holding. It was laid over for another week.

A protest was received from people living in the vicinity of Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street against the location of the oil house and storage sheds of the Standard Oil company in that vicinity, as they regard it as dangerous.

The building inspector reported that the Standard Oil company wants to build a barn within eighty-five feet of the street line and points out that in order to issue a permit for it, the council must grant him permission by a two-third vote.

A communication was received from the mayor calling attention to the explosion at the mouth of the Wisconsin Central tunnel last Saturday and requesting that an examination be made of the methods employed in carring on the work there.

City Attorney C. S. Wilson announced that he would appoint Edwin J. Kenney special counsel for the prosecution of criminal cases and a resolution was passed authorizing the action.

An estimate was received from the city engineer for the construction of a sewer on St. Croix avenue from the railroad tracks to Sutphin street and on Sutphin street to the Lake avenue sewer at a cost of $2,170.08.

The board of public works reported that at a meeting yesterday, O. G. Olson was elected president and R. Murchison clerk of the board.

The council last night made appropriations of $500 for the Duluth Children's Home society and $300 for the Duluth Humane society.

The city clerk reported last night that, the request for information relative to brewery agents holding saloon licenses, having been modified, he had complied such information as he could secure from the records of his office and the city directory. He reported the agents of breweries, in whose name saloon licenses were held, and also the people, who were reported convicted of violation of the liquor laws during the past year. The report showed that sixty-five licenses in Duluth are held in the name of brewery agents.

FAILED TO PAY HIS OWN TAXES.

New York, March 24.—Tax Commissioner Nicholas J. Muller was removed from office last night by Mayor McClellan. In his letter to Muller, announcing the dismissal, the mayor explains that during his term of office Muller's duly assessed taxes with penalties and interest amounting to thousands of dollars, have remained unpaid.

MUCH SNOW REMAINING

Many Logging Camps Still Able to Conduct Operations.

Labor Conditions Result in Larger Profits to Operators.

"There is still plenty of snow in the woods, only it is pretty soft in places," said E. L. Gamble, a logging contractor from the north shore district, who arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from the scene of logging operations. "A good many of the winter camps may be able to run three weeks longer. Especially is this true where ice roads are in use.

"City people would be surprised if they could see some of these ice roads. They have been sprinkled every day since early in the winter, and the result is from fourteen to twenty inches of solid ice under the runners of the sleighs. These ice ridges will be standing even after the snow has disappeared, and, of course, sleighs can be run along such an iced course even after the snow roads have been left out of commission.

"This has been a prosperous winter for men in the logging business, although the total cut for the season will be considerably smaller than a year ago, taking the whole of Northern Minnesota into consideration.

"In some sections it may run heavier, but in most cases it will run much lighter than usual. One thing that has controbuted to the profits of the logger is the fact that not much more than half the wages of last year have been paid, and not only this, but the men have stuck to their jobs better, and have worked harder.

"It is a curious circumstance that the lower the wages the better the men will stick to work in the woods. With top-notch wages being paid, they are apt to change camps every two or three weeks. High wages mean a scarcity of men and plenty of jobs, while low wages mean just the contrary. During the past winter the men knew very well that if they quit one job they might not be able to land in another, and consequently they have been very good, and the contractors thus have been able to get the best possible results from their work. Low wages and good results from the men mean increased profits for the the camp operators.

"Some of the tie camps will not do so very well, taking the season as a whole, because of the falling off in the demand for this product. The railroads seem to have greatly curtailed construction work, and the demand for ties is far below what was expected earlier in the season."

CHINA WANTS TO SEE FLEET

Washington, March 24.—China, through Minister Wu Ting Fang, its diplomatic representative in Washington, has extended a cordial invitation for the American fleet to stop in China on its way around the world. On receipt of a dispatch from the minister of foreign affairs for China yesterday, indicating that instructions have been given to welcome the vessels, Minister Wu promptly sent a letter to Secretary Root. The cablegram, upon which Minister Wu based his invitation, came from the minister of foreign affairs at Pekin, substantially in the following words:

"As the American fleet is to visit the Far East, we have given telegraphic instructions to the viceroy at Nanking to make suitable preparations in conjunction with Admiral Sah, the ranking officer of the navy, to welcome the fleet to Chinese shores."

It is hoped at the legation that a favorable response will be made by this government to the invitation and the officials at the legation are confident that a hearty reception will be given to the officers and men of the fleet wherever the ships may stop.

Shanghai is the only port of any consequence in the viceroyalty of Nanking, so it is evidently the expectation of the Chinese authorities that the fleet will stop there in the event that the government feels that any more stops than those already announced should be made.

Information has reached the navy department that New Zealand and Tasmania have sent similar invitations by mail.

DISHONEST LOCATERS.

Some in Business Give Wrong Descriptions to Customers.

It is understood that a number of dishonest land locaters are doing business in the Duluth district, claiming to put men and women on tracts of land covered with large bunches of timber, while in reality they are putting them on some worthless piece of swamp land.

Officials of the local land office take pains to warn people against persons whom they know to be dishonest, but in many cases the would-be claimholder pays no attention to the well-meant advice. It is an easy matter for a locater to fool the average man who wants to take up a homestead. The general public, as a rule, knows absolutely nothing about the lay of the land, directions or locations.

When he is taken out and shown a bunch of timber, he can be handed any kind of a description, and cannot say whether it is right or wrong. In some cases three or four men are located on the same claim, and none of them has the right description.

BODY OF INFANT FOUND IN MAILS.

Denver, March 24.—Postmaster C. Olerach of Portales, N. M., has reported to E. L. McKee, chief postoffice inspector of the Rocky mountain region, the discovery of the body of a dead infant in the mail. The package was addressed to Royal Carr, Roswell, N. M., and bore the return address of Ida Rhoes Carr, Woodstock, Ills. Under the cover of the package was the following inscription:

Postmaster C. Olerach turned the body over to the authorities at Portales. Inspector McKee states that an investigation will be made.

Your Way

You bake beans in a home oven.

The maximum heat is 200 degrees. In the center of the baking dish, by actual test, it is about 100 degrees.

It requires a fierce heat to break down the fibre of beans, and you cannot supply it.

The result is a heavy food, hard to digest.

You bake beans in a dry heat.

The result is the top beans are crisped. The beans in the center are not even half baked.

You burst the skins, so that the beans become mushy, rather than mealy. Every bean should be whole.

You spend hours in the soaking, the boiling, the baking; and consume considerable fuel.

The bother is irksome. The dish that results is not very good, nor good for you. You think once a week is enough.

Yet it isn't your fault. You simply lack the facilities.

Our Way

We heat our ovens to 245 degrees.

A thermometer is attached to each oven, so the heat never varies. We bake the beans 90 minutes.

That terrific heat separates the atoms, so the digestive juices can get to them. A lesser heat will not do it. Beans, to be digestible, must be factory cooked.

We bake in live steam.

The result is, each separate bean is baked thoroughly, and all are baked alike. None are browned, none are broken.

The beans are baked until they are mealy. Yet they are nutty because they are whole.

We bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, and get our delicious blend.

We send our beans to you ready to serve.

Put the can in hot water ten minutes—then open. That's all. You then have a steaming hot meal, fresh and savory.

And such a meal! Your people will want Van Camp's every day when they know them. So keep a dozen cans in the house.

Van Camp's PORK AND BEANS

BAKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE

You don't know what you miss—you who don't use Van Camp's. Beans are Nature's choicest food—23% nitrogenous; 84% nutriment. Like meat in their food value; not like it in cost. They are appetizing and hearty; all people like them. They should be a daily dish—not an occasional. You will eat more of them when you know Van Camp's.

We Pay $3.45

We could buy tomato juice for 75c per barrel. Yet we pay $3.45 for just the ripe tomatoes used in a barrel of ours.

The difference is this: Cheap tomato sauce is made from tomatoes picked green and ripened in shipment. Such sauce is flat.

Else it is made of scraps from a canning factory. Such sauce is not rich.

We use only whole tomatoes ripened on the vines, picked when the juice fairly sparkles.

Thus we supply that superlative zest, that flavor, that tang, which Nature alone can give.

We spend exactly five times as much to make this sauce as other sauce costs ready-made. But you will say the result is worth it.

We could buy beans as low as 30c per bushel, yet we pay $2.10 for ours.

We buy Michigan beans, because a certain soil there produces the best beans grown.

The choicest part of the crop is picked over by hand, so we get only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

We use only succulent, corn-fed pork.

No wonder your grocer has brands that cost less, yet pay him a better profit.

But you won't like the cheap beans. Your people won't eat them often.

It is far more economical to serve the best beans—beans that you can't serve too often. Then serve them in place of meat.

We have spent 47 years in perfecting this dish. And Van Camp's now command, by several times over, the largest sale in the world.

Prices: 10, 15 and 20c per can.

WILL FILL NEW HOME

Y. M. C. A. Has All Members It Can Comfortably Care for.

New Bnilding Will be None Too Large From Outset.

One month before the new building of the Young Men's Christian association is ready for occupancy, the association finds itself with all the members it can comfortably care for.

It was thought when the new building was erected at a cost approximately $175,000 that it would be ample in size to accommodate all the members the association would be able to secure for years to come.

The recent campaign for 1,000 new members, however, proved successful beyond the fondest hopes, and instead of 1,000 new members, nearly 1,700 were secured, bringing the total up above the 2,500 mark.

The building is planned to accommodate approximately 2,500 members and from the day that it enters the new structure the association will have as big a membership as it can comfortably care for if they make as frequent use of the privileges as is expected.

The situation is not worrying the directors, however, as the city was most thoroughly canvassed during the campaign, and practically every young man who could be induced to join the association is now a member.

Few people realize what a magnificent building the new structure is, and the opening will be a revelation to many. The building has been most carefully planned, and it is difficult to imagine anything that a first-class club for young men would need that is not provided, from the cement hand-ball court to the bowling alleys and barber shop.

IS MENACE TO HEALTH

Constant Danger to the People Living in That Vicinity.

With all its reputation for being a healthful place in which to live, and of being a city especially careful in looking after the welfare of its people, both as to health and otherwise, Duluth at present has an open sewer flowing through the heart of the residence district. It is a menace to every one living in the vicinity, and numerous complaints are being registered against it.

Brewery creek is the offending stream. It empties into the lake between Eighth and Ninth avenues east. Originally it was as pretty a little creek as any one could wish to see, and doubtless its waters were as pure as the waters of any of the north shore streams. That was before people living along its banks turned it into a sewer, however.

Twelve houses, forty-nine flats and St. Luke's hospital have the creek as an outlet for their sewers, and the creek has developed into an open sewer that is a serious menace to health. During the warm weather it emits a foul odor that is very offensive. People in that district are beginning to recognize the danger into which they are put by means of this exposed sewage, and are determined to bring about some improvement before the warm weather arrives.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Will Young, of 6 Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

STREET WORK IS POSTPONED

Improvement of Second Street Held Up Three Months.

The report of the council committee last evening, favoring a three months' extension on the assessments for the improvement of Second street, between Seventh and Thirteenth avenues east, was the first victory secured by the forces operating to hold up street improvements this year. The resolution, which was adopted, holds up the payment of advance assessments for three months, and, as the board of public works has no funds available, the work on the street will consequently be held up also.

Another protest was received last night from Fourth street property holders, who claim that on account of the financial conditions, they would not be able to bear the expense of improving Fourth street this year and request the council to hold it up for a year. The committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks announced that it would have a public hearing on the question of the improvement Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the council chamber at the city hall, where the petitioners and protesting parties would both be heard.

AGENTS WILL BE PROSECUTED

City Attorney Will Act in Employment Office Cases.

That legal action is to be taken against the employment offices, who use improper methods in the conduct of their business was the announcement of the special council committee appointed some weeks ago to investigate the offices. The committee met with the chief of police, complaining parties and representatives of the offices last week and heard the evidence and explanations. The evidence was submitted to the city attorney to proceed against at least one of the agencies. The committee suggested that the investigation should be continued in order to further investigate the charges before the committee and any other charges, which may be presented. The committee announced that, in its opinion, at least some of the employment offices pursue questionable methods in the conduct of their business, and the police department has been requested to thoroughly investigate any charges of irregularities.

GETS DAMAGES FOR INJURIES

Damages in the sum of $1,000 were awarded Miss Ida Ostlund against the Duluth Belt Line Railway company, by a sealed verdict returned in the district court this morning. The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon, and the agreement was reached during the night.

Miss Ostlund sprained her ankle in jumping from a moving car on the defendant company's line last September, when a collision was thought to be imminent. She claimed that she was told to jump by the employe in charge of the car. Claiming that her injury will affect her for a long time, if not permanently, Miss Ostlund sued for $4,000 damages.

The company claimed that she was assisted from the car, and that the injury to her ankle was not serious. Testimony was introduced to the effect that the plaintiff limped worse when in the vicinity of the car line than anywhere else.

HIS MIND IS BLANK.

Missing Man Located, But Can't Account for Actions.

Langdon, N. D., March 24.—John Perkins of Langdon has been located in St. Louis, after a remarkable experience. He has lost all recollection of the past and is in hard straits for money. Doctors in St. Louis found indications that Perkins was a Langdon man and sent word to this city. Perkins' photograph was forwarded to the physician and he was identified. Langdon friends have made arrangements to help out Perkins.

ON THE IRON RANGES

EVERYBODY MUST HELP LIQUIDATE

Expense of Keeping Eveleth Property Clean, Say Business Men.

Eveleth, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last night's meeting of the Business Men's association took up the subject of a sewer for sanitary and drainage purposes along Monroe street and finally got down to business by appointing a committee composed of Mayor Smith, J. J. Gleason and G. Cerveny to confer with the council, so that the latter body should investigate the subject with sanitary engineers, secure estimates of costs and then lay the result of its labors before the business men and see what action they would take in the matter. Supt. Hearding explained to the meeting that his position was misunderstood by some people. He thought it would be best for the city that the $15,000 levy for the sewer along Monroe street should be turned into a revolving fund by assessing the property that would be improved by the new sewer. The law on the subject of constructing of sewers is very ambiguous, as one clause says, that the council may levy taxes for the construction, while another states that the engineer must charge it up to the abutting property. As far as the mining company was concerned, he said, they would be better off if the cost was charged up to the general fund.

This would indicate that the construction of sewers in town has been illegal as the cost has been charged up to the general fund while the ordinance says it may be charged up to the adjoining property owners.

The question of the way the city should be cleaned was thoroughly discussed. Dr. Moro said that the city should pay for cleaning up the city, as it had done before, because if the cleaning was left to the property owners, the city would be very dirty and unsanitary. Some of the members present thought that the cost should be charged to general tax fund as heretofore. After the discussion, the motion put by Secretary S. Sax and seconded by J. J. Gleason, that the city should tend to the cleaning up, and that the cost be charged to the general fund, was carried by a rising vote.

SPORTSMEN ORGANIZE CLUB.

Hibbing, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—To protect and propagate fish and game in and around Swan lake, a sheet of water four miles long and from one to two miles wide, in Itasca county, and easily reached from here by rail, the Swan Lake Rod & Gun club was organized at a meeting held here last night.

Every member of the club will be a deputy game warden and every effort will be put forth to make the lake and its vicinity a sportsman's paradise. To this end poachers, dynamiters and other illegal hunters and fishermen will be rigidly dealt with. The lake and its tributary waters will be stocked with fish and wild rice will be planted in the numerous bayous and nearby ponds and lakes.

State and Lumber Company Have Arrived at Agreement.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The $24,000 damage suit that the state of Minnesota has been prosecuting in Judge Kelly's court against the Tower Lumber company and the Tower Boom company, on allegations that the defendants had prevented by their acts the gathering of pike spawn from the Pike river, in St. Louis county, was settled before it reached the jury.

It is understood that the terms of the understanding comprehend the payment to the state of a nominal amount, such as $250, and the preservation to the state of the right to take pike spawn from the point of the river described—that is, just below the falls on the river, where the pike are accustomed to assemble in the last part of April.

As the defendant company owns the land on the river near the point where the agents of the game and fish commission collect spawn, the state can easily be assured and secured in the right to do its work at that point by the proper action of the two companies.

PERISHED IN CAVE-IN.

Chisholm, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Michael Stanich, a Montenegrin, was held Sunday at 2 p. m. The funeral procession was preceded by a band. Interment was made at Hibbing. He was killed while at work at the Chisholm mine Saturday, at 10 a. m. He was blasting with a fellow workman down in the mine and after setting the fuse they each went in the opposite direction, Stanich to the back and his partner to the front. The dynamite exploded and partly caved the wall in. The shock set the ceiling overhead of Stanich to caving and covered him up. After he was dug out he was found to be dead. His partner escaped without a bruise.

SOON START WALDO MILL.

Two Harbors Gun Club to Prepare for Summer---Other Events.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. B. Chandler, formerly agent and operator for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad at a number of points, is in the city visiting friends.

Agent C. H. Morril of Eveleth was in town recently on business.

The Two Harbors Gun club will hold a meeting soon to effect a reorganization and arrange for the coming season's sport. There is much favorable sentiment towards forming a Rod and Gun club, there being plenty of enthusiasts here and enough to make the organization a great success.

The Lunz Lumber company have about 450,000 feet of logs in their pond at Waldo, and will start their mill within a few weeks on their summer cut. The logs were cut and skidded last winter, but on account of the heavy snow they were unable to get them out of the woods.

The roads are now in very poor shape for sleighs, and wood hauling has about stopped until the dry weather.

Very few cedar posts and poles have been cut in this section, the market for them being slack and there being a better demand for cedar ties.

The Mile 60 log run worked Sunday to supply cars and switching for Colvin & Rolb at Spur 60, who are rushing shipments to get cleaned up this week.

USING IRON RANGE CARS.

Being Taken Off Line Loaded With Pulpwood.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in the history of the Duluth & Iron Range the company is putting many of its box and gondola cars to be loaded wth pulpwood and lumber for the Wisconsin mills and other points off its line. Heretofore, shippers have been supplied with cars from the connecting lines, but the Duluth & Iron Range has been adding largely during the past few years to its equipment of box and coal cars to keep up with the demands of traffic, and with the present slack business have more cars than they have use for and are permitting the surplus to be loaded for points off its line, thus earning a small revenue from them.

THE "RIGHTEOUS ARMY"

the right to die for duty is also the rule of nature.

"But, alas, grievous times have come upon Korea, our compatriots. We who have been educated by our 500-year-old dynasty, and raised up by our 4,000-year-old ancestry, have come under the domination of the barbarous savage Islanders—the Japanese. They have swooped upon our country and are indulging their barbarous appetites with a cruel heart. It is so much we could not say it with our tongues, nor could we write with our pens.

Japs Enemy of Korea.

"The Japanese have abdicated our emperor, destroyed our villages, killed our brethren, robbed our land, seized our benefits, and are the enemy, not only of Korea, but of all the world, for they have violated the peace of humanity.

"Compatriots, we must unite and consecrate ourselves to our land, and restore our independence. We are sure our God will help us. We must all do our best to kill all Japanese, their spies, allies and barbarous soldiers.

"The Japanese may compare the rising of our righteous army to the attempt of an insect to move a big tree, but right is on our side, and we are confident that in the end we shall be victorious, opposing their treachery with the justice of our cause. We will sacrifice our lives to their guns and swords, and as the front men fall, the men behind them will take their places. Defeated today, we will again attack on the morrow, until our vow to exterminate the Japanese, or die, has been accomplished.

"General Korean Righteous Army."

Says Stevens Betrayed Them.

I. W. Paik, national president of the Korean Reform league, in commanding the action of the conspirators is as follows:

"Stevens met the fate that comes to all betrayers," he said.

"He came into Korea from America, which we have always regarded as our best friend among the nations. He betrayed us. He told us that the nation we most hate must be accepted as our master, and he told us that the two Koreans most despised in their own land were the only ones to lead us as we should go. But we are not fools nor dogs to submit."

"Who are the two Koreans most hated in their own land?" Paik was asked.

Ye Wan Wong, the prime minister, who also is a Japanese spy, and Song Pung Caun, the minister of agriculture," he replied.

"And they will be laid low, too," he added.

There are said to be 700 Koreans in the two revolutionary leagues here and these are working with a million more who have fled into Siberia and Russia to rouse the courage of their countrymen to the point of turning upon Japan and driving her out of their land, which the patriots here say are being robbed and pillaged by the brown conquerors.

Stevens in Good Condition.

San Francisco, March 24.—Dr. F. H. Zumwalt, who made a very careful examination of the wounds of D. W. Stevens, the American diplomat, whose assassination was attempted yesterday by two Koreans, said last night that the patient was in excellent condition considering the seriousness of his injuries. He continued:

"One bullet entered just below the right shoulder blade and I am inclined to think that it penetrated the lung. The other entered near the pelvis and narrowly missed the spinal cord. We know the spinal cavity is intact from the fact that there have been no signs of paralysis. Nor is there any evidence that the bullet entered the abdomen.

"We shall wait a few days until the patient has recovered from the shock, when we will locate the bullets with the X-ray, and operate for their removal. The danger of operating at present, while the patient is weak from the shock, is too great."

Dr. Zumwalt added that the patient's temperature was normal, and that he was resting comfortably, his pulse being 90 and his respiration 24.

BABY TORTURED FOR 6 MONTHS

By Terrible Itching Eczema—Face and Head a Solid Sore—Spread to His Hand and Legs—Would Scratch Until He Bled—Tiny Sufferer Immediately Relieved and

"When my son Walter was three weeks old, eczema appeared on his face. We did not know what it was so went to a doctor who treated him for three months. Then he was so bad that his face and head were nothing but one sore and his ears looked as if they were going to fall off, so we tried another doctor. He said he could cure him and we doctored there four months, the baby never getting any better. His hand and legs then had big sores on them and as for his sleeping, we could not think of it, the poor little fellow suffered so terribly. First I tied his hands to the crib to keep him from scratching, but when it got so bad I tied him in a shawl or he would scratch himself all bloody. When he was seven months old we tried a set of the Cuticura Remedies. The first application of Cuticura let him sleep and rest well, in one week the sores were gone but it stayed red and sometimes it would itch so we used Cuticura for two months, then he had a clear and white face. Now he is two years and seven months old and has never had eczema again. I hope this letter will help some who are suffering from skin disease. Every mother who has a baby suffering with skin disease should just try Cuticura, there is nothing better. Mrs. Louis Beck, R. F. D. 3, San Antonio, Tex., Apr. 15, '07."

Diet vs. Cosmetics

Good Food Clears the Complexion.

The best "Beauty Doctor" in the world is a good, pure food. Rich, greasy, or poorly cooked foods will ruin the finest complexion a woman was ever blessed with, and all the cosmetics and treatments she may give it will only cover up, not remove the blemishes.

The treatment must come from the inside, for the pores of the skin must have the proper food to be healthy.

"Grape-Nuts food has done me a world of good. Some years ago I fell a victim to a serious illness, which did great damage to my constitution. I gave up hope of ever recovering my natural good health until last winter, when tempted to try Grape-Nuts more from a liking for that kind of food than from any hope of it doing me good.

"I found to my surprise after trial of a week or two that I was getting quite plump, my voice much stronger, and my complexion was becoming beautifully clear. In fact, since eating Grape-Nuts my friends say I look to years younger, and I believe them, as my glass tells me it is true."

ARGYLE BANKER OPTIMISTIC.

Says Future of Red River Valley Was Never Brighter.

Crookston, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. L. Melgaard of Argyle, one of the leading bankers of Marshall county, who is also interested in about a dozen other banks in the northern counties of the state, was in the city yesterday, and in discussing conditions in the Red River valley, said:

"Never since I have been in the Red River valley, which numbers over a score of years, have I noted a greater degree of optimism among the farmers. I say farmers advisedly, for it is but within the past year or two that we could properly call them farmers. They were formerly wheat-raisers and not farmers in the broader sense of the word.

"Last week we had a farmers' institute at Argyle, and though we have a commodious hall, it was entirely inadequate. There were over 300 farmers present, and the way they fired questions regarding clover-raising and other pasture grasses and dairying was certainly gratifying. When time came for final adjournment they hung on, and all seemed loath to leave the hall. They gathered about the institute leaders and filled them with all manner of questions, and later gathered in knots in stores and other places and talked diversified farming, exchanging views, etc., displaying an unprecedented interest in all branches of farming."

Jury Holds City Partially Responsible for Sprained Ankle.

Mrs. Katherin Ferguson was awarded $500 damages against the city of Duluth for a sprained ankle, by a verdict returned in district court last evening. She sued the city for $3,600. Mrs. Ferguson recently effected a settlement with the Duluth Telephone company, which was one of the defendants, and agreed not to press the action on the payment of $500. The city claimed this settlement released it from further liability, but the court ruled adversely. The jury was instructed to make allowance for the amount paid by the telephone company if an agreement was reached as to a liability on the part of the city. Mrs. Ferguson claimed that she stepped in a hole caused by the removal of a telephone pole and sprained her ankle.

POISON TO HIS WIFE

Bemidji, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Barney Dyer, a farmer living at Hines, north of Blackduck, has been charged with the crime of murder in the first degree, in having caused the death of his wife, Florence Dyer, by administering poison to her.

A warrant for the arrest of Dyer was issued by County Attorney Henry Funkley, as a result of information filed with the county attorney, which is said to have pointed strongly to Dyer having committed the deed with which he is charged.

Deputy Sheriffs J. H. Bailey and Rrne Solberg went to Tenstrike and made the arrest.

The deputies found Dyer at Tenstrike, considerably under the influence of liquor. When the warrant was read to him he offered no resistance, but said it was "all right," and he accompanied the officers to the jail in Tenstrike. He was brought to Bemidji Monday and lodged in the Beltrami county jail.

Dyer's wife died at Hines about a week ago and was buried at that place. The father of the dead woman, Mr. Ratcliffe, who lives in this city, suspected, from remarks which have been attributed to Dyer, that the latter had been instrumental in causing his wife's death, and he caused an investigation to be instituted in the matter, which led to the issuing of the warrant against Dyer and his subsequent arrest, on the charge of murder in the first degree.

It is said that Dyer sold all of his household goods and other belongings immediately after the death of his wife, and that he has spent most of the time since at Tenstrike, where he was drinking considerably.

Dyer was married to Florence Ratcliffe about a year ago, and they had one child, which was about 6 months old. The body of the Ratcliffe woman will probably be exhumed, and the case against Dyer will be at once considered by the grand jury.

TWO NOT INDICTED.

Bemidji, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand jury have reported to the district court that in the case of the state against Herman Geise, charged with assault and stealing meat, they found no indictment. Geise was released.

Mike Shea, indicted on the charge of larceny in the first degree, was arraigned, and through his attorney, G. H. Torrance, pleaded not guilty.

The grand jury also reported that they found no indictment against Frank Sullivan, charged with assault in the second degree. Sullivan has accordingly been released.

County Attorney Funkley reported to the court that on account of the proceedings which are being instituted against Barney Dyer of Hines, charged with murder in the first degree, and with other matters, will occupy the attention of the jury for some time to come, it would be impossible for him to take up the trial criminal of cases on the calendar until next Monday, and Judge Spooner set that time for the commencement of the criminal cases for this term of court.

GO TO THE RESCUE.

Don't Wait Till It's Too Late—Follow the Example of a Duluth Citizen.

Rescue the aching back.
If it keeps on aching, trouble comes.
Backache is kidney ache.
If you neglect the kidneys' warning,
Look out for urinary trouble—diabetes.

Moses Leckey, flagman on the Northern Pacific railroad, living at Seventy-first avenue west, West Duluth, Minn., says: "A friend did me a great kindness when he recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me. He had used them with marked benefit, and on his recommendation I got a box and began treating a bad case of backache and kidney disorder which had troubled me severely all last winter. There was an acute pain most annoying. It prevented sleep at night. The first box almost rid me of the trouble, but I continued using them until I had taken two boxes, then not a trace or symptom of the trouble remained. I used Doan's Ointment for itching hemorrhoids with equally fine results, and it is needless to say that I am an earnest endorser of both remedies."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Itasca County Town Rising From Ashes Better Than Ever.

Deer River, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That fires always make a better town is to be exemplified in the handsome brick block about to be erected over the ruins where half a block was wiped out on Jan. 23. St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The right of a wife in the homestead occupied by her husband is once more made plain in a decision by Judge Kelly in the case of Edmund S. Green against G. D. Bruce Tudor.

Mr. Tudor made a contract in writing agreeing to sell to the plaintiff his homestead for a certain sum and the plaintiff paid down earnest money to the amount of $125. The wife did not sign the contract, nor did she in any way ever ratify the sale, and the contract is therefore void, and the plaintiff is entitled to have his earnest money returned to him with interest from Sept. 10, 1907.

SKIN ON FIRE—AGONY UNBEARABLE.

Terrible Itching Burning Skin Disease Now Quickly Cured.

A purely vegetable external remedy that has been proved beyond all possible doubt to cure the worst cases of Eczema and all skin diseases can now be procured by all skin sufferers. This remarkable remedy is D. D. D. Prescription, the discovery of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the well known skin specialist, and is being manufactured by the D. D. D. Co., 112 Michigan St., Chicago, Ill. The demand for this remedy has become tremendous within a short time because people are just learning that the hundreds of cures it has made seem to be permanent.

Eczema and all diseases of the skin must be treated locally, according to the views now held by foremost skin specialists and physicians; that is, you must doctor the itch where the itch is. It is useless to attempt to cure skin disease by taking drugs and medicines into the stomach. The disease is not in the blood. It is in the skin and only skin deep. You must get at the seat of the disease and kill the grem by making direct applications to the skin.

Mrs. L. B. Powell, Box 414, Caruthersville, Mo., writes: "Words cannot convey my full appreciation of D. D. D.. The face of my baby boy was a solid scab, when I accidentally heard of D. D. D.. I secured a bottle at once and began to apply it. It was miraculous in its cure. It healed my baby's face completely. If anyone wants further information about this I shall be only too glad to hear from them."

Testimonials of hundreds of cases of remarkable cures by D. D. D. Prescription and an interesting booklet on skin disease and its treatment, exercise, diet, bathing, etc., may be had free by calling on the Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth, Minn., where D. D. D. Prescription and D. D. D. Soap will be found on sale.

HOTEL ST. REGIS

Stop There on Your Next Trip to New York.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD DO IT.

There is every reason why you should stop at Hotel St. Regis on your next trip to New York. If you have followed the series of sketches appearing in this paper for the last few weeks, you have learned a few of these reasons. But there are many attractive features about this most complete of hotels which cannot be conveyed to the mind by fine phrases or by the multiplication of adjectives. To fully appreciate the transcendent comforts and beauties of Hotel St. Regis, one must personally enjoy them.

Perhaps you have had it in mind to do this, but have been deterred because of false impressions gained from reading certain sensational stories about the cost of living at the St. Regis. These reports, ridiculous as they were misleading, have doubtless kept many persons from making the St. Regis their home when in New York, and thereby robbed them of a vast amount of comfort and pleasure.

Many of the limited number who once gave credence to these sensational reports have long since proven their falsity by actual experience—have found, as you too will find, that at the St. Regis one gets more for his money than anywhere else in the world, and that considering the excellence of service and accommodations, neither restaurant nor room rates are higher than at other high-class hotels. In fact, a large, light, well-furnished room may be had for $4 a day, or the same with bath in connection for $5 ($6 for two people)' or a parlor, bedroom and bath for $12. As was remarked at the outset, "there is every reason why you should stop at the St. Regis on your next trip to New York."

WILL FIX NEW VALUES

Duluth Real Estate Will be Re-Assessed This Year.

Local Property Owners Receive Assurances From Tax Commission.

The state tax commission has assured a number of the Duluth real estate owners that a complete revaluation and re-assessment of local realty is to be made this year. The assurances have been given in letters received from Secretary McVey of the commission in answer to complaints which have been made to the commission relative to the glaring inequality of assessments claimed to exist in the valuations of certain Duluth properties.

It is claimed that there has not been a thorough readjustment of local real estate values and assessments for a number of years. A complete readjustment of the values with a view of arriving at assessments that will be more nearly even for the taxpayers involves a considerable amount of work and that is what the state tax commission intends to provide for.

A large number of the local property owners have been in communication with the tax commission and have made complaints about the inequalities claimed to exist in the present system of real estate taxation. These complaints are said to have determined the commission on a complete readjustment of Duluth realty values this year.

One of the instances cited to the state tax commission is that of some improved 50-foot lots on London road east of Sixteenth avenue which are claimed to be assessed higher than some improved 75-foot lots on Third street opposite the Central high school building. It is also claimed that there are many instances where there is a difference of from $15 to $20 in the taxes on properties in the same block where there is scarcely any difference in the actual valuations.

The local property owners who have written to the state tax commission have been instructed to make application for abatement to the county board, which body has the authority to recommend a reduction to the state auditor and the tax commission if the request is deemed a just one.

The announcement by the state tax commission that Duluth real estate will be re-assessed this year will, it is claimed, please a great many local property owners who believe that their real estate has been unjustly assessed, while there are some others whose property is not assessed a high as it is likely to be after an investigation is made of the conditions and who will hardly be pleased over the prospects.

"Besides being an excellent remedy for colds and throat troubles, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is unequaled as a cure for croup," says Harry Wilson of Waynetown, Ind. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, this remedy will prevent the attack. It is used successfully in many thousands of homes. For sale by all druggists.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The drug store of Dr. Nicholas McCabe, mayor of North Platte, Neb., was raided Monday. Mayor McCabe was arrested on a complaint charging him with the illicit sale of liquor.

Frank Hallman, 45 years old, employed by C. G. Besley on a farm near Park Ridge, Ill., was gored by a bull Monday and died from his injuries. The animal escaped from an enclosure where it had been confined and charged Hallman, who, with others, attempted to capture it.

The Chicago city council has passed an ordinance prohibiting the indiscriminate sale of firearms by dealers. The latter are required to pay an annual license of $25 and to file a bond of $1,000, and to report all sales to the police within twenty-four hours.

Mystery surrounding the shooting of John Lipscombe of Cleveland, Jan. 26, was cleared up Monday night, the police say, in the alleged confession of the dead man's wife that she fired the shot that wounded Lipscombe, and from which he died last Wednesday.

The Democratic state central committee has fixed the date of the Colorado state convention for election of delegates to the national convention as June 15, at Glenwood Springs. William J. Bryan was endorsed for the presidential nomination.

Fire early Monday damaged the business block occupied by the Rockford & Interurban company and the W. Clark Printing company, at Rockford, Ill., to the extent of $5,000.

Alva Ripley of Lake City, Iowa, while feeding hogs, was so severely bitten by one of them that he bled to death before he could be carried into the house. Ripley came here from Tennessee a week ago to work on his brother's stock farm.

After making desperate efforts to rescue her two daughters from a burning barn, Mrs. A. Hoff, wife of a farmer living near Chickley, Neb., was Monday compelled to listen to their agonized screams as they were burned to death. The two girls had attempted to light the carriage lamps. It is supposed that one of the lamps exploded.

LEADER IS IN DANGER

Noon Class Team Comes Up in Y. M. C. A. Basketball League.

Horak's Team Loses by Score of 25 to 23 in Hard Game.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Horak's	8	5	.616
Noon Class....	7	6	.546
Deighton's	6	6	.500
Night Class....	4	8	.333

The race in the Y. M. C. A. Basketball league took on an interesting turn last evening, when the noon class defeated Horak's 5:15 class team by a score of 25 to 23 in one of the hardest games played in the league schedule. The result pulls the noon class into within one game of the leaders, who have held first position since the league season started. A victory for the noon class in the next game and a defeat for Horack's team will pull them into a tie.

Deighton's five is not far behind. Only one victory separates it from the noon class, and tonight it will try to gain that victory from the night class team, which is hopelessly behind. The unexpected show of strength on the part of the noon class and Deighton's teams has somewhat surprised Horack's five, who were cantering away in a runaway race, when they were brought up with a jerk.

The game last night as fine. Both teams went in at the first whistle and mixed it all the way through. The playing was fierce and every move counted. The first half ended with the score 13 to 7 in favor of the noon class boys.

The last half was even more fiercely played. Horack's men took a brace and went out after the lead. They scored 16 points to the noon class' 12, but were just behind at the finish.

Tonight Deighton's team and the night class five will play, and the game promises some excitement. Though the night class team is prtically out of the running, the boys are playing a good game, and will make all of their opponents from now to the end of the season work for a victory.

SWEENEY WILL UMPIRE AGAIN

President Lamb Has Signed Arbiters for Northern League.

The schedule of the Northern league has not yet made its appearance and the fans are rather anxious. President Lamb promised the schedule last week, but it didn't make its appearance. It is expected to come out in a few days, however.

President Lamb has retained J. T. Sweeney, who finished the season as the lone umpire on the circuit last year, and he will again perform this season. Another umpire has been secured from the Central league. The executive hopes that both men will make good and stay with the league, avoiding the trouble of last year, when players umpired most of the time in at least one of the towns of the league. The player system is very bad for the game and the new president will try to keep away from it.

All of the clubs are lying back now waiting for the opening of the training season about April 15. All of the clubs have practically signed up their teams for the training trips and are looking for no more men from the busines. They will take anything they can get from the larger circuits, however, and expect to get some good additions to their squads in that way.

TO REORGANIZE OLD CIRCUIT

At a meeting of those interested in the project, to be held in Ashland about April 1, the Tri-State County Fair and Racing association will be reorganized. C. E. Houk of Ironwood, who is promoting the venture, has lined up the necessary number of towns, and expects no trouble of swinging the proposition.

The towns mentioned for places on the circuit are Ironwood, Bayfield, Washburn, Rhinelander, Ashland and Duluth. The old circuit was once thriving and healthy, but people lost interest, the horsemen had reverses, and it naturally died. The revival promises to be complete and to again put horse racing on a firm basis in Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Plans for Duluth call for a big fair in September, when it is expected the association will assign dates to Duluth. The first meet will probably be held at Rhinelander in August, and the swing will then be made around the circuit, ending at Duluth. It is planned to work in a horse show and automobile show, with speed events, and make the Duluth affair this year the biggest of the kind ever held here. Local horsemen are interesting themselves in the organization of the association, and will have representatives at the meeting.

AMERICANS IN PLAY.

International Chess Masters' Tournament On in Vienna.

Vienna, March 24.—An international chess masters' tournament, in which two Americans, Frank F. Marshall and Paul Johner, are participating, began in this city yesterday. Marshall was beaten by Spielman, and Johner drew with Perils of Vienna.

A Calumet newspaper man went through an awful nightmare the other day. The result was about a column in his sheet filled with a story of Fargo dropping out of the Northern league and the substitution of Calumet in the circuit. Wouldn't that be fine? The circuit would be only 1,000 miles long, the teams would jump from Duluth to Calumet and return, a distance of over 500 miles, for the pleasure of playing three of four games in a town where there's no Sunday baseball and mighty poor crowds on week days. Calumte may get off the anxious seat and let its mind rest. The Northern league has no intention of throwing a lasso and dragging Calumet into the circuit. Proctorknott is too convenient.

Three I league magnates are beginning to believe that in Maurice Danehey, the Rochester umpire, who worked in the eastern end of the Northern-Copper Country league circuit last season for a time, they have picked a large juicy yellow fruit that doesn't grow on peach trees. Mr. Danehey is one of the most irresponsible people following baseball. His every move defies explanation and his next move cannot possibly be foretold. He is likely to throw a player out of the game for saying "celery soup" and might swing a game by eccentric decisions.

Danehey imagines he's a scout. He floods the country with closely written postal cards, sporting editors and baseball managers being his principal victimss. He recommends every player he sees to some leagie higher up, and, if many managers took his advice this year, they are due to turn a few men, who were in the Northern league last season, loose on the cold world.

Danehey may know baseball, but he isn't likely to become popular with the fans on any circuit and it is believed he will have but short shift in the optical organization.

Al Cummings let loose some of the good stuff he turned into the air hereabout for so long, the other day, down in Atlanta. After one of the other Atlanta recruits had taken a bombardment of eleven hits and fourteen runs from the New York Highlanders, Cummings went to the hurling hump and gave Griffith's men but four stingy hits in five innings. Only one run was scored on Cummings, that tallying in the ninth inning.

A lad, whose work Duluth fans are watching, is Beecher, the Houghton pitcher of 1906, who is making good with McGraw's New York Giants. During the training trip Beecher has been doing the heavy work for the Giant Kid's team against the regulars and the kids have been scoring victories right along. Beecher is a young fellow, hailing from Springfield, Ill., and was in the Three I league last year. He seems to be able to go the route all right and may land on the Giants' regular staff this year.

Those stories of George Hackenschmidt's weakness and lack of condition sound pretty fishy, considering the fact that Georgie laid three men out on the mat in jig time down East the other night. He handles 200-pounders as though they were babies and they aren't even able to wriggle his toe. Viewed from every side, the horizon in the vicinity of Humboldt, Iowa, is darkening and the farm looks alluringly near to one Frank Gotch. Gotch hasn't been up against anything very great in the wrestling game in this country and the Russian will be a new experience for him. On the other hand, Hack has been handling big men and good men for years and he'll jump on Frank as though he knew his ground. Nobody is betting his whole roll on the chances of the Iowa farmer boy, for the Lion has his mane up.

National Billiard Tournament Takes Interesting Turn.

Chicago, March 24.—C. F. Conklin defeated H. A. Wright, 400 to 269, in the national amateur billiard tournament, making a three-cornered tie, Wright, Conklin and Demarest having each won four games and lost one.

F. W. Gardner took fourth place in the tournament by defeating J. F. Poggenburg 400 to 358 in the afternoon game. The game was slow, thirty-two innings being required to complete it.

POOR DAY AT BENNING

Racing Season in the East Opens on Muddy Track.

Washington, March 24.—It is not a particularly auspicious opening of the racing session in the East that the Washington jockey club enjoyed yesterday at the Benning track. Rain began to fall late Sunday night and continued throughout the day. The track, which Sunday was in first rate condition, was a bed of mud, but the underfooting was firm. Notwithstanding the unfavorable condition of the going, all of the events were pulled off according to schedule. The bad weather interfered with the attendance seriously. The opening day ordinarily is a society event, but society was not in evidence yesterday. Few people were in the club house and the grand stand was not half filled. The attendance was substantially confined to the "regulars."

The event of the afternoon's session was the running of the first spring handicap, an affair for 3-year-olds. After Billie Hibbs, Higginbotham, the Shaughran and Puritan Girl had been scratched, Eldorado was made an added starter, and fourteen horses faced the barrier. The start was excellent. The horses ran like a squadron of cavalry for a furlong and then Belle Weather showed in front. He opened up a gap of two lengths and at the trun into the stretch looked to be an easy winner. Smoker challenged the leader gamely in the last furlong, but could do no better than make an interesting finish. The rest were beaten easily. The time was 1:13, which was four seconds slower than the record for the course.

The opening purse of 1908 was won by Sugar Pine, which was as good as 100 to 1 in the betting, although it closed at 50 to 1. The winner ran away from his field and was not in danger at any time.

THREE SUITS FILED.

Injured People Want Damages From Athletic Association.

Minneapolis, March 24.—Three more suits have been filed against the athletic association of the universtty as a result of the falling of the standing spectators' platform on Northrop Field at the Chicago-Minnesota football game, Nov. 2, 1907. Owing to the decision of the courts in a pervious test case that the athletic association is in no way a part of the state and can therefore be sued, additional actions have been brought.

John A. Knowles claims that the muscles of his neck were strained and that his right foot and ankle were sprained in the accident. He was confined to bed for six weeks. He asserts that he was drawing a good salary and demands damage to the amount of $3,-000. Kathleen Rowe and her husband say they were injured in the same manner.

COUNTESS A ROBBER

Many Mysterious Burglaries on the Riviera Explained.

The Dashing Countess of Monteil in Hands of Police.

Paris, March 24.—A series of mysterious hotel robberies on the Riviera, extending over many years has been explained in the arrest of the beautiful, dashing, but masquerading countess of Montell. For years the countess of Montell has entertained lavishly both at Paris and The Riviera. Her wealth and jewels have drawn comment and admiration from far and near. Now she is declared one of the most ingenuous, successful and audacious hotel thieves that has ever troubled the hotel proprietors of France. Her arrest at Nice reveals her not as the captivating brilliant countess, but as a thoroughly up-to-date burglar, carrying concealed in her bewitching garments an array of burglar's implements of intricate workmanship which opened to her any hotel room on the Riviera, which she knew to contain the coveted wealth of money and valuables. Wherever the countess stopped, there always did mysterious and unexplicable robberies baffle the police. Valuables disappeared from the rooms of rich Americans in the most puzzling manner, for the doors were all found locked and the windows fastened. Gradually but vaguely the suspicions began to be directed toward the countess of Montell.

Her History Investigated.

The cautious agents of the department of French surety investigated quietly the history of the countess. They found that she had been born of a respectable French family and that her maiden name was Amelia Condemine. She married a man named Portel and came to live in Paris. Afterwards they separated and Mrs. Portel went to the United States. Two years later she returned to France as the countess of Montell. For several years she held brilliant sway in society. She visited the leading watering places on the continent, but especially the winter resorts in Southern France.

Became Too Eager.

It was several years ago that the first thoughts of police suspicion drifted toward the countess, and her sensational arrest at Nice, at one of the famous hotels, is the culmination of long, patient watchfulness by the French detective service. Her undoing came in a moment of over-eagerness to rob. Watching detectives found her bending over the door of the room of a wealthy American tourist. When the woman was searched the police found hidden in special pouches of her clothes pinchers, files, skeleton keys, screw drivers, and no less than twenty-seven pairs of small, delicately-made nippers, used by burglars to unlock a door with its own key when the key is inside the door. The detectives will try to prove, moreover, that the masquerading countess was in fact the active director of a band of hotel robbers, whose aggregate loot is of great financial value.

Alleged Swindler Arrested.

Paris, March 24.—A sensation has been caused by the arrest, yesterday afternoon, of a man named Henri Rochette, on the charge of conducting successful swindles on an enormous scale. Rochette was at one time a waiter, in an obscure French town. He came to Paris to seek his fortune, in which he was eminently successful, so long as he could keep out of the clutches of the law. He founded the Franco-Spanish bank, and floated not less than a dozen mining enterprises, in which he was a director, and whose stock was purchased by French investors.

MAKE FOREST RESERVE

Of Wonderful Section of Bad Lands in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Engineer Atkinson has received a letter from the forest service at Washington saying an officer will be detailed to make an examination of the bad lands on the western border of this state and Montana with a view of having that wonderful country set aside as a forest reserve. The region is full of lignite coal, which would be conserved should the reserve be established.

DEMAND IS VERY FIRM

Duluth Board of Trade, March 24.—Minneapolis played the tune to which the wheat market danced today, and as Minneapolis was buying very heavily, the prices went up and closed there.

The big millers in the Flour city are supposed to have been the ones behind the bull movement there today. The Pillsbury-Washburn people were reported to be heavy buyers during the entire session.

All of the American markets showed a gain over yesterday, at the close, but the bulge in Minneapolis was the largest of all.

Bradstreet's reports a decrease of 843,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat. In the United States and Canada, the decrease was 1,243,000 bus and in Europe and afloat, the supply increased 360,000 bus.

Liverpool closed weak at ½d lower, but the continental markets were firm, Berling closing ⅛c higher and Budapest 1¼c higher.

The May option closed 1¼c higher in Duluth, ¾c higher in Chicago, 1⅝c higher in Minneapolis, 1¼c higher in New York and 1c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth, 1c higher in Chicago, 1⅛-1⅛c higher in Minneapolis and New York and ⅞c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed 1⅜c higher in Chicago and ¾d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ¼c higher in Chicago.

"There was a quiet tone to the speculative wheat market at the opening, and values were ½d higher, being influenced by the firmness in American markets yesterday. Later offerings became heavy and support lacking, due to the heavy arrivals at Vincent and the poor demand for both cargoes and parcels, and values declined 5d. At mid-day the market was easy and ½d lower than Monday.

"Corn was steady at the start and ½d higher, and further advanced ¼d during the morning. The strength in America yesterday and the growing scarcity of spot, together with a fair demand, were the causes for the strength.

"Spot wheat was quiet and unchanged. Spot corn firm, with new Galveston ½d higher and La Plata unchanged. Wheat cargoes were dull with prices declining. Corn cargoes quiet and unchanged."

Car receipts of wheat were 118, against 234 last year, and at Minneapolis 197, against 218 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 315, against 452 last year. Chicago received 48, against 13 last year. Winnipeg received 66, against 174 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 486,000 bus, last year 567,000 bus. Shipments, 317,000 bus., last year 224,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 230,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 676,000 bus, last year, 882,000 bus. Shipments, 463,000 bus., last year, 536,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 20 bus.

Wheat was quiet during the session in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ¼c lower at $1.03⅜, advanced to $1.03⅝, declined to $1.03⅜, rallied to $1.04⅛ and closed at that price, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday. July wheat opened late at $1.03⅜, advanced to $1.03⅝, went off to $1.03¼ and rallied by the close to $1.04⅜, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¾c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on the basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was firm during a quiet session. May flax opened unchanged at $1.15⅝, declined to $1.15½, rallied to $1.16¼ and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday. July flax opened late at $1.17⅛, went to $1.18⅜ and closed there, a gain of 5c over yesterday.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Weak on Moderate Selling and Decline in Liverpool.

Chicago, March 24.—The wheat market today opened weak because of moderate selling by commission houses, chiefly based upon a decline at Liverpool. May wheat opened ⅛c to ¾c lower at 94c to 94¼c, and sold at 93⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 361 cars against 469 cars last week and 465 cars one year ago.

The market became strong in the last half hour of the day because of an improved demand for cash wheat. May selling up to 95½c. The close was strong with May ¾c higher at 95¼c.

The corn market was firm chiefly because of higher prices at Liverpool and moderate local receipts. May corn opened ⅛c to ⅛c higher at 62¾c to 63⅛c and for a time held around those figures. Local receipts were 236 cars with 14 of contract grade.

Prices gained in strength all day, the highest point for May being 67¾c. The close was strong with May 1⅜c higher at 67⅝c.

The oats market was exceedingly dull, the opening quotation being the only one for some time. The market was ⅛c higher at 51¾c. Local receipts were 337 cars.

The provisions market was firm because of strong demand for live hogs. May pork opened 15c higher at $12.30. Lard was 5c higher at $7.87½. Ribs were 2½c higher at $8.72½c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Strong on Light Receipts and Better Cash Demand.

Minneapolis, March 24.—On light receipts and better cash demand here and in other markets wheat was strong. There were a good many depressing items, notably a Liverpool close, ½d lower against American advances of yesterday, improved winter wheat crop reports, and an increase of 175,000 bushels in Minneapolis elevator stocks for three days. But against them were the Minneapolis receipts, 197 cars against 218, and 93 of today's cars were winter wheat, May wheat ran away from July when it sold up to $1.06¼ and the May-July difference widened from 1¾@2⅝. Near the close there was increasing strength, May advancing sharply and closing at high point. May opened at $1.05; high, $1.06¼; low, $1.04⅝@⅞; close, $1.06⅜. July closed at $1.03⅝, and September closed at 92¾c.

Demand for cash wheat was better and No. 1 northern sold readily at 2c over May collection going 2@2¼c over. No. 2 northern sold at May price to ½c over.

Close: No. 1 northern, $1.06¾; spot, $1.08 to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.06¾ spot, $1.06 to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 99¼c@$1.03¼.

No. 3 yellow corn, 61¾@62¼c. No. 3 white oats, 51c; No. 2 rye, 74¾@76¾c. Barley dull and quotably unchanged to 2c lower by different sellers. Closing range, 58c to 73c.

Flax was firmer and in better demand at Duluth May price. Close $1.16.

Bran in bulk firm, quotable $21.50@22.00. Flour directions for shipping have not been coming so freely of late and the movement is lighter. The quotation list, though very firm at the figures, is unchanged and demand in general is moderate. Shipments 40,365 barrels. First patents, $5.35@5.50; second patents, $5.25@5.40; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.30@3.40.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walter W. Carr: The advance of 1 point in both spot and future G. M. B. copper in London, was a favorable influence in the early trading. Our market opened strong and active, many new issues making new high prices for the year. Special strength in Copper Range and Calumet & Arizona helped the whole market; the former declaring a dividend today of $1.00 per share against $1.50 three months ago. Trading is broad and a good demand for copper stocks is very apparent. A leading copper selling interest is quoted as predicting 14-cent copper in a very short time. Our market is gradually discounting the improvement in the price of the metal, but there is still room for good advances in the best coppers.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The news was all better today. Court decisions were favorable and copper was higher. The big men are still accumulating stocks and the public who got stocks cheap are taking their profits. We look for a further advance in Amalgamated and Butte Coalition, to be followed by a sharp rise in North Butte. Shannon showed the best buying today for long time. There is plenty of chances to make money on the long side of coppers.

Prices Gave Way Late Under Realizing, But Soon Recovered.

New York, March 24.—Trading on the stock exchange today started off with great animation and notable strength. The dealings were widely distributed and the strength quite uniform, the susual speculative favorites and a few specialties besides showing large fractional gains. General Electric rose 1½, Erie first preferred 1⅝ and Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific and American Locomotive 1.

After prices had risen to a still higher level, a series of realizing sales began in the Western railroad stocks, which drove prices down sharply from the highest, and, in conspicuous instances, below yesterday. American Sugar was exceptionally weak and yielded a point below yesterday's closing. Supporting orders were then executed, but the tone became rather heavy at the end of the hour.

After some further recession prices rose again. The most conspicuous movements were in specialties, but Union Pacific, St. Paul, Reading, Denver & Rio Grande, Louisville & Nashville and Delaware & Hudson got up 1 to 1¼. Consolidated Gas rose 5, Westinghouse Electric 4⅜, Brooklyn Union Gas and National Biscuit preferred 3, Des Moines & Fort Dodge 2½, Utah Copper 2, Pacific Coast and American Woolen preferred 1½ and St. Louis Southwestern preferred 1⅜. American Sugar declined 2, International Pump 1 and Havana Electric 6. Bonds were firm.

Large orders for both accounts continued to flow into the market and the rise in prices was unimpeded. The demand embraced a wide variety of stocks and extended to many low-priced issues. Westinghouse Electric extended its gain to 9 points, the first preferred 5½, Atlantic Coast Line 4¼, Louisville & Nashville 2½, Illinois Central and St. Paul 2, Pressed Steel Car, Kansas City Southern preferred 1¾ and Baltimore & Ohio and United States Steel preferred 1⅜.

A number of the less prominent stocks were brought within the range of 1 point, advances, but the upward movement in the usual favorites halted, and business became very quiet at slight recessions. Norfolk & Western preferred declined 5½.

The market closed firm and active. Union Pacific was lifted above 128 and United States Steel above 56, carrying the general list in sympathy to the best prices of the day. Lots of 1,000 to 6,000 shares of those two stocks came out on the advance and prices gave way. Specialties still showed the most conspicuous gains. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha rose 7; American Malting preferred and Central Railroad of New Jersey, 2 to 2½; others 1⅜ to 1¾.

The profit-taking made considerable inroads on prices. In the last few minutes St. Paul was rushed to the highest again and the general market hardened.

THE AVERBUSH INQUEST BEGINS

Chicago, March 24.—Coroner Hoffman today commenced the taking of evidence in the inquest on the body of Lazarus Averbush, who was killed by Chief of Police Shippy three weeks ago, after he had attempted to assassinate the chief. To prevent any demonstration by anarchists or reckless persons, a strong guard was placed about the room in which the proceedings were held, and all people who were on the floor of the county building were closely watched throughout the progress of the inquiry.

The first evidence in the inquest was the statement of Olga Averbush, the sister of the dead man. It was brief and stated in effect that her brother was born in Kishinev, Russia, was 19 years old, a graduate of the School of Commerce in Kishinev and had been in America three months. She said that on the day he was killed she left the house at the same time as he, but he did not say where he was going, and she did not see him alive again.

Olga Averbush was called to the stand following the reading of her statement. She said the name of her dead brother was Harry. Lazarus was the name of a younger brother.

The witness was asked by Coroner Hoffman if her brother had ever threatened to commit suicide, and whether she had ever stated to anybody that he had so threatened. She answered both questions in the negative.

The coroner's physician testified that there were nine wounds on the body. He was followed on the stand by Thereso Tauber, the maid of the Shippy residence, who said that Averbush had called twice at the house. She was not, however, a witness of the actual shooting.

Marion Shippy, daughter of the chief of police, testified to seeing a portion of the fight between her father and brother and Averbush, saying that the latter had a revolver in one hand and a dagger in the other. A letter which Averbush had handed to her father, she said, was opened in her presence and found to contain a blank piece of paper.

Mrs. George M. Shippy, the mother of the preceding witness, said that when Averbush called, her husband went to meet him and then asked her to come and see what the letter he had given to the chief of police contained. She further said:

"My husband said: 'See if this fellow has a gun.' My husband had hold of the man's wrists and they were struggling while I searched his pockets. The man kicked me several times. In his coat pocket I felt a revolver. The man broke away from my husband and then I heard my husband say 'I have been stabbed.' The next instant I heard a shot. Then my son Harry came in and Foley also and several more shots were fired."

NO FOUNDATION

For Rumor That Governor Has Decided to Reprieve Gillette.

Albany, N. Y., March 24.—There is no foundation for the persistent report that Governor Hughes has decided to grant a reprieve for Chester Gillette, for his mother's sake, or for any other reason. This statement was made today on the best possible authority. The governor himself would not be quoted on the subject. The general belief here is that the governor will not interfere with the execution of the young man, who is under sentence to die next week for the murder of Grace Brown two years ago.

TO SUCCEED SPOONER.

Several Candidates for Position Are Being Mentioned.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson has declined to commit himself as to the probable successor to Judge Marshall A. Spooner of the Fifteenth district, whose resignation the governor received today. It is rumored that C. W. Staunton of International Falls will be the choice of chief executive to fill the unexpired term. He is at present a member of the state game and fish commission. A. L. Thwing of Grand Rapids, county attorney of Itasca county, and G. M. Torrance of Bemidji, a son of Judge Ell Torrance of Minneapolis, have also been mentioned.

Sues on Contract.

John Young this afternoon began suit against the Wheeler Lumber company for $805, which he alleges is due him as a balance on a contract for hauling logs and ties.

TO SEND BIG DELEGATION.

New York, March 24.—From present indications New York city will send an almost record-breaking delegation to the Democratic national convention at Denver. It is now estimated that Tammany Hall will be represented by not less than 1,400 members.

BRYAN IN VIRGINIA.

WILL KEEP AFTER THE EXPRESSMEN

Lincoln, Neb., March 24.—In a letter to Attorney R. W. Breckenridge of Omaha, Attorney General Thompson declares he will never dismiss the cases against the express companies doing business in Nebraska. He declares, in answer to a suggestion from the attorney general, that litigation be ended:

"I know of no conduct on the part of these express companies that merits the clemency you suggest. They have shown little or no disposition to obey the law. On the contrary, they have manifested a reckless disregard for the law and have denied it in nearly every instance. Their attitude has been both exasperating and reprehensible."

Suits have been started in the supreme court to enforce the Sibley act, reducing rates 25 per cent. Complaints have also been filed in the county courts, alleging that the express companies have failed to state the salaries of officials in the annual reports.

APPEAL OF THE FIRST DUMA IS OVERRULED.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—The Russian senate, the highest tribunal in the empire, today overruled the appeal made by the 167 members of the first duma who, on Dec. 31, were convicted by the court of appeals and sentenced to three months' imprisonment. The charges against these deputies were treasonable practices, the specifications being based on the issuing of the famous Viborg manifesto, urging the people to stand up for the rights of popular representation and advising them to give neither money nor soldiers to the government.

EMPEROR WILLIAM TO VISIT HIS NEW VILLA.

Berlin, March 24.—Emperor William and the empress, accompanied by Prince August, their fourth son, and Princess Victoria, their daughter, and attended by a numerous suite, left here this morning at 10 o'clock for Corfu, by way of Venice. The imperial yacht Hohenzollern will meet the party at Venice, and take them over to Corfu, where the emperor will spend a vacation in his new villa.

CHARGED WITH SELLING TICKETS FOR LOTTERY.

Burlington, Iowa, March 24.—Peter Ruff, a barber, has been arrested here by federal authorities charged with using the mail for unlawful purposes. Ruff is charged with dealing in lottery tickets and was taken to Ottumwa yesterday. It is said that a number of arrests will be made in this part of Iowa on indictments found by a federal grand jury in Chicago. Ruff and others will subsequently be taken to Chicago for trial. It is said the lottery business has been conducted in an extensive manner.

KILLED IN QUARREL.

Toronto, March 24.—In a fight among a gang of Slavonians employed on the waterworks tunnel, last night, Joseph Milovitch was shot dead, and several others received stab wounds, but none was dangerously hurt. The police arrested fifteen of the participants.

Copper share market fine. Amalgamated and North Butte very strong. Ballaklava now listed on Boston curb and is on its way up to the price where it belongs. Many Duluth people have made big money on this stock and it has only started. Pretty soon you will see Ballaklava take jumps of not only 25 or 50 cents, but $5 at a crack, when the 760-foot level is reached and drifting has begun then for good—news that will make you feel like somebody if you have any stock. Butte & Ballaklava is the best proposition for big money since Calumet & Arizona was put on. They will ship as much ore in the next 30 years as the North Butte. The price of stock should be $50 or more, and, boys, it is going there. If you think this is a stock that should only sell at $10 or $15 a share, then sell it and get into something that has bigger possibilities, but you

Duluth Board of Trade, March 24.—Minneapolis played the tune to which the wheat market danced today, and as Minneapolis was buying very heavily, the prices went up and closed there.

The big millers in the Flour city are supposed to have been the ones behind the bull movement there today. The Pillsbury-Washburn people were reported to be heavy buyers during the entire session.

Bradstreet's reports a decrease of 883,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat. In the United States and Canada, the decrease was 1,243,000 bus and in Europe and afloat, the supply increased 360,000 bus.

Liverpool closed weak at ¾d lower, but the continental markets were firm, Berling closing ⅝c higher and Budapest 1¼c higher.

The May option closed 1⅝c higher in Duluth, ⅜c higher in Chicago, 1⅝c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅝c higher in New York and 1c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1⅝c higher in Duluth, 1c higher in Chicago, 1½@1⅝c higher in Minneapolis and New York and ⅞c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed 1⅜c higher in Chicago and ⅜d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛c higher in Chicago.

"There was a quiet hold to the speculative wheat market at the opening, and values were ¼d higher, being influenced by the firmness in American markets yesterday. Later offerings became heavy and support lacking, due to the heavy arrivals at Vincent and the poor demand for both cargoes and parcels, and values declined ¼d. At noon the market was easy and ¼d lower than Monday.

"Corn was steady at the start and ¼d higher, and further advanced ¼d during the morning. The strength in America yesterday and the growing scarcity of spot, together with a good demand, were the causes of the strength.

"Spot wheat was quiet and unchanged. Spot corn firm, with new Galveston ¼d higher and La Plata unchanged. Wheat cargoes were dull with prices declining. Corn cargoes quiet and unchanged."

Primary receipts of wheat were 486,000 bus, last year 556,000 bus. Shipments, 363,000 bus, last year, 559,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 20 bus.

Wheat was quiet during the session in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.06⅜, advanced to $1.07⅝, declined to $1.06⅝, rallied to $1.07⅜ and closed at that price a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday. July wheat opened late at $1.00⅝, advanced to $1.05⅝, went off to $1.03½ and rallied by the close to $1.04⅜, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅛c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on the basis of ⅛c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was firm all during a quiet session. May flax opened and unchanged at $1.04⅝, declined to $1.04¼, rallied to $1.04⅞ and closed at that price, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. July flax opened at $1.17¼, went to $1.18⅛ and closed there, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, March 24.—The wheat market today opened weak because of moderate selling by commission houses, chiefly based upon a decline at Liverpool. May wheat opened 1c to 2c lower at 95 to 95½c, and sold at 93¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 294 cars, against 189 cars last week and 95 cars one year ago.

The market became strong in the last half hour of the day because of an improved demand for cash wheat. May selling up to 96¾c. The close was strong with May ⅞c higher at 95¾c.

The corn market was firm chiefly because of higher prices at Liverpool and moderate local receipts. May corn opened 1c to 1⅛c higher at 62¾c to 63c and for a time held around those figures. Local receipts were 256 cars with 11 of contract grade.

Prices gained in strength all day, the highest point for May being 67¾c. The close was strong with May 2¾c higher at 67¾c.

The oats market was exceedingly dull, the opening quotation being the only one for some time. The market was 1c higher at 54@c. Local receipts were 287 cars.

The provisions market was firm because of strong demand for live hogs. May pork opened 5c higher at $12.50. Lard was 2½c higher at $7.87½. Ribs were 2½c higher at $6.72½@.

Close: Wheat May 95@95½c; July, 89@c; September, 89½c. Corn—May, old 64@c; May, 67c; July, old, 58@59c; July, 66¾c; September, 58@57½c. Pork—May, $12.50@12.47½; July, $12.87½. Lard—May, $7.92½; July, $8.15. Short ribs—$6.75. Ribs—May, $6.72½@6.70; July, $6.95@6.92½. September, $7.02½. Rye—Cash, 77@78c. Barley—Cash, 70@80c. Timothy—March, $4.75. Clover—March, $21.25. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 95½@96½c; No. 3 red, 94½@95c; No. 2 hard, 95½@96½c; No. 3 hard, 93½@94c. No. 3 spring, 86@91c, others nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, 64@64½c; No. 3, 62@63½c. Oats—No. 2, 50@c; No. 3, 5—c.

Liverpool Grain.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Strong on Light Receipts and Better Cash Demand.

Minneapolis, March 24.—On light receipts and better cash demand here and in other markets wheat was strong. There were a good many depressing items, notably a Liverpool close, ¾d lower against American advances of yesterday, improved winter wheat crop reports, and an increase of 177,000 bushels in Minneapolis elevator stocks for three days. But against them were the Minneapolis receipts, 187 cars against 218, and 92 of today's cars were winter wheat, May wheat ran away from July when it sold up to $1.06⅝ and the May-July difference widened from 1⅜@2⅝. Near the close there was increasing strength, May advancing sharply and closing at high point, May opened at $1.05; high, $1.07⅛; low, $1.04¾@⅞; close, $1.06⅞. July closed at $1.03⅝ and September closed at 92¾c.

Demand for cash wheat was better and No. 1 northern sold readily at 2c over May collection going 2@2½c over. No. 2 northern sold at May price to 1c over.

Close: No. 1 northern, $1.06⅜; spot, $1.08 to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.06⅜ spot, $1.06 to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 99@c@$1.00¾.

Flax was firmer and in better demand at Duluth May price. Close $1.16.

Bran in bulk firm, quotable $21.50@22.00.

Flour directions for shipping have not been coming so freely of late and the movement is lighter. The quotation list, though very firm at the figures, is unchanged and demand in general is moderate. Shipments 30,305 barrels. First patents, $5.35@5.50; second patents, $5.25@5.40; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.20@3.40.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walker W. Carr: The advance of 1 point in both spot and future G M B copper in London, was a favorable influence in the early trading. Our market opened strong and active, many new issues making new high prices for the year. Special strength in Copper Range and Calumet & Arizona helps the whole market, the former declaring a dividend today of $1.00 per share against $1.50 three months ago. Trading is broad and a good demand for copper stocks is very apparent. The leading copper selling interest is quoted as predicting 14-cent copper in a very short time. Our market is gradually discounting the improvement in the price of the metal but there is still room for good advances in the best coppers.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The news was all better today. Court decisions were favorable and copper was higher. The big men are still accumulating stocks and the public who got stocks cheap are taking their profits. We look for a further advance in Amalgamated and Butte Coalition, to be followed by a sharp rise in North Butte. Shannon showed the best buying today for long time. There is plenty of chance to make money on the long side of coppers.

Prices Gave Way Late Under Realizing, But Soon Recovered.

New York, March 24.—Trading on the stock exchange today started off with great animation and notable strength. The dealings were widely distributed and the strength quite uniform, the usual speculative favorites and a few specialties besides showing large fractional gains. General Electric rose 1½, Erie first preferred 1⅝ and Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific and American Locomotive 1.

After prices had risen to a still higher level, a series of realizing sales began in the Western railroad stocks, which drove prices down sharply from the highest, and, in conspicuous instances, below yesterday's closing. American Sugar was exceptionally weak and yielded a point below yesterday's closing. Supporting orders were then executed, but the tone became rather heavy at the end of the hour.

After some further recession prices rose again. The most conspicuous movements were in specialties, but Union Pacific, St. Paul, Reading, Denver & Rio Grande, Louisville & Nashville and Delaware & Hudson got up 1 to 1¾. Consolidated Gas rose 5, Westinghouse Electric 4⅜, Brooklyn Union Gas and National Biscuit preferred 3, Des Moines & Fort Dodge 2½, Utah Copper 2, Pacific Coast and American Woolen preferred 1½ and St. Louis Southwestern preferred 1⅜. American Sugar declined 2, International Pump 1 and Havana Electric 6. Bonds were firm.

Large orders for both accounts continued to flow into the market and the rise in prices was unhampered. The demand embraced a wide variety of stocks and extended to many low-priced issues. Westinghouse Electric extended its gain to 9 points, the first preferred 5½, Atlantic Coast Line 4½, Louisville & Nashville 2½, Illinois Central and St. Paul 2, Pressed Steel Car, Kansas City Southern preferred 1¾ and Baltimore & Ohio and United States Steel preferred 1⅜.

A number of the less prominent stocks were brought within the range of 1 point, advances, but the upward movement in the usual favorites halted, and business became very quiet at slightly reduced sessions. Norfolk & Western preferred declined 3½.

The market closed firm and active. Union Pacific was lifted above 178 and United States Steel above 36, carrying the general list in sympathy to the best prices of the day. Lots of 1,000 to 4,000 shares of those two stocks came out on the advance and prices gave way. Specialties still showed the most conspicuous gains, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha rose 7, American Malting preferred and Central Railroad of New Jersey 5, Texas Pacific 4½, others 1¾ to 3½. The profit-taking made considerable inroads on prices. In the last few minutes St. Paul was rushed to the highest again and the general market hardened.

The Cotton Market.

New York, March 24.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1@4 points and after some little irregularity sold 8 to 11 points net lower under renewed liquidation and bear pressure, which was seconded by easier cables and the generally unfavorable view taken of trade conditions. There was considerable buying on a scale down, but the demand came mostly from shorts or reactionists, and the market during the middle of the morning was unsettled and at about the lowest point so far for the day and season on old months.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands, 10.40; middling gulf, 10.65. Sales, 1,200 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bid: March, 9.42; April, 9.43; May, 9.53; June, 9.59; July, 9.53; August, 9.46; October, 9.51; December, 9.54.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, March 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,500; calves $3; market steady to lower. Hogs—Receipts, 6,500; market steady to 5c higher; range $4.90@5.20; bulk of sales, $5.00@5.05. Sheep—Receipts, 1,500; lambs, good to choice, $6.50@6.80; ewes, good to choice, $5.25@5.35; yearlings, good to choice, $6.75@6.25; wethers, good to choice, $5.50@6.

Chicago, March 24.—Coroner Hoffman today commenced the taking of evidence in the inquest on the body of Lazarus Averbush, who was killed by Chief of Police Shippy three weeks ago, after he had attempted to assassinate the chief. To prevent any demonstration by anarchists or reckless persons, a strong guard was placed about the room in which the proceedings were held, and all people who were on the floor of the county building were closely watched throughout the progress of the inquiry.

The first evidence in the inquest was the statement of Olga Averbush, the sister of the dead man. It was brief, and stated in effect that her brother was born in Kishinev, Russia, was 19 years old, a graduate of the School of Commerce in Kishinev and had been in America three months. She said that on the day he was killed she left the house at the same time as he, but he did not say where he was going, and she did not see him alive again.

Olga Averbush was called to the stand following the reading of her statement. She said the name of her dead brother was Harry. Lazarus was the name of a younger brother.

The witness was asked by Coroner Hoffman if her brother had ever threatened to commit suicide, and whether she had ever stated to anybody that he had so threatened. She answered both questions in the negative.

The coroner's physician testified that there were nine wounds on the body. He was followed on the stand by Thereso Tauber, the maid of the Shippy residence, who said that Averbush had called twice at the house. She was not, however, a witness of the actual shooting.

Marion Shippy, daughter of the chief of police, testified to seeing a portion of the fight between her father and brother and Averbush, saying that the latter had a revolver in one hand and a dagger in the other. A letter which Averbush had handed to her father, she said, was opened in her presence and found to contain a blank piece of paper.

Mrs. George M. Shippy, the mother of the preceding witness, said that when Averbush called, her husband went to meet him and then asked her to come and see what the letter he had given to the chief of police contained. She further said:

"My husband said: 'See if this fellow has a gun.' My husband had hold of the man's wrists and they were struggling while I searched his pockets. The man kicked me several times. In his coat pocket I felt a revolver. The man broke away from my husband and then I heard my husband say 'I have been stabbed.' The next instant I heard a shot. Then my son Harry came in and Foley also and several more shots were fired."

Albany, N. Y., March 24.—There is no foundation for the persistent report that Governor Hughes has decided to grant a reprieve for Chester Gillette, for his mother's sake, or for any other reason. This statement was made today on the best possible authority. The governor himself would not be quoted on the subject. The general belief here is that the governor will not interfere with the execution of the young man, who is under sentence to die next week for the murder of Grace Brown two years ago.

TO SUCCEED SPOONER.

Several Candidates for Position Are Being Mentioned.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson has declined to commit himself as to the probable successor to Judge Marshall A. Spooner of the Fifteenth district, whose resignation the governor received today. It is rumored that C. W. Staunton of International Falls will be the choice of chief executive to fill the unexpired term. He is at present a member of the state game and fish commission. A. L. Thwing of Grand Rapids, county attorney of Itasca county, and G. M. Torrance of Hibbing, a son of Judge Ell Torrance of Minneapolis, have also been mentioned.

Sues on Contract.

John Young this afternoon began suit against the Wheeler Lumber company for $805, which he alleges is due him as a balance on a contract for hauling logs and ties.

TO SEND BIG DELEGATION.

New York, March 24.—From present indications New York city will send an almost record-breaking delegation to the Democratic national convention at Denver. It is now estimated that Tammany Hall will be represented by not less than 1,400 members.

BRYAN IN VIRGINIA.

$15000 Double brick, thoroughly modern, 8 rooms each, West Second street. Greatest bargain on the market today. Nets 10 per cent on investment.

Lincoln, Neb., March 24.—In a letter to Attorney R. W. Breckenridge of Omaha, Attorney General Thompson declares he will never dismiss the cases against the express companies doing business in Nebraska. He declares, in answer to a suggestion from the attorney general, that litigation be ended:

"I know of no conduct on the part of these express companies that merits the clemency you suggest. They have shown little or no disposition to obey the law. On the contrary, they have manifested a reckless disregard for the law and have defied it in nearly every instance. Their attitude has been both exasperating and reprehensible."

Suits have been started in the supreme court to enforce the Sibley act, reducing rates 25 per cent. Complaints have also been filed in the county court, alleging that the express companies have failed to state the salaries of officials in the annual reports.

APPEAL OF THE FIRST DUMA IS OVERRULED.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—The Russian senate, the highest tribunal in the empire, today overruled the appeal made by the 167 members of the first duma who, on Dec. 31, were convicted by the court of appeals and sentenced to three months' imprisonment. The charges against these deputies were treasonable practices, the specifications being based on the issuing of the famous Viborg manifesto, urging the people to stand up for the rights of popular representation and advising them to give neither money nor soldiers to the government.

EMPEROR WILLIAM TO VISIT HIS NEW VILLA.

Berlin, March 24.—Emperor William and the empress, accompanied by Prince August, their fourth son, and Princess Victoria, their daughter, and attended by a numerous suite, left here this morning at 10 o'clock for Corfu, by way of Venice. The imperial yacht Hohenzollern will meet the party at Venice and take them over to Corfu, where the emperor will spend a vacation in his new villa.

CHARGED WITH SELLING TICKETS FOR LOTTERY.

Burlington, Iowa, March 24.—Peter Ruff, a barber, has been arrested here by federal authorities charged with using the mail for unlawful purposes. Ruff is charged with dealing in lottery tickets and was taken to Ottumwa yesterday. It is said that a number of arrests will be made in this part of Iowa on indictments found by a federal grand jury in Chicago. Ruff and others will subsequently be taken to Chicago for trial. It is said the lottery business has been conducted in an extensive manner.

KILLED IN QUARREL.

Toronto, March 24.—In a fight among a gang of Slavonians employed on the waterworks tunnel, last night, Joseph Milovitch was shot dead, and several others received stab wounds, but none was dangerously hurt. The police arrested fifteen of the participants.

MARCH 24, 1908.

Copper share market fine. Amalgamated and North Butte very strong. Ballakalva now listed on Boston curb and is on its way up to the price where it belongs. Many Duluth people have made big money on this stock and it has only started. Pretty soon you will see Ballakalva take jumps of not only 25 or 50 cents, but $5 at a crack, when the 700-foot level is reached and drifting has begun then for good—news that will make you feel like somebody if you have any stock. Butte & Ballakalva is the best proposition for big money since Calumet & Arizona was put on. They will ship as much ore in the next 50 years as the North Butte. The price of stock should be $50 or more, and, boys, it is going there. If you think this is a stock that should only sell at $10 or $15 a share, then sell it and get into something that has bigger possibilities, but you can scratch your head and think and think, and in this great United States of ours you cannot find another as good as the Ballakalva for big money very soon.

Buy Butte & Superior at this price. It is a whale of a mine and has great possibilities and will be a bigger mine than thirty-eight of some of those you read so much about. Shattuck is selling away below its worth, and I advise its purchase. National has begun shipping ore and looks like a buy right now.

This office will give you information on any property for the asking, and will not advise the purchase of any stock that we have not thoroughly looked up and found to be a true and honest proposition. We have gone onto the conservative scale. We admit we have made mistakes, but will do our best to make no more. Our Copper Country and Boston wire is as good as any, and with Miller & Co. of Boston and New York as correspondents, can give you the very best of service.

THE PRESIDENT DECLARES AGAINST THE BLACKLIST AND THE BOYCOTT, BUT SAYS RIGHT TO STRIKE MUST BE MAINTAINED

DEMOCRATS OF NORTH DAKOTA ORGANIZE AND LISTEN TO GOVERNOR

State Convention is Called to Order by Chairman Cashel.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—When the delegates to the Democratic state convention arrived at the Metropolitan theater at 10:30 o'clock they observed a large portrait of W. J. Bryan in the center of the stage under the speaker's table. On the left was a large portrait of Andrew Jackson and on the right overshadowing a small portrait of Governor Johnson of Minnesota was one of Thomas Jefferson. The lower floor of the theater and the front row of the balcony was taken up by delegates. On the stage back of the speaker's table sat delegates from Walsh and Ward counties.

While the delegates were coming in, a representative of the press table said that R. T. O'Connor of St. Paul and a following of Johnson men from Minnesota had arrived in the city. This indicated that the Johnson men were to have some outside influence working in their support.

"Dick" O'Connor is known in St. Paul as an active worker in connection with Eastern Johnson men looking to Johnson's nomination.

Just before calling the convention to order, State Chairman Cashel announced to the newspaper men that he would call on L. A. Ueland, LaMoure county, to act as temporary chairman.

Just before the chairman's gavel fell, the band played the "Star Spangled Banner," and a large flag was dropped at the back of the stage and a large portrait of W. J. Bryan was pinned to the flag amid cheers from the delegation.

Chairman Makes Address.

Chairman Cashel then began his opening address. Mr. Cashel's remarks were for a harmonious gathering and then he gave the delegates some advice on how to spread the doctrine of Democracy at home in order to get the results in the state the Democratic party of North Dakota would have.

E. P. Totten of Bowman county and J. H. Bloom of Ramsey county were selected as temporary secretaries. When Mr. Ueland was introduced as temporary chairman he made a brief

IS TIME TO CALL HALT

On Absurd Talk of State's Rights, Says Congressman Jenkins.

State Officials Who Defy Law Are No Better Than Anarchists.

Washington, March 25.—There is no difference between the anarchists who defy constitutional authority and state officials who disregard it, is the opinion credited to Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin, chairman of the house judiciary committee, in an interview published in the Post today.

"The decisions of the supreme court must be upheld unless we want anarchy in the land," Mr. Jenkins is quoted as saying; "and that this absurd talk about state's rights, as commonly and long understood, ought to cease."

Referring to the recent decisions of the supreme court, in the Minnesota and North Carolina railroad cases, Mr. Jenkins is quoted in part as follows:

"Both cases meet my unqualified approval, and I think the decisions will meet with the approval of all good citizens, Democrats and Republicans, North as well as South. The decisions are timely and a just rebuke to state officials who have been so active in making trouble between states and nation. I speak as a friend of the state, and have never by my vote allowed their rights to be invaded or their powers limited.

Nothing to Find Fault About.

"There is absolutely nothing to find fault about. It is not a blow at states, or a blow at state's rights. The proper tribunal decided the Constitutional questions involved. Have conditions in this nation come to this—that state officials are going to openly defy federal power, properly exercised, under

TURNED DOWN BY OPERATORS

Des Moines, Iowa, March 25.—Efforts of the miners to prevent a suspension of work at the coal mines of Iowa, April 1, presented yesterday in the form of a resolution to the joint conference of miners and operators, were turned down point-blank by the operators.

The miners in their resolution signified their willingness to continue work at the mines after April 1, pending negotiations of a wage scale, on condition that the scale and terms finally agreed upon by both parties apply from April 1. The operators emphatically declined the resolution, insisting that a complete shutdown of the mines is necessary during the period of negotiations.

ENTHUSIASM FOR JOHNSON

Meeting at East Grand Forks Shows Trend of Sentiment.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—This section of Polk county certainly is strong for Governor John A. Johnson, judging by the sentiment displayed at the rally held here Saturday. So far as the west end of Polk county is concerned, there is no other candidate for the Democratic nomination for president but the present state executive.

The meeting was a hummer for enthusiasm, from beginning to end. Martin O'Brien was one of the principal speakers, and delivered a telling address, that found plenty of responses among his auditors. He paid an eloquent tribute to the governor, and predicted that the Democracy of Minnesota was for the governor, first, last and all the time, all reports current in the Red River valley to the contrary.

DETECTIVE SULLIVAN MORTALLY WOUNDS MAN.

Chicago, March 25.—Detective John L. Sullivan, a brother of Democratic National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan, shot and mortally wounded Harry Krause of St. Louis last night in the saloon of Jacob Niemann, 301 West Randolph street. Sullivan shot Krause, after Krause, who was fighting in the saloon with Harry Pender, had twice felled the officer by blows over the head with a heavy chair.

Sullivan, who is assigned to the mayor's office, entered the saloon in an endeavor to stop the fighting and was trying to separate the combatants when he was attacked by Krause. The St. Louis man was shot in the stomach. Sullivan arrested Pender.

CHILDREN MAKE MERRY AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, March 25.—The White House was the scene last night of a merry gathering, when the president and Mrs. Roosevelt invited all the young friends of their children to attend a stereopticon lecture on the Polar regions.

Master Archibald and Master Kermit Roosevelt arrived at the White House yesterday from Groton to spend a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, who were at a dinner, later joined the party, so that the entire family was assembled with the exception of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who is expected later in the week.

LOOKS LIKE SEPARATION

New York, March 25.—It became known here today that Mrs. Alfred Gywnne Vanderbilt has removed her personal effects from Oakland Farm, Newport, her husband's country home. Her home during the summer, it is understood, will be at the residence of her brother, Amos Tuck French, at Tuxedo. Mr. Vanderbilt, who recently came to New York from London, is now at the Hotel Plaza. It is said he will return to London soon and occupy a house he has rented for the season.

The announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will not make Newport their home this summer has occasioned much surprise in society circles.

She then came to New York, accompanied by Mr. French, her little son, William Vanderbilt, Miss Pauline French, her sister, and her sister's fiance, Samuel Wagstaff. She did not go to the Plaza upon her arrival in New York. Neither did she or her sister go directly to Tuxedo. Mr. French, however, went to Tuxedo to make arrangements for the goods that were to come on from Newport.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was Miss Elsie French, daughter of the late Francis Ormond French, president of the Manhattan Trust company and a director in many railroads. She married Mr. Vanderbilt in January, 1900, after he had been graduated from Yale a year. William, their only child, was born in 1901.

Alfred Vanderbilt inherited upwards of $60,000,000 from his father, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt. Much of his time has been spent abroad during the past year.

Cass Lake, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nellie Ruffner, aged 2 years, died at Farris, yesterday afternoon, after drinking several ounces of kerosene oil. While the mother's back was turned, the little girl took the oil can and drank considerable. Doctors were summoned, but the child died before their arrival.

DAVID JAYNE HILL,
Who Is Not Acceptable to Emperor William, for Personal Reasons, as Ambassador From the United States to Germany.

To Succeed Charlemagne Tower Who Has Resigned Position.

Objection to Hill is a Purely Personal One With Kaiser.

Said to Have Given Offense to Prince Henry When Here.

Washington, March 25.—The German government has declined to receive Dr. David Jayne Hill in the capacity of American ambassador, to succeed Charlemagne Tower, whose resignation has been accepted, to take effet upon the qualification of his sucessor. Dr. Hill is at present American minister to The Hague, and was formerly first assistant secretary of state under the administration of Secretary Hay.

The objection to Dr. Hill is one purely personal to Emperor William, who has simply caused it to be made known that the American diplomatist is persona non grata to him. The reason for the emperor's objection is connected with the visit to America several years ago of his brother,

A MORAL WAVE AT SOUTH BEND

Committee of Fifty Citizens to Seek Enforcement of Laws.

South Bend, Ind., March 25.—Discouraged over the alleged failure of the city authorities to rid South Bend of gambling, a committee of fifty, composed of prominent people of the city, has taken preliminary action in starting criminal prosecution against owners of buildings which are being rented for immoral purposes. The committee has served notice on the owners that buildings must be cleansed within two weeks. There has been no mincing of matters and several of the most hitherto respected and influential residents of the city are included in the list that is being dealt with. The committee is acting under sections of the Indiana statutes which provide for owners of buildings in such cases.

ROSE SECURES NOMINATION

By Democrats as Candidate for Mayor of Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 25.—Returns from yesterday's primary election while not complete show that David S. Rose, Democrat has been nominated for mayor over William H. Graebner by a plurality of 7500. Thomas J. Pringle, Republican leads Louis A. Dahlman and John T. Kelly by a plurality estimated at 1,800. Emil Seidel, Social Democrat, was nominated without opposition.

CONGRESS SHOULD LIMIT ISSUE OF INJUNCTIONS

Should Re-Enact Employers' Liability Law and Amend Anti-Trust Law.

Washington, March 25.—President Roosevelt sent a special message to congress today, in which he urged legislation affecting the labor interests, amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to relieve beneficial combines from its operations, steps toward a revision of the tariff and the enactment of other measures that he had urged in previous messages.

In the house the declaration that the time had come for a revision of the tariff elicited handclapping on the part of the Democratic members. Democratic approval was also given by way of pounding desks to the suggestion that congress could with advantage forthwith remove the tariff on wood pulp. The Republicans waited and confined their applause to the message as a whole.

In the senate the message was received without comment of any kind.

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I call your attention to certain measures as to which I think there should be action by the congress before the close of the present session. There is ample time for their consideration. As regards most if not all of the matters, bills have been introduced into one or the other of the two houses, and it is not too much to hope that action will be taken one way or the other on these bills at the present session. In my message at the opening of the present session, and, indeed, in various messages to previous congresses, I have repeatedly suggested action on most of these measures.

Child labor should be prohibited throughout the nation. At least a model child labor bill should be passed for the District of Columbia. It is unfortunate that in the one place solely dependent upon congress for its legislation there should be no law whatever to protect children by forbidding or regulating their labor.

> I renew my recommendation for the immediate re-enactment of an employers' liability law, drawn to conform to the recent decision of the supreme court.

Within the limits indicated by the court, the law should be made thorough and comprehensive and the protection it affords should embrace every class of employe to which the power of the congress can extend.

In addition to a liability law protecting the employes of common carriers, the government should show its good faith by enacting a further law giving compensation to its own employes for injury or death incurred in its service. It is a reproach to us as a nation that in both federal and state legislation we have afforded less protection to public and private employes than any other industrial country of the world.

Injunctions in Labor Disputes.

I also urge that action be taken along the line of the recommendations I have already made concerning injunctions in labor disputes. No temporary restrain-

Mr. Bede was also advised that a full county system of free delivery will be commenced April 1 in Isanti county.

EMPEROR WILLIAM AND PARTY REACH VENICE.

Venice, March 25.—Emperor William of Germany, accompanied by the empress, Prince August, one of his sons, Princess Victoria, his daughter and a numerous suite, arrived here today from Berlin. The imperial party was given a very warm welcome by King Victor Emanuel, Foreign Minister Tittoni, the authorities of Venice and the Venetian people. Queen Helena was not present, having been detained in Rome by a slight indisposition of the young crown prince. Unfortunately, the weather was overcast and raining, but a return of warm spring weather is expected soon.

JUDGE WILFLEY WILL NOT BE IMPEACHED BY SENATE

Washington, March 25.—Impeachment proceedings will not be instituted in the United States senate against Lebbeus R. Wilfley, judge of the United States court for China as a result of the charges of misbehavior in office brought against him by Lorin Andrews and other American lawyer, resident in Shanghai. The report of the special committee consisting of Representatives Moon of Pennsylvania, Webb of North Carolina and Diekema of Michigan, appointed by Speaker Cannon to determine whether the charges were based upon facts sufficient to warrant impeachment of Judge Wilfley, today submitted its report to the house committee on the judiciary.

This report is in the nature of a verdict, holding Judge Wilfley guiltless of the bad motives necessary to a legal cause for impeachment, but finding him guilty—though more by forceful inference than by direct accusation—of high-mindedness and harshness and some serious mistakes in the conduct of his court.

The investigation by the special committee followed the introduction in the house by Mr. Waldo of New York of a memorial comprising twenty-nine distinct charges made by Mr. Andrews and his colleagues. In the report of the committee, an exhaustive review written by Chairman Moon and concurred in by Mr. Webb and Mr. Diekema, each of these charges and the real facts relating thereto as brought out by the testimony taken, are judicially discussed and disposed of and the conclusions reached are as follows:

Conclusion of Committee.

"The conclusion of the committee deduced from the memorial, from the examination of petitioner and from our construction of the precedents of impeachment trials in the United States, is that the actual facts charged in the said memorial, even though established by competent legal evidence, would not justify a conviction of Judge Wilfley upon charges of impeachment before the United States senate and would not therefore, warrant a presentation by the house of representatives of such articles of impeachment. But notwithstanding this finding, the investigation of the case has made clear to us that the anomalous character of this court, the extraordinary power given by law to the judge, the fact that it is separated 7,000 miles from an appellate tribunal, with a broad ocean intervening between, presenting obstacles that burden the constitutional right of review with expense, delay and hazard unknown to any other court, justify the people of the United States in demanding of this judge a temperate exercise if his great power.

May Develop System of Tyranny.

"It is obviously true that an aggregation of entirely legal acts may develop into a system of tyranny and oppression; and that an inequitable exercise of judicial discretion may convert the machinery of justice into an engine of despotic and autocratic power. This may be accomplished without the taint of individual corruption and with a laudable purpose of purifying a community and of inaugurating civic reform.

"Terror to evildoers, if purchased at the price of judicial fairness and overstrained legal authority, is achieved at too great an expense, for it defeats its own high aim and warps the very fabric of the law itself.

"The temptation of an honest judge to 'bend once the law to his authority to do a great right; do a little wrong' is fraught with such danger to our whole system of remedial justice that it must merit the condemnation of every mind.

"Such acts of legal oppression and of abuse of judicial discretion lie at the foundation of the charges. They are made before the house of representatives in the form prescribed by law and custom and are presented as a question of high privilege upon the solemn responsibility of a member of the house. Charges so presented against this court have a peculiar and dangerous significance. In this case they are dismissed as falling short of impeachable offenses by what we believe to be sound principles of legal construction and Judge Wilfley is thereby denied every opportunity for defense. He can file no answer and make no denial nor explain to the house the legality or necessity for his action.

"These charges therefore stand uncontroverted and if his judicial acts in the future are marked by the rigorous and inflexible harshness imputed to him, they will hang as a portentous cloud over this new court, impairing the usefulness of Judge Wilfley, impeding the administration of justice and challenging the integrity of American institutions."

SAYS BRIDGE IS UNSAFE

Inspector Neff Will Examine Every Bridge in City Limits.

City Engineer McGilvray reported to the board of public works this morning that the bridge on Oneota street at Thirty-ninth avenue west is in immediate need of repairs and suggests that something be done immediately to put it in safe condition. The abutments are caving in and one of the piles under the car tracks has rotted and may go down when the frost goes out of the ground in the spring. The heavy cars pass over the bridge every five minutes or so and it is dangerous in its present condition.

James Neff, inspector of bridges and sidewalks, has started his inspection of the bridges of the city. There are fully 294 bridges and wide culverts, and the work of inspection will cover about six weeks. When bridges are found in immediate danger, reports will be made of their condition to the board of public works. After the inspection is completed, a comprehensive report of the condition of all bridges within the city limits will be made.

The bridges along the car tracks will be inspected first, and Mr. Neff is working now on the line running to West Duluth over Oneota street. The Grand avenue line, one of the worst in the city in respect to bridges, will probably be taken next and the line on the hill and to Lakeside will be taken later.

The need for extensive bridge building throughout the city has been pointed out by the engineer several times. An inspection of the Grand avenue line last spring revealed the fact that before there could be any hope of an extension to New Duluth, it would be necessary to replace nearly every wooden structure on the line with modern steel bridges. The bridge over Lester river is also said to be in an unsafe condition, and Mr. Neff's final report will probably bring out some interesting facts.

Farewell Party.

The ladies of the Asbury Methodist church gave a surprise party yesterday afternoon at the church in honor of Mrs. Katherine Cameron's seventieth birthday. Mrs. Cameron will leave soon for New York, where she will live with her son. The affair was also a farewell party.

Rev. Thomas Grice as pastor of the church in behalf of those present, presented her with several gifts, tokens of the esteem in which she is held. Several of the ladies made appropriate remarks, and after a short musical program a luncheon was served.

Mrs. Cameron has resided with her son, Daniel Cameron, 310 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, for several years, and is well known in West Duluth. Her departure will be the source of much regret to her many friends.

The Sons of Norway are making elaborate preparations for a grand celebration on May 17. The two lodges, Nortun, No. 16, and Fram, No. 5, have united in the hope of having the best seventeenth of May festival that has ever been held at the Head of the Lakes. Invitations will be extended to all the Norwegians in this part of the state and also Wisconsin. The lodges at Cloquet, Two Harbors, Virginia, Hibbing and other towns in that vicinity are expected to join with the Duluth orders.

NUISANCE UNABATED

One Young Hoodlum is Given a Sound Thrashing.

Complaints continue to be made regularly about a certain gang of young rowdies who are making themselves very obnoxious to West Duluth residents. Their actions have tried the patience of the community almost to the limit.

Not content with standing on the street corners, making remarks at girls as they pass, and spitting tobacco juice on store windows, the hoodlums have made the churches and their congregations the object of their attentions. Sunday nights at the close of the service when the church goers are disbursing, the rowdies line up on fence rails and at the edge of the sidewalk and insult women without escorts. They have even been reported as having thrown stones through church windows.

A story is told of one young tough, who got all that was coming to him. He cast an insinuating remark at a young woman not noticing in the dark her escort a few feet ahead. But the escort noticed the tough and his remark and gave him one of the soundest thrashings he probably ever received in his life.

This state of affairs not only exists in West Duluth but is said to be the case in the West end, where several warrants of arrest have been sworn out, and other means taken to put a stop to it.

BOY RETURNS HOME.

Parents Spent Three Very Anxious Days Looking for Him.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward St. Mary, 5713 Main street, were very much relieved last night when their 16-year-old son, George, returned home safe and sound after an absence of three days, his whereabouts from Saturday night until Tuesday night being unknown to them. They had been very much worried and feared that some harm had befallen him, and yesterday notified the police.

The boy explained his absence by saying that he had gone to the roller skating rink Saturday night with some friends and had spent the rest of the time in Duluth with them, never thinking of the anxiety that he was causing his parents.

MEN SAY THEY WERE WORKED

Nine men reported to the police department this morning that the believed an endless chain system was worked on them at John Sibley's camp near Knife River. They said they were sent out there by the Empire Employment agency on tickets, calling for $26 a month and they claim they were paid off at the rate of $16 a month. They said men are constantly being taken on and laid off at the camp. They will probably bring civil action to recover.

Four men, hired by the Duluth Employment company to work at an Alger-Smith camp near Knife River, reported yesterday that there was no work when they reached the camp. The employment company claimed the men did not report on time. The price of the tickets was refunded and the matter thus settled.

Eye Will be Removed.

An operation will be performed at St. Mary's hospital this afternoon to remove one of the eyes of W. J. Presley, who was injured by a premature blast at the Tenth avenue entrance to the Wisconsin Central tunnel some weeks ago. Presley was badly cut about the face at the time and it was thought he would lose his sight entirely. He visited a specialist at Milwaukee, but he could do nothing for the man. He returned to Duluth, and it is believed that the sight of one eye can be saved by the removal of the other. Dr. Robinson will perform the operation.

HAPPY OLD AGE

Most Likely to Follow Proper Eating.

As old age advances, we require less food to replace waste, and food that will not overtax the digestive organs, while supplying true nourishment.

Such an ideal food is found in Grape-Nuts, made of whole wheat and barley by long baking and action of diastase in the barley which changes the starch into sugar.

The phosphates also, placed up under the bran-coat of the wheat, are included in Grape-Nuts, but left out of white flour. They are necessary to the building of brain and nerve cells.

"I have used Grape-Nuts," writes an Iowa man, "for 8 years and feel as good and am stronger than I was ten years ago. I am over 74 years old and attend to my business every day.

"Among my customers I meet a man every day who is 92 years old and attributes his good health to Grape-Nuts and Postum which he has used for the last 5 years. He mixes Grape-Nuts with Postum and says they go fine together.

"For many years before I began to eat Grape-Nuts, I could not say that I enjoyed life or knew what it was to be able to say 'I am well.' I suffered greatly with constipation, now my habits are as regular as ever in my life.

"Whenever I make extra effort I depend on Grape-Nuts food and it just fills the bill. I can think and write a great deal easier."

PLUMBERS JACKED UP

Lax Observance of Law Will No Longer be Tolerated.

Charles Rigdon, city plumbing inspector, put the thumb-screws on the plumbers this morning. He has decided to put a stop to inattention to the regulations and in a circular letter called the attention of the master plumbers to some of the provisions of the ordinance and notified them that they must comply strictly with them.

Last summer, when plumbers were somewhat scarce and carpenters were rushing them hard, it was the custom to point in the soil pipes, call for inspection and put the lead work in after the soil pipes had been covered. The practice will be done away with. In the future, all soil and rough lead pipes must be in before an order for inspection is given, so that the plumbing inspector will see the work when it is complete in the rough.

The rule regarding permits must also be given more attention. The ordinance requires that no work shall be begun until a permit has been issued. Plumbers have sometimes ignored that, getting the work almost completed, before they visited the plumbing inspector. In the future, they must take out their permits before beginning work and no calls for inspection will be given attention unless there is a permit issued for the work.

The plumbing inspector is working out a more systematic plan of conducting his office. Under instructions from the mayor, every department of the city must systematically and effectively carry out its work and the plumbing inspector does not escape. The circular is designed to give notice to the plumbers that their former laxities will not be passed over, but they will be vigorously jacked up for every slip.

SAYS CLAIM IS A LIEN

Judge J. B. Middlecoff of the probate court has handed down a decision in the matter of the estate of Elizabeth Stevens which is of considerable interest for the reason the court holds that services rendered by a daughter to her mother during the latter's illness are a lien on the homestead owned by the parent.

So far as can be ascertained this is the first time that a question of this nature has ever come up in St. Louis county and it is probable that the matter will be carried by appeal through to the supreme court.

The state legislature, it is claimed, never provided a law on the subject, except in case of a mechanic's lien, and the decision of the probate court is based on Section 12 of the state constitution.

In her will Mrs. Stevens bequeathed $1 each to all the sons and daughters except Hazen Stevens to whom was left all the real estate, personal property and household effects.

Robert Debou, husband of one of the daughters of the decedent, filed a claim of about $400 against the estate for a barn and for services of Mrs. Debou as a nurse for Mrs. Stevens for twelve months at $25 per month. The executor objected to the claim and filed a counter claim of $631 for the rent of Mrs. Stevens' house, which was occupied by the Debous during the sickness of Mrs. Stevens. The probate court allowed the claim of Mr. Debou at $140. An appeal was taken to the district court and the jury returned a verdict awarding Debou $128.75 and disbursements, the total being about $148. Judgments were duly entered, but Hazen Stevens, the executor, refused to pay Mrs. Debou more than the $1 bequeathed her by her mother. The question was raised whether the judgment could be a lien on the homestead, and the probate court holds that it is.

TWO POUNDS OF SWANSON

If John can pack the needed thirty-two ounces on his attenuated frame within the next two or three days he can join the army. He will be given a chance.

John stands something over six feet without his brogans. He is a fine specimen of physical manhood, all bone and muscle, but he lacks just two pounds of weighing what the army regulations call for in a man of his height. If John can flesh up he can be a soldier boy.

John applied this morning for admission to the army. He passed every detail of the examinations, but the weight requirement. He looks like such a good recruit that the army officials hate to lose him. They are going to permit him to loaf around a couple of days, surround a lot of nourishment and drink a lot of water, with the hope that when he comes in at the end of the packing period he will have added over two pounds to his spare frame.

He will be quartered at the hotel where the army officials board. The host will be instructed to feed John fattening foods. He will be asked to serve the raw-boned recruit with lots of murphies. John will be given a quantity of milk to drink with each meal, and its a safe bet that if John isn't one of the proverbial lean kine he will come to the scratch next Saturday two pounds more a perfect man than he was when he first walked into the army recruiting office. John will also take a deep draught of water before he weighs in.

Injured by Runaway Team.

A. B. Henderson, who has charge of the Shattuck & Hishlop livery barn, was seriously injured by a runaway hack team yesterday afternoon. Mr. Henderson was attempting to place a political banner on the backs of a spirited team in the barn when the horses became frightened and made a dash for the open door. Mr. Henderson clung to the reins until caught between the hack and the door, when he dropped and was run over by the vehicle. He was rendered unconscious. The full extent of his injuries is not definitely known, but his collarbone was broken and a number of bruises were apparent where the wheels passed over his chest and neck.

No More Contracts.

The report that the Superior shipyards have a contract to build another boat during the summer, after the two now nearing completion at the yards are finished, was this morning denied by Superintendent Louis Williams. Mr. Williams said that after the two boats now being constructed are launched, the yards have no contracts to fill so far for the summer. This will necessitate the laying off of a large part of the company's force.

OWN VALUABLE COLORADO MINE

Eureka Exploration Company Offers Excellent Proposition.

The Eureka Exploration company presents one of the best mining propositions ever put on the market in Duluth, a developed mine, equipped with a mill and a complete set of mining machinery for the concentrating of gold, silver and lead ores, which cannot be duplicated for less than $75,000, their own water power, a valuable body of timber and large partially developed bodies of copper ore. The property consists of thirty-two claims or 320 acres divided into the Silver Wing and Fredericka group on Jones and Grouse mountains, eleven miles northeast of Silverton, Colo., on the Silverton & Northern railway, containing twenty-four claims, and the Ridgeway group on Galena mountain, seven miles northeast of Silverton containing eight claims.

Developments on the Silver Wing and Fredericka group consists of a main cross-cut tunnel 1,835 feet long and wide enough for a double track, about 1,000 feet of drifting on the mill level, and numerous other drifts and tunnels above this level. On the mill level several distinct bodies of copper ore have been cut, the principal one being at a distance of about 1,100 feet from the portal. Twenty-five hundred tons of ore was shipped to the Silverton smelter, with returns of $1,300 per ton gross value.

Another fine body of smelting ore about three feet wide showing smelter returns of $12.62 to $25.40, was opened up last fall.

Considerable tonnage of gold, silver and some lead ores, showing smelter returns on the former from $10 to $100 per ton have been shipped from levels above the timber line.

The Ridgeway property is developed by over 1,500 feet of underground workings, and $70,000 worth of gold and silver ore shipped, showing smelter returns from $30 to $230.70 per ton. All ore was taken from above the timber line. The company is now at work on the main tunnel, which will cut property at a depth of 1,000 feet, and will bring ore out at a point where a short tramway will convey it to the railroad. This tunnel is in now a distance of 700 feet.

The capitalization of the Eureka Exploration company is 2,000,000 shares, par value $1 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, with over half of the stock in the treasury and no salaried officers, except the manager and secretary. The company being at the mercy of the smelter combine and the railroad company, who are charging pretty stiff rates for treating and hauling ore, they have decided to build a smelter and equip the property with electric power whereby they can operate it all the year around at a fair profit at the present price of copper. The contemplated cost of improvements being close to $40,000, the company, on the request of quite a number of Duluth stockholders, has decided to put a block of 50,000 shares of stock on the market at only 50 cents per share, par value $1., fully paid and non-assessable.

H. G. Kranz of the Bowman-Kranz Lumber company, Sioux City and Omaha, is the president of the Eureka Exploration company, and Theodore Ivens, a capable and experienced mining man, is the general manager.

The subscription list for the purchase of stock is now open at the offices of the leading Duluth brokers. * * *

DRILL DEEP HOLE FOR ELEVATOR

A difficulty in the way of solid rock has been struck at the Sellwood building, where they are sinking a hole for the hydraulic elevator that is to be installed in the building.

A hole fourteen inches in diameter and 64 feet in depth—the height of the building—has to be drilled. The hole was put down sixty-four feet and at that point, rock of such a solid nature was encountered that the work had to be discontinued until proper machinery can be obtained to do the work. The workmen are now working night and day on the job.

AN ATTEMPT TO WRECK BRIDGE WITH DYNAMITE.

Perth Amboy, N. J., March 25.—An attempt to wreck the new Pennsylvania railroad bridge over the Raritan river between this city and South Amboy was made early today when a charge of dynamite was exploded near one of the bridge abutments. The bridge did not fall although it was left in a condition regarded as unsafe for the passage of trains. The police suspect that the attempt at destruction is the outcome of some ill feeling over the employment of men to build the bridge.

CRUSHER TO BE STARTED

The stone-crusher will begin work at Thirteenth avenue west and Superior street tomorrow morning. James W. Preston of the board of public works visited the Point of Rocks this morning and found that the men had taken almost enough rock out. There were only a few bolts to be tightened, and the stone-crusher would be set in operation.

Since the board put men at work taking out rock over a week ago, seventeen men have been at work steadily, and they will easily be able to keep the crusher on a steady grind now, with the rock they have taken out and what they can quarry while it is being crushed. When the crusher gets into full blast, a few men will probably be added, but the force will not be materially increased.

The postponement of the improvement of Second street put a damper on the scheme to start a portable crusher on Twelfth avenue east between Sixth and Seventh streets. Should the Fourth street improvement also be postponed, it is believed the plan will be abandoned altogether. Fourth and Second streets were two of the largest contracts under contemplation, and the two crushers might be necessary to supply rock enough for them. But with only Third street and Twelfth and Twentieth avenues east to be paved, the one crusher can supply all of the rock that will be necessary, and it would be a sheer waste of funds to start a crusher on Twelfth avenue east.

The board is taking care of what unemployed men it can, adding to the force and making changes wherever better results may be obtained. President Olson said this morning that, with the cleaning of the streets to begin soon, the stone-crusher operating on the Point of Rocks, and the sewer work already planned, the board will employ men in accordance with the desire of the council, giving preference to married men and permanent residents of Duluth.

Johnson Pleads Guilty.

John Johnson, who was under indictment for assault in the second degree and who was to have been tried this morning in the district court, decided to plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the court instead of standing trial. He was sentenced to a term of ninety days in the county jail by Judge Dibell. Johnson is accused of stabbing a man in a saloon row on the range.

The victim of the robbery could not be found this afternoon, however, and Nee and Roberts are being held on a charge of begging on the streets, while Carlton is charged with vagrancy.

Hanson Found Guilty.

Charles Hanson, who was charged with having stolen a fur coat from the Nicollet hotel, was tried this morning and found guilty of grand larceny in the second degree.

Motion Is Denied.

Judge Ensign has denied the motion of Messner Bros. for a judgment, notwithstanding the verdict, or for a new trial in the action brought against them by Vito Barbrie. The action was tried several months ago, Barbrie receiving the verdict. It was a case in which Barbrie was suing for some goods that he alleged had been seized from him by the Messner Bros.

Diamonds Will Be Higher.

At a meeting of the jewelers' board of trade held in New York, the reports printed in papers throughout the country, that the prices of diamonds would fall, were stamped as false and malicious. Instead of a decrease in price, a sharp rise of at least 10 per cent is expected not later than July 1st. As the mines have attained a great depth, mining is more difficult and expensive. Therefore the expected rise in prices.

J. S. LANE'S EDITORIAL

During the spring months the weather is always mixed—cold today, rain tomorrow, and nobody knows what's coming the next day.

I am ready for all emergencies, and for $35, $38, $40 or $45, will make you a topcoat, the equal in every respect of what any other good tailor would charge you $5 to $10 more for—a garment that you could not buy in a ready-made store at any price.

IT IS ONLY ABOUT THREE WEEKS TO EASTER, and high time you ordered that suit.

I want you to give me the order.

I want to demonstrate to you that I can save you money; that clothes made by me will outwear a guessfit 2 to 1.

There are no better clothes than mine built at any price.

And I can prove it.

Yours truly,

ON THE IRON RANGES

GREATER VIRGINIA WAS ITS RULING SENTIMENT

First Annual Banquet of Commercial Club Successful Affair.

Northern Minnesota and Needs of Hour Are Pertinent Themes.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Few events in the history of the progressive city of Virginia have equalled in general excellence the first annual banquet of the Commercial club, held last evening. The dining room of the New England hotel was taxed to its capacity, over 150 persons being seated. The tables made a very handsome and imposing sight, a white or pink carnation at every plate making a pretty color relief. Rev. Arthur Carswell, rector of the Episcopal church, said grace. The dinner and service were both excellent.

After the feast had been disposed of, the program was started, E. M. Tredway, ex-president of the club, acting as toastmaster. The opening number was a selection by the Kraft-Paananen orchestra.

Ransom Metcalf, president of the club, made a brief address of welcome, which was followed by another orchestra selection.

Martin Hughes of Hibbing was the first speaker of the evening. His address dealt with the agricultural possibilities of the region. He dwelt on the fact that when he first came to the range eight years ago, like many others on their first visit, he looked upon the vast stretch of the wilderness lying between Duluth and the range as being practically valueless for agricultural purposes, but had since seen agricultural development in that region that had led him to the conclusion that for profitable farming, much of that territory was unexcelled in any part of the state. He paid a high compliment to Virginia as a city, and to its citizens, who had builded here one of the most handsome and substantial cities of its size in the country.

James Lavick of this city favored the assembly with a fine baritone solo, entitled "Love Me and the World is Mine," and was compelled to respond to an encore.

Representative Austin Speaks.

Owing to the fact M. C. Palmer could not come from Duluth because of sickness among the members of his force in the register of deeds office, his place on the program was assigned to Representative Joseph Austin of Chisholm, who had been invited to speak, but could not promise. However, he found at the last moment that he could get here, and his substitution proved very acceptable. His address was brief but spirited, and made an excellent impression. He paid Virginia the compliment of being the handsomest city on the range, especially in the matter of its homes. He also spoke of the desirable character of the soil in the vicinity of the range for agricultural purposes, and predicted rapid development of that industry.

A. F. Benson of this city favored with a German dialect telephone dialogue and received a vigorous recall, responding with a good story. He began his part with a brief talk on the efforts of the club, and predicted much good as a result of its organization and affiliation with the state federation.

Judge John M. Martin of this city had prepared an address on "Virginia, and Its Surroundings, Past, Present and Future," but deviated somewhat from the subject and gave one of his inimitable talks, which kept his audience convulsed with laughter much of the time. But he paid high compliment to the schools of Virginia in their efforts to improve and uplift the rising generation and especially commended their superintendent, Lafayette Bliss, for his efforts in reviving the almost lost art of oratory and for having brought home to Virginia laurels won in oratorical competition with the students in the best schools of the state. He also took occasion to commend both past and present city administrations for the good work accomplished by them in the way of civic improvements. A very entertaining portion of his address was that devoted to a fanciful picture of some learned savant living 10,000 years in the future digging among the submerged ruins of the city of Washington and there finding in the navy different pictures of President Roosevelt a mythological person representing the aims and purposes of the American people of the present period.

Thomas Grogan of this city rendered a beautiful baritone solo and responded to encore with another song enthusiastically applauded.

Needs of This Section.

Representative Clarence B. Miller of Duluth had for his theme the "Legislative Needs of Northern Minnesota," and proved that he was in thorough touch with the best sentiment of the people of this region in regard to this question. His address was a masterly effort and was listened to with wrapt attention. He paid his respects to that element in Southern Minnesota, which sought to enrich itself without effort by dipping into other people's pockets through a tonnage tax on the iron ore of the northern section, and said that if ever cupidity was shown in legislative halls it was in the arguments used in favor of the tonnage tax. He said that Northern Minnesota had a right to the revenue derived from its natural resources that it might assist in developing the wilderness through the constructing of good roads, the arteries of trade, through those sections suitable for agriculture, and he stated that from personal observation by traveling in the fashion of a cruiser he had learned that between Virginia and the international border lies a territory richer and more fertile in soil and farming possibilities than the Red River valley is more fertile than the southeastern part of the state. The speaker called attention in forcible manner to the gross manner in which the state of Minnesota had violated its contract with the federal government in the matter of draining its swamp lands, and he said that the people should demand liberal appropriations for the work of reclamation from this time forward. The speaker was given frequent applause, especially when he made comparison of the accomplishments of the pioneers who have been and are redeeming the wilderness with that of the great armies of the world. He paid a most glowing tribute to the superior worth of the pioneer and said that in these was represented the highest civilization.

After another delightful song by Thomas Grogan Toastmaster Tredway brought the affair to a close with a few happy remarks, in which he thanked the speakers and all concerned in making the affair so great a success. During the dinner and between the addresses the toastmaster read several huaghary telegrams to members of the club containing "hits" that were thoroughly enjoyed and greatly enlivened the affair.

But few of those living north of the city who were invited were present, because of pressing business. But those who were present were delighted with the banquet. A number were over from Eveleth, including Neil McInnis, Solomon Sax, P. E. Dowling, Alex McDonald, Charles Jasmore and J. E. Mitchell. From Sparta came D. M. Mouser. G. A. Terry, editor of the Ranier Journal, and J. A. Field, publisher of the Northland Farmer, were present.

The program closed at 1 a. m., and there were many expressions of pleasure from those who took part.

ELY CAUCUSES LIVELY CONTEST

Two Candidates for Alderman Tied and Lots Are Drawn.

Ely, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The primary caucus held last night to nominate aldermen in the three wards were rather lively and in one ward, the Third, it became necessary for Louis Eisenach and Jake Butola, who were tied, to draw lots, the latter winning.

What is called the Citizens' ticket won out in all of the wards. In the First, James Graves and James White defeated Mark Zorctic and John Gooze. James Parton and Olaf Knutson were nominated in the Second ward over Fred James and John Koval, while Louis Kukar and Jake Butola will make the race in the Third.

The general caucus will be held tonight. Mike Murphy, at present an alderman and president of the city council, appears to have no opposition in the race for mayor. Thomas Jury and Richard Hodge are candidates for assessor. For municipal judge the avoyed candidates are: Judge J. W. Osborne, the present incumbent, John Cowling, John Cosgrove, and F. S. Childers.

Luther Brockway, the present treasurer is opposed for the nomination by John E. Cosgrove, bookkeeper at the Pioneer mine. There appears to be no candidate for special judge.

LOWER INSURANCE RATES

Indicate Fire Companies Think Better of Eveleth Department.

Eveleth, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is evident that the fire insurance companies think better of the fire department and the way the property owners are erecting their buildings, as the rates on a small number of blocks in the city have been lowered by a considerable amount. The rate before, that existed in Eveleth, was very high in comparison with other range towns, but now since the lowering of the rates the difference will not be so great. The city has in its center a complete fire break, consisting of the Vail block, the new Rabinowitz block, the city hall and the Monitor hall. To this circumstance, doubtless, more than to any other, the reduction in the rates is due.

PETITION FOR LABOR.

Chisholm Miners to Ask That Unemployed be Given Work.

Chisholm, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Western Federation of Miners held a meeting Monday in the Finn public hall to talk over matter pertaining to securing labor for the unemployed members. They decided to draw up a petition, signed by all the federation members to the effect that all unemployed miners should be employed by the mining companies. This petition will be presented to the several mining companies on or before April 1.

Casualty Company Says Gibson Does Not Represent It.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with obtaining money by representing that he is agent for the Minneapolis Casualty company when that concern repudiates him, F. C. Gibson, who has been in town some time, faces a serious charge. Paul Bazelle alleges he paid Gibson $48 for insurance three weeks ago but receiving no policy wrote to the company receiving a reply that Gibson was not authorized to represent the company. Gibson's arrest followed.

Recently Gibson was arrested at the instance of some one in Ohio on a similar charge but he settled with the complainant before a deputy sheriff arrived from Duluth and was released.

CONTEST ON THE MAT

Will be Pulled Off in Vail Hall, Eveleth, Tuesday Night.

Eveleth, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The long awaited for athletic entertainment is to be put on tonight at the Vail hall under the auspices of the Eveleth Independent Athletic club. A number of good preliminaries have been arranged to precede the main event of the evening, which is to be a catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout between Andrew Danielson, champion of the Head of the Lakes, and Carl Letho, the heavyweight, who recently threw Gunnar Gronlund, until then champion of the range. Many outside enthusiasts are expected at the match.

DIPHTHERIA AT AURORA.

Aurora, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Diphtheria has made its appearance in Aurora for the first time this year. Five cases are reported to date, and 195 children enrolled in the schools have been exposed through the breaking of quarantine by a man and his wife. Those people visited a quarantined home last Sunday. They have five children attending school every day. The health officials are determined to arrest any persons breaking quarantine, and the first arrest will take place as soon as a justice of the peace files his bonds properly, according to law.

START RETURNS.

St. Paul, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles M. Start, chief justice of the state supreme court, has just returned from a month spent in Florida. The trip agreed with him and he is feeling much better than he did when he left.

WAS VICTIM OF A CONSPIRACY

Louis Miller Claims Attempt Was Made to Railroad Him.

Claiming that he was the victim of a conspiracy which resulted in his arrest on false and frivolous charges, Louis Miller of Hibbing has brought suit in the district court for $5,000 damages against Abraham Miller, Joseph Miller, Libby Miller and David Elias.

Louis Miller claims that the defendants swore out a warrant last fall, charging him with the theft of $1,000. He was given a hearing in the municipal court, bound over to the grand jury and held in jail twenty-four hours before he could secure bonds. He claims the grand jury dismissed the case against him as frivolous and unfounded.

The plaintiff claims he suffered in petty annoyances and injury to his reputation to the extent of $5,000, and asks to be reimbursed to that amount.

PLENTY OF FIREWORKS.

Chinese Steamer Arrives With Seventy-Three Car Loads.

Seattle, Wash., March 25.—There will be no fire-cracker famine in the United States this summer. The steamships, Ning Chow, just arrived at this port with 50,000 cases of the noisy pieces, or seventy-three car loads. This is said to be the largest consignment of Chinese firecrackers ever sent out of the Orient.

The large orders from the jobbers in the United States were greatly augmented by the fact that this is presidential year.

Avoid Secret Stomach Remedies

Thousands of people, having dyspepsia or stomach troubles in some form, continually "dope" themselves with all sorts of secret tonics, drugs, pills, cathartics, etc., which not only inflame and irritate the stomach and intestines, but in many cases cause the opium, morphine and cocaine habits.

You have a right and should demand to know what any medicine contains before you take it, unless it is put up or recommended by some reputable physician. Fakes and quacks will put most anything into their secret preparations, to make you like their useless stuff so as to want more of it, until it makes you the victim of some drug habit, which will ruin your health in a short time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy, they do not contain injurious drugs, and they are recommended by thousands of physicians in the United States and Canada to their patients for dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, and all other stomach troubles resulting from improper digestion of food.

These wonderful tablets actually digest food because they contain the very elements that are required of a healthy stomach to properly digest food, thus acting as a substitute and giving the overworked digestive organs a rest and a chance to regain their former health, strength and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain fruit and vegetables essences, the pure concentrated tincture of hydrastis, and golden seal, which tone up and strengthen the mucous coats of the stomach and increase the flow of gastric and other digestive juices; lactose (extracted from milk); nux, to strengthen the nerves controlling the action of the stomach; bismuth to absorb gases and prevent fermentation, and pure aseptic pepsin (gov. test) of the highest digestive power. All of these are scientifically incorporated in these tablets or lozenges and constitute a complete, natural, speedy cure for any stomach trouble.

Write us for a free sample package. This sample alone will give you sufficient relief to convince you. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CURFEW LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Mayor Haven said yesterday that he will give the police instructions to enforce the curfew law to the letter. The ordinance gives the police power to arrest children under 16 years of age who are found on the streets after 9 o'clock in the evening, unless they are accompanied by parents or guardians.

The first time a child is picked up the officer is supposed to take him to his home and notify his parents or guardians, and if he found after the curfew hour a second time, he is sent to jail, and the parents are summoned to appear in court. Mayor Haven will also ask the council to pass an ordinance, prohibiting the newsboys from entering saloons, a practice that is considered a nuisance by saloonkeepers.

Kodol is today the best known remedy for all disorders of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, heart burn, sour stomach and belching of gas. Sold here by all druggists.

CRUMPTON THE VICTOR

Linley, Reform Candidate, Defeated by Margin of 1,190.

Victor L. Linley, present mayor of Superior, was defeated at the primaries yesterday for the Republican nomination for mayor by a margin of 1,190 votes, Alderman Frank R. Crumpton being the successful candidate.

An attempt was made to have the lid a leading issue. Linley the defeated candidate, was the one who was continually bringing the lid to the front, and who was posing as the original, name-blown-in-the-bottle lid man.

Mr. Crumpton said the lid was not the leading issue, and that he stood for law enforcement, particularly as regards the liquor laws, just as strongly as his opponent. The lid went on in Superior under Linley, and he depended largely upon this fact to pull him through the battle victorious.

At yesterday's primary election 4,648 ballots were cast, and of this number Crumpton received the handsome plurality of 1,190. Joseph Konkel, who had no opposition, was nominated by the Democrats. Mayor Linley was defeated in his own ward, the Seventh, by 51 votes. This same ward gave Linley a plurality of over 200 at the last election. On the other hand, Crumpton carried his own ward, the Second, by only two votes. Linley carried the Eighth ward, and the other nine wards of the city went to Crumpton. In the Fourth Crumpton's plurality was nearly 400, and he carried the Sixth by 280.

Robert L. Hunter, treasurer for the last eleven years, was nominated over Frank Kenyon by 1,121 votes. W. A. Woods and James A. Baker were renominated as constables. There was a spirited contest on in some of the wards for aldermanic honors. This was especially true in the Fifth and Ninth wards, where several candidates were in the field. Four Republican candidates were out in the Fifth and three in the Ninth wards. In the former Peter Roise won out by one vote over N. L. Gill. Alderman Swan Hard was defeated for renomination in the Ninth by Charles Peterson by 41 votes. Following are the election results:

READY TO BEGIN.

C. W. Turner, general western manager for A. Booth & Co., was at the Spalding yesterday and stated that the steamer C. W. Moore would begin its north shore trips about April 10. If the condition of the lake permits the steamer will be sent out before that time.

The steamer America will begin operations about the first of May. The condition of the lake will probably not permit of a trip beyond Grand Portage during the early weeks of navigation.

The Booth company has considerable freight for north shore points, and for that reason will send out its boats as soon as navigation permits.

Fanta Appeals.

William Fanta, arrested and fined in the municipal court recently for violation of the liquor laws, has filed a notice of appeal in the district court, and the case will be carried through to the supreme court, it is claimed.

Fanta, through his attorney, seeks to establish the fact that such alleged violations do not come within the province of the municipal court.

APOLOGY

Made to Newspaper Reporters by Member of Reichstag.

Berlin, March 25.—The strike of the reichstag journalist, which began on Thursday last, was settled last evening. Under pressure from the various party leaders, Herr Grocber, the center leader, who had called the journalists "swine" because they jeered at a statement used by a member to the effect that negroes also had immortal souls, read a statement at the end of the day's sitting expressing apologies for the language he had used in reference to the journalist. At the conclusion of the statement a meeting of journalists was held and they voted to return to work on Thursday.

During the course of the strike, not a line had been published here on the proceedings in the reichstag and as a result of this failure of publicity, a large number of the members declined to deliver speeches, of which they had given notice, thus greatly impeding the work of the house.

Our Grand Easter Opening and Display

You Are Most Cordially Invited to Attend.

Coming as it does, shortly before Easter. Our opening dates the beginning of Spring styles in Duluth, and we have never been in better position to cater to the wants of Duluth's fashionable public. Never has a more thorough representation of everything that constitutes a fashionable woman's apparel been gathered together under one roof in this city. Our business creed demands it. "Satisfied customers" has always been our "slogan." A satisfied customer brings another, the other satisfied brings a friend, and so the endless chain of satisfied customers have built the trade of the Glass Block Store to its present gigantic proportions.

We have assembled for your inspection and approval, masterpieces of the world's foremost designers; everything that is new in women's garments, and nothing that does not bear the hall-mark of newness and absolute correctness.

Dresses and Costumes

Ladies' Dresses and Costumes in all the latest fads and creations. Dozens of models to choose from, each one showing different ideas and designs. A detailed description of these truly beautiful garments would be quite inadequate to describe their charms. We solicit your inspection of them.

Ladies' and Misses' Lingerie Dresses

Several large shipments of these Ladies' and Misses' fine Lingerie Dresses have arrived during the past few days. The very newest models, many of them exclusive here, not to be found elsewhere in Duluth. They are mostly in the Princesse models, in sheer lawn, batistes and fancy nets—very elaborately trimmed with lace insertings, lace yokes, and fancy insertings in the skirts; others with embroidered fronts, sleeves and skirts, a full, complete showing at prices satisfactory to all.

Easter Millinery Display

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 26, 27 and 28

The days set aside by us for our Grand Opening Display. There will be shown in our Millinery salons the creations of the world's foremost designers in millinery. We solicit your inspection of our most exclusive line of millinery.

During the opening days we will display the most complete line of pattern hats ever brought to this city—among them you will find the latest Parisian models, the choicest selections from the New York shops—and the adaptations and original conceptions in millinery from our own well known work rooms.

For the ladies whose taste inclines toward the picturesque hats, we have the large models with high crowns, trimmed in elegant plumes; also the flower trimmed models—trimmed over the crown with massive clusters of flowers, combinations of several colors, being used on one hat, with bright touches of gold and silver.

Our magnificent display of the season's choicest flowers is causing a great deal of enthusiastic comment, being as it is, complete in even the most minute detail. Roses, Lilies, Lilies of the Valley, Chrysanthemums, in fact every known (and a few unknown to nature) flower is shown in our selection.

See our multitudinous array of Misses' and Children's Hats and Bonnets, in the daintiest of Tuscan braid, trimmed in rose buds and ribbons—also the "Dutch Bonnets" and Simplicity Work Hats.

WEIMERS IN TROUBLE.

Copper Company is in Bad Way, Says Boston Commercial.

The Weimer Copper company, holding properties in Lemhi county, Idaho, is in financial distress, according to the Boston Commercial, which had quite an extensive article on the affairs of the concern in its issue of March 21. John B. Weimer of Salt Lake, the leading spirit in the enterprise, is known in Duluth through his connection with Ophir Tunnel, and considerable stock in the Weimer Copper company is held in Duluth and on the ranges.

The Boston Commercial says the company, despite substantial receipts, is practically "broke." The article is in part as follows:

"The Weimer Copper company, which shipped about $25,000 worth of ore from its property in Lemhi county, Idaho, last year, is in financial distress, and, judging from recent events, the former management was either recklessly extravagant or else dishonest. At any rate, out of the $50,000 worth of stock sold and the proceeds from the sale of ore, there is little left to show.

"It has also developed that the former management had failed to make the final payment of $10,000 on the purchase price of its property, and that there is serious danger of the company losing the cream of its possessions."

CURES RHEUMATISM.

TESTIMONIAL FROM A DULUTH CITIZEN.

A. J. Hearickson, with Henrickson Jewelry Co., writes: "Was sick in bed with Rheumatism in August, 1907, and kept getting worse and worse, although I tried doctors and various remedies with no results. A friend induced me to try LAMBERT'S RHEUMATIC POWDERS. These brought me immediate relief, and after using them a short time, was able to go to work again. Am today completely cured, and highly recommend your powders to anyone suffering with Rheumatism. For sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. If your druggist does not handle it, will send post-paid upon receipt of price. E. CONVENTION CALL.

Sunday School Workers of State Will Meet in St. Paul.

Copies of the official call to the fiftieth annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association, to be held at St. Paul April 21-23, have been received in Duluth.

The call is in part as follows:

"To the Friends of the Sunday Schools of Minnesota:

"This opportunity is indeed God's call to us. Our convention at Windom was great, at Minneapolis greater, and St. Paul will be the greatest assemblage of the best and most aggressive Sunday school workers that ever convened in any state in the Northwest. The enthusiasm, the spiritual uplift, the glorious new visions of our work received at such a gathering can never be mensured in this life. Not to come together in Christian work may mean weakness, indifference or even failure. To do so means a wider vision of our work in life, education of mind and heart, inspiration for higher ideals, a clearer conception of our duty to God and fellow-man, greater courage to overcome petty difficulties, and an increasing determination to succeed in the work God has set for us.

"It will be a 'mass convention,' and credentials will not be necessary. County officers, pastors, superintendents and teachers are especially urged to come. Every Sunday school in Minnesota should send at least five delegates, among whom should be the pastor and superintendent.

"A registration fee of 25 cents will be charged all delegates. This will be used in paying for programs, speakers from abroad, and the general expenses of the convention. All delegates will receive a badge which will admit them to all sessions of the convention.

"A. M. LOCKER, Gen. Secy."
W. H. GOLD, President.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY!

Awaits a young man who wants to start in business in the "Pittsburg of the West," the growing city of Duluth. An interest for sale in a well established growing business. Will bear the closest scrutiny. A chance to get in at a good salary, if he can show fitness. $2,000 or even $1,500 will handle it. Address O. L. E., care of Herald.

HARRY ORCHARD MAY APPEAR AS WITNESS.

Ouray, March 25.—Harry Orchard, under sentence of death in Idaho, as the self-confessed murderer of Governor Stuenenberg, will appear as the chief prosecuting witness against Steve Adams at Telluride in May, when Adams is to be tried in connection with the mysterious murder of a man named Barney during the riots of 1901. To bring Orchard here as a witness, it will be necessary for the Idaho board of pardons to commute his sentence of death to one of life imprisonment, and word has been received in this city from most reliable sources that such action will be taken in due time.

UNIONISTS WIN AT PECKHAM.

London, March 25.—The most keenly-fought bye-election for the present parliament, which was necessitated through the death of Charles Goddard Clarke, member of Peckham, a district in London, south of the Thames, resulted, yesterday, in a great victory for the Unionists, whose candidate, S. C. Gotch, was elected by a majority of 2,494. The Liberals carried the district in 1906 by a majority of 2,339.

Fat Woman's Troubles.

If you try to get the fat off with the exercise, tell me, please, where's one going to find the time? I haven't any faith in it, anyway as a reducer. It hurts the fat person's weakest spot—the heart. As for dieting, that is out of the question, altogether. Better be fat than have cancer of the stomach.

The safest and quickets way to reduce excess fat is also the cheapest and easiest. Go to the druggist and get ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Syrup Simplex. They cost but a trifle. Take them home, shake them together in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. If you are not losing a half to a pound of fat a day inside of a mouth, your case will be one in a hundred. Try it—makes you feel better all over.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"Fat, or the lack of it, is not so much a matter of temperament or what one eats," said the lady with two pronounced chins and the visible approach of a third. She carefully placed another tempting bit of butter on a morsel of bread and ate it daintily.

"Maybe not," said her husband, with that far away tone of one who has no interest in the conversation.

"One might just as well have the things one likes," said the lady, who has given up long distance walks some time ago, and she sprinkled sugar lavishly over the dish of scalloped tomatoes.

"Sure," said her huband, with a long distance look in his eye. Could it be he was looking into the past to see her when she weighed 125 pounds?

"I don't believe in dieting," said the lady, passing her plate to be helped to another large, mealy potatoe.

"What's the use?" he inquired.

"No use," she sighed. "If you go without breakfast you eat twice as much at luncheon, and are uncomfortable half the day anyhow."

"True," he said.

"But there are other ways of reducing," said the lady, as she lingered lovingly over the pleasant rich desert and wondered if she had the courage to have more.

"I suppose so," said her husband.

"Any one with the least little bit of perseverance can have the sylph-like figure of a girl," she said in an argumentative tone.

"It sounds good," said her husband, lounging comfortably into a chair and taking up the evening paper. He forgot the world and his wife for a time.

She wandered uneasily about. She stood by the hearth and looked at the fire; she wandered over to a picture and studied it carefully. She breathed rhythmetically whenever she remembered to. She went over to a chair close to her husband's and sank into it, and then jumped out in a motion quicker than any she had made for a month. The action startled him.

"What ails you?" he inquired in the tart tone of a person who has been disturbed.

"Nothing," said his wife in a miserable tone. She roamed around the room seeking something, anything to divert her attention. It's funny how few things one can do standing up. She picked up a magazine and tried to stand erect and look at the pictures at the same time. It was no fun. She sighed heavily—again. Her husband glanced over the paper uneasily at this restless woman, who was disturbing him.

"Why don't you sit down," he said, for his wife was standing in the exact center of the room, looking with forlorn sadness and an intense longing at one of the chairs.

"I can't," she said.

"Wh-why not?" he inquired with hesitation.

"Because," she said.

"Oh," he said, as if the matter had been cleared up sufficienty.

She stood still in the middle of the room with such a look in her eyes whenever she saw a chair, that it was pitiable.

"If you stand for twenty minutes after every meal," she explained in a sorrow-stricken voice, "you become thin." I have been standing sixteen minutes and a half and I don't know what on earth to do with those other unending minutes. I want to sit down; I want to sit down; I want to sit down," she said.

"Humph," said her husband sympathetically.

"Couldn't you talk to me to make the time go more quickly?" she asked.

"Yes,' he said. "I guess I could."

She shifted her weight to the other foot and then gave a great sigh of relief and crumpled into the most comfortable chair in the room.

The twenty minutes were up.

HONOR DIRECTOR.

Reception to Be Held at Library in Honor of Mr. C. C. Rosencranz.

The board of managers of the Duluth Art school will be hostesses at a reception at the club room of the library next Monday afternoon in compliment to C. C. Rosencranz, who will arrive in the city Friday of this week to become director of the new art school. The reception is planned in order that the public and those interested in the school may have an opportunity of meeting the director. Tuesday morning and afternoon Mr. Rosencranz will be at the school, which is occupying the entire third floor of the Washington school building, to receive applications for the classes, and Wednesday morning the first class will be held. Written applications to the number of thirty-two have already been received and it is expected that at the end of the first week that the registration will number close to fifty.

The various committees are busily at work this week and the outlook is most promising.

Strawberries, 40 cents a box.

Cauliflower, 25 cents a head.

Lettuce, 5 cents a bunch.

Onions, 2 bunches for 5 cents.

German spiced herring, 30 cents a jar.
Spinach, 40 cents a peck.
Roman beauty apples, $1 a peck.
Calves' tongues, 15 cents each.
Blue points, 25 cents a dozen.

Spinach and spring are co-ordinate terms with those people who advise you about your complexion. Spinach is another stumbling block in the path of the inexperienced cook. To boil a thing one would naturally imagine that one needed water in which to boil it. Not at all. One tablespoon of water to a peck of spinach is a great supply, counting in the sparkling drops which are left on the leaves after their bath. Is not the reasonable method of preparing this vegetable, to wash carefully and then throw it into a large pot of boiling water? What good is common sense in cooking? One no sooner learns to boil potatoes than the principle is entirely changed for spinach. One just learns that rice swells, but cruel experience is necessary to discover that corn beef shrinks.

Strawberries are 40 cents a box.

Messrs. F. D. Day & Co,

Duluth, Minn.

Gentlemen:

During the past few weeks many malicious reports have been circulated in some of the daily papers about "Cheaper Diamonds". We desire tostate that these reports have absolutely no foundation, and have been a most unjust attack against the jewelry trade everywhere.

The DeBeers and Premier Mining Companies are not alone maintaining prices, but they are also limiting the output. Prices cannot fall, for the DeBeers Mining Company has now reached a level of four thousand feet below the surface, and as the laborers can only remain a few hours at a time in these hot mines, this means that mining is more difficult and expensive. The further down the mine, the poorer material found, and the decrease of high grade material tends to raise the price.

Had not the financial flurry taken place last Fall, there would have been a rise of fully 10% on all rough. This advance will take place just as soon as a larger demand for Diamonds justifies it, and according to the present outlook, this increased demand will be felt between now and July last---a noticeable change for the better in financial affairs having taken place in every part of the country.

Yours very truly

Powers and Mayer

The above letter will correct any false impression obtained concerning diamonds.

As we purchased a large supply of diamonds during the financial flurry referred to above, a rise will not affect our prices for some time to come. To any one contemplating purchasing a diamond, we are prepared to offer very alluring prices.

METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

"Parsifal."

One of the most striking and beautiful features in the spectacle of "Parsifal," which comes to the Lyceum Saturday matinee and evening, March 28, is the flower garden scene with its fascinating flower maidens. This garden is the creation of Klingsor for the deliberate purpose of tempting the Knights of the Holy Grail from their lives of rectitude and holiness. But it is in the attempted destruction of the soul of the hero himself, Parsifal, where Klingsor puts forth his greatest efforts, and the flower garden and its occupants are made to play their most important part. The garden itself is fairy-like and enchanting. It is into this vortex of sensuous creation that the innocent and guileless Parsifal is lured by Klingsor, intent upon his moral downfall. But even when the arch temptress, Kundry, transformed into an enchantress of wondrous beauty, is powerless to attract him. The two arch-demons, frustrated in their evil machinations, at last resort to physical violence, fearful that Parsifal shall escape them. Klingshor hurls the sacred lance at the head of the valiant youth. It fails to strike him, but miraculously remains suspended over his head. Parsifal grasps the holy relic and with it makes the sign of the cross. A loud crash of thunder is heard, and the magic castle crumbles into ruins, the flower garden and all it contains is turned into an arid waste and Klingsor disappears forever.

Stunts by Chorus Girls.

Tomorrow evening, at the Metropolitan, there will be offered a special feature which is novel and rich with interesting possibilities.

Manager Longstreet has offered a substantial prize to the chorus girl in the Merry Maidens company who is selected by the audience as the most capable person and with the cleverest stunt, in a contest to be participated in by the show girls.

These extra antics will take place after the regular performance of the Merry Maidens and there will be no extra charge.

There are some very clever young women in the company and they have been preparing, secretly, all the week, the stunts they will do tomorrow night.

There will be the usual ladies' matinee at the Metropolitan tomorrow afternoon.

RAILROAD NEWS

PLAN TO CUT EXPENSES

Roads May Abolish Special Tourist and Excursion Bureaus.

Would Mean Change in Method of Handling Excursions.

As a result of orders issued by managements of nearly all Western railroads that the passenger business must be conducted at less cost, it is altogether probable that specially-conducted tours and special-excursion bureaus will be done away with. The matter is now being considered by the Transcontinental Passenger association.

It is proposed to cut out all the "frills" and to let the public get along without some of the luxuries which have been used by railroads to get business. A similar move was made four years ago, but the roads failed to carry out their purpose. The present move is said to be favored by all the roods except the Burlington, and it is hoped to induce that road to join the others.

If the plan carries, nearly 200 tourist car conductors will be discharged and all tourist travel will be conducted the same as regular business. The tourist conductor has been a feature of Western travel for years. The railroads have been sending out tourist cars several times each week, destined for all points in the West, Northwest and Southwest. Each of these cars is in charge of a conductor, whose duty it is to take care of the passengers, see that the points of interest are shown en route, and do all that is possible for their comfort and pleasure.

In its inception the plan proved a drawing card and greatly increased travel in tourist cars. In addition to this, nearly all the big railway systems have expensive excursion and tourist departments for the purpose of special parties and arranging tours in special cars or in special trains. Some of the roads declare that travel has outgrown this method. The Burlington insists that, while such methods for securing business may not be necessary for the roads having their own lines from Chicago to the coast, it would be a blow to the other lines to do away with the tourist departments.

SHORTEST LINE.

"When the Rock Island completes the construction of a connecting line between Tucumcari, N. M., and Amarillo, Tex., a distance of 110 miles, the company will have the shortest line between the seaboard and Souther California by 404 miles," said C. W. Humphrey, Northern passenger agent for the Frisco and Rock Island lines, who is in the city today.

"What effect this line will have upon transcontinental business remains to be seen, but the new route will be pretty well advertised, and should result in an increase of business. The route will be from New York to Chicago by the New York Central lines; Chicago to St. Louis by the Eastern Illinois; St. Louis to Oklahoma City by the Frisco & Choctaw, and thence by the Rock Island to El Paso, and the Southern Pacific from there on."

GIFT FROM NEW YORK

Crisp New $100 Bill is Turned Over to the Bethel.

Wrapped in a clipping of the editorial on "The Bread Line," recently published in The Herald, a crisp new $100 bill fell out of a letter from New York, which was opened in The Herald office this morning.

The envelope contained nothing but a blank card, the clipping in question, in which some lines were underscored with a pen, and the bill.

The letter was not registered. It was sealed with a penny, and in the upper left hand corner bore the address "767 Fifth avenue, N. Y." None of The Herald's regular subscribers in New York city reside at the address in question.

The money was promptly turned over to the Bethel by The Herald, to be used for the benefit of the bread line, as it was undoubtedly intended. Miss Fraser, who is in charge of the breakfasts during the illness of Mr. Moody, began to laugh as soon as she was notified of the gift over the telephone.

"That's a good joke," she said. "When they called me to the telephone I said, 'I wish it were someone who was going to give us $100.' I got my wish all right."

The name of the mysterious donor of the $100 will probably remain a mystery. He evidently did not wish his identity to be known. He may be some Duluthian visiting in New York, or he may be some New Yorker who chanced to read the editorial in question and was moved by the thought of the 200 hungry men lining up every morning for their breakfast.

Several Duluthians who heard of the gift hazarded the guess that it was from A. M. Miller, although it is mere conjecture.

EVIDENCE IS LACKING.

Brainerd, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McClenahan has released Joseph Ayott on a writ of habeas corpus. Ayott was arrested about ten days ago charged with the larceny of a diamond drill bit, valued at $1,500, the property of Cole & McDonald, who are operating at Rabbit Lake, in this county, and on examination in the municipal court, was held to await the action of the grand jury. Judge Fleming brought habeas corpus proceedings in the district court to have Mr. Ayott discharged. The hearing on the writ was had before Judge McClenahan last Friday, and the judge made an order Monday discharging the defendant. Several objections to the proceedings in the municipal court were raised by Judge Fleming, but the only objection sustained by the court is the want of evidence to show probable cause of guilt. Judge McClenahan says in his memoranda that the most that can be said is that the evidence shows suspicion only, and that suspicion falls short of the requirement for probable cause.

TREATS CRIPPLES CRUELLY.

Helpless Children Accuse School Principal of Harshness.

Chicago, March 25.—Sixteen little cripples, some of them with their crutches in their hands, appeared before the school management committee of the board of education Monday night to accuse Principal Charles C. Krauskopf of the Spaulding School for Crippled Children of cruelty.

That the principal had slapped and abused his crippled charges and had dragged the helpless pupil across the room floor, was testified to by the children witnesses, and in part was corroborated by teachers who appeared against the principal. Parents of the children crowded into the board of education rooms and were loud in their condemnation of the actions of the principal, and joined in the request that he be stripped of his office on account of his alleged misconduct.

EPIDEMIC OF SMALLPOX

Failure to Report Cases is Cause of the Spread.

That a serious epidemic of smallpox exists in the city at the present time is not denied by the health department, and that the epidemic is also caused by the failure of relatives of the patients to observe the quarantine laws or to even report the cases to the department, is also claimed by Health Commissioner Murray.

During the last two months there have been two cases in which the patients lost their eyesight as a result of the disease.

The fact that the cases, as a rule, have been of a very mild type, is responsible for the lax manner in which quarantine is enforced. When the patient is first taken ill a doctor is summoned. The first symptoms are much like those of the grip, and the physician is unable to diagnose the case at once. He tells the friends or relatives to summon him again if there is an eruption. In probably five cases out of ten, when the eruption appears, the patient feels so much better that the doctor is not notified again, and an attempt is made to conceal the disease, in order to avoid the inconveniences of quarantine. Perhaps a week later neighbors notify the health department of the case, or, perhaps, the department is not notified at all. In any event there has been abundant opportunity to spread the infection.

The names of persons reporting case are never disclosed.

This is the situation which the health department has been facing, and the result is that at the present time there is a widespread epidemic of smallpox in a mild form in Duluth.

Relatives of patients of the class described above have carried the infection into schools, wholesale houses, stores and churches, and one case is reported from Lakeside where a young woman suffering from the disease even arose from bed to attend a party, and the next day was taken to the pest house.

As the remedy for these conditions, Health Commissioner Murray recommends vaccination and called attention to the last annual report of the health department of Johnstown, Pa., where there has not been a single case of smallpox during the last year, as a result, it is claimed, of the compulsory vaccination law. The following is an extract from the report:

"During the last year the city has been absolutely free from smallpox. Your board of health reiterates with increasing confidence the assured principle that at this time there is no prevention of smallpox save in vaccination and revaccination.

"It is difficult to understand why parents or guardians neglect or decline to have children protected from this loathsome, contagious and disfiguring disease, defying the law in the presence of so simple and inexpensive a protecting remedy."

"Johnstown," said Dr. Murray, "is a city about the same size as Duluth, and has also a roving population with a large foreign element. The conditions are much the same, but where they have been entirely free from smallpox for a year, we have had scores of cases, and the pest house has never been closed."

Scarlet fever and diphtheria cases are practically all wiped off the boards at the health office.

CARRIERS ENJOY PLAY.

Newsboys Have Good Time as Guests of Honor at Lyceum.

Last night was "newsboys' night" at the Lyceum and the Mack-Leone players were given an enthusiastic reception for their performance of 'At Piney Ridge." The newsies and carriers attended the theater as the guests of Willard Mack, Maude Leone and Charles A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum.

They were sprinkled judiciously about the theater, for there were other persons present, too, but the fact that they were not all sitting together did not dampen the ardor of their applause. To what lengths their enthusiasm and appreciation would have gone had they been all in a bunch, can only be conjectured.

After the play, which the boys enjoyed thoroughly, Mr. Mack gave them a little talk. Miss Leone was presented with a big bouquet of flowers and Mr. Mack with a gold-headed umbrella, by the boys, and the presentations and appropriate responses were made amid deafening applause. Everybody had a good time.

IRONWOOD THEATER DAMAGED

Ironwood, Mich., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire wrought extensive damage to the recently remodeled Pierce opera house here last night the structure and contents being damaged about $10,000 with only part insurance. Fortunately there was no performance on when the fire was discovered, about 9 o'clock. The first floor of the building is occupied by a saloon and a dry goods store, both of which were considerably damaged. The fire is presumed to have started back of the stage, but just how is not known. The building was practically gutted by the time the department had the flames under control.

PRESIDENT TO FAVOR LESS WORK ON SUNDAY.

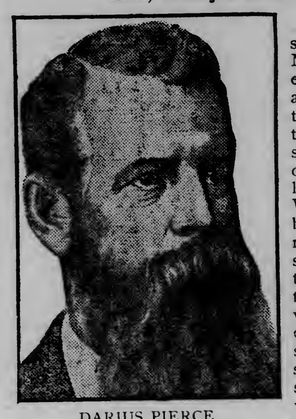
Washington, March 25. — President Roosevelt placed himself on record yesterday as an ardent sympathizer with the movement for a more strict observance of the Sabbath. He told a committee that called upon him that he would do all in his power to aid in putting a stop to unnecessary Sunday work, but added that he, as well as they, did "not believe it advisable to return to the Puritan Sabbath."

Justice Harlan of the supreme court headed the delegation and acted as spokesman. He said the fact that there was no Sunday law in the District of Columbia had been responsible for a growing disregard of the day in Washington.

It is desired to have the president instruct heads of departments to discontinue all unnecessary Sunday work, as an aid to better observance of the Sabbath generally.

RESTFUL SLEEP

Mr. Darius Pierce of Haverhill, Mass., 72 years of age, who was troubled with insomnia and constipation caused by indigestion, was completely cured and restored to health by the great tonic stimulant, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.



DARIUS PIERCE

In a recent letter Mr. Pierce said: I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to a considerable extent although not an invalid. I am 72 years of age and enjoy pretty good health. I am at times troubled with insomnia also constipation, the latter a result of indigestion which in my case is relieved by the use of your Malt Whiskey. I do not use it daily, but always have a bottle in my room, and when feeling out of sorts or in need of a stimulant or tonic, I find that Duffy's Malt fills the bill. At present I am using it when I retire. I find that a small quantity quiets the nerves, and instead of lying awake for hours I soon drop off into a quiet, restful sleep and awaken in the morning with a clear head and a stomach ready for a good breakfast. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is entitled to all the praise you can give it through the medium of printers' ink or otherwise.—DARIUS PIERCE, 10 Court street, Haverhill, Mass.

Thousands of unsolicited letters of gratitude like this of Mr. Pierce are received from grateful patients who are anxious to extol the merits of this great life saver and renewer of youth—Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and it is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. LAKE SUPERIOR'S RIVAL.

Frank G. Carpenter, the journalist globe-trotter, presents in a letter from Africa to the Chicago Tribune a rival claimant for Lake Superior's old-time distinction of being the largest body of fresh water in the world.

He asserts that Lake Victoria Nyanza, which has always been credited with second place, is really entitled to first place, and that it is 1,000 square miles larger than Lake Superior. He says he has sailed on both lakes, so he ought to know.

The atlases give Lake Superior 32,000 square miles, and Lake Victoria 26,500 square miles. Whether their sources of information are better than those of Mr. Carpenter is, therefore, the question at issue. He does not give the dimensions of the lake, excepting to say that it is 225 miles wide and 275 miles long. For that matter, Lake Superior is 180 miles wide and 400 miles long, which would, if they were rectangular bodies, give Lake Superior greater square contents than Lake Victoria. However, Lake Superior's extreme width exists only in a part of its area, and it is narrow at both ends.

Lake Victoria lies in the heart of East Central Africa. Along the line of the equator it is 700 miles to the Indian ocean. Westward along the same line it is over twice as far to the Atlantic.

It is undoubtedly a vast expanse of fresh water. "If you could pick it up and spread it over the United States," says Mr. Carpenter, "it would cover the whole of South Carolina, or, dropping it into New England, it would drown the states of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut. It is three-fourths the size of either Kentucky, Virginia or Ohio, and it is more than half as large as all of our Great Lakes combined. It is three times as big as Lake Erie, and if one could put Lake Erie and Lake Huron into one body they would about cover the same surface."

Mr. Carpenter says that Lake Victoria is more like Lake Superior than any other fresh water body. It lies in the highlands and might be said to be on the roof of the African continent as Superior is on the eastern roof of the North American continent. Victoria is, however, more than six times as high up in the air as Superior, and more than seven times as high as Huron or Michigan. It is about 4,000 feet above sea level and is within 500 feet of the altitude of the Great Salt lake. While there are spots where it is 600 feet deep, it is nowhere near so deep as Lake Superior, so that even if the claim that its superficial area is greater than that of Minnesota's sea can be borne out, it will have to give first place to Superior in point of cubic contents. However, Victoria has a mighty volume of water, and, elevated though it is to practically mountainous heights, its surface rises forty to fifty inches during some years.

HELP FOR THE BREAD LINE.

Greetings to 767 Fifth avenue, New York, and to the large heart and modest soul that it harbors.

This morning The Herald received, in an envelope with the above address upon the outside, a very picturesque $100 bill wrapped in an editorial clipped from The Herald, in which an appeal was made for aid for the men in the Duluth bread line.

There is no clue whatever to the sender, though the manner of the gift leaves an opening for suspicion of a wealthy former Duluthian who now lives in New York, and whose habit it is to conceal his right hand benevolences from his left hand in this manner. Even the seal which closes the flap of the envelope furnishes no hint, because it bears the imprint of a 1-cent piece.

The money has been turned over to Rev. J. T. Moody of the Bethel, who will use it for the relief of the weary, footsore, hungry and deserving men of the bread line. It is a welcome gift, and it will furnish the morning meal for hundreds of needy workers pending the time when society gets ready to give them honest employment once more.

It is a noble gift, and it was nobly given. Here's health and peace and contentment to the unknown giver.

EDUCATING IMMIGRANTS.

A movement on foot which promises to have a wide spread contemplates the establishment of schools in which immigrants shall be given instruction that will fit them for American citizenship more quickly than they can fit themselves.

It is a splendid cause, and it should have the support of the public everywhere. It is not alone as a favor and a privilege to the immigrants that this should be done, but as a protection to society and a promotion of good citizenship.

For instance, a school for this purpose has been established at Springfield, Mass., by Rev. Louis F. Giroux, a graduate of Hamilton college who was for three years a teacher in the Syrian college at Beirut and for twelve years at the American International college at Springfield. So impressed did he become with the importance of his work that he had dedicated his life to the education of foreigners who come to this country to make it their home.

This is the first institution to do exactly this kind of work. The public schools take care of the children of the immigrants, and turn out a good quality of American citizens as a result. But they cannot, except by night schools, take care of the adult immigrants who are too old to attend school, and who must spend their days in toil in order to live. Yet it is just as desirable that these adult immigrants shall be taught as it is that the children shall be educated in English.

The course of study at such a school need not be elaborate. Many of the immigrants are educated in their own language, and need only education in the English tongue. The course is elementary, and covers such studies as are most necessary and most practical. It is intended to teach the immigrants to read, write and speak English, and this is the fundamental aim. At the same time, they are to be given instruction that will enable them to understand and appreciate American institutions, and to respect American laws and customs.

Of course such schools cannot be sectarian, even though sectarian societies might provide them or contribute to their support. The schools should aim only to provide the immigrants with such instruction as they absolutely need to become American citizens and to make themselves useful and productive members of society.

Much of the trouble with so-called anarchists could be averted by such methods. Those who come from countries where oppression is the rule, and has been for many generations, naturally do not appreciate the fact that it may be different in other countries. They come here with an inborn hatred for law and authority that makes them good material for anarchistic firebrands to work upon. If they can be taught that things are different here they will quickly get these ignorant and dangerous ideas out of their heads. Schools for immigrants will put them in touch with the new atmosphere into which they have come, will break down the wall of ignorance and superstition that now prevents them from appreciating their privileges, and will make good citizens out of them.

A GENTLE REMINDER.

Theodore Roosevelt to congress: "Get busy."

That is the substance of the message which went from the White House to the capitol today. Incidentally it deals with certain specific items of important legislation which the president—and the people—think congress should adopt instead of loitering through a fruitless session.

The message is sober, temperate, earnest and firm. It will not throw "business" into convulsions, but it ought to set the legislative wheels in motion if they are going to turn this session. The president wants these things:

Prohibition of child labor; financial legislation; a new employers' liability law, with a law providing for killed and injured government employes; restraint upon the abuses of the writ of injunction; amendment of the interstate commerce law to permit railroad pooling; amendment of the anti-trust law to permit and protect, under proper regulations, innocent and beneficial combinations of both labor and capital, without protecting either the blacklist or the boycott or permitting restraint of trade; a postal savings bank; preparation for tariff revision; immediate repeal of the duty on wood pulp and reduction of the duty on paper made from wood pulp; no free grants of water power rights.

"The time has come," says the president, "when we should prepare for a revision of the tariff." Preceding it there should be a thorough investigation by a proper committee, assisted by government officials. Wood pulp, the raw material of the paper trust, should be put on the free list at once, and there should be a reduction of the tariff on paper made from wood pulp coming from nations that do not levy an export duty upon it.

There is a timely warning against the passage of bills granting water powers for unlimited time without a reasonable charge for the privilege. The president declares that he will be forced to veto such bills if they do not limit the terms of the franchises and provide for payment for the privilege thus granted by the government.

LAW AND BUSINESS.

President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university, speaking in Chicago the other day, said: "The acts of corporations themselves must be checked, not by futile and blundering attempts to dictate to each corporation how its business shall be conducted, but by bringing the officials directly to book who are responsible for forbidden or questionable transactions. Government commissions cannot possibly understand business better than those that conduct it. We must devise means of reaching the individuals responsible for evils in business and must punish those individuals. We must have once more the reign of law rather than the reign of government officials."

With all due respect to this eminent publicist and educator, there is a great deal of nonsense in these remarks.

We take it that all of the people, including President Wilson, are seeking the same end: the elimination of admitted evils in business. The question is only as to the methods to be used. President Wilson does not like the commission plan of reaching the evils, and most of the rest of us appear to approve of it. Besides, it is proving itself practically useful. He has expressed no more than his dislike, however, in the above sentences. He has made no argument against the commission plan, and has made no valid argument against anything, unless it is against effective enforcement of law.

How are bad acts of corporations to be checked except by regulation? It is all right to punish guilty officials, but who is to determine whether they have been guilty enough to be accused in court?

The Herald believes that the public means a little more than President Wilson does. His idea is merely to punish bad acts when they are discovered. The public means to prevent bad acts by regulating the corporations so that they shall be made to serve the people. Now they are permitted to plunder the public, and their directors are permitted to plunder them, thus injuring both public and stockholders. This is possible because of the lack of public regulation. With public regulation we hope to protect both public and stockholders, and to prevent business evils. Apparently President Wilson would let business go its own gait, wait for the bad acts to be committed, and then punish them. The public has gone farther than the head of Princeton university, that's all.

"We must have once more the reign of law rather than the reign of government officials." This is nonsense, pure and simple. How is law to reign unless the executive enforces law? Law does not enforce itself, especially law governing business methods. Such law is only enforced by constant vigilance and unceasingly aggressive action on the part of the officers whose duty it is to see that it is enforced. When executive officers do their duty those whose plans it injures might cry that it constitutes a "reign of government officials," but you would hardly expect to find an eminent educator, who is to be presumed to be public spirited, making such a vague and unmeaning complaint.

Harry Thaw is criticising his attorneys. He shouldn't; they did pretty well by him. Besides, they didn't have it all to do. Juries and judges had something to say about his fate.

Possibly if Mr. Taft should succeed Mr. Roosevelt in the presidency, Mr. Roosevelt would succeed Mr. Taft as globe-trotter, which would be a fair exchange—if they can manage it.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Reforms are sweeping all over the country," said G. A. Trevanth at the Lenox yesterday. "If any one had predicted that the South would adopt prohibition laws in many of the counties of the states heretofore famous in both history and fiction for addiction to the bottle, people would have laughed outright. It would indeed have seemed incredible. Yet it has happened, right in the localities where the saloon formerly was a power.

"The prohibition wave has been sweeping the country for the past year. Its reach has been widespread. It has traversed the Eastern, the Western, the Northern and the Southern states. It is the result of work on the part of organized workers in the interest of prohibition. People are beginning to realize the danger of the saloon to many parts of the country. It was this realization that lead the South to adopt the prohibition laws that are on the statute books of Kentucky and other Southern states. The presence of the saloon was not only a menace to the safety of the white women, but was proving a breeder of crime among the colored population. It was the realization that as long as the saloon flourished in the South, crime would increase, that prompted the adoption of many of the prohibition laws of the South.

"Laws against gambling are becoming general. In New York and elsewhere, horse racing will have to be conducted without pool selling. The prohibition wave has been the most radical of all waves that have swept the country for generations, but it is not the only reform that is gaining the attention of the people. We are beginning to investigate the records of our public men with more care. I think that the American people are determined to have better and more honest representation. They are determined to have men in both the senate and house of congress who will unselfishly devote their abilities to the interests of the people. The reforms that are passing over the country are going to result in a great improvement in politics, as they will result in the election of honest men to the offices.

"Then the free thought of the people on the subject of politics is another encouraging feature. The rejection of the boss and the election of men well qualified to carry on the duties of good government is one of the significant features of the interest that people are beginning to take in politics. As soon as the people begin to take an intelligent interest in the government of the cities and state, just as soon will the ward heelers and bosses begin to lose those positions. The boss system has long been an evil of American politics. But with the awakening of the people to their interets, it is safe to predict that boss rule is a thing of the past. The good old days, when no questions were asked, is rapidly giving way to a time when honest and efficiency on the part of the representatives is demanded. The reform wave is general in its scope and promises to be sweeping in its character.

W. J. Stiles, at the St. Louis, says that the ore movement will not approach the record of last year. Mr. Stiles states that for one reason the country at large will not use as much iron and steel as was used last year. The big interests are not doing the building at the present time that they were doing last year. The railroads are not going to do the extension work, nor will any of the various lines of business calling for the use of iron and steel be doing the volume of business that was the case in 1907. Ship owners at the lower end of the lakes, says Mr. Stiles, are predicting a late season. While the vessel owners are not looking for trouble, it wouldn't surprise a great many many ship owners if trouble occurred this spring. It is not believed that any general navigation movement will begin until late in May, if at that time. The vessel owners at the lower end of the lakes are in no particular hurry to start the season. At the present time the outlook for lake traffic is extremely dull and general dullness in business has had its effect on the shipping business. The more optimistic of the shippers predict that early in July the ore shipments will be in full swing. There can be no doubt at the present time about the late opening of general navigation. Whether business will improve toward the middle of the season is the question that shippers are asking themselves at the present time.

Collier's Weekly: It is time for the brewer, who controls by mortgage a majority of the saloons in large cities, to make up his mind—not to pass resolutions, nor form committees, nor to shoot wit at the Anti-Saloon league—but decide either to own his saloons and become responsible for them, or to cut loose and let the retailers stand and be judged alone. The present half-way relationship breeds on both sides an irresponsibility from which the public suffers.

THE WEATHER.

Winter amiably sat down in the lap of spring again yesterday, and poor spring is quite crushed. It was cool yesterday, the highest temperature being 30 degs, while last night's lowest was 15 degs. In the night snow fell, and the weather man expects more snow tonight and tomorrow. This morning the snow had ceased, but it was still gloomy and cloudy, though not cold.

A year ago today was a charming spring day.

The sun rose this morning at 6:01 and sets tonight at 6:27, making 12 hours and 26 minutes of sunlight.

Says M. Richardson of conditions: "Snow or rain fell quite generally during the past twenty-four hours throughout the Far West and Northwest due to a disturbance of considerable intensity which has moved its center from British Columbia to Wyoming. This storm condition has also caused warmer weather in the Middle Rockies and districts north from Nebraska. Rising pressures in the extreme Northwest are attended by much colder weather west and north from an including Montana. Some rain or snow fell over New England and South Atlantic states Tuesday or last night in connection with a low pressure area which has moved into the Gulf of St. Lawrence. An area of high pressure overlies the Lake region and has caused colder weather east of the Mississippi river. Conditions favor snow in this locality tonight and Thursday with lower temperatures Thursday afternoon and night."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

PASSING PLEASANTRIES.

Philadelphia Ledger: "I hear, sir, that you are a boy of industry are looking for ten-thousand-dollar men."

"All a mistake," responded the financier, "Why, a man with no more than that would not be worth exploitation."

"I suppose," said the good lady, addressing the man behind the bars, "that you are able to look back now and regret your first false step."

"Sure thing, lady, you know, lady, I was gettin' off'n a street car, and if I'd knew what I know now I'd of soaked the company for big damages, prtendin' I broke my leg or something."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Here's a South Carolina couple who were married in an auto that was going at full speed. What do you think of that?"

"I think they must have been married by a very sporty pastor."

Philadelphia Press: "I hope you will accept my condolences," began Mr. Somber.

"Thank you," replied the widow of Mr. Gayrake.

"Yes," continued Mr. Somber, "we must remember that we must all go that way some day and that—"

"O! my!" exclaimed the widow, "I hope not."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Gee," said the man who was collecting for the grocer, "those Uptoms must be rich."

"Why," his employer asked, "did they pay their bill?"

"No, but you ought to have seen how haughty and indignant they got when I asked for the money."

Chicago Tribune: "So you're going to be married, are you, Fanny?" asked her intimate friend.

"Yes," said the queenly blonde. "It's all settled."

"When is the wedding to take place?"

"Well, mamma wanted it put off until October, but Jack insisted on having it in May. Both couldn't have their own way, of course, and so it had to be settled by a compromise."

"And when is it to be?"

"Why, we—er—compromised on April."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Paynesville Press: Hon. Joseph G. Cannon expects to adjourn early in May. Congress will of course agree to make it unanimous.

Redwood Reville: J. Adam Bede resents the idea of having this called the "do nothing" congress. He thinks that before it is over it will have accomplished more than any other congress in the history of the nation. Here is hoping J. Adam knows what he is talking about. So far we are from Missouri.

Cloquet Pine Knot: If Clarence Miller of Duluth decides to run against J. Adam Bede for congress, there will sure be something doing. They are both good campaigners with plenty of backing.

Hinckley Enterprise: The harmony between the Bryan and Johnson Democrats in this state resembles the brand that has been in favor among the Republicans for the past four years.

Slayton Herald: One of the prominent ministers of Minneapolis gave utterance the other day that "a minister in politics was a disgrace to his profession." This is evidently one of those men who believe in kicking a man when he is down, instead of lending a helping hand to those less fortunate in life's apportionment. He would leave politics to the rogues and then complain of the evil conditions resulting therefrom. What we need in politics is more good, conscientious gentlemen of every profession.

Austin Transcript: A recent official report shows that the harbor at Duluth and Superior stands next to that of New York in mean monthly freight movements. Minnesota is in the lead in every line, agricultural, mineral, commercial or any other.

Austin Age: Most anybody can get most anybody to try most anything once, but even so, no permanent success is ever gained by fooling any of the people any of the time—except in politics, and that's a fool business.

Minneota Mascot: An exchange says that Julius Schmahl is out "working for a renomination." They may, of course, be correct, because Julius always works for anything he wants. But we do not think that it is necessary for him to exert much energy on that proposition. He has made an excellent official and there is not the slightest doubt that he will be nominated to succeed himself. He has brought to the duties of his office his characteristic force and vigor and he has served the state with an eye single to the interests of the people. Why should he have to work for a renomination? It is due him by all the tenets of the political code and by the good rule that "one good term deserves another."

Northfield News: Especial care should be taken this year in the selection of candidates for the legislature. There are many indications which warrant the conclusion that the interests are playing their old game and are assuring themselves beforehand that whatever professions the men they favor may find it convenient to make, once selected they may be depended upon at any critical juncture. Whatever appearances may indicate it would be folly to suppose that the brewers and the railroads are not actively looking after their own interests. The people want this year to be specially sure of those to whom they give their confidence.

You Are!

Atchison Globe: No doubt you often say of people, "They're funny!" But you needn't talk, so are you.

C & K

Hats for Men

KNAPP-FELT hats are different from any others. Years ago every process in the construction of a hat, from the "bowing" of the filmy body to the curling of the brim, was done by hand, but in recent years ingenious machinery has been devised to take the place of painstaking handwork in every department and is extensively used in factories where saving in cost is the primary object.

In Knapp-Felt manufacture machines are used only when the mechanical device results in better workmanship, and mere cost-saving does not enter into the construction of C. & K. hats. The artistic curling and setting of the brims, the fine needlework on binding and leather and the exquisite Vellum Finish are hand-work which must conform to the highest standard —that of the C. & K. shop. No machine, however ingenious, can reproduce Knapp-Felt style and distinction.

A satisfactory variety of Spring shapes are on sale with the best dealers throughout the United States.

For Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, we selected as our agents the COLUMBIA CLOTHING COMPANY of Duluth and Superior, who carry very elaborate assortments of our hats in stock, and who will fill mail orders to any points in their territory or outside of it.

Knapp-Felt De Luxe, the best hats made, are Six Dollars. Knapp-Felts, the next best, are Four Dollars—everywhere. Also Columbia $3.00 Hats

BREAKDOWN IS RESULT

More Care Taken to Guard Against Feeding Loafers.

Work and worry in connection with the "bread line," which he started for the hungry unemployed of the city, have broken the health of Rev. J. T. Moody, superintendent of the Bethel, and he lies seriously ill at the society's building on Lake avenue south.

Mr. Moody's ailment is in the nature of a nervous breakdown and his condition is quite serious. It was stated at the Bethel this morning that his condition was such as to make it imperative that he go away for a time and get a rest.

Ever since Mr. Moody inaugurated the free breakfasts for the unemployed, at the Bethel, he has been working very hard. Early in the morning, he has been seeing to the serving of the breakfast and working late in the night in efforts to secure employment for the idle men and to see that the needy were provided with shelter.

Although Mr. Moody was ill in a room upstairs, the "bread line" was furnished with coffee and sandwiches as usual this morning, but the meal marked a policy of retrenchment and further precaution on the part of the Bethel authorities.

Only those who held tickets were fed this morning. One hundred and fifty men, who slept on the floor in the Bethel, were given a breakfast and some fifty others who came in from outside and applied, were turned down.

"People say that we have been encouraging loafers by feeding men who were not deserving of help and now we have adopted the plan of making the men prove that they are 'broke' and hungry before we give them a meal," said the woman in charge at the Bethel today.

"Those who slept all night on the floor here are certainly entitled to the breakfast and to these men we gave tickets this morning. Some of those who came from outside and applied, we refused, because we were not sure that they were deserving and we do not like to be imposed upon.

"How long we will keep up this plan of issuing tickets only to the men who are so in need of help that they sleep on the floor here, I cannot say. Today is the first time we have tried it."

Since the "bread line" was started at the Bethel 7,036 persons have been fed.

Mr. John Riha, of Vining, Ia., says "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by all druggists.

MANY LEADERS ARE DISPLACED

St. Paul Bowlers Roll in Good Form at State Tourney.

St. Paul, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the exception of Campbell of Duluth, leader in the singles; Tracey of St. Paul, with the highest six-game score, and the Bueger and Matschinger team of St. Paul, with the highest team single score, every leader in the state bowling tournament was displaced last night by St. Paul men.

St. Paul bowlers now lead in all except the singles, in which Campbell's score of 621 still stands. The Anheuser-Busch team of St. Paul last night bowled in great form and rolled up a score of 2,789, displacing the Reeves. Moshofsky and Hinderer rolled 1,246 in the doubles, displacing Leitner and Hellbake, who led with a score of 1,223.

The tie between Berini and Staley for the highest single score will not divide first money. P. Nelson of St. Paul soared far over the 247 score with 279 last night. Hinderer of St. Paul took the lead in the highest three-game score with 673, and Hellbake took the high nine-game score. Twenty-seven new scores over 200 and three new 600 scores were made last night, which brought out the best bowling of the meet.

CHILD'S BIRTH BRINGS MARTIN FAMILY FORTUNE.

Chicago, March 25.—An event of tremendous importance in the family of the late Otto Young occurred at 11 o'clock Sunday night. It was the birth of a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel K. Martin, 234 Lincoln Park boulevard. It is easily the richest baby in its own right in Chicago.

Within an hour thereafter the telephone had carried the news to other branches of the family and to the circle of more distant relatives that another of more distant relatives that another child—the ninth—had arrived to share the millions left by the Chicago merchant. Until the birth of this, their first child, the Martins, under the terms of the will, had no claim on the fortune beyond Mrs. Martin's life interest in its income. Now they have an heir whose prospects are worth at least $3,000,000. It is the first young grandchild to be born into its own rights since the death of Mr. Young.

In his testament, he directed that his widow and four daughters be given practically the entire income from his estate, but the principal itself, amounting at the time of his death to $25,000,000, he left to be divided equally among his grandchildren. The family with the most children thereby will receive the most money, and the one with none living at the time of the distribution will not share.

HOSPITAL UNLICENSED.

Chicago, March 25.—Dr. H. E. Lane, who conducts a Kneipp cure institute, will be arraigned before Municipal Judge Sadler, on a charge of conducting a hospital without a license.

Neighbors have repeatedly complained to the health department that the building at 765 North Clark street, has been maintained as a hospital in an objectionable manner.

In the winter, it is charged, men and women in scant attire waded in snow drifts in the back of the hospital. In the summer men and women would wade in the wet grass in Lincoln park and lie on the roof attired to take sun baths.

FINED FOR CRUELTY.

Cincinnati, March 25.—For cruelty to animals, in violation of the federal statutes providing for feeding and watering stock in transit, United States Judge Thompson, yesterday, assessed fines of $300 each against the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, and $200 against the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville railroads. The Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern was fined an additional $100 for failure to provide proper safety appliances on freight cars.

SPELLING BEE.

Akeley, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The spelling bee at Cass Lake public schools was won by Akeley both in the oral and written work. Cass Lake pupils were clearly outclassed and Akeley pupils gave a good exhibition of their spelling powers. This is the first contest that Akeley has won with so many credits to spare. The Cass Lake pupils did some good work, but were clearly surpassed by Akeley.

CHOKES WOLF TO DEATH.

Washington Woman Manages to Strangle Animal in Struggle.

Hoquiam, Wash., March 25.—Choking a big wolf to death after the beast had fastened its teeth in her breast is the awful experience of Mrs. T. A. Caldwell, who lives on a ranch near Adel.

Mrs. Caldwell was attracted to the barnyard during her husband's absence by a commotion among the chickens. She discovered that a large coyote was making a raid on her hens. Mrs. Caldwell sought to frighten the beast away. She had no thought of the beast attacking her, but, releasing its hold on a fat hen, the animal turned fiercely upon the defenceless woman. As she started to turn and flee her foot tripped and she fell. Instantly the wolf was upon her and sank its teeth into the woman's breast.

Mrs. Caldwell grabbed the coyote by the throat, and, notwithstanding his desperate efforts to free himself from the clutches of the woman, the animal finally sank exhausted, but the brave woman did not release her hold until the wolf lay dead, and dead to stay.

The coyote was skinned and will be preserved as a rug, a souvenir of the most blood-curdling experience in the life of the brave frontier woman. Mrs. Caldwell was not seriously injured.

STEAMER SUNK.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 25.—The steamer Columbia, towing Marietta (O) show boat, was sunk at Lock 18 in the Ohio river, above this city today. The boat ran into the lock wall and sank in two minutes. The crew and the actors on the show boat were saved.

NO FOREIGN INVASION.

Parental Objections Balk Plans of the Golf Association.

New York, March 25.—There will be no foreign invasion by an Intercollegiate Golf association team during the coming season. This has been reluctantly admitted by the collegians, but only after weeks of persistent effort. The real hazard in the way is the failure of four of the golfers to secure the necessary parental consent. They are H. H. Wilder of Harvard, president of the Intercollegiate Golf association; Robert Abbott of Yale, Ralph Peters, Jr., of Princeton, and W. Fellows Morgan, Jr., of Harvard.

Without these four, who are the foremost players in the association, it is considered that any attempt to gather together a representative team would be next to useless. Ellis Knowles of Yale, the intercollegiate champion, and W. T. West of Princeton may go abroad, but they will play as individuals.

Exercise For Brain Workers.

Walking is said to be the best exercise for brain workers. This is indeed fortunate, for poets and other "high brows" can seldom afford any other means of transportation. For overworked brain or muscle, we suggest the daily use of golden grain belt beer. Serve this delicious beverage with your meals and you put health and strength into your system. PREMIER GROWING WORSE.

London, March 25.—Premier Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman is steadily growing worse. Today's bulletin said: "The prime minister had a good night and a good sleep, but he is weak and his condition gives cause for considerable anxiety."

THIS STATE DOING WELL

In Way of Conserving Its Forest, Says Gifford Pinchot.

Head Forester of Government Tells Something About Work.

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gifford Pinchot, head forester of the United States forestry commission, speaking before the Roosevelt club here outlined some of the things that arm of the government is seeking to do in the way of conserving the trees of the country.

Incidentally Mr. Pinchot praised President Roosevelt for what he has done in the way of making things interesting for combinations of capital and law-breaking in general, but he especially praised the president for his attitude in the preservation of the forests of the country.

"Forestry," said Mr. Pinchot, "is one of the policies of the president for the perpetuation of the country's commercial and industrial greatness. It is a part of a group of measures, which the president has in mind for the conservation of the country's natural resources.

"Minnesota is well to the front in the matter of the conservation of forests, for it was one of the first states to take up the matter, and today the state has 2,500,000 acres of forest reserve. There are 165,000,000 acres in the country, one-fifth of the forest land."

Mr. Pinchot said there must be cooperation not only by state and nation in preserving the forests, but also by individual owners as well. Some plan must be evolved whereby the perpetuation of forest tracts can be made acceptable to individuals, and he suggested a rebate of taxes on forest lands or of taxes on the timber until it is placed upon the market. This, he said, would encourage the development of timber lands.

Closely related to forest preservation is conservation of the sources of interstate rivers.

"We must make better use of our waterways as a means of transportation," said Mr. Pinchot, "and there must be an attempt to save waste of water power.

"At the present rate of consumption our timber supply will last for only twenty or thirty years, and our coal only 100 years. These items of the country's natural resources must be conserved for the greater advantage of the people."

Mr. Pinchot said the national forestry commission favors the bill in congress providing for the release of 40,000 acres of the timber reserve around Cass Lake for the benefit of the town of Cass Lake, but the commission will not favor the release of a larger acreage.

RIDES ON ENGINE PILOT.

Woman Struck by Soo Train and May Survive Injuries.

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Struck by a Soo passenger train and carried 300 feet on the pilot of the engine before she was hurled to one side of the track, Mrs. Regina White, 50 years old, may live to tell the story of her terrible experience.

Mrs. White lives on a farm near White Bear. She was driving across the track near her farm when the buggy in which she was driving was struck by the engine. The horse was killed, the buggy demolished, but Mrs. White was picked out of the wreck and carried 100 yards.

HE USED GAS PIPE.

Grand Forks Assailant Picks Very Dangerous Weapon.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—Knute Knutson was seriously, if not fatally, injured in a murderous attack upon him by Frank Hunter, who was armed with a piece of gaspipe. Three deep cuts were inflicted on the back of Knutson's head by Hunter, before Fred Foye interfered, and with a neckyoke drove Hunter away. Knutson lapsed into a stupor, and his condition causes alarm. Hunter made his escape.

ATTEMPTS HIS LIFE.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton Minneck, a Pole, who was lodged in the city jail in Grand Forks, Monday night, on insanity charges, and who was released yesterday morning to go to his home at Mandan, attempted suicide on Great Northern train No. 112, which left Grand Forks at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Minneck went into the toilet room on the train at Chase, just this side of Fargo, and taking out his knife, he slashed himself across the abdomen, inflicting a severe gash, and one from which he, it is thought, will not recover. The man was found in an unconscious condition just before the train reached Fargo, and the knife with which he did the deed was close by his side. He was taken to the St. John's hospital at Fargo and little hope is entertained for his recovery.

The man claimed to live at Mandan, and had been in the woods to purchase a timber claim.

FATTENS ON DIPHTHERIA.

Wisconsin Boy Who Thrives on Dread Disease.

Madison, Wis., March 25.—Southern Wisconsin physicians are puzzled over the case of Clarence Glystad, an 11-year-old inmate of an orphan asylum at Stoughton, near here, who has been afflicted with diphtheria for a year and four months and who has grown fat on a disease which is so often fatal. The boy has been isolated and many noted doctors have watched the case, but it foils all efforts at a cure. His throat is a veritable incubator for germs, and the temperature and toxine tests show up just as badly now as they did at first. Dr. Fuller, the state bacteriologist, today stated that he would adopt a new method, but would not explain what it is. He may call in Chicago specialists.

TWO ELEVATORS BURNED

At Portland Junction, N. D., Containing 5,000 Bushels of Wheat.

Mayville, N. D., March 25.—Fire broke out in the Northwestern elevator at Portland Junction Sunday afternoon. The fire was first discovered by a passing farmer, the agent, Mr. Molquist, and his family not having been at home at the time. The other elevator at the junction, the Federal, caught fire from its burning neighbor, and in a few hours both buildings were reduced to smouldering heaps of rubbish. The origin of the conflagration is unknown. The Northwestern contained about 5,000 bushels of wheat and the Federal 100 bushels or so. The last named house had no agent in charge, Agent Molquist of the Northwestern using it occasionally when his own house was full. A movement is now on foot to organize a stock company and build a farmers' elevator at the junction.

Professionals Open Safe and Take About $100.

and pursuant to the Constitution?

"How can we expect anarchists and the people at large to respect and obey the law when state officials openly and defiantly disobey it, and advise a disregard of it, and talk about an appeal to arms and state pride to oppose Constitutional authority. There is no difference between the action of anarchists and those who openly defy Constitutionality authority. They are all law breakers, for the Constitution is the highest law in the land, and what has been done has been pursued strictly according to Constitutional authority.

"This absurd talk about state's rights, as commonly and long understood, ought to cease. There is absolutely no danger to the states; no intention to deprive them of any power.

"If every time a citizen says he has been prevented from enjoying his Constitutional rights by the act of some state, and the action of the supreme court of the United States is appealed to, and happens to decide the case in favor of the citizen and against the state, we are going to have the state power say that they will even go to the extent of fighting, it will not tend to perpetuate the government, or protect a citizen in the enjoyment of his rights, for one disturbance will bring on another."

Prince Henry, the ranking admiral of the German navy. Dr. Hill at that time was first assistant secretary of state and necessarily was brought into official contact with the distinguished foreign visitors. Just what he did or did not do to give offense is not known here.

Perplexing Feature.

A perplexing feature of the case is presented by the fact that last November the German government let it be known that Dr. Hill would be cordially received as American ambassador to Berlin. At that time Ambassador Tower, after the president had sought in vain to dissuade him from such a course reached the decision that proper consideration for his own private business interests and the welfare of his children whose education he deemed it necessary to perfect in America, obliged him to insist upon the acceptance of his resignation.

Dr. Hill was selected to fill this important vacancy for two reasons:

First—Because of his high rank in the world of literature and diplomacy, and, second, because his promotion would be in execution of Secretary Root's cherished plan for the application of civil service principles in the diplomatic service.

Engaged in Literary Work.

For two years preceding Dr. Hill had been an American minister, first accredited to Switzerland and then to The Hague. He was engaged in monumental literary work covering the entire history of the world's diplomacy and these two posts afforded exceptional advantages for procuring the great mass of material required for the work. As that task neared completion Dr. Hill found himself willing to abandon the field for the higher diplomatic post of Berlin and, as already stated, the German foreign office cordially responded to the usual cautious overtures from the state department here as to his availability for appointment as ambassador. So today's decision of the German emperor has come as a complete surprise to official Washington. It is nevertheless final as far as Dr. Hill is concerned, for the etiquette that governs international relations does not permit of any question of the right of a sovereign to interpose an objection to the reception of any official who comes to his post in the extraordinary and personal character of ambassador.

Notice of the action of the German government in Dr. Hill's case came to the state department quite unofficially at first today, there being nothing in the shape of a formal notification but simply an intimation of what was to follow. Secretary Root was amazed, because his own information was that not only the German foreign office, but Emperor William himself had formally signified a willingness to receive Dr. Hill when his name was suggested last fall. Therefore the first conclusion reached at the state department was that somewhere a mistake had been made. Secretary Root immediately communicated by telephone with Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador, and upon the secretary's invitation the diplomat called at once at the state department to confer personally with the secretary regarding the matter. But it was said at the German embassy that no knowledge of Dr. Hill's rejection had reached the embassy officially and when the members were asked to endeavor to recall any unpleasant incident connected with the visit to Washington of Prince Henry they were at a loss.

It was learned today that the grounds upon which the government declines to receive Dr. Hill are, in general, that he is not representative enough for the United States to send to Germany. The German foreign office made inquiries at The Hague and these brought the report that Dr. Hill had not created much of a position for himself at the Netherlands court. It appears also, that some German officials, who have met Dr. Hill, have made representations at the court here adverse to him. It does not appear that any of Dr. Hill's opinions of writing are objectionable to German feelings, but it would seem that he was considered not suited for the post.

Just at present the rocks are coming in for their annual "trimming," and loose sections, which are a constant menace to public safety, will be removed.

extemporaneous address. He referred to the full dinner pail talk of the last campaign and said that the Democrats now did not have to meet the full dinner pail argument, for the pails were now empty. He touched on the recent panic and when he said he believed that Bryan was on the right side he won a salvo of applause. Morton county reported no contest and the delegation intoxicated with Bryanism. "No contest" was declared to be the rule and no committee on credentials was appointed. A motion was passed to appoint a committee on resolutions consisting of nine delegates. A motion to make the temporary organization permanent was carried, as was a motion to appoint a committee of five on order of business.

Governor Burke Talks.

Cries of "Burke" filled the air. When the governor appeared on the stage the applause was deafening.

Governor Burke spoke on law enforcement. He referred to the plank in the Democratic platform in which he was elected, pledging that the laws should be enforced. "Not some of them against some people, but all of the laws against all the people," he continued. "I presume you expect me to render an account to you here today as to how I have fulfilled the trust imposed on me." he said he would leave it to the verdict of the people at the polls whether he had done his duty or not, and the verdict would be entirely satisfactory to him.

"There may be some in this state who think there has not been sufficient enforcement of the law, but I think if you will investigate you will find that great strides have been made in law enforcement in the last two years."

Governor Burke referred to the enforcement of the prohibition law and said:

Condemns Local Officials.

"What can you expect of state officials if mayors and city councils issue licenses for the illegal sale of liquor? There would be no saloons in this state nor prohibition if those engaged in the business did not receive encouragement from men pledged to enforce the law. Is there any conclusion but that of perjury if any officer who swears to support the constitution scarcely allows the ink to grow dry to his signature to that oath before he turns around and connives in the violation of the law? This is a time for plain speaking and if we cannot speak plainly for law enforcement we had better go out of business."

The governor then cited a case where he had ordered the attorney general six months ago to remove men from offices who had so violated their oaths and that after making the order he had heard nothing more about it. He urged that a law which was defeated in the last legislature giving the governor summary power to remove officials who fail to do their duty be passed, and he recommended that a resolution be passed today demanding that such a law be enacted by the next legislature. Governor Burke closed his speech by referring to the Democratic principles of Jefferson, Jackson, Tilden, John A. Johnson and W. J. Bryan.

Governor Johnson's name received a good measure of applause but when Bryan's name was given the wild outburst of applause which greeted it showed the temper of the convention.

Chairman Ueland announced the committees after which the convention adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

County Delegates Meet.

Several county delegations held caucuses last night to select their candidates for the Denver convention delegation.

The Walsh county men held forth in a vehement manner until 3:30 o'clock this morning, trying to get a vote to instruct delegates to the Denver convention for Bryan, and at times it appeared likely that the meeting would break up in a fight, but at each critical point in the discussion the cooler heads prevented personal encounters.

This delegation is State Chairman Cushel's delegation, and the Johnson men were too many for the Bryan men to get the vote through. Just before the meeting broke up it was agreed that a vote be taken to ascertain what the sentiment was, the vote to be regarded as not binding on the members in today's convention. The vote to instruct for Bryan resulted in its defeat by 14 to 11.

NIEMI JURY DISAGREES

Spent Night Deliberating on Evidence in Forgery Case.

The jury in the case of William Niemi disagreed at noon today and was discharged.

William Niemi was accused of passing a forged check of the Adriatic Mining company, for $64, on a range saloonkeeper. He is claimed to have indorsed the name of the payee on the back of the paper. Niemi claimed that he was drunk at the time the alleged forgery occurred and does not remember anything about the check. While Neimi was on the stand yesterday afternoon in his own behalf his attorney, W. E. Greene requested him to write on a piece of paper the name of was claimed to have indorsed on the check. From the result the inference could be drawn, if he did sign the check, that he could write much better drunk than sober.

FUGITIVE BETRAYED BY LOVE LETTER TO WIDOW.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 25.—A love-letter which Charles Raymond wrote to Mrs. Maude Bowlby, a charming widow, resulted, by a remarkable chain of circumstances, in the discovery yesterday that he is a former convict and is wanted at Vinton and Des Moines for burglary and forgeries.

Raymond married Mrs. Strayer four years ago upon her answering an advertisement in a Fort Dodge paper. Two years ago he disappeared. When Mrs. Bowlby received her love-letter she showed it as a curiosity to Mrs. Raymond, the deserted wife. The latter recognized the handwriting, though the letter was signed "E. J. Williams."

Mrs. Bowlby wrote a decoy answer and the police nabbed Raymond, who pleaded guilty to an indictment for forgery and admitted he had served a term from Clayton county for burglary and another from Bremer county. He was sentenced to fifteen years, the maximum.

MORMON PRIESTS FIGHT WITH DANISH FARMERS.

Copenhagen, Denmark, March 25.—Rough and tumble fighting prevails between the Mormons, who lately came to Denmark, and the farmers among whom they are trying to carry on proselyting work. When the company of Mormon priests arrived a short time ago they announced a great campaign to resuscitate Mormonism in this country, where the cause is rapidly dying out. Almost immediately a big meeting was held, which was attended by violent disorder ending in an all-around fist fight.

Nevertheless the newcomers persisted in holding more or less private meetings in many places. Finally the country population where the movement was prosecuted with the most vigor, organized a regular opposition, storming the meetings and personally assailing the preachers, several of whom have been forcibly ejected from halls and compelled to flee for their lives. Secret meetings followed, the priests in some cases traveling through the country disguised, but so vigilant were the farmers that the movement was stopped. The only thing left for the Mormons to do is to depart. They will leave about 200 Mormons less in Denmark than when they came. In other words, their cause apparently has been demolished here.

Prince Henry, the brother admiral of the fleet, may be in Washington when the formal announcement is made of the appointment of Dr. Hill as ambassador to Germany, although it is not probable that he will be present at the formal presentation of his credentials to the Kaiser here.

Perplexing Feature.

A perplexing feature of the case is presented by the fact that Secretary Root has been conferring for two months with Ambassador Tower in Berlin, and it would be natural to suppose that Tower had made inquiries at the foreign office as to the attitude of the government toward Dr. Hill. Secretary Root has been in communication by telephone with Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador, and upon the secretary's invitation the diplomat called on him at the state department to confer personally with the secretary regarding the matter. Do You Like Honest, Square Dealing?

Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines are put out under the belief that publicity is the best possible guaranty of merit, and that the most intelligent people generally want to know what they take into their stomachs, whether it be as food, drink or medicine. Although it was a bold step to take, and quite out of the usual practice of makers of proprietary medicines, yet Dr. Pierce, some time ago, decided to publish broadcast and on all his bottle-wrappers all the ingredients entering into the composition, or make-up, of his celebrated family medicines. A square deal is therefore assured every one using his medicines, for one knows exactly what he or she is paying for when purchasing them, since every ingredient is published in plain English on the bottle-wrappers and the correctness of the same attested under solemn oath. These several ingredients are selected from among the very best known to medical science for the cure of the various diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

The most eminent and leading medical teachers and writers of all the several schools of practice have endorsed each of the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines in the strongest possible terms. The makers of Dr. Pierce's medicines believe that intelligent people do not wish to open their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulp down whatever is presented to them, either in the way of food, drink or medicine, without knowing something of the properties and harmless character of the agents employed. They believe that health is too sacred a heritage to be experimented with, and that people should not take medicines of the composition of which they are kept in ignorance. Dr. Pierce's medicines are made wholly from the roots of plants found growing in the depths of our American forests. They are so compounded that they cannot do harm in any case, even to the most delicate woman or child. By open publicity Dr. Pierce has taken his medicines out of the list of secret nostrums, of doubtful merit, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. They are therefore, in a class all by themselves, being absolutely and in every sense non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

There is a badge of honesty on every bottle of Dr. Pierce's medicines in the full list of its ingredients duly attested as correct under solemn oath.

No other medicines put up for general use through druggists can make claim to any such distinction, and none other than Dr. Pierce's medicines have any such professional endorsement of their ingredients. Such professional endorsement should have far more weight with the afflicted than any amount of lay, or non-professional, endorsement, or testimonials.

Of course, the exact proportion of each ingredient used in Dr. Pierce's medicines as well as the working formula or manner of preparing the same, and the specially devised apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may be fully protected from such unprincipled imitators as might be piratically inclined.

The preparation of these medicines without the use of a drop of alcohol, so generally employed and yet so harmful, in the long run, to most invalids when its use is long continued, even in small doses, cost Dr. Pierce several years of careful study and labor, with the aid of skilled pharmacists and chemists to assist him. Naturally, he does not care to give away his scientific and exact processes for preparing these medicines, but he does want to deal in the most open manner with all his patrons and patients, and under this frank, open and honest way of dealing, they may know exactly what they are taking when using his medicines.

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative and healing way upon all the mucous lining surfaces as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in effecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TO HOLD LAST MEET.

Few Contestants for Gold and Silver Medals at Y. M. C. A.

The third and last of the series of indoor athletic meets at the Y. M. C. A gymnasium will be held tonight, when the possession of the gold and silver medals offered to the winners, will be decided. The held has narrowed down to a very few contestants, with Mapp in the lead, with 23 points. Becker, Cameron and Brown are tied for second, with 21 points, and Fryer has 19 points to his credit from the two former meets.

The events tonight include horizontal bar work, rope climbing, standing broad jump, running broad jump and ring exercise. The program for the different meets has been varied and all three make a general test of athletic ability. The meets have brought out some all-around stars and the winner of the gold medal must be the best athlete in the classes. The awards of the medals will be made at the athletic and gymnastic exhibition to be given in the Lyceum the evening of April 14.

DEMAREST AT BEST.

Chicago, March 25.—Calvin Demarest of Chicago, gave another exhibition of sterling 14.2 balk line billiards last night, when he defeated C. F. Conklin 400 to 231 in the first game of the series to decide the triple tie which resulted in the national amateur champions tournament which was played last night. He finished his string in four innings, scoring runs of 125 and 122. Conklin, too, played at top speed but was fairly outclassed.

Owing to the illness of H. A. Wright of San Francisco, the match scheduled for tonight has been postponed until Thursday. Conklin will meet the Pacific coast expert that night.

PLOT OF BLACK HAND

Causes Suspension of Italian Bank in New York City.

New York, March 25.—A malevolent plot, relentlessly worked out by members of the Black Hand, declared the police, in defiance of the authorities, who are pressing hard upon their track, ended dramatically yesterday in a run of depositors and the suspension of the Bank of Pasquale Patie, an Italian banker, on Elizabeth street, and his flight from the city in fear of death, threatened by the Black Hand because he recently shot and killed Francesco Peletro, one of their alleged members, who had demanded money, under the pain of killing the banker and his family.

Three thousand depositors clamored loudly at the Patie bank today for their savings, and in the excitement a run was started on the Bank of Acritele & Sons, across the street from the suspended institution, and caused it to shut its doors. The two banks were small private institutions.

The run on the Patie bank, the police charge, was engineered by the Black Hand, as a revenge on Patie, who was acquitted by the coroner of having killed Peletro.

"CAMP FIRE" IS A HIT.

Members of Duluth camp, No. 5, Sons of Veterans, were hosts at a very successful "camp fire" last evening at their headquarters in Kalamazoo hall.

Members of the Culver and Gorman posts, Grand Army of the Republic, Garfield circle, No. 4, Ladies of the G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps, were guests of honor during the evening.

An interesting program was given and preliminary steps taken for the organization of a Ladies' Auxiliary of the local camp of Sons of Veterans. More than a score of ladies present at the entertainment last night received the project with enthusiasm.

In his opening address, J. C. Wesenberg, commander of the Sons of Veterans, who presided, told of the work of the local camp since it was organized.

M. W. Bates, commander of Culver post, and Commander White of Gorman post recalled incidents of the Cival war and addresses were also given by Mrs. Dennis of the Ladies of the G. A. R., Mrs. N. A. Gearhart of the Women's Relief corps, W. I. Prince and County Attorney Norton.

Vocal solos were given by Alex Enna and Mrs. T. G. Bartholemew; a vocal duet by Arthur Champaigne and W. Oreckovski; a piano duet by Misses Charlotte Robinson and Ulla Baker; and piano selections by Mrs. Sanders.

S.S.S. CURES CATARRH

Catarrh is not merely a disease of the mucous membranes and inner linings of the body as some of the symptoms would seem to indicate; it is a deep-seated blood disease, in which the entire circulation and the greater part of the system are involved. Like all other blood diseases, Catarrh comes from poisons and impurities accumulating in the circulation which irritate and inflame the tissues and mucous surfaces, and then the unpleasant symptoms of the disease are manifested. There is a ringing noise in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, filthy matter drops back into the throat, the breath has an offensive odor, and many other annoying and unpleasant symptoms are characteristic of the trouble. Sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., cannot reach the blood, and are therefore valuable only for the temporary relief they afford. To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose; it goes down into the circulation, removes the catarrhal matter, purifies the blood and makes a lasting cure. When S. S. S. has removed the cause, the blood being pure and healthy nourishes the membranes and tissues instead of irritating them with noxious matter, and the symptoms all pass away. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

FIRST GAME OF ROLLER POLO

Kelley Team Will Line Up Against the Fedji Five.

The Kelley Hardware company roller polo team will make its debut tonight, and roller polo will also get its introduction to the Temple roller rink. The Fedji's will be the first opponents of the Kelleys and the game promises to be a good tryout for the for the new team. The Fedji's have been playing on and off at the West end rink all year and are able to put up a pretty fair game of roller polo.

The Kelley squad is going right out after championship honors. Furni, Winters and Cummings were members of the champion Northern roller polo team, which went to smash this spring. The Northerns were easily superior to anything else in the city and the three men the Kelleys have, bring much of the strength of the Northerns to that team. Flynn, Ryan and McKenzie have all played some roller polo and the lineup is a strong one.

Roller polo will probably boom during the spring months in Duluth. It is the next best thing to hockey in the way of sport on skates, and the Duluth boys have taken readily to it. With two rinks fostering the sport, it promises to enjoy increased popularity, both among players and spectators. It is a fast, interesting game to watch, having many of the best qualities of hockey.

The game tonight will be a test for the Kelleys and they hope to have the result go their way. They will branch out next week, playing the Pease team on Monday night at Superior. Later, a series of games will be arranged with the Lincoln Park team, present champions of the city. The games will alternate between the Temple and Lincoln Park rink.

Following is the lineup for tonight's game:

Fedji's.	Position.	Kelleys.
Southerland	goal	Flynn
Shambo	cover	Furni
Champagne	center	Winters
Beers	right rush	Cummings

CURLEY ULLRICH BOXES A DRAW

Superior Man in Ten-Round Exhibition With T. P. Ryan.

Like the doting mother-in-law, who all too frequently must needs visit the loving hubby of her only child, Curley Ullrich pops up again. It's as a "boxer" this time. Curley has evidently quit fighting, for the reports of a lady-like draw at Thief River Falls, Saturday night, say that Curley "boxed" ten rounds to a draw with T. P. Ryan of Chicago.

No wonder they "boxed!" Nobody could very well be a fighter with a double initial prefixing his surname. If it were "Buddy," or "Jimmy," "Tommy," or even that sadly overworked sobriquet, "Kid," anybody might fall for him as a fighter, but "T. P."—that's too much.

The reports of the fight indicate that gentility was its luminous feature. "No brutality or rough tactics were practiced by either contestant," says The Herald's correspondent. In the first round, Curley showed his cleverness by landing on Mr. Ryan's left eye with the doubled thumb of his right hand. He endeavored to complete a one-two by bringing his elbow to the nose, but Mr. Ryan backed away. In the fifth round again Curley tapped Mr. Ryan four times consecutively on the right ear, beating that member into a bright red color. All through Curley thus showed his superior cleverness, but the rude referee declared it a draw.

The bout was under the auspices of the Eagles, and was witnessed by a large crowd. Curley is making a big hit at Thief River Falls, and several more boxing matches are in sight for him.

BOY SKI RIDER.

Albert Oren of Ishpeming Has Done Somersault on Skis.

An Ishpeming boy, who promises to make his mark in next year's ski tournaments, is Albert Oren, a youngster, who didn't figure much in this year's events. He is a member of the Blue Ribbon Ski club of Ishpeming and has been practicing since the tournament there Feb. 22. A few days ago he cleared better than 103 feet and it is thought he can improve on that mark.

Young Oren is also working on a somersault stunt. This year he has done a somersault repeatedly on a pair of five-foot skis, but he has not perfected the act sufficiently to give it in public. He will get right at it when the snow comes next fall, and he is expected to furnish sensational features for all of the big tournaments. Oren is only a boy yet, but his performances mark him as a ski-riding marvel.

AFTER "SKATE BOYS."

Arthur J. Verdon Wants to Decide Skating Championship.

Arthur J. Verdon, who glories in the title "the boy wonder," is anxious to show his prowess on roller skates against the "skate boys" of the Temple roller rink, excepting Fred Baker. His challenge read:

"I challenge the 'skate boys' of the Temple roller rink, with the exception of Fred Baker, to race me to decide the championship for boys under 15 years of age, at any time after three weeks. Any boy wishing to accept, write Arthur J. Verdon, 117 East Sixth street."

SCHAEFER IS BEATEN.

Hoppe Defeats Veteran in Match at New York.

New York, March 25.—In exhibition games of 18.2 balk line billiards played here yesterday both Slosson and Sutton defeated Cassignol, Sutton running out his 500 points, while the Frenchman was totaling 139. Cassignol gave Slosson a closer run, scoring 275 to Slosson's 300. Sutton's run of 178 was the feature of the play. His average for the match was 37 7-13.

In at least one town on the range they are heartily in favor of the proposed semi-professional league for the ranges and Duluth, as advocated in this column last Saturday. In a letter to the sporting editor of The Herald, H. Haugen, a Chisholm baseball enthusiast, commends the stand of The Herald and the boosting of the proposed league.

Range people say that the efforts of baseball men there have resulted in Hibbing and Virginia agreeing to the league proposition and there will be no trouble getting them to attend a meeting, when one is called. It is believed both the Kelleys and Fitwells of Duluth could be worked into the circuit and either Eveleth or Cloquet would make the sixth member with Chisholm.

The idea is a good one. The league system is the only way to handle semi-professional baseball successfully. Here in Northern Minnesota the towns are all close together, they could play Saturday and Sunday ball very nicely to decide the local championship, and any of the rambling teams they would care to take on could be accommodated during the week in such towns as would stand for week-day ball.

The success of the Duluth end of the league would depend on an arrangement with the owners of the baseball park to allow one of the Duluth teams to play there when the league is away from home. The management of the league team was agreeable to such an arrangement last year and could probably be induced to consent to it this season. The Kelleys and Fitwells were largely traveling teams last year, anyway, and the league system would help them in that respect by giving them certain dates.

The thing now is for the managers to get together. Let them get in communication with each other, talk the thing over and, when they are reasonably certain everybody is willing, call a meeting and organize. It doesn't take a very keen man to see that the league would decide the Northern Minnesota championship without the shadow of a doubt and that's the prize for which every club goes out.

Mauritz Harris and Charles Sutter intend to get together again, and the followers of the wrestling game will probably finally be dished up something decisive by the two lightweights. They have had enough of Sutter and Harris in anything but a decisive match. If they both do their best, cut out the stalling and go in for a victory, they will put up about as good a lightweight wrestling bout as Duluth has ever seen. Only by their doing that can they satisfy a Duluth crowd.

Mauritz Harris has a mighty bad reputation to live down. He started out last fall to sweep the lightweight map in this part of the country. He hasn't drawn the broom across a spot as big as a bullfrog's eye. He has been a distinct, decided and absolute disappointment to his friends and everybody else. In his first match with Sutter he didn't show the ability with which he had been credited. In his match with young Wood from St. Paul he soldiered all the way and the crowd was disgusted.

It's up to Harris to do something. If he beats Sutter he will get all the credit he has coming. If he does his best and goes down to defeat he will be held higher in the estimation of wrestling followers than he is now. People want to see wrestling, not foot racing, when they go to see a wrestling match, and it's up to Harris and Sutter to make good.

There is talk of a match between Owen Moran and Joe Gans. Battling Nelson and Abe Attell have practically been matched. And the fight public is really going to stand for it.

Six big, husky longshoremen ought to take Abe Attell into a far corner, stick a quill into his hand and make him at least put his mark to an agreement for a fight with Owen Moran on something like reasonable terms. Attell has been fighting shy of Moran since they met in the ring. He knows the English boy is a good match for him and he doesn't care to take any chances on losing his title. At the same time, he proposes to fight Battling Nelson, who is a far riskier proposition than the English boy.

Nobody can blame Moran for going out of his class. Attell is the only man at his own weight in the country who could give him a battle, and Attell will not fight. Able is showing a large yellow streak all the way through, and his poor judgment may bring him to grief when Nelson, the fighter, goes against Attell, the boxer.

THREE TEAMS IN RACE FOR CUP

Deighton's and Noon Class Fives Tied for Second Place.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Horak's	8	5	.616
Noon class	7	6	.546

Another warm game, in which Deighton's 5:15 class team broke into a tie for second place again with the noon class five, was played in the Y. M. C. A. Basketball league last night. Deighton's team won by a score of 21 to 16 after an uphill fight in the second half.

The game was another swift one, such as have marked the league race during the past two weeks. Mapp's men, in a bad last, played as though fighting for first place, and held their opponents under in the first half, with the score of 13 to 9. The night class five wilted in the last period though, and Deighton's team took on strength, pulling the victory out of the fire.

Friday night Horak's and Deighton's 5:15 class teams will meet in what should be a whirlwind game. Horak was leading a runaway race a few weeks ago, but his team broke in the turn to the stretch and may yet be nosed out. Only one full game separates the leaders from the two teams tied for second, and Deighton's men are depended upon to establish a tie for first. The noon class does not break into the game again until Monday night, when it meets Deighton's five.

As the race progresses, interest in it is growing and good crowds are turning out to the games.

The teams lined up last night as follows:

Night class.	Positions.	Deighton's.
Denny	forward	Jones
Mapp	forward	Kelley
Bethune	center	Delgaton
Geo. Johnson	guard	Wisted
Gil Johnson	guard	Forgette

A New Battler.

Los Angeles, March 25.—The ten round fight between Jim Flynn of Pueblo, Colo., and "Battling Nelson" of San Francisco ended in a draw.

MAY PROVE TEST CASE

Carlin Suit May Raise Question of Constitutionality of Law.

Few Licenses in County Conform Strictly to Law.

If the courts construe the state law about liquor bonds as referring to surety companies, as well as individuals who go on the bonds, a large number of the liquor licenses in Duluth and in various other cities and towns in St. Louis county will be affected.

It is understood that a number of the liquor licenses granted by the city of Duluth were given on bonds furnished by the same surety company. It is also claimed that individuals have qualified as bondsmen for more than one saloonkeeper.

The order of the court overruling William Carlin's demurrer to the answer of the county auditor in the mandamus proceedings, to compel the issuance of a liquor license to Carlin has, to use a popular expression, "stirred up a hornet's nest."

The county auditor says that he was forced to refuse the license, and that under the law he could not do otherwise. One section of the state liquor law states explicitly that any officer who shall knowingly issue or sign an illegal liquor bond shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Under the advice of his attorney, County Auditor Halden believes that the Carlin bond is illegal, and he does not intend to take any chances of being prosecuted for a misdemeanor. If the court compels him to issue the license he will then be released from any further responsibility in the matter.

Local attorneys seem to hold different views as to the construction of the law as regards liquor license bonds. W. G. Crosby, who represents Mr. Halden, and who was former assistant county attorney, when arguing against the demurrer interposed by Carlin, took the ground that the Carlin bond was illegal, for the reason that the surety company furnishing it had furnished bonds for more than 100 other saloons in St. Louis county. The county auditor claims that no license can be granted where the surety on the bond is already surety on other liquor bonds in the same county.

First Assistant County Attorney W. J. Stevenson says that the law cannot be construed as applying to surety companies; that it is applicable only to individuals who furnished the bonds. Even then, Mr. Stevenson says, there is a question whether the law is constitutional, and the Carlin case, if pressed, will likely result in a supreme court decision in the matter. It is claimed that a similar law in Michigan was held to be unconstitutional.

Mr. Stevenson claims that the law, if it is construed as the county auditor claims, will be even more far-reaching in its effect than is generally known; that it would affect the whole state, and no surety company could go on more than one liquor license in the state of Minnesota.

"As a matter of fact," said a prominent official yesterday, while discussing the saloon license bonds, "there are few legal liquor licenses held in St. Louis county at the present time, if the strict letter of the state liquor laws is observed. There are a large number of the little irregularities as regards the bonding and issuing of liquor licenses which have been overlooked and few people would have any idea they existed, unless they have studied the law carefully.

"For instance, the law provides that the place in which the liquor is to be sold must be described exactly. This does not mean the general location, but the very room in which the saloon is located must be described as well as the building, the lot, block, etc. The law also provides that the bond must state exactly for what purpose the place is going to be run, whether there is to be any gambling or nickel-in-the-slot machines, besides the sale of liquors.

"Another feature about the state liquor law that probably a few people have stopped to think about is the provision that any county or municipal officer who shall knowingly grant or issue an illegal liquor license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. It is my belief that members of the city council of Duluth who have granted licenses to saloonkeepers that have been convicted of violation of the state liquor laws have laid themselves open to indictment by the grand jury."

A few years ago, following a change of administration in the city of Virginia, this county, an attempt was made to enforce the provision of the law, construing it to mean that a saloonkeeper must furnish a surety that is not on any other liquor bond. People who are familiar with the conditions at Virginia claim that the attempt to follow the letter of the law was soon abandoned because it was impossible to find men who could qualify as bondsmen and who were not already on one liquor bond.

The men engaged in the liquor business in the county claim that it would be impossible to furnish bonds for the large number of saloons now operating if the law relating to bonds is construed to include surety companies.

HOTELS SHOULD BE LICENSED

Says Mayor Haven Who Will Bring Matter Before Council.

Mayor Haven is planning to bring before the city council at its next session, a plan to have all the hotels in the city licensed and otherwise regulated.

As a result of The Herald's campaign there have been many arrests recently in this sort of places. Men and women known by the police to be unmarried to each other, but registered as man and wife, have been arrested by the police and charged with disorderly conduct.

In many cases, there has been lack of evidence against the arrested ones and Mayor Haven sees in the passing of an ordinance requiring all hotels to pay a license and submit to certain regulations, a cessation of immoralty in the hotels.

The mayor thinks that if such a move was made by the council, many women of questionable reputations who have been frequenting questionable hotels in company with men, will leave the city.

CASES OF INTEREST.

LACK OF CONSIDERATION IN NOTES ASSIGNED TO BANK BY ITS OFFICERS.—The liability of bank officers assigning notes to the bank in lieu of bad debts was considered in State Bank of Pittsburg vs. Kirk, 95 Atlantic Reporter, 992. The bank became insolvent, and the receiver brought an action to recover on the notes. Defendant set up, among other defenses, want of consideration, but the Pennsylvania supreme court held that defendant could not now escape liability on the ground that there was no consideration for the notes at their inception.

SUICIDE BY INSURED.—That ever recurring question, whether recovery may be had under an insurance policy for death by suicide, was again adjudicated upon in Davis vs. Supreme Council Royal Arcanum, 91 Northeastern Reporter, 294. Plaintiff contended that insured could not deprive the beneficiary of his rights by misconduct after the issuance of the policy, but the Massachusetts supreme court held that the original contract impliedly excepted suicide as a cause of loss, notwithstanding no mention of it was made in the certificate.

LIABILITY TO TELEGRAPH COMPANY FOR FAILURE TO DELIVER TELEGRAM AS DEPENDENT ON LEX LOCI.—In an action for mental suffering caused by the nondelivery of a telegraph message, the law of the place where the contract was made, and in which a part of it was performed, was held to govern, in the case of Johnson vs. W. U. Tel. Co., (Sup. Ct. N. Car.) 57 Southeastern Reporter, 152.

RIGHTS OF RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.—No injunction will lie to restrain the transfer of property of one church to another, where they have formed a union in the case of Mock vs. Kline, 58 Southeastern Reporter, 581, the Georgia supreme court held that, although property rights were involved, they rested upon questions of faith and religious tenets, a decision of which by the highest ecclesiastical tribunal would be held to be conclusive.

SERVICE OF PROCESS ON FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.—A railroad company whose eastern terminus is in Chicago, but maintaining an office in Philadelphia for the purpose of soliciting business, is not "doing business" at Philadelphia, within the law regulating service of process, according to the case of Green vs. C. B. & Q. Ry. Co., 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 536.

EVIDENCE OF OTHER OFFENSES.—Defendant, a duly licensed practicing physician, was prosecuted for issuing prescriptions for liquor in local option territory. Evidence showed that all ailments received the same prescription, which called for liquor, and were filled at a certain bar. On the theory that it showed system or intent, the state was allowed, in Weatherford vs. State (Tex. Crim. App.) 103 Southwestern Reporter, 632, to show a number of prescriptions besides the one on which the information was based.

ILLEGAL USE OF ONE'S OWN NAME.—In International Silverware Co. vs. Rogers (N. J. Err. & App.) 67 Atlantic Reporter, 105, an action was brought to restrain defendant from stamping his own name upon his wares. Plaintiffs were the successors of the original Roger Bros., silverware manufacturers. The defendant was engaged in the same business. The court granted an injunction unless defendant should thereafter stamp on his goods, "Not the original Rogers," or "Not connected with the original Rogers."

DISCHARGE OF DEBTS CREATED IN FIDUCIARY CAPACITY.—The question whether a debt is created in fiduciary capacity, so as to be affected by a discharge in bankruptcy, arose in Haggerty vs. Boskin, 96 Atlantic Reporter, 425. Plaintiff's intestate and defendant entered into an agreement to form a partnership, plaintiff's intestate to put in $50 as capital. Immediately after the money was paid to defendant, and before the written agreement was signed, plaintiff's intestate died. Subsequently defendant became a bankrupt, and set up his discharge in bar to the claim of plaintiff. The New Jersey court of chancery held that the debt was not discharged by the bankruptcy.

RECOVERY OF EXCESSIVE FREIGHT CHARGES.—A number of Southeastern railroads gave notice of an increase in rates on lumber in 1903. Before the rate became effective, a bill was filed in the United States circuit court to restrain the establishment of the new rate as being unreasonable. A temporary injunction was granted, but later dissolved, on the condition that the reasonableness of the rate should be passed upon by the interstate commerce commission. The commission found the rates to be unreasonable. A supplemental bill was then filed to obtain restitution of the excess of rates charged in accordance with a prior stipulation that, if complainants prevail, a decree of restitution might be made. A decree was so rendered and affirmed by the circuit court of appeals. Upon appeal to the supreme court it was again affirmed. Railway Company vs. Tift, 27 Supreme Court Reporter, 596, 206 U. S. 428.

AUTOMOBILES AS HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS.—The United States circuit court of appeals for the Second circuit in Hillhouse vs. United States, 152 Federal Reporter, 168, holds that automobiles come within the classification of "household effects," under the tariff act of July 24, 1897. This decision is largely based on the case of Arthur vs. Morgan, 112 U. S. 495, 5 Supreme Court Reporter, 241, 28 Lawyers' Edition, 825, wherein the United States supreme court held that carriages were properly classified as "household effects."

FORMER JEOPARDY—APPLICATION OF "SAME TRANSACTION TEST."—The case of Fews vs. State (Ga. Ct. App.) 58 Southeastern Reporter, 64, holds that where defendant was accused of shooting two different persons in rapid succession, who had made no joint attack upon him, two distinct crimes were committed, and that a conviction for one was no bar to a prosecution for the other. A similar question arose in Burnam vs. State, Id. 683, where the state court, after setting out a hypothetical case, applied the same principle.

DAMAGES FOR PAIN AND ANGUISH OF DECEDENT.—A watchman on a drawbridge was struck by an engine and knocked into the stream beneath and drowned. The evidence showed that when struck, he fell on an iron girder, parallel with the bridge, with such force that he bounced; that he then dropped his flag, threw up his arms, and fell into the water. The supreme court of Arkansas held in the case of St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. vs. Stamps, 104 Southwestern Reporter, 1114, that in this instance the facts were sufficient to show an appreciable interval of conscious suffering and to warrant a recovery of $500 therefor.

VALIDITY OF TAX SALE OF PROPERTY OF BANKRUPT.—The property of a bankrupt was sold for taxes prior to the institution of bankruptcy proceedings, but the title and possession remained in the bankrupt. The sale was set aside by the court on the ground that the property was in custodia legis, and could not be affected by a deed issued without consent of the bankruptcy court. In re Eppstein, 156 Federal Reporter, 42.

INJUNCTION TO RESTRAIN ACTS OF OFFICERS OF LABOR UNION.—An injunction to restrain the officers of a labor union from violating its contract with an employers' association was granted in Barnes vs. Berry, 156 Federal Reporter, 72. Defendants demanded the eight-hour day and the closed shop. The court held the "closed shop" to be contrary to public policy, and that the demand for the immediate adoption of the eight-hour day was violative of the contract. The court granted an order restraining defendants from unlawful use of their influence and power in inciting a strike.

MISCONDUCT OF PLAINTIFF AS GROUND FOR NEW TRIAL.—During the argument of defendant's counsel near the close of the trial in a personal injury case, Connell vs. Seattle R. & S. Railway company, 92 Pacific Reporter, 577, plaintiff gave way to her feelings and wept and trembled in the presence of the jury. The supreme court of Washington said that it was not improbable that her act, caused by her nervousness and the criticisms of the defendant's attorney, was unavoidable. The judgment of the trial court denying a new trial was affirmed.

LIABILITY OF INSURANCE COMPANY FOR DEATH AT THE HANDS OF JUSTICE.—In a novel insurance case in Georgia, insured was shot by the husband of his paramour while attempting adultery. Defendant company contended that it was not liable on the policy on the ground that such killing was the administration of "preventive justice," under the Georgia code, releasing insurer in such case. The supreme court of Georgia held, however, that the code contemplated the taking of life only by an officer of the law. Supreme lodge, K. of P. vs. Crenshaw, 58 Southern Reporter, 628.

UNLAWFUL CONVICTION OF PLAINTIFF AS BAR TO ACTION FOR FALSE IMPRISONMENT.—In Badewitz vs. West Jersey & S. R. Co., 67 Atlantic Reporter, 1067, plaintiff, having refused to pay fare on defendant's train, except with the going portion of a ticket which was refused because the return portion was not attached, was arrested on a charge of refusing to pay railroad fare, and fined 34 cents. In an action by the passenger for false imprisonment, the New Jersey supreme court held that he was not arrested nor convicted for any offense known to the law, and that such conviction was no bar to plaintiff's action.

CONVERSATION OVER TELEPHONE.—The admissibility in evidence of a telephone conversation was considered in Holzhauer vs. Sheeny, 104 Southwestern Reporter, 1034. The attorney for plaintiff, having ascertained defendant's number from the telephone directory, called up and conversed with her. It was not shown that he knew her voice or that he asked the name. The Kentucky court of appeals held that the subject of the conversation and the circumstance of defendant's answering at the number of her address were sufficient identification to charge her as being the person with whom the conversation was had.

MUNICIPAL REGULATIONS OF STREET RAILROADS.—A city ordinance provided that a sufficient number of street cars should be run from two of the terminals during the rush hours of the evenings, that no one should be kept waiting longer than five minutes, and that each passenger should be furnished with a seat. Its validity was sustained in North Jersey Street Railway company vs. Jersey City, 67 Atlantic Reporter, 1072, the New Jersey supreme court holding that, as the ordinance did not appear unreasonable on its face, the proceedings must be dismissed.

THE DRURY LANE THEATER BURNS

Famous London Playhouse Opened in 1863, is Destroyed.

London, March 25.—Drury Lane theafte, one of the most famous in London was completely destroyed by fire early this morning. The flames were first discovered about 4 o'clock during the morning, bursting through the windows. It was then too late to save the structure, which burned fiercely despite all the efforts of the fire brigade. There was no loss of life. The theater had been closed since the Pantomime season ended. It would have been re-opened on April 18. The origin of the fire is nuknown.

The Kembles and Mrs. Siddons used to act at the theater. The Drury Lane theater derived its origin from a cock pit, which was converted into a theater in the reign of Charles II, and was rebuilt and called the Phoenix, and Charles II granted an exclusive patent to Thomas Killingrew, April 25, 1662. It was opened on April 8, 1663. Nell Gwynn performed in this house in 1666. It was burned down together with sixty houses in 1672 and rebuilt by Sir Christopher Wren. Garrick made his debut here in 1742, Mrs. Siddons her debut as a star in 1782, and Mr. Kemble his debut as Hamlet on Sept. 30, 1782. Sheridan was manager in those days.

Arthur Collins became the manager on behalf of a limited company in 1897. It was the home of a great many pantomimes, but many Shakesparean plays also were presented, Sir Henry Irving appearing on its stage in many of his noted parts.

LA FOLLETTE CONCLUDES

Washington, March 25.—Upon the conclusion of Senator La Follette's speech on the Aldrich currency bill in the senate yesterday, a plan was decided upon by which Senator Aldrich will today take up the bill and continue its consideration until it has been disposed of.

Mr. Aldrich asked for a unanimous consent to dispose of the bill before adjournment Thursday, but to that proposition Senator La Follette objected on the ground that he feared defeat would be curtailed by such a procedure.

The colloquy which resulted on Mr. Aldrich's announcement followed the conclusion of the third and last installment of Senator La Follette's speech in opposition to the Aldrich bill. Mr. La Follette declared that his statement that the industries of the country were controlled by less than 100 men had been attacked as sensational. Declaring that such was not the case, he said that he had been too conservative, and that, in fact, a much smaller number of men dominated the industries.

"Along with this enormous increase in trust power has gone a steady process of centralization in the control of that power until now the entire situation is dominated by the Standard Oil-Morgan combine," he declared. "The old fights between these two great powers have been laid aside. Mr. Morgan's picture adorns the walls of the inner room of the Rockefellers at 26 Broadway. In combination today they are working together to gather in the smaller powers. Mr. Hill has been taught that he must not oppose the big ones Standard Oil got in on the Great Northern ore deal. The Gould interests are being swallowed by the combine. Morse and Heinze were neatly pocketed during the recent panic. The smelter trust was given a drubbing and started in the same direction. The Vanderbilts can no longer retain their independent control, and themselves see the handwriting on the wall."

Enormous Growth of Trusts.

The senator quoted John Moody to show an enormous growth in trust capitalization in four years. In 1904 Mr. Moody placed the capitalization of the industrial franchise and railroad trusts at over $20,000,000,000. That amount has increased more than $11,000,000,000 or more than 55 per cent. The $31,000,000,000, he said, did not represent the financial combinations, banks, trusts and independent companies.

Mr. La Follette read several lists of eminent financiers to whom he accorded various degrees of power in the control of industries. He included Senator Depew of New York as among those who exercise large power and held many directorships in the form of delegated power exercised by him in a mere representative capacity. Mr. Depew was in his seat and general laughter followed the mention of his name.

Mr. La Follette named as next after Mr. Morgan and the Rockefellers a group of fourteen men, who, he said, were "big operators and men of large power and interests in their own rights." These men, he said, find their best interests "in working in harmony with Morgan and Standard Oil."

No combination which they could form among themselves or with others could cope with that power, he declared. In this list of fourteen he placed W. K. Vanderbilt, August Belmont, Frederick Weyerhaeuser, Henry C. Frick, J. Ogden Armour, George Gould, Jacob Schiff, E. H. Harriman, Thomas F. Ryan, L. S. Swift, John Jacob Astor, James Speyer, J. J. Hill and W. H. Moore.

Second Class Stars.

A second class of men in the list were the "Stars of lesser magnitude," but men of wealth and power who work in with the combine and a few of the higher rank of attorneys and bank presidents of the system. This group follows: C. H. Dodge, C. H. McCormick, Stephen S. Palmer, Brayden Aves, C. A. Peabody, G. F. Parker, J. F. Gordon, J. S. Post, H. Taylor Payne, T. H. Hubbard, G. Haven, W. J. Oakman, F. J. Berwynd, J. D. Duke, F. A. Valentine, W. D. Sloan, Adrain Iselin, Jr., Frederick Cromwell, G. W. Young, D. Guggenheim, V. P. Snyder, A. H. Brady, Edwin Hawley, D. O. Mills, Charles Steele, John J. Waterbury, Oliver Ames, Nathaniel Bayer, E. H. Gray, John C. Latlin, John R. Hagemann, C. H. Mackay, E. W. Vanderbilt, J. J. Mitchell, T. Jefferson Coolidge, Thomas Dolan, Samuel Lea, Charles Lanier, James C. Fargo, D. O. Reid, Henry Walters, Norman D. Ream, H. L. Higginson, P. A. B. Widener and F. B. Morris.

Of the third group including the balance of the list Senator La Follette said: "While some of them exercised large power and held many directorships, it was a delegated power exercised by them in a mere representative capacity." This part of the list is as follows: Edward F. Marston, G. W. Perkins, John S. Sterling, Otto H. Kahn, John F. Garvis, A. M. Krotch, Paul Morton, H. C. Deming, Charles H. Russell, Chauncey M. Depew, Oliver H. Payne, W. S. Webb, James B. Forgan, Moses Taylor, Francis M. Bacon, J. A. Stillman, Luther Kountze, H. P. Whitney, P. D. Cravath, Levi P. Morton, N. N. Vreeland, W. Godfrey, Langdon C. Morse, Charles M. Schwab, E. F. C. Young, J. H. Converse, H. A. C. Taylor, C. S. Fairchild, G. S. Whitson, A. D. Mullard, G. H. Allen, V. Horawitz, J. H. Parker, Frederick Sturgis, C. N. Bliss, A. F. Orr, H. McK. Twombley, Charles Dawes, E. R. Shipley.

Bill Would Strengthen Power.

Mr. La Follette argued that the Aldrich bill would only serve to strengthen this great money power of Wall street. He criticised the failure of the committee on finance in not keeping bank reserves in the vaults of the banks throughout the country.

Mr. La Follette concluded his speech with a strong appeal to the "progressive men" in the senate to stand together and beat the bill. He spoke of the activities of the president and Mr. Bryan in combatting with wrong doing among the high finaciers.

"Whatever differences there may be in party policy or personality between the president and Mr. Bryan they are striving for certain fundamental truths. Whatever mistakes Mr. Bryan may have made, whatever mistakes the president may have made in compromising legislation, they are believed in by the people because they are fighting to preserve the principle that the nation should be governed by the people."

At the conclusion of Mr. La Follette's remarks, Senator Teller said he had listened to his narrative on the enormities of the pending bill with interest and said some of the differences he complained of were already provided for by laws on the statute books, instancing laws for the punishment of derelict bank officials.

HEALTH CONDITIONS

In the Canal Zone Said to be Very Favorable.

Washington, March 24.—A case of yellow fever was found on board the Aconcagua, which arrived at one of the ports of the canal zone Feb. 29 from Guayaquil, Ecuador. The patient, according to the latest reports, is convalescing. There was no difficulty in handling the case so as to prevent its spread. The last case originating in the canal zone was in May, 1906.

Favorable health conditions continue on the zone according to the February report of Col. William C. Gorgas, chief sanitary officer of the Isthmian canal commission. Taking it as a whole, Col. Gorgas says the February report "is the most favorable report that the health department has been able to make since it has been on the isthmus."

The sick rate makes an excellent showing, the report says, 17.86 per thousand, the smallest recorded, as against 24.78 the previous February.

Taking the total population in 1907, 92,404, there was a yearly death rate of 26.07 per thousand, while in 1908, with a population of 113,269, there was a yearly death rate of 21.40 per thousand.

RICE IS PUT UNDER THE BAN

Rice is under the ban.

Not for eating, of course, but for certain things which nature did not intend the cereal. No one can deny that it has its value as a food, but nearly every married person will declare that it should be confined to table purposes, and not be thrown promiscuously around at distressed young people, who have just been made one, and are trying to peacefully launch themselves upon the sea of matrimony.

Railroad officials quite agree with people of this description, and it is they who have issued the ban, proclaiming that proper punishment will be provided for persons who throw rice around the train sheds, and included with rice are old shoes and other articles, intended to temporarily mar the happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Newly Wed.

At least railroad officials in Chicago have issued orders against the practise, and it is given out upon the best of authority that the same orders are to be put into effect in Duluth, governing actions of such individuals as desire to say good-bye to their newly-married friends in the Duluth union depot. It is understood that in the very near future an order along these lines will be issued.

The railroad officials find this move is necessary to protect others than the bride and bridegroom. Instances have been known where innocent bystanders have had their hats knocked off and under the cars by some enthusiast, who was trying to hit a groom, and officials have been called upon for damages.

The new order is in line with the general advance of civilization and higher morality which is always clear in the mind of the bystander, innocent or otherwise, who stops an old shoe with his face, or receives a bag of hard, assorted rice on his ear, in the eager and illogical attempts of the would-be town jokers to mar the person and feelings of the newly married.

Richmond, Va., March 24.—John D. Rockefeller arrived here today and took apartments at one of the leading hotels. Mr. Norman R. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Delbert Building, San Francisco, says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequaled. 50c at all drug stores.

CAPTAIN PUNISHED

Washington, March 25.—Capt. Clark B. Dudley, fourteenth Cavalry, at Boise barracks, Idaho, has been convicted by courtmartial on the charge of cruelty in having made a young soldier parade up and down for three hours wearing on his neck a placard with the words "Bad boy." Capt. Dudley was sentenced to be confined within the limits of his post for four months.

SHIPPY JUSTIFIED

In Killing Young Averbush, Says the Coroner's Jury.

Chicago, March 25.—A coroner's jury last night declared Chief of Police Shippy and J. F. Foley, his driver, to have been justified in killing Averbush, the young Russian Jew who attacked the chief in his home recently. The verdict was rendered after a short deliberation following an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the shooting.

No need of days when you are not at your best. No need of headaches, dullness, irritability. A Cascaret, taken in time, avoids them.

All women need Cascarets.

Simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables.

Those are Nature's ways for keeping the bowels active. But very few women employ them.

The next best way is Cascarets.

Nearly all the minor ills of women can be avoided by Cascarets alone.

There is no need to have headaches, depression, bad breath, bad complexion.

The remedy is Cascarets.

Not in large doses—unless you wait too long. The best way is one Cascaret at a time—just when you need it.

One every day, perhaps.

It is simply a matter of keeping clean inside, as you do on the outside.

You don't use soap in large quantities, and rarely. You use it frequently, regularly, just as you need it.

Do the same with Cascarets.

Then you are always well, always at your best.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure you get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50c, 25c and ing order should be issued by any court without notice, and the petition for a permanent injunction upon which such temporary restraining order has been issued should be heard by the court issuing the same within a reasonable time, say, not to exceed a week or thereabouts from the date when the order was issued.

It is worth considering whether it would not give greater popular confidence in the impartiality of sentences for contempt if it was required that the issue should be decided by another judge than the one issuing the injunction, except where the contempt is committed in the presence of the court, or in other case of urgency.

I again call attention to the urgent need of amending the interstate commerce law, and especially the anti-trust law along the lines indicated in my last message. The insterstate commerce law should be amended so as to give railroads the right to make traffic agreements, subject to these agreements being approved by the interstate commerce commission and published in all of their details. The commission should also be given the power to make public and to pass upon the issuance of all securities hereafter issued by railroads doing an interstate business.

A law should be passed providing in effect that when a federal court determines to place a common carrier or other public utility concern under the control of a receivership the attorney-general should have the right to nominate at least one of the receivers; or else in some other way the interests of the stockholders should be consulted, so that the management may not be wholly redelivered to the man or men the failure of whose policy may have necessitated the creation of the receivership. Receiverships should be used, not to operate roads, but as speedily as possible to pay their debts and returne them to the proper owners.

Amend Anti-Trust Law.

In addition to the reasons I have already urged on your attention, it has now become important that there should be an amendment of the anti-trust law, because of the uncertainty as to how this law affects combinations among labor men and farmers. If the combination has any tendency to restrict interstate commerce. All of these combinations, if and while existing for and engaged in the promotion of innocent and proper purposes, should be recognized as legal. As I have repeatedly pointed out, this anti-trust law was a most unwisely drawn statute. It was perhaps inevitable that in feeling after the right remedy the first attempts to provide such should be crude; and it was absolutely imperative that some legislation should be passed to control, in the interest of the public, the business use of the enormouse aggregations of corporate wealth that are so marked a feature of the modern industrial world. But the present anti-trust law, in its construction and working, has exemplified only too well the kind of legislation which, under the guise of being thorough-going, is drawn up in such sweeping form as to become either ineffective or else mischievous.

In the modern industrial world combinations are absolutely necessary; they are necessary among business men, they are necessary among laboring men, they are becoming more and more necessary among farmers.

Some of these combinations are among the most powerful of all instruments for wrongdoing. Others offer the only effective way of meeting actual business needs. It is mischievious and unwholesome to keep upon the statute books unmodified a law, like the anti-trust law, which, while in practice only partially effective against vicious combinations, has nevertheless in theory been construed so as sweepingly to prohibit every combination for the transaction of modern business. Some real good has resulted from this law. But the time has come when it is imperative to modify it. Such modification is urgently needed for the sake of the business men of the country, for the sake of the wage-workers, and for the sake of the farmers. The congress can not afford to leave it on the statute books in its present shape.

Changes Suggested.

It has now become uncertain how far this law may involve all labor organizations, in conflict with the law; or, if we secure literal compliance with the law, how far it may result in the destruction of the organizations necessary for the transaction of modern business, as well as of all labor organizations and farmers' organizations, completely check the wise movement for securing business co-operation among farmers, and put back half a century the progress of the movement for the betterment of labor. A bill has been presented in the congress to remedy this situation. Some such measure as this bill is needed in the interest of all engaged in the industries which are essential to the country's well-being. I do not pretend to say the exact shape that the bill should take, and the suggestions I have to offer are tentative; and my views would apply equally to any other measure which would achieve the desired end. Bearing this in mind, I would suggest, merely tentatively, the following changes in the law:

The substantive part of the anti-trust law should remain as at present; that is, every contract in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations should continue to be declared illegal; provided, however, that some proper governmental authority (such as the commissioner of corporations acting under the secretary of commerce and labor) be allowed to pass on any such contracts

Probably the best method of providing for this would be to enact that any contract, subject to the prohibition contained in the anti-trust law, into which it was desired to enter, might be filed with the bureau of corporations or other appropriate executive body. This would provide publicity. Within, say, sixty days of the filing—which period could be extended by order of the department whenever for any reason it did not give the department sufficient time for a thorough examination—the executive department having power might forbid the contract which would then become subject to the provisions of the anti-trust law, if at all in restraint of trade.

If no such prohibition was issued, the contract would then only be liable to attack on the ground that it constituted an unreasonable restraint of trade. Whenever the period of filing had passed without any such prohibition, the contracts or combinations could be disapproved or forbidden only after notice and hearing with a reasonable provision for summary review on appeal by the courts. Labor organizations, farmers' organizations, and other organizations not organized for purposes of profit, should be allowed to register under the law by giving the location of the head office, the charter and by-laws, and the names and addresses of their principal officers. In the interest of all these organizations—business, labor, and farmers' organizations alike—the present provision permitting the recovery of threefold damages should be abolished, and as a substitute therefor the right of recovery allowed for should be only the damages sustained by the plaintiff and the cost of suit, including reasonable attorney's fee.

Not Affect Pending Suits.

The law should not affect pending suits; a short statute of limitations should be provided, so far as the past is concerned, not to exceed a year. Moreover, and even more in the interest of labor than of business combinations, all such suits brought for causes of action heretofore accurred should be brought only if the contract or combination complained of was unfair and unreasonable. It may be well to remember that all of the suits hitherto brought by the government under the anti-trust law have been in cases where the combination or contract was in fact unfair, unreasonable, and against the public interest.

It is important that we should encourage trade agreements between employer and employe, where they are just and fair. A strike is a clumsy weapon for righting wrongs done to labor, and we should extend, as far as possible, the process of conciliation and arbitration as a substitute for strikes.

Moreover, violence, disorder, and coercion, when committed in connection with strikes, should be as promptly and as sternly repressed as when committed in any other connection. But strikes themselves are, and should be, recognized to be entirely legal. Combinations of workingmen have a peculiar reason for their existence. The very wealthy individual employer, and still more the very wealthy corporation, stand at an enormous advantage when compared to the individual workingman; and while there are many cases where it may not be necessary for laborers to form a union, in many other cases it is indispensable, for otherwise the thousands of small units, the thousands of individual workingmen, will be left helpless in their dealings with the one big unit, the big individual or corporate employer.

Twenty-two years ago, by the act of June 25, 1886, trade unions were recognized by law, and the right of laboring people to combine for all lawful purposes was formally recognized, this right including combination for mutual protection and benefits, the regulation of wages, hours and conditions of labor, and the protection of the individual rights of the workmen in the prosecution of their trade or trades; and in the act of June 1, 1888, strikes were recognized as legal in the same provision that forbade participation in or instigation of force or violence against persons or property, or the attempt to prevent others from working, by violence, threat, or intimidation. The business man must be protected in person and property, and so must the farmer and the wageworker; and as regards all alike, the right of peaceful combination for all lawful purposes should be explicitly recognized.

The right of employers to combine and contract with one another and with their employes should be explicitly recognized; and so should the right of the employes to combine and to contract with one another and with the employers, and to seek peaceably to persuade others to accept their views, and to strike for the purpose of peaceably obtaining from employers satisfactory terms for their labor.

Nothing should be done to legalize either a blacklist or a boycott that would be illegal at common law; this being the type of boycott defined and condemned by the anthracite strike commission.

Favors Postal Savings Banks.

The question of financial legislation is now receiving such attention in both houses that we have a right to expect action before the close of the session. It is urgently necessary that there should be such action. Moreover, action should be taken to establish postal savings banks. These postal savings banks are imperatively needed for the benefit of the wageworkers and men of small means, and will be a valuable adjunct to our whole financial system.

The time has come when we should prepare for a revision of the tariff. This should be, and indeed must be, preceded by careful investigation.

It is peculiarly the province of the congress and not of the president, and indeed peculiarly the province of the house of representatives, to originate a tariff bill and to determine upon its terms; and this I fully realize. Yet it seems to me that before the close of this session provision should be made for collecting full material which will enable the congress elected next fall to act immediately after it comes into existence. This would necessitate some action by the congress at its present session, perhaps in the shape of directing the proper committee to gather the necessary information, both through the committee itself and through government agents who should report to the committee and should lay before it the facts which would permit it to act with prompt and intelligent fairness. These government agents, if it is not deemed wise to appoint individuals from outside the public service, might with advantage be members of the executive department, designated by the president, on his own motion or on the request of the committee, to act with it.

I am of the opinion, however, that one change in the tariff could with advantage be made forthwith. Our forests need every protection, and one method of protecting them would be to put upon the free list wood pulp, with a corresponding reduction upon paper made from wood pulp, when they come from any country that does not put an export duty upon them.

Ample provision should be made for a permanent waterway commission, with whatever power is required to make it effective. The reasonable expectation of the people will not be met unless the congress provides at this session for the beginning and prosecution of the actual work of waterway improvement and control. The congress should recognize in the fullest fashion the fact that the object of the conservation of our natural resources with which this commission deals, is literally vital for the future of the nation.

Water Power Rights.

Numerous bills granting water power rights on naviable streams have been introduced. None of them give the government the right to make a reasonable charge for the valuable privileges so granted, in spite of the fact that these water power privileges are equivalent to many thousands of acres of the best coal lands for their production of power. Nor is any definite time limit set, as should always be done in such cases. I shall be obliged hereafter, in accordance with the policy stated in a recent message, to veto any water power bill which does not provide for a time limit and for the right of the president or of the secretary concerned to fix and collect such a charge as he may find to be just and reasonable in each case.

TIMELY TOPICS

REGARDING CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

NEGLECTED COLDS

GOOD ADVICE TO WISE WOMEN AND PRUDENT MEN.

"Don't trifle with a cold," is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of Autumn, Winter and Spring, the chances of a surprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well-established, ripe cold is to the germ of diphtheria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child-life is the neglected cold. Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this medicine have been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given.

LA GRIPPE

PHYSICAL AND MENTAL AGONY.

LACK OF SYMPATHY.

Before we can sympathize with others we must have suffered ourselves. No one can realize the suffering attendant on an attack of la grippe unless he has had the actual experience. There is probably no disease that causes so much physical and mental agony, or which so successfully defies medical aid, danger from la grippe, however, may be avoided by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Colonel Cornelius P. Cole, a well-known and much respected citizen of Appanoose county, Iowa, now past 70 years of age, who came to Iowa with his wife over fifty years ago, says: "Myself and wife were both soundly cured of severe and stubborn attacks of grippe last winter by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a wonderful remedy and we never wish to be without it."

CROUP

MUST CHECK DISEASE AT THE START.

Don't neglect the first symptoms of croup in your child. This hoarseness and croupy cough are often overlooked by persons not acquainted with the disease, and sometimes not heeded by those that know the danger signal. Thousands of infant children die yearly of croup. Every one of these innocents could have been saved had Chamberlain's Cough Remedy been given in time. The time wasted in sending for a physician or for medicine when a child shows symptoms of croup often proves fatal. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should always be kept in the house for immediate use Remember, it will prevent an attack if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is safe and sure. Contains no narcotics. Always cures. It is the mother's favorite cough remedy in all parts of the world.

HOARSENESS

HOW CAUSED AND WHEN DANGEROUS.

Hoarseness, or roughness of voice, arises from several causes. The most common is when the mucous is allowed to collect on the vocal cords. This is dangerous, for unless the mucous is removed it is most likely to become a hotbed of disease, and will develop into some serious chronic throat or lung complaint. A small dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will work wonders. Not only does it at once clear away the mucous, but also assists Nature to strengthen the vocal cords, and make the accumulation less likely to occur. The mere fact that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is free from all narcotics makes it the best to use in all cases of hoarseness. Another common cause of hoarseness is the swelling or looseness of the vocal cords. This is generally caused by sudden exposure or by protracted public speaking. This phase is often called "clergyman's hoarseness." The soothing properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy act most beneficially in such cases, and by soothing any inflamed cords, soon enables them to resume a natural condition.

BRONCHITIS

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT TO DO.

This is only another name for a severe cold in the chest. In its commencement it is attended with cough, hoarseness, more or less pain, soreness of the throat and lungs, expectoration of mucous, sometimes mixed with blood, tightness about the chest or throat, a difficulty in breathing. In its last stages, high fever and night sweats prevail. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the medicine for this disease. It at once relieves the cough, eases the pain, removes the difficulty in breathing, and, by producing a free and easy expectoration, subdues the inflammation. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is soothing and healing. It is always the common neglected cold that causes the trouble. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the first indication of the cough or cold, and thus avoid any serious complications.

ONE INSTANCE.

"As long ago as I can remember, my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd, our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse, and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down, and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances, I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy."

PNEUMONIA

THE CAUSES, AND HOW TO PREVENT.

Old people and those who have weak lungs cannot be too careful in guarding against this disease. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza, and can be prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many people who have had every reason to fear pneumonia have warded it off by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

WHOOPING COUGH

SYMPTOMS AND ITS DANGERS

Whooping cough is a very dangerous disease unless treated properly. Statistics show that there are more deaths from it than from scarlet fever. You cannot mistake the symptoms—protracted coughing, worse at night—peculiar sound or whoop—labored expectoration of mucous—apparent suffocation after coughing. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once, repeating the dose frequently. The quick relief afforded by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy makes it a favorite with mothers of small children. It liquifies the tough mucous, making it easier to expectorate, keeps the cough loose and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with perfect success. There is no danger whatever from the disease when it is freely given. It contains nothing injurious and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult.

DIPHTHERIA

RESULTS FROM A NEGLECTED COLD.

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold, which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one partially susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given, it not only cures the cold, but greatly lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted. There is no danger in giving this remedy, as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, and may be given to a baby as confidently as to an adult.

PLAN MUCH DITCH WORK.

This Year Will Witness More Than Ever Before in State.

Crookston, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. James A. Beard of the big Roseau dredging project has gathered 500 cords of wood on the banks of the Roseau; Jerry Sherwood of Litchfield, who secured the lower sixteen miles of the project, has gathered hundreds of tons of coal along his route down the river, and widespread preparations have been made by every dredging and ditching company to push their work this year. More ditch work will be completed this year than ever before both in county and state and judicial districts.

More ditches are under way than plans and appropriations for the year will show, for there are many constructions to be made on contracts the time limits for which have already expired, although money is set aside for them. The regular amount of ditch work for the year is above that of other previous years. In Polk county alone there are ten ditches whose contracts called for their completion before Jan. 1 last, but which will be completed under the coming season's business.

SECTION FOREMAN HURT.

Run Down by Locomotive and Loses One Leg.

Moorhead, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carl Anderson, section foreman at Hawley, was run down by a push engine at about 1 o'clock Sunday morning, while returning from Winnipeg Junction. Anderson was working a track velocipede and did not apparently hear the engine as it bore down upon. The velocipede was smashed to splinters and Anderson's right leg was caught by the wheels of the engine and ground off a little above the ankle, and the same leg was broken at the knee. He was picked up by the engine and brought to St. John's hospital.

HURT WHILE EXERCISING.

Cass Lake High School Boy Has Misfortune.

Roy Wilson, son of assistant Postmaster Wilson, broke his arm in falling off a wooden bar in the basement of the high school, on which the boys were playing. He was taken home and the injured member attended to by Doctors Davis and Desmond.. He is progressing favorably.

Another boy, D. Sliter, fell from the same bar upon the basement floor last week and was unconscious for some time. The floor is concrete. It is expected that some arrangements will be made for proper protection of the boys while at exercise in the basement.

HOME IS DESTROYED. FAMILY BARELY ESCAPES.

Bemidji, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of V. L. Ellis, 1019 Dewey avenue, with its contents was completely destroyed by fire at an early hour Tuesday morning, the occupants of the house barely escaping with their lives.

The fire is thought to have originated from the cook stove or chimney and had gained great headway in the kitchen before being discovered, after which the entire house of eight rooms was quickly wrapped in flames. Mr. Ellis awoke just in time to save the lives of his wife and two children.

ADA MAN NOMINATED

For Congressman in Ninth District by Socialists.

Crookston, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Socialist-Public Ownership party held its convention for the Ninth congressional district in this city yesterday afternoon, and T. T. Broton, an insurance agent and farmer of Ada, Norman county, received the unanimous nomination for congressman from this district, and will be the only man whose name will appear on its ballots at the primaries in September.

Twenty local Socialist organizations, all there are in this district, were represented, and the gathering was an enthusiastic one. The various locals pledged from $10 to $25 each for a campaign fund.

M. A. Olds of Fergus Falls was chairman, P. O. Christianson of Greenbush, secretary, and Judge Brattland, J. C. Young and O. E. Hoag on the committee on resolutions. They do not anticipate that a candidate will be put up by the Democrats, and they aver that they will make Congressman Halvor Steenerson do some rustling before the election is over.

RIFLE WAS NOT LOADED

Information of Insanity Filed Against Former Postmaster.

The fact that he neglected to slip a cartridge in the chamber of his repeating rifle, when he filled the magazine of the gun is said to have saved the life of E. L. Fisher, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Fisher, who was for several years postmaster of this city, is being examined in the probate court, this afternoon, on information of insanity, filed by friends. He has been in bad health for some time, and within the last few days is said to have been acting so strangely that his friends decided it best to place him in a hospital, where he would have the treatment afforded such cases.

When the officers approached Mr. Fisher's home, yesterday, he is said to have been sitting by the window with the rifle across his lap. As soon as he saw the officers he placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger, forgetting in his excited condition that there was no cartridge in the chamber. Before he had the opportunity to throw a cartridge into the gun from the magazine, the officers hastened in and prevented him from further attempts at self destruction. Fearing that he might, in his impaired condition of mind, make another attempt to injure himself, the family arranged for officers to watch Mr. Fisher all night and until his examination today.

It is understood that the first definite signs of Mr. Fisher's present condition were apparent a day or two ago when he took his gun and remained out all day in the woods back of the hill, "looking for A. P. A's." On his return home he insisted on sitting by the window to watch for the officers he believed were to come for him.

Mr. Fisher has a wide circle of friends who are shocked and grieved over his misfortune. For many years he has figured more or less prominently in local politics. Mr. Fisher was postmaster of the city of Duluth prior to the appointment of Guy A. Eaton, the present incumbent.

ENOUGH TO CURE WHOLE FAMILY OF INDIGESTION

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep a case of Diapepsin in the house handy.

This harmless blessing is prepared in the form of 22-grain Triangles, and are eaten like candy, but they will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and regulate a sour Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why they cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, and prevent at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of Sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe their's is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy the entire digestive tract and intestines and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin.

One Triangle taken after eating will promptly digest and prepare for assimilaation into the blood 3,000 grains of food, and is so absolutely harmless and pleasant that no one could realize they were taking such a blessing.

TWO-THIRDS OF STREET WORK WILL BE HELD UP

Summary of Improvements Considered for Coming Summer.

Less Than Third of the Work Will Go Through.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS FOR YEAR.

Will Probably Go Through:	Estimate.
Third street, between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues east	$13,196.00
Third street, between Twenty-third avenue east and Harrison street	14,413.00
Twentieth avenue east between Superior and Fourth streets.	20,500.00
Twelfth avenue east, between London road and Fourth street	11,972.00
Total	$60,081.00
May Be Held Up:
Fourth street, Mesaba avenue to Sixth avenue east	$58,953.00
Held Up:
Second street, between Seventh and Thirteenth avenues east	$30,455.00
Only Talked Of:
Third street, between Fifth avenue west and Eighteenth avenue east.
London road, from Ninth avenue east to Golf grounds.
Grand avenue, between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west.

From approximately $300,000, the value of the street improvement work to be done in Duluth during the coming season has dropped to but little over $100,000 and there is a prospect that this afternoon's hearing before the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks will send it down to about $60,000.

Though city officials and others working for the advancement of Duluth have called upon the people not to be disturbed by the financial flurry of last fall, which was severely felt in some quarters, it is showing its effect in the efforts to check municipal improvements. From all indications, it appears that the proposed work on Third street, London road, Grand avenue and Central avenue and Raleigh streets has been dropped altogether. Petitions were circulated, estimates were secured for all except London road, but the protests were so vigorous that the circulators of the petitions gave up in dismay and let the whole matter drop.

The Second street property holders were successful in their protest. They asked a year's delay that they might better prepare themselves financially to meet the assessments, and pointed out that hardship would result from the improvement at this time. The committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks succumbed.

The Fourth street property-holders, who are protesting, stand on the same ground, but the Fourth street protest is not as vigorous as was that from the Second street owners. Prominent Fourth street business men are anxious to see the improvement go through. They hold that there is no time like the present for street improvements, and efforts to hold back the city's progress are directed in the wrong channels. They will go before the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, this afternoon, state their case and urge the committee to go ahead with the work, regardless of any protests which may be filed.

The proposed improvement of Fourth street is the most expensive of the lot, the estimate being $58,953. It is proposed to remove all wires and poles from the street, have the street railway company lay a double track the entire length of the street, from Sixth avenue east to Mesaba avenue, pave the street with tar macadam and construct concrete sidewalks. The work would transform Fourth street into the finest thoroughfare on the hill, and some of the property owners are anxious to have the work done this year, as they hold it would be more expensive, if anything, next season.

There was some protest on the Twelfth avenue east work, also, but that has probably been overcome by the action on Second street, where some of the property owners will be relieved of the double expense of paving Second street and Twelfth avenue also. Then, the Twelfth avenue work was postponed last year, and the committee does not think another postponement advisable. The Third street people and the owners on Twentieth avenue west are in favor of going ahead with their work this year.

Though the prospective activity in street work will not materialize, the sewer construction will make up for it in a way. The petitions for new sewers are coming in daily. All are small jobs, but they will make a big system, taken collectively. The extension of the water system is responsible for the unusual activity, for just as soon as the water is piped into a district, the people are anxious to have sewers and begin to circulate petitions.

SAYS BLACK HAD BIG KNIFE

George Hicks Claims Kindness Was Returned by Threats.

"I took him in my house a bum, treated him right, gave him money to get his trunk and he came home drunk a week ago Sunday night, drew a knife and threatened to cut my throat," was the statement of George Hicks of 18 Sixth avenue west to Judge Windom this morning, when Sidney Black was arraigned on a charge of assault. Both men are colored.

Black indignantly pleaded not guilty to the assault charge and his case was set for this afternoon. Hicks claims he has witnesses to prove the charge. Why he held off for over a week before making complaint wasn't brought out this morning.

John Miller, a bartender at a saloon on Sixth avenue west, was arraigned this morning on a complaint made by John Larson. Larson claims that Miller assaulted him on Michigan street between Sixth and Seventh avenues west Monday. Miller entered a plea of not guilty and his case was set over until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Peter Peterson placed his fist forcibly against the mouth of another woodsman on West Superior street last night and was arrested by Officer Hunter. He pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge this morning and drew a sentence of $5 and costs or five days.

Officer Taewe butted into a fight last night about 7:30 and arrested John Riley. The other combatant, who, it is said, is a prizefighter, made good his escape. Riley pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge this morning and said that he was assaulted by the other man and was defending himself. Sentence was deferred until this afternoon to allow an investigation.

Jim Underwood, a drayman, who has been in court several times on drunk charges, was arrested again yesterday. He was arraigned yesterday afternoon on a charge of cruelty to animals, but the charge was dismissed and this morning, he pleaded guilty to drunkenness. A sentence of $5 and costs or ten days was imposed and a stay of two weeks granted.

"Give me a chance to get out, your honor, and I will go this morning," was Pat Landry's plea in a rich Irish brogue this morning, when he saw a term of five days staring him in the face. The judge was inclined to believe him and suspended sentence.

NUMEROUS CANDIDATES

Adjournment Taken to Evening, and District Meetings Held.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 25.—The Indiana Democratic convention today entered upon its two days' work of adopting a platform, naming a state ticket and selecting delegates to the national convention at Denver, who it is expected, will be instructed to vote for William J. Bryan for president.

The program as arranged beforehand included a brief session of the convention at 11 o'clock, district meetings this afternoon to select twenty-six delegates to the national convention and name convention committees and a night meeting at which all of the committees, except the resolutions committee, will report and the convention address to be delivered by Robert W. Miers of Bloomington, former congressman from the second district.

The session tomorrow will adopt a platform, name four delegates at-large to the national convention and nominate a state ticket from the twenty-seven candidates, of whom seven are aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination. It is expected Mr. Bryan will be endorsed and the delegates instructed to vote for him. The candidates for governor are Samuel M. Ralston of Lebanon, Carroll K. McCullough of Franklin, Thomas M. Kuhn of Richmond, C. G. Conn of Elkhart, and William O'Keefe of Plymouth. For lieutenant-governor the candidates are Frank E. Hering of South Bend, William P. O'Neill of Mishawaka and Frank J. Hall of Rushville. James E. Cox of Columbus, is the only candidate for secretary of state. Marion Bailey of Lizton, has no opposition for auditor of state as yet and John Isenbarger of North Manchester has no one in the field against him for state treasurer. The three candidates for attorney general are Walter T. Loiz of Muncie, Milton B. Hootfel of Salem and Richard M. Milburn of Jasper. Other offices to nominate for are reporter of the supreme court, judges of the supreme and appellate courts, state statisticians and superintendent of public instruction.

Big Crowd in Attendance.

The convention has brought to the city the largest crowd of Democrats that has gathered here since 1892. The hotels are filled. Leaders of the party express more confidence of success than has been heard from them in recent years.

On account of the election of a member of the national committee by the national delegates at Denver, much interest is being taken in their selection today by the district meetings of state delegates. National Chairman Thomas Taggart, the present national committeeman from this state, is a candidate to succeed himself. The names most prominently mentioned from which the four delegates-at-large will be chosen are Benjamin F. Shively of South Bend; Mayor Fogarty of that city; J. Kirby Risk of La Fayette; John W. Kern and Henry Warrum of this city; Mayor Boehne of Evansville; G. V. Menzies of Mount Vernon; Adam Heimberger of New Albany; John E. Lamb of Terre Haute, and Stokes Jackson of Greenfield, chairman of the state committee.

In the primaries yesterday evening in Indianapolis and Marion county, National Chairman Taggart's friends won a decisive victory, carrying almost every ward and township in the city and county and selecting their delegates to the state convention.

Leading the opposition to Mr. Taggart was County Chairman Fogarty. Today Mr. Fogarty issued credentials to delegates representing 51½ votes favorable to Mr. Taggart and his following, and 69½ votes unfavorable to the Taggart faction, but which Mr. Taggart will contest before the credential committee. There are 115 votes in the county. Disorder at the primaries last night caused much confusion in the returns.

The first session of the convention was called to order by Chairman Jackson of the state committee. After the program for the afternoon district meetings was read the convention adjourned until 7:30 this evening.

THE MARKET CLOSES OFF

Duluth Board of Trade, March 25.—Minneapolis bulls, who were largely responsible for the bulge in yesterday's market, were active at the opening again today and they rushed prices upwards on the light receipts in the Northwest, higher cables and what other bullish news there was around, but after they got the wheat up, they found nobody very anxious to buy it, so the market fell and closed weak. A . of the American markets showed fractional losses, Minneapolis evincing the slightest weakness.

There was no particular news during the day. After the brisness during the early part of the session, the market became rather quiet, with the demand slack.

Liverpool closed 5/6@5d higher, Berlin ¾c up and Antwerp 5c higher. It was a holiday in Budapest.

The May option closed ¾c lower in Duluth, Chicago, New York and Winnipeg and ¼-⅜c lower in Minneapolis. The July option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth and Winnipeg, ⅜-⅝c lower in Chicago, ⅛c off in Minneapolis and ½-⅝c lower in New York.

May corn closed ½c lower in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"As a result of the firmness in America and reports of dry weather in Kansas yesterday shorts here were active and covered freely which resulted in a firm tone at the opening and an advance of ½d, followed by additional gain of ½d to ⅝d during the morning, with offerings extremely light. Toward mid-day, however, there was some recession in profit taking by small traders and at this time the market was easier, but still 5d to ⅝d higher than Tuesday.

"Corn was firm at the start and ½d higher, being influenced by the firmness in American markets yesterday. During the morning the markets was extremely dull and neglected, holding the early advance."

Car receipts of wheat were 31 against 78 last year, and at Minneapolis 146 against 245 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 176 against 323 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 176 against 325 last year. Chicago received 29 against 12 last year. Winnipeg received 126 against 145 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 423,000 bus, last year 380,000 bus. Shipments 286,000 bus, last year 140,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 198,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 626,000 bus, last year 884,000 bus. Shipments 394,000 bus, last year 425,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 249,000 bus.

May wheat opened 1c higher at $1.05, declined to $1.04⅝, rallied to $1.04⅞, declined to $1.03½ and closed at $1.03¾, a loss of 5c from yesterday. July wheat opened late at $1.04¾, advanced to $1.06⅛, declined to $1.04 and closed at $1.04, a loss of 3c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 1c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Steady Cables and Small Receipts Give Wheat a Firm Tone.

Chicago, March 25.—Firm Liverpool cables and small receipts in the Northwest gave the early wheat market a firm tone today, although trading was light. Commission houses and local shorts took offerings freely. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 95⅛@95¼c and sold up to 95½c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 225 cars against 397 cars last week and 324 cars a year ago.

The corn market was quiet, but firm. Cables were higher and local receipts were light. Shorts covered early. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 67⅜@67½c and sold at 67½@67⅝c. Local receipts were 150 cars with four of contract grade.

The wheat market continued strong until the last half hour of the session, when prices slumped more than 1c on heavy selling by some of the large commission houses. From 95¾c May declined to 94⅜c. The close was weak with May off ⅜c at 94⅝c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Light Receipts and Strong Cables Send Wheat Quickly Upward.

Minneapolis, March 25.—Wheat ran up quickly to $1.07½ for May in the early market. The May-July spread widened to 3c. Light receipts, only 163 cars here against 244 and 31 against 78 in Duluth, started it. Cables were strong and higher and the winter wheat states sent many bad reports, naming dry weather, chinch bugs, green bugs and Hessian fly. There was a scramble for wheat when it was seen that only 19 cars of the day's receipts contained No. 1 northern and 8 cars were winter wheat. The local elevator stocks stood unchanged at the increase of 175,000 bushels noted yesterday. Later the market had a heavy reaction, May selling down to $1.05⅝. May opened at $1.07, high $1.07½, low $1.05¾, close $1.06⅜@1¼. July closed $1.05⅝, September closed 33c. Cash wheat was firmer. No. 1 northern sold 2½c over May and 3c over for a choice lot. No. 2 sold ½c over May and 1c over for choice. Elevators were good buyers. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.08 spot, $1.07½ to arrive; No. 2 northern $1.06 spot, $1.05½ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 96c@$1.03.

Barley was stimulated by the presence of maltsters from Milwaukee, Chicago, Buffalo, Hamilton, Ohio and Kenosha, and was 2c to 3c higher. Closing range, 80@83c.

Flax in better demand at Duluth May price. Close, $1.16⅝. Bran in bulk, $21.50@22. Flour prices were advonced 10c on all grades, in line with wheat, but both large and small millers reported a check to demand and sales about even with the daily outward movement, which is lighter. Shipments, 48,001 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.35@5.50; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.40@3.50.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to M. W. Lee & Co.: Local manufacturers still sell no copper. They believe in high prices for the future, and that is having some effect on the market. There is little general interest. It is generally reported that the copper property that Lawson is starting to campaign is the Consolidated Copper company, or one that will take the place of that concern. It will consist of Utah Copper, Boston Consolidated, Nevada Consolidated and Cumberland-Ely. These will be the main squeezes, but there will also be a number of other smaller Ely properties which there has been little success making a market for. The total capitalization will be $60,000,000, and there will be $12,000,000 shares par $25.

The Cotton Market.

New York, March 25.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 3 points, near months being higher on better cables than due, while late points were easier under realizing and better weather over the belt. The whole list weakened after the opening under liquidation by recent buyers who were disappointed by the response of the market to the cables and new low records were made before the end of the first hour, with May selling at 9.44 or 11 points net lower. Later positions were 8 to 10 points lower.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 10.50; middling gulf, 10.75. No sales. Futures closed very steady. Closing bids: March, 9.50; April, 9.53; May, 9.57; June, 9.59; July, 9.60; August, 9.55; October, 9.46; December, 9.48.

RECOVERY OF STOCKS

Market Closed Active and Strong at the Highest Level.

New York, March 25.—Trading was brisk at the opening of the stock market and the movement of prices was very irregular. High priced stocks generally yielded a small fraction from last night's level, while the gains were found as a rule amongst the low-priced issues. Western Union advanced 1½, General Electric 1⅝, Norfolk & Western 1¼ and Missouri Pacific and Southern Railway large fractions. American Locomotive declined 1¼ and Union Pacific and Reading ¾.

Less inclination to unload the standard railroad stocks was shown for a while and there was an irregular rally which was checked before prices had fully recovered. Pennsylvania yielded a point rather abruptly and the Western stocks were all being sold freely at 11 o'clock. Over night losses were shown of a point in St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Reading and National Lead. A continued demand for various specialties benefitted General Electric 2⅜, Corn Products preferred 2, American Smelting preferred 1½ and Cleveland C. C. & St. Louis, United States Rubber first preferred and American Malting preferred 1.

The decline ran to 1½ in Canadian Pacific and a point on Delaware & Hudson, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, Anaconda, American Car, Republic Steel preferred, Sloss-Sheffield Steel and National Biscuit. A slow impartial recovery ensued. Westinghouse Electric gained 3. Bonds were steady.

The failure of the leading stocks to improve much when various specialities were bid up strongly, caused the rook traders to sell the active list anew. Brooklyn Union Gas hardened 7 points, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha 2⅝, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie 1½. Wisconsin Central preferred lost 2½.

The heaviness of the market did not interfere with the advance in several specialities in which the customary fluctuations are unusually wide. Consolidated Gas and Westinghouse Electric were quoted 6½ higher and the first preferred 7. Pressed Steel Car preferred also moved up 1 and Atlantic Coast Line 1¼. The railroad list averaged about the lowest of the day. Baltimore & Ohio gave way a point.

The market closed active and strong and at the highest level of the day. There was a substantial recovery in the final hour which was facilitated by the relief afforded by the profit taking already affected. Prices generally were restored to last night's level or above.

OLD MAN IS RUN DOWN

Victor Olson, aged 64 years, was brought from Proctor this morning by a Duluth, Missabe & Northern passenger train at 10 o'clock and taken to St. Mary's hospital, where he lies unconscious, with a fractured jaw-bone. He was run down by the same train that brought him to Duluth. The train was moving slowly, near the Proctor station, according to the report of the accident, and the old man endeavored to cross the track. He was knocked to one side, and when picked up was unconscious.

The old man is said to have been deaf, and it is presumed he did not hear the train approaching when he stepped on the track. Fortunately the train was moving slowly. At the hospital, this afternoon, it was stated that, should he recover from the shock he will probably recover entirely. On account of his age, his condition is serious.

The old man lives at Proctor with his married daughter. He also has a son there.

My own wires to Copper Country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

MARCH 25, 1908.

Ballakiava is now listed in Boston. Soon the 700-foot level will be reached; only 24 feet from there now. Drifts will be run on each side of shaft on the 600 and 700-foot levels, and the big vein will be cut and rich ore will then begin going to the smelters at a steady rate. Stock is strong at $8.25 bid.

Butte & Superior is a whale of a property, and will make one of the biggest mines in Butte. The insiders did get some stock cheap in the first place, but we are now figuring the value of the mine and also have to figure that many people paid $4.00 a share for the stock, and this money went to the company, and into its treasury. The fellow that buys Butte & Superior at this level, is certainly getting the best of it, taking the thing as a whole. Improvements are one year in advance now, and the mine is managed fair and square. You will find later on that Butte & Superior will be one of the very biggest producers in the Butte camp, and don't you for a minute think that Mr. A. B. Wolvin and associates will let anything be undone to make it the big producer of copper and silver ore that it is sure to be. Buy Butte & Superior at this level, for it is a cinch.

Shattuck is also one of the big comers of the Bisbee district. Does anyone question this stock would be cheap at $25.00 a share.

Butte-Ballakiava will sell higher than Shattuck, for it is as big a mine, and its ores will be richer, and it is on Butte Hill, where mines are worth millions, and can pay dividends when many of the others stand still.

My connections with Miller & Co. of Boston and New York, and our wire through the Copper Country give us a market for your stocks that you can not beat. Give us your business. Any information regarding any mine will be given for the asking.

DEMOCRATS OF INDIANA INDORSE W. J. BRYAN AND ADOPT STRONG PLATFORM

Demand Favoritism in Deposit of Treasury Funds be Abolished.

Favor Appropriations for Development of Interior Waterways.

Republican Party Blamed for the Financial Stringency.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—The second day's session of the Indiana Democratic convention opened today with its work well defined. A platform was to be adopted and a state ticket nominated. The committee on resolutions was in session nearly all night on the platform, and the committee on credentials spent the night laboring with the contests between the Taggart and anti-Taggart following in the Seventh district. The credentials committee decided the four Seventh district contests in favor of the Taggart delegates, who were seated when the report of the committee was adopted at the opening of the convention.

The Platform.

The platform as read included the following planks:

"For nearly twelve years the Republican party has been in absolute control of all the departments of national government, with power to change unjust conditions and to rectify evils. Yet during that time colossal combinations of capital have dominated the people, and illegal perversions of corporate laws have stifled competition and unfairly limited the opportunity of the individual citizen. Wealth, thereby illegally obtained, has been unsparingly used to control legislation and corrupt the elections. No honest effort has been made, or is being made, by Republican legislation to cure or eradicate these evils. We denounce the hypocrisy of the Republican party which, while pretending to legislate against these conditions, deals only with the symptoms and not with the disease.

"The unfair features of the so-called protective tariff have made these things possible, and no permanent relief can be secured until the obnoxious features are removed. We therefore demand the tariff be immediately revised and that the tariff shall be for revenue only. Articles entering into competition with articles controlled by trusts should be placed upon the free list. Material reductions should be made in such other schedules as may be necessary to restore the tariff to a revenue basis.

Change Demanded.

"The growth of the trusts and other inordinate and dangerous combinations of capital, the tremendous and rapidly increasing absorption and centralization of the wealth of the country in the hands of a chosen few, all due to premeditated and systematic legislation in behalf of special interests by

EXPRESS CHARGES

On Silver Dollars Must be Paid by the Purchaser.

Washington, March 26.—Secretary Cortelyou has issued a general circular announcing that the amount appropriated by congress for the transportation of silver coin for the year 1908 having become exhausted, "no more standard silver dollars will be sent to applicants free of charge for transportation from the offices of the treasurer, or the several assistant treasuries, of the United States."

The policy of shipping to banks silver coin, free of express charges, was adopted about twenty-five years ago, when it was deemed desirable to stimulate the general circulation of silver, and this policy has been continued to the present time, with one exception.

Kansas City National Bank of Commerce to Reopen Monday.

Kansas City, March 26.—All of the requirements laid down by the comptroller of the currency as to the reopening of the National Bank of Commerce of this city were complied with when Receiver G. T. Cutts received $2,870,000 in cash from a syndicate, which took over all the slow paper of the bank, and all the assets termed "bad" by the government officials. The bank will open next Monday with 47 per cent of its deposits in its vaults, and with Comptroller Ridgley as the president.

Covington, Ky., March 26.—The leaf tobacco warehouse of T. S. Hamilton & Co., at Fourth and Bantekewell streets, was destroyed by fire early today, entailing a loss estimated at $150,000. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin. Five residences and a saloon were also destroyed.

FIRE AT WINCHESTER, KY.

Winchester, Ky., March 26.—Fire, which started here early today, caused a loss estimated at $150,000. One business block was destroyed and other buildings were threatened. An appeal for aid was made to Richmond, Ky., and fire apparatus was sent from that city.

STUDENTS MAKE ORDERLY ESCAPE

Minneapolis, March. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out last evening in the building at the corner of Second avenue and Third street, Minneapolis, occupied by Caton's Business College and other tenants.

There were in the building at the time some fifty of the pupils of the school and these made an orderly escape, responding promptly to the fire drill, taught them by the head of the school, with the exception of seven, who were taken out by members of the fire department. Mr. Caton was the last man to leave, and when he found his escape shut off by way of the stairs, he made use of the fire escape.

The fire started on the second floor occupied by printing and publishing companies. The work of the fire department was effective, and the loss will be about $3,000.

KOREAN IS DELIGHTED

To Hear That His Bullet for Stevens Proved Fatal.

Political Adviser Succumbs to Wounds of an Assassin.

San Francisco, March 26.—Durham White Stevens, the diplomat, who was shot down by the Korean, In Whan Chang, on Monday morning, died last night at St. Francis hospital, after an operation which disclosed a more serious condition of his wounds than had been apprehended by the surgeons.

At his bedside when he died, beside the doctors, was the Japanese consul general, Chozo Koike.

"This is most unfortunate. This is is a great loss to Japan, Korea and to this country," were the words of Koike as he left the death chamber, and Dr. Zumwalt, who had attended him, added his appreciation of Stevens' character by saying:

"He had been calm, cool and cheerful from the first, and entirely uncomplaining. I have never met a braver man."

Until yesterday morning every hope had been entertained for Stevens' recovery, but at 10 o'clock symptoms of inflammation of the peritoneum appeared and the surgeons realized that his condition had become critical.

At 6 o'clock Stevens was taken to the operating room and placed under an anaesthetic. On opening the abdominal cavity the surgeons discovered that the intestines had been perforated in six different places by one of the shots fired by Chang, and that

A BRAVE MAN GETS REWARD

Saved a Life in 1873 and Will Now Receive $375,000.

Chicago, March 26.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Tacoma, Wash., says: To have saved the life of a fellow emigrant in a wreck in 1873 and thirty-five years later to have read in a newspaper plastered upon the wall of a homestead shack an advertisement which led to his becoming the recipient of a fortune of $375,000, is the experience of Peter Anderson, a farm hand, who resides near White Bluffs, Wash. Anderson yesterday received a check for $5,000 to enable him to proceed to New York to carry out the final legal formalities necessary in the transfer of the fortune. His friend was Peter Knudsen, who made $1,000,000 in the glove business in New Jersey.

But It Should Not Benefit Any Illegal Combination.

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—The Republican convention, which is to send four delegates and alternates-at-large to the Chicago convention, was called to order today by Roy O. West, chairman of the state central committee. George Buckingham of Danville was made temporary and permanent chairman.

The convention was solidly for Joseph G. Cannon for president, and indorsed his candidacy in as strong terms as language permitted. It also upheld the administration of Governor Deneen and commended his conduct of public affairs. All other state officers of his party were indorsed, as were United States Senators Cullom and Hopkins. The administration of

WOMAN FEEDS BABY WITH LAUNDRY SOAP

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Emily Tricedahl of Camden Place, Minneapolis, yesterday afternoon fed her 2-year-old baby a quantity of shaved laundry soap, and it took a physician several hours to save the infant's life. Mrs. Tricedahl had the delusion that a "higher" power had instructed her to "cleanse" the baby.

Neighbors heard the child's screams, and, hurrying to the shack, they found the mother holding her baby and forcing the soap down its throat. "I had to do it," she explained. "I had a vision from on high, and it said that Annie was impure, and that I must wash her spots away."

Mrs. Tricedahl is a widow, and has kept soul and body together by doing family washings. She did not resist when the baby was taken from her and promised not to follow any more visions. Relatives in St. Paul promised to look after her.

Leland House at Springfield, Ill., Destroyed by Flames.

So Far as Known There Were No Lives Lost in Fire.

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—Fire today practically destroyed the Leland hotel, one of the best known hotels in the country. The flames originated from some unknown cause in the upper portion of the northwest corner of the building and, driven by a heavy wind, spread throughout the top story and burned through the roof.

The Republican state convention was in session at the Armory, several blocks distant, and all of the delegates were there. The most of them, however, lost all their baggage.

So far as known no lives were lost. All of the attendants were able to make their escape.

Some few of the delegates were able to run to the hotel in time to save their belongings, but they were few.

It was evident within a few minutes after the flames were discovered that the building was doomed, and that very little, if anything, could be saved. The flames burst out of the north side of the building, against the office of the Springfield Journal, and for a time it was thought that it too would be destroyed.

No Hope of Saving Building.

By 12:15 practically all hope of saving the building was gone. The flames were shooting trough the roof twenty feet in the air, bursting through the windows in the fifth and fourth floors, and the high wind made it almost impossible to keep a stream upon the fire. When the water did reach the flames it was mostly in the shape of spray, which had no practical effect.

Many of the guests acted like madmen, being determined to save their valises at the expense of their lives. They fought with the policemen at the doors who tried to keep them from entering the building, and while an officer was wrangling and struggling with them half a dozen others would slip past and dash into the flooded lobby, and up the stairs in the effort to reach their rooms and save their handbags.

The attendants of the hotel struggled frantically with furniture and sample trunks, saving some of the latter and little of the former.

The hotel, which stood at Sixth street and Capital avenue, was five stories high, was old and almost entirely of wood construction.

CONTINUE TO SPECULATE

As to Reason for the Turning Down of Dr. Hill.

Letter on Way From Ambassador Tower Will Explain Things.

Washington, March 26.—Just why, in these days of frequent cable communication, it should be necessary for the state department to wait a week or ten days upon the arrival of a letter to learn the exact nature of the representations made to this government by Germany in connection with the selection of Dr. David Jayne Hill as American ambassador at Berlin is not clear, yet, according to the official statement, such is the case. The fact is, that as far as official records go, the state department is not even yet possessed of the information that Dr. Hill's selection was not acceptable to the German emperor. It does know, however, that Ambassador Tower, whom Dr. Hill was to succeed, has dispatched a letter from Berlin to the state department in relation to this matter, and if public interest in the subject continues to increase as it has within the past twenty-four hours, the officials here may decide to call upon Mr. Tower to anticipate his letter by cabling the substance of it in the department's cipher.

Resort to Diplomacy.

In view of the absolute lack of official information as to the effect that the emperor has finally refused to receive Dr. Hill, it is now suggested that instead of proceeding at once to this extreme point, the German foreign office people have resorted to the more delicate and diplomatic method of accomplishing their purpose of preventing Dr. Hill from coming to Berlin in the capacity of ambassador by allowing Mr. Tower to become acquainted with the fact that there are objections to the new appointee, and then it would be politic therefore not to press the ap-

ESCAPES FROM THE PRESIDIO

San Francisco, March 26.—The Call today says: The obscurity enshrouding the career of Max Jagerhuber, Jr., the alleged scion of a millionaire New York manufacturer, relative of a United States supreme justice, a United States senator and a New York judge, who was jailed on the eve of San Francisco's earthquake for passing a fraudulent check at the St. Francis hotel, has been uncovered, and he is again thrust into the light of notoriety by the efforts of the United States army officials at the Presidio to apprehend him for desertion while awaiting sentence for court-martial. Jagerhuber, who had been serving in the army for nearly two years before being placed under arrest for alleged desertion under the alias of Charles Lacey, escaped from the Presidio Tuesday and was accompanied, it is said, by a sergeant.

Jagerhuber is 22 years of age. He is the son, according to his statement to the police, of Max Jagerhuber of 172 Fifth avenue, New York, who is reputed to be worth $20,000,000. He also, it is said, claimed relationship with United States Supreme Justice Fuller Judge O'Gorman of New York and a United States senator.

PRICES OF MEAT ARE ADVANCING

New York, March 26.—Retail prices of meats of all grades have increased 2 cents a pound within the last week, and before another week has gone by it is likely that prices will go from 3 to 5 cents a pound higher, as a result of a strange combination of circumstances which has affected the cattle raising industry of this country. In fact local packers say that if conditions become much worse it will be necessary for the big packers of this country to import sheep and cattle from the Argentine Republic, England and Australia.

Persons visiting the butcher's shops in the last week for their customary supply of meat, no matter what its quality, have found that from 3 to 5 cents a pound has been added to the price they paid for beef a week ago. When they turned to lamb and mutton as a substitute, they found that the price had increased 2 cents a pound, and upon asking for the price of pork, they found that the heavy demand had increased that product from 1 to 2 cents a pound for sausage to loin roast and chops. When asked for an explanation the only thing that could be said by the retailers was, that the wholesale price had been increased from $2 to $2.50 a hundred pounds, and that the loss to the dealers in bone and fat was so much greater in proportion that they felt compelled to make the increase larger than that made by the wholesaler, whose sales in bulk did not call for such a proportionate loss.

Chicago, March 26.—The retail prices of meats in Chicago have been increased from 1 to 5 cents a pound within the last two days. Prices quoted in a majority of the butcher shops included the following:

Porterhouse steaks, 27 cents, an increase of 5 cents in two weeks; pork chops, 12 cents, an increase of 4 cents in two weeks; mutton, 13 cents, which is an increase of 3 cents a pound.

The wholesalers blame the packers for the raise in prices. The increase to the retailers ranged from ½ cent to 3 cents.

MONEY GOES TO ST. PAUL

Home Bowlers Gather Most of Prizes for Five-Men Teams.

Double and Single Events Have Not Yet Been Completed.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The five-men team event was finished in the state bowling tournament on the Pfeister alleys. No records were broken last night, but the Pfeisters rolled inside the money, getting fourteenth place for a prize of $10 with a total of 2,815. The Anheuser-Busch Budweisers of St. Paul take first place with a total of 2,780, the record they established Tuesday evening. This position is good for a prize of $75.

The first four teams are from St. Paul and of the twenty-five-men teams that get a slice of the money sixteen are from St. Paul, two from Minneapolis, one from Stillwater and one from Duluth. Following are the high scores to date:

MANY TICKETS SOLD.

Kansas City, March 26.—Twelve hundred tickets, 1,000 of which have been sold out of town, have already been disposed of for the Young Men's Democratic club banquet, which is to be held here in Convention hall on Monday night next. William J. Bryan and Judson Harmon of Cincinnati will be the guests of honor. Many other prominent Democrats will be present.

ONLY FIVE MEN NEEDED

St. Croix Avenue Work Will Not be Taken Up Yet.

Another crowd of men appeared at Thirteenth avenue west this morning looking for jobs on the stone crusher, which was put in operation. Only five men were added to the force of seventeen, which had been at work there for about a week, and a large number were disappointed.

No attempt is yet being made to get out rock for the re-enforcement of the shore line on St. Croix avenue. The rock being crushed now is for street improvements only and the crusher will be kept steadily at work for some weeks. It was not necessary to begin operations now, as there is a large stock-pile on hand, but the board of public works will need more rock before the season is over and the early start is made that employment may be given a few men, at least.

The cutting off of the point of rocks at Fourteenth avenue west to secure stone for the St. Croix avenue work, will not be begun until the frost leaves the ground. Considerable stripping of the accumulation of earth on the rocks is necessary before the work can be carried on and that is frozen solid. Before the frost leaves it, the getting out of rock would be too expensive an undertaking and it will not be attempted.

No agreement has yet been made with the street railway company, for the use of its cars for transporting rock to St. Croix avenue, but the members of the board expect to arrange that without trouble. It will be necessary to put in two temporary spur tracks, one at Fourteenth avenue west and the other on Morse street, from the Lake avenue line to St. Croix avenue. Once the earth becomes soft under the rays of the sun, work will be begun, and a large crew will be kept at work until it is completed.

CLUB BUYS TWO "WAR CANOES"

Novel Race Will be Held in Harbor This Summer.

Two "war canoes" will be familiar sights on the harbor this summer.

This afternoon the Duluth Boat club placed an order for two of the canoes, and they will be received by the time the club opens for the summer.

The canoes will seat sixteen people, and are paddled in the same manner as an ordinary canoe. A high rate of speed can be attained, and they are said to travel faster than the average gasoline launch. In the Eastern cities races between war canoes are the most popular features of summer regattas, and the boat club will hold several such races during the summer.

They will also be ideal craft for picnics up the river.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Omaha, March 26.—Mother Mary of Mount Carmel, mother superior of Good Shepherd convent, died last night of consumption. Her name was Mary Lucile Powers before entering the order. She was born in Memphis in 1851 and has been active in the work of the Good Shepherd order in St. Louis, Montreal and Michigan. She raised $90,000 for the Good Shepherd home in Omaha.

Washington, March 26.—John Hitz, philanthropist, educator, scientist and superintendent of the Volta bureau, founded here by Prof. Alex M. Bell for the diffusion of knowledge regarding the deaf, was stricken with heart disease at the union station yesterday and died while being removed to a hospital. He was 75 years old and was a native of Switzerland.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 26.—Dana R. Bailey, for years county judge of Minnehaha county, died suddenly yesterday of inflammatory rheumatism. He was born in Vermont in 1833 and came to Sioux Falls in 1882. He was once a member of the Wisconsin state senate. A wife and four children survive him.

ROBERG RETURNS TO THE FORCE

Officer Reappointed After Being Discharged for Drunkenness.

John Roberg, discharged from the police force early in February for drunkenness, reported for duty again last night, and it is said he has been reappointed to the force by Mayor Haven.

One of the members of the police force today called attention to rule 23 of the civil service rules, which provides "No one discharged from the service for misconduct shall be admitted to examination or appointment in any capacity in any department of the service within two years of such date of dismissal." Another rule provides that nobody over 35 years of age shall be eligible to examination or appointment to the police force. It is said that Roberg's reappointment is in violation of these two rules.

JAIL FOR GAMBLERS

People Who Claim They Are Fleeced Will Not Prosecute.

"There is no violation of the law, for the prosecution of which it is so hard to secure evidence, as gambling, especially when the people, who claim they are swindled in those places, refuse to appear against them," said Mayor Haven today, in discussing the question of gambling in Duluth.

The mayor is considerably concerned over reports that have reached him indirectly that men have lost large sums of money in certain "whist clubs" and other such institutions operating in Duluth. He says that the story that one man lost $1,500 in one place, published in The Herald Tuesday, may be without foundation, as far as he knows. He says the father of the man in question, who came from Minneapolis, called on him and said that gambling was operating in Duluth, naming one place in particular. He did not intimate that anybody connected with him had lost money, nor would he consent to give any information he might have for the prosecution of the proprietor of the place.

"People have made complaint to the chief of police that they have lost money and asked that he secure its return, but they refused to assist in prosecution," said the mayor. "I will not countenance any attempt to collect money for these people. I will not recognize any gambling place, and I assure you that if anybody, who claims they have been swindled, will bring the necessary evidence, and assist in prosecution, I will do all in my power to secure a straight jail sentence for the gamblers, instead of the usual fine.

"A man told me a few days ago that there is a gambler in the city who is known all through the Western states as a sharper. He refused to give his name or description. We are not supposed to know every professional gambler on the coast, and private citizens can get evidence against such men much more easily than can known police officers. If they would furnish the evidence, the police department and the courts would do the rest."

The mayor claims that as far as he knows, the so-called "whist clubs" are not fostering gambling in any form, much less professional gamblers. The mayor and the police officers are doing everything in their power to locate any violations of the law in that respect, and gamblers will be shown no leniency.

JURY STILL OUT.

Kansas City, Mo., March 26.—Up to early this afternoon, the jury in the case of Gen. Richard C. Horne, charged with the murder of H. J. Groves, managing editor of the Kansas City Post, had not reported a verdict. There was no intimation from the jury room as to how the jurors stood.

RHODE ISLAND REPUBLICANS

Providence, R. I., March 26.—The first Republican state convention in the Eastern part of the United States to elect delegates to the national convention at Chicago, met here today. The delegates-at-large, who were not instructed on the matter of a presidential candidate, were chosen as follows: Andrew J. Currier, Cumberland; Alexander C. Crumb, Westerly; Ezra Dixon, Bristol, and John Fletcher, Providence.

After the election of alternates-at-large, the platform was presented and adopted. It indorses the able administration of President Roosevelt and its attitude in enforcing the laws of the land; says that states which virtually disfranchise the colored citizens should be made to suffer a reduction in representation in congress and in the electoral college; declares for protection as the cardinal principle of the Republican party and indorses the declaration of the Ohio platform of this year in behalf of the revision of the tariff by a special session of the next congress.

Before the election of delegates-at-large, Judge Palmer of Cranston called upon the convention to instruct the delegates to appoint to the national committee some person other than Gen. Charles R. Brayton. The convention voted, however, not to give the delegates instructions in the matter of any candidate.

A little discontent may be the harbinger of content itself. If your discontent makes you hustle—and advertise while you hustle—this will prove to be true in your case.

TO ST. PAUL ON A SPECIAL TRAIN

Duluth Knights Templar Will Attend the State Meeting.

One hundred or more Knights Templar from Duluth will attend the meeting of the grand commandery of the state, to be held in St. Paul on April 29. A delegation of 100 is already assured, and the number may be increased to 150.

A special train will be used both ways. It will be made up of Pullman sleepers, and probably will run over the Omaha road. The special will leave Duluth on the evening of April 28, and will return the following night, arriving in Duluth the morning of April 30, so members taking advantage of the special privileges will be away from their business only one day.

The meeting will be an important one, and will be attended by a large delegation from every Knights Templar lodge in the state.

TRADES IN BREAD LINE

Many Are Represented at the Bethel's Free Breakfasts.

The Gift Will Feed the Men for Nearly a Month.

Almost all the skilled trades are represented in the Bethel's now famous "bread line," and it is estimated that out of the 180 men who enjoyed the free breakfast this morning, fully half enjoy a knowledge of some trade, at which, in good times, there is plenty of work available.

One morning the Bethel authorities took an inventory of the "bread line," with the idea of determining how many of the men were laborers skilled in some trade, and what percentage of them were common laborers, who worked at any task where a good strong back and a good pair of shoulders and arms were necessary.

The result was that about half of them proclaimed themselves as skilled laborers. Among them were plumbers, boilermakers, painters, carpenters, cooks, bakers and many other craftsmen.

The $100 which The Herald received yesterday from an unknown sympathizer of the bread-liners in New York is now in the Bethel's strong box, and will be used to pay for the coffee and sandwiches which are served at 6:30 every morning.

At the Bethel they have figured that $100 will pay for 15-cent free breakfasts for a period of about twenty-five days. Thus, the New York man who sent the crisp new bill has provided a free meal for the bread-line for more than three weeks.

VON BUELOW IS AGAINST UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

Berlin, March 26.—Speaking in the reichstag today, Chancellor Von Buelow gave a further negative reply to the proposal for the introduction of secret and universal suffrage for the election of members to the Prussian and other diets. Such a course, he declared, would mean that one of the states belonging to the federation would obtain overwhelming influence in the decisions of the federal council, and he asserted that he and many members of the reichstag, who were not fetish worshippers, were against universal suffrage.

BRYAN MEN IN THE MAJORITY IN IOWA.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 26.—The Democratic state convention for the purpose of selecting delegates to the national convention convened here today. Claude R. Porter was selected as temporary chairman, and called the convention to order. The caucuses held at 9 o'clock developed some spirited contests, but the Bryan men were clearly in the majority. The fight against Charles Miller, led by George F. Rinehart of Des Moines, resulted in changing the meeting place of the next state convention from Sioux City to Des Moines.

GOVERNOR GUILD BETER.

Boston, March 26.—Governor Guild, in spite of a rather restless night, has shown some improvement in the last twenty-four hours.

LAWSON'S FATAL ENTHUSIASM.

Frank Fayant, in Success magazine: No unprejudiced reader of Lawson's life-story can deny that the man has an extraordinary brilliant mind. The writer, in doing his journalistic day's work, has had to brush elbows with many brilliant men—the men whose stature places them conspicuously above their fellows—statesmen, scholars, scientists, physicians, explorers, judges, railroad-builders, empire builders—and Lawson ranks as one of the brilliant men of his times. Because he is brilliant he is not necessarily great, for many brilliant men are lacking in that solid substratum of mind without which there can be no greatness. The story that has been told here of Lawson's life is a story of a brilliant man without the solid mental substratum.

With his brilliancy go hand in hand his energy and enthusiasm. His energy is amazing. Not one man in a thousand can keep pace with him. He has a multiple-cylinder, high-speed mind. His enthusiasm is equally amazing. To form a clear conception of the man, his enthusiasm must always be taken account of. He is enthusiastic over everything that occupies his mind—whether it be a design for a door-knocker at Dreamwold or a remedy for a world-wide panic; and he is enthusiastic over himself—his career; his work, his mental power, his plan of revolutionizing the social order. All great reformers have been enthusiasts—for without enthusiasm there can be no reform. The border line between enthusiasm and insanity is often vaguely defined. Lawson's enthusiasm over his Remedy is so amazing that the writer, after one long talk with him, on one of the worst days of the bank panic, was compelled to ask himself: "Has Lawson's enthusiasm—his unbounded belief in himself and his plans—crossed the border line?"

Some of Lawson's most spectacular failures—failures that have raised the cry of "charlatan" and "faker"—have been due to his ungoverned enthusiasm. His "Ten-Million-Dollar Copper Pool" was a typical Lawson enthusiasm fiasco. Notwithstanding the inward warnings of his common sense, he allowed his enthusiasm to lead him to the conviction that a Scotch chemist would revolutionize the copper industry by putting the metal on the market for two cents a pound, and he boldly proclaimed to all the world for months that cheap copper was "not a surmise, but a statement of fact." When the Amalgamated Copper company was floated, despite the fact that he knew absolutely that his fellow promoters were playing the game for the last dollar of the public's money, he enthused himself into believing and publicly asserting that there would be an over-night profit for the public of upwards of $35,000,000, and his enthusiasm was so unbounded that he himself fell a victim in the crash that followed. In the Grand Rivers fiasco, although he knew nothing about the iron industry, he made the wildest kind of enthusiastic predictions as to the wonderful future of mines which later proved to be worthless.

LARCHMONT LUCK.

Town and Country: "Larchmont luck" has been a byword for years among the Sound yachtsmen. If they were discouraged after other club races because of adverse conditions, such as calms or stormy weather, they would say as a matter of course:

"Oh, well, never mind; we'll have a good breeze at the Larchmont race—and strange to say they were seldom disappointed in their cheerful prediction.

In the old days when the late Gus Monroe was "the man behind the gun" in the club, they used to start from thirty to forty yachts in the annual regatta. Gus used to remark: "You'll see 100 boats cross the starting line in a few years." He was a prophet, for in one of the recent races 131 yachts actually crossed the starting line off the breakwater. His prediction had been more than fulfilled, for it was the record number of starters in a race on Long Island sound.

Lack and Loss of Manhood

Wrecking Body and Soul of Men, Which Unfits Them for High Positions in Life.

Wealth is nothing; position is nothing; fame is nothing; manhood is everything. This is the statement of all the specialists in men's diseases. The press, the pulpit and lecture rooms are silent on diseases of the sexual organism, and men keep on going on the road of vice until they destroy all of the noble faculties which make men divine. The eminent Prof. Woodbridge estimated that among the American people there are ninety males and eighty females out of every hundred who suffer from its effects. The glassy eye, the pale face, the blue circles under the eyes, the bent figure, the pimpled skin, the irritated and morose disposition and the failing health and weakened mind, all bespeak the effects of the curse of this solitary vice. It fills our asylums and drives thousands to suicide. It plucks the rose of health from the youthful cheeks and fills our streets with an endless procession of nervous, permanently aged men, with weakened mind and loss of manhood. If you have violated the laws of health and you are conscious of a constant drain upon your system, it is your duty to be cured; you owe it to yourself, your family, your future life and business. Every day of this wretched life brings ruin to your body and soul.

This country is badly in need of men with brains, and business men are looking in vain for them. No matter how wrecked your disposition, there is a chance for you to be cured by men who are experts in men's diseases, who have neither spared time, labor nor expense in acquiring such knowledge, skill, experience and scientific experiments as are most useful to effect cures for these body-and-soul-wrecking diseases.

The Progressive Medical association has expert doctors who have studied in the best of universities in the United States and Europe, and who have devoted their lives and labor just to one subject of diseases. No man can be an expert of all diseases, as the field is too large, but he can master a few and make their cure an absolute and unqualified certainty, and the progressive experts do.

They do cure you of all maladies peculiar to men. Nervo-Sexual Debility, Stricture, Syphilitic Blood Poison, Locomotor Ataxia, Brights' and Kidney Diseases, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stomach and Bladder Trouble, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Sexual Weakness, Paralysis, Cancer, Tumors, Brain Diseases, Impure Blood, Eczema and all skin diseases, Rectal Troubles, Piles, Fistula, Neuralgia, Rheumatism and all chronic affections of men.

You will be charged no fee for consultations, and you can see the doctors from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., and Sunday from 10 to 1. The specialists' offices are No. 1 West Superior street, Duluth.

ABSOLUTE REFUSAL

Of Ways and Means Committee to Give a Hearing

To Publishers on Removing the Duty From Print Paper.

New York, March 26.—The effort on the part of the American Newspaper Publishers' association to secure legislation by congress putting print paper and wood pulp on the free list has received a sudden shock, because of the absolutte refusal on the part of the ways and means committee to even give them a hearing. Mr. Ridder, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, has made public, the following correspondence on the subject:

"New York, March 19, 1908. Hon. Sereno C. Payne, chairman, committee ways and means, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.: Dear Sir—On behalf of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, I respectfully ask that a hearing be granted to us upon the bill relating to free paper and pulp. Yours faithfully,

"HERMAN RIDDER,
"President American Newspaper Publishers' association.

"Committee on Ways and Means, House of Representatives, Washington, March 21, 1908. Mr. Herman Ridder, New York Staats Zeitung, New York City: Dear Sir—Your letter of the 19th inst. received. The majority of the committee determined early in the session that it would not be wise to enter upon a revision of the tariff during this year, thus adding to the uncertainty and disquiet always caused by a presidential election. They also had in mind the disturbance caused by the recent panic. In order to avoid all agitation, they decided that they would have no hearing upon any subject affecting the tariff rates. After receiving your letter I again talked with a majority of the members of the committee and they adhered to their opinion. I therefore feel authorized to say to you there will be no hearing upon tariff rates until after the presidential election. Yours very truly,

"SERENO PAYNE."

Mr. Ridder, speaking on the subject, said:

"I have seen President Roosevelt on this subject repeatedly, and he gave me the most positive assurance that he would send a special message to congress, urging that print paper and wood pulp be put upon the free list. On the strength of his statement I have urged the newspaper publishers of the United States to support him in his efforts to do us justice. Congressman Williams, the leader of the minority, yesterday announced on the floor of congress that he would refuse to allow any legislation to go forward until the majority would give assurance that it would pass three or four measures, among which was this one. We have assurance from a majority of congress that they will vote for this measure if it can be brought before the house.

"Apparently the sole obstructionists are on the ways and means committee, and I hope the publishers of the country will take immediate measures to bring a majority of the committee to a realizing sense of their duty in the matter. Unless prompt and vigorous action is taken, the measure is likely to fail. If it does, the paper combine will maintain the present high prices or may even make it an excuse for advancing these prices. If we fail to put the manufactured article on the free list, the Canadian government may impose a prohibitive export duty on the

Susan was thoughtfully nibbling a biscuit Tortoni, in one corner of a Broadway confectionery shop, when the door opened and a young man entered. From this point the case is not perfectly simple.

It is a story of smart society, of quite adorable feminine persons, of officers in uniform, of the richest girl in New York and an elopement, in which the very man most averse to it assists. This story starts in the current issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, and is by Jacques Futrelle, the author of "The Chase of the Golden Plate."

If you were the daughter of a very rich man, and if a young sociologist, looking for copy, should enter your family as butler, and if he should write a scorching article about your family in a popular magazine, would you marry him? Would the fact that you were in love with him have anything to do with it? This is the theme of the story, "Doris Has Her Way," by Bert Leston Taylor.

If we have our way, you will buy this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

MOTHER BELIEVES IN PERUNA.

Mrs. K. Kane, of Chicago, Uses Pe-ru-na in her family of five children, Grace, Myrtle, Edward, Reeves and George.

A HEALTHY FAMILY

Kept the Children Well.

Mrs. K. Kane, 196 Sebor St., Flat 1, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"Peruna has been used so long in our family that I do not know how I could get along without it.

"I have given it to all of my five children at different times when they suffered with croup, colds and the many ailments that children are subject to, and am pleased to say that it has kept them in splendid health.

"I have also used it for a catarrhal difficulty of long standing, and it cured me in a short time, so I have every reason to praise Peruna."

Pe-ru-na in the Home.

After all, experience is the best teacher. Some doctors may write in favor of Peruna. Other doctors may write against it. But it is the testimony of the mothers and fathers who are rearing families, who love their children, who must economize as to doctor bills, who are raising little boys and girls into men and women of the future, it is the testimony of such people that really counts.

There is no way to positively ascertain how many families in the United States rely upon Peruna for the many climatic ailments to which the family is subject. The number must be a great one. Several millions perhaps. They have learned how to use Peruna for ordinary ailments, and in that way are guarding their homes against more serious diseases.

Such ailments as coughs and colds, sore throat and catarrh, croup and colic, indigestion and loss of appetite, anemia and nervousness, all these ailments are promptly relieved by a few doses of Peruna at the right time.

Millions of provident mothers and fathers are guarding the interests of the home by using Dr. Hartman's great remedy, and profiting by his medical booklets and personal advice.

Catarrhal Croup.

Few people realize how frequently croup is caused by catarrhal congestion of the throat. Probably nine cases out of ten of croup are of the catarrhal variety.

The medical profession recognizes three forms of croup. The spasmodic variety, membranous croup and catarrhal croup.

Nearly every case is of the catarrhal variety, and a few doses of Peruna taken at the first appearance of the catarrhal symptoms is generally sufficient to avert the attack of croup altogether.

Croup is a frightful disease. No disease of children so alarms the household. It is impossible to estimate how many homes have been protected against croup by the proper use of Peruna.

Household Remedies.

There is no remedy in the world which has proven so popular for catarrh as Peruna. It has been used for more than thirty years and cured thousands of cases, as proven by our testimonials.

In the early history of this country every family had its home-made medicines. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor.

Furnishing medical compounds direct to the people, through the druggists, is simply the extension of the practice begun by the people themselves.

Nervous System a Wreck.

John G. Hirdler, Garfield, Kan., writes:

"On December 2, 1899, I was injured by a fall on the Santa Fe R. R., and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless. I believe I tried every one in the vicinity, but all were alike and I remained without strength.

"I then tried Peruna, and after using it for three months was totally well. I am seventy-one years old, and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike.

"Peruna is the purest and best medicine, and if used according to directions, it will help any person and cure my disease for which it is recommended. I recommend this medicine by my own experience to any one suffering from an ailment on the order of mine."

For Herself and Children.

"It gives me pleasure to testify to the curative qualities of Peruna and Manalin.

"I was afflicted for over seven years with catarrh of the head, throat and digestive organs. I consulted many physicians, but they did me no good.

"One day I happened to read some testimonials in your Peruna almanac. I decided to try Peruna and Manalin. I bought a bottle of each and after taking them for a week, I noticed a change for the better. So I kept it up and after using twelve bottles I was perfectly cured.

"I also gave the medicine to my children and they had the same beneficial result. I would never be without these remedies in the house.

"I highly recommend Peruna and Manalin to all my friends, and, in fact, to everybody."

Thousands of families have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. John M. Stansberry, Amarillo, Tex., writes:

"For several years I had catarrh of the stomach. I was hardly able to do anything, and could not eat with any satisfaction.

"When I commenced using Peruna, I weighed only 110 pounds. I took six bottles, commencing in the spring, and by the following winter I had gained 63 pounds.

"I owe it to Peruna. It cannot be praised too highly.

"I am forty-five years old, and my occupation is that of architect and builder."

CLAIM MONEY IS WITHHELD

Secretary of Miners' Union Sues to Recover Bail Money.

The trial of the civil action brought by John Movern against Judge Vivian Prince of the municipal court at Eveleth, and Miss Sadie Murphy, clerk of the court, to recover $425 alleged to have been deposited as bail for the two men arrested during the strike of the miners last summer, was started yesterday afternoon in Judge Cant's room.

Movern, who is secretary of the Eveleth branch of the Western Federation of Miners' union, claims that $425 was deposited as bail with the court for the release from custody of John Indihar and Matt Petrie. It is alleged that the money has never been returned. Movern claims the money belongs to the union and was put up as bail without the consent of the union at any meeting.

HEAR NEW RATES.

Ancient Order of United Workmen Lodges Greet Capt. Hare.

Five hundred members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen gathered Tuesday evening in the Duluth lodge's hall and heard Capt. Hare of St. Paul give a comprehensive explanation of the new table of rates, which will go in effect throughout the jurisdiction of Minnesota on July 1. Capt. Hare was greeted with much enthusiasm.

It is said that the new rates will be better suited to the needs of the order, will enable it to greatly increase the membership and afford better protection.

NOT ENTHUSIASTIC.

Washington, March 26.—James J. Hill was in Washington yesterday, but would not discuss the Minnesota railroad decision.

"The courts have said all that there is to say on that subject," he said. Referring to the statement issued by Franklin K. Lane of the interstate commerce commission to the effect that the railroad companies are prospering despite reports to the contrary, Mr. Hill said:

"Keep that article before you. Then follow the accounts of railway affairs for the next three months daily and see how the facts and the optimistic views compare. We railroad people are not in a position to do much talking just now. We prefer to let the facts speak for themselves, and they will speak loud enough.

"The Pennsylvania railroad would not lay off any of its men if it could possibly afford to keep them," continued Mr. Hill, "but it can't afford it. It isn't earning enough to do it. It is the same situation everywhere. It is too heavy a draught upon optimism to see this condition of affairs in a bright light. The facts will make their own reply. It may take a little time, but the answer will come sure."

FUNERAL OF SENATOR BRYAN.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 26.—The funeral of Senator William James Bryan took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from St. John's Episcopal church, Rev. V. W. Shield officiating. Long before the cortege reached the church, the streets were thronged for blocks, and as the party passed, all heads were uncovered in respect to the youngest United States senator.

PRICE OF SUGAR IS ADVANCING

Sugar is jumping in price at the rate of about 10 cents a day for a 100-pound sack.

Two weeks ago the price was quoted at $5.25 for a 100-pound sack. It rose by degrees to the $5.45 mark, which was quoted on Monday, and since that time it has been jumping 10 cents a day. Today it was quoted at $5.75, and the grocers say it is likely to go to $6.50 before the advance ceases.

This means an advance of more than a cent a pound in the retail price.

Grocers say they are not to blame for the advance, and that they are powerless to prevent it. The margin of profit is very small, being scarcely sufficient to pay the grocers for handling it, and they are compelled to accept whatever price the sugar trust fixes.

SLAYER OF SHERIFF ENDS HIS OWN LIFE.

Billings, Mont., March 26.—Tired of his attempts to evade the posse which surrounded him and which sought to avenge the murder of Sheriff James T. Webb, William C. Bickford, yesterday afternoon, evaded capture by firing a bullet into his brain. Yesterday afternoon, Jack Hereford of Billings and Deputy Sheriff Taylor of Mussel Shell, approached the sheep wagon at the Rufus Thompson ranch, where Bickford had been lying since daylight and found him dead, with a bullet in his temple and a six-shooter in his hand. The rifle, with which he had slain the sheriff, lay at his side. But one shot had been fired from the revolver.

Ashland, Wis., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Barta and Mrs Anna Kadel, the two Chicago people who ran away from their families and came here where they were arrested Monday, have been taken back to the Windy City by a detective. Barta who is a lumber inspector, is said to have had $3,000 on his person when he eloped with Mrs. Kadel.

The woman has a penchant for elopements, as this is said to have been the fourth.

HORSE WHIPPED BY SPOUSE

Husband Seeking Divorce Makes Some Very Sensational Charges.

Minot, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Henry J. Monsch of Williston, N. D., and his wife, Elizabeth Monsch, now of Minneapolis, did not have a very lovely time during their married existence, according to the sensational evidence disclosed before Judge Goss in the husband's suit for divorce here. His wife is alleged to have horsewhipped him and to have poked a gun into his face, according to some of the depositions presented to the court.

One of the depositions read before the judge states that on one occasion in Minneapolis Mrs. Monsch met her husband in front of her apartments and that after some words between them, she grabbed a horse whip from a laundry wagon and whipped her husband unmercifully. The witness stated that Mrs. Monsch, Mr. Monsch and the laundry wagon were the scene of a great mixup. Mr. Monsch, the witness stated, was trying to get away from his wife, who was wielding the whip with all the dexterity of a trained horseman.

Mr. Monsch, when on the stand, testified to some equally amusing incidents now that they are over. He said that once he entered the Marmon flats in Minneapolis, where his wife was stopping, and that she poked a gun in his face and threatened to shoot him if he did not behave.

TAKEN BACK TO IOWA.

Young Man Suspected of Having Part in Father's Death.

Walter Whitbeck, who was arrested here by Sheriff Mahlen of Rush City and Patrolman Hannet, has been taken to West Union, Iowa, where charges that he was implicated in the murder of his father will be thoroughly investigated.

Whitbeck's mother is under arrest, as she is suspected of having had something to do with the death of her husband. She declares that her son was in Minneapolis at the time of the tragedy, but there are those at West Union who say they saw him there about two hours before the murder.

TO DISCUSS WAGES.

The Cooks and Waiters' Union Will Hold a Meeting.

The question of a scale of wages for the coming year will be discussed at a business meeting of the Cooks' and Waiters' union this evening. The meeting will be held in Kalamazoo hall, and will be addressed by J. C. Hailing, state organizer of the Carpenters' union, Mrs. W. A. Warnecka, president of the Women's Label league, and others.

It is rumored that the hotel and restaurant proprietors will insist upon the open shop May 1, but this rumor is not given general credence. The Cooks' and Waiters' union is considered a strong one, and wages paid in the past have not been what is considered unreasonably high. Working conditions, it is claimed, have been satisfactory to both sides.

STILL BUYING WHEAT.

Realty Valuations.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I was astonished at the moderation of your news item in Tuesday evening's issue on the inequality of real estate valuations, wherein you state that in properties of the same value there is frequently a difference of $15 or $20 in the taxes. Your reporter has but a faint conception of how bad matters are. I know of two pieces of property beside each other on Third street where the difference in actual value of lot and improvements is not more than 25 per cent. Yet one piece is on the assessor's books for a valuation of $1,600 while the other is down for $6,000. And the reason for the difference cannot be imputed to age fluctuations either, for both properties have been improved within the last three years. Do you wonder, in face of this, that so much dissatisfaction exists not only because of shifting real estate values, but of actual incompetency or dishonesty on the part of some of our public servants? The Meter Question.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading in your paper from time to time about the meter question, and it has amused me, so I thought I would write about it to amuse others. I believe in the meter and I have one myself. This talk of its costing the city $30,000 for meters is wrong. It costs each man that gets the meter about $12. Now, about the repairs. If it needs repairing, the water department puts it in good condition and charges it to the owner. The only cost to the city is the reading of the meter, which would be very light, as they have to go all over the city. There is no one who can complain of the meter only some on who wants to get more than he wants to pay for. This plea of tenants in houses having to furnish meters would not be right. The man having a house to rent should put in the meter; if not, let them move out just as they would if they wanted a room papered and he would not do it.

It may be true that it does not cost much to pump the water, but this is not the thing. If people wish to waste water, they should be compelled to pay for it. I have seen lawn sprinklers running like it was raining. People will let the water run in the winter to keep it from freezing, and in the summer to keep the water cool. Those people very seldom have meters. You can take a walk on a summer's evening in the East end and you will hear the young lady saying to her young man, "It is raining and the moon is shining." Another couple will say, "It is raining very night." As you go further you hear, "Oh, my hat." Now, Mr. Editor, I have no doubt the city would gain by the meter and after a time we might coax them to put a roof on one of the reservoirs to keep the water from cooking in the summer time.

IS CAUGHT FAR AWAY

Alleged Baudette Embezzler Under Arrest in Los Angeles.

Sheriff Bailey of Beltrami County Runs Patterson to Cover.

Bemidji, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A telegram has been received at the office of Sheriff Bailey from the sheriff, who has been at Los Angeles, Cal., stating he had arrested Roland Patterson, who is wanted in this county on the charge of embezzlement, claimed to have been committed at Baudette.

It is said that the operations of Patterson were very extensive and that his embezzlement amounted to a sum that would require five figures to correctly state.

Sheriff Bailey has been on the trail of Patterson for some time, the latter having left Baudette suddenly, and gone West, as was afterwards ascertained.

The sheriff ascertained that Patterson was in California, and left here quietly a week or ten days ago, going to Los Angeles, where he has succeeded in catching his man and will bring him back to Bemidji for trial.

WALTER CASE IS NOT CANDIDATE

Again for Representative in Legislature From Carlton County.

Cloquet, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republican county convention will be held in the village hall at Carlton, April 9, for the purpose of electing ten delegates to the state convention, in Minneapolis, April 16. Ten delegates will also be elected to the Republican district convention for the Eighth congressional district to be held in Pine City, April 15, for the purpose of electing two delegates and two alternate delegates to the Republican national convention. The primaries will be held on Tuesday, April 7, to appoint delegates to the county convention.

Walter L. Case of this city has decided definitely not to be a candidate for re-election to the legislature. The importance of having a legislator from Carlton county at the next session is evident for many matters of importance to this section will come up requiring the support of an able representative, well up in the questions at issue at the present time. Local Republicans and others of the county are keeping the question before the people, and the majority think it the best plan to hold a meeting after the convention at Carlton April 9, and select a candidate.

COURT AT RED LAKE.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 26.—The March term of the district court for Red Lake county opened this week with Judge Watts on the bench. It is expected that the term will be brief and that no cases of great interest will be heard. For the first time for several terms the county seat fight will not occupy the center of attraction, as no feature of the case will be brought up at this sitting of the court.

INTERESTED IN FISHING CASES

Menominee, Mich., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney George Law of the attorney general's department at Lansing has arrived in the city to assist Prosecuting Attorney M. J. Doyle in the prosecution of the Menchaune, Wis., fishermen, who were arrested last week by Deputy Game Warden Bodell, who confiscated their nets, valued at $2,200, and took their undersized lake trout, valued at $500.

The Wisconsin fishermen have engaged some of the best legal talent in the state to defend themselves, and the outcome will be watched with great interest by the fishermen of the two states.

The establishment of the boundary line between the states of Michigan and Wisconsin on the waters of Green bay will be one of the results of the trial, the Wisconsin fishermen claim that their nets were in Wisconsin waters; this is denied by the Michigan game warden.

YOUNG MINER KILLED.

Albert Argall Loses His Life in the Salisbury Mine.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Argall, aged 19 years, son of John Argall, was killed Tuesday in the Salisbury mine. He was employed underground, and for some purpose, unknown to his fellow workmen, went into the sump at the bottom of the shaft. There are two ladders to the floor of the sump. He went down one and on returning crossed over and started up the other. When part of the way up he attempted to cross back to the other ladder, but while doing so was caught beneath the pump rod and the stay. He was probably killed instantly, as his neck was broken.

The deceased was well known in the city, particularly at the Lake Angeline and Salisbury locations. He attended the Salisbury school until a year or so ago. He had been working at the Salisbury eleven months.

RED LAKE IN LINE.

Red River Valley County for Governor Johnson All Right.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not a little interest in Democratic matters in Red Lake county is being aroused by the action of alleged Bryan sympathizers in Polk, an adjoining county, whereby they seek to secure anti-Johnson representation in the approaching state convention. Red Lake county is strictly and strongly for Governor Johnson. State Committeeman Morgan resides in Thief River Falls and State Librarian King was a former resident of Red Lake Falls, a town in the southern part of the county. These, with others, will hold this county safely in line in the Johnson column. Local politicians predict a clean sweep for Johnson delegates in the whole Red River valley, despite the Polk county disaffection, which is considered a local squabble for leadership.

Mrs. Burnett shortly after the assault, gave birth to a baby, whose skull was crushed, it is said.

Bismarck, N. D., March 26.—A prize fight to a finish was scheduled here for last night between Billy Sherrard of this city and Jimmy Ford of Minneapolis, though it was given out as a wrestling match. Governor Burke got wind of the affair and notified the sheriff to arrest the men and place them under bonds not to fight, and if they attempted to fight, to jail them. The fight was declared off in consequence of this unexpected action of the governor.

BUILDING BIG BOAT.

Will Soon be Ready for the Upper Mississippi Traffic.

Aitkin, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big river boat in course of construction on the grounds of the Mississippi Transportation company at this place is getting on so well that it will be ready for service soon after the opening of navigation. The new boat is a third larger than the Irene in every way, and every stick of timber in the frame and planking of the hull is of select oak, seasoned and planed at the company's own mill at their dock.

A brief description of the boat is as follows: Type of boat, stern wheel flat bottom river craft; length of hull, 90 feet; deck, 22x105 feet; 16-foot boiler forty-two inches in diameter, capable of carrying 200 pounds of steam; pair of engines 9x48 cylinders. There will be plenty of upper and lower deck room, large cabin and six staterooms. The machinery has been shipped and will be here by the time the boat is ready for it.

Miles, president of the Racine-Sattley company and chairman of the tariff committee of the American Manufacturers' association, left yesterday for Washington on business in connection with the demand of manufacturers for tariff revision. Mr. Miles said before leaving that the "stand patters" are fast realizing that their position is wholly untenable and incompatible with the industrial situation. He is constantly receiving letters and telegrams indicating this change of front.

CRIME IN LAURIUM.

Copper Country Village Seems to Have Bad Ones.

Laurium, Mich., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A wave of crime seems to be sweeping over Laurium. The Copper Range depot was entered Sunday night and $10 in cash and a number of ticket stubs stolen. Monday afternoon a young woman, named Bignetto of Raymbaultown, approached Marshal Drapeau and stated she had been fired at by a man named Thumi. The officer went after his man, gathered him in and he is now in the village lockup. Two attempted holdups Sunday evening are reported, one being that of a milkman, named Sandretto, and the other Capt. James Wilson, proprietor of the Maria Block saloon. In the latter case Capt. Wilson is reported to have set upon his would-be holds-up, causing them to scatter.

Watt of Duluth, at a meeting, which was the most important event in the history of the Salvation Army in Houghton. An army flag and the national ensign were presented to the corps, a child was dedicated to the service of God and the army and one soldier was enlisted. The meeting was attended by a large number of people interested in the work, and everything tended to show that the Salvation Army is to have a good future on Portage Lake.

APPRAISERS PLANNING TO VALUE MUCH TIMBER.

Bemidji, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The appraisers, who will examine 15,000 acres of state lands in Beltrami county, which includes school lands owned by the state, are in the city and will at once begin the work of spreading the value of all the lands, together with the timber and improvements, and will make complete returns thereof to the state auditor.

J. H. Beagle of Duluth, state cruiser and estimator, arrived in the city last night, and, together with Nels A. Otterstad of Turtle river, and also Alex Cameron of this city, consulted today relative to the work done by the appraisers.

It is estimated that it will take at least a month to appraise these 15,000 acres, as they are well scattered over different parts of the county.

OUT IN COLD WORLD.

Crookston Council Will Not Give Justices Office Room.

Crookston, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the sores between the city council and Justices Wilde and McLean, regarding their vacating the city hall while the repairs were being made, the council now proposes that they shall not be given office rooms in the city hall at all. At the council meeting, last evening, a petition was presented, signed by all the attorneys of the city, asking that the justices be provided for in the city hall, but the council laid the matter on the table without action.

JOHNSON AND TAFT

Are Choice of Two Parties in Roseau County.

Crookston, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson will be the Democratic standard bearer in the coming presidential campaign, while Secretary of War W. H. Taft will lead the Republican host if the sentiments of the Democrats and Republicans of Roseau county are consulted. This is the word that Probate Judge Michael Holm of Roseau county brings to Crookston from the northern county. He says that his county will send a solid Johnson delegation to the Democratic convention and an equally solid Taft delegation to the Republican state meeting.

LLOYD WOMAN HAD PAL.

Alleged Husband Said to Have Shared in Her Swindling.

Rochester, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Aimee Lloyd, the clever swindler who secured considerable money here on bogus checks and is now doing time at St. Cloud, had a confederate or partner in her alleged husband, F. A. Lloyd, who came here for a few days during the beginning of her incarceration. Sheriff Vine left last night for Birmingham, Ala., where Lloyd has been quietly arrested, and will bring him back to answer the charge of conspiracy and receiving money obtained by his wife by fraud.

He was indicted, when his wife, the so-called "woman in brown," was indicted here last December, but the jurors and officers kept the matter a profound secret. It is charged that the woman telegraphed her unlawful gains to her husband.

The county attorney has been working on the case since Mrs. Lloyd pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the reformatory. Lloyd was traced to Florida, where he spent the winter in luxury, while his wife was in jail, and later to Alabama. The state department will aid Olmsted county in getting extradition and fighting habeas corpus proceedings, should Lloyd resort to them.

NO MORE BOYS WILL

East Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Rickard of the Grand Forks Lumber company has announced that the lumber company will positively not employ any boys under 18 years of age in their plant this season. In the past, labor has been exceedingly scarce and the boys in the city have had opportunities to earn their winter board and clothes in vacation time.

However, due probably to their taste for fun and frolic, a number of boys have been hurt and the company has lost thousands of dollars in lawsuits, doctor bills and settlements. The management of the mill is determined on a change and only men will be employed. Since the company is planning to have only a day shift on this year, the task of carrying out their purpose will be made doubly easy.

FALLS THROUGH MANHOLE.

Grafton Street Commissioner Drops to His Death.

Grafton, N. D., March 26.—T. E. Manderud met death while engaged in his duties as street commissioner. In some manner he fell into one of the sewer manholes and was not found until Wednesday, and when discovered, life had been extinct several hours. The coroner's inquest has not been held, but it is not thought that he died from the effects of sewer gas. The belief is that he slipped and fell into the manhole, stunning himself in the fall and dying from the result of the injuries received. His death was a distinct shock to the community. He leaves a wife, who is sick in bed, and three children, all of whom are grown.

SOO FERRY TO START EARLIER THAN USUAL.

THANKS TO THE UNKNOWN GIVER

Bethel Society Grateful to Stranger Who Sent $100 Bill.

The following letter was received from George Wilson, treasurer of the Bethel society by The Herald this morning.

Duluth Evening Herald, City—Gentlemen: We acknowledge receipt of $100 sent you by some outside party as a result of the splendid editorial, headed "The Bread Line," published in your paper recently.

"We would take this opportunity of extending to you our sincere thanks for the kind and able support given by you at different times to the work of the Bethel, and assure you it is very much appreciated by us. We would also like to extend our heartiest thanks, through your paper, to the unknown giver, whoever he may be. The gift was a most generous one, and the method chosen for sending it shows that the man was moved by a pure spirit of charity."

PENROSE ABOUT THE SAME.

Philadelphia, March 25.—The condition of United States Senator Penrose, who is seriously ill, was reported today to be unchanged from that of last night when his physicians said the senator was "extremely ill."

This woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved her life. Read her letter.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For years I suffered with the worst forms of female complaints, continually doctoring and spending lots of money for medicine without help. I wrote you for advice, followed it as directed, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I should have been in my grave to-day. I wish every suffering woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

EVELETH SPORTS HAVE GREAT TIME

Slugging and Wrestling Matches That Afford Them Much Fun.

Eveleth, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the best entertainments ever given in this section was put on last night at the Vail opera house by the Eveleth Independent Athletic club and witnessed by a large crowd.

The feature of the evening was a ten-round bout between Kid Constantine, a local boxer, and Kid Davis of Chicago. The first two rounds were very even, but the third round Constantine started up with a rush, opening Davis' eye, which bled through the rest of the fight. During the fourth and part of the fifth round Davis kept on stalling and falling to the floor. A number of times it looked like a foul on the part of Constantine, but the referee ordered the bout to go on. In the fifth round, after some furious fighting, Constantine in some manner threw Davis to the floor. The latter claimed a foul and was upheld by the referee, who than declared Constantine the loser on a foul. Up until the time of the foul Constantine had all the better of the fight and if Davis had not kept on falling to the floor he would surely have put him out before the time limit. The crowd showed their approval of the defeated boxer by carrying him around on their shoulders when he emerged from his dressing room.

Two Preliminary Bouts.

Before the main event, two preliminary bout were put on. The first was a four-round boxing match between Kid Stokes of Eveleth and Kid Martin of Superior. The former was the lighter, but offset the latter's reach and weight by his swiftness. The referee called it a draw. In the second preliminary the El Dona Kid of Eveleth and Kid Tryans of Chicago met in a very fast four-round bout, which rivaled the main event in the fast work of the boxers.

The semi-final event was the wrestling match between Emil Peterson, champion of Duluth and Carl Letho, champion Graeco-Roman wrestler of the range. The latter is a Finn and is unable to talk English. At first there was some hitch, because of the fact that Peterson is not a Graeco-Roman wrestler and Letho does not understand the catch-as-catch-can style very well. Through the aid of an interpreter the wrestlers came to the agreement that the first fall should be in the catch-as-catch-can style while the second was to be Graeco-Roman. The man who made his fall in the quickeest time was then to have choice of style for the deciding fall. From the call of time the wrestlers went after each other. Through he unfamiliarity with Peterson's style, Letho was put to the mat in 11 minutes by a hammerlock hold. The seconds of the Finn claimed that it was a flying fall and therefore should not count, but the referee, Billy Moore, gave the fall to Peterson.

After a fifteen minute wait they again went to the mat. The Finn was at his best in this bout, and after about 12 minutes' wrestling, when it appeared that Peterson had scrambled out of a flying fall, Letho's second tapped the Finn on the back. The referee called it no fall, influenced by his seconds Letho refused to go on again with Peterson though the latter was ready to wrestle Graeco-Roman. The referee then gave the match to Peterson, who thereby becomes champion of the range, as well as of Duluth.

THEY WIELDED KNIVES,

But Officer Nordi Walked in and Arrested the Bunch.

Eveleth, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fourteen men engaged in a rough and ready saloon fight Wednesday in which knives were used to advantage. Three of them, Nels Carlson, John Nasi and Isaac Lukas, were arrested by Sergt. Nordi, who went into the saloon single handed and caught the offenders after a hard tussle in which he had to call for assistance from the bartender. The cases of the arrested men will not be called until next Monday.

CHAIRMAN WAS INTERPRETER

At Mass Meeting and Translated Speeches of Others.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Herald's story of the mass meeting, held heer on the 22nd inst., to protest against the open violation of the state liquor laws, erred in stating that the chairman did all the talking. Because of the inability of all who participated to speak in both the Finn and the English language, the chairman was selected, as it was known he could readily translate from one language to the other, and this he did, which accounts for the report that he "did all the talking." Addresses made by speakers in either Finnish or English were translated into the other language and respoken by the chairman.

ELKS' PLAY SUCCESS.

"A Night in Bohemia" Makes Hit With Spectators.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The musical comedy, "A Night in Bohemia," which the local lodge of Elks have been rehearsing for a month under the direction of Thomas Getz, was produced last night at the Power theater and given a very warm reception. It was the verdict of those who enjoyed the initial production, that the Elks have mustered some splendid talent. The production made a decided hit and will be produced again this evening.

Among the vocalists coming in for bouquets were: Louis McPike, George O'Sullivan, L. L. Baskins, W. J. Delaney, Charles L. Burr, J. F. Murphy, Will Hart, W. R. Spencely, Miss Josephine Bardessono, Miss Mabel Brady and Miss Myrtle Lavell, all of whom acquitted themselves well. The instrumental music was in charge of Mrs. Louis McPike and Miss Ruth Bates.

PIONEER SALOON MAN OF CHISHOLM IS BURIED.

Chisholm, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Gus Johnson was held Tuesday from the Swedish Lutheran church at Hibbing. The deceased died of alcoholism early Sunday morning. He was a member of the Eagles and a Swedish society. A 6-year-old child is the only one of his family left.

The funeral was conducted by the Eagles.

He was one of Chisholm's first settlers, having started a saloon before the town was a year old.

BOYS CAPTURE ITALIAN

Who is Alleged to Have Slashed Fellow Countryman.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some boys who claimed to have seen Gregorio Broncott, an Italian, slash a fellow-countryman, Rosario Cardile, with a razor, gave chase and ran the assailant to cover, holding him prisoner in a woodshed until officers came and lugged him off to jail. He will have a hearing next Tuesday. The two Italians had been very friendly up to Sunday, when they quarreled at their boarding house. The trouble was renewed yesterday, Broncotl bringing a razor to bear on the other's cheek with such force that a doctor had to take several stitches in the Cardile anatomy.

JUDGE OSBORNE WINS OUT.

Ely Official Captures Nomination in Face of Some Opposition.

Ely, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite no little opposition, Municipal Judge J. W. Osborne won out at the general caucus last night, being renominated for the position he is filling over three opponents. The vote resulted: J. W. Osborne, 164; John Cosgrove, 87; S. F. Childers, 52; John Cowling, 46.

Treasurer Luther Brockway was not as lucky, being defeated for renomination by John E. Cosgrove by a vote of 235 to 117. Thomas Jury received 229 votes to 115 for Richard Hodge for assessor, while J. Seraphine easily defeated Harry Stein for special judge, getting 193 votes to the latter's 46.

As predicted in The Herald dispatches, Mike Murphy, a member of the present council, was nominated for mayor without opposition. It is currenly reported there will be an independent ticket in the field.

SOUTH AMERICAN WILL OCCUPY EVELETH PULPIT.

Eveleth, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Methodist Episcopal church, next Sunday, Y. M. C. A. Secretary B. A. Shuman of Buenos Ayres will discuss South American conditions. While at Hamline university Secretary Shuman was a classmate of Rev. R. J. Taylor, the regular pastor.

pointment to the point where it would become necessary to make a formal matter of Dr. Hill's unavailability.

The diplomatic circle is still speculating as to the cause for the attitude of the German government and it is fair to state that upon none of the theories so far advanced—such as some unpleasant happening on the occasion of Prince Henry's visit to this country, or dissatisfaction with Dr. Hill's career while American minister to The Hague—are the diplomats able to agree.

Records Show Nothing.

One of the latest suggestions is in substance that Ambassador Tower desires to remain in Berlin for some time to come and that his influence with the emperor has been exerted to dissuade the authorities at Washington from relieving him. But this meets with little credence here and there is nothing in official records to bear it out. It is a curious fact that these records do not even show that any change has been contemplated in American representation at the Berlin embassy; there is not even on file a resignation of his office by Ambassador Tower.

Last fall came the first intimation from Berlin that a change was in prospect, this being a short news dispatch stating that Mr. Tower had decided that his family interests required him to return to America. Soon after this it developed that President Roosevelt had received a letter from the ambassador confirmatory of the news and explaining that his children had reached an age when they should matriculate at some of the American universities and he wished to be near them. There was nothing in the nature of a formal resignation and it was stated at the time that the president had endeavored to induce Mr. Tower to reconsider his decision. The German emperor also, having conceived a feeling of strong friendship for both Mr. and Mrs. Tower, is understood to have used his influence with them to bring about a change of mind, but in vain.

So the president accepted the situation and announced the name of the successor chosen for the Berlin embassy and the other diplomatic charges that depended thereupon.

KOREAN DELIGHTED

the patient had no chance for recovery.

Conscious But Once.

Only once during the evening did Stevens show any signs of returning consciousness, when, in answer to a question by one of the doctors, he said that he was in pain. Then he relapsed and lay quietly until the end came at a little after 11 o'clock.

Doctors Terry, Huntington and Zumwalt, who performed the operation, remained at his bedside during the evening.

Stevens leaves two sisters in Atlantic City, and a telegram was sent there last night, informing them of their brother's death.

Consul General Kolke sent cablegrams to his government, reporting the death of Stevens.

In Whan Chang, the Korean, who fired the shots which proved fatal to Stevens, when informed last night at the jail of the victim's death, received the news without surprise and with manifest delight.

Since the day of the shooting, Chang has been expressing the hope that Stevens' wounds might prove fatal. Last night, when asked if he was sorry for what he had done, Chang said:

"No, I am glad. He was no friend of Korea, and he is better dead."

Stevens' death will result in a charge of murder being brought against both Chang, who fired the fatal shots, and Chun, his accomplice, who attacked Stevens as he alighted from his automobile at the ferry building.

Chun, who was wounded by a wild shot from his companion's revolver, is at the Lane hospital, where it was said last night that he was apparently on the road to recovery.

by declaring that Gladstone was premier at 83 and that Bismarck did his great work when 80 years of age. "We offer to the country," he said, "a man as wise as Gladstone, and as brave as Bismarck." Soon after the platform was adopted with great enthusiasm. It indorses the administration of President Roosevelt as one of the greatest in American history; favors such financial legislation as will give to the country districts the same protection as to the central reserve cities and prevent the recurrence of financial disturbance; approves the vigorous enforcement of the interstate laws against all combinations, monopolies and trusts; indorses Speaker Cannon for president and instructs the delegates to vote for him at the national convention.

The Tariff Plank.

The present tariff law, which was passed at the special session of the Fifty-fifth congress, convened by President McKinley, and which was signed July 24, 1897, by that illustrious protectionist, has amply justified all the promises and hopes of its advocates and supporters. It has proven the most scientifically adjusted, and therefore the best tariff law ever placed on the statute books. Under the beneficent influence abundent revenues have flown into the national treasury; our domestic commerce has expanded beyond all expectations, the volume of our export trade has constantly increased, until within the past six months it has reached the high water mark; the ratio of our manufactured exports has steadily advanced; our farmers have received the highest prices, and our mechanics and other workmen the highest wages that have ever been paid, and our citizens of all classes have enjoyed a greater degree of prosperity than has ever prevailed during a like period in any other country.

The broadening of the home market and the increased foreign demand for our products have stimulated competitiontion, and this competition has brought out manifold new discoveries and inventions which have materially altered the cost of production, both at home and abroad, of almost every article of commerce. The long-continuance of the benefits conferred by the present tariff has produced an industrial situation that suggests the possibility of securing, by the reversion of the tariff, additional benefits for the people of the United States through a wise continuance of the policy of protection.

Changes Must Be Made.

It is now apparent that in order to maintain the scientific accuracy of the tariff, remove inequalities and prevent injustice, some new schedules must be added to the law, some of the present rates must be lowered, while some must be repealed altogether. The very success of the present tariff demonstrates the wisdom of revising it to conform to the improved conditions, which it has produced. We believe that the people of the United States will profit by a new tariff, but it must be a Republican tariff, a protective tariff, a tariff which recognizes in all its parts the difference between American and foreign wages, the difference between the high scale of living of American wage earners and the scale of living imposed by insufficient wages upon foreign workmen.

We therefore recommend to our delegates to the Republican national convention that they urge upon the convention the wisdom of declaring for a revision of the tariff to be made at the next session of congress or at a special session of the Sixty-first congress to be convened immediately after the inauguration of the next president, March 4, 1909.

Minimum and Maximum.

We believe that our tariff law should contain a provision for minimum and maximum rates—the minimum rates giving full protection, the maximum rates to be invoked for retaliation upon foreign countries that discriminate against American products. We believe that two main ideas should pervade all the provisions of the tariff:

First—That the protective principle so prevail in all the schedules that American farmers, workmen and producers shall be given the first call on the home market, and

Secondly—That no illegal or unjust combination, trust or monopoly shall find encouragement or shelter in any of its provisions.

To the end that the revision of the tariff may be accomplished with the greatest possible gain and the least possible loss we sugest to our senators and representatives in congress that they seek to secure at once the passage in their respective houses of resolutions directing the proper committees to proceed immediately to collect the preliminary information necessary for a revision of the tariff, that when the work is entered upon all parties in interest may be heard and the law framed, discussed and passed without delay and without an disturbance of the financial and industrial interests of the country.

Mrs. Marie Shendo, one of the several Italian women who were arrested on the range for blind-pigging, under indictments returned by the last grand jury, is being tried in Judge Dibell's room today. Mrs. Shendo has a husband and several children, one of them a mere baby, being a spectator of the proceedings from its mother's arms.

Mrs. Shendo, who resides at or near Mountain Iron, is alleged to have sold a bottle of beer for 10 cents to a stool-pigeon employed to get evidence against blind pigs.

It is claimed by the defense that the stool-pigeon who did the work was employed by one Mike Kelly, an Italian saloonkeeper, near Mount Iron, who is claimed to be interested in getting Mrs. Shendo and some others prosecuted for selling liquor without a license.

Although no testimony to the effect has thus far developed at the Shendo trial, it is understood that some of the Italians at Mountain Iron, in retaliation, bought a quantity of liquor at Kelly's saloon on a Sunday, and that they have taken steps to have Kelly prosecuted for keeping the lid off, contrary to the state liquor laws.

Mrs. Shendo is defended by Judge W. G. Bonham of Duluth and Judge J. C. McGilvray of Eveleth.

SCHOOL BOY HAS A PLAN

Suggests Means of Raising Money for the Bread Line.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I saw in last evening's Herald where a New York man gave $100 to the Duluth bread line. I would like to suggest that The Herald would ask that each school scholar donate 1 cent next week to their teachers for the bread line. In this way $100 could be easily raised, the money to be sent in The Herald.

Hoping this will meet your favor. A school boy.

Yours truly,
LEONARD McCARTHY.

STACK'S OPENING.

Three Days' Showing of the New Spring Goods.

The first of the three days' spring opening was held today at Stack & Co.'s store and in the various departments a new and up to date spring stock was shown. The most interesting feature of an opening to women is always the hats and there was a special showing of beautiful styles. The window dressed gaily in many samples of the milliner's art first attracted attention and the department carried out the promise held forth in the show cases.

The suit and dress goods departments are also showing many new and fashionable things. Some special sales were a feature of the opening which will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

GOES TO SANITARIUM.

Rev. J. T. Moody Will Go to St. Paul to Recover His Health.

Friends of the Bethel society today raised $100 for the purpose of sending Rev. J. T. Moody, chaplain and general superintendent of the Bethel who is ill from overwork, away for a month's vacation. Mr. Moody left this afternoon for St. Paul to enter a sanitarium for a while. During the five weeks in which the bread line has been maintained at the Bethel Mr. Moody has been working unceasingly and when the prostration followed there was much sympathy felt.

Bayonne, N. J., March 25.—In competition with several New York sculptors of note, Eleanor Eadie, 19 years old, just out of high school and heretofore unknown to fame in her profession, has had her design for the proposed soldiers' and sailors' monument to be erected here, accepted. The decision was announced at a meeting of the Bayonne Patriotic Monument association.

THE POLITICAL KALEIDOSCOPE.

A mere glance over a single day's political news—that of yesterday—shows that the season of politics is in full swing, attended by the usual demonstrations of a sultry and more or less violent character.

At Nashville the Republicans in state convention duly assembled had a row that would have done credit to a Democratic gathering. The chairman of the state central committee was mobbed and his clothes nearly torn off. He was taken up by a crowd of opponents and carried to a balcony, from which he was about to be thrown into the street when cooler counsels prevailed. Also, one factionist, by way of argument, broke four folding chairs over the sturdy head of a negro delegate whom he was trying to inspire with the conviction of error.

At Columbus 300 leading Ohio Democrats gathered for a "harmony meeting," and the report states that "the meeting was a stormy one and the proceedings were attended by much confusion." This, as everybody must have been noted, is characteristic of harmony meetings in politics.

At Springfield, Ill., Republicans gathering for today's state convention gave it out that they had decided to drop the word "revision" in reference to the tariff because it scents too horribly of reduction, and to substitute therefor the word "adjustment" as being more euphemistic and more elastic. Also, it was stated that the Cannon boom was to be revived at this convention. It has lately exhibited signs of faintness, and has had several dangerous sinking spells.

In Chicago there was a harmonious meeting of the Democratic state central committee, with the friends of Roger Sullivan in full charge, and reports of the recent love feast between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Sullivan were substantiated by the action of the committee in endorsing the former for president in emphatic language. A very similar condition existed in Indianapolis, where the fight against Tom Taggart, national Democratic chairman, proved unavailing, and an endorsement of him was coupled with an endorsement of Mr. Bryan.

In North Dakota the Democrats had a very harmonious convention, without any of the usual pugnacious attributes of political harmony, and Bryan was endorsed for the presidency.

In Minnesota a long step toward sweetness and light in Republican state politics was taken when Joel P. Heatwole of Northfield announced his candidacy for the governorship. Mr. Heatwole's association with previous Republican harmony has been so intimate as to make it quite certain that his appearance in the game means a new burst of real harmony of the Kelkenny cat variety.

Not the least important political item was President Roosevelt's intimation to the Republican majority in congress that it ought to bestir itself and enact certain very important measures which the people demand and which the Republican majority has evidently determined not to adopt. Coupled with this is the announced determination of the Democratic minority to obstruct everything unless the Republicans agree to put through certain of these measures which the president has approved.

Also, James J. Hill grumbled pessimistically about the railroad situation in Washington, which is a political item also, being an intimation to both parties that they ought to be good to the railroads if they want prosperity to return.

THE CARNEGIE RELIEF FUND.

While society itself has not awakened to the need of systematic action for the relief of men who are killed or become dependent through the conditions of their employment, and has provided no legislation covering their needs, the evidence that such legislation is needed is accumulating rapidly, and in the meantime some slight alleviation is being provided by the spontaneous action of a few employers, more humane and more grateful to the labor that makes them rich than the rest.

Custom has put the burden too much upon the workingman himself. Experience is bearing out Lassalle's "iron law of wages" by showing that the tendency is to keep wages barely above the line of dire necessity, leaving little margin for protection against accident and old age. When a worker is employed, he and his family can live. When he is injured, killed or superannuated, he and his family can shift for themselves as best they may, while the employer calmly fills the vacant place out of the ever-sufficient supply of labor. Under usual conditions the employe who is injured, or his family if he is killed, have their only recourse in the courts. There they find laws and precedents framed not in their interests, but in the interests of the employing classes. They find themselves pitted against the best legal talent, which the employers retain permanently to defend such actions.

In short, the laborer gives his strength while he has it and gets little more than a living out of it, and goes down and out, he and his dependent ones together, when his strength is gone. It isn't fair, and it should not be allowed to remain that way.

One of the most interesting private attempts to alleviate the evils of this condition is the Carnegie relief fund. Six years ago Mr. Carnegie set aside $4,000,000 to insure the employes in the Carnegie companies a certain compensation in case of injuries, death, or incapacity from disease and old age. If a married employe is killed $500 is paid to the widow with $100 additional for each child under 16. If the employe is unmarried, $500 is paid to those depending upon his earnings, if there are any such dependents. In case of injuries by which a man is disabled more than a year, 75 cents a day is paid to single men and $1 a day to married men, beginning a year after the date of injury and continuing through the period of disability. If an employe becomes incapacitated through age after fifteen years' service he receives 15 per cent of his average monthly pay during his entire term of service, thus giving him $7.50 a month for life if his earnings averaged $50 monthly. During 1907 there was paid out of this fund $216,764, and during the six years of its operation it has paid out $1,129,117.

Some day these matters will be regulated by law and made compulsory upon all employers, as they are in older countries where there is less political freedom but far more economic freedom than there is in this nation.

A PERNICIOUS EQUILIBRIUM.

The New York Sun, in its absurd but lifelike imitation of King Canute in which it sternly commands the sea of progress to recede, has raked the highways and byways of literature and statesmanship for reactionary counsel, and now it has got back to the fifth century before Christ, and finds itself in China. It quotes Tse-Sze as follows:

> Let the state of equilibrium and harmony exist in perfection and a happy order will prevail throughout heaven and earth, and all things will be nourished and flourish.

In the first place, no Chinese philosopher of the dim past is needed to inform us how to run this country. Wise though he may have been, the people of this day and place know more about it than he does.

In the second place, there can be no "state of equilibrium" in society until society achieves perfection, and there can be no "harmony" between good and evil. What this Chinaman said twenty-four centuries ago, therefore, may have a pleasing sound, but it has no real meaning that is applicable to society in an imperfect state; and society will be in an imperfect state so long as a few men like those the Sun represents are wielding a power that is oppressive, corruptive and degrading.

In the third place, the only terms upon which the Sun and its friends would accept a "state of equilibrium" or agree to "harmony" would be terms that the masses of the people could not accept without becoming ignoble slaves. What the Sun really means is that we should take our hands off big business and let it proceed in its career of drunken power, and that if we do this "a happy order will prevail throughout heaven and earth, and all things will be nourished and flourish."

We do not believe that the people will be contented with any such terms. They are beginning to see that an excessive worship of the rights of property has led government to conduct itself for the glorification and profit of "big business" without a due regard to the rights of the masses. "Big business" has flourished and been nourished until it has waxed grossly fat and arrogant, while the ordinary run of people have found it increasingly difficult to meet the problems of bare living, with dependent age and helpless invalidism a haunting and hopeless terror by the way. A few have rioted in infamous luxuries while the many struggled for bread. The hypocrisy of high wages has been exposed by the reality of high cost of living. The nation's wealth has been diverted from the many producers to the few parasites.

It is with such conditions as these that the people would have to content themselves if they accepted the Sun's interpretation of Tse-Sze's platitudes, and permitted the Sun's friends to maintain a "state of equilibrium and harmony" which would perpetuate and aggravate the oppression against which the people are struggling.

We don't believe the people will take this Chinese advice, even though it is handed to them gratuitously by Mr. Morgan's newspaper.

GOOD BUSINESS.

Statistics of foreign trade continue to show the marvelous manner in which the people of this country, in order to readjust themselves to conditions so as to permit a speedy resumption of activity, have curbed their expenditures, while at the same time their revenues from foreign trade have persisted with practically undiminished force.

This country has practically quit buying abroad, because most of its foreign buying consisted of commodities that could be spared. Other nations are not so well situated, and have been unable to meet this by reducing their purchases from us. The result is that our imports have been sharply reduced, while our exports have continued to be enormous.

In February our imports from other lands shrunk from $123,000,000, the record for the same month in 1907, to $79,125,000, a reduction of $43,875,000 or more than one-third.

In the same month our exports were $167,867,762 as against $159,517,221 in the same month a year ago, showing a substantial gain in our sales to compare with a very marked reduction in our purchases.

In the eight months of the fiscal year ending with and including February the excess of exports over imports—constituting the balance of trade in our favor—amounted to the stupendous sum of $520,889,724, a figure never before reached in a similar period in our entire history.

The figures show that our increase is derived about equally from farm products and manufactures.

The sale of farm products is clear gain, and constitutes a real addition to the national wealth. The sale of manufactures is not quite so profitable, it is said. It is pointed out that the exports of manufactures have consisted largely of so-called "dumping" sales, the manufacturers using the foreign markets for getting rid of accumulated stocks. It was stated when the panic swept down that there were practically no evidences of overproduction, and this was generally admitted to be an excellent sign. A large over-production would have meant a long delay in resumption, since industry could not be active until it was cleared away. This was unquestionably true. At the same time, we could not very well cut down our expenses to the extent shown in the curtailment of imports without at the same time reducing our consumption of home-made goods. This reduction produced a surplus that was not in sight when the panic came, and it was necessary to "dump" part of it abroad at comparatively low prices. It might have been as well to "dump" it at home and give our own people the benefit of the low prices, but that is not the way the thing is done, apparently.

At any rate, the sale of so much of our products, whether it was profitable to the sellers or not, means good to the country, because it means that we must resume the process of making these products all the sooner, and that involves a resumption of industrial activity all along the line.

Many rich and tender memories hover over the Drury Lane theater in London, which has been burned.

The Republican majority in congress finds its policy of nothing-doing threatened by the president on the one side and the Democratic minority with its policy of obstruction on the other.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Ever hear of anybody getting near-sighted looking for prosperity and grasshoppers?

Down at the St. Louis there is an elderly man with a skull cap and horn spectacles, who solemnly declares he took to the use of glasses after weathering several seasons devoid of prosperity, out there in the then bleak and unprofitable Kansas. His name is Lemuel Moore.

At the present time, Mr. Moore says, Kansas is one of the banner states of the union. Its wheat crop is one of the largest in the entire country. Its farms are among the finest in the United States. But this change has come over Kansas since some of its pioneers have passed in their time checks fighting the grasshoppers and adversity. Mr. Moore has survived both evils to tell of what a great state Kansas is at the present time.

"Back in the early days," he began, "we had everything but luck. We'd think a good crop was in store when along would come a drought or something else that would eat up the wheat like a hungry negro hews his way through a chicken hand-out. If it wasn't the drought it was something else. I don't ever remember raising a good crop in Kansas in the early days.

"Yes sir, it was adversity and the grasshoppers that made me take to the wearing of glasses. When I went to Kansas from Vermont I was as clear-sighted as anyone you ever saw, could look right over into Neighobr Nelson's and count the steers in his unfenced fields. But perpetual gazing after something that the almighty never brought was a strain that told on my young eyes. On top of that came the grasshopper plague. That settled it. When Kansas was finally rid of the pest of these insects I couldn't see across the road without squinting and peering for five minutes. Then I calculated that I would have to see an eye doctor. Ever since then I have worn these sight stimulators.

"Back in the early days of Kansas we used to organize prayer meetings to break the hoodoo of hard luck. The women folks would do most of the praying, for the men folks were so busy cursing and swearing at the way fortune was breaking that we was kind of meek and lowly when it came to asking any favors from above.

"Finally things got so bad, however, that the women folks said that if we expected any answer to our prayers we would have to add our voices to the sum or requests that was daily wafted up on the parched Kansas atmosphere. Sure enough, we did. I heard some of the funniest prayers that mortal man ever heard. I suppose some of the old boys that sent up prayers were not used to that kind of proceeding. One day I found Bill Baird out behind the cattle shed a studying of the Bible. He looked confused and uneasy when I come upon him. Finally he admitted that he was studying up a prayer to say at that afternoon's offering of prayers. He had made an awful break the previous day.

"Despite our repeated prayers and lamentations the grasshopper curse was added to the drought. Millions of them visited us. The air was black with them. We fought them with every means at our command. Finally many of us got discouraged and just quit. We just thought that Divine Providence had got its dates mixed and was visiting Kansas when it ought to be visiting some wrath on other communities. We gave up the fight.

"Finally, when the plague of grasshoppers left us, I was so nearsighted that I couldn't see the better times that was in store for Kansas. Had to see an oculist. But after the droughts and the grasshoppers got through paying us annual visits we began to prosper. A lot of the early settlers were not on hand to view the first dawn of prosperity, though. They had passed in their checks withstanding the hard knocks that adversity was a dealing from the bottom of the pack.

"I lost my sight looking for a rift in the clouds that were lined with lead. Chasing grasshoppers also got my lamps a twitching sidewise and otherwise. I come near having the St. Vitus' dance after the grasshoppers left us. It's funny how a habit grows upon you. For some time after the grasshoppers had left Kansas the citizens didn't know what to do with their hands. They had been grabbing and flailing away at these insects for days at a time. They just kind of lost control of their voluntary muscles. The habit of prayer stuck, too. Lots of people in Kansas today owe their habit of divine invocation to the annual visit of the drought and the grasshoppers. Some of the more unregenerate citizens owe their vocabulary of profanity to the same cause.

"Today all is changed in Kansas. I live in Emporia. The life of the rancb was too monotonous for me and I moved into the city. But there are few crop failures in Kansas today, and the mortgage is as scarce as was a silver dollar in the early days. They are raising bumper crops of wheat and the citizens are buying automobiles and have all the most modern conveniences in their homes. But a lot of us old timers went broke and retired golden stairward before it was proved that the great commonwealth of Kansas was a fit habitation for a white man."

If Johnson is nominated, said a man at the Lenox yesterday, four months after his inauguration three-fourths of the men in the country will be loafing. This statement immediately precipitated a hot argument. Reasons were demanded.

"Figure it out for yourself," replied the gentleman. "If Mr. Johnson is elected he will be inaugurated March 4. Four months from that date will be July 4, when few of us spend the day in brow moistening labor."

THE WEATHER.

Though it was warmer yesterday, with the thermometer up to 35 degs. it was colder again this morning, last night's lowest being 14 degs. and the weather man says it will be still colder tonight, when the temperature is likely to get down to about zero. This morning it was crispiy cool, with a partly cloudy sky. Tommorrow, the weather man says, it will be warmer, with northeast winds.

A year ago today it was unpleasant with a raw northeast wind bringing rain which froze as it fell.

The sun rose this morning at 5:59 and sets tonight at 6:29, making 12 hours and 30 minutes of sunlight, just four hours longer than the shortest day of the year.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Barometric depressions overlie Utah and Eastern Iowa. These disturbances caused light rains along the Pacific coast and light snow over Montana, the Red River valley and Lake Superior during the past twenty-four hours. Higher temperatures also resulted in the Southwest and from the Mississipi river eastward to the Atlantic coast. An area of high pressure central over North Dakota is attended by much colder weather throughout most of the Northwest and the Rocky Mountains. Zero temperatures prevail in North Dakota, Northern Montana, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Eastern Alberta. The easterly movement of this high pressure will cause colder weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight followed by rising temperature Friday."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Bovey Iron News: People who are ignorant of evil conditions can not be held morally responsible for them. But knowing, if they permit the evil to continue, they become partners and abettors in the wrong. Never was it more evident that the public has a conscience, and morality is held responsible for the evil tendencies of the age.

Hendrum Review: That the big reductions in the salaries of railway employes is a bluff of the railway magnates for political effect, is the opinion of most people. Just what the game is, is not apparent, but no doubt it is for the purpose of creating hard times, so as to discredit Roosevelt's administration and place a corporation tool in the presidential chair as his successor.

Eveleth Star: J. Adam Bede declares that congress is very busy and doing good work, and that the different committees are handling some 500 bills. However, Adam's statement does not jibe well with Walter Wellman's of the Chicago Herald, who is constantly on the ground, nor with Theodore Roosevelt, who is about to send another message to congress requesting that the do-nothing policy subside and that activity take the place of idleness.

"C. D. I." in Cass Lake Times: When sorrow came into the world, sympathy, its twin, was already here.

Aurora News: The editor in proportion to his means does more for his town than any other man. He ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writing, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be crowded with great ideas, but financially it is of more benefit than both teacher and preacher. Today editors do more for less pay than any other men on earth.

Badger Herald-Rustler: Good thoughts are no better than good dreams unless they find expression in good deeds and words.

Pine River Sentinel: The Denver convention is apt to be of much shorter duration than the rival convention of the Republicans. The air at Denver is so rare that you can't make a speech lasting much over five minutes.

Walker Pilot: There is nothing of the boss or dictator about Bob Dunn in his efforts to make Jacobson the unanimous choice of the people for governor. It's just a heart to heart talk he's given 'em and we verily believe the people are beginning to lik Jacobson in spite of themselves.

Hibbing Tribune: The Minneapolis Methodists are scolding Chancellor Day of Syracuse. They take him too seriously. Roosevelt does not mind it a bit, and the peppery old chancellor is no end of fun to the country.

THE POLITICAL KALEIDOSCOPE.

A mere glance over a single day's political news—that of yesterday—shows that the season of politics is in full swing, attended by the usual demonstrations of a sultry and more or less violent character.

At Nashville the Republicans in state convention duly assembled had a row that would have done credit to a Democratic gathering. The chairman of the state central committee was mobbed and his clothes nearly torn off. He was taken up by a crowd of opponents and carried to a balcony, from which he was about to be thrown into the street when cooler counsels prevailed. Also, one factionist, by way of argument, broke four folding chairs over the sturdy head of a negro delegate whom he was trying to inspire with the conviction of error.

At Columbus 300 leading Ohio Democrats gathered for a "harmony meeting," and the report states that "the meeting was a stormy one and the proceedings were attended by much confusion." This, as everybody must have been noted, is characteristic of harmony meetings in politics.

At Springfield, Ill., Republicans gathering for today's state convention gave it out that they had decided to drop the word "revision" in reference to the tariff because it scents too horribly of reduction, and to substitute therefor the word "adjustment" as being more euphemistic and more elastic. Also, it was stated that the Cannon boom was to be revived at this convention. It has lately exhibited signs of faintness, and has had several dangerous sinking spells.

In Chicago there was a harmonious meeting of the Democratic state central committee, with the friends of Roger Sullivan in full charge, and reports of the recent love feast between Mr. Bryan and Mr Sullivan were substantiated by the action of the committee in endorsing the former for president in emphatic language. A very similar condition existed in Indianapolis, where the fight against Tom Taggart, national Democratic chairman, proved unavailing, and an endorsement of him was coupled with an endorsement of Mr Bryan.

In North Dakota the Democrats had a very harmonious convention, without any of the usual pugnacious attributes of political harmony, and Bryan was endorsed for the presidency.

In Minnesota a long step toward sweetness and light in Republican state politics was taken when Joel P. Heatwole of Northfield announced his candidacy for the governorship. Mr Heatwole's association with previous Republican harmony has been so intimate as to make it quite certain that his appearance in the game means a new burst of real harmony of the Kelkenny cat variety.

Not the least important political item was President Roosevelt's intimation to the Republican majority in congress that it ought to bestir itself and enact certain very important measures which the people demand and which the Republican majority has evidently determined not to adopt. Coupled with this is the announced determination of the Democratic minority to obstruct everything unless the Republicans agree to put through certain of these measures which the president has approved.

Also, James J. Hill grumbled pessimistically about the railroad situation in Washington, which is a political item also, being an intimation to both parties that they ought to be good to the railroads if they want prosperity to return.

THE CARNEGIE RELIEF FUND.

While society itself has not awakened to the need of systematic action for the relief of men who are killed or become dependent through the conditions of their employment, and has provided no legislation covering their needs, the evidence that such legislation is needed is accumulating rapidly, and in the meantime some slight alleviation is being provided by the spontaneous action of a few employers, more humane and more grateful to the labor that makes them rich than the rest.

Custom has put the burden too much upon the workingman himself. Experience is bearing out Lassalle's "iron law of wages" by showing that the tendency is to keep wages barely above the line of dire necessity, leaving little margin for protection against accident and old age. When a worker is employed, he and his family can live. When he is injured, killed or superannuated, he and his family can shift for themselves as best they may, while the employer calmly fills the vacant place out of the ever sufficient supply of labor. Under usual conditions the employe who is injured, or his family if he is killed, have their only recourse in the courts. There they find laws and precedents framed not in their interests, but in the interests of the employing classes. They find themselves pitted against the best legal talent, which the employers retain permanently to defend such actions.

In short, the laborer gives his strength while he has it and gets little more than a living out of it, and goes down and out, he and his dependent ones together, when his strength is gone. It isn't fair, and it should not be allowed to remain that way.

One of the most interesting private attempts to alleviate the evils of this condition is the Carnegie relief fund. Six years ago Mr. Carnegie set aside $4,000,000 to insure the employes in the Carnegie companies a certain compensation in case of injuries, death, or incapacity from disease and old age. If a married employe is killed $500 is paid to the widow with $100 additional for each child under 16. If the employe is unmarried, $500 is paid to those depending upon his earnings, if there are any such dependents. In case of injuries by which a man is disabled more than a year, 75 cents a day is paid to single men and $1 a day to married men, beginning a year after the date of injury and continuing through the period of disability. If an employe becomes incapacitated through age after fifteen years' service he receives 15 per cent of his average monthly pay during his entire term of service, thus giving him $7.50 a month for life if his earnings averaged $50 monthly. During 1907 there was paid out of this fund $216,764, and during the six years of its operation it has paid out $1,129,117.

Some day these matters will be regulated by law and made compulsory upon all employers, as they are in older countries where there is less political freedom but far more economic freedom than there is in this nation.

A PERNICIOUS EQUILIBRIUM.

The New York Sun, in its absurd but lifelike imitation of King Canute in which it sternly commands the sea of progress to recede, has raked the highways and byways of literature and statesmanship for reactionary counsel, and now it has got back to the fifth century before Christ, and finds itself in China. It quotes Tse-Sze as follows:

> Let the state of equilibrium and harmony exist in perfection and a happy order will prevail throughout heaven and earth, and all things will be nourished and flourish.

In the first place, no Chinese philosopher of the dim past is needed to inform us how to run this country. Wise though he may have been, the people of this day and place know more about it than he does.

In the second place, there can be no "state of equilibrium" in society until society achieves perfection, and there can be no "harmony" between good and evil. What this Chinaman said twenty-four centuries ago, therefore, may have a pleasing sound, but it has no real meaning that is applicable to society in an imperfect state; and society will be in an imperfect state so long as a few men like those the Sun represents are wielding a power that is oppressive, corruptive and degrading.

In the third place, the only terms upon which the Sun and its friends would accept a "state of equilibrium" or agree to "harmony" would be terms that the masses of the people could not accept without becoming ignoble slaves. What the Sun really means is that we should take our hands off big business and let it proceed in its career of drunken power, and that if we do this "a happy order will prevail throughout heaven and earth, and all things will be nourished and flourish."

We do not believe that the people will be contented with any such terms. They are beginning to see that an excessive worship of the rights of property has led government to conduct itself for the glorification and profit of "big business" without a due regard to the rights of the masses. "Big business" has flourished and been nourished until it has waxed grossly fat and arrogant, while the ordinary run of people have found it increasingly difficult to meet the problems of bare living, with dependent age and helpless invalidism a haunting and hopeless terror by the way. A few have reaped in infamous luxuries while the many struggled for bread. The hypocrisy of high wages has been exposed by the reality of high cost of living. The nation's wealth has been diverted from the many producers to the few parasites.

It is with such conditions as these that the people would have to content themselves if they accepted the Sun's interpretation of Tse-Sze's platitudes, and permitted the Sun's friends to maintain a "state of equilibrium and harmony" which would perpetuate and aggravate the oppression against which the people are struggling.

We don't believe the people will take this Chinese advice, even though it is handed to them gratuitously by Mr. Morgan's newspaper.

GOOD BUSINESS.

Statistics of foreign trade continue to show the marvelous manner in which the people of this country, in order to readjust themselves to conditions so as to permit a speedy resumption of activity, have curbed their expenditures, while at the same time their revenues from foreign trade have persisted with practically undiminished force.

This country has practically quit buying abroad, because most of its foreign buying consisted of commodities that could be spared. Other nations are not so well situated, and have been unable to meet this by reducing their purchases from us. The result is that our imports have been sharply reduced, while our exports have continued to be enormous.

In February our imports from other lands shrank from $123,000,000, the record for the same month in 1907, to $79,125,000, a reduction of $43,875,000 or more than one-third.

In the same month our exports were $167,867,702 as against $150,517,221 in the same month a year ago, showing a substantial gain in our sales to compare with a very marked reduction in our purchases.

In the eight months of the fiscal year ending with and including February the excess of exports over imports—constituting the balance of trade in our favor—amounted to the stupendous sum of $520,880,724, a figure never before reached in a similar period in our entire history.

The figures show that our increase is derived about equally from farm products and manufactures.

The sale of farm products is clear gain, and constitutes a real addition to the national wealth. The sale of manufactures is not quite so profitable, it is said. It is pointed out that the exports of manufactures have consisted largely of so-called "dumping" sales, the manufacturers using the foreign markets for getting rid of accumulated stocks. It was stated when the panic swept down that there were practically no evidences of overproduction, and this was generally admitted to be an excellent sign. A large over-production would have meant a long delay in resumption, since industry could not be active until it was cleared away. This was unquestionably true. At the same time, we could not very well cut down our expenses to the extent shown in the curtailment of imports without at the same time reducing our consumption of home-made goods. This reduction produced a surplus that was not in sight when the panic came, and it was necessary to "dump" part of it abroad at comparatively low prices. It might have been as well to "dump" it at home and give our own people the benefit of the low prices, but that is not the way the thing is done, apparently.

At any rate, the sale of so much of our products, whether it was profitable to the sellers or not, means good to the country, because it means that we must resume the process of making these products all the sooner, and that involves a resumption of industrial activity all along the line.

Many rich and tender memories hover over the Drury Lane theater in London, which has been burned.

The Republican majority in congress finds its policy of nothing-doing threatened by the president on the one side and the Democratic minority with its policy of obstruction on the other.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Ever hear of anybody getting nearsighted looking for prosperity and grasshoppers?

Down at the St. Louis there is an elderly man with a skull cap and horn spectacles, who solemnly declares he took to the use of glasses after weathering several seasons devoid of prosperity, out there in the then bleak and unprofitable Kansas. His name is Lemuel Moore.

At the present time, Mr. Moore says, Kansas is one of the banner states of the union. Its wheat crop is one of the largest in the entire country. Its farms are among the finest in the United States. But this change has come over Kansas since some of its pioneers have passed in their time checks fighting the grasshoppers and adversity. Mr. Moore has survived both evils to tell of what a great state Kansas is at the present time.

"Back in the early days," he began, "we had everything but luck. We'd think a good crop was in store when along would come a drought or something else that would eat up the wheat like a hungry negro hews his way through a chicken hand-out. If it wasn't the drought it was something else. I don't ever remember raising a good crop in Kansas in the early days.

"Yes sir, it was adversity and the grasshoppers that made me take to the wearing of glasses. When I went to Kansas from Vermont I was as clear-sighted as anyone you ever saw, could look right over into Neighbor Nelson's and count the steers in his unfenced fields. But perpetual gazing after something that the almighty never brought was a strain that told on my young eyes. On top of that came the grasshopper plague. That settled it. When Kansas was finally rid of the pest of these insects I couldn't see across the road without squinting and peering for five minutes. Then I calculated that I would have to see an eye doctor. Ever since then I have worn these sight stimulators.

"Back in the early days of Kansas we used to organize prayer meetings to break the hoodoo of hard luck. The women folks would do most of the praying, for the men folks were so busy cursing and swearing at the way fortune was breaking that we was kind of meek and lowly when it came to asking any favors from above.

"Finally things got so bad, however, that the women folks said that if we expected any answer to our prayers we would have to add our voices to the sum or requests that was daily wafted up on the parched Kansas atmosphere. Sure enough, we did. I heard some of the funniest prayers that mortal man ever heard. I suppose some of the old boys that sent up prayers were not used to that kind of proceeding. One day I found Bill Baird out behind the cattle shed a studying of the Bible. He looked confused and uneasy when I come upon him. Finally he admitted that he was studying up a prayer to say at that afternoon's offering of prayers. He had made an awful break the previous day.

"Despite our repeated prayers and lamentations the grasshopper curse was added to the drought. Millions of them visited us. The air was black with them. We fought them with every means at our command. Finally many of us got discouraged and just quit. We just thought that Divine Providence had got its dates mixed and was visiting Kansas when it ought to be visiting some wrath on other communities. We gave up the fight.

"Finally, when the plagues of grasshoppers left us, I was so nearsighted that I couldn't see the better times that was in store for Kansas. Had to see an oculist. But after the droughts and the grasshoppers got through paying us annual visits we began to prosper. A lot of the early settlers were not on hand to view the first dawn of prosperity, though. They had passed in their checks withstanding the hard knocks that adversity was a dealing from the bottom of the pack.

"I lost my sight looking for a rift in the clouds that were filled with hail. Chasing grasshoppers also got my lamps a twitching sidewise and otherwise. I come near having the St. Vitus' dance after the grasshoppers left us. It's funny how a habit grows upon you. For some time after the grasshoppers had left Kansas the citizens didn't know what to do with their hands. They had been grabbing and flailing away at these insects for days at a time. They just kind of lost control of their voluntary muscles. The habit of prayer stuck, too. Lots of people in Kansas today owe their habit of divine invocation to the annual visit of the drought and the grasshoppers. Some of the more unregenerate citizens owe their vocabulary of profanity to the same cause.

"Today all is changed in Kansas. I live in Emporia. The life is fine, ranch was too monotonous for me and I moved into the city. But there are few crop failures in Kansas today, and the mortgage is as scarce as was a silver dollar in the early days. They are raising bumper crops of wheat and the citizens are buying automobiles and have all the most modern conveniences in their homes. But a lot of us old timers went broke and never dared golden stairward before it was proved that the great commonwealth of Kansas was a fit habitation for a white man."

If Johnson is nominated, said a man at the Lenox yesterday, four months after his inauguration three-fourths of the men in the country will be dead. This statement immediately precipitated a hot argument. Reasons were demanded.

"Figure it out for yourself," replied the gentleman. "If Mr. Johnson is elected he will be inaugurated March 4. Four months from that date will be July 4, when few of us spend the day in brow moistening labor."

THE WEATHER.

Though it was warmer yesterday, with the thermometer up to 36 degs., it was colder again this morning, last night's lowest being 14 degs. and the weather man says it will be still colder tonight, when the temperature is likely to get down to about zero. This morning it was crisply cool, with a partly cloudy sky. Tommorrow, the weather man says, it will be warmer, with northeast winds.

A year ago today it was unpleasant with a raw northeast wind bringing rain which froze as it fell.

The sun rose this morning at 5:59 and sets tonight at 6:28, making 12 hours and 29 minutes of sunlight, just four hours longer than the shortest day of the year.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Barometric depressions overlie Utah and Eastern Iowa. These disturbances caused light rains along the Pacific coast and light snow over Montana, the Red River valley and Lake Superior during the past twenty-four hours. Higher temperatures also resulted in the Southwest and from the Mississippi river eastward to the Atlantic coast. An area of high pressure central over North Dakota is attended by much colder weather throughout most of the Northwest and the Rocky Mountains. Zero temperatures prevail in North Dakota, Northern Montana, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Eastern Alberta. The easterly movement of this high pressure will cause colder weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight followed by rising temperature Friday."

WHITTLED TO A POINT.

Baltimore American: "Sir, I have come to ask you for your daughters' hand."

"Take her, dear boy. As I have just failed, your proposition is a very handy one."

Washington Star: "Is it a good idea to make a speech whenever you get a chance?" said the young man who is learning the statesmanship business.

"It depends," answered Senator Sorgum, "on whether your speech is the kind that shows your constituents how much you do know or how much you don't."

Philadelphia Press: "Boss," said the beggar, "I'm here to give you a chance to become blessed."

"What are you talking about?" asked the pedestrian.

"Why, de Bible says 'It's more blessed to give dan to receive,' and here's yer chance."

Houston Post: "Uncle Hank, the railways have got a new safety device that—"

"Don't care to hear anything about it, Clarence. I've got a safety device of my own that beats it all to thunder."

"What is it, uncle?"

"Never travelin' on 'em."

Chicago Tribune: The teacher in the Darktown school was hearing the class in geography.

"What is known as the Great Divide?" she asked.

"Cuttin' a big watermilon?" answered little Rastus with a grin that showed all his ivories.

Judge: Captain—If I see your face in my house again I shall slap it.

Noble Foreigner—Ah! but it ees a punishable offense.

Captain—Of course it is. That is why I want to slap it.

Philadelphia Press: "What are you doing here, my poor man?" asked the sympathetic lady visitor to the prisoner.

"Doin' time, mum," answered the convict.

"But what are you doing time for?"

"For doin' other people, mum."

Washington Herald: "Do you think that our navy needs reform?"

"Great Scott!" answered the magazine editor. "Did you ever hear of anything that doesn't?"

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Love letters are equal parts hysterics and imagination.

A girl wants to have golden hair even if it must be red.

A man can fall into any habit except that of having good ones.

A woman wants her husband to go to church so as to show what a good influence she has over him.

It's less of a trial to eat your wife's meals and tell her you like them than to stand her tears if you don't.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Bovey Iron News: People who are ignorant of evil conditions can not be held morally responsible for them. But knowing, if they permit the evil to continue, they become partners and abettors in the wrong. Never was it more evident that the public has a conscience, and morality is held responsible for the evil tendencies of the age.

Hendrum Review: That the big reductions in the salaries of railway employes is a bluff of the railway magnates for political effect, is the opinion of most people. Just what the game is, is not apparent, but no doubt it is for the purpose of creating hard times, so as to discredit Roosevelt's administration and place a corporation tool in the presidential chair as his successor.

Ecleth Star: J. Adam Bede declares that congress is very busy and doing good work, and that the different committees are handling some 500 bills. However, Adam's statement does not jibe well with Walter Wellman's of the Chicago Herald, who is constantly on the ground, nor with Theodore Roosevelt, who is about to send another message to congress requesting that the do-nothing policy subside and that activity take the place of idleness.

"C. D. I." in Cass Lake Times: When sorrow came into the world, sympathy, its twin, was already here.

Aurora News: The editor in proportion to his means does more for his town than any other man. He ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writing, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be crowded with great ideas, but financially it is of more benefit than both teacher and preacher. Today editors do more for less pay than any other men on earth.

Badger Herald-Rustler: Good thoughts are no better than good dreams unless they find expression in good deeds and words.

Pine River Sentinel: The Denver convention is apt to be of much shorter duration than the rival convention of the Republicans. The air at Denver is so rare that you can't make a speech lasting much over five minutes.

Walker Pilot: There is nothing of the boss or dictator about Bob Dunn in his efforts to make Jacobson the unanimous choice of the people for governor. It's just a heart to heart talk he's given 'em and we verily believe the people are beginning to lik Jacobson in spite of themselves.

Hibbing Tribune: The Minneapolis Methodists are scolding Chancellor Day of Syracuse. They take him too seriously. Roosevelt does not mind it a bit, and the peppery old chancellor is no end of fun to the country.

We could buy beans as low as 30c per bushel, yet we pay seven times that

A certain soil in Michigan, rich in nitrogen, produces the best beans grown. That is where we get ours.

We get only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown. Ours are picked out by hand from the choicest part of the crop.

It is easy to see—is it not?—why some baked beans may cost a little less than Van Camp's.

We pay $3.45 for the ripe tomatoes used to make a barrel of our sauce

Yet we could buy tomato juice for 75c per barrel.

Cheap sauce is made from tomatoes picked green, and ripened in shipment. But such sauce is flat. Some is made from scraps of a canning factory. Such sauce is not rich.

Ours is made only from whole tomatoes ripened on the vines—picked when the juice fairly sparkles.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees. That heat is essential to make beans digestible, and no home can apply it.

We bake in live steam. Thus we bake the beans well without browning or bursting. The result is that nutty flavor.

We bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together. Thus we get our delicious blend.

Keep a dozen cans in the house—a delicious meal is then always ready

Perhaps you eat beans once a week now. You will want them every day when you once know Van Camp's.

Beans are 84 per cent nutriment. They supply about the same food value as meat, at a far lower cost.

And think how convenient. Put the can in hot water, and you have a steaming hot meal in ten minutes.

10, 15 and 20¢ per can.

"BIM THE BUTTON MAN,"

Widely Known in Political Circles, is Found Dead in Bed.

New York, March 26.—Meyer R. Bimberg, known widely as "Bim the Button Man," was found dead in bed last night. A week ago, Mr. Bimberg contracted a cold, which developed into tonsilitis. An hour or two before he was found dead, a physician had sprayed his throat and Bimberg settled himself in bed for a nap. He was born in this city 46 years ago, and is survived by a widow and daughter of 14 years.

In recent years, Mr. Bimberg built six theaters and for three years managed the Yorkville theater, but it was as the manufacturer of campaign buttons that he was known outside of New York. He staked his fortune repeatedly on his convention forecasts only to double it, and his predictions were fulfilled. Upon the return of the troops from Cuba at the close of the Spanish-American war, Mr. Bimberg is credited with having met President Roosevelt at Montauk Point, and told him that he would be the next governor of New York. Before the Saratoga convention, "Bim" manufactured 100,000,000 buttons. Subsequently he predicted the nomination of McKinley and Roosevelt by the Republican national convention and amassed a neat sum. Preceding elections, Bim made up buttons bearing the likenesses of the probable candidates and guessed so well that he was eventually rated as a millionaire. More recently he had devoted more of his time to the business of a building contractor.

CONFESSION CAUSED BY GUILTY CONSCIENCE.

New York, March 26.—Explaining that he was so troubled by his conscience that he could not sleep, William Sangster, 35 years old, walked into police headquarters last night and asked that he be held for a murder committed at Montreal in November last. He said that he had no home and had since wandered about the Eastern states.

According to the story, Sangster told the police, he shot and killed S. H. Delorme, a farmer, at the latter's home near Montreal, and robbed him of $50. Two men had been arrested in Montreal relative to the crime, Sangster said. The police locked him up and communicated with Chief Silas Carpenter of the police department of Montreal.

Montreal, March 26.—While returning from market to his home at Back River, near Montreal, on Oct. 26 last, Pierre Delorme was attacked by two highwaymen, and when he refused to give up his money, was shot by one of the men. He died two weeks afterwards. A detective will be sent to New York, and Sangster probably will be brought here for trial.

GOLDFIELD BANK PRESIDENT INDICTED.

Goldfield, Nev., March 26.—The Esmeralda county grand jury, as a result of its investigation into the affairs of the State Bank & Trust company yesterday found two indictments against President Rickey, charging embezzlement. The report scores the state bank examiners and implies that their failure to act was due to the fact that Rickey made the state a preferred creditor and finally secured the state's account with marketable bonds and stock, which were converted into cash, the state coming out whole. The grand jury finds "that the rehabilitation committee, so-called, is composed of attorneys and relatives of the board of directors of the defunct institution and that their expenses and salaries are being paid out of the remnant of the depositors' money."

INSTRUCTED FOR BRYAN

North Dakota Democrats Unanimously Indorse the Nebraskan.

Governor Burke's Course Approved and Convention Delegates Chosen.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—After almost three hours of oratory, yesterday afternoon, the committee on resolutions of the North Dakota Democratic convention reported resolutins, the chief purpse of which was the endorsement of William J. Bryan as the nominee of the national convention at Denver. The resolutions instructed the delegates of the North Dakota convention to vote as a unit for Mr. Bryan. After all statements from the Johnson men that an instructed delegation would be contested, and that there would be a second choice candidate in the person of Governor Johnson, the fact that there was not a dissenting voice raised when a vote was called for, caused some surprise even among the staunchest Bryan men who, although they have all along claimed that they had enough votes to carry through their resolutions, thought that possibly a contest might be made. Up to the hour of the assembling of the afternoon session the Johnson men said they would introduce a second choice resolution, but the reslution was not forthcoming.

That part of the resolutions relating to W. J. Bryan says:

"The Democracy of North Dakota, in convention assembled, believing that William Jennings Bryan represents the truest type of American citizenship, and is the natural leader of the reform forces of the United States of America, be it therefore resolved that the delegates from this convention to the national Democratic convention at Denver be, and they are hereby instructed to vote as a unit for the nomination of William Jennings Bryan for president of the United States.

Governor Burke Indorsed.

A seperate set of resolutions was unanimously adopted endorsing Governor Burke's administration. Following the resolutions, the nomination of national committeemen was in order. The names of William Collins of Bottineau, E. E. Cole of Fargo and Max Wippermann of Hankinson were placed in the field, and the roll call showed that Collins had won. The vote was made unanimous by rising vote.

Governor John Burke was chosen as delegate-at-large by acclamation.

Delegates to the national convention at Denver were elected by the state convention delegates from each of the eight judicial districts of the state, except the Eighth where Governor John Burke resides. As he was elected to represent the state at large, no delegate was chosen to represent his judicial district. John Bruger was elected as alternate for the eighth district for Governor Burke.

The other delegates follow: First district, David Gorham; second, E. B. Page; third, M. A. Hildreth; fourth, P. H. Perry; fifth, G. W. Swelbel; sixth, Frank Lish; seventh, J. W. McLean.

Alternates follow: First, A. B. Lamb; second, Marion Aldrich; third, John Carmody; Fourth, Jens Peterson; fifth, Albert Larson; Sixth, C. R. True; seventh, Gus Brekke.

The convention adjourned sine die at 6:50 p. m.

MEETING VERY SUCCESSFUL

State Commercial Club Federation is Doing Good Work.

The executive committee of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs held a very successful meeting yesterday in St. Paul, which was attended by Secretary H. V. Eva of the Duluth Commercial club, who returned to Duluth last evening. He is the committee member from this congressional district.

"The gathering yesterday," said Mr. Eva, "was for the purpose of outlining a plan and policy of operation for the ensuing year. Those in attendance at the meeting showed much enthusiasm in the work. We believe the federation will be able to accomplish much effective work.

"I find that many of the commercial clubs outside the three large cities of the state are inclined to look upon the federation as a Duluth-Twin City proposition, but that is not the idea at all. This federation is for the benefit of the whole state, and we want every club in the state to be an active member. There are 350 commercial clubs in the state, and the main work of the executive committee will be to line them up. Each member of the committee will look after the work of organization in his own congressional district. That will simplify matters and avoid any confusion."

ONE FACTION NAMES TICKET

At the Tennessee Republican Convention—Meets Thursday.

Nashville, Tenn., March 26.—One Tennesse faction of the Republican party held its convention yesterday. By sheer force of numbers and fighting power, the Brownlow, Oliver-Austin crowd took and held the hall. They nominated Ernest Caldwell for supreme court judge. Jesse L. Rogers, D. C. Swab, Jesse M. Littleton and H. B. Anderson were chosen for delegates-at-large to the national convention. For electors for the state at large, T. A. Lancaster and Raymond B. Harrison were successful.

The convention adopted a motion that delegates to the national convention go uninstructed. Roosevelt is indorsed in the resolutions adopted, which also instruct for Oliver for national committeeman and urge the state committee to call a primary to nominate a candidate for governor.

The state committee was reorganized and the secretary of the convention instructed to communicate with the Evans people and submit a proposition to let their claims of the rival factions go before the people in a Republican primary, the expenses of which W. J. Oliver offered to pay.

The Evans-Holt forces held no convention, but will meet today and get out a ticket.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

It was announced that the Commonwealth Steel company will re-open its big plant at Granite City, Ill., next Monday afternoon after a month of illness. One thousand men will be employed. General improvement in business is the cause of the resumption.

Ferdinand Dudenhofer, formerly tax collector of the Third district of New Orleans, who disappeared a year ago, was arrested at his home at New Orleans Wednesday. It is alleged Dudenhofer was short in his accounts about $5,000.

The coroner's jury in the inquest on the death of Walter Farnsworth Baker, which occurred at Bogota, N. J., on Oct. 27, 1907, returned a verdict Wednesday night that Baker died from arsenical poisoning administered by some person or persons unknown to the jury.

W. J. Bryan speaking under the auspices of the general assembly of Virginia, addressed an audience of some 7,000 in the city auditorium at Richmond, Wednesday night. Several times as many more thronged around the building in the futile effort to gain entrance.

Lampton of Mississippi was named to perfect the organization. Oliver Randolph, a clerk in the treasury department was elected secretary. The league will open headquarters.

The lives of thirty-five guests were endangered in a fire in the Commercial hotel in Oneonta, N. Y., early Wednesday. Some were saved by ladders and others slid down rope fire escapes. All lost their possessions including their clothing. The loss on the building is $4,000.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by all druggists.

HIGHWAYMEN GET PAYROLL

President of Lincoln, Ill., Bank Robbed of $5,000.

Peoria, Ill., March 26.—Frank Forer, president of a Lincoln, Ill., bank, and owner of the Lincoln Mining company, was held up by highwaymen yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and robbed of $5,000—the monthly payroll of the company. Three men did the work and two of them were caught, but the third escaped with the money after a running fight with the police and deputies. The robbery occurred within two blocks of the public square. Frorer was on the way to the mine in a light wagon, carrying two satcheis containing the money in small amounts, already counted for the miners. He was approached on the street b ythree men in a buggy and two of them got out of the buggy and jumping into Frore's rig quickly bore him to the ground and grabbed the satchels, threw them into the buggy, jumped in and started out of the city at a fast clip. Frorer, who was not seriously injured, returned to the office and notified the officials. The sheriff and the night captain of the police started at once and pursued the robbers two miles, at which point two men left the buggy and took to the corn fields. After a short time they were discovered and a duel began. Five shots were fired before the two surrendered, but neither was injured. The men refuse to give their names and so far have not been identified. The third man, who escaped, was dark complexioned, about five feet ten inches tall and wore brown clothes.

WANTS AN INVESTIGATION.

Buffalo Academy Asks Probing of Typhoid Epidemic on North West.

The Buffalo Academy of Medicine is prosecuting its investigation of the typhoid fever epidemic on the steamer North West, last fall, with unrelenting rigor. Appeal has been made to the United States Public Health and Marine hospital service for aid in probing the matter.

Last fall The Herald printed accounts of the typhoid fever scare on board the North West. Many of the passengers who were landed here were suffering from the ailment, and not a few of the ship's crew were down sick. For more than one trip the disease was prevalent on board, and it is said that about 200 cases, and not a few fatalities, resulted.

In the last issue of the American Medical Association's Journal, there appeared a communication to United States Surgeon General Wyman, calling attention to the epidemic, and asking that steps be taken to have it thoroughly investigated. The Buffalo academy wants the surgeon general to appoint a legal board, which shall compel the Northern Steamship company to give all desired information concerning the epidemic. The disease was caused, they say, by impure water.

GILLETTE MUST DIE.

Albany, N. Y., March 26.—Chester Gillette of Courtland must die in the electric chair at Auburn prison next week for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Brown, at Big Moose Lake, two years ago. Governor Hughes definitely announced last night that he had carefully examined the evidence in the case and had found no ground to justify him in interfering with the judgment of the court.

GROWING STRONGER

Apparently, With Advancing Age.

"In 1896 at the age of 50 years, I collapsed from excessive coffee drinking," writes a man in Mo. "For four years I shambled about with the aid of crutches or cane, most of the time unable to dress myself without help.

"My feet were greatly swoolen, my right arm was shrunken and twisted inward, the fingers of my right hand were clinched and could not be extended except with great effort and pain. Nothing seemed to give me more than temporary relief.

"Now, during all this time and for about thirty years previously, I drank daily an average of six cups of strong coffee—rarely missing a meal.

"My wife at last took my case into her own hands and bought some Postum. She made it according to directions and I liked it fully as well as the best high-grade coffee.

"Improvement set in at once. In about six months I began to work a little, and in less than a year I was very much better, improving rapidly from day to day. I am now in far better health than most men of my years and apparently growing stronger with advancing age.

"I am busy every day at some kind of work and am able to keep up with the procession without a cane. The arm and hand that were once almost useless, now keep far ahead in rapidity of movement and beauty of penmanship."

"There's a reason," Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

TACOMA PEOPLE FOOLED BY A FAIR STRANGER.

Tacoma, Wash., March 26.—The slickest woman confidence game ever worked in this city was carried out recently by a handsome, well-dressed young woman about 25. She carried credentials showing her to be the traveling salesman of perfumery manufacturers, and she had a line of samples that looked good to the buyers of the drug stores, department stores and other establishments that handle perfumery.

Although her prices were higher than ordinary, her smooth talk and sweet, smiling face caused practically every buyer to fall a victim. She took orders for goods running from $5 to $50, a total of about $1,000. In about a week, the goods arrived, packed in strong boxes, and the contents well wrapped and placed in handsome cases.

In about five days customers began to kick on the new perfumery. It was not as represented, they said. Then an investigation was made and it was discovered that all the pretty bottles contained was a weak solution of alcohol, with just a dash of scent to it. The lady with the sweet face and winning smile was far away in New York, perhaps, and she had $900 in good cold coin.

ASSAULTED CONDUCTOR.

London, March 26.—In the West London police court today, Magistrate Garrett sentenced Dr. Stanton Coit, the noted writer and lecturer, to one month's imprisonment for assault on the conductor of an omnibus on which he was a passenger. Dr. Coit denies the charge. He has been liberated pending an appeal.

HEATWOLE A CANDIDATE.

Favors County Option and Against Brewers Owning Retail Licenses.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—Joel P. Heatwole of Northfield is a candidate for governor on a "county option" platform. His announcement, made yesterday in the Albert Lea Times-Enterprise, takes advanced ground on the liquor question, and on the subject of railroad and corporation control. With county option on the liquor license question a live issue in each legislative district, it is bound to cut a figure in the campaign for governor, and the Heatwole announcement opens up the issue in the preconvention contest for the Republican nomination. He also favors revoking retail liquor licenses in which brewing companies, wholesale liquor dealers or distillers have an interest and would forfeit the charters of such corporations interested in retail licenses.

Mr. Heatwole takes a receptive attitude toward the nomination, but with his well known aptness for the political game, no one expects him to sit and wait for the nomination to come his way. He will be an active factor in the contest.

Judge Ira B. Mills, chairman of the state railroad and warehouse commission, is a candidate for renomination at the hands of the Republican state convention, which meets July 1.

W. E. Young of Mankato, who, is finishing his first term on the board is also a candidate for renomination.

Kokomo Woman Gives a Fortune

Receives Hundreds of Requests Daily.

In the past few years Mrs. Cora B. Miller has spent $125,000.00 in giving medical treatment to afflicted women.

Some time ago we announced in the columns of this paper that she would send free treatment to every woman who suffered from female diseases or piles.

More than a million women have accepted this generous offer, and as Mrs. Miller is still receiving requests from thousands of women from all parts of the world, who have not yet used the remedy, she has decided to continue the offer for a while longer, at least.

This is the simple mild and harmless preparation that has cured so many women in the privacy of their own homes after doctors and other remedies failed.

It is especially prepared for the speedy and permanent cure of leucorrhoea or whitish discharges, ulceration, displacements or falling of the womb, profuse, scanty or painful periods, uterine or ovarian tumors or growths; also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness and piles from any cause, or no matter of how long standing.

Every woman sufferer, unable to find relief, who will write Mrs. Miller now, without delay, will receive by mail free of charge, a 50-cent box of this simple home remedy, also a book with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer and how they can easily cure themselves at home without the aid of a physician.

Don't suffer another day, but write at once to Mrs. Cora B. Miller, 4916 Miller building, Kokomo, Indiana.

GREAT DIAMOND SALE

1/4 Off All Diamonds and Diamond Jewelry 1/4

IN SPITE of the fact that we have already been advised of an increase of 5 per cent on the price of diamonds on May 15th, and a further increase of 10 per cent in the near future, we offer every article of diamond jewelry in the store at exactly one-fourth off our present very reasonable prices. A sale like this comes but seldom. It wouldn't come now, but for reasons known only to ourselves. The vital point is that the values are here, exactly as we give them. Think of saving over $250 on a single purchase on goods that will constantly increase in value. Those who have the money to spare will never have a better opportunity for a safe investment. Every article is worth intrinsically its regular price, and more, as this store has always been recognized as selling its goods, quality for quality, at "a little less." In our 20 years' business career, we have never broken a promise, and we say to you, in all sincerity, that this is the greatest buying opportunity we have ever offered.

Diamonds Will Be Higher.
At a meeting of the jewelers' board of trade held in New York, the reports printed in papers throughout the country, that the prices of diamonds would fall, were stamped as false and malicious. Instead of a decrease in price, a sharp rise of at least 10 per cent is expected not later than July 1st. As the mines have attained a great depth, mining is more difficult and expensive. Therefore the expected rise in prices.—From The Duluth Evening Herald, March 25, 1908.

BACK FROM THE NORTH

W. George Little Will Build Sawmill at Fort Frances.

Says Outlook is for Busy Summer on the Border.

W. George Little of 624 North Fifty-sixth avenue west has just returned from a few days in Fort Frances, Ont., where he has been awarded a contract to build and operate a lumber mill for the Christie & Sissons company. Mr. Little says that he will pick up his crew in West Duluth and will return to Fort Frances by the first of the month, when he will start on the construction. Later, when the mill is completed, he expects to get more men from West Duluth to operate it.

Mr. Little says that Fort Frances is a bustling little town of about 2,500 people, and will be accessible by three railroads as soon as the Minnesota & International railroad finishes its line to International Falls. Then there will be the Minnesota & International, the Canadian Northern, and the Virginia & Rainy Lake roads connecting it with the outside world.

"The work on the Virginia & Rainy Lake's railroad bridge between Ranier and International Falls is progressing rapidly," said Mr. Little, "and work will be continued on the international concrete dam between International Falls and Fort Frances as soon as the ice goes out of the river. The dam is being built by pulpwood manufacturers to furnish them with power for their mills. The coming summer promises to be a very active one at those three towns."

When asked about the amount of snow still in the woods in Northern Minnesota and Canada, Mr. Little said that there was very little remaining; that most of the lumber camps were breaking up for the season, and that great crowds of men were pouring into Ranier and International Falls every day from the woods.

NO MORE SALOONS.

Effort Will be Made to Clean Up Grand Avenue.

The movement on foot in West Duluth to rid Grand avenue of saloons, has won its first victory. It is stated that Theodore Epper, whose place recently gained notoriety in connection with the Mulligan saloon scandal, has given up the idea of trying to have his license renewed in the face of all the opposition that is against him, and left yesterday for the range, where he intends to go into business.

Epper's license expired shortly after the scandal occurred, and it was thought at the time he would not try to renew it. A few weeks ago it was learned that he intended to apply to the city council for a renewal. At that, a petition to the council against granting it, was circulated in West Duluth, and several hundred names were attached to it. This petition was presented to the council, but Epper failed to appear.

It is the purpose of the temperance people, among whom the West Duluth W. C. T. U. has been very active, to eliminate all saloons from Grand avenue, by petitioning the council to refuse to grant any renewals of any Grand avenue saloon licenses when they expire.

Money for Bread Line.

A donation of $10 for the Bethel bread line was subscribed by Old Hickory camp, No. 1555 Modern Woodmen, at their meeting held last evening at the Great Eastern hall.

The meeting was a large one, delegations from Duluth, New Duluth and Proctor being present in uniform, to initiate a class of candidates into the order.

The Old Hickory drill team is making extensive preparations for the dance to be held the evening of Easter Monday at the Armory.

IMMIGRATION WILL BE HEAVY

L. Van Praagh Says Settlers Are Rushing Into Canada.

L. Van Praagh, formerly president of the Duluth Baseball club, who for a number of years was engaged in the wholesale cigar business here, but who is making Winnipeg his home at the present time, is at the Lenox hotel today. Mr. Van Praagh is here on a business trip and will remain several days to visit some of his old friends.

Although he is out of baseball, Mr. Van Praagh still takes a deep interest in the game. He says that the prospect for a prosperous season for the newly organized Northern league is very good. Up in Winnipeg they are very enthusiastic, and Brandon, the new member of the league, is baseball mad. Mr. Van Praagh believes that the league directors made no mistake in admitting Brandon to the league.

Up in Winnipeg they look for a very heavy immigration season. Mr. Van Praagh says that every train is crowded with immigrants that are coming from Iowa, the Middle West and the great Southwest. Many of them are farmers with money, who have come to the Dominion to buy land in the rich Saskatchewan valley. Many foreigners are also coming, but they are not as a rule as thrifty as the Americans who cross the line to make new homes in Canada.

They are still feeling the money stringency on the other side of the line. Business in Winnipeg is good, says Mr. Van Praagh, but money is hard to get. Real estate values have reverted to a more healthy state in Winnipeg, and at the present time it doesn't bankrupt a man to pay for a home. They are making strenuous efforts to induce manufactures to come up there, for the city fathers figure that if they can once start a manufacturing center at Winnipeg they will have a city of 500,000 inhabitants within the next decade or two.

They are fighting for the open shop in Winnipeg. Mr. Van Praagh says many of the Winnipeg firms have declared in favor of it and the idea of employing men irrespective of their being union men is growing.

HINGES ON LAW POINT

Outcome of Prince Case May Depend on Court's Ruling.

Plaintiff Claims Judge Prince Could Not Accept Cash Bail.

The civil action instituted by John Movern against Municipal Judge Prince of Eveleth to compel the return of $125 put up for bail by the local branch of the Western Federation of Miners for two men arrested for and convicted on the charge of intimidating men who wanted to work, took an interesting turn in the trial before Judge Cant this morning when Movern, through his attorney, J. A. Keyes, asked the court to instruct the jury to return a verdict in favor of the plaintiff by reason of a point of law.

Mr. Keyes contends that the court had no right under the law to accept cash bail for the men who were released from custody after their conviction and after sentence had been passed on them. It was claimed that the law requires a surety bond and that the federation is entitled to the return of its money.

Judge Prince contends that the cash bail was accepted on the advice of the county attorney and that it was accepted pending an appeal to the district court by the convicted men. It is claimed that the appeal was never perfected and that the men have never appeared in court. Judge Prince claims no demand was made for the repayment of the $425 until about two weeks before the papers were served on him in the present action.

The testimony showed that the money paid for cash bail had not been converted to the use of the court or to the use of the clerk of court, but that it was turned over to the municipal court fund of the city of Eveleth.

Miss Murphy, the clerk of court, testified that the cash was accepted pending the filing of a surety bond, but Judge Prince testified that the cash bail was accepted in lieu of any surety bond.

The outcome of the case probably hinges on the court's ruling as to the legality of the cash bail instead of a surety bond.

KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Chicago Young Man is Found Dead in a Stolen Cab.

Chicago, March 26.—James Kane, 151 Chicago avenue, was found dead in a cab at Eighteenth street and Calumet avenue early today with a bullet through his head. He is believed to have met his death from wounds inflicted by a policeman who tried to arrest him, after he and two companions had beaten a cabman, stolen his cab and held up and robbed two pedestrians in the course of a wild dash through the streets of the North and West sides of the city.

Kane and his companions engaged Robert Campion, soon after midnight, at State and Madison streets, to drive them in his cab to an address on the North side. At Rush and Ohio streets he was attacked and robbed and left unconscious at the basement entrance to a hotel. An hour later the three men, one of whom acted as driver, robbed and beat William Willard, 98 Dearborn avenue, at North Clark and Kinzie streets, and still later treated in a like manner at West Monroe and Halsted streets. George Morris of 419 West Monroe street. The policeman who probably fired the fatal shot ordered them to halt; as they drove furiously through Halsted street near Archer avenue, and opened fire in response to shots with which the men answered his command. The jaded horse and the partially wrecked cab with the body of Kane within was found by the police at daybreak. Kane's companions escaped. Kane, who was 18 years old, had a police record.

WOMAN RECOVERS SPEECH.

Albert Lea, Minn., March 26.—A sudden return of the faculty of speech is reported from Gordonsville, in the southern part of this county. Mrs. Jane Barber lost her power of speech two years ago, and all treatment by physicians was fruitless to relieve her. Judge of her surprise and that of her friends when, at a prayer meeting a night or two since, she was able to talk as well as ever, and gave her testimony as lucidly as anyone present.

Self Control.
There are times in every one's life when one feels that one's self-control is slipping away in the most humiliating manner. Some say a cure for nervousness is to hold a long, deep breath while counting ten. As a preventative, a glass of golden grain belt beer at bedtime will induce refreshing sleep and rest the tired nerves. If you are a sufferer, try it. VISITS THE BREAD LINE

G. B. Howley Says Reports Have Not Been Exaggerated.

Labor Federation President Touched by Sights He Saw.

There have been so many reports going around relative to the bread line that George B. Howley, president of the State Federation of Labor, who is now in the city in connection with the lockout situation, made a visit to the Bethel last night to investigate conditions for himself. His heart was touched by the sights he saw, and he says reports of the need of members of the line have not been in the least exaggerated. To The Herald he made the following statement:

"I went down to the Bethel last night at 11 o'clock, having heard so much about the 'bread line' that I wished to see for myself.

"I have also heard many rumors to the effect that a number of these men had been brought into the city under false pretences; that is, in regards to the present labor trouble. I want to state that this is false. There is no truth in those rumors. I interviewed quite a few of the men, and they are of the common laborers, such as woodsmen and rivermen, and have drifted into this part of the country looking for work in the woods.

"I have seen many a hard sight, but I never saw anything in my travels to equal what I saw there last night. The men were curled up on the floors, with their coats under their heads for pillows. There were so many of them, that they were packed in like sardines, and any man, no matter how hard hearted he might be, after witnessing such a sight, could not help feeling sorry for them.

"If some of our public spirited men would go down there themselves, about 11 o'clock in the evening, and look into the situation I am convinced that they would open their purse strings and help carry on this work as conducted by the Rev. Mr. Moody.

"On leaving the building, I talked personally with four men on the outside, who told me that they had had nothing to eat since 6 o'clock in the morning, when they had been given their coffee and buns. I had very little change with me, but you can rest assured that before they had taken their places on the floor, they had a good hearty supper.

"There is no use of anybody saying that these men are bums. There may be a few of this character among them, but the greater majority of them are good hard working fellows, and would work if there was anything for them to do; and on the other hand, these bums, as they are called, are human beings and as such, we have to acknowledge them. I claim that they are unfortunate, and brought to their present condition through drink, and drink is a disease among a great many. I saw a few who were under the influence of liquor, but that is easily accounted for. There is many a time when a man can secure a drink of whisky, where it is impossible for him to secure a meal, and their stomachs being in such a condition from the lack of food, that it only takes one or two drinks to intoxicate them, where under good normal conditions they might stand fifteen or twenty.

"Would that there were more public-spirited men like the unknown giver from New York who sent his check for $100. I believe that if some of our own wealthy men in this city knew the exact conditions, or would go down there personally and investigate for themselves, they would help in keeping these unfortunates from starving or freezing to death, until a little later on when work starts up."

WANTED TO BE ARMY NURSES

Duluth Girls Applied for Positions at Recruiting Office.

Hearing that congress was about to pass a bill providing for additional nurses in the United States army, two fair Duluth girls yesterday applied at the recruiting office and asked to be allowed to become nurses.

They seemed very much disappointed when informed that they could not enlist from the Duluth office, as the local office is not enlisting anyone but the sterner members of the sex. They were informed that the only way they could become nurses was to join the Red Cross service.

The young ladies were told that they would have to pass an examination before they could join the service. Both of them declared that they would go through part of the test right in the recruiting office. Sergeant Boyce had them read the letters at the required twenty paces. Both of the young women went through the examination without missing a letter. Then they tried the ear test with equally good results.

Although the fair applicants cannot join the army here, if they decide to enter Uncle Sam's service they will have no trouble in passing the examination.

Somehow the rumor has spread that nurses are needed in the army. The recruiting office has received innumerable inquiries from young women who have expressed a desire to join this branch of the service, but the two women that called yesterday are the first applications that have been received in person from any young women who want to join the mercy squad.

TOO MUCH WOODWORK

About the Endion School Building, Says Committee Member.

Chairman of Investigating Committee Not Favorably Impressed.

"There is too much woodwork about the Endion school to make it really safe, in my opinion," said L. A. Barnes, chairman of the school board's own investigating committee, today.

"As I am a member of the board of education and this special investigating committee, I dislike to discuss the condition of the public schools until our committee makes its report to the board, but I cannot help saying that the Endion school strikes me as being rather dangerous. There is too much wood inside the building. I understand the same is true of the Emerson school, which was built along the same lines as the Endion.

"However, it is possible in both of these buildings to get the children out in a short space of time.

"The investigating committee is not visiting any schools this week. The spring vacation is in progress and we prefer to look around while the children are at their studies and we can witness the fire drills. The committee has authorized no repairs on the schools this week. The committee has no power to do so; we can only report and make recommendations to the board of education at the next meeting, which will be on the first Friday evening in April.

"Whatever work is being done at the schools this week is being done by the chief engineer. He has a force of carpenters and other workmen under him all of the time and this week he is keeping them busy fixing little things here and there. Some of them came to our notice when we were visiting the schools."

NEW EPISCOPAL BISHOP OF NEVADA CONSECRATED.

Racine, Wis., March 26.—Rev. Henry Douglas Robinson, D. D., was consecrated bishop of Nevada Wednesday in St. Luke's Episcopal church. Bishops, priests, laymen and others were present, filling the edifice. Owing to the limited room invitations had been issued. The altar was well nigh hidden by flowers and plants, the lily predominating. It was the first time in the history of the church that a bishop has been consecrated here. The presiding bishop, Rt. Rev. D. S. Tuttle of Missouri, was the consecrator and Rt. Rev. T. F. Gailor, bishop of Tennessee, preached the sermon.

JOHNSON AND TOWNE ARE GIVEN SUPPORT.

Washington, March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Behrman, mayor of New Orleans, who is in Washington, in speaking of politics, said that he favors the nomination of Governor Johnson. "Governor Johnson of Minnesota," said Mayor Behrman, "has a good following in Louisiana, and our delegation may decide to support him. We are inclined toward conservatism, and we want a return to normal conditions."

The nomination of Former Senator Charles A. Towne for the presidency by the Democratic national convention is advocated by Representative Thomas M. Bell of Georgia, Democratic "whip" of the house. He desires that Georgia send an instructed delegation to the Denver convention.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

THE AIRS OF ALL NATIONS

Are Butchered on Music Boxes Along the Bowery.

City is Full of Men Returning From the Woods.

A stranger in the city would imagine that some national event were being celebrated should he walk the length of the Bowery, or by the saloons with musical tendencies, on lower Michigan avenue.

Duluth is full of men returning from the woods. They are a restless lot and they must be kept satisfied. Music of the hurdy gurdy rhythm seems to have been the plan hit upon by the grog dispensers to entertain the men who have returned from the woods. Individual tastes are shown in the variety heard along the woodsmen's thoroughfare.

Passing one saloon one will hear the lilting rhythm of the ragtime tune, inviting the strollers to enter and be entertained. A few paces on, the next saloon will offer prospective patrons some of the Norse folk songs that are being droned out on the mechanical music box. Thick-throated song sometimes accompanies the off-tune music of the mechanical piano. The songsters have little regard for harmony.

Still further on you will hear the songs of Sunny Italy being massacred on the music box. All nationalities are played for patronage. The records of the music providers seems inexhaustible. If you stay long enough in one saloon you can hear anything, from a ragtime to an attempt to do some of the lighter classics. The emphasis is on the attempt.

In the Italian saloon maccaroni and Italian airs furnish an atmosphere to the laborer who once watched the boats from the wharf in Sunny Sicily. Spaghetti and the woes of Marincoola offer an attractive double bill that is calculated to open the purse strings of the dark-visaged sons of Italy.

In the saloons frequented by the Scandinavian sons of the woods, you will find futuristic offered in the gastronomic piece de resistance, with the airs of the Vikings as the musical setting.

The German saloon is not frequented by woodsmen to a great extent, but it also has the national dish on the free list and some of the German airs are being assaulted by the musical contrivance. There is less hilarity here, as a rule, than in the other saloons. The German, be he a laborer or a college professor, seems to love sobriety and the more quiet enjoyment. The burst of melody that comes through the occasionally opened door of the German saloon is of a more sober mien than the offerings of most of the grog shops along the Bowery.

If you walk the length of the Bowery you can have a selection of the national or favorite airs of many lands. They are all catering to trade. The lighter vein of music seems to be the favorite, but you can have a wide choice, if you care to spend sufficient time to sample the selections that are provided for the patrons of the West Superior street thirst halls. The music boxes and pianos are in full operation during the days of the returning woodsmen, and it must be a regular "He that hath no music in his soul" that can pass along the Bowery and fail to be moved by the large selection of lilting airs or more serious efforts that issue from the doors of the saloons.

FAVOR JOHNSON IN THE SOUTH

Virginia Man Says Bryan Would Disrupt "Solid South."

C. E. Peabody of Fredericksburg, Va., at the St. Louis today says that several of the Southern states will send uninstructed delegations to the Denver convention, which will practically amount to a declaration on the part of those states for the candidacy of John A. Johnson.

Mr. Peabody says that Johnson won strong recognition throughout the South in his Gettysburg speech, and also in his New Orleans address, and that the South stands ready to favor his nomination at the Denver convention. Mr. Bryan, he states, has not the following today that he was in possession of four years ago.

Although the South would like to see Judge Gray secure the indorsement of the Democratic party, being a Southern man, Mr. Peabody says that the Johnson boom is meeting with favor in the Southern states. They want to nominate a man that has some chance of winning the next presidential election, and in John A. Johnson Mr. Peabody says that the Southern wing of the Democracy believe they have the most available man.

Mr. Peabody says that while the South is friendly to Mr. Bryan it does not believe that he has the best chance either to reunite the two warring factions of the party or to lead the party to victory. The sending of uninstructed delegations to the Democratic convention means that the South is following the lead of the East in breaking away from the domination of the Bryan control.

The South was most favorably impressed with Governor Johnson upon the occasions he delivered speeches south of the Mason and Dixon line.

In the event of Mr. Bryan's nomination, Mr. Peabody states that the "Solid South" will be broken by a large number of Republican votes. Like other sections of the country, the South is becoming dissatisfied with Bryanism. It is tired of party strife, and believes a continuance of Mr. Bryan's domination means a continuance of this hiatus in the ranks of the party. The South believes that only a most decisive defeat for Mr. Bryan, or the nomination of a candidate who can bring harmony into the party ranks, will accomplish any results toward placing the party upon the basis it was prior to 1896.

Given Up to Die.

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. SLIGHT HALT IN NEW BUSINESS

Improvement of the New Year Not Maintained Past Week.

New York, March 26.—The Iron Age says: "There has been a halt in the volume of new business placed during the last ten days and the improvement which has been gradual and quite steady since the beginning of the year, has not been maintained. There has been some misinterpretation of the report made by the United States Steel corporation that there was an increase in now orders of 25 per cent in January over December, and of a like amount for February over January and of the first half of March over February. The tonnage of new orders in December was about 3,500 tons per day or roughly 28 per cent of the productive capacity. Adding the progressive increases an active capacity of about 50 per cent was reached in the first half of March.

"The crux of the situation lies in the restricted demand from the railroads.

"While the locomotive builders have taken some very good orders during the last week, the car builders have very little in sight and the shipbuilding on the lakes is now practically out of metal. No important contracts for structural material have been let, but some pretty large work is coming up. The lighter lines which largely sell to the farming interests directly and indirectly have been holding up very much better. The wire trade has now, however, accumulated an adequate volume to take care of the productions which will probably be somewhat less than usual.

"The pig iron markets are very quiet. Copper was advanced squarely to 13¼ cents for both lake and electrolytic, and there has been some business, although its volume is being exaggerated.

ASK TORRENS TITLES.

Mining Interests Seek to Have Their Properties Registered.

Applications for registration of two iron mine properties in St. Louis county have been filed in the district court. The applicants are the trustees of the estate of Simon J. Murphy, deceased, who also have an interest in the property in their own name, and George L. Burrows and Ezra Rust. The Murphy-Dorr-Flinn interests want a Torrens title to the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 35, 58-17, which property is operated as a mine by the Malta Iron company. The property was valued at $6,678 at the last official assessment.

Messrs. Burrows and Rust want a Torrens title to the iron property in section 3, 57-31, operated by the Cyprus Mining company. The property was valued under the last official assessment at $95,000.

FITWELLS FALL BACK

Oak Halls Take First Series on Resumption of Play.

Plans Being Make for Handicap Bowling Tourney in May.

The Duluth City Bowling league resumed play last night after a suspension of over a week, on account of the state tournament at St. Paul. The Fitwells dropped three straight games to the Oak Halls by big margins, and their lead was cut down by several notches. After the rest the bowlers showed renewed interest, and the scores of the victorious five were all large, going over the 1,000 mark with the handicap in the second game.

T. S. Mitchell of the Oak Halls rolled the high score of 245 and Listy scored high average of 205. Friday night the First National bank team and Big Duluths will meet. The bankers need three victories to put them into first place.

Plans are already being made for the annual handicap tournament, which will be pulled off at the Central alleys in May. A city tournament was held last year and it proved a great success. This year efforts are being made to enlist Superior, Hibbing, Virginia and other surrounding towns to make the tournament a big affair. The handicaps will be so arranged that every man will have an equal chance to take down the money, and the arrangement would increase the interest. The handicaps have made the season of the City Bowling league much more successful this year, and they would boost the entry list for the tournament. The entry list from Duluth last year was large, and, with other teams entered, a big crowd could be gathered for several days' competition. Several hundred dollars in prize money will be hung up, and the bowlers will get busy immediately booming the affair.

The scores of last night's play follow:

Wow! get on to the way the pins are going down at St. Paul. Six out of nine leaders were displaced in one night's play Monday night. It will be a wonder if any of the association records stand in the face of such tumbling. The St. Paul men are out for the marks and they are setting them. Campbell alone holds his place of the outside bowlers and it is doubtful if he will get first money.

The St. Paul men will certainly pull down the coin. All this week they have the alleys and they are making the best of them. Perhaps after the week of bowling, the alleys are worn to a groove and it makes it easier for the bowlers to send the balls into a strike than it was for the outside men to locate the key pin last week. Such consistently good bowling has never been seen in a state tournament before. The St. Paul men are earning the money. Their work is great and they deserve every cent they pull down. It's too bad that nobody else gets a chance at it this week, though, for they might be able to make the St. Paul men look a little to their honors.

George Hakenschmidt surprised the Chicago wrestling enthusiastis when he landed in the Windy City. They expected to see a veritable giant in stature and build. The first giant to descend the steps of the Pullman was enthusiastically grasped, but he was only a common citizen. When Hackenschmidt appeared, they saw, instead of the giant they expected, a little man standing only 5 feet 9½ inches. But the great Hackenschmidt has the gigantic proportions. A closer inspection of him reveals the great muscles, massive neck and long arms, which have made it possible for him to conquer 700 men without a defeat.

This Hackenschmidt is the one man who can defeat Frank Gotch. Gotch is massiveness in the accepted sense of the word. He has the build of a giant and in street clothes displays his magnificent physique just as unmistakably as he does in his wrestling togs. But Hackenschmidt's great power is not noticeable at a passing glance, while his muscles are encased in clothing. When he is revealed in wrestling garb he stands out as the greatest wrestler in the world in point of physical development. The Chicago papers have aptly dubbed him "the biggest little man in the world," and if Frank Gotch beats him April 3 his world title will be without question from anybody.

The Gans-Moran scrap, which was planned for New York, has been called off because the terms of the black were too strong for the promoter. It was a piece of foolishness from the start, just as is the match between Abe Attell and Battling Nelson. Featherweights have no license to go after men in the lightweight class. Neither can gain anything by it, and the public is better satisfied when the men are evenly matched, with something at stake. If Attell will back off his high horse, he can find plenty to do taking care of the English boy with the Irish name.

One of the most valuable and attractive features in Spalding's Guide for 1908 is the decision of a special commission of the highest authorities declaring the origin of baseball to be strictly American. All praise is due A. G. Spalding for the settlement of the dispute, for he stoutly combated the views of Henry Chadwick, editor of Spalding's Official Baseball Guide for twenty-eight years, who has always contended that baseball emanated from the old English schoolboy pastime of "Rounders."

The commission which was selected at the instance of both Mr. Spalding and Mr. Chadwick to "try the case," was composed of A. G. Mills of New York, an enthusiastic ball player in the '60s and the third president of the National league; Hon. Morgan G. Bulkeley, ex-governor and present United States senator from Connecticut, the first president of the National league in 1876; Nicholas E. Young, a veteran ball player, the first secretary and subsequently president of the National league from 1885 to 1902; Alfred J. Reach, an old-time professional baseball player and president of the Philadelphia club for twenty years; George Wright, the most famous shortstop of his day, and James E. Sullivan, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, who acted as secretary to the commission.

For three years Secretary Sullivan was busy collecting data and following up clues, and after getting all the evidence necessary to come to an intelligent decision, the matter was laid before the special commission, with the result that the national game was found to be of an American origin.

All the commissioners concurred in A. G. Mills' opinion, which is as follows:

First—That baseball had its origin in the United States.

Second—That the first scheme for playing it, according to the evidence obtainable to date, was devised by Abner Doubleday, Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1839.

WHITE SOX SQUAD COMPLETE

Kuehnow Secures Three Cast-Offs From the Western League.

A. W. Kuehnow, secretary of the Duluth Baseball club, returned yesterday from Omaha and Sioux City, where he looked over the recruits for the Western league teams there, which were to be turned loose, and secured three men, on whom he had lines. Rube Isaacs, a pitcher from an Iowa independent team, who is said to be worth a trial, was secured. He is a southpaw. Fred Clark, a first baseman, was secured from Des Moines, and W. B. King, a third baseman, from Sioux City.

The three men complete the White Sox squad and the reporting orders will be sent out immediately. About eighteen men will probably be ordered to report, and the squad will be cut down by Morrow, while they are playing the training games. The team will come to Duluth with about thirteen men for the opening of the season and it will be cut to twelve by the time the first trip is taken.

Clark, who was secured from Des Moines, is a big fellow, who can hit. Tracey was a might good fielder around first sack, but his hitting was very weak and Duluth needs the swatters. King will fight with Williams for the third sack, and, if the Iowa boy can deliver the goods he is claimed to have in stock, last year's third sacker will be forced to hurry to hold his job.

KELLEYS WIN FIRST GAME

Fedji Roller Polo Five Defeated by Score of 7 to 1.

Playing like a well-oiled machine, the Kelley Hardware company roller polo team defeated the Fedji team of the West end at the Temple roller rink last night by a score of 7 to 1. The game was the first played by the new Kelley team, and the showing was gratifying to its supporters. It was likewise the first game played at the Temple roller rink, and the crowd enjoyed it thoroughly.

With three former stars of the Northern team, champions of the Head of the Lakes, the Kelleys were fairly well drilled in the game. They started in with the first whistle to sweep the Fedjis before them and had little trouble. The forwards worked well together and the defense was strong. Flynn played a nice game in the goal all through and Furni supported him well.

The first half ended with the score 2 to 0 in the Kelleys' favor. Winters at center starred during the half, scoring both goals. In the second half Winters again registered twice, Cummings netted two and Ryan one. The Fedjis' lone score came late in the second half from Champagne's stick. Fifteen-minute halves were played.

The Kelleys showed championship form all the way, and they bid fair to take over the honors which the disbanded Northerns dropped. They will take on Superior teams next week, playing the Pease five at Superior Monday night and the Treadwell team at the Temple rink Wednesday night. Later in the season, when they get their gait, a series will be arranged with the Lincoln park five, the strong West end team.

Kelleys.	Position.	Fedjis.
Flynn	goal	Southerland
Furni	cover	Shambo
Winters	center	Champagne
Cummings	right rush	Beers

MAPP AND PYFER TIE

Deadlock in Y. M. C. A. Meets for Possession of Medals.

Third Meet is Good Exhibition of Apparatus Work.

By beating Mapp out in the third and last of the series of indoor meets at the Y. M. C. A., Pyfer, who had been five points behind, broke into a tie and the result left the possession of the medals undecided, Mapp and Pyfer each having thirty-seven points. The manner of deciding the tie has not yet been hit upon. Something will be devised, however, and the winner will receive the gold medal, while the loser will get the silver medal.

Though the entry list was confined to about a dozen contestants, who had a chance to pull out in first place, last night's affair was one of the best of the three. A large crowd of spectators turned out and they enjoyed the events. The rope climbing exercises and dip swings were especially interesting.

Pyfer gathered the greatest number of points in last night's meet, 13. Swerdloff, who was considered out of the running entirely, stepped in and took 16 points and Mapp was forced to be content with 13, which just enabled him to tie Pyfer for first place on total points. Brown and Cameron also showed up strong last night, finishing in third and fourth place, respectively.

The result of the three meets was entirely satisfactory to the association. The program for the different meets was so varied that all three would be a general test of athletic ability and they have served as such. The stars were brought out and they earned their honors by sweeping the field before them.

The results of last night's events follow:

BIG WRESTLERS OUT.

Heavyweights Trying to Arrange for Bouts on Mat.

Elling Delsen, the Colfax, Wis., ski rider, is anxious to break into the wrestling game. He is after a match with Andrew Danielson, the West end heavyweight, and the bout will be arranged here within the next few weeks, for a side bet of $25. Danielson has something of a local reputation as a wrestler and Delsen has done a little work on the mat.

Danielson has taken Peter St. George a deaf mute, from West Duluth, under his wing and wants to get him a match on the mat. St. George is a big fellow and Danielson is teaching him something of the game. All of the men will probably be given their turns on the mat at the Metropolitan after the lightweight question is settled.

SUPPLIES FOR SAILORS.

Six Carloads of Equipment Coming From Navy Department.

Commander Guy A. Eaton has received word from Washington that six cars of supplies for the Minnesota naval reserves are en route to Duluth from the navy supply station at Washington. The supplies include a 24-foot whale boat, a 20-foot whale boat, an 18-foot dinky, a 30-foot steam launch and a 20-foot gasoline motor.

Thirteen thousand rounds of ammunition of all kinds are also included in the supplies. A Morris tube outfit for vessel gun pointing will be utilized on the annual cruise.

HOW many living men can squarely stand up and honestly compare themselves as the equal or superior (in any way whatsoever) to the great Iron Chancellor of the Hohenzollern's, who made Goethe's dream of Germanic unity a realistic drama of "iron and of blood?"

How many dare declare, "I have greater brain power than he"—"I have a stronger body"—"I am healthier"—"I have a saner knowledge"—"I am more successful" or "I have more force of character?"

Bismarck, during his marvelous career, outwitted the most celebrated statesmen of his time; terrified the mightiest kings and emperors; overthrew and conquered three armed nations; and ruled over the empire he created with enlightened and practical wisdom for nearly half a century, dying at the ripe old age of 89, famous throughout the world as the "Greatest of the Germans."

Now, upon what nutriment was this colossus fed that he grew so mighty; what put the iron into his blood? This we know—that like all Germans he believed in good eating and drinking, hence the juices of malt and hops were never absent from his table.

Authority—any biography of Bismarck.

PRACTICE IS A FILTHY ONE

Duluth Woman Urges Observance of Anti-Spitting Ordinance.

The anti-spitting ordinance is one which has, undoubtedly, more supporters in Duluth than any other ordinance, and many complaints have been heard during the last few weeks of the carelessness, indifference and indecency of many men who knowingly and deliberately violate the ordinance, while riding on the street cars.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of clean streets and street cars," said a disgusted Duluth woman today, as she stepped from one of the double-truck cars. "The anti-spitting ordinance is the one which at least one half of the people of Duluth would prefer to see enforced rather than all the other ordinances which may be on the books. The streets are bad enough, but when it comes to a crowd of men, apparently of some degree of refinement, standing on the rear platform of the cars and violating the laws of the city in which they live, it would seem that something should be done. The signs in the cars are suggestive enough. And yet dozens of men daily stand on the rear platforms of the cars and spit promiscuously on the steps and through the gates. It is a filthy, disgusting and abominable habit. It seems awful that it should be necessary to speak of such conditions, but they exist, and something should be done to bring about a change for the better."

THE ICE FIELDS ARE EXTENSIVE

They Are Not So Heavy as a Year Ago, However.

In comparison with the same season last year, the ice fields in the Great Lakes are more extensive, but not so heavy, according to the government ice report, the main points of which are given below:

"The reports of the ice conditions from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau indicate that there are extensive fields over the western, central and eastern portions of Superior, but that the fields are not heavy and are well broken up. The ice in Whitefish bay has been packed solid during the week. There have been no material changes in the St. Mary's river. The ice in Green bay remains firm, but has some water on top. In Michigan, the ice is confined to the northern portion of the lake, from Traverse bay north to the straits. At the straits the ice remains firm; the snow has melted from the top during the week. In Huron the ice fields are moving with the wind and are broken up. Over the extreme southern portion the field has moved out of sight. The ice has been running slowly out of Lake St. Clair. The Detroit river remains free of ice. In Erie the fields are confined to the eastern portion of the lake, except small fields around the islands. The ice fields are beginning to break up and move with the wind. In Ontario the ice is confined to the extreme eastern portion. The harbors are opening.

"In comparison with the same period last season the ice fields in Superior are more extensive but not as heavy. The conditions are not as favorable in Green bay or at the straits. In Huron there is more ice reported. In Erie the area of ice is about the same, but it is somewhat heavier. In Ontario the harbors have more ice in them. Otherwise the conditions are the same."

WILL ASK REHEARING

Probable Action of State Attorneys in Railroad Rate Cases.

Governor Johnson May Call Extra Session of Legislature.

St. Paul, March 26.—Attorney General E. T. Young conferred late yesterday with his counsel in the railroad rate cases, T. D. O'Brien and R. A. Stone, as to the effect of Judge Peckham's decision and the course now to be followed.

The first course will probably be to request a rehearing. No decision has been made as to an extra session, but it is likely that the attorneys will recommend an extra session to the governor.

T. D. O'Brien said: "If it is the penalty in the state law which has given the federal courts jurisdiction over the attorney general, then it might be a good idea for the railroad commission to draft another commodity rate law with the penalty left out entirely, call the legislature together and have the law passed. That would not give the railroads any excuse for going into the federal courts to anticipate the enforcement of the law."

"How could it be enforced without a penalty?"

"By mandamus. If the court should find the rate reasonable and the law valid, it could order the railroads to comply, and they would be in contempt if they refused. Of course, the roads would have the right of appeal to the supreme court, but they would have to act through the state courts, and the sole issue would be whether the rate is reasonable. If the federal courts could enjoin a state official from enforcing such a law, then we might as well surrender all the functions of government, federal, state and municipal, to the federal courts."

Think Rest of Law Stands.

The attorney general seemed inclined to agree with the view of Mr. O'Brien, but the final decision has not been reached.

Mr. Young and his associates contend that the decision knocks out the penalty clause of the statutes, but not the other provisions. After reading the text of the decisions, railroad insist that the laws are wholly invalid. C. W. Bunn of the Northern Pacific now takes that view.

On this point the state is likely to base its demand for a rehearing. The dispute involves the following paragraph of the decision:

"We hold, therefore, that the provisions of the acts relating to the enforcement of the rates, either for freight or passenger by imposing such enormous fines and possible imprisonment as a result of an unsuccessful effort to test the validity of the laws themselves, are unconstitutional on their face, without regard to the question of the insufficiency of those rates."

Apparently this only makes void the "provisions relating to enforcement," but it includes under its ban the passenger rate law, which was not before the court at all.

Governor Johnson said yesterday: "I will be sorry if an extra session is necessary, but I will have no hesitation in calling one if it is found that the legislature can do anything to help the state's cause at this time. I am waiting to hear what the attorney general and his counsel say, and I will not be governed by any other considerations. Of course, the legislature could not be limited in the work it might undertake, but I should recommend that it limit its activities to the one subject, and that could be done by agreement, I think."

COMMITTEE HAS THE SAY

Council Action on Fourth Street Improvement Rests on Report.

Protesting Owners Appeal for Poor People, Who Would Suffer.

The improvement of Fourth street, between Fifth avenue west and Sixth avenue east, now lies with the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, consisting of Aldermen Moore, Cromwell and Filiatrault. The public hearing, before the committee in the council chamber yesterday, was overwhelmingly in favor of the postponement. Those in favor of the improvement contented themselves with letting the protesting owners do most of the talking before the committee, and they are letting their petition and the general conditions speak for themselves.

John Gonska and N. J. Upham appeared before the committee on behalf of the petitioners and urged that the improvement be carried out. They pointed out that the street is in bad shape and some work must be done on it, at least, so that the whole improvement may better be carried out while labor is cheap and easy to secure.

J. T. Michaud talked against the improvement, appealing on behalf of the poorer people, who would be hard hit by the heavy assessment. He said Fourth street owners had already been heavily assessed for improvements, and in another year they would be in better condition to meet the expense.

Mayor Haven and members of the board of public works attended the hearing, but they took no part in the proceedings. They are strongly in favor of going ahead with the work, on the assumption that labor and materials will be more expensive next year, and the city is in better shape to do the work this year than it will be next.

OUSTED FACTION

Of Tennessee Republicans Meet and Elect Delegates.

Nashville, Tenn., March 26.—The Evans-Hale-Sanders faction of the Republican party in this state, which was worsted in the fight at the state capitol here yesterday afternoon, met in convention at the capitol today for the purpose of choosing electors for the state at large, and elect delegates to the Chicago convention. The Brownlow contingent left the city last night, hence there is nothing to disturb the deliberations of the Evans people. The usual committees were named and harmony prevailed.

For a Real Yachting Trophy.

There is much earnest talk among prominent yacht owners of providing a new trophy to represent the supremacy of American yachting and holding it up to invite the challenge of the yachting world, but on more liberal terms and conditions than the arrangement now existing. The medicine that represents supremacy in the American home today is the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Through its ability to effect cures it has progressed so rapidly that now no one ever questions or doubts its intrinsic value. It will restore the appetite, aid digestion, keep the bowels open and thus curing and preventing sick headache, bloating, heartburn, vomiting, dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, colds, grippe, spring fever, general debility or malaria. Try a bottle today and see for yourself what a wonderful medicine it is.

ANARCHIST PAPER BARRED FROM MAILS.

Washington, March 26.—Postmaster General Meyer today issued an order annulling the second-class mailing privilege granted in 1905 to "LaQuestione Sociale," an Italian publication, issued by an alleged anarchist group at Paterson, N. J. The action followed a hearing before Third Assistant Postmaster General Laws che. The order was issued because, as the postoffice officials declare, the publication is not a newspaper, within the meaning of the law, but is devoted to what the editor terms the "science of extolling assassination as a virtue."

DONAGHEY LEADS IN ARKANSAS PRIMARIES.

Little Rock, Ark., March 26.—Returns received early today from yesterday's Democratic state primaries' election, indicate that George W. Donaghey of Faulkner county has been nominated for governor over W. F. Kirby and John H. Hinemon. Friends of Kirby, however, say their candidate's greatest strength is in the remote districts, and when these are heard from, Donaghey's lead will be greatly reduced, if not overcome. Supporters of Hinemon do not concede his defeat.

Scott of Two Harbors; Young People's secretary, Miss Abbie Upham; field secretary, Mrs. George M. Smith; home treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Burris; foreign treasurer, Mrs. W. L. Jackson; contingent treasurer, Mrs. Pierce, and auditor, Mrs. J. A. Waugh.

The society was in session Tuesday and Wednesday, the first day being devoted to home work, and yesterday's sessions being given over to reports and papers on the progress of the foreign missionary work.

The reports of delegates and officers showed a large increase of gifts and interest throughout the local societies. The necessity for "Mission study classes," in order to reach an intelligent understanding of the work, was brought forcibly to the attention of the meeting.

The reports of the Young People's societies were gratifying and showed a marked development of their work. The subject of immigration, being the study of the Forward Guild of the First Presbyterian church during the past year, was ably presented.

The talks on "Korea" and the "Island World of the Pacific" were very interesting.

One feature brought prominently before the meeting was the necessity for an "emergency fund" for the care of workers in the mission field, who, from various causes, may be laid aside. Such a fund coritributed during the past year, and used for the needs of two such faithful workers, has proved the wisdom of this plan.

The sessions closed with an impressive communion service, led by Dr. Coyle.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Neff of 610 Fifth avenue west, yesterday celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding at their home. The day was spent quietly, receiving the congratulations of their friends and in the evening a family dinner was held at which the children and grandchildren residing in the city were guests. Eleven children are living, eight of whom are in the city and were present for the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Neff have lived in Duluth for many years, being among the early settlers of the city and a large number of friends extended their congratulations during the day.

Events of Interest.

Mrs. John Panton was hostess at bridge this afternoon in honor of Miss Susanne McKay, who will return to Boston the first of the week after spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. William White.

Mrs. A. B. Wolvin will entertain informally tomorrow afternoon at bridge at her home on East Superior street.

Mrs. Henry Turrish entertained a children's party this afternoon at her home in honor of her little daughter, Frances.

Store Observations.

Easter lilies and baseballs.

The florists' windows are already beginning to blaze forth the announcement of the coming of spring, and Easter and azelia plants, great growing masses of beauty demanding attention, receive but little more than the slender and quietly beautiful lilies. The pink azelias cost from $3 up and the lilies cost 25 cents a blossom. The hallelujahs which follow the Good Friday service are all that is needful to make the trade in lilies and azelias become brisk and spirited.

At that the lilies are not in it with the baseballs. A whole case full of baseballs at the absurdly low price of 5 cents each are temptingly shown to coax the last, long hoarded pennies from the pockets of the small boys. The immaculateness of the balls would almost seem to bar them from active participation of baseball, but the knowing small boy will tell you that a couple of "swats" will remedy a too clean ball. But even the most unsophisticated person in baseball lore and practice knows that a 5 cent ball won't stand many whacks.

"Foxy" bows seem to be one of fashion's dictates for the spring. It may be a hard stiff little bow made of leather, or it may be a soft affair of malline ruffled on the edges and all in all the most fascinating of settings for a pink and dimpled chin. Fortunately those who can prove an alibi in regard to the pinkness and dimpled condition of their chins, are not barred from purchasing the bows. They range in price from 25 cents to a dollar or two.

Fashion just now decrees that it is not necessary that the veil shall match the hat in color, which is an economy, as one veil may thus do duty with a number of different bonnets, neither harmony nor contrast appearing to be a necessary factor in choosing a veil.

The scarabaeus, ancient Egypt's royal insect, is a present day American favorite design for pin, hat pins, scarf pins, etc.

Home Wedding.

Miss Mildred Jocelyn and William Wiles, both formerly of Alcona, Mich., were married last evening at their new home, 104 Thirty-ninth avenue west. The wedding service was read by Rev. J. L. McBride of the Second Presbyterian church, and twenty guests were present.

Mme. Sembrich.

There is great interest being shown in the coming of Mme. Marcella Sembrich to this city, and the concert, which will be presented next Tuesday evening at the First Methodist church, will undoubtedly be one of the most largely attended and brilliant of the musical affairs that Duluth has enjoyed in some years. Throughout the East and in all the cities in which Sembrich has appeared since the close of her opera season, her appearance has been marked by assemblages of unusual brilliance.

Duluth is fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing the great soprano.

CITY MISSIONS.

Work of Bethel and Salvation Army Is Reviewed.

At the regular meeting of the Missionary Union of Pilgrim Congregational church, which was held yesterday afternoon at the parlors of the church, the local city missions were discussed. The work of two of the branches of the missionary service was presented by the active workers. Miss Mauck, superintendent of the Bethel Rescue home, spoke of the aims of that institution, and Capt. Watts of the Salvation Army, represented the Salvation Army. The talks were most interesting and were planned in order that the members of the union might become more familiar with the needs of the local missionary work and be enabled to give the most intelligent assistance.

"Our work is done for a class of people," said Miss Mauck, "for whom we stand as a court of last appeal. They are of a class which the world at large condemns unconditionally. It is the popular opinion that the class with whom we deal are past help or hope, but in the example which we strive to follow, there was only loving sympathy and encouragement offered. Between 80 and 90 per cent of the women who come to us for help, leave the Home to lead Christian lives, and we feel that our work in large part has been a failure if those young women who come to us for help do not go forth, not only reformed, but as professing Christians. In all the Bethel work, not only the bread of charity is given, but emphasis is placed on the gospel which goes with every free gift of whatever nature."

Miss Mauck told of several individual cases of the Bethel Peace work, in which the results were most satisfying.

Capt. Watts told briefly of the work of the Salvation Army throughout the world, and the various enterprises, in rescue home, boarding home, relief and gospel work as carried on. He said that the local work was greatly handicapped in that there was no suitable building available. It is the hope of the Army to have a building erected in the near future, for the continuance of this work, which reaches a class of people not reached through the churches or other Christian associations.

"Parsifal."

The story of "Parsifal," in somewhat varied forms, is more or less familiar to English readers by their acquaintance with Tennyson's "Knights of the Round Table," or Walter Map's Welsh legend of the same subject. German scholars and readers have gained their principal knowledge of the story from the pen of their famous poet, Wolfram von Esenbach, who wrote his lengthy but wonderful poem before Wagner's time. French readers are similarly acquainted with the sacred theme through the medium of the grand work of Chetrein de Troyes. Other writers, poets and philosophers, of all climes and ages, have glorified in snowing their genius in prose and poetry through the medium of this absorbing legendary story. Artists have vied with each other in perpetuating its glorious scenes upon canvas. In our own land today the famous paintings of Edwin Abbey grace the walls of the Boston library, beautifully illustrating the "Quest of the Holy Grail." A production of this soul stirring drama, commensurate with the requirements, will be given at the Lyceum theater Saturday matinee and night, March 28. Correct historical costuming, architecture and appointments, as well also as scenic investment, will be a special feature of the production. All of the Baireuth customs will be carried out except the time of commencing, which has been slightly changed. The dividing of the performance into two sections with a two-hour dinner intermission has been eliminated. The only intermissions that will be given will be those of five or eight minutes duration between the acts, which are required to set the massive scenic accessories, but owing to its length the performance will begin at 7:45 sharp, and will conclude at 11 o'clock. It is one of the rules of the performance—and the management gives every assurance that the rule will be strictly enforced —that every one must be seated before the house is darkened, which means before the rise of the first curtain. Late comers will not be shown to their seats during the action of the play.

The matinee performance will begin at 2 o'clock promptly.

The Burlesquers.

The show girls at the Metropolitan will do some stunts not on the regular program this evening when a "chorus girls' contest" will be held in addition to the regular performance by the Merry Maidens company. The girls will sing their sweetest and dance their nimblest and the one the audience likes the best will get the big prize. Among those who will compete are: Nettie Carman, Marla Daniels, Anna Blanchfield, Ada Davis, Tinnie Roth, Bonnie Raymond, Amy Hawthorne, La Serida, Lucille Hooper, Irene Murray, Flossie McCloud, Minnie Perry, Helen Stevens and Sadie Sewell.

Tomorrow night will be amateurs' night at the "Met," and a number of local talent acts have been booked for the occasion.

SUPERIOR NEWS

OLD HOMESTEAD

Is Sold to Syndicate of Seven Superior Men.

A real estate deal that may be of interest to the old settlers at the Head of the Lakes, was announced today in Superior. It was the sale of thirty of the original forty acres belonging to the old Richie homestead on Twenty-first street, to a syndicate of seven Superior men. Just what the consideration was is not known, but it is thought to be about $15,000.

The homestead originally consisted of forty acres, owned by J. F. Richie, who settled on them before Superior was platted. The old man, in spite of all the litigations his property has gone through, has succeeded in keeping it intact all these years, except for ten acres he sold to the city for park purposes.

Would Rule Out Statement.

Dr. Barnesdale, who is charged with being responsible for Helen Ninas, who is claimed to have died in a Duluth hospital from a criminal operation, has raised questions of law by an attempt to exclude from evidence the ante-mortem statement, alleged to have been made by Miss Ninas, in which she is said to have accused Barnesdale of performing the operation. The hearing was started yesterday, but was continued until today. Drs. Tuohy, Braden and Judson of Duluth were witnesses for the state. Dr. Braden stated that Miss Ninas told him that the operation was performed in Superior. The other doctors testified that the death of the Ninas woman was due to septic poisoning. Barnesdale is defended by George Cooper and Thomas Lyons.

Will Contest Nomination.

A contest as to the Republican nomination for alderman in the Fifth ward is the result of the primary election held Tuesday. N. L. Gill is the contestant and Peter Roise is the contestee. Gill was credited with 175 votes, and Roise with 176 votes. Gill claims that the judges threw out two ballots with an "X" mark over his name, and that these should have been counted for him. If it is determined by the court that Gill is entitled to the ballots, he will secure the nomination by a margin of one vote.

Sensational Case is Settled.

The suit started by John Eliason, a taxpayer, against the town of Nebagamon, has been compromised and settled. Several of the disputed bills have been withdrawn and the plaintiff has taken judgment for $3,000 against the town. Eliason charged the town officials with looting the treasury, and the trial promised to be a sensational one.

Have Plans for Trestle.

The plans for an elevated crossing of the Wisconsin Central road over the Northern Pacific road, between Old Superior and South Superior, have been passed on by the state railway commission. The agreement between the companies provides that the Wisconsin Central tracks will cross the Northern Pacific tracks at an elevation of twenty-two feet, and the Northern Pacific company is to have sixty feet clear for the passage of trains beneath the structure. The trestle will cost about $85,000, and the Northern Pacific company will bear one-half the cost in excess of $50,000.

MANY ALIASES FOR PLAIN DRUNK

Man With Three Separate Names, Appears in Police Court.

William White, alias Joseph McDonald, alias Joseph Brady, alias something else, is only a plain drunk, although his police title might lead one to believe he was a confirmed criminal. When he was arrested last night by Officer John Roberg, he was endeavoring to force an entrance to a house on Eleventh avenue west, which he evidently believed to be his own. On arriving at the station, he gave his name as William White. As William White he tried to pick out every pane of glass in the cell room and succeeded in letting air through two of them.

This morning when "William White" was called nobody responded, and the bearer of the name last night avowed his real name was "Joseph McDonald." In the court room "Joseph McDonald" from the court didn't bring any response, and the pseudo McDonald had to be pointed out by the officers. Then he said his name was Joseph Brady. He said he was arrested once before, but couldn't remember what name he went under that time. He pleaded guilty to a drunk and disorderly charge and was let down with a fine of $1 and costs or three days in jail.

William Sims put up a fight when Officers Henry Mason took him in charge last night. Mason finally lugged him to a box and piled him into the patrol wagon. Sims, who is a colored gentleman, appeared in court this morning, with one side of his face pretty badly battered. If his skin weren't already black, it would have been a beautiful black eye. As it was, there was no doubt of his having collided with something. He said he didn't get the crack in the mix with the officer, but had fallen against the curb sometime previously. He was let off on suspended sentence.

Pat Landry vowed yesterday morning that he would get right out of town when he was released under suspended sentence. He was back in court this morning claiming that he was just hitting the trail for Superior when Officer Mahlen arrested him last night. The plea didn't go and he went on the hill for ten days.

William Zuelow is trying to get rid of $40, which he deposited with a saloonkeeper, a few days ago. Yesterday morning he turned $3 over to the city and this morning $12 went in the same channel. He says he'll put a check on the remaining so it doesn't go into the municipal court coffers.

John Erickson was the wealthiest man in the grist. He had $40 in cash and two checks worth over $100 on his clothes when arrested last night. It was dead easy for him to pay a fine of $1 and costs and he carried his roll away.

CONFESSION OF NEGRO

Emporia, Kan., March 26.—Lewis T. Archer, a negro, recently released from the penitentiary after serving a sentence for assault with a deadly weapon, today made a written statement on the famous John Collins murder trial, in which he alleges that an offer was made to him, together with two other negroes, to kill Collins' father. He asserts that John Collins, who is now serving a life sentence for the murder of his father, is guiltless. J. S. Collins of Topeka, a wealthy real estate man, was murdered in his home on May 13, 1898, supposedly by robbers. His son, John Collins, then a student at the Kansas university, was convicted upon the testimony of two negroes. An effort will be made to secure a pardon for Collins.

OBJECTION IS MADE TO SMITH

Burrows Says Senator-Elect Was Not Properly Elected.

Washington, March 26.—Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee of privileges and elections today made objection to the swearing in of Senator-elect Smith of Maryland, who was chosen to succeed the late Senator Whyte. Mr. Burrows based his objection on the ground that Mr. Smith's election had not been in accordance with the form prescribed by the Constitution. There had been a roll call of the senate just previous to the proceeding for the purpose of securing a full attendance, and almost all the senators were in their seats. Senator Raymer sat with Mr. Smith, prepared to escort him to the vice president's desk in case the decision should be favorable to him.

WAS ROBBED IN CATTLE CAR

West Duluth Boy Loses His Winter's Earnings.

Everett Smeryage of 201 South Sixty-first avenue west claims to have been robbed of $60 Tuesday night while asleep in a cattle car on his way from Deer River to Duluth.

The boy was bringing a team of horses to the city after working with his father in the woods all winter. He did not see anybody near him, nor did he wake up until after the thief had secured the money. He missed the money after awakening, but could place no blame on anyone.

He has reported the matter to the police, but has small hope of its recovery, as he could give no clue.

POLICE LOOK FOR A FORGER

Several Duluth Men Are Stung by a Smooth Grafter.

The police are looking for one Jack Schuhe, who is believed to be responsible for the passing of several forged checks in Duluth some two or three weeks ago. Schuhe, it is said, made a rich haul, passing several checks running from $40 to $70. The police refuse to divulge the names of the victims.

Schuhe left Duluth immediately after making his haul and is believed to have headed for the Southwest, going from here to New Mexico. Tracers are out for him and his capture will be effected, if possible.

LAW NOT EFFECTIVE.

Civil Service Men May Work More Than Eight Hours.

Local United States inspectors of steam vessels have received a circular from Washington that the hours of work for clerks and other office employes shall be from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on all days excepting Sundays and legal holidays.

It is provided, however, that when "exigencies of the service require," employes shall have authority to put in more time than this, and to work until all necessary business has been attended to. This clause makes the eight-hour law something of a farce, for under it a clerk can be made to work an unlimited time each day, even more than ten hours, if the inspectors in charge so direct.

PRICES OF MEAT SOAR

Steady and Rapid Advance in All Lines is Reported.

Wholesale Prices From Two to Four Cents Higher.

The lid may be on other things but the meat market is certainly free from its clamping embrace at the present time.

During the past few days, meat prices have been steadily climbing until now they are on a remarkably high level and it looks as if economical house-wives would have to hand the family more of the vegetable diet if they are going to make both ends meet.

Beef is selling at 9 to 10½ cents, wholesale; mutton at 13 to 15½ cents, and pork 10½ to 11 cents. Of course, the retail prices are somewhat more than that; just how much depends upon how much of a profit the butcher is content to take, after he allows for the waste in cutting.

There is a great scarcity of live stock at the meat centers of the country. Receipts have been light for some time and the market is feeling the full effects of the pork, beef and mutton stringency now.

In the Chicago market today, May pork advanced from $12.60 to $12.90 and closed at the highest price of the day.

The market for all grades of meats has advanced from two to four cents over last week. And there is not any particular indication that the meat shortage is over.

The demand is firm, despite the fact that it is the Lenten season, a time of abstinence and self-denial.

ARE WE EDUCATING ARISTOCRATS?

The World Today: They tell us that our education as it now stands, particularly in its so-called "higher" forms, is making aristocrats. The charge is just true enough to be serious. There are schools and colleges where those families that can afford to pay out a minimum of $1,000 a year for having their sons pass examinations, join fraternities and become enthusiasts over athletic teams. Many students act like snobs. Their standards of success are measured by income and social position; their very friendships seem determined by the size of incomes. Their sympathies in college are limited by their cliques and vacation house parties. They toil not, neither do they study, until with a tutor just before examination; and yet Solomon in all his glory had no such sense of the importance of Zion as they have of their fraternities.

To find the real student life of the nation one must look away from the half dozen institutions of which these charges are true, to the hundreds of other colleges and universities in which the great bulk of our young men and women are being educated. The temper of these schools is splendidly democratic. The great majority of their students are poor. A large proportion of these students are working their way. They take care of furnaces, they canvass for books, they wait on tables, they hire out as farm hands. The instruction they get comes from men almost without exception who themselves have had the same experience.

The man who knows college men in school and out knows that they are the best friends democracy has. They have their prejudices; but what man without prejudices is worth anything? They have their friends, but they do not expect working men to rise to give them seats in street cars. They see certain dangers in organized labor, but they see even more dangers in predatory wealth.

As long as our colleges turn out this sort of artistocrats, democracy need have no fear.

MACHINERY VS. ANCIENT TOIL.

T. Kennard Thomson in the Engineering Magazine: No one has been able to decide how the enormous stones in the pyramids were handled; for, even allowing for the vast army of men, some sort of mechanical contrivance must have been used. One theory is that as each course of stone was laid, a sand embankment was built around it with long easy slopes so that the stones for the next course could be pushed up on rollers and slide into place without any actual lifting, and so on, the pyramid being in fact buried as fast as it was built, until the top was reached, when the stupendous job of removing the sand embankment was commenced.

This might account for the vast army of laborers used; for instance, it is said that in building the great pyramid of Cheops 100,000 men were employed thirty years, although the quarry from which the stone was obtained was only 3,000 feet from the pyramid.

The City Investing building, the largest skyscraper in New York, happens to be nearly the same height as the pyramid. If we required the same number of days' labor for this building, which takes a year to erect, as the Egyptians took, we would have 30 multiplied by 100,000, or 3,000,000 men working every day for one year on this one building. Imagine a number of men equal to almost the entire population (including men, women and children) of New York City, trying to reach the corner of Broadway and Cortlandt street every morning. Even if they got there, there would remain the impossibility of finding standing room, let alone working room for them, or of providing a commissariat's or hygienic department. Against this 3,000,000 men working every day for one year, the average number on the City Investing building would not exceed 2,000 men in a day, while the maximum would probably never reach 3,000. While in some ways it is not fair to compare a stone structure with a steel building, still there is no doubt that the chief difference is due to the improved machinery, the greatest strides in which have been made within the last twenty years—many kinds of work now being handled in from one-half to one-third the time that was required two decades ago.

DIPHTHERIA IS CHECKED

Only Twenty-Six Cases Now Exist in the City.

Number Smaller Than It Has Been for a Year.

Diphtheria is at its lowest point in Duluth since a year ago, before the influx of woodsmen from the camps and the advent of diphtheria with them. The records of the health department show that there are but twenty-six cases now under quarantine and the majority of those are convalescent.

Precautions will be taken against a recurrence of the epidemic of last spring on account of the arrival of woodsmen with diphtheria from the camps. Health Commissioner Murray will, in a few days, throw out every possible line to discover cases as soon as they arrive in the city and take them in charge. Last spring several cases were discovered, which were in the last stages, one man dying two hours after he was taken to the hospital.

The inspectors of the department will be put on the trail of the woodsmen, and the one who arrives in the city with diphtheria in any stage, will not have a chance to blow his coin with the free and easy crowd on the Bowery, until the last vestige of diphtheria germs has been taken from his system. By extraordinary precautions, it is hoped to prevent an epidemic such as that which has extended over a year in Duluth and has caused untold suffering, the number of cases mounting close to the 100 mark several times.

THE EVENING STORY

THE RESULT OF A WAGER

By Mabel Baldwin Beardsley.

The last boat had come in, the train was rapidly filling up, and Bess looked sadly out of the window at the hurrying passengers.

"You look serious," remarked some one, and Tom Stickney settled himself beside her.

"Have you any objections?" asked Bess, for she was decidedly cross.

"What is the matter?" persisted Tom.

"I want to go to Washington," answered Bess, rather dolefully.

"Why don't you go?" asked Tom though he knew how little she could afford it.

Had Bess not been cross, her tone and look would have been reproachful as she answered:

"Don't be silly! You know I would if I could—"

"But if I couldn't, how could I?" finished Tom, provokingly. "Oh! you will get there some time, Bess. Take it in on your wedding tour."

"And proclaim myself to the world a bride? Never! All the silly couples think they must trot off to Washington or Niagara."

"I bet you will go to one or the other yourself."

"Not if I stay single forever and ever. Just now wedding trips are far from my mind. My soul is harrowed with grief because I cannot join this jolly party. Just listen," and Bess opened the letter which all this time she had held in her hand:

"Dear Bess: I write in haste to tell you that a party of us are going to take advantage of the Teachers' Holiday Excursion to Washington from this place. Remembering how often you have expressed a wish to visit your mother's old home, I have set my heart upon having you for my chum. Though the others in the party are strangers to you, they are jolly, easy to know, and as nice a set as you could find; and I assure you a pleasant time.

"Your first impression, I know, will be that you cannot go, but I shall wait until the very last moment possible, hoping that some kind fate will smile upon me, by opening the way for you. The tickets for the round trip, including board for three days at a first-class hotel, are only twenty-five. Your name needs to be in by the 22nd. That will give you a month in which to decide, so do let it be 'yes.'

"JENNIE."

Yours hastily.

"Now, isn't that tempting? And to think that there isn't the ghost of a chance for me."

Bess looked so very disconsolate that Tom wished with all his heart that he had the right to comfort her in his own way. But, though in spite of much sparring, they had been friends always, at any attempt on his part to assume the role of lover, this little "rose among thorns" made use of her natural defenses. As he expressed it, she "always kept a fellow at arm's length." Tom had loved her long, and without undue conceit felt assured that she cared for him more than she would own. This stormy little piece of contrariness would have to be taken by strategy. But he knew that Washington had long been her mecca, Washington had long been her mecca, and realized that this was indeed a great trial. So he was very sympathetic as he said:

"I wish I could help you out. I would willingly loan—"

"I beg to be excused!" exclaimed Bess quickly, feeling that she would rather be beholden to anyone in the world than to this old friend, and wondering why.

"I don't ask help of anybody."

"I know you don't," replied Tom, a little nettled, the lover lost for the moment in the man. "I don't believe you want to go to Washington. You wouldn't go if you had the chance—the best chance in the world. You are just so contrary!"

A little red spot burned in each cheek as Bess looked at the young man astonished. That they did, but she never had known him to be so absolutely rude as this, so downright quarrelsome.

"Well—why, how rude you are! There is an empty seat. Perhaps you would better take it!"

"This seat is very comfortable," replied Tom coolly, seeing that for once he had the advantage. "But I believe you are playing a part. You do not want to go to Washington at all, and I will wager out. In fact, I know you will. I know you so well."

The decision, the provoking coolness with which he made this declaration, exasperated Bess, and she replied hotly:

"I accept your wager! If a way is opened for me to go without borrowing or accepting charity, I will go. Make your own terms, Mr. Stickney," and Bess grew very dignified.

A sudden rash idea, a sudden merry twinkle of his eyes, and Tom leaned down and whispered:

"If I win you are to marry me!"

With all his attempts at love-making, Tom never before had gotten so far as this, and he was delighted to see the hot color sweep over her face and neck, as she hesitated a moment in great confusion, and then said quickly:

"That's not fair!"

"My only terms, though. If your word is good for anything you will accept."

Then she lifted her head proudly, said, "I accept," and took up the book in her lap. Not another word said she.

With a smiling glance at the flushed face beside him, Tom took up his paper. There was an unaccountable quickening of his heartbeats; the murder, the railroad disaster, the long political discussion, and the local gossip, all formed one solid background for a face like a red, red rose, which, with eyes full of a something new and strange, had turned to him.

P—— was reached at last. Bess hurried from the train and tried to make her way out of Tom's sight. But he kept steadily at her side as she rushed up the street, only saying as they reached her home:

"If a good chance to go to Washington offers itself, please do not accept. I am anxious to win that wager. It may be selfish, but men are proverbially so, you know."

Not a word said she, but Tom smiled all the way up the street.

Bessie was receiving a fair salary as a typewriter in a New York office. She had no parents, and her few relatives were in moderate circumstances only. The luxury of this trip was not to be considered, even if her employers would grant her the three days. For out of her salary came board and other expense, both for herself and a younger sister, who was preparing to teach for her own support. This left nothing for jolly trips to the capital and the like.

Tom went his way in quite a self-congratulatory mood. In one short and unexpected moment he had made a sudden spring toward the ambition of his life. He knew that Bess' word was as good as gold—that she would "play fair." His only fear was that no opportunity would come to her, and he began to rack his brains for some way in which he might catch my Lady Disdainful.

Plan after plan came to him, but each was dismissed as not coming under the conditions named. She would not accept the money from him either as a loan or a gift, so personally, he was helpless. The only thing he could do would be to watch and wait, hoping, as Jennie had expressed it, that "some kind fate would smile" upon him. At the same time, he was glad that she had been compelled to listen to even so unsatisfactory an expression of his feelings toward her. She could not feign to misunderstand, or pretend not to hear now.

The days passed. Almost every evening they came home together, but while they chatted or quarreled as of old, a strange silence regarding Washington was between them. The twenty-second was fast approaching. Bess had lost all hope of sharing in Jennie's trip, and had decided to write and tell her friend so.

Then one evening Tom called on her.

"Do you still want to go to Washington?" were his first words.

"Certainly. Why?"

"Because I know of a chance for you. Miss this train and I will tell you while we walk. Will you?"

"Yes, it is still early."

"To be as brief as possible: At the office they are in a great flurry. Tracy, their main dependence, is laid up for some time to come, and an important piece of business which he was to see to will have to go to the wall unless some one takes his place. So they are going to send me."

Tom stopped and looked at his companion.

"What has that to do—"

"The business is at Washington, and I am to go next week."

"Well!" Bess' face began to flush, but she would not see, Tom continued rapidly:

"The business will take a day or two, if not three. They pay all expenses, of course, which will not be small. Except that they will make a big pile of money by the transaction, the trip would be very expensive. So, when I suggested the excursion at reduced rates which goes from N—— next week as being a great saving and so forth, and so forth, they were so pleased at the interest your humble servant displayed in their affairs, that Rindell, senior, said: 'Well, my boy, if you can make the trip at so low a figure as that, take your mother or sister along and get what enjoyment you can out of it. You have worked hard this year, and we know you will do this job to our advantage.' With that the fine fellow made out a liberal check, telling me not to be afraid of it."

Again Tom paused and looked at Bess, but not a word said she.

"Well" This time Tom said it.

"I am neither mother nor sister."

"But you may be 'wife.'"

"Suppose I do not care to be?"

"But there is your word for it! Marry me—then your trip will be neither a gift nor a loan, but your right, for 'with all my wordly goods I thee endow,' you know. Come, Bess," and Tom's tone grew lower, "I have waited so long and loved you so dearly. We are poor and have no one to say 'yea or nay.' We can be quietly married on Monday—you can be quietly married on Monday—you to go immediately to Jennie's and enjoy your trip in your own way. I will not intrude upon you at all. Maggie will soon be teaching—until then I will gladly do for her what you are now doing."

Of course, Bess rebelled. She fought hard to overcome each one of Tom's arguments, but in vain. She had given her word, and finally she was convinced that this was a bona fide "chance," such as she had promised to accept or lose her wager.

"So now," said Tom, when he saw that she really was convinced that his offer came under the conditions of the wager, "if you will not marry me and go to Washington, I win the wager, and you will have to marry me anyhow. So you see I have you fast, though he would like to hold her fast in another way, had he dared.

"I never go back on my word," said she, after a moment, "so I accept your offer. That means my trip for me, and the loss of the wager for you;" then, an irresistible laugh broke from her. "I cannot help it—to think of how you have gotten the best of me," and with one of her sudden impulses she reached up and kissed him.

And he was satisfied.

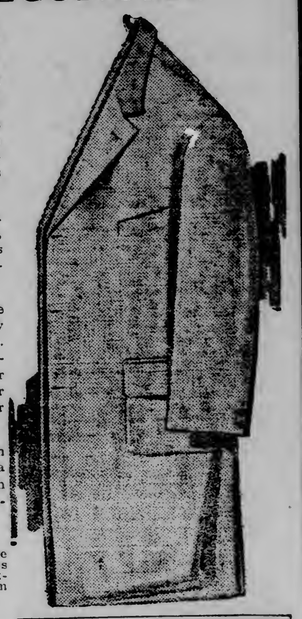
AMERICAN CLOTHES— MODERN ECONOMY



STEIN - BLOCH tailoring methods are typically American. We do a big thing well by developing time-honored methods to meet modern needs.

Experience has taught us that men are so much alike in general build that by averaging up size differences clothes can be made to fit.

Thus far it is mathematics. This done, we turn to style, and here imagination enters and cloaks our efforts with personality and finish.

The completed clothes are turned over to you in your city to the Columbia Clothing Co. to try on—suit or overcoat—and see for yourself in your clothier's glass how close our workmanship has come to your personal requirements.

This, we believe, is modern and American and meets a need that no other method can satisfy so fairly—and so economically.

Our Spring and Summer style book "Smartness," will impress you with the advantage of insisting upon seeing our label when you buy

A SELF-ADVERTISER.

James L. Ford in Success magazine: Curiously enough, the man who, in my opinion, had the keenest intuition of the value of publicity and used it to the greatest personal advantage, when we consider his humble beginnings and the limited sphere of his endeavor, never really knew how to read and write. I knew him first as a young street urchin, making his living by selling newspapers, blacking boots, running errands, and doing such odd jobs as fell in his way; and it was chiefly through selling newspapers, whose headlines alone he was barely able to decipher, that he gained that knowledge of what Park How calls "news values" which one finds in every trained and efficient city editor.

It was on the strength of this knowledge that this bootblack went one day to a well known wholesale liquor dealer on the East side and proposed that he should establish him in a saloon on the lower Bowery. The liquor dealer was aghast at his presumption until he learned his scheme. Then he capitulated at once, and within a few days the papers had been signed and a twenty-four hours' option secured on rickety and, from nearly every imaginable point of view, undesirable premises, near Canal street and directly under the noisest and dustiest and ollest part of the elevated railroad. This done, the bootblack made his way to the very center of the Brooklyn bridge, climbed hastily to the top of the parapet, and, heedless of the warning shouts of the horrified onlookers and the swift rush of a panting cop, dropped into the seething waters below.

It was unknown youth, with an earning capacity of a few dollars a week, who disappeared beneath the surface of the East river, but it was an enterprising young man, an East side celebrity, and with an assured income and possible fortune in his grasp, whose nose reappeared very shortly above the muddy surface of the waters and who was helped by willing and officious hands into a rowboat where dry clothing awaited him, together with hearty congratulations on the fact that he alone, of all those who had attempted to jump the bridge, had escaped with his life. The next day the name of Steve Brodie was flashed from one end of the country to the other, and within a very few hours after his discharge from custody—he was arrested on the charge of trying to take his own life—he was standing behind his own bar, serving drinks to the crowds who came to gape at Steve Brodie, the bridge jumper, and to pour their money into his coffers.

OLD-TIME RECOMMENDATION.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: "All of our ancestors," said a physician, "were pock-marked, and smallpox was a recommendation if you were looking for work.

"What I mean is that you couldn't get a job if you had not had smallpox. No one wanted a servant who was liable at any moment to be stricken down with the loathsome disease. Hence—"

He opened a newspaper volume of 1774.

—"Hence, 'help wanted' ads read like this:

"'Wanted, a man between 20 and 30 years of age, to be footman and under butler in a great family. He must have had the smallpox in the natural way. Also a woman, middle aged, to wait upon a young lady of great fortune and fashion. The woman must have had the smallpox in the natural way.'"

You couldn't discuss the events of the day in the world unless you had read your newspaper. You cannot "shop" intelligently unless you have read the store-ads.

COOK ELY IS ELKS' RULER

Duluth Lodge, No. 133, Holds Annual Election of Officers.

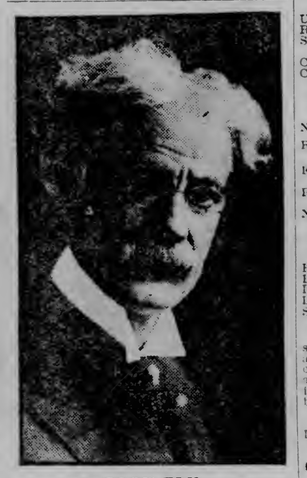
The Annual Dues Are Raised to $10 a Year.

Cook Ely was elected exalted ruler at the annual meeting and election of officers held last evening in Elk's hall by Duluth lodge, No. 133, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The attendance at the meeting was large and there was a keen interest in the selection of the men who are to head the lodge during the coming year. Mr. Ely, the new exalted ruler, succeeds R. M. Edwards, and has long been prominent in Elkdom. He was elected unanimously.

T. J. McKeon was elected leading knight; De C. F. Niles, loyal knight; John Doran, lecturing knight; Charles Benglet, treasurer, and Frank Scott, tyler. J. L. Fuller was re-elected secretary.

R. M. Edwards, the retiring exalted



COOK ELY,
Exalted Ruler of the Elks.

ruler, was elected a delegate to the grand lodge and Charles Goodrich was named as alternate. J. L. Crawford was elected trustee for a term of three years.

Aside from the election of officers, the only important business transacted by the lodge at its session last evening was the raising of the annual dues from $6 to $10 a year. This move has been discussed among the Elks for some time past and it was decided that it would be to the best interests of the local lodge to make the increase.

No action was taken on the project of a new building, which the lodge has had in mind for some time. The site has already been secured and there is a building committee, of which A. E. McManus is chairman, but the members of the order feel that they cannot erect a structure of the sort they want at this time and are content to wait a while longer before establishing a permanent home for themselves.

The new building, when erected, will contain lodge and club rooms, such as are enjoyed by the larger lodges in many other cities.

RAILROAD NEWS

TRIPS ARE IMAGINARY

School Children's Questions Attract Railroad Men to City.

Passenger Agents Are Brought to City on Wild Goose Chase.

A report that a party of about thirty people were planning on a trip to Havana, Cuba, attracted a bunch of traveling passenger agents of different railroads to the city this week. When they got here they met with some difficulty in getting the party located, but finally one of the men made the discovery that all the inquiries had come from one class of school children which had been instructed to write compositions on a trip to Cuba, the route to be followed, the price of tickets, and the methods used in securing them.

"This discovery in Duluth has opened our eyes to the fact that we have been similarly fooled in other towns in the West," said C. W. Humphrey of the Rock Island and Frisco lines yesterday. "On different occasions representatives of several railroad lines have heard of large parties that were figuring on taking long trips, and the agents have gone to the points whence the reports came, but on their arrival there, have been unable to locate any prospective purchasers. It has dawned upon us now that school children following out instructions given them by the teachers were the cause of our profitless journeys.

"I understand it is quite a fad among schools the country over just now to have compositions along the lines of travel, the object evidently being to teach the young idea how to get about in the world without assistance from their elders. The idea is all right, only I wish after the cross-examination of the city ticket agents is completed, they would explain that they have no intentions of making the trips they have been inquiring about, and thus make it unnecessary for us to travel many weary miles after business, only to meet with disappointment at the end of our journey. Now that we are wise, however, we will be more careful in the future.

"The line of questioning put to the city ticket agent is so complete that he has every reason to believe the inquirer has serious intentions of making the trip. The size and age of the questioner sometimes puts the agent wise, of course, but when the students are from the high school, he is not so liable to catch on, unless his curiosity is aroused, and he begins a line of questions on his own hook. The students feel their information is more complete if he does not catch on."

TO HOLD CONFERENCE.

A conference is soon to be held between presidents of Western railroads with a view to discussing the advisability of attacking at once all rate laws which have excessive penalties attached to them. In view of the decision of the supreme court, it is contended, it will only be necessary to make up the cases and rush them to the court of last resort, where, it is expected, they will meet the fate of the Minnesota and North Carolina laws.

The errors which attached to those laws, also attach, it is said, to the majority of rate laws, both passenger and freight, which have been passed during the last two years. In some cases, notably that of Ohio, the legislature has burdened the state authorities with the administration or enforcement of the law. In that state, although the legal rate is 2 cents a mile for passenger travel, there is no authority given the state officers to prevent the railroads charging what they please. In the event of a greater charge than 2 cents a mile the remedy lies with the person aggrieved. He or she can sue the railroad and recover double the amount of the overcharge, with a minimum penalty of $50.

RAILWAY CLUB.

Thomas Owens Will Read Paper at Regular Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Northern Railway club will be held next Saturday evening, March 28, at the Commercial club. "Discipline of Railroad Employes" will be the subject of a paper to be read by Thomas Owens, superintendent of the Duluth & Iron Range road.

There will be the usual special trains run from Proctor and Two Harbors for the accommodation of members. At the last meeting the musical program was in charge of Proctor members, and at the coming meeting Two Harbors members will furnish the features of entertainment.

PAUL MORTON

May be Made President of Equitable Life Assurance Association.

San Francisco, March 26.—Paul Morton, president of the Santa Fe, according to a report in railroad circles, is the next title the president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York will possess. Mr. Morton, who is visiting the city, and who will remain until the latter part of the week, is slated to succeed President Ripley, the head of the Santa Fe road, probably before three months have elapsed, say those in railroad circles who claim to know what is going on. Mr. Morton is traveling in the company of J. E. Gorman, freight traffic manager of the Santa Fe, and George E. Nicholson, third vice president of the company.

NEW TIME CARD.

Great Northern Preparing One for the Northern Division.

Crookston, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new time-card is being prepared for the Northern division of the Great Northern which will be effective Sunday night at 12 o'clock, March 29. It will provide for two important changes. The local passenger from Fargo to St. Vincent will make a through run, leaving Fargo at 5:05 a. m. and leaving Crookston for St. Vincent at 7:40, as at present. Heretofore the Fargo train arrived here after the train for the North had left, necessitating a 24-hour lay-over at this point.

The second change will be in the train from Duluth which arrives here in the morning. It has been running on through to Grand Forks, but in the future will lay over in Crookston, returning to Duluth in the evening, the schedule being the same as a year ago, before the present time-card was adopted. This will give Crookston three more passenger train crews, the three conductors affected being Clarke, Evans and Romshardt.

Don't Wear A Truss

Brooks' Appliance is a new scientific discovery with automatic air cushions that draws the broken parts together and binds them as you would a broken limb. It absolutely holds firmly and comfortably and never slips; always light and cool and conforms to every movement of the body without chafing or hurting. I make it to your measure and send it to you on a strict guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded and I have put my price so low that anybody, rich or poor, can buy it. Remember, I make it to your order—send it to you—you wear it—and if it doesn't satisfy you, you send it back to me and I will refund your money. The banks or any responsible citizen in Marshall will tell you that is the way I do business—always absolutely on the square and I have sold to thousands of people this way for the past five years. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies, no fakes. I just give you a straight business deal at a reasonable price.

OPENING AT GLASS BLOCK

Every department of the Panton & White store is teeming with the beautiful new spring things and the hundreds of guests who have called at the store during the opening days have been delighted at the fashionable showings in the various departments. From the lengths of the lustrous and rougher woven silks to the ready-to-wear garments in the smart 1908 styles a varied and dependable stock is shown.

The millinery department is one of the most attractive of the store. The pattern rooms were prettily decorated for the opening week and here the exquisite imported models were shown to great advantage. The preparation for the season's fashioning of hats seems more beautiful than ever before, and the department is a glow of color from the flowers and foliage. The hats are a beautiful combination of the latest word in the decree of the hat autocrats and from the large graceful hats decorated with plumes of unimaginable beauty to the most severe but charmingly chic street hats, the department is most satisfying.

The variety for which this firm is noted is shown again in the suit department, and the street suits and new spring coats were the cause of much attention.

The lingerie department is piled high with the beautiful new things, and the French hand-made underwear is especially to be noted.

Seldom has a year of fashions in shoes been more interesting than the present season, and in the model shoe department of this establishment some of the finest and smartest looking shoes in the city are shown. The variety of tan footwear is almost bewildering and the suede top shoes and the low cut pumps and the walking shoes and high boots are all of a style and cut that are unmistakable.

The glove and neckwear and lace and handkerchief departments were all of interest showing as they did the new things in the accessories which mean so much to the well dressed woman, and the little novelties which each season brings forward are always watched with interest. The opening has been attended by hundreds of Duluth women, and will be continued tomorrow.

LETTER TO THE POLICE

Troyer Instructs Officers to Keep Newsboys Out of Saloons.

The Saloon Keepers Must Keep Blinds Up After 11 P. M.

In a circular letter to the members of the police department, Chief Troyer takes up the question of newsboys in saloons, and under his orders the members of the force will endeavor to stop the nuisance. They are notified to do all in their power to keep newsboys and other children from entering saloons on any pretense whatever, and also to keep them off the streets at night after the proper time for selling papers is past.

The action of the chief is in line with Mayor Haven's announced policy to do everything possible to keep children from frequeting saloons. The saloonkeepers are in hearty accord with the efforts of the police and the papers of the city have also given their influence by instructing the boys to keep out of saloons. With the co-operation of the public, the officers of the city believe they can effectually stamp out the practice.

In the same letter, the chief puts another screw in the lid by providing for records of saloonkeepers who show a disposition to evade the laws, or the rules of the department. The rule in respect to blinds and screens is to be given special attention, and every saloonkeeper who fails to provide a clear view of his saloon from the street, during closing hours, will be reported and a record kept of the occurrence, for the information and government of the city officials.

MINSTREL SHOW.

Boys Will Repeat Their Entertainment at the Y. M. C. A.

The members of the boys' department have planned a big entertainment for Friday evening in the auditorium of the club, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the conference fund to send three delegates to the boys' conference at Lake George, N. Y. The program will start promptly at 8 o'clock with a selection by the boys' department orchestra with Erling Mostue as leader and Cecil Gilliland accompanist. This will be followed by a sketch entitled "A Happy Pair," by Miss Agnes Johnson and George Wilson.

The gymnastic stunt will be on the horizontal bar, and the performers will be Dr. W. H. Olson, Charles Lindbloom, Edward Mapp and Albert Olson.

In the second part of the program the boys' department minstrels will make their second appearance. The program, however, has been changed, and new material added. The end men will be Charles Cargill and, Fred Ryan, Stanley Lamb and Laurence Duby. Winn Francisco will be interlocutor.

Reaches West Union.

West Union, Iowa, March 26.—Walter Whitbeck, wanted in connection with the murder of his father, Ardo Whitbeck, near here, was brought to West Union last night in the custody of Sheriff Culver. He was captured in Duluth just as he was about to depart for Canada. When young Whitbeck was searched $117, believed to have been taken from his dead father's pockets, was found.

PRAIRIE FIRE SWEEPS ALONG DOING DAMAGE.

Chamberlain, S. D., March 26.—The most disastrous prairie fire this section has known in many years started yesterday afternoon between Pukawana and Kimball. A very high wind carried it over a large area. A number of farmers lost all their buildings. Another fire on American land, Chamberlain's city park, did considerable damage, hundreds of evergreens and other trees being destroyed before the fire could be put out.

Unequaled as a Cure for Croup.

"Besides being an excellent remedy for colds and throat troubles, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is unequaled as a cure for croup," says Harry [illegible]son of Waynetown, Ind. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, this remedy will prevent the attack. It is used successfully in many thousands of homes. For sale by all druggists.

WHEAT HAS GOOD RALLY

Flax is Dull Here and Closing Prices Are Weak.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 26.—After selling at firm prices during most of the session, wheat broke in the American markets today but rallied, largely on covering by shorts, and closed strong. All the American markets showed fractional gains over yesterday.

The strength at the opening was on higher cables and unfavorable weather reports and forecasts from the Southwest. Offerings soon became more liberal, however, and the market eased off, but rallied sharply at the close.

The demand from the millers has slackened and it was reported here today that two Minneapolis mills had closed and more were to shut down.

Liverpool closed ⅝@¾d higher.

The May option closed ⅝c higher in Duluth, ⅝c higher in Chicago, ⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅜c higher in New York and ½c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅞c higher in Chicago and Minneapolis, ⅞-⅞c higher in New York and ½c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed a shade off in Chicago and ⅜d off in Liverpool. May oats closed ½c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"As a result of the weaker cables from America yesterday and private reports of conditions in Kansas, together with a lack of demand for La Plata wheat, caused large offerings at the opening, and the market was quiet in tone and from ¼d to ¾d lower. Following the opening and during the morning there was a sharp advance, prices gaining ½d to ⅝d, due to leading longs here bolstering the market on the talk of smaller shipments from Argentina this week. At mid-day the market was firm and ¼d to ½d higher than Wednesday.

"Corn was quiet at the start and ¼d lower, as influenced by the weaker American market yesterday. During the morning the market was dull with a firm undertone, stimulated by reports of fair business done with La Plata steamers at full prices. Wheat cargoes easy under large Argentine offerings. Corn cargoes firm with a fair demand.

Primary receipts of wheat were 372,000 bus, last year 790,000 bus. Shipments 258,000 bus, last year 252,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 135,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 521,000 bus, last year 685,000 bus. Shipments 392,000 bus last year 575,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 135,700 bus.

Wheat was fairly active during the session in Duluth. May wheat opened ½c higher at $1.04¼, advanced to $1.04⅝, declined to $1.04⅜, reacted to $1.04½, declined to $1.03⅝ and closed at $1.04⅜, a gain of ⅜c over yesterday. July wheat opened late at $1.04⅜, advanced to $1.04¾, declined to $1.04 and closed at $1.05, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅜c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was dull and closed weak. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.16⅝, declined to $1.16½ and closed at $1.16⅝, a loss of ¼c from yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.15⅝, declined to $1.15⅜ and rallied by the close to $1.15⅞, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Shows Early Strength on Higher Cables and Small Receipts.

Chicago, March 26.—Higher cables and small receipts in the Northwest gave strength to the local wheat market today. May opened ⅜c to ¾c higher, at 94¾c to 95⅛c, sold at 95¼c and receded later to 94⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 267 cars against 332 cars last week and 631 cars one year ago.

The market held firm the greater part of the session; during the last hour there was a decline on profit-taking. May selling off to 94⅝@94⅞c, but during the last ten minutes a sharp rally occurred which carried the May delivery back to 95¼@95⅜c. The market closed strong with May up ⅞c at 95¼c.

The corn market opened firm on the strength in wheat but eased off on on reports of good weather in the corn belt. Trading was light. May opened ⅜c to ½c higher at 61c to 61⅜c and sold off to 60⅞c. Local receipts were 172 cars with 5 of contract grade.

The market was rather weak the remainder of the session. The low point for May was 60⅝c. A rally occurred late in the day when wheat prices advanced. The close was steady with May a shade lower at 60¾@60⅞c.

Oats were very quiet and the market was steady. May opened ⅛c higher, at 64½c and for a time held about that figure. Local receipts were 178 cars.

An advance of 10c to 15c in the price of live hogs gave strength to the provisions market. May pork opened 12½c higher at $12.60 and sold up to $12.75. Lard opened 5c to 7½c higher at $7.30@7.32½ to $8.00. Ribs opened 5@7½c to 7½@10c higher, at $6.85@6.87½.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Strong Cables and Lighter Receipts Send May Wheat Upward.

Minneapolis, March 26.—Strong cables, light receipts and dry weather Southwest opened May wheat a cent higher at $1.07⅛. A prediction of rain from Kansas City threw it off to $1.06⅝. Trade was moderate and the May option very congested. Only 137 cars of wheat came in here against 364. There was another increase, however, in elevator stocks and the gain this now 200,000 bushels for five days this week. The estimate of 6,000,000 bushels for Argentine shipment and receipts of reassuring messages from Kansas had some weakening effect, and although the market was persistently strong, May no longer sold 3 cents over July, but the difference narrowed to 2⅜@2½c. Near the close the market advanced again to above $1.07 for May. May opened at $1.07⅛; high, $1.07⅜; low, $1.06⅛@⅜; close, $1.07@1.07⅛. July closed $1.04⅜. September closed at 93c.

In the cash market, demand was slower, millers buying only a little. No. 1 northern sold 2c over May and No. 2 northern at May price, and late in the session some of the less desirable stuff was unsold. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.08⅜, spot $1.08½, to arrive; No. 2 northern $1.06½ spot, $1.06½ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.06@1.04.

No. 3 yellow corn, 61¼@62¼c. No. 3 white oats, 50¾c. No. 2 rye, 74¾@75½c.

Barley was firm and in good demand for both high and low grades. Closing range, 58@82c.

Flax, firm at Duluth, May price. Close, $1.16⅜.

Bran in bulk, $21.50@22.00.

Flour—Lack of shipping instructions is complained of. The larger mills say business is fair, the smaller ones say it is dull, and some are operating only three days a week. Shipments 29,850 barrels. First patents, $5.40@5.60; second patents, $5.25@5.50; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.40@3.50.

Grain Gossip.

"The past month has seen a widely fluctuating professional market in wheat. The trade is now well evened up, and is waiting to see whether there is to be sufficient domestic demand to largely reduce our local stocks before delivery day comes around; and how the winter wheat has survived the vicissitudes of the past four months. At the moment the domestic milling demand is very disappointing and export demand almost lacking.

"The winter wheat crop has generally wintered well. In some sections the plant is small, but is reported to be well-rooted and with normal spring weather should rapidly regain lost ground. A few scattered points in Oklahoma and Kansas report green bugs, but, so far, no damage is claimed, and it will take exceptionally spring weather, similar to that of last season, to allow them to propagate in sufficient numbers to seriously threaten the crop.

"The Hessian fly is reported from a number of points in Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois and Indiana, but we have more or less of them every year, and actual damage will have to result from their presence before they become a market factor.

"Reserves are light, but the price, as compared with recent years, is high, and something radical—either in depletion of reserves or injury to the growing crop—must occur to establish a higher price level.

"The spring seeding in the Northwestern states and the Canadian Northwest should be closely watched. If the crop goes into the ground under favorable conditions, it will undoubtedly exert a bearish influence, especially on the deferred futures."

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Meats continue to soar in prices. Another bulge is recorded today and the end does not seem to be in sight. The advance affects all grades and kinds of meat, as there is a great scarcity.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston to Walter W. Carr: The market was quiet at the opening with prices irregular. Boston Consolidated was freely sold down to 15 against closing 15⅝ last night, about 3,000 shares changed hands in the first fifteen minutes. The buying was fairly well scattered and there was apparently a very good test of the market by selling generally, but a good buying demand took care of all offerings. The dividend to be declared on Anaconda next Tuesday and the Amalgamated dividend early next month will be watched with great deal of interest and will have an important bearing of the future course of copper stocks. Lake copper can now be quoted strong, 13¾@13¾c with moderate sales at the former figures.

FOR DREDGING HARBOR.

Bede Will Try to Secure Funds Left Over From Last Year.

Washington, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Bede said today that he would take up with the committee on rivers and harbors at their next meeting the bill which authorizes the secretary of war to apply the whole or any part of the funds available for the improvement of the Duluth-Superior harbor to dredging inside the Duluth entrance.

There is about $275,000 left over from last year's appropriation which could be made available for the contemplated dredging at the Duluth entrance to the harbor. Mr. Bede is a member of the rivers and harbors committee and he should have pull enough to secure a favorable report upon the bill.

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—When word was brought to the Republican convention that the Leland hotel was on fire, an impromptu adjournment was taken, many delegates leaving the hall on the run.

When the convention reassembled the platform was read and unanimously adopted, and the following delegates and alternates-at-large to the national convention were named:

Delegates—Shelby M. Cullum, Albert J. Hopkins, Charles S. Deneen, Fred A. Busse.

Alternates—William Hodson, John R. Marshall, Charles G. Eckhart, K. H. Smiley.

The convention then adjourned.

SHERIFF ON HIS WAY HOME WITH PATTERSON.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—Roland W. Patterson, formerly a bookkeeper employed by the Shevlin & Matthieu Lumber company of Spooner, Minn., was arrested here last night on a charge of having committed forgeries, which it is alleged netted him $10,000. Sheriff Bailey of Bemidji, Minn., who has been searching for Patterson three months, left today for the East with his prisoner, who agreed to go without requisition papers.

In Stock Market at the Close, Which Was Steady.

Large Amounts Sold and Losses of Two Points Numerous.

New York, March 26.—Business was active at the opening of the stock exchange session today, but the course of prices was generally downward. Canadian Pacific and Brooklyn Transit yielded a point, and St. Paul, Union Pacific, Reading and other stocks of similar prominence considerable fractions. Cleveland, C., C. & St. Louis rose 2 points and Erie first preferred and Westinghouse Electric 1. American Locomotive opened ¾ higher at 48, but immediately ran off a point.

Prices reversed their course and returned quite generally to yesterday's closing, when Reading was advanced from 165¼ to 167 and the bidding up of minor stocks was renewed. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha bounded up 4 and some others a point. Heavy selling of the representative stocks commenced at the high level, and they eventually fell to a lower level than at the outset. Another bulge in Reading, which carried it above 167, rallied the market somewhat.

Heavy accumulation of Reading at steadily rising prices kept the market up. Prices generally ruled fractionally under yesterday's final figures. Reading advanced 2 points and Southern Pacific 1. Bonds were steady.

Stocks were sold extensively again after mid-day. Reading's rise was cut in two, that in Southern Pacific cancelled, and the balance of the list ruled generally in the neighborhood of a point under yesterday's close. Northern Pacific dropped 1⅝c.

The market closed steady with the rally still in progress. Stop loss orders were reached throughout the list on the break in Union Pacific to 125¾ on dissatisfaction over the proposed new bond issue. Large amounts of all classes of stocks were sold and losses of 2 or more points were numerous. A recovery of over a point in Union Pacific started a brisk rally in which Amalgamated Copper was heavily bought and crossed 66.

THE CRAZE OVER BRIDGE WHIST.

In the American Magazine Upton Sinclair writes of the life of the superrich. Here is an interesting paragraph about bridge whist:

"Then the good lady went on to tell him what bridge had come to be; how people played it on trains all the way from New York to San Francisco; how they had tables in their autos, and played while they were touring over the world.

"Once," she said, "I took a party to see the America's cup races off Sandy Hook; and when we got back to the pier some one called, 'Who won?' And the answer was, 'Mrs. Billy's ahead, but we're going on this evening.' I took a party of friends through the Mediterranean and up the Nile, and we passed Venice and Cairo and the Pyramids and the Suez canal, and they never once looked up—they were playing bridge. And you think I'm joking, but I mean just literally what I say. I know a man who was traveling from New York to Philadelphia, and got into a game with some strangers, and rode all the way to Palm Beach to finish it."

YOUNG TO ASK FOR REHEARING

Supreme Court Will be Asked to Explain Its Findings.

St. Paul, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An application for a rehearing, with a request for a definite explanation of the court's findings, will probably be made to the supreme court of the United States by Attorney General Young and those associated with him in the matter of the commodity rate injunction suits.

Pending this application and the court's answer to the question, a call for a special session of the legislature will be held in abeyance.

Though Governor Johnson says he has reached no definite conclusion regarding the suggested call, it is generally believed that if he can see his way out of it, the two legislative bodies will not be convened.

Though Attorney General Young and Attorneys O'Brien and Stone, who are associated with him in the commodity rate case, held a lengthy conference yesterday and discussed the decision thoroughly they were unable at the close to reach an opinion as to whether the unconstitutional feature spoken of by the supreme court applied to the penalties alone.

This same difficulty in correctly interpreting the findings, is found in the legal departments of the several railroads interested in the case, and it is for this reason that the court will be asked to explain.

This will mean a delay of some months and will bring the time close to the session of 1909 when the two legislative bodies will convene in regular course. This would make an extra session unnecessary and it is because of this fact that the opinion is general that Governor Johnson will not issue the call.

Governor Johnson said today that the question of a special session depended largely on the interpretation given the findings.

If it were found that the state's interests are jeopardized to the extent that both laws were annulled he would not hesitate to do what he thought was his duty.

So far nothing of this kind had been brought to his attention.

Attorney General Young is now preparing a statement covering his views of the situation, and will probably file it with Governor Johnson tomorrow.

TOWN OF CHILAPA, MEX., COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY EARTHQUAKE AND FIRE

Situated in State of Guerrero, With Population of 15,000.

Not Even Known Approximately How Many Lives Were Lost.

Ruins Caught Fire and Are Burning—People Terror-Stricken.

Mexico City, Mex., March 27.—The town of Chilapa, in the state of Guerrero, was completely destroyed by an earthquake last night. Following the shock, the ruins took fire and the whole city is burning. The populace is terror-stricken. It is not known, even approximately, how many lives were lost. Chilapa was a city of 15,000 inhabitants.

The destroyed town of Chilapa lies about 115 miles south of Mexico City. It was a seat of a bishop, and several important manufactories were located there.

Shocks Recorded.

Washington, March 27.—Two great earthquakes were recorded at the weather bureau last evening. Four excellent records of each shock were obtained, in which all the details of these phenomena are shown with great distinctness.

The first shock was much greater than the second and began with great distinctness at 6:09:22 p. m. The second shock began with equal distinctness at 10:45:22 p. m.

The duration of the first preliminary tremors in the first shock was exactly the same in all four records, and amounted to 5 minutes and 3 seconds. The first preliminary tremor in the second shock lasted only 4 minutes and 54 seconds. The distance in the first case would be a little over 2,400 miles, probably, and in the second case slightly less than 2,400 miles. This distance agrees so closely with that indicated for an earthquake recorded on the afternoon of March 25 as to suggest that all three of these earthquakes originated in nearly the same locality.

The strong motion of the first earthquake lasted from about 6:20 to 6:30 p. m., and both disturbances produced vibrations in the earth that lasted for over an hour and a half; the maximum motion in the second disturbance being much less than in the first.

MISTOOK GASOLINE FOR WATER; IS DEAD

Oskaloosa, Iowa, March 27.—Mistaking a cup of gasoline for water and pouring it over her apron to extinguish flames that had caught in the garment, Mrs. George Yanning of Millersburg was burned to death last night. She was instantly enveloped in a sheet of flame. Members of the family succeeded in smothering the fire with rags and carpet, but not until the woman had been fatally burned and had breathed the flames. Death ensued a few hours later.

CHILDREN ARE SAVED

From Burning Building in New York by Unknown Woman.

Clothing of the Little Ones Ablaze When Brought Out.

New York, March 27.—Two trips by a brave woman into a burning flat house, in Borough Park, last night, resulted in the rescue of five children, who, unconscious of their danger, were playing happily in a room as yet untouched by the flames. The rescuer was a stranger, Mrs. Lilia Raymond, who was passing the house when the fire started, rang in an alarm and then ran back to the house. She burst in the front door and dashed upstairs, finding Mrs. Joseph Lock, whom she led through the smoke to the street.

Mrs. Lock then awoke to a realization that her children were still in the building, which by this time was well ablaze. Mrs. Raymond ran back into the house, up to the second floor, carried two of the little ones, an older boy following her, and then repeated the trip for two little playmates of the Lock children, who were with them when the fire broke out. The last two were half suffocated when she reached them, and the dress of the younger was ablaze. Tearing it off, Mrs. Raymond got both the children in her arms and made for the stairway again. This time it was entirely ablaze, but she dashed down and reached the street just as the stairway fell. Her face and hands were badly burned, but she refused medical attendance and went home. All this happened before the arrival of the firemen, who had been delayed by the poor condition of the streets. The house was entirely destroyed.

GIRL'S MONEY INSUFFICIENT

To Buy Husband, So Another Woman Got Him.

New York, March 27.—Because Mary Barna did not have enough money to buy Steve Gurick, he is now the husband of another woman. He was married to Annie Markowiz by Judge Owen Mahon in a public court, in Elizabeth, N. J. Steve himself had very little to do with it, except in the beginning.

It appears that Steve had engaged himself to both women, but Annie had first claim. Mary offered her $157, all she had saved, but Annie said it was worth $350, and she would not sell him for a cent less. Then Mary said she would pay the $157 down to bind the bargain, and $3 a week until Steve was fully paid for, but again Annie refused.

Mary took the matter into the court on a charge of breach of promise, but the judge decided that Steve belonged to Annie, and that Mary had recognized the fact by trying to buy him from her. So Steve and Annie were married, while Mary looked on, but said nothing.

CONFESSES TO KILLING SISTER

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 27.—Opening his lips and breaking the silence which he had endured for eight months, Henry Orlaskey, a 10-year-old German boy, yesterday, tearfully confessed to having fired a shot which killed his 8-year-old sister.

Louise Orlaskey was shot accidentally July 26, 1907, dying the following day. She was playing in the yard of her home at the time, with her young brother. Following the shooting the lad declared two unknown boys had fled the shot. For weeks officers hunted for the supposed guilty ones, but without success. One arrest was made, but the prisoner proved an alibi.

Investigation was resumed recently after a lapse of several months, and yesterday the boy confessed. He said that after the accident he induced his sister to promise not to tell who shot her. This promise the dying child honored despite every effort to make her explain the shooting.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY OCCURS IN WOODS

Williamsport, Pa., March 27.—The discovery in the woods near here of the bodies of Frank Roberts and Mrs. Gustine Brizet diclosed a double tragedy. The murder and suicide, for such the crime is officially decided to be, occurred probably on Sunday, when Roberts and Mrs. Brizet were seen to leave the woman's home together.

When found both had bullet holes in their heads, and close by the hand of Roberts lay a revolver with two chambers empty. No other conclusion could be reached than that Roberts had first killed the woman and then shot himself.

Both were French. Roberts is known to have a wife living in the old country. He was 30 years old. Mrs. Brizet was 24. She is surived by her husband and two children. Mr. Brizet has been in Belgium for some time, but is expected home any day. It is this prospective coming of the woman's husband that probably drove the pair to suicide.

WEST DULUTH MAN SHOOTS HIS WIFE IN JEALOUS RAGE AND THEN TRIES SUICIDE

Henry Wilson Fires Four Bullets Into His Wife's Body.

Tragedy is Witnessed by Their Twelve-Year-Old Boy.

The Woman Dies Instantly—The Man Will Probably Recover.

In a fit of jealous rage at his wife, Henry Wilson, a dredge watchman, living at 5620 Grand avenue west, this morning drew a revolver and fired four bullets into his wife's body. He then turned the revolver upon himself and emptied the fifth chamber, the bullet striking in his neck and lodging in his spine.

The woman was instantly killed, but the man will probably recover.

Wilson was able to walk from the yard of his house, where the shooting occurred, and was found by the police a moment later walking toward Central avenue. The police immediately placed him under arrest, and he was taken to Graham's hospital, where the bullet was extracted. He was conscious, and will probably recover.

The body of his wife was removed to Filiatrault's undertaking rooms, and an inquest will probably be held this afternoon.

The shooting was witnessed by the 12-year-old son of the couple, who was in the yard at the time. Several of the neighbors also heard the shots and rushed to the windows in time to see the woman fall to the ground, and Wilson turn the revolver upon himself.

When questioned at the hospital, Wilson was unable to give the police a connected or detailed statement of the shooting. He was very weak from loss of blood, and when asked why he shot his wife, replied: "I shot her and I had a reason for it." He broke down completely when the officers attempted to cross-examine him, and they left him to allow him an opportunity to get rested and recover his strength somewhat.

Neighbors state that Wilson was of a very jealous disposition, and had on former occasions upbraided his wife and accused her of being unfaithful to him. Three weeks ago they had a quarrel, and Wilson is said to have threatened to shoot his wife "as Charlie Little shot himself."

He was placed under bonds to keep the peace at that time. Since then his wife had feared him and tried to avoid him. Last night he acted strange and she went to stay with Mrs. Douglas, a neighbor. This morning he came after her, and ordered her to go home. As soon as they reached the yard he attacked her, threw her down, and drawing gun, fired. One shot went wild,

NEVING DAM BLOWN OUT

Many Logs Carried Away by the Rush of Waters.

Bagley, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Clearwater lake dam, at Neving, Clearwater county, was blown out Tuesday night by some miscreant who had some imaginery grudge against the owner of the dam. This dam was built with proper fishways, and has been but little used the past three seasons, excepting for the power required to run the waterworks for the Neving buildings and irrigating ditches. It was one of the old landmarks, having first been constructed in 1879 and rebuilt in 1894. Certain parties expected to build a flour mill and sawmill at the dam the coming season, which would have been a great convience for the settlers in that section of the country.

The explosion, which blew out the dam, caused such a severe shock that all the windows in Robert Neving's home, barn and outbuildings were broken, and considerable other damage occured around Mr. Neving's place.

An investigation has been started in an attempt to locate the dam-blower.

It is reported that the S. P. K. Lumber, Cedar & Tie company sustained considerable loss through the explosion by the flood of water which was let out when the dam was remodeled and which carried away a large quantity of logs belonging to the company, which were banked on the river below the dam.

STOLEN BY GYPSIES.

Boy Recovered After a Year With With the Nomads.

Middletown, N.Y., March 27—After an absence of a year, during which he had been with gypsies who took him away from his home, here, Leonard Allen, the 16-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Allen of this city, has returned to his home.

The boy was lured away in August, 1906. Detectives searched the country over, but were unable to find him until March 16, when they discovered him with gypsies, near Stanley, at Fall River, Mass. He was suffering from lack of food and ill-treatment, and his mind was so weakened that he hardly knew his own name. Mrs. Allen appeared against the gypsies, who were held for trial.

TRAINMEN IN A QUANDARY

Do Not Know What to Do About Federal 16-Hour Law.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27.—Railroad trainmen are in a quandary about the federal sixteen-hour law and have appealed to the state railroad commission. The state commission has no power in the matter, but has taken up the question with the interstate commerce commission.

A delegation of freight trainmen, employed by the Philadelphia & Reading company, laid their case before the commission. They say the law provides that no crew shall be kept at work more than sixteen hours continuously, and that after such work each member shall have at least eight hours' rest. They say it is difficult to observe such a rule on the railroad.

At a recent wreck at Rossmoyne, on the Reading railway, the wrecking crew was at work eighteen hours. It was impossible to relieve the men. The trainmen say further that often the sixteen-hour limit expires when they are only a few miles from a terminal point. They want to know whether it is their duty to stop work and tie up traffic under such circumstances or take the train to the end of the run.

TOWN OF CHILAPA, MEX., COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY EARTHQUAKE AND FIRE

Not Even Known Approximately How Many Lives Were Lost.

Ruins Caught Fire and Are Burning—People Terror-Stricken.

Mexico City, Mex., March 27.—The town of Chilapa, in the state of Guerrero, was completely destroyed by an earthquake last night. Following the shock, the ruins took fire and the whole city is burning. The populace is terror-stricken. It is not known, even approximately, how many lives were lost. Chilapa was a city of 15,000 inhabitants.

The first news from Chilapa has come by messenger from the city of Mexico City. It was the scene of a bishop and several important manufactories were located there.

Shocks Recorded.

Washington, March 27.—Two great earthquakes were recorded at the weather bureau seismograph. Four extra delicate records of each shock were obtained, in which all the details of these phenomena are shown with great distinctness.

The first shock was much greater than the second and began with great distinctness at 6:49:22 p. m. The second shock began with equal distinctness at 10:45:27 p. m.

The duration of the first preliminary tremors in the first shock was exactly the same in all four records and amounted to 5 minutes and 3 seconds. The first preliminary tremor in the second shock lasted only 4 minutes and 54 seconds. The distance in the first case could be a little over 2,400 miles, probably and in the second case slightly over 1,900 miles. This distance agrees somewhat with that indicated for the earthquake recorded on the afternoon of March 23, as to suggest the possibility of these earthquakes originating in the same locality.

The second portion of the first earthquake lasted from about 6:20 to 6:30 p. m. Both disturbances produced ground motions for the entire day that lasted for over 24 hours, and a little the maximum motion in the second disturbance being much greater than in the first.

Do Not Know What to Do About Federal 16-Hour Law.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27.—Railroad trainmen are in a quandary about the federal sixteen-hour law and have appealed to the state railroad commission. The state commission has no power in the matter, but has taken up the question with the interstate commerce commission.

A delegation of freight trainmen, employed by the Philadelphia & Reading company, laid their case before the commission. They say the law provides that no crew shall be kept at work more than sixteen hours continuously, and that after such work each member shall have at least eight hours' rest. They say it is difficult to observe such a rule on the railroad.

At a recent wreck at Rossmoyne, on the Reading railway, the wrecking crew was at work eighteen hours. It was impossible to relieve the men. The trainmen say further that often the sixteen-hour limit expires when they are only a few miles from a terminal point. They want to know whether it is their duty to stop work and tie up traffic under such circumstances or take the train to the end of the run.

RULING IS AFFIRMED

Land Commissioner Sustains the Local Register and Receiver.

George F. Davis Loses in Fight for Mining Claim.

Commissioner Dannett of the United States land office, at Washington, has handed down a decision in which he affirms the ruling of the register and receiver of the local land office in dismissing the contest case instituted against the Weckey homestead on Cedar Island lake by George F. Davis of this city.

The contest case was directed against Mrs Rosaline Weckey, and joined as defendants with the contestee were Albert Coates and Athol M. Miller.

The local land officials dismissed the contest on the ground that it stated no cause of action. This ruling is affirmed.

The lands involved in the contest were lots 10, 15, 17 and 18, in section 4, 57-17, and adjoining lands.

The lands were long in dispute as unsurveyed lands on Cedar Island lake and had been held by Mrs. Wecky and her husband from 1892.

The contest by Davis was based on the theory that Mrs. Weckey had agreed to give a mineral lease on the lands to M. C. Littleworth and that she had been paid $99 down on such a lease.

The affidavit made by Davis in the contest, as to the agreement for a lease, was corroborated by Littleworth, A. H. Bowden and William Rock.

Mrs. Weckey filed an affidavit in which she swore that she never negotiated with Littleworth or received any money from him, and that she did not even know Bowden or Rock.

It is presumed that the actual ground of the contest was based on an arrangement made by Littleworth with Harry Weckey, a son of the Widow Weckey, who had no interest in the property. Shortly after the time of the alleged deal for a lease Harry Weckey was adjudged insane and was sent to the state hospital. He is said to be in a fair way to recovery.

Before the local land officials it was shown that Mrs. Weckey did not have an entry on the land. Her application, when first made, was not allowed because there was some Valentine scrip on the land by a Washington, D. C., land man. This scrip was afterwards eliminated, but Mrs. Weckel's application could not then be allowed because she was then in a contest with G. A. Burns, over a strip of land adjoining her claim.

W. E. Culkin, who represented Mrs. Weckey, the contestee, advanced the claim that an agreement for a mining lease by a homesteader is not a sale. His argument was based on a Minnesota supreme court decision. Mr. Culkin claimed that the agreement, if made, could in no way affect the right of the homesteader.

Mr. Davis in his appeal from the ruling of the local land officials is said to have intimated that they were in collusion with the contestee. Mr. Culkin took the contestant to task in the attack said to have been made on them and the brief that he submitted in the case went into the matter to a considerable extent, the high character and efficiency of the register and receiver being commented on in emphatic terms.

Mr. Davis was represenleed by himself and M. Douglas of this city.

FRANK B. KELLOGG

May Succeed Harlan on the Supreme Court Bench.

Washington, March 27.—Renewal of the rumor that Justice Harlan may retire from the supreme bench at the close of the spring session of the supreme court attracts attention to another Minnesotan as likely to receive federal judicial honors. It is said on good authority that the president, in case there should be a supreme court vacancy, will be almost certain to offer it to Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul.

KILLED BY RUNAWAY.

Marshalltown, Iowa, March 27.—Robert B. Williams, Civil war veteran and a member of the Soldiers' home, while attempting to stop a runaway team, here, yesterday, received injuries from which he died at the Home hospital three hours later. Williams was a veteran of Company H, Eleventh Indiana infantry. He was 60 years of age.

OPERATORS NOT NEEDED

If New Plan of South Shore Official is Feasible.

Telephones With Phonograph Attachment May be Used.

To do away with the expense of maintaining three telegraph operators at some of the little stations on its lines, as required by the new nine-hour law, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road is considering the advisability of installing a telephone system with a phonograph attachment, which one of the officials of the road has conceived.

Telephones are to be substituted for the telegraph instruments in the small stations. In place of an operator, there will be a complete phonograph outfit attached to the receiver of the telephone. The message will be dictated into the telephone by the dispatcher, and recorded by the phonographic process upon a waxed roll of paper. This roll will retain the message and repeat it for the conductor. The conductor, upon reaching his station, goes to the instrument, takes out the roll, if the message is for him, runs it through the phonograph, repeats the message to the dispatcher's office and goes on with as perfect a set of orders in his pocket as the most exacting could desire.

While at present it is a somewhat visionary scheme, something may come of it, as the Duluth, South Shore officials are seriously considering giving the plan a thorough trial. There are many good points which are apparent to the railroad man. The phonographs have been perfected to such a stage that every intonation of the human voice is recorded. The inventor says that possibilities of mistakes would be even less than with the telegraph, and the messages would have the further verification of the dispatcher when repeated.

This system would apply primarily to small stations, where railroad companies could not afford to engage three operators to comply with the nine-hour law. In larger stations it would serve as well, however, and would relieve the agent of any duties connected with the operating department except signaling trains when required.

The telephone has been experimented with by several large railroad systems as a successor to the telegraph. One road already has long-distance service between its terminals, and while not used much in giving orders, it relieves the telegraph wires of a great deal of strain in connection with correspondence.

There is a question as to whether the nine-hour law applies to telephone operators as well as brass punchers, as the telegraph operators are called in railroad vernacular. If it does, railroads would gain nothing by installing the telephone-phonograph system. If it does not, the companies could evade the law and the necessity of employing an additional man at each station. At any rate, it is almost assured that the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad will give the new system a trial, and if it is found feasible, there is little doubt but that it will be adapted by other lines.

BEAUTIFUL SHOW WINDOWS

A Credit to Gray-Tallant & Co., and the Architect.

During the past year the Gray-Tallant company has made many changes throughout the store—most conspicuous of which are the recently completed show windows—the result of eight years' planning and experimenting.

The windows are finished in natural burled oak in beautiful simple lines reflecting great credit to the store and the architect planning them. They are fitting background for the "good taste" merchandise for which this store is so favorably known. Today's displays are charming—and are but representative of the class of goods shown in every department throughout the store.

The Gray-Tallant company point with pride to the fact that every detail of the organization is in harmony with every other—and that the trade appreciates this, is most evident by the growth of their business this season.

The entrance has been remodeled and a canopy extending across the walk. In the entry case, some rare hand-made laces are being shown—lovely princess, duchess and Irish laces that are perfectly fascinating.

The west window mirrors the spring fashions in millinery suits, costumes and coats—while the east window shows some of the most exquisite silks ever brought to Duluth. The other window is devoted to handsome draperies shown on the third floor. The Herald congratulates the Gray-Tallant company on the success so evident throughout the entire establishment.

TO RECOVER ON BLANKET POLICY

Claiming that the Aetna Life Insurance company should reimburse them for the amounts paid out for the settlement of two claims for damages for injuries received in the Holland mine, in the summer of 1906, Swallow & Hopkins, who were operating the mine, have sued the insurance company for $3,000 and costs.

The suit is based on the claim of the plaintiff concern that the blanket accident insurance policy issued by the Aetna company made the latter liable for the amounts paid out for settlements.

One of the claims settled was $2,700 for the death of a boy, named Fabish. The other settlement was for $300 for the injuries received by Victor Philajonaki.

The suit involves two issues.

The life insurance company claims that the Fabish boy was under 16 years old and was working during the night time. The company claims that the boy could not legally have been employed, and that its liability does not extend to him.

In the case of Pihlajomaki, the life insurance company claims that it was not given notice of the accident within the proper limit of time.

$35,000 VERDICT IS SUSTAINED

Supreme Court Affirms Lower Court Decision in Clay Case.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota supreme court today affirmed a verdict for $35,000 for personal injuries given in the district court of Freeborn county at Albert Lea. This is the largest personal injury verdict that has ever stood the test of the supreme court.

The case was that of Ida B. Clay, administratrix for Louis R. Clay, deceased, respondent, vs. the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, appellant.

Clay, a young man, was frightfully injured by being caught by a projecting platform as he was climbing off a "gondola" loading car. The suit was brought and the verdict given while he was living, but he died while appeal proceedings were pending.

The supreme court says the verdict was justified by the evidence and that it was not inspired by passion or prejudice.

NAME OF BISHOP FORGED TO LETTER

And Episcopal Church Circles in Iowa Are All Agog.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 27.—Iowa Episcopal church circles are agog over a letter to which the name of Bishop T. N. Morrison of Davenport was forged and which delegated to Mrs. Simon Cassaday of Des Moines, wife of a banker, the power to select a successor to Dr. J. Everist Cathell, for many years, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church here. It is not so much the contents of the letter, though they are enough to set church folks to talking, but the object in view, the mystery surrounding it all that is proving the poser.

And now the letter is in the hands of postoffice inspectors who are determined to ferret out the mysterious sender and ascertain why Mrs. Cassaday's good name is thus dragged into notoriety and why the name of the highest church officer in Iowa was thus basely forged.

The letter was written with a typewriter and was sent to a half dozen leading newspapers in the state. It was signed by Bishop Morrison and it gave Mrs. Cassaday the sole right to name five clergymen. The latter were to select Dr. Cathell's successor since Dr. Cathell has resigned to go on the chautauqua platform. This delegation of power was so remarkable that the newspapers printed it and played it up as good news.

Mrs. Cassaday was shocked. Bishop Morrison, when communicated with, declared the letter a forgery and said he was out of Davenport when the letter was postmarked at that city.

So friends of the Cassadays, society folk and church people are all wrought up and are intent upon discovering what possible motive can be behind the remarkable affair.

MEAT RISE IS FEATURE

Of the Week in the Local Produce Markets.

Steaks and Chops Are Up, But Other Foods Unchanged.

The big feature of the week in the produce market was the bulge in the price of meats. There have not been many fluctuations in the prices of other commodities to be had along commission row, but the rise in the beef, mutton and pork markets has been ample to stir up the street, not to mention the whole city.

Despite the fact that this is the Lenten season, when it is popularly supposed the consumption of meat is lessened, there has been a steady decrease in the available supply of live stock and a corresponding increase in the price of meats.

Everywhere, there is a shortage of beeves, hogs and sheep. At the stockyards receipts have been diminishing at an alarming rate and the reserves on the farms, ranges and ranches are very low. The country is facing a severe meat stringency and in the face of it must pay stiff prices for all the meat it consumes.

For some time past, the beef market has been slowly climbing. Last week, prices went up a little, but the advance did not strike the whole meat list until this week and when it did, it struck with a vengeance.

A week ago, beef was selling, wholesale, at the local packing houses at 8 to 11 cents and now it is 9 to 11 cents. The rapid rise of the market is shown more forcibly, however, by the bulge in the prices of the other meats, which, did not reflect the shortage in the visible supply until this week.

A week ago, mutton was selling at 9½ to 10 cents wholesale, and now it is quoted by the local packing agents at 13 to 15½ cents. This highest price, however, is for lambs.

The modest quotations on pork loins a week ago were 8 to 9 cents and today they are 10½ to 11 cents. Veal is now 8 to 10½ cents, as compared with 7 to 9½ cents a week ago.

The meat market gives no evidence at this time of an immediate reaction. In fact, from what all the packing men say, there are excellent chances of prices going higher, and it seems certain that the market will be very firm for some little time.

The killing yards are practically depleted all of the time. Receipts are so light that there has been a very small supply of stock on hand at any time during the week, in Chicago, South St. Paul, Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City or St. Joseph. There is talk of making importations from Argentina and one or two of the other South American republics which boast of grazing country.

Although the meats have gone skyhigh, there has been practically no change in the poultry and fish markets during the week. Poultry has been high for the past two weeks. A continuance of the strength in meats cannot but cause a stronger feeling in fish and poultry, however, as economical Duluthians will likely turn more often to the fowls and the fish rather than dig too deep in their jeans for sirloins and pork chops.

Receipts of poultry are improving a little although they are not heavy yet. Spring chickens and hens are selling at 14 to 15 cents. Turkeys and ducks are unchanged from a week ago.

The general produce list has been rather quiet. Receipts of oranges are becoming a little lighter and there is a firmer undertone to the market, although prices have not undergone any rise during the past few days. A strong market for navels is looked for, however.

There is also a stiff undertone to the apple market, the season for which fruit is rather on the wane. Prices remain unchanged now.

The luscious strawberry, brought in from Florida, still manages to keep out of the reach of the ordinary purse, being quoted at 15 cents a quart. One day, they are in the market and the next day they are not, although receipts are becoming less fitful than they were.

Grape-fruit is still in good demand and prices for this breakfast delicacy are unchanged from a week ago.

In the fresh vegetable market, there have been no marked changes in prices, during the week. The demand continues good and receipts are holding well.

There are no new features in the butter and eggs market. Prices are unchanged. Storage eggs are out of the market now and fresh eggs are quite plentiful at 16 and 17 cents. As to butter, creamery prints are offered at 30 to 31 cents.

MUST REPAY BAIL MONEY

Jury Determines That Eveleth Court Cannot Withhold It.

Judge Vivian Prince of the municipal court at Eveleth must return to the Western Federation of Miners the $425 that was deposited with the clerk of the court as bail for the striking miners, pending their appeal to the district court after being convicted and fined in the municipal court on the charge of intimidation.

The action for the recovery was instituted by John Movern, secretary of the Eveleth branch of the union. Movern contended that the union, as an organization, never authorized the use of the money for bail, and that the court had no right to accept cash bail in lieu of a surety bond in case of an appeal.

Judge Prince held that he had the right to accept the cash bail, and that so long as no appeal had been perfected by the two convicted men, the money could not be returned to the union, the men not being in court.

Movern was represented by John A. Keyes, while Judge Prince and his clerk of court were defended by Thomas Perry.

KNICKERBOCKER TRUST COMPANY HAS REOPENED.

New York, March 27.—The Knickerbocker Trust company, which suspended payment on Oct. 22 last, after sustaining a run of its depositors, was reopened for business yesterday, with new management and under an agreement by which the depositors may withdraw only about one-third of the $36,000,000 on the books at once. Payment of the remainder is due at intervals for two and a half years. Officers of the company announced that they had assurances that $1,500,000 would be deposited with the company, and shortly after the office opened they stated that $525,000 of that amount had already been deposit: There was a notable absence of any rush to take out funds.

The suspension of the Knickerbocker Trust company was one of the most serious developments of the bank panic of last fall. Soon after it suspended, its president, Charles T. Barrey, committed suicide.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Robbers blew open the safe in the postoffice at Marshall, Ill., and Westfield, Ill., early Thursday morning. All the cash and stamps in both offices were taken. The total loss, it is said, will exceed $1,000. The robbers are believed to be the same men who attempted to rob a bank in Chrisman, Ill., Wednesday.

Ernest Bloomquist, a cabinet maker, his wife, Lotta, and a 12-year-old son, Lewis, were burned to death in a fire which consumed their home at Belmont, Mass., Thursday. The fire is believed to have started from the outside of the building, and a mystery seems to surround its origin.

In the presence of a constable, who a moment before had served him with a warrant of arrest on the charge of uttering a fictitious check, Henry Hyde Dwight, a prominent architect of Los Angeles, swallowed the contents of a bottle of chloroform. Dwight died a few hours later.

Fearing a panic of a few months since, J. W. Carrington, an aged resident of Jacksonville, Ill., drew from his bankers $5,000 in gold and hid it at his home. Thursday he found that thieves had taken all the money.

Three indictments, each containing three counts, against Pat Calhoun, president of the United railroads; Tirey L. Ford, general counsel for the same corporation, and Abraham Ruef, former political boss of San Francisco, secretly voted by the grand jury Wednesday night, were filed with Presiding Judge Sturtevant Thursday.

State Banking Commissioner Zimmerman and Attorney General Bird appeared Thursday in the St. Clair county circuit court and filed a petition for a receiver for the United Home Protectors' fraternity, from which Supreme Secretary W. L. Wilson of Perth, Huron, Mich., has embezzled over $75,000, according to his own confession.

Andrew Koloniske, charged with slaying his wife and her boarder, with whom, it was alleged, she was infatuated, was freed Thursday by a jury in Judge Babcock's court at Cleveland. Koloniske admitted the deed, but pleaded emotional insanity and justification. After being out all night, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

JEROME HEARING BEGINS IN NEW YORK.

New York, March 27.—William H. Tillinghast, the self-confessed bribe-taking juror in the interests of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, was the chief witness at the hearing which was begun yesterday on the charges preferred with the government against District Attorney Jerome. The charges of neglect of duty were made by a committee of stockholders of the Metropolitan Street Railway, headed by William F. King.

Franklin Pierce appeared as counsel for the complaining committee, and Mr. Jerome conducted his own defense.

The first of the twenty-odd allegations taken up was that accusing Mr. Jerome of neglect in the prosecution of the Tillinghast and other cases of alleged jury bribing by the Metropolitan Street Railway company in 1900-02, in personal injury cases in the city courts and other cases in the supreme court.

HORNE ACQUITTED ON GROUND OF INSANITY.

Kansas City, March 27.—Gen. Richard C. Horne was acquitted of the charge of murdering H. J. Groves, managing editor of the Kansas City Post by a jury in the criminal court, here, last night. The verdict stated that Gen. Horne was insane when he shot Groves, and has not fully recovered, and commits him to an asylum.

MARSHALL NAMED BY DEMOCRATS

As Candidate for Governor for the State of Indiana.

Indianoplis, March 27.—The Indiana Democratic state convention closed its two days' session last night after naming a state ticket, adopting a platform and instructing the thirty delegates to the national convention to vote for William J. Bryan for president. John W. Kern of this city was indorsed for the vice presidency. The convention was enthusiastic and the majority of the nominations were hotly contested. There were six candidates for governor and the nomination was made on the fifth ballot. There were four ballots for lieutenant governor. Three of the nominations were made by acclamation. There was but one candidate for each of these offices. The nominee for governor is Thomas R. Marshall, Columbia City; for lieutenant governor, Frank J. Hall, Rushville.

DELEGATES AT LARGE

Chosen by the Iowa State Democratic Convention.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 27.—Delegates at large were chosen by the Democratic state convention as follows: Claude R. Porter of Centerville, Jerry B. Sullivan of Des Moines, E. J. Dunn of Mason City, who were chosen on the first ballot, and C. F. Duncombe of Fort Dodge, who won out in a contest with Gen. Weaver on the second ballot. A special plea for Weaver was made by the former standard bearer of the party, Fred White, but the other counties defeated him because of his alignment with the Prohibition party. The delegates were instructed for Bryan.

JURY FREES MRS. SHENDO

Finds She is Not Guilty of Running Blind Pig.

The jury in the case of Marie Shendo of Mount Iron, who was accused of running a blind pig, returned a verdict of not guilty late yesterday afternoon. There are two other blind pig cases from Mount Iron pending, and these may be dismissed by the county attorney, as a result of the Shendo trial, as the evidence is practically the same in all the cases.

Mrs. Shendo is one of several range boarding house keepers arrested under indictments charging them with selling liquor without a license. The women claim that Mike Kelly, a saloonkeeper near Mount Iron, employed men to get evidence against them, and that the stool-pigeons were hangers-on in Kelly's saloon.

Mrs. Shendo was defended by W. G. Bonham and J. C. McGilvary.

TELLS WHAT TO PREPARE

A Very Fine Prescription for Rheumatism, Kidneys and Bladder.

Save This or Hand to Some One Which Will be an Act of Humanity.

A large New York publication tells its readers of a number of simple and safe prescriptions that can be made at home. The following, however, for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles receives the greatest praise, viz.: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumblerful of water after each dose. It is further stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially of the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic afflictions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swellings.

A well-known local druggist states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys; cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, which is the cause of rheumatism.

Cut this out and hand to some sufferer, which would certainly be an act of humanity.

LA FONDE IS RELEASED.

Man Kidnaped From United States Given Up on Demand.

Winnipeg, Man., March 27.—Adelard La Fonde of Manchester, N. H., for a while solicitor for the Travelers' Insurance company of Hartford, Conn., will be taken to the United States boundary and there liberated in compliance with the demands of the state department at Washington. Such is the decision arrived at yesterday.

He was arrested at Ottawa, Ill., last October on charge of stealing $300 from the Winnipeg branch of the insurance company, and for five months he was held in jail without bail at the little Illinois town and in the end an extradition warrant was not forthcoming, the United States authorities deciding the evidence not sufficient to warrant extradition, especially as La Fonde had papers to show the company owed him nearly $400 in commissions. When he was released from the jail doors he was met by Marshal Fox, who detained him by arresting him, while Constable Chittick of the Manitoba provincial police handcuffed him, despite the fact he had no authority of any kind. Chittick brought La Fonde back to Winnipeg, and the American consul immediately took a hand in the affair, demanding his release, at the same time reporting the matter to Washington, with the result that the official demands for La Fonde's release and return to the states was made in view of kidnaping practices used to get him into Canada.

TAILOR SUES DE CHAULNES.

Foreigner Who Married Miss Shonts Sued for $2,000.

New York, March 27.—The fact that the Duc de Chaulnes, who recently married Miss Theodora Shonts, daughter of Theodor P. Shonts, was sued last week in the city court by a London tailor to recover $2,000 for clothing, was made public today when the case was before Judge Conlan in special term of the city court.

The suit came up on the return of an order obtained by Burt L. Rich, counsel for the duke, directing James F. Hannigan, as assignee of James Cavanaugh, tailor, of London, Eng., to show legal cause why the alleged service of the summons in the suit should not be set aside.

Mr. Rich set forth that the summons was not served upon Emanuel Theodore Bernard Marie d'Albert de Luynes d'Alley, Duc de Chaulens or de Picquiny, but that the summons was served upon the Baron Louis de Conde.

A PERFECT HOTEL

The St. Regis, New York, Provides Every Known Comfort and Luxury.

A LIBRARY FOR GUESTS

In the olden times when houses for public entertainment were known as inns or taverns very little attention was given by "mine host" to providing anything for his guests beyond such actual necessities as food and shelter and even these were not always of the best.

In this age of great hotels, palatial in size and magnificence, which are not merely stopping places for travelers, but more or less permanent abodes, the manager provides all the comforts of home, and much in the way of luxury and convenience unobtainable in the average private residence.

Particularly is this true of Hotel St. Regis, New York's most complete living and dining establishment. Not content with giving its guests the best in the way of food, furnishings and artistic surroundings, the management also makes special provision for those who have literary tastes.

On the second floor of the St. Regis, where are located the grand ballroom and a series of reception and sitting rooms, is a large, attractive library with well-stocked book shelves. Here are many thousand volumes selected with great care and covering the world's best literature. A complete and handsomely bound catalogue is provided in every room and a librarian is always in attendance. Guests have free access to this library and are permitted to draw books for perusal in their rooms.

Hotel St. Regis omits no feature whih can in any way add to one's enjoyment. And yet with all that this implies, the cost of living is moderate. A large, well-furnished room may be had for $4 a day, or the same with bath connected for $5 ($6 for two people), or a parlor with bedroom and bath for $12. The restaurant charges are not higher than in first-class hotels generally.

SUPPORT OF DEMOCRATS

Will be Given to Certain Measures Advocated by President.

Williams Outlines Policy of Minority for Present Session.

Washington, March 27.—Representative John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, leader of the minority in the house of representatives, last night issued to the press a written statement defining the attitude of the Democratic party in the house toward legislation urged by President Roosevelt in his messages to congress at the present session. The statement describes what Republican legislation the Democrats will support, what they will oppose, and what concessions they demand of the present majority as the price of refraining from an organized filibuster throughout the rest of the session.

Mr. Williams opens his statement by saying: "Some things in the president's recent message are so immediately important to the interests of the entire country as to pass the bounds of partisanship and to make it excusable, if not necessary, for me to say something concerning them with the view of assuring the president himself and reasonably inclined Republican members of the house and the country of the support and indorsement, or the opposition of the Democratic minority. Insofar as the things urged by the president are good things, I would like the country to know that all he has to do is to deliver twenty or twenty-five Republican votes in favor of them. These, conjoined with the solid Democratic votes, will put them through."

Will Command Democratic Vote.

Mr. Williams notes the following measures as ones that will command virtually the solid Democratic vote within constitutional limits:

"To compel publication of campaign contributions; prohibition of child labor in the District of Columbia and the territories; an employers' liability law, drawn to conform to the recent decisions of the supreme court; federal liability to government employes; a law to prohibit the issuance of injunctions without notice to the party enjoined; removal of the tariff on wood pulp and printing paper; imposition of a federal charge for every waterpower right granted on a navigable stream."

Those principles and measures urged by the president with which Mr. Williams, as minority leader, takes issue, are enumerated as follows: The right of attorney generals to nominate receivers when common carriers are thrown into the hands of a receiver; the modification of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to permit, within limitation the maintenance of trusts and the making of trade agreements between combinations of capital; the appointment of a commission to prepare data for a revision of the tariff.

Not Sure on Waterways.

Mr. Williams frankly states that he does not know whether a majority of the minority favors the creation of a permanent waterways commission.

Referring to the president's declaration that child labor ought to be prohibited throughout the nation, he says:

"Child labor ought to be prohibited throughout the nation, but the states are the sole authorities having power to prohibit it. If those who would protect the children, and through them the generations to come, would waste less of their time in the useless agitation for invalid and unconstitutional federal constitution, and would devote more of their time to the support of the children, it would be better. We can act for the District of Columbia and the territories, and that we ought to do."

No Excuse for Delay.

Commending the president for his recommendation for an immediate enactment of an employers' liability law, Mr. Williams says: "There is no excuse for the delay on the part of the Republicans of the house to report an employers' liability law. The delay at least arouses, if it does not justify, a suspicion that they are having a lot of useless hearings for the purpose of using that bill as a buffer to prevent the serious consideration of other bills before the committee. For example, the Clayton bill to put an end to the temporary restraining orders of courts invalidating state laws, and the various bills there pending to recognize the police powers of the states in dealing with alcoholic stimulants when introduced into prohibition territory. I have given notice in the house that no legislation shall be enacted by unanimous consent until an employers' liability bill is at least reported for the consideration of the house."

The Injunction Question.

Respecting pending bills to prevent the issuing of injunctions without prior opportunity for the enjoined party to be heard, the minority leader says:

"Of course, I take it that there should be no limit upon temporary restraining orders when intended to prevent immediate destruction of property, life or limb. When I say property, I do not mean judicially 'construed 'property rights.'"

One of the most vigorous portions of Mr. Williams' statement regarding the boycott, after quoting the president's declaration that "Nothing should be done to legalize a boycott that would be illegal in the law," he says:

"It is a sad commentary upon this utterance of his that while the federal courts have held that a boycott is a combination in restraint of trade and therefore illegal, they have virtually upheld the employer in his assertion of a right to blacklist; because one federal court went so far as to say that because the employer had a right to discharge without giving notice at all, therefore he had a right to discharge because the discharged man was a member of a union. It is a poor rule that does not work both ways. Another decision of a federal court—the decision of Judge Gould—had gone so far as to say that a laboring man's newspaper should not publish the names of a firm under the heading 'We don't patronize.' A man has a right to patronize anybody, according to his own sweet will, and he therefore has the right to publish those whom he does not patronize."

Print Paper on Free List.

The president's recommendation of a law to place pulpwood on the free list was upheld by Mr. Williams, "except that it does not go quite far enough." Not only ought wood pulp be placed on the free list, he says, but print paper ought to be placed there also. The publishers will not be very much benefitted by the placing of wood pulp on the free list if there be only a slight reduction of the duty on print paper.

"There are other things in the president's message," says Mr. Williams, "which one might naturally expect considering his energy in the line of Hamiltonianism and his tendencies toward imperialism, which do not meet our approval. His utterances concerning the anti-trust law are an indication of his inability to see that which will appear to a Democratic mind, that anything approximating a private monopoly is intolerable and unendurable in a free government. His attempt and that of others to classify trusts as good trusts and bad trusts is abhorrent. There can be no such thing as a good trust. There may some times be a good trust magnate who uses his powers benevolently, but the power is too much fraught with danger to be vested in a few men. We ought simply to provide that organizations of labor and of workingmen for the purpose of securing shorter hours or higher pay or more equitable treatment shall not be construed to fall within the inhibition of any trust law.

"The president's idea of letting the substance remain as it is, giving to some branches of the executive government power to regulate trusts, is so very vicious in its effects, if adopted, that it would seem that no friend of a well ordered government could stand for it.

"As to the president's preparation for a tariff revision by consideration at the hands of a commission composed of members of the house and senate and so-called 'experts' it is both cumbersome and useless. The very best possible tariff-commission is a commission of the representatives of the people selected by the people in the interests of the people. Even that body has too many men selected by private interests in the interests of private interests. If the Republican party cannot furnish a ways and means committee with sufficient intelligence to revise the tariff, then will it surrender the reins of power to us of the minority and let us see whether we can or not?"

TRANSPORTATION BY WATER ROUTES

During Last Year Subject of Bulletin by Census Bureau.

Washington, March 27.—The bureau of the census has just issued a bulletin on transportation by water, prepared under the direction of William M. Steuart, chief statistician for manufactures. The bulletin contains a summary of the main features of a census of transportation by water which covered the year ending Dec. 31, 1906, further details of which are reserved for separate reports on the shipping on the Atlantic coast and Gulf of Mexico, the Pacific coast, the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river, the Mississippi river and its tributaries, and all other inland waters, respectively.

The bulletin includes the statistics for all American vessels or craft of five tons net register or over operated on the coasts and inland waters of the United States, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands, or between the ports of these and other countries. All craft are included except those owned by the federal government, those engaged in fishing, and stationary wharf boats and house boats used largely for residential purposes.

The statistics cover 37,321 active craft with an aggregate gross tonnage of 12,893,429 and 1,752 idle craft with an aggregate gross tonnage of 178,326. In 1889 there were reported 20,483 active craft with an aggregate gross tonnage of 8,359,135 and 1,490 idle craft with an aggregate gross tonnage of 233,639. Of the active craft, the value increased from over $200,000,000 in 1889 to over $500,000,000 in 1906. In the same period the gross income increased from about $162,000,000 to about $295,000,000, or 82 per cent; the number of employes, from about 114,000 to about 141,000, or 23.3 per cent; and the wages paid, from about $41,000,000 to about $72,000,000, or 72.7 per cent.

By far the largest part of the American shipping, 20,032 vessels with an aggregate tonnage of more than 4,800,000 tons, operates on the Atlantic coast and Gulf of Mexico. The next greatest number, 9,622 vessels with a tonnage of over 4,400,000, is shown for the Mississippi river and its tributaries. But so many of these vessels reported from the Mississippi river are coal barges and scows, that in spite of the large number and great tonnage, the value is only about $22,000,000 and the income only about $17,000,000. The smaller number of vessels on the Great Lakes, 2,990, represented a value of over $130,000,000 and derived an income of over $85,000,000. Shipping on the Pacific coast showed a great proportionate increase and did business valued at about $48,000,000.

ROBBER'S HEAD BLOWN OFF BY DYNAMITE.

Gentry, Ark., March 27.—In a futile attempt to blow open the safe of the Farmer's bank at Springtown, near here, early yesterday, the head of one of the robbers was blown from his shoulders by a premature explosion of dynamite. The body of the dead robber was found in the bank, near the safe. In his pocket was a map, showing Gentry, Springtown and Sulphur Springs, marked with crosses. Banks at the two latter places have been robbed lately, and the police are led to the belief that the same gang attempted to rob the Farmer's bank. The identity of the dead robber is not known.

MEMBER FROM TEXAS ARRAIGNS PRESIDENT.

Washington, March 27.—More shafts of sarcasm and invective were aimed at President Roosevelt in the house of representatives yesterday. In one of the most scathing arraignments of a public officer ever heard in that chamber, Mr. Beall of Texas charged the president with having been guilty of a disgusting usurpation of power, "not only toward the national legislature, but the judiciary as well. Congress had," he said, "abdicated to him his powers, and the judiciary of the country felt the effect of his influence. God and the country alone know," he declared, "just what niche he was to occupy in the temple of his country."

CAROLINA IS EXAMPLE

Minnesota May Expect to Develop Along Similar Lines.

Mills Taken to Raw Product and State Profits.

"South Carolina is an example of what Minnesota may expect to develop into as a result of bringing the steel mills to the mines, instead of shipping the iron ore east to the mills," said G. J. Webster of Chicago, who was in the city looking after timber interests. "We are not in the habit of considering South Carolina a manufacturing state, although she stands second and next to Massachusetts in the amount of capital invested in cotton factories, and in the value of her manufactured products.

"It was not until 1880 that the manufacturing industry in South Carolina amounted to anything. Then it began to grow, as a result of the movement to take the mills to the cotton, instead of taking the cotton north to the mills. The gospel preached on that text impressed many men of capital and enterprise, and the consequences may be seen in the mill villages scattered all over the state, which have done so much to develop the character, improve the morals and promote the welfare of a large portion of the population, as well as multiply their wealth. The same will hold true of bringing the steel plants to Minnesota, and to the farmers especially, as in the Southern state, the mills will be beneficial. A home market is afforded for everything in the way of food products that can be raised.

"The mill villages are composed of comfortable frame cottages neatly painted white, or some other color, and they rent for $1 a room per month to the mill hands. Each cottage has a quarter of an acre of ground, where the family can make a garden, and most of the corporations offer prizes to encourage their tenants in producing the best display of flowers or the greatest value in vegetables. These cottages are infinitely more comfortable than the crowded tenement factory towns of the North, and although the scale of wages paid down there is considerably lower, the cost of living is correspondingly low."

Mr. John Riha, of Vining, Ia., says "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by all druggists.

THIRTY FARMERS" STUNG."

Alleged Hay Buyers Work Clever Game on Agriculturists.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.) About thirty farmers residing through Stearns county are out the price of from one to five tons of hay each, as a result of their sales to two hay buyers who have since skipped the country.

The men originally came from Minneapolis and have been dealing in scrap iron and second-hand goods through the western part of the county for some time. They were known to many farmers and in some way acquired their confidence.

A few weeks ago the men made a trip through the county and bought up all the hay in sight. They told the farmers that they were going to ship the produce to Minneapolis and would pay in a few days. Each farmer was given a slip showing the indebtedness to him.

As a result of this scheme several hundred tons of hay were secured. Several days passed and nothing was heard of the men. The farmers became suspicious and the matter was finally put into the hands of the authorities, who discovered that the buyers had skipped the country.

Our Ladies' New Tailored Suits!

DURING the past three days of our Spring Opening, the display in our Cloak and Suit Department, on the second floor, has been a fund of information and a source of delight to many hundreds of Duluth's fashionable women.

The gorgeous costumes displayed, the very highest attainable quality of the tailoring, the beautiful color effects, and the exclusiveness of style, have been revelations to many. The fact that even the most extreme of the extreme Spring styles and models are entirely innocent of ill-befitting and irrelevant theatrical titles, has been loudly and favorably commented upon.

We have no "Camille" Suits, no "Blue Jean" Coats, or "Uncle Tom's Cabin" costumes; and even our best garments are utterly devoid of soul osculatory qualities. BUT every Suit bought here is a source of complete satisfaction to its purchaser. The wearers of our Suits are the personification of style, and can smile tolerantly and easily with a consciousness of superiority upon hearing that Mrs. Tom, Mrs. Dick and Mrs. Harry, have each gotten one of the Madam Vere De Vere, or Princesse "Mavaava" Suits

CHURCHMEN WILL MEET

March 31, at Little Falls, for a Three Days' Session.

Annual Conference of M. E. Church for Brainerd District.

Akeley, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brainerd district of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold its conference at Little Falls March 31 to April 2, and the Rev. E. K. Copper, presiding elder, will preside at all the business sessions. Clergymen from Staples, Brainerd, Wadena, Akeley, Bemidji and other cities and towns will be present.

Rev. Charles Fox Davis of Brainerd is Secretary and Rev. J. T. Brabner Smith of Akeley is treasurer of the conference. Rev. W. H. Farrell of Little Falls has charge of the entertainment of the large body of ministers. Rev. Clinton A. Billig, Congregationalist, will welcome the visitors to Little Falls, and Rev. I. N. Goodell will respond for the pastors. The conference sermon will be preached by the Rev. H. A. Cleveland, D. D., of Long Prairie, and a reception will be given the visitors. Miss Nora Magee will speak for the local Methodist church.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Forbes, secretary of the board of home missions and church extension, will be one of the principal speakers. Addresses on Hamline university, Asbury hospital and the annuity fund, with discussion, will be one of the chief features of the conference.

Dr. Forbes will also conduct a question box for the preachers.

Rev. Charles Fox Davis of Brainerd will speak on "The Brotherhood of Methodist Preachers and Their Relations to Each Other."

It is expected that the report of Presiding Elder Dr. Copper will show a steady growth of the churches and increase of membership. At several churches there have been gratifying revivals, and others are contemplated.

The Brainerd district includes some fifty churches and about forty-five pastors, with a membership of nearly 3,000, with as many Sunday school scholars. At the last annual conference the boundaries were enlarged, and there are several new charges within the district, which makes it one of the largest and longest in Methodism.

Battlefield With Gov. Johnson to Dedicate New Monument.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Making a farewell trip through the Northwest for the purpose of saying good-bye to his business associates and friends, H. C. Bailey, who for a number of years has been traveling passenger agent of the Louisville & Nashville in this territory, and who has been promoted to the position of division passenger agent of the same road at Atlanta, Ga., is in St. Paul. Mr. Bailey is arranging for the trip to be made by Governor Johnson and his staff when they go to Shiloh battlefield to dedicate the monument to the Minnesota soldiers lying dead there. The party, which number about fifty, will leave here April 7, and Mr. Bailey will conduct the trip.

P. W. Morrow, who is at present located at Houston, Texas, will take Mr. Bailey's place as traveling passenger agent for the Louisville & Nashville in the Northwest.

UNKNOWN HERMIT DIES

In Lonely Cabin, Death Ending Mysterious Career.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 27.—Lying in bed in a lonely hut miles from civilization, with a knife and gun by his side, a hermit whose name never had been learned was found dead by woodsmen. The man had led a mysterious life there six years, making trips to the Soo for supplies several times. The natives believed he was a convict hiding from the authorities. He never talked of his past and always avoided any mention of his name. He had evidently been dead several months. Only one man is known to have ever entered his cabin.

BLIND PIGS ARE ALL ON CIRCUIT

So When One is Pulled, Others Are Promptly Warned.

Minot, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—That many of the blind pigs of Minot are on an electric circuit containing an electric alarm which is used to warn the piggers of approaching arrests, is indicated by the testimony of one Turner who was on trial before Judge Goss. Turner was charged with running a blind pig in the basement of the Scandinavian hotel and was sentenced to jail for 100 days, and given a $50 fine. The building was closed for one year.

Mr. Turner said that there was an electric alarm in the basement, but he had no knowledge that it was connected with other buildings. When seen later at the jail, he stated that the button was under the counter and that the wire ran upstairs. He did not think that it was connected with other buildings.

Some of the officials in charge of the administration of the law in the county believe that there were several pigs on this electric line, as in many instances when one pig has been arrested others in town have been closed before telephone communications could be secured with them.

In Lecture Governor Johnson is to Deliver at Hancock.

Hancock, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Considerable interest is being taken by Portage Lake people in the coming of Governor Johnson of Minnesota, who will be heard at the Kerredge theater here this spring under the auspices of Grace M. FOR KILLING HER CHILD.

Ida Backstoif Has Been Arrested in the Copper Country.

Houghton, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The promised arrest in the Calumet infanticide case was made by Sheriff Beck who took into custody at Lake Linden one Ida Backstof. Although there was apparently no clue in the finding of the body of a strangled babe in a tin pail near the Calumet & Hecla No. 5 shaft Monday morning, the officers discovered one trail and following this ran down the Beckstof woman.

It was necessary to place Miss Beckstof in the county jail, but because of her physical condition she will require every attention. She is a very sick woman.

Sheriff Beck claims to have a burden of circumstantial evidence against the prisoner, lacks nothing in fact but her confession.

Head of Milwaukee Printing Concern Pleads Guilty to Perjury.

Milwaukee, Minn., March 27.—August Wetzel, president of the Wetzel Brothers Printing company, appeared before Judge Quarles in the federal court yesterday afternoon, withdrew his plea of not guilty to an indictment for perjury and substituted a plea of guilty. He was indicted by the federal grand jury in connection with the T. E. Cameron frauds. His company did the printing for the firm, and in connection with the case he was called before the grand jury. It was charged that he gave false testimony and the jury straightway indicted him. At his first hearing he entered a plea of not guilty. Yesterday's action came as a surprise.

Judge Quarles fined Wetzel $1,000 and sentenced him to one day's imprisonment in the Milwaukee county jail.

TRAMPS SWARMING WEST.

St. Cloud is Getting Its Share of Vagrants These Days.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—One hundred and sixty vagrants put up at the police station so far this month, according to the report of Chief Quinlivan. Every night the lockup is crowded with lodgers, who are on their way West.

"In my twenty years' service on the police force," stated Chief Quinlivan, "I have never seen the time when we took in as many lodgers as this month. The tramps are simply swamping us. One night there were twenty-six who applied at the station. The limited quarters at the jail are taxed to their capacity every night. When we have over ten, the tramps are forced to sleep on the cement floor. No complaint whatever is made by them. They state that they are glad to find some place to sleep, no matter where it is. We give the tramps strict orders every morning that they must leave town during the day. The result is that we have an entirely new bunch every night."

HER FEET WERE SORE AND CRACKED

Soles Seemed as Though Covered with Knife Cuts—Could Not Bear Weight of Feet Even on Pillow—Was Long Unable to Walk—Many Remedies Failed—Now Cured.

WILL PRAISE CUTICURA AS LONG AS SHE LIVES

"Some four years ago I had the misfortune to have my feet get sore. The doctors could not tell me what it was. I used everything I could hear or think of but all to no avail. The feet were all cracked across the bottom as if you had taken a knife and cut them every whichway. They would peel up, and, oh, my! how they did hurt when I would try to walk—which I was not able to do for a long time. One day one of our neighbors came to our house and asked what was the matter. I showed him my feet and he said he had some Cuticura Ointment which would heal them up. There was only enough to apply once, but I found it helped me so much that I sent for a set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, costing one dollar, and to my great joy, my feet were cured and have never troubled me since. I shall praise Cuticura as long as I live for the great help it has been. Mrs. Margaret Primmer, Plattin, Mo., June 30 and July 21, 1907."

CAPT. COLE BACK FROM DETROIT

Says Outlook for Early Opening is Not Bright.

Capt. M. Cole, who has just returned from Detroit, where he attended the tugmen's meeting, says the outlook for an early opening of navigation is very dark. At the lower end of the lakes it is predicted that general navigation will not open before the first of June.

The package freight business will begin very soon, says the captain, but the ore traffic will be very late in opening. All the ice is out of the lower lake bays and the harbor dredging has begun. Except for the activity shown in preparation for some lines of lake traffic, lake movements are very quiet.

Capt. Cole says that the tugmen are very well satisfied with the settlement with the Great Lakes Wrecking & Towing association. The wages, the same as last year, are considered very good in the face of what promised to be a dull season.

TYSON SAYS SIX MONTHS

The medical term for "kidney trouble" is Nephritis. Medical works agree that it is curable during the acute or first stage and that it is incurable in the second or chronic stage.

When is the line crossed? One of the latest authorities, James Tyson, M. D., Prof. of Medicine in the University of Penn. says in his late work, page 121, that the changes have been observed as early as the tenth week and are probably established in all cases by THE SIXTH MONTH.

The name Nephritis means inflammation of the kidneys and the books having nothing for it physicians have been helpless (the deaths have grown to 170 daily), and Prof. Tyson plainly says: Page 156, as to curative measures to restore the kidney to its normal condition, "I BELIEVE THERE ARE NONE."

The inevitable logic of this situation is that as Fulton's Renal Compound is the only thing known that reduces inflammation of the kidneys after it has become chronic, it is the only thing in the world that people can look to for recovery who have had kidney trouble longer than six months.

(Note—In fact, it is the only thing that acts directly on kidney inflammation at any stage, first or last. But it naturally reduces it more quickly before than after it becomes chronic.)

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Apples trees at 9 cents each for the school children of Minnesota to plant on Arbor day is the latest effort made by the Minnesota State Federation of Women's clubs in the interests of the children. The plan of having the school children of the state plant apple trees on Arbor day originated with the educational committee of the state and was endorsed by the federation at the midwinter meeting held at St. Paul.

The circular issued by the educational committee to the various clubs was not received here in time for the matter to be presented to the principals and teachers to enable them to order the trees by April 1, by which time the circular states all orders must be in. If it is possible to prolong the time, Duluth may yet send in a large order from the school children for the apple trees. The nurserymen offer the clubs small apple trees of hardy varieties for 9 cents each. This small sum covers freight charges and provides printed directions for the planting and care of the trees.

Much regret is felt by the local club women that the matter was not presented in time to interest the teachers and children, and is is hoped that orders will be received after April 1, and that Duluth may come in for a share of the trees. Only one order has been sent, that one going from the Endion school for fifteen trees.

The educational committee of the Federation consists of Mrs. E. H. Loyhed of Faribault, Miss Isabel Lawrence of St. Cloud, Miss Janet McMillan of St. Paul, Mrs. J. E. Bell of Minneapolis and Mrs. P. E. Brown of Luvenne.

The state committee would also like, so the circular states, the women to visit schools frequently, to see to the sanitation, ventilation and general cleanliness, their crowded condition and basement rooms, and also to promote better feeling between teachers and parents. It also emphasizes the necessity of domestic science and manual training in all public schools as the majority of people live by the work of their hands.

The young man is suffering from the effects of his long exposure, but the attending physicians do not believe that the chilling will develop other ill effects. When the boy was dragged from the sinking boat he was so thoroughly exhausted that he was unable to stand alone.

HANGING OF PAOLUCCI

At Washington Considered by Italian Chamber of Deputies.

Rome, March 27.—Signor Pompili, under secretary for foreign affairs, answered an interpellation in the chamber of deputies today, made by Deputy Poggi, regarding Joseph Paolucci, an Italian, who was hanged March 23 in the District of Columbia, for the murder of his sweetheart. The under secretary gave a history of the case, saying it was not even known that Paolucci was the man's real name. In spite of the fact that he was recognized as guilty, the Italian ambassador at Washington, Baron Mayor des Planches, interposed his good offices, but in vain. In conclusion, Signor Pompili said Italy must respect the sentence of a civilized country. Deputy Poggi answered by declaring that America had committed a barbarism by hanging a man who was already at the point of death from consumption.

HIS IGNORANCE IS REAL BLISS

Walter Todd Escapes Prosecution on Charge of Forgery.

Walter Todd's supreme ignorance of all matters pertaining to checks and the methods of passing them, probably saved him from a forgery prosecution.

Todd, it is claimed, entered the clothing store of Max Sosnofsky at 904 West Superior street, and attempted to pass a check for $46, which was such a crude attempt at forgery that a child would detect it. Payment was refused and an officer summoned.

A charge of vagrancy was placed against Todd, and he was sentenced to five days in jail. He evidently did not realize what he had attempted to do and the merchant was loath to prosecute.

Joseph Brady, the man of many names, who changed his booking three times yesterday, before his right name was hit upon, was back in court this morning. Brady was dismissed on suspended sentence yesterday morning, but he was arrested again in the afternoon. He was booked up as Joseph Brady and went right through under that name, drawing a fine of $10 and costs, with the alternative of ten days in jail.

Peter Setterstrom refused to plead guilty to a charge of drunkenness, but when asked if he was intoxicated, readily admitted the charge. He was let off with the minimum of $1 and costs or three days.

ON THE IRON RANGES

KILLED BY HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW

Sam Dellich Dies From Wound Received While Taking Drink.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Hoolihan is searching everywhere and sending out descriptions of Proco Ojinevoch, an Austrian of Holman, this county, who is alleged to have fired the shot that caused the death of his brother-in-law, Sam Dellich. Both were laborers employed by the Oliver Mining company, at Holman, and they were married to sisters. It is said the shot was fired last Saturday as they were standing before the bar in a saloon at Holman. Ojinevoch firing a bullet into Dellich's head as the latter was raising a glass of liquor to his lips. No cause for the shooting has developed. Dellich fell to the floor and was hastily removed to a hospital, where Dr. E. Lupton did everything possible to save his life, but death resulted yesterday.

A coroner's jury was empanelled following the death of Dellich which was presided over by Deputy Coroner Alfred Peterson. Assistant County Attorney Rossman represented the state and presented the evidence to the jury which decided that Dellich came to his death from gunshot wounds inflicted by Proco Ojinevoch.

Sheriff Hoolihan has sent photographs of the accused to the police departments of Minnesota and neighboring states and hopes to obtain the capture of the slayer, who escaped following the shooting and who has not been seen by his friends since.

RANGE TRADE IS GETTING BETTER

Traveling Men Report Merchants Buying Fall Goods Freely.

Eveleth, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traveling salesmen, who are making this territory, report that merchants are buying fall goods with as much optism as they displayed last year, but the difference is notable in the class of goods that they are purchasing.

They are insisting on better merchandise. Many of the wholesale houses who have heretofore considered the Range a splendid dumping ground for the goods that the other sections of the country did not care for are beginning to have the error of their ways shown to them.

For immediate delivery, local merchants are showing a very conservative attitude, buying only what they actually need. Many have on hand much stock that they are making every legitimate effort in their power to get rid of. The general feeling is that things are on the upward bend and that when ore shipping commences the business will take its former volume.

Boorman, although not feeling well, left here Sunday with his wife intending to remain on the claim until Tuesday, then go to Duluth and make final proof in the land office. Mrs. Boorman returned to Eveleth leaving her husband in care of her father, who occupied an adjoining claim. Yesterday she received word her husband was worse and she hurried to the claim, but he died alone before she got there, her father being absent at the time. Mr. Boorman was 41 and a native of Castile, N. Y. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and that order will have charge of the funeral here.

SPRUCE NO. 1 WORK

Eveleth, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Duluth, Missabe & Northern station, the work of improving the entrance to Eveleth is being halted by the work that is being done by the Oliver Iron Mining company at the Spruce No. 1 mine.

The tracks are directly over a body of ore that is being removed as rapidly as possible by the mining company. The body extends up to the end of the Missabe track, which ends at Douglas avenue. In order to facilitate the removal of the ore, the company has placed a timber sinaft within a stone's throw of the end of the tracks near Douglas avenue. The ore being mined reaches to the surface through the No. 1 shaft.

About fifty feet from the station proper, two heavy timbers have been placed over each track, after the manner of the train bandits, so that no engineer will forget himself and send his engine over the dangerous ground.

Michigan street. She has taken care of him until the disease became so bad that she could no longer bear it. The county poor commissioner was then notified, and Hyde is now at St. Luke's hospital, slowly dying of the cancer, which is too far advanced to be checked by a further operation.

Burned His Papers.

Before he left the house at 2226 Michigan street he burned all of his papers and said he would never return alive. He paid his room rent in full, and his board at the house next door, and so far as is known does not owe a cent in the world. It is claimed by some that he has money laid by.

Hyde was a strange, silent man, who never drank, and who seldom spoke of himself or his affairs to anybody. There is a story that he kept some money hidden in a log in the shanty of his claim, and that when the shanty burned down the money was found melted into a mass. He is said to have lived in Duluth or St. Louis county for twenty-nine years. He is now 62 years of age.

Story of the Fight.

The story of his fight for the famous "section thirty" is more or less known to Duluthians.

Hdye hoped to obtain possession of the land in question by contesting the legality of the location of Sioux scrip issued to a halfbreed by the name of Orillia Moreau, and later transferred to F. W. Eaton and Leonidas Merritt. Angus MacDonald, now a resident of Superior, was with him in the contest claim.

In the month of June, 1883, the land was Sioux scrip, at that time unsurveyed. The scrip came originally from the fact that the Lake Pepin Indians were compelled to vacate a certain piece of land. They were given the scrip by the government in lieu of the land vacated. The location of the Moreau scrip on section 30 remained intact until August, 1894, when the contest was filed by Thomas W. Hyde and Angus MacDonald.

The men had been advised by attorneys that the location of the scrip and later its transfer was not according to law, because made through power of attorney without consultation with Moreau. The whole case rested on this technicality. The matter ran along in the United States land department and the courts for eighteen years, finally being disposed of by the supreme court of the United States, which handed down a decision to the effect that the scrip was located according to law, and that Hyde and MacDonald had no grounds for contest, as long as power of attorney papers had been properly made out, which proved to be the case. This decision corroborated that of the lower courts.

BIG VERDICT FOR BROKEN LEG

Nick Anderson, who had his leg injured two years ago in a mine operated by the Pitt Iron Mining company, was awarded $3,900 damages by a verdict opened in the district court this morning. The jury deliberated about four hours, and the verdict was arrived at last evening.

Anderson's leg was fractured under the fall of a quantity of rock, dirt and ore. He has never recovered the full use of the limb, and gets about on crutches. The action was brought for $5,000 damages. At the first trial Anderson was awarded $2,900. The company secured a new trial, and the last jury increased the damages to $3,900.

Anderson was represented by Heino & Hollister, while M. H. Boutelle and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell represented the mining company.

WILL MUSTER IN NEW COMPANY

Col. Resche Will Bring Company "E" Into State Militia.

Company "E," Duluth's new military organization will be mustered into the Minnesota National Guard at the armory this evening by Col. F. E. Resche of this city.

Col. Resche has been actively at work for the past two or three months securing enlistments for the new militia company and enough local young men have been secured to warrant the mustering in of the organization. The number of men to be mustered in tonight is forty-five. It is expected that several more members will be added to the company as soon as it becomes a part of the national guard.

With the new company in service Duluth will have three full companies of militia, all of them belonging to the Minnesota Third regiment. The formation of the new company was made possible by congressional action providing for the increasing of the quota of companies in each regiment.

IN FAVOR OF THE TRADE SCHOOLS

W. H. Williams Will Address Trades Assembly on Subject.

State Labor Commissioner W. H. Williams, who arrived in the city last night, will this evening address the Federated Trades assembly at Kalamazoo hall, taking the trades school as a subject. Trade schools and manual training departments in connection with the regular public school system is quite a hobby with Mr. Williams, and he enthusiastically advocates them.

"I do not believe, as many union men do, that the trades schools are turning out strike-breakers," said the commissioner, "and I am strengthened in this belief by a visit I made to Indianapolis two weeks ago. I visited the Winona technical institute in that city and the superintendent was kind enough to show me letters he had received from Duluth employers asking him to send them men to take the place of strikers. The request was refused point blank, and copies of the letters sent to Duluth in reply to the request were shown me."

HAPPIEST MAN ON EARTH.

Villager Paints Notice to That Effect on Dwelling.

Geneva, March 27.—Johann Schmid, who lives in a cottage in the village of Suhr, in the canton of Argovie, has had painted across the front of his dwelling in large letters the sentence:

"Here lives the happiest man on earth."

Schmid, who is 35 years of age, said to an interviewer: "I defy you to find a happier man than myself. I have never worked, never married, never been ill, and have never been anxious for the future. I eat well, drink well, and sleep well. What more would you have?"

When in his teens Schmid was left by his father an income of about $5 a week and a small piece of land. He built his cottage on the land, and has occupied it ever since.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

Most Treatments Are Unsatisfactory But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Have Cured So Many Stubborn Cases That They Command a Trial.

It is unnecessary to tell the sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism that the ordinary treatments for this disease are unsatisfactory.

Physicians are not of one mind on the subject, but the highest authorities hold that rheumatism is a disease of the blood. All admit that in attacks of rheumatism there is a marked and rapid thinning of the blood. This is a condition that a treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once arrests and corrects. The thin blood is enriched, the strengthened organs of the body throw off the poisonous impurities and the patient gets well.

The one impressive fact is that while most treatments for rheumatism are experimental, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured so many stubborn cases that their beneficial action in this disease is as certain as anything in medicine.

Mr. John F. Crichton, a retired grocer, of 1237 Fulton street, Chicago, Ill., and a veteran of the Civil war in which he served as a member of Co. A, 114th Illinois Infantry, bears witness to this truth. He says:

"I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for twenty years and had received only temporary relief from the doctors. About three years ago I was helpless in bed with it. I could not use either hand or foot for over two months and suffered intense pain. My limbs were swollen and I could not move at all without great pain. I had sleepless nights and thought I would never be able to get around again. My friends and comrades thought I was going to die.

"I had paid out a lot of money in doctors' bills, but was not cured. One day an old war comrade urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as he knew of cases they had cured. Before I had taken them a great while I was feeling much better. I improved rapidly and was able to get out of bed and move around. I am now in perfect health and have not had a touch of rheumatism in any part of my body since."

With the fact in mind that the rheumatism is in the blood, it will readily be seen how useless it is to try to cure it by rubbing liniments on the skin. External applications may give temporary relief from pain, but to cure rheumatism you must treat it through the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other prescription, and no sufferer should allow any prejudice to stand in the way of giving these pills a thorough trial.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

WILL IT BE HURONIA?

Demand for New Province by People of Northern Ontario.

One of Their Claims is That They Are Neglected.

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., March 27.—Anyone looking at the map of Ontario can see at a glance that the province is almost cut in two by a stretch of waterway at Lake Nipissing, one of the famous fishing lakes of Canada. The great stretch of country north of the lake, thirty years ago, was no more known to the people about Toronto, the provincial capital, than was Northern China. At that time a few adventurous spirits had begun to penetrate the wilderness. Along the north shores of Lakes Huron and Superior there were sparse settlements, but the building of the Canadian Pacific railway lent an impetus to settlement until today there are in the northern districts, known as New Ontario, probably over a quarter of a million people, as great a population as the province of Manitoba had in 1901, and much greater than the combined population of Saskachewan and Alberta at the same date. Every railroad built in the district has opened up new mining areas, and there is more arable land than in the whole of Southern Ontario, while the tracts of pine, spruce and other woods have been, and still are, one of the greatest sources of revenue to the provincial government.

It is natural that the people living in the districts, from which the greater part of the provincial revenue is derived, should hold firmly in the opinion that at least a reasonable part of such revenue should be spent in the permanent development and improvement of the producing localities, but, unfortunately, while their pioneer industry and adventure have given a kingdom to the province, in voting power they are only one-eighth of the population, and the politicians, quick to pander to the majority, accord scant justice to the complaints of the northerners. This injustice has rankled until nine-tenths of the northern population are heart and soul in a movement to secede from the Czar-like government of Premier Whitney.

Selfishness is, perhaps, the most dominant characteristic of mankind, and the Ontario cabinet calculates that, by showing the large majority, of the voters of the province where the exploiting of New Ontario brings in a revenue that saves the Southern farmer from direct taxation, support will be obtained without heeding the handful of members from the north, who in most cases are muzzled in some way or other to prevent their making a noise.

Transportation Facilities.

The great need of the new district is transportation facilities. Deputation after deputation urged this for years, but no heed was paid to them until a lot of Toronto people got it in their heads that unless they got a railway to extend from North Bay, the terminus of the Grand Trunk in the district of Nipissing, a large part of the trade of the Temiskaming country would go to Montreal. Then, in answer to the howl from Toronto, a road was built running north from North Bay to give communication with the upper Ottawa country, and, by accident, discovering Cobalt. This road is a piece of the worst engineering in Canada or the United States. It ascends about 900 feet in the first twenty-three miles, only to descend most of this, when a road with easy gradients could have been obtained with no difficulty. The road construction, it has been asserted, has cost the province twice what it was worth. The railway corporation, being under the aegis of the crown, cannot be sued without the consent of the government, and shippers having complaints for loss or damage suffer in silence rather than go to the expense of getting a fiat to bring an action.

The mining industry has been hampered and almost killed by every kind of impost, but most of all by the feeling of insecurity caused by the frequent changes in the mining laws and regulations by order in council, a most pernicious form of legislation, passed by members of the cabinet, without the knowledge or consent of the legislative assembly, and further by the habit of the present government to usurp vested rights and animal titles ordinarily held inviolable. The sense that titles are insecure and that vested rights may be confiscated has frightened capital away from investment and made a feeling of insecurity, which it will take years of careful government to eradicate. All this has almost ruined the mining business, which is now of very great importance, and the showers of license fees, permit fees, recording fees and hundreds of other fees exacted by the mining department have exasperatd the prospectors and individual miners. Last year the government extorted $250,000 from these fees alone. The lumber industry is likewise being bled to the last extremity to furnish vast sums of money for the wasteful extravagance at Toronto.

Murmurings of Discontent.

For the last two or three years the murmurings of discontent have been getting louder and louder. Meetings have been held in many places in the Rainy River country, but the sharp advent of money scarcity for a time put an end to active organization, as the business men were wholly occupied in saving their affairs from liquidation. But as soon as men got their breath the agitation started up with renewed vigor. Committees are being formed all over the northern districts to spread the propaganda of freedom, and public meetings are to be held in all the principal towns. Cobalt, which has suffered much from the Whitney autocracy, held the first meeting in Nipissing district. It has many acts of high-handed tyranny and graft to complain of, and miners are not slow to complain. Four hundred men attended the meeting in the silver city and voted in favor of separation.

The movement is spreading like wildfire, and its friends believe that at least nine-tenths of the citizens of New Ontario are heartily in accord with the movement. Three or four million dollars per year are being taken from the districts of the north by the Ontario ministers, and of this, small sums are being doled out, grudgingly, for public works, in the localities from which the treasure is taken. At a meeting at Sturgeon Falls, attended by about 600 citizens of the town and surrounding country, the Ontario government was unsparingly condemned for the insecurity of titles and the confiscation of vested rights, which had frightened capital out of the country. The dictum of Premier Whitney that settlement in New Ontario was not to the advantage of the Ontario government, as more settlers meant more expense for roads, was held up by one of the speakers as a proof of lack of statesmanship in the head of the provincial cabinet. A man who held a sentiment of this kind was not fitted to conduct the affairs of a province. The Sturgeon Falls meeting voted unanimously in favor of separation.

The remedy is simple and effective. If the people of the new districts show that they are overwhelmingly in favor of a new jurisdiction it can be recommended by the government of Canada to the imperial parliament which, by an amendment to the British North American act, can bring the change into being.

CZAR'S SWORD AT FINLAND'S THROAT

Reactionaries Decree Death for Long-Menaced Autonomy.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—A distinguished journalist has asked the question: "Will Finland retain its much-loved and long-menaced autonomy—will it remain the sole home of culture and progress in the dominions of the czar, or will it be reduced to the undistinguished level of a Russian province?"

The struggles has just begun. The Finnish landtag (parliament), which met again on Feb. 10, has, indeed, had a situation to face more difficult, more fraught with danger to the constitution and the independence of the grand duchy than it was even in those troublesome days when Gen. Bobrikoff ruled the country with his rod of iron.

First Blow Is Struck.

It was not to be expected that the victorious Russian reaction would rest satisfied with its achievements in Russia proper, or that it would tolerate the existence of a practically independent dependency, more than half Socialist, more than half hostile, close to its own capital. For a long time the reactionary and conservative press, headed by the Novoe Vremiya, have been conducting a relentless campaign against Finland, and in this they have undoubtedly had support from exalted quarters. But it is only quite lately that the inner situation in Russia has become so settled that it has been deemed oportune to adopt a policy of action.

The first intimation of a new course in Finland was the nomination of Gen. Zein as chief of staff of the governor general. As Gen. Zein served in the same capacity under Gen. Bobrikoff, his appointment was viewed with great apprehension in Finland, as heralding other and more important changes in the personnel of the government. These misgivings have proved to be only too well founded. The late Governor Gen. Gerard was throughout a stanch champion of Finland's cause; but Lieut. Gen. Vladimir Bokmann, the newly-appointed governor general, is an officer of the old school, who will carry out, without questioning, the instructions of his commander-in-chief, Grand Duke Nikolai Nikolaivitch, the real head of the reactionary movement.

Two Lines of Attack.

The compaign against Finland will be conducted along two lines of operation, which may be styled, respectively, the government line and the duma line. Along the first a direct attack will be attempted. The Russion government will deny the right of the landtag to control and manage the finances of the country. The attack along the duma line will be more indirect. It will take the shape of an interpellation to M. Stolypin, concerning the situation in the grand duchy. A vast number of "facts" are being collected, which are to prove that Finland is secretly arming on a large scale, with the object of revolting against Russia at the first favorable moment and bringing the country back under Swedish rule.

Strain Too Much for Stenographer in Big Land Case.

So great was the strain on Miss Grace Barnett, contest clerk in the local land office, during the recent hearing of the Cedar Island Lake land case, in the taking of 6,000 pages of testimony, that she has been confined in St. Mary's hospital ever since the case came to a close.

Receiver Morrison also has had his troubles since the closing of the case, for the law requires that the receiver shall read over all the testimony, in addition to his regular work. As his regular work keeps him pretty busy ordinarily, the extra task is a heavy burden.

France's Earliest Artists.

The caves of Southern France are the most remarkable in the world for their wall pictures, made by prehistoric men. Some of the pictures are engraved in the rock, some are painted with different colors. They usually represent extinct animals, such as cave-lions and cave-bears. But more remarkable than this is the fact that the daily use of golden grain belt beer will build up and feed your nerves and insure perfect health. Serve daily with your meals. NO HURRY ABOUT METERS.

The Herald must insist upon the point it has raised against the immediate installation of water meters in all cases, which is that it is not a good business proposition.

The only thing that can justify the move, from the viewpoint of the water department, is satisfactory proof that the economy it will produce by curbing waste of water will more than balance the expense of installing, repairing, inspecting and reading the meters. To say that part of these expenses, such as the cost of purchasing the meter, are borne by the consumers, is begging the question. Whether the people or the department pay this cost, it is an additional expense entailed by the policy of immediate installation of meters, and to be justfied it must be shown that the economy of saving water will amount to as much as the additional cost.

Carrying out the proposed policy means not only a large expense in buying, installing, reading, repairing and inspecting meters, but it means considerable additional office expense as well. The consumer with a flat rate has four accounts a year, payments being made quarterly, while the consumer with a meter has twelve accounts a year, which will certainly involve additional office expense as well as additional expense in caring for meters.

It has not yet been shown that the move will result in any economy except in the one item of pumping, the total of which is estimated at $12,000 a year. It is true that ultimately, when the use of water is so great that the present pumping and piping capacity is overtaxed, other items will be affected. Apparently, however, that condition is still far in the future, far enough to make possible a slower process of installing meters than is proposed.

Conditions at present seem fair enough. If a consumer who has a flat rate believes that he is paying too much for his water, he has the right to have a meter installed at his own expense, and to pay for what he gets. On the other hand, if the water and light department believes that he is getting more than he is paying for, it has the right to instal a meter at its expense to test his consumption, and if it finds that he is not paying enough, he can be compelled to retain the meter and pay for what he gets. This is fair to both sides, and the rights of the consumers and the department are balanced as accurately as they could be.

Besides the additional expenses referred to, it should be noted that the department, in arguing for its policy of installation of meters, has stated that many who now have flat rates will pay less than they do now when they get meters in. If they pay less, the department will certainly earn less, which puts more money into the balance against the economies secured by preventing waste of water.

The household with a meter is likely to economize in the use of water, it is true, but there is a whole lake to draw from, and there should be no economy in water unless it will pay for itself. People with meters, economizing on their water, will, as suggested by the morning paper, do it at the expense of neglecting their thirsty lawns and shade trees, which brings into the controversy an important question of public policy that is not to be disregarded.

COMMERCIAL BRIBERY.

Bribery of public officials is not the only form of corruption against which the lawmaking bodies have launched their arrows. There is a form of petty bribery whereby purchasing agents for firms, corporations and individuals are induced to betray the interests of their principals, and against this several states, notably New York and Massachusetts have passed laws.

New York has a law which has just been tested in the courts, and which emerges from that test looking very formidable indeed. It makes it a misdemeanor to offer or accept substantial gratuities in the buying and selling of merchandise when the gift is intended to influence the action of an agent without the knowledge of his principal. Punishment is provided in the form of a fine of $500 or imprisonment for a year. That is as far as the law goes, but the courts appear determined to make it go further, and to hold that contracts made in violation of this statute are void, and the debts involved therein uncollectible.

A manufacturer induced the purchase of goods to the value of $1,555 by the payment to the agent of a store of 5 per cent of the purchase price. When the managers of the store learned of the deal made by their agent, they refused to pay for the goods, though they kept them and, apparently, sold them and retained the proceeds of the sale.

The manufacturer sued to recover his $1,555, and got judgment in the lower court. The store people appealed, and the appellate division of the state supreme court, by a vote of three out of five judges, reversed the lower court and sent the case back for a new trial. The facts were admitted, and the only question before the court was whether the plaintiff or seller of the goods could be subjected to the loss of the whole value of the contract, besides the punishment provided by the statute. The majority of the judges held that such a contract was non-enforceable in a court of justice.

The following extract from the opinion contains its gist: "The legislature has not expressly declared either that the contract to pay the bribe or the contract induced by the bribe is void or unenforceable. A contract, however, made in violation of a penal statute, although not expressly prohibited or declared to be void, is prohibited, void and unenforceable, whether executory or executed. A contract to do an illegal act, or to aid another in violating the law, is likewise void and unenforceable, whether executory or executed."

The two judges who were in the minority held that while it might be within the power of the legislature to add this consequence to the penalties already provided, that is a matter for legislative and not judicial action.

The day of the purchasing agent who got more out of his "perquisites" than he did out of his salary seems to be passing.

A NEW DOCTRINE OF "PROTECTION."

What is this new conception of protection and tariff revision that Republican state conventions are producing? The Ohio state convention, and the Iowa convention after it, handed down a declaration on the tariff that is a sharp departure from previous Republican planks, and that has a sinister suggestion in it.

These conventions declared for the revision of the tariff in a special session of congress, "insuring the maintenance of protection by imposng such customs duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, TOGETHER WITH A REASONABLE PROFIT."

This "reasonable profit" declaration is new. Previous Republican tariff declarations have contented themselves with talking about "protecting labor" by duties that "cover the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad," but they have said nothing about "reasonable profits" in addition.

If we got the existing tariff robberies without this "reasonable profit," what for pity's sake will we get with it?

The national platforms of the Republican party were silent on the tariff in 1856, 1864 and 1868. In 1860 the tariff was to "encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country." In 1872 it was to "aid in securing remunerative wages to labor and promote the industries, prosperity and growth of the whole country." In 1876 it was to "promote the interests of American labor and advance prosperity." In 1880 it was to "discriminate so as to favor American labor." In 1884 it was "security to our diversified industries and protection to the rights and wages of the laborer." In 1888 it was simply that the "protection system must be maintained". In 1892 it was to provide "duties equal to the difference between wages at home and abroad." In 1896 the tariff was to "not only furnish adequate revenue, but to protect American labor from degradation to the wage level of other lands." In 1900 it was "protection to American labor." In 1904 it was a declaration that the "measure of protection should always at least equal the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad."

All through this brief sketch of the history of the Republican party in its relation to the tariff question nothing appears but "protection to labor" by duties "covering the difference between the cost of labor at home and abroad." Under these declarations tariff schedules have been provided amounting to 50, 100 and 200 per cent, which the difference in labor cost obviously could not balance, but which worked to create monopoly which not only held wages down but robbed the wage-earner by exorbitant prices. Under the pretense of helping labor, the tariff has enabled the beneficiaries of special privilege—the tariff is the most iniquitous special privilege in existence—to help themselves to labor's scanty store.

Now, in addition to covering the difference "in cost of production," the Republican party demands "a reasonable profit" in addition. This is a radical departure, and it should be studied carefully. At least these new declarations drop the hideous hypocrisy of former appeals to labor, which is a gain in frankness, at any rate.

A SCOTS NATIONAL EXPOSITION.

From May to October this year Edinburgh, Scotland, will be a place of unusual liveliness. The Scottish National Exhibition is to be held then in the Scots capital, and an elaborate program of up-to-date attractions that will typify the industry and progress of Scotland has been arranged. There is interest in this country not only because many thousands of Scotchmen have made their homes here, but because a special invitation is issued to Americans, and there will be during the exhibition a day set apart for this country and its people, to be known as "America's day."

Says a letter which The Herald has received from Edinburgh describing the coming show: "Far severed by leagues of sea, but forever allied and animated by the same intense love of freedom, America and Scotland are one in fraternal feeling. Remembering this as a special time of exchange of international courtesy, those in connection with the Scottish National Exhibition are sincerely anxious to show the high respect in which they hold the people of America. They earnestly wish to devote a day to the worthy commemoration of America's independence." Therefore, on the coming Fourth of July, this nation's birthday will be fittingly celebrated on British soil, and it is to be hoped that there will be a suitable attendance of Americans to receive the right hand of fellowship thus cordially extended.

The plan of holding a Scottish national exhibition in Edinburgh this year was originated by the promoters of the very successful exhibition held in The Meadows in 1886. The exhibition will be of a truly Scottish national character, but beyond that it is intended that there shall be exemplified all that is best in art, science, literature and industry from British dominions all over the world, making it a national exhibition in the imperial sense of the term.

The site for the show consists of forty acres on the city boundary, a little over a mile west of Princes street. The grounds are admirably adapted for the purpose, being well provided with shady trees and commanding fine views of Edinburgh and the surrounding country, with Corstorphine hill close by on the north and the Pentlands on the south. A handy stream provides the necessary water for aquatic sports and entertainments. Included in the grounds is the interesting old Mansion house of Saughton Hall, with its beautiful adjoining gardens.

The exhibition, devised by Scottish ingenuity and completed with Scottish industry, patience and conscientiousness, will be well worth seeing, and the city of Edinburgh itself, famous as one of the best-governed cities in the world, is alone worth the visit. The United States will have an exhibit in the Palace of Industries and Machinery Hall, and possibly in other departments as well.

Ties of blood, tradition and history bind the Scots and the American people closely together, and it is to be hoped that this nation will do its proper part in making the exhibition a success, and particularly in making America's day a "red-letter" period in the Scots' fair time.

Admiral Evans admits that perhaps it would be a little better if the armor belt had been placed a little higher on the battleships, so perhaps Reuterdahl was not so far off after all.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

John Laftel of Bloomington, Ill., at the St. Louis hotel, is somewhat of a student of municipal politics. That is one of his hobbies. He declares with the emphasis of conviction that American cities have reached the turning point in the era of bad government that has been characteristic of the majority of them since the first Pilgrim boss persuaded his wfellows that his rule was the only system.

Mr. Laftel points to the successful result of the Des Moines plan of city government, where the city is governed by a committee of five men, each man having a department under his supervision. It is the duty of each commissioner to give up all other business in consideration for his city department. The commissioners are paid sufficient salaries to allow of this, and as a consequence Des Moines is becoming recognized as one of the best governed cities in this country, says Mr. Laftel.

Other rules of the city charter forbid everything that tends toward the creation of bossism. In fact, under the Des Moines charter it would be impossible for any man to become political dictator of the city.

While not a dreamy optimist, Mr. Laftel has supreme faith in the American people. He believes that they are going to correct the evils that have crept into the municipalities. He candidly admits that American cities are among the worst governed cities in the world. "We have allowed our interest in politics to lag," says Mr. Laftel, "and the men—the grafters and ward-heelers—who make politics a business have secured control of the machinery that controls the city. In many cities throughout the country this condition is true today. In a great many more cities that condition was true yesterday. In many instances the people have thrown off the rule of a self-appointed boss and his gang, and have elected honest and efficient men to the head of the city government."

Mr. Laftel takes a most rosy view of the question. "Reformers are at work reforming out politics," he says. "The work of reformation must begin with the city. Bloomington is investigating various forms of city government, with a view of adopting the most perfect model. This is true of other cities. Many cities throughout the country are quietly investigating. Their citizens and leading men are casting around for a better charter that will relieve them from the petty abuses and foolish extravagances that arise under many of the present forms of city government.

"The American people are taking a greater and deeper interest in politics at the present time than ever before in the history of this country. The gaze of the common people has been directed to the rottenness within their very midst. Conditions that the average business man never dreamed of have been brought home to him. His support to rid the city of these conditions has been sought, and often the heretofore indifferent man of affairs has become a most earnest worker in the interests of honest politics and efficient city government. It is only the problem of arousing the better element in every city to secure improved conditions, better city charters and the abolition of graft and attendant evils. Arouse the patriotism of the good citizen, and the rule of the political parasite must end."

Mr. Laftel says that in three ways is the attention of the people being directed to the evils in politics. First, through the medium of the press; second, through the light that has been cast on the evils and rottenness of municipal politics through the individual efforts of men whose sole interest is the bettering of conditions; third, through the general reform wave that has been started by grand investigations, the revelation of rottenness through the magazines, and the actual punishment of culprits by grand juries.

Mr. Laftel predicts that within the next decade the occupations of the boss, the petty grafter and the dishonest city official, will have been rendered quite impossible by reformed conditions.

Where does it say the Sphinx dooes not speak?

Percy Coulon at the Spalding yesterday was telling of the language efforts of the grim gazer of Egypt. He says that atmospheric conditions have a most peculiar effect on the old stone face. It causes the Sphinx to make funny cracks. A friend of Mr. Coulon's was in Egypt and says that members of the party could detect a mirthful and interesting line of conversation contained in the noises emitted by the ancient statue.

It was evening. The night wasn't dark and stormy, but was balmy and lit by the stars that shine with beauty from a Southern sky. The party had come to view the history tabulator by moonlight. Suddenly they were startled by an ominous sigh issuing from the recesses of the Sphinx. Then the sounds followed in rapid succession. The members of the party were astounded by the repetition of some speech, or political saying. At first the words were indistinct. Gradually, however, they became more clear. It was a stock quotation from the repertoire of William J. Bryan. Unconsciously Mr. Bryan had, upon his first greeting of the silent old stone image, begun a speech. The effect of wind upon the Sphinx, be it human or elemental, is practically the same says Mr. Coulon, so instead of repeating the sighs and inflections of the gentle wind this came to it, out of the grim features of the guardian of the desert came the Americanisms of Mry Bryan. Free and unlimited coinage," came the earnest announcement of the stone face. Here Mr. Bryan must have thought of his greatest political blunder, for the rumblings of the Sphinx suddenly and abruptly ceased. Immediately the reflection of the atmospheric breezes were begun, although at first the members of the party had to listen intently to distinguish.

Mr. Coulon doesn't vouch for the accuracy of the story.

THE WEATHER.

This morning a shrill and forceful wind was blowing out of the northeast, the sky was cloudy and dull, and a little later snow began to fall. The weather man says that it looks like more snow and more northeast winds tonight and tomorrow, and the annual spring blizzard seems to be due. It is not cold, last night's lowest temperature being 17 degs, and yesterday's highest 29 degs., and the weather man not predicting any colder weather immediately.

A year ago today it was warm and bright.

The sun rose this morning at 5:37 and sets tonight at 6:39, making 12 hours and 35 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Utah barometric depression has moved its center to Colorado. This, in connection with a fall in pressure over the eastern slopes caused snow or rain in most northern and southwestern states during the past twenty-four hours, and also higher temperatures over the eastern slopes and north Atlantic states. Colder weather attends a rise in pressure in the lake region, Canada and the Far West, with areas of high barometer overlying Lake Huron, Pacific and Atlantic coast districts. The easterly movement of the Colorado storm will cause snow and strong northeasterly winds in this locality during this afternoon, tonight and Saturday."

SMILING REMARKS.

Chicago Tribune: "No, I haven't anything for you," said the hard featured woman of the house. "Instead of spending your time loafing around the saloons and begging, why don't you try to follow some useful occupation?"

"Madame," said Wareham Long, tilting his jaded remnant of a hat forward and eyeing her with a frown, "do I look like one of the idle rich?"

Philadelphia Press: "If men really would 'vote as they pray,'" remarked Goodley, "this would truly be a happy world."

"Yes," replied Wise, "but in that case you wouldn't get some men to the polls once in ten years."

Uncle Backache—I dunno 'bout that. Ever stop ter thing what the conductors 'd be like if they had the hull army and navy backin' 'em up?"

Washington Star: "So you have abandoned your idea of a currency composed merely of paper?"

"I have," answered the statesman. "There is no use of putting the entire financial system of the country at the disposal of the paper trust.

Philadelphia Press: "Sir," began Lord Brokeleigh, pompously, "I've called to request your daughter's hand in marriage."

"That's out of the question, my man," replied old Roxley. "However, I don't want to seem altogether uncharitable, so here's $5 for you."

Baltimore American: "I am afraid I will have to get a tonic for my general health," said Miss Passee, who has a fad for invalidism. "I find my hair is beginning to fall out."

With brutal candor her best friend summarized the situation. "Pin it on tighter," she advised.

Chicago Tribune: "Hiram, you seem to be getting fleater. How much do you weigh?"

"One hundred and sixty-eight, Lucinda. I weighed 165 yesterday."

"Do you think you've gained two pounds in one day?"

"I know I have, dear. I have eaten two slices of that angel cake of yours."

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Red Lake Falls Gazette: There does not seem to be much opposition to Governor Johnson's presidential aspirations in the Ninth district, or anywhere else in Minnesota, for that matter.

Cloquet Pine Knot (Rep.): The Johnson and Bryan Democrats in Minnesota are going to fight it out at the caucuses. It seems that Governor Johnson has a fair chance to land the Democratic nomination, and a good many sons of the North Star state would be pleased to see it so, for he has made a good governor.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Bryan Democrats in Minnesota are receiving a whole lot more advertising than they are worthy of. Every party has its contingent of "rule or ruin" members, always sorehead, and it is this class that is fighting Governor Johnson in his own state.

Hawley Herald: Bryan will have the fact drilled into him pretty thoroughly by convention time that Johnson of Minnesota is something of a man. He will begin to realize that the Democratic party is not made up wholly of himself.

Faribault Pilot: So far as we can learn, a large majority of the Democrats of Minnesota favor Governor Johnson for the presidential nomination and the members of the committee who voted to present his name as a presidential candidate were truly representing the sentiment of the members of the party in their respective localities. What the friends in this state of Bryan hope to gain by the course they are pursuing we are unable to discover.

Benson Monitor: Governor Johnson is entitled to this indorsement. The Democrats of this state are honoring themselves in honoring the man who has twice led them to triumphant victory. Governor Johnson may not be nominated for president at Denver next July, but he has won a higher place in the hearts of the people of Minnesota than any other Democrat has ever attained.

Jordan Independent: We believe and hope that the state convention, to assemble in May, will indorse the action of the state central committee by sending a Johnson delegation to Denver. It's a compliment no more than deserved and it will give the governor a chance to confound his detractors by showing the honesty and purity of his political character, in such an unmistakable light, that his "foul friends" will have been justified in this action of March 6th; an action if you please that was made necessary by the aspersions which have been continually cast on Governor Johnson for some time by the Hearst element.

Olivia Times: If the governor is a candidate an indorsement is due him from his own state, and if he is not a candidate, as he has stated, then the indorsement can in no way interfere with Mr. Bryan's chances for the nomination. Mr. Bryan will be nominated at Denver without doubt, and we believe that he will have Governor Johnson's support when the time comes.

Kelliher Journal: Governor Johnson may never be president, not even receive the Democratic nomination, yet the many notices complimentary of his integrity and ability will always be gratifying to residents of the North Star state. And he deserves all of them.

Two Harbors Iron Trade-Journal: It appears that the Bryan men are not going to lay down after all, but propose to carry the fight against Johnson into the state convention. It is astonishing to think that the "peerless" one's leaders have not the foresight to see the folly of the position they are taking.

Rivals the United States.

Edwin D. Mead in the Atlantic: We think Chicago a miracle, but since 1870 Berlin has grown relatively and absolutely faster than Chicago, the greater Berlin having today a population of over 3,000,000. Thirty years ago the population of Leipzig was less than 150,000; today it is more than 500,000. Hamburg then had precisely the same population as Boston; today, although Boston's growth has been so great, Hamburg, with more than 800,000 people, is larger than Boston; the growth of her commerce has been vastly greater, and her docks and port facilities are incomparably finer, models commended to Boston for imitation at this very moment by an expert commission. The Hamburg-American line and the North German Lloyd are the largest steamship companies in the world, larger than any English company, the former having more than 150 ocean steamers in its service. The great railway stations are the finest in Europe, incomparably superior to those in the English cities; the finest of them all as yet, the new union station now building at Leipzig, will cost $25,000,000.

The University of Berlin is planning a special department devoted to the wise and beautiful laying out of cities, with provision for making the lectures available to the directing municipal officials of Germany. In industrial and technical education, from top to bottom, Germany's achievements are far ahead of England, as she is in so much ahead of us. It is by science that she has pushed her way to industrial supremacy in so many fields, that she has captured the chemical industries of Europe, and in so large degree the electrical industries, and that she is distancing or crowding England and ourselves in the markets of the world.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hendrum Review: Bryan don't care if he does raise a ruction in the Democratic party of Minnesota. He don't expect to get the electoral vote of the state, anyway.

Albert Lea Standard: La Follette and Tillman seem to be about all the fighters the people have in the United States senate.

International Falls Border Budget: If Republican success depends upon Democratic dissension, their prospects grow brighter daily.

Stillwater Gazette: Gummed postage stamps were issued about the year 1840, but the gum-shoe campaigner wasn't noticeable until several years later. Both evidently have come to stay.

Sauk Center Herald: The newspaper publisher who has no editorials in his sheet is a pretty poor sort of an excuse for an editor; about on a par with the one who gets his from the ready print shops or who appropriates those written by other editors. Neither one cuts much of a figure in the journalistic field.

Royalton Banner: To elect Taft for president is not going to do much good so long as Aldrich and Cannon are at the helm. It looks to us as though the representatives of Rhode Island and Illinois should not be allowed to be the tail that wags this country any longer.

"F. M." in Stillwater Prison Mirror: A writer says that there is no room in this country for anarchists, but I think we could find room for a few in here.

Madison Independent Press: Judging from the appearance of things on the political surface, J. F. Jacobson is in the lead for the Republican nomination for governor by several laps. This is the opinion freely expressed by those who are competent to judge of these matters.

"C. D. I." in Cass Lake Times: Habit forges stronger bars than those on prison windows.

International Falls Echo: There are two little words, simple enough in themselves, that introduce untold trouble in this world and are responsible for more gossip, scandal and harm than any other two words in the English language. These two words are nothing more than "they say." They have done more to ruin reputation than all other things. If you never quote what "they say," you may be quite sure you will never be a gossip.

Anoka Free Press: Those who have figured that Clarence B. Miller would not become a factor in the congressional race in the Eighth district have evidently reckoned without their host, because he has recently given evidence of intending not only to become a candidate for Judam Dodd's place, but to make a campaign which will cause the latter gentleman to wonder where he is going to get off at.

Much Fun in Prospect.

Washington Herald: There is apt to be a great deal more campaign fun than campaign funds in the national elections this year.

NO HURRY ABOUT METERS.

The Herald must insist upon the point it has raised against the immediate installation of water meters in all cases, which is that it is not a good business proposition.

The only thing that can justify the move, from the viewpoint of the water department, is satisfactory proof that the economy it will produce by curbing waste of water will more than balance the expense of installing, repairing, inspecting and reading the meters. To say that part of these expenses, such as the cost of purchasing the meter, are borne by the consumers, is begging the question. Whether the people or the department pay this cost, it is an additional expense entailed by the policy of immediate installation of meters, and to be justfied it must be shown that the economy of saving water will amount to as much as the additional cost.

Carrying out the proposed policy means not only a large expense in buying, installing, reading, repairing and inspecting meters, but it means considerable additional office expense as well. The consumer with a flat rate has four accounts a year, payments being made quarterly, while the consumer with a meter has twelve accounts a year, which will certainly involve additional office expense as well as additional expense in caring for meters.

It has not yet been shown that the move will result in any economy except in the one item of pumping, the total of which is estimated at $12,000 a year. It is true that ultimately, when the use of water is so great that the present pumping and piping capacity is overtaxed, other items will be affected. Apparently, however, that condition is still far in the future, far enough to make possible a slower process of installing meters than is proposed.

Conditions at present seem fair enough. If a consumer who has a flat rate believes that he is paying too much for his water, he has the right to have a meter installed at his own expense, and to pay for what he gets. On the other hand, if the water and light department believes that he is getting more than he is paying for, it has the right to instal a meter at its expense to test his consumption, and if it finds that he is not paying enough, he can be compelled to retain the meter and pay for what he gets. This is fair to both sides, and the rights of the consumers and the department are balanced as accurately as they could be.

Besides the additional expenses referred to, it should be noted that the department, in arguing for its policy of installation of meters, has stated that many who now have flat rates will pay less than they do now when they get meters in. If they pay less, the department will certainly earn less, which puts more money into the balance against the economies secured by preventing waste of water.

The household with a meter is likely to economize in the use of water, it is true, but there is a whole lake to draw from, and there should be no economy in water unless it will pay for itself. People with meters, economizing on their water, will, as suggested by the morning paper, do it at the expense of neglecting their thirsty lawns and shade trees, which brings into the controversy an important question of public policy that is not to be disregarded.

COMMERCIAL BRIBERY.

Bribery of public officials is not the only form of corruption against which the lawmaking bodies have launched their arrows. There is a form of petty bribery whereby purchasing agents for firms, corporations and individuals are induced to betray the interests of their principals, and against this several states, notably New York and Massachusetts have passed laws.

New York has a law which has just been tested in the courts, and which emerges from that test looking very formidable indeed. It makes it a misdemeanor to offer or accept substantial gratuities in the buying and selling of merchandise when the gift is intended to influence the action of an agent without the knowledge of his principal. Punishment is provided in the form of a fine of $500 or imprisonment for a year. That is as far as the law goes, but the courts appear determined to make it go further, and to hold that contracts made in violation of this statute are void, and the debts involved therein uncollectible.

A manufacturer induced the purchase of goods to the value of $1,555 by the payment to the agent of a store of 5 per cent of the purchase price. When the managers of the store learned of the deal made by their agent, they refused to pay for the goods, though they kept them and, apparently, sold them and retained the proceeds of the sale.

The manufacturer sued to recover his $1,555, and got judgment in the lower court. The store people appealed, and the appellate division of the state supreme court, by a vote of three out of five judges, reversed the lower court and sent the case back for a new trial. The facts were admitted, and the only question before the court was whether the plaintiff or seller of the goods could be subjected to the loss of the whole value of the contract, besides the punishment provided by the statute. The majority of the judges held that such a contract was non-enforceable in a court of justice.

The following extract from the opinion contains its gist: "The legislature has not expressly declared either that the contract to pay the bribe or the contract induced by the bribe is void or unenforceable. A contract, however, made in violation of a penal statute, although not expressly prohibited or declared to be void, is prohibited, void and unenforceable, whether executory or executed. A contract to do an illegal act, or to aid another in violating the law, is likewise void and unenforceable, whether executory or executed."

The two judges who were in the minority held that while it might be within the power of the legislature to add this consequence to the penalties already provided, that is a matter for legislative and not judicial action.

The day of the purchasing agent who got more out of his "perquisites" than he did out of his salary seems to be passing.

A NEW DOCTRINE OF "PROTECTION."

What is this new conception of protection and tariff revision that Republican state conventions are producing? The Ohio state convention, and the Iowa convention after it, handed down a declaration on the tariff that is a sharp departure from previous Republican planks, and that has a sinister suggestion in it.

These conventions declared for the revision of the tariff in a special session of congress, "insuring the maintenance of protection by imposing such customs duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, TOGETHER WITH A REASONABLE PROFIT."

This "reasonable profit" declaration is new. Previous Republican tariff declarations have contented themselves with talking about "protecting labor" by duties that "cover the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad," but they have said nothing about "reasonable profits" in addition.

If we got the existing tariff robberies without this "reasonable profit," what for pity's sake will we get with it?

The national platforms of the Republican party were silent on the tariff in 1856, 1864 and 1868. In 1860 the tariff was to "encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country." In 1872 it was to "aid in securing remunerative wages to labor and promote the industries, prosperity and growth of the whole country." In 1876 it was to "promote the interests of American labor and advance prosperity." In 1880 it was to "discriminate so as to favor American labor." In 1884 it was "security to our diversified industries and protection to the rights and wages of the laborer." In 1888 it was simply that the "protection system must be maintained". In 1892 it was to provide "duties equal to the difference between wages at home and abroad." In 1896 the tariff was to "not only furnish adequate revenue, but to protect American labor from degradation to the wage level of other lands." In 1900 it was "protection to American labor." In 1904 it was a declaration that the "measure of protection should always at least equal the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad."

All through this brief sketch of the history of the Republican party in its relation to the tariff question nothing appears but "protection to labor" by duties "covering the difference between the cost of labor at home and abroad." Under these declarations tariff schedules have been provided amounting to 50, 100 and 200 per cent, which the difference in labor cost obviously could not balance, but which worked to create monopoly which not only held wages down but robbed the wage-earner by exorbitant prices. Under the pretense of helping labor, the tariff has enabled the beneficiaries of special privilege—the tariff is the most iniquitous special privilege in existence—to help themselves to labor's scanty store.

Now, in addition to covering the difference "in cost of production," the Republican party demands "a reasonable profit" in addition. This is a radical departure, and it should be studied carefully. At least these new declarations drop the hideous hypocrisy of former appeals to labor, which is a gain in frankness, at any rate.

A SCOTS NATIONAL EXPOSITION.

From May to October this year Edinburgh, Scotland, will be a place of unusual liveliness. The Scottish National Exhibition is to be held then in the Scots capital, and an elaborate program of up-to-date attractions that will typify the industry and progress of Scotland has been arranged. There is interest in this country not only because many thousands of Scotchmen have made their homes here, but because a special invitation is issued to Americans, and there will be during the exhibition a day set apart for this country and its people, to be known as "America's day."

Says a letter which The Herald has received from Edinburgh describing the coming show: "Far severed by leagues of sea, but forever allied and animated by the same intense love of freedom, America and Scotland are one in fraternal feeling. Remembering this as a special time of exchange of international courtesy, those in connection with the Scottish National Exhibition are sincerely anxious to show the high respect in which they hold the people of America. They earnestly wish to devote a day to the worthy commemoration of America's independence." Therefore, on the coming Fourth of July, this nation's birthday will be fittingly celebrated on British soil, and it is to be hoped that there will be a suitable attendance of Americans to receive the right hand of fellowship thus cordially extended.

The plan of holding a Scottish national exhibition in Edinburgh this year was originated by the promoters of the very successful exhibition held in The Meadows in 1886. The exhibition will be of a truly Scottish national character, but beyond that it is intended that there shall be exemplified all that is best in art, science, literature and industry from British dominions all over the world, making it a national exhibition in the imperial sense of the term.

The site for the show consists of forty acres on the city boundary, a little over a mile west of Princes street. The grounds are admirably adapted for the purpose, being well provided with shady trees and commanding fine views of Edinburgh and the surrounding country, with Corstorphine hill close by on the north and the Pentlands on the south. A handy stream provides the necessary water for aquatic sports and entertainments. Included in the grounds is the interesting old Mansion house of Saughton Hall, with its beautiful adjoining gardens.

The exhibition, devised by Scottish ingenuity and completed with Scottish industry, patience and conscientiousness, will be well worth seeing, and the city of Edinburgh itself, famous as one of the best-governed cities in the world, is alone worth the visit. The United States will have an exhibit in the Palace of Industries and Machinery Hall, and possibly in other departments as well.

Ties of blood, tradition and history bind the Scots and the American people closely together, and it is to be hoped that this nation will do its proper part in making the exhibition a success, and particularly in making America's day a "red-letter" period in the Scots' fair time.

Admiral Evans admits that perhaps it would be a little better if the armor belt had been placed a little higher on the battleships, so perhaps Reuterdahl was not so far off after all.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

John Laftel of Bloomington, Ill., at the St. Louis hotel, is somewhat of a student of municipal politics. That is one of his hobbies. He declares with the emphasis of conviction that American cities have reached the turning point in the era of bad government that has been characteristic of the majority of them since the first Pilgrim boss persuaded his wfellows that his rule was the only system.

Mr. Laftel points to the successful result of the Des Moines plan of city government, where the city is governed by a committee of five men, each man having a department under his supervision. It is the duty of each commissioner to give up all other business in consideration for his city department. The commissioners are paid sufficient salaries to allow of this, and as a consequence Des Moines is becoming recognized as one of the best governed cities in this country, says Mr. Laftel.

Other rules of the city charter forbid everything that tends toward the creation of bossism. In fact, under the Des Moines charter it would be impossible for any man to become political dictator of the city.

While not a dreamy optimist, Mr. Laftel has supreme faith in the American people. He believes that they are going to correct the evils that have crept into the municipalities. He candidly admits that American cities are among the worst governed cities in the world. "We have allowed our interest in politics to lag," says Mr. Laftel, "and the men—the grafters and ward-heelers—who make politics a business have secured control of the machinery that controls the city. In many cities throughout the country this condition is true today. In a great many more cities that condition was true yesterday. In many instances the people have thrown off the rule of a self-appointed boss and his gang, and have elected honest and efficient men to the head of the city government."

Mr. Laftel takes a most rosy view of the question. "Reformers are at work reforming out politics," he says. "The work of reformation must begin with the city. Bloomington is investigating various forms of city government, with a view of adopting the most perfect model. This is true of other cities. Many cities throughout the country are quietly investigating. Their citizens and leading men are casting around for a better charter that will relieve them from the petty abuses and foolish extravagances that arise under many of the present forms of city government.

"The American people are taking a greater and deeper interest in politics at the present time than ever before in the history of this country. The gaze of the common people has been directed to the rottenness within their very midst. Conditions that the average business man never dreamed of have been brought home to him. His support to rid the city of these conditions has been sought, and often the heretofore indifferent man of affairs has become a most earnest worker in the interests of honest politics and efficient city government. It is only the problem of arousing the better element in every city to secure improved conditions, better city charters and the abolition of graft and attendant evils. Arouse the patriotism of the good citizen, and the rule of the political parasite must end."

Mr. Laftel says that in three ways is the attention of the people being directed to the evils in politics. First, through the medium of the press; second, through the light that has been cast on the evils and rottenness of municipal politics through the individual efforts of men whose sole interest is the bettering of conditions; third, through the general reform wave that has been started by graft investigations, the revelation of rottenness through the magazines, and the actual punishment of culprits by grand juries.

Mr. Laftel predicts that within the next decade the occupations of the boss, the petty grafter and the dishonest city official, will have been rendered quite impossible by reformed conditions.

Where does it say the Sphinx does not speak?

Percy Coulon at the Spalding yesterday was telling of the language efforts of the grim gazer of Egypt. He says that atmospheric conditions have a most peculiar effect on the old stone face. It causes the Sphinx to make funny cracks. A friend of Mr. Coulon's was in Egypt and says that members of the party could detect a mirthful and interesting line of conversation contained in the noises emitted by the ancient statue.

It was evening. The night wasn't dark and stormy, but was balmy and lit by the stars that shine with beauty from a Southern sky. The party had come to view the history tabulator by moonlight. Suddenly they were startled by an ominous sigh issuing from the recesses of the Sphinx. Then the sounds followed in rapid succession. The members of the party were astounded by the repetition of some speech, or political saying. At first the words were indistinct. Gradually, however, they became more clear. It was a stock quotation from the repertoire of William J. Bryan. Unconsciously Mr. Bryan had, upon his first greeting of the silent old stone image, begun a speech. The effect of wind upon the Sphinx, be it human or elemental, is practically the same says Mr. Coulon, so instead of repeating the sighs and inflections of the gentle wind that came to it, out of the grim features of the guardian of the desert came the Americanisms of Mry Bryan. Free and unlimited coinage," came the earliest announcement of the stone face. Here Mr. Bryan must have thought of his greatest political blunder, for the rumblings of the Sphinx suddenly and abruptly ceased. Immediately the reflection of the atmospheric breezes were begun, although at first the members of the party had to listen intently to distinguish.

Mr. Coulon doesn't vouch for the accuracy of the story.

THE WEATHER.

This morning a shrill and forceful wind was blowing out of the northeast, the sky was cloudy and dull, and a little later snow began to fall. The weather man says that it looks like more snow and more northeast winds tonight and tomorrow, and the annual spring blizzard seems to be due. It is not cold, last night's lowest temperature being 17 degs. and yesterday's highest 29 degs., and the weather man not predicting any colder weather immediately.

A year ago today it was warm and bright.

The sun rose this morning at 5:37 and sets tonight at 6:30, making 12 hours and 53 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions, "The Utah barometric depression has moved its center to Colorado. This, in connection with a fall in pressure over the eastern slopes caused snow or rain in most northern and southwestern states during the past twenty-four hours, and also higher temperatures over the eastern slopes and north Atlantic states. Colder weather attends a rise in pressure in the lake region, Canada and the Far West, with areas of high barometer overlying Lake Huron, Pacific and Atlantic coast districts. The easterly movement of the Colorado storm will cause snow and strong northeasterly winds in this locality during this afternoon, tonight and Saturday."

SMILING REMARKS.

Chicago Tribune: "No, I haven't anything for you," said the hard featured woman at the house. "Instead of spending your time in loafing around the saloons and begging, why don't you try to follow some useful occupation?"

"Madame," said Wareham Long, tilting his jaded remnant of a hat forward and eyeing her with a frown, "do I look like one of the idle rich?"

Philadelphia Press: "If men really would 'vote as they pray,'" remarked Goodley, "this would truly be a happy world."

"Yes," replied Wise, "but in that case you wouldn't get some men to the polls once in ten years."

Puck: Uncle Hardacre—I believe in government ownership of all monopolies, especially the railroads.

Uncle Backache—I dunno 'bout that. Ever stop to think what the conductors'd be like if they had the hull army and navy backin' 'em up?"

Washington Star: "So you have abandoned your idea of a currency composed merely of paper?"

"I have," answered the statesman. "There is no use of putting the entire financial system of the country at the disposal of the paper trust.

Philadelphia Press: "Sir," began Lord Brokedegh, pompously, "I've called to request your daughter's hand in marriage."

"That's out of the question, my man," replied old Roxley, "however, I don't want to seem altogether uncharitable, so here's $5 for you."

Baltimore American: "I am afraid I will have to get a tonic for my general health," said Miss Passee, who has a fad for invalidism. "I find my hair is beginning to fall out."

With brutal candor her best friend summarized the situation. "Pin it on tighter," she advised.

Chicago Tribune: "Hiram, you seem to be getting fleshier. How much do you weigh?"

"One hundred and sixty-eight, Lucinda. I weighed 166 yesterday."

"Do you think you've gained two pounds in one day?"

"I know I have, dear. I have eaten two slices of that angel cake of yours."

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Red Lake Falls Gazette: There does not seem to be much opposition to Governor Johnson's presidential aspirations in the Ninth district, or anywhere else in Minnesota, for that matter.

Cloquet Pine Knot (Rep.): The Johnson and Bryan Democrats in Minnesota are going to fight it out at the caucuses. It seems that Governor Johnson has a fair chance to land the Democratic nomination, and a good many sons of the North Star state would be pleased to see it so, for he has made a good governor.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Bryan Democrats in Minnesota are receiving a whole lot more advertising than they are worthy of. Every party has its contingent of "rule or ruin" members, always sore-headed, and it is this class that is fighting Governor Johnson in his own state.

Hawley Herald: Bryan will have the fact drilled into him pretty thoroughly by convention time that Johnson of Minnesota is something of a man. He will begin to realize that the Democratic party is not made up wholly of himself.

Faribault Pilot: So far as we can learn, a large majority of the Democrats of Minnesota favor Governor Johnson for the presidential nomination and the members of the committee who voted to present his name as a presidential candidate were truly representing the sentiment of the members of the party in their respective localities. What the friends in this state of Bryan hope to gain by the course they are pursuing we are unable to discover.

Benson Monitor: Governor Johnson is entitled to this indorsement. The Democrats of this state are honoring themselves in honoring the man who has twice led them to triumphant victory. Governor Johnson may not be nominated for president at Denver next July, but he has won a higher place in the hearts of the people of Minnesota than any other Democrat has ever attained.

Jordan Independent: We believe and hope that the state convention, to assemble in May, will indorse the action of the state central committee by sending a Johnson delegation to Denver. It's a compliment no more than deserved and it will give the governor a chance to confound his detractors by showing the honesty and purity of his political character. In such an unmistakable light, that his "fool friends" will have been justified in this action of March 6th; an action if you please that was made necessary by the suggestions which have been continually cast on Governor Johnson for some time by the Hearst element.

Olivia Times: If the governor is a candidate an indorsement is due him from his own state, and if he is not a candidate, as he has stated, then the indorsement can in no way interfere with Mr. Bryan's chances for the nomination. Mr. Bryan will be nominated at Denver without doubt, and we believe that he will have Governor Johnson's support when the time comes.

Kelliher Journal: Governor Johnson may never be president, not even receive the Democratic nomination, yet the many notices complimentary of his integrity and ability will always be gratifying to residents of the North Star state. And he deserves all of them.

Two Harbors Iron Trade-Journal: It appears that the Bryan men are not going to lay down after all, but propose to carry the fight against Johnson into the state convention. It is astonishing to think that the "peerless" one's leaders have not the foresight to see the folly of the position they are taking.

Rivals the United States.

Edwin D. Mead in the Atlantic: We think Chicago a miracle, but since 1870 Berlin has grown relatively and absolutely faster than Chicago, the greater Berlin having today a population of over 3,000,000. Thirty years ago the population of Leipzig was less than 150,000; today it is more than 500,000. Hamburg then had precisely the same population as Boston; today, although Boston's growth has been so great, Hamburg, with more than 800,000 people, is larger than Boston; the growth of her commerce has been vastly greater, and her docks and port facilities are incomparably finer; models commended to Boston for imitation at this very moment by an expert commission. The Hamburg-American line and the North German Lloyd are the largest steamship companies in the world, larger than any English companies, the former having more than 150 ocean steamers in its service. The great railway stations are the finest in Europe, incomparably superior to those in the English cities; the finest of them all as yet, the new union station now building at Leipzig, will cost $25,000,000.

The University of Berlin is planning a special department devoted to the wise and beautiful laying out of cities, with provision for making the lectures available to the directing municipal officials of Germany. In industrial and technical education, from top to bottom, Germany's achievements are far ahead of England, as she is in so much ahead of us. It is by science that she has pushed her way to industrial supremacy in so many fields, that she has captured the chemical industries of Europe, and in so large degree the electrical industries, and that she is distancing or crowding England and ourselves in the markets of the world.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hendrum Review: Bryan don't care if he does raise a section in the Democratic party of Minnesota. He don't expect to get the electoral vote of the state, anyway.

Albert Lea Standard: La Follette and Tillman seem to be about all the fighters the people have in the United States senate.

Stillwater Gazette: Gummed postage stamps were issued about the year 1840, but the gum-shoe campaigner wasn't noticeable until several years later. Both evidently have come to stay.

Sauk Center Herald: The newspaper publisher who has no editorials in his sheet is a pretty poor sort of an excuse for an editor, about on a par with the one who gets his from the ready print shops or who appropriates those written by other editors. Neither one cuts much of a figure in the journalistic field.

Royalton Banner: To elect Taft for president is not going to do much good so long as Aldrich and Cannon are at the helm. It looks to us as though the representatives of Rhode Island and Illinois should not be allowed to be the tail that wags this country any longer.

"F. M." in Stillwater Prison Mirror: A writer says that there is no room in this country for anarchists, but I think we could find room for a few in here.

Madison Independent Press: Judging from the appearance of things on the political surface, J. F. Jacobson is in the lead for the Republican nomination for governor by several laps. This is the opinion freely expressed by those who are competent to judge of these matters.

"C. D. L." in Cass Lake Times: Habit forges stronger bars than those on prison windows.

International Falls Echo: There are two little words, simple enough in themselves, that introduce untold trouble in this world and are responsible for more gossip, scandal and harm than any other two words in the English language. These two words are nothing more than "they say." They have done more to ruin reputation than all other things. If you never quote what "they say," you may be quite sure you will never be a gossip.

Anoka Free Press: Those who have figured that Clarence B. Miller would not become a factor in the congressional race in the Eighth district have evidently reckoned without their host, because he has recently given evidence of intending not only to become a candidate for Jadam Bede's place, but to make a campaign which will cause the latter gentleman to wonder where he is going to get off at.

Much Fun in Prospect.

Washington Herald: There is apt to be a great deal more campaign fun than campaign funds in the national elections this year.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

NEW LEAGUE MAY CARRY

Meeting of Semi-Professionals May be Called Soon.

Managers of Kelleys and Fitwells In on the Plan.

The Northern Minnesota league of semi-professional baseball clubs may be a go. Duluth people, who are interested in the scheme, have taken it up, and negotiations are now on with Virginia, Hibbing, Eveleth, Cloquet, Chisholm, Coleraine and Superior, to get the managers of the respective teams together at a meeting to discuss the proposition.

Manager Jacobs of the Fitwells and Manager Clyde Ziegler of the Kelleys of Duluth are both interested in the league plan and are anxious to further it. They are both willing to go in and are anxious to get the range towns into a circuit. A meeting will probably be called within the next two weeks, to be attended by the managers of eight or nine teams, and if the league proposition is looked upon favorably, a circuit of six or eight clubs will be formed, officers elected, a schedule committee chosen, a constitution adopted and all preliminaries completed for a season of organied baliz.

The league plan covers only Saturday Sunday and holiday ball. A number of independent traveling teams strike the range during the summer months, and it is planned to allow the range teams to take them on independent of the league, playing weekday games. In this way the teams will be given the widest possible scope, and the league system will be retained.

Manager A. W. Kuehnow of the Duluth Northern League club fails in readily with the semi-professional league scheme. He says he is willing to make reasonable terms with the Kelleys and Fitwells for the use of the park, when the Northern League club is away from home, and will do all he can to foster the proposed smaller league. It is believed the Northern League club will have no more than twelve Sunday dates at home, which will leave about a similar number to be divided between the Kelleys and Fitwells for playing the range teams. With six Saturday and Sunday series for each, the Duluth clubs of the proposed league would be able to hold up their end very nicely and not be purely traveling clubs.

It is believed the managers of range teams will fall in readily with the plan. They have always had trouble arranging dates and deciding championships, and the league would take care of those features nicely. All of the towns considered are counting on having strong semi-professional teams during the coming season, and they would be better able to foster the sport by the league, than by playing independently.

BONSPIEL OF ALL NATIONS

Novel Event Planned for Closing of Duluth Curling Rink.

A bonspiel of all nations will be the final event at the Duluth Curling club for the season of 1908. It will be held tomorrow night, with the foreign-born members of the Duluth, Superior and West Duluth clubs on one side and picked rinks of American-born members on the other. The foreigners are largely Scots, who learned the game on their native ponds, and they are counting on giving the upstarts, who never saw a curling stone until they were mature in this country, a strong run for the honors.

Supper will be served the contesting rinks at the club house at 6:15 tomorrow evening and the final night of the season will be one of jollification. The stones will slide far into the evening and the skating rink will also be thrown open to the young people. The club has had the most successful season in its history this year and the final events are so arranged that the program will fit in well with the elaborate affairs, which have been pulled off at the rink during the year.

CONKLIN MAKES GOOD.

Chicago Man Defeats Wright in Billiard Tournament.

Chicago, March 27.—C. F. Conklin of Chicago defeated H. A. Wright of San Francisco last night in the second game of the play-off to decide the triple tie resulting from the Amateur National championship tournament at 14.2 billiards. The score was 400 to 321.

OLYMPIC TRY-OUTS.

Marathon Race in Boston Will be the Big Test.

New York, March 27.—The executive committee of Olympic games has decided that the Boston Athletic association Marathon race, in Boston on April 20, will be the try-out for the Olympic Marathon, to be held in London next summer.

The executive committee has also decided that in all three try-outs—Philadelphia, Chicago and the Pacific coast—the size of the circle for throwing the discus shall be the same size as the one that will be used in London, 2.50 meters (2.733 yards) in diameter.

Ewrey is Suspended.

New York, March 27.—The National Registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union announced last night that Ray C. Ewrey, the jumper is under suspension for having given an exhibition at an unsanctioned meet on May 2, 1907.

Will Play Proctor.

In order to keep in training for their match with the stars of the Y. M. C. A. Basketball league, the first team of the Duluth Y. M. C. A. will tonight go to Proctor for an exhibition game with the Proctor Y. M. C. A. The Proctor boys have a fairly good team and may give the Duluth boys a good run for the big end of the score tonight.

TO TRY FOR WHITE SOX

Men to be Ordered to Report at Aurora Decided Upon.

Twenty-Three Men Will Try for Twelve Positions.

A. W. Kuehnow, secretary of the Duluth Baseball club, has practically decided on the men, whom he will order to report at Aurora, Ill., April 25, for the spring training trip. His trip to Sioux City resulted in the completion of the squad. The addition of Isaacs, Clark and King is the last that will be made before the opening of the season and every man to be reported at Aurora has now been signed.

The men, who will report to Morrow for the try-out are: Catchers, Charley Beard, Doc Voss; first base, James Croake, Fred Clark, William "Butch" Kennelley; second base, George Bell, Stafford, Otto Koepping; shortstop, James Leighty; third base, Albert Williams, W. R. King; outfield, Harry Morgy, Arthur Pagles, Fred Rorabaugh; pitchers, George W. Frick, James Haney, Rube Isaacs, Frank Delong, William Sowers, Walter Lark, Eddie Wills and Joe Pflaum.

From that squad, it is expected Morrow can pick a team, which will make a run for the money. Morrow is also a catcher and it is expected all three men will be retained for that position, two to be played in the outfield. The other outfield position will be contested for by Pagles, Morgy and Rorabaugh, with the odds in favor of Morgy, who has the best record and is counted upon as the surest man.

For first base, Clark looks like a winner. He is a young fellow, but is big and strong and can swat the ball. Croake is highly recommended, but it is no believed he is in Clark's class, while Kennelley is all out of condition, and it is not believed he can make the team.

George Bell, who played in the Southern Michigan league last year, swatted the ball and is a good fielder, has it on the other two, on records, for the second base position, and Leighty has a cinch on shortstop.

For third, Williams, who played the position last year, will be forced to fight it out with King, who was secured from Sioux City of the Western league. Sioux City thought him good enough to report him and, as the Western league is a Class A organization, he should be a whirlwind in the Northern circuit. Williams broke into organized ball last season and toward the latter part was fielding his position like an old timer. He wasn't much on the swat game, but was picking up and any man who beats him out for the covering of the awkward corner, must be all to the good.

The picking of pitchers is the most difficult proposition. The pitching staff is large and it must be culled to four men. Isaacs and Lark are both southpaws and one of them will probably go. Delong forms a battery with Beard and he is needed, if the Waterloo, Ind., catcher is to be retained. All the other youngsters are heralded as world-ebaters and Morrow will have some trouble culling out the squad.

Artie ODea, the manager of the Brandon team, is still in Duluth and has practically completed the signing of his squad. He also has eyes on some Western league recruits, whom he hopes to secure, and he will have a big squad from which to pick a strong team, when they report at Burlington, April 15. Artie, with the astute ability of an old baseball player, has not been letting any of the good available material get away from him and Brandon will not be the weak sister, when the first ball is pitched May 14.

GLEANS in the SPORTING FOG.

Manager of independent baseball teams on the range and in Duluth will show right good sense if they get together and organize a league of six or eight clubs for playing Saturday and Sunday baseball during the coming summer. There is yet time for them to get busy and by getting together and talking the matter over, they will come to a better realization of their position.

Baseball has been getting stronger each year on the ranges and in amateur circles in Duluth. From the purely amateur article it has drifted to semi-professional and the day will probably come when it will be professional outright and under the protemition of the national agreement. The coming season promises to eclipse all others in the strength of the semi-professional nines, and it is time some system were instituted for controlling them.

No man who has had experience in baseball matters will question the fact that the restraining influences of a league are good for the game in any district. The league constitution puts restrictions on the clubs, prevents the jumping of players and brings the managers into close relation with each other. The guarantee deposit holds the clubs to their agreements and prevents eleventh hour calling off of dates and such other nuisances, with which independent clubs are forced to contend. The schedule gives the manager assurance that he will have dates all season, whereas under the old system he was scrambling for dates all summer.

The proposed league would play only Saturday and Sunday ball, leaving the clubs free to take on such traveling aggregations as they wished during the week. The question of championship, which is second to the advancement of the game, would be definitely settled, and baseball in Northern Minnesota, which is now beyond restraint, would be set on a systematic basis, with beneficial results.

The governor of North Dakota said to the alleged prize fighters: "Beat it. Vamoose. Take a sneak." And they "smoke."

Who can blame him? Some of the flabby louts folsted on the good people of the Flickertail state of late would make any self-respecting policeman on a beat assert his dignity and bid them hike. Every other day some "Kid" or "Billie" or "Pat" floated into one of the bush towns, took on some other equally libelous burlesque on a real fighter and pulled down the dollars. It's no wonder the governor of North Dakota arises in righteous indignation and drives out the self-constituted knights of the padded pillows. It's a shame that they were allowed to get the money under false pretenses for so long. Perhaps some of them did give the crowds their money's worth, but they were so few, that they'll have to succumb with the majority.

One M. J. "Sonny" Dwyer, who once posed as a wrestler in the East, later in the Middle West, and more recently in Denver, where he took on Farmer Burns several times, is now hitting the trail back to Chicago, where he will meet Joe Ziehr for the championship of the world at Cornish style. Ziher is a mighty good wrestler. His claims to championship are based on actual performance, but Dwyer is a shine now. He's too old to do any kind of wrestling and his right to wrestle for the championship of the world is about as strong as that of a mongrel cur to the blue ribbon in the thoroughbred class.

Dwyer and Ziehr may put on a show to boost the Cornish style of wrestling in Chicago. They would undoubtedly put up a good exhibition, give the crowd a show for its money and end up by Dwyer getting thrown. But for the championship of the world—it's a joke.

The playing of evening games will be tried in Duluth this year by the Northern league and it ought to be a go. In July and August the days are long enough to permit baseball until almost 9 o'clock. By starting the games at 6:30, they will get away with them very nicely and allow many, who could not see the afternoon games, to get to the park. All games will probably be started at 4 o'clock, instead of at 3:30 as in former years. This will also have a tendency to increase the attendance, as many business men can break away from their work at that time, whereas they could not do so earlier in the afternoon. Under those arrangements, it is believed the attendance figures in Duluth, which fell last year with the monotony of the runaway race and inferior ball, will be boosted to something like their normal.

GOOD TIMES BACK AT SEA

Sailors' Society Sights the End of a Hard Season.

Jack Ashore Has Barely Weathered the Idle Winter.

New York, March 27.—That the end of hard times for the sailor is already in sight at every American port was asserted here today, on the basis of special reports which have just been received at the headquarters of the American Seamen's Friend society, from its sixteen branch stations along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Where a month ago stranded seamen lay thick over the floors of their shelters each night, sadly wanting work, food and lodging, berths are today being found in steadily increasing numbers among awakening shipping interests, the society's agents declare. Every prospect exists, in the opinion of these trained maritime observers, for returning prosperity to the sailor man who has barely weathered his hardest winter in many years.

From Seattle, where the workers of the society have resorted to emergency relief measures to kep 400 idle sailors alive since last November, it is reported that the tension has already begun to slacken, in view of the opening of a brisk Alaska trade. Relief camps and lunch counters have been filled by these refugees from stagnant shipping at this port all winter. Now signs of returning life in the seaman's trade are at last promising to put an end to their labors, the agents at this Pacific branch declare.

In Pensacola, at a diagonally opposite corner of the society's national system of working stations, only twenty sailors are today reported to be still looking for work. Within a week every man jack should be shipped, according to present indications. From Jacksonville, Tampa, Mobile and New Orleans a small army of sailors have poured into Pensacola, looking for a change to ship all winter. This sad influx of unemployed seamen has completely stopped, the local agent of the society reports, and apparently his hard siege of providing food, shelter and help for the marooned merchantmen of the Southern ports is happily ended.

Only two score of seafaring men are today looking for work at Galveston and few of these will be lacking a berth by the end of spring. From New Orleans about the same report has been received. The branch of the American Seamen's Friend society at Newport News sends the word "Prospects good; have been bad all winter." The same message, with details of the heroic measures which had to be taken to tide the sailor through the winter, is coming from other branches of this organization in Norfolk, Charleston, Savannah, Port Townsend and Portland.

While every seaman's shelter in this city has throughout the winter been crowded with unemployed, it was declared by the shipping offices, "crimps" and officers of the sailors' labor organization here today that conditions were beginning to change and new berths open for the sailor along the water front. With the opening of the lake trade, the yachting season and the steady enlivenment in shipping circles, every man of the sea is to be assured of plenty of work. At the headquarters of the American Seamen's Friend society, in this city, it was asserted, on experience as well as these report, from both coats, that hard times for the sailor had today come to an end.

"I am inclined to believe that the summer shipping will again return to normal," said Capt. Charles B. Parsons, ex-president of the Maritime Exchange, and a trustee of the American Seamen's Friend society, today. "I feel very optimistic on the outlook for the immediate future in shipping circles."

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

A good liniment or plaster, or some good home remedy will usually give temporary relief from the pain of Rheumatism, but the disease is more than skin deep and cannot be rubbed away, nor can it be drawn out with a plaster. Such treatment neither prevents nor cures; the excess of acid, which produces Rheumatism, is still in the blood and the disease can never be cured while the circulation remains saturated with this irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. The trouble will shift from place to place, settling on the nerves and causing pain and inflammation at every exposure or after an attack of indigestion or other irregularity. When neglected or improperly treated, Rheumatism becomes chronic and does not depend upon climatic conditions to bring on an attack, but remains a constant, painful trouble. S. S. S. drives out Rheumatism by neutralizing and expelling the excess of acid from the blood. It purifies and invigorates the circulation so that instead of an acid-laden stream, constantly depositing uric acid in the joints, muscles, nerves and bones, the entire system is nourished and made healthy by rich, life-giving blood. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write.

OPPOSITION TO DR. HILL

majesty for weeks past. Gen. Von Plennin, adjutant general to his majesty, has referred to it, and it is known outside of his majesty's immediate suite that Admiral Von Mueller, chief of his majesty's private marine cabinet, and Admiral Von Tirpitz, secretary of the admiralty, are among those who have told the emperor that they did not regard Dr. Hill as a suitable ambassador.

Mr. Tower's part is explained to have been confined to a transmittal to President Roosevelt of the emperor's definite communication. It happens, also, that his majesty, at about the same time, requested a distinguished personal friend of President Roosevelt, who is now in Germany, to write to the president concerning his majesty's unwillingness to receive Dr. Hill.

Both of these communications were sent at the express wish of the emperor. It is just possible that the foreign office is not aware of the second communication, which is probably still in the trans-Atlantic mail.

WANTS WRIT SET ASIDE

Hippoleit Buyck Claims Attachment is Damaging His Business.

Says Charges by Town Officials Are Absolutely False.

Saying that the claim that he is about to abscond is false, Hippoleit Buyck, alias Charles Buyck, the treasurer of the township of Buyck, against whom a sensational suit has been brought by some of the residents of the township, has filed a motion in the district court asking that the court set aside the writ of attachment of his property, which has been issued.

Buyck claims that the allegation made in the affidavit, that he is about to abscond with the township funds, and that he is planning to secrete his property with the intention of defrauding his creditors are entirely false and unfounded, and he asks the court to set aside the writ of attachment on his property. He is represented by Davis & Hollister.

Judge Dibell has ordered the town of Buyck to show cause at the special term of district court tomorrow why the writ of attachment should not be set aside.

The petition for the order is based on Mr. Buyck's affidavit in which he claims that he is engaged in the general merchandise business and is operating a saloon, hotel and boarding house in the town of Buyck. He states that he has a wife and two children, that his store is thirty-two miles from Tower, the nearest point of railway communication. He alleges that the attachment prevents him from carrying on his business, that he is unable to furnish groceries and food to the people of his community who depend on his store and cannot keep up his hotel and boarding house.

Mr. Buyck claims that unless the writ is set aside before April 4 he will be greatly damaged in his business. He claims that the writ was obtained for the purpose of damaging his business.

THE STATEMENTS WERE UNFOUNDED

Correct Story of Cutting of Telephone Wires Near Cove.

In The Herald of Saturday, March 21, there appeared a dispatch from Cove, Minn., stating that "a raid was made on the local telephone company's lines between Onomia and Cove, resulting in great havoc and putting the line out of service for several days. Guys were severed from the poles and the four main wires in use between Mille Lacs lake points and Milaca were cut in forty or fifty different places, leaving the highway strewn for some miles with a mass of tangled wires."

This statement is grossly exaggerated. The facts are that on the night of March 15 the wires of the Minnesota Telephone company were cut in eleven different places. The break was repaired in less than three hours after the report of cutting was received, so that business was scarcely interrupted.

The same dispatch also said: "There is ill feeling toward the company on the part of stockholders and patrons. A new telephone line is about to be constructed and the manager of the present line declares that his company has political control in the various townships, and that the supervisors will not allow another company to set up poles. This announcement aroused much bitter feeling and, no doubt, in a measure was the cause of the attack."

The Herald learns that the above statements are wholly false and the work of imagination on the part of the correspondent, and it is glad to take this opportunity to retract the same and express regret that they were published. The stockholders and patrons of the telephone company are greatly incensed over the affair, and every effort will be made to bring to justice the parties who cut the wires.

Believing that her pathway is beset by strange people and children, who wave their handkerchiefs in her face and attempt to poison her, Mrs. Agnes Jershe, a widow, aged 49 years, of Hibbing, was found to be insane at an examination held in the probate court yesterday afternoon.

According to the evidene, Mrs. Jershe has been accustomed to leave her home and wander through the woods all night to get away from the imaginary people whom she believes are attempting to harm her.

She was taken to the asylum at Fergus Falls today.

NEW HOTEL FOR MINNEAPOLIS

Plans Are Made for Sixteen-Story Fireproof Structure.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27.—J. E. Rogers will build a 16-story hotel on the Barnaby corner, Fourth street and Nicollet avenue. The land has been leased, the present buildings purchased, the plans completed and the building financed. The hotel will be the finest that money and brains can make it. The deal involves over $1,000,000.

The hotel will be unique in that it will in reality be three hotels operated under the one name and from a central lobby. The new building, sixteen stories high, absolutely fireproof, and the perfection of modern hotel building, will have a frontage of sixty-six feet on Fourth avenue and sixty-seven feet on Nicollet avenue. It will contain 210 rooms. Absolutely separated from this building but opening into the lobby, will be the present five-story Rogers hotel, with 100 rooms, and the 46 rooms in the Reeve building, which are at present a part of the Hyser hotel, with a frontage of forty-six feet on Nicollet avenue. At a later date the Eastman building will probably be taken into the scheme, giving in all a frontage of 125 feet on Nicollet avenue and 122 feet on Fourth street. With the growth of the city it will be possible to erect a new building on the Eastman block.

DEVOURED BY WOLVES.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Killed While Returning From School.

Winnipeg, Man., March 27.—American settlers living up the Big Fork river, opposite the Canadian boundary, near Fort Francis, report that a 9-year-old boy was killed and eaten by timber wolves. They say the little fellow was attending school and for some reason was kept in after 4 o'clock, until nearly dark, when he was permitted to go home.

Not arriving, his mother started out to search for him. After traveling some distance along the road leading to school she noticed several pieces of torn clothing and a little further on was horrified to find the little fellow's shoes with frozen feet in them, the rest of the remains having evidently been eaten by wolves. Another search resulted in finding two or three fingers and a few bones, which apparently had been stripped of flesh for not very long.

SENATOR SMITH IS SEATED TEMPORARILY.

Washington, March 27.—Although the senate met yesterday with the intention of devoting the entire session to the currency bill, the credentials of Senator-elect John Walter Smith of Maryland early became the subject of a discussion that consumed nearly four hours and destroyed all hope of disposing of the currency bill before adjournment today.

The result of the debate on the propriety of swearing in Mr. Smith was a vote of 34 to 39 in favor of receiving his credentials and leaving the regularity of his entrance to be considered by the committee on elections. This disposition of the case gives Mr. Smith his seat, but does not finally dispose of the question of his right to retain it. The committee on privileges and elections will now take up the matter for consideration.

FOLEY WILL PROSECUTE

Disbarment Proceedings Against Attorney Lamoreaux.

Ashland, Wis., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a friend of the court in the prosecution of the disbarment proceedings against Frank B. Lamoreaux, an attorney of this city, Judge Vinje has appointed W. R. Foley of Superior.

There are twelve charges against Lamoreaux, covering alleged unprofessional and illegal practices for several years past. The first charge is that he prepared and had submitted false testimony in the trial of Mrs. Barcun for the murder of her husband in 1903, when he acted as her counsel. He is further charged with extorting a large sum of money from one Fred Hoffman of Stevens Point, in 1906; of offering two witnesses, Emma Yorion and Myrtle Sherman, a house and piece of land if they would commit to memory certain questions and answers and swear to their truth in giving same as testimony; of charging and collecting fees for professional services not rendered, and of inducing others to give false testimony.

SKULL FRACTURED.

St. Paul Man Found on Street in an Unconscious Condition.

St. Paul, March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Blechle was picked up yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, at Seventh and Randolph streets, suffering from a bad scalp wound. He was unconscious and bleeding severely and taken to the city hospital, where it was found he had a fractured skull and that his recovery was doubtful. Since being found Blechle has not for an instant regained consciousness, and so his story cannot be learned. No one could be found who could shed any light on the affair, although several persons who had been working in the immediate vicinity all afternoon were questioned.

Blechle is a Bavarian by nativity, and is 50 years of age. He has lived in St. Paul for the past twenty years, and has a wife and four children in the city.

MANY SEEKING LAND.

Thief River Falls Real Estate Man Gets Inquiries.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not since the opening of the Red Lake reservation, adjoining this city, four years ago, have so many inquiries been received by local real estate dealers for lands. The Canadian movement in this section is a thing of the past. The strongest check this exodus received was given it by returning pilgrims, who had disposed of their property here and had tried their luck in Canada, and had failed to realize their expectations. Every day sees newcomers unloading their household goods at the local depots and moving them out of town to a recently purchased farm home. The fact that dairying is becoming the leading department of farm activity in this territory is convincing the prospective buyer that he can, with certainty, make good here.

SEVERAL BIDS RECEIVED.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A dispatch from Washington announces that the treasury department has received the following bids on the construction of the federal building here: Denny Bros., Grand Forks, $137,650; Thomas Berg, Grand Forks, $133,990; Northern Construction company, Milwaukee, $121,900; J. W. Miller, St. Paul, $127,830; W. J. Hoy company, St. Paul, $12?,?.3; General Construction company, Milwaukee, $117,662.

Nervous Break-Down

Nerve energy is the force that controls the organs of respiration, circulation, digestion and elimination. When you feel weak, nervous, irritable, sick, it is often because you lack nerve energy, and the process of rebuilding and sustaining life is interfered with. Dr. Miles' Nervine has cured thousands of such cases, and will we believe benefit if not entirely cure you. Try it.

"My nervous system gave away completely, and left me on the verge of the grave. I tried skilled physicians but got no permanent relief. I got so bad I had to give up my business. I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In a few days I was much better, and I continued to improve until entirely cured. I am in business again, and never miss an opportunity to recommend this remedy." MRS. W. L. BURKE, Myrtle Creek, Oregon.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Nervine, and we authorize him to return price of first bottle (only) if it fails to benefit you.

RIGHT FOOD.

How the Baby Was Saved.

"When our first baby came it was soon apparent that his mother could not nurse him, and it became necessary to feed him artificial food. We tried everything recommended by our family doctor, then consulted several other physicians in succession.

"We experimented with nearly every artificial food, but could barely keep the baby alive, and at the age of five months he weighed no more than at birth. When eight months old he had gained very little, and his stomach and bowels were in such a condition that we despaired of raising him.

"A chance acquaintance recommended Grape-Nuts, and we commenced feeding him on it, soaking it until soft in warm water, as milk would not stay on his stomach.

"From the very first we saw that we had found the right food at last, and he began to improve immediately. We fed him on Grape-Nuts in this way and absolutely nothing else for several months, and he grew so fast and became so fat and strong that our friends were surprised and could scarcely believe that it was the same child.

"He did not even begin to crawl or cut his teeth until after we put him on Grape-Nuts. Until that time he was weak and helpless and cried nearly all the time. Now he is a strong, bright, rosy-cheeked child of 3½ years."

CARNAHAN IN HOSPITAL.

Sneaked Into House After Hours and Stepped on Cat.

Pittsburg, Penn., March 27.—Francis Carnahan of North Braddock is in the hospital, and the family cat, which is responsible for his being there, is in disgrace, although uninjured.

Mr. Carnahan was out late, and when he came home about midnight he decided he could slip into bed without turning on the lights. He took off his shoes in the hall and started upstairs on tip-toe. On the top stair was the cat. She heard Carnahan coming, and stiffened her tail like a rollingpin, believing that Carnahan would shy to the portside. But Carnahan did not see her and stepped on her amidships.

There was an awful chorus of howls from the cat and screams from Carnahan, as both tumbled down the stairs together. The excitement aroused the household, and Mr. Carnahan was found to be so badly injured that he was taken to a hospital, where he will be confined for several days.

The cat was found under the kitchen stove purring softly.

SOUGHT THE BODY

Of Sister, Collinwood Fire Victim, and Found Old Love.

Canton, Ohio, March 27.—While searching for the body of his sister, Miss Katherine Weller, a school teacher, who was a victim of the Collinwood school disaster, William Weller of Canton, accidentally met his former fiance from whom he had become estranged two years before. He did not find the remains of his sister, but a reconciliation was arranged with the former sweetheart, Miss Norma Frau, now a Cleveland nurse, who was engaged in duties occasioned by the disaster. Weller sought Miss Frau at her home, and their re-engagement was announced. The wedding was set for June 16, and the couple will reside in Canton, where Mr. Weller is connected with the Berger Manufacturing company.

POODLE ALL TOGGED OUT.

Wore Fur Coat, Rubbers and Diamonds in Ears.

Paris, March 27.—Quite a commotion was caused in the Boulevard Haussmann the other afternoon when one of the best known women in Paris got out of an elegant motor car, leading with a silver chain a tiny poodle, dressed in the height of fashion. The dog was wearing a pigskin collar, adorned with gold coins, and a little fur coat, with a side pocket, from which peeped a small lace handkerchief, while its paws were protected from the damp by Indiarubber shoes. In the poodle's ears were two pairs of diamond earrings, one pair in each ear, the ears being pierced at the base and at the tip.

UNCLE JOE IS FOOLED

How Missouri Member Revived Very Dead House Committee.

Rejuvenation of Senator Depew is Wonder of Congress.

Washington, March 27.—Hamlin of Missouri—you know Hamlin?. Hamlin is one of those old-time Missouri Democrats who have to be shown everything. Well, in an inadvertent moment the speaker named him as a member of the committee on expenditures in the state department. Cannon undoubtedly thought that was a safe place to put him. Thought he couldn't do any harm there. That committee never meets, at least it never had met. That's just where Mr. Cannon made one of the few mistakes of his long and interesting career. Hamlin always does something. No matter where you put him, there is always something doing.

Mr. Hamlin is a meek man. He always takes what he is given. He took this appointment and said nothing. That's a way he has. But he is from Missouri. He has to be shown everything. So he went around in the hope that he would be shown what he had to do as a member of this particular committee. He found that it had a committee room all right and a young woman clerk and an office boy. That was all. He looked into the room. There were cobwebs all over the place. The girl was doing some sort of fancy work and the office boy was asleep.

"H-m! H-m!" said Mr. Hamlin.

The girl jumped up and the office boy woke up.

"What committee room is this?" asked Mr. Hamlin.

"Committee? Committee room?" asked the young woman in somowhat of a dazed voice.

"Yes. Committee room," returned Mr. Hamlin.

"Why, this—this is—this is the room of the committee—What committee is it, Johnnie?" she asked the boy.

"This committee is a 'dead' committee," said the boy. "What committee was you looking fer?"

"I'm looking for the committee on the expenditures of the state department."

"Well, that's the name of this committee, but it never does anything. It doesn't even ever meet. Are you sure that's the committee you was looking fer?"

"Sure," said Mr. Hamlin. "I am a member of this committee and I want to know all about it. When did it meet last?"

"Why, this committee hasn't met for thirty-five years," volunteered the young woman. "At least, that's what I've heard. I know it hasn't met for fourteen years. I've been here that long, and it hasn't met once in all that time."

Hamlin walked away. The young woman looked at the office boy and the office boy looked at the young woman. Then the boy made a significant whirling movement at the side of his head with his hands. The young woman smiled and the boy went back to his slumbers.

Got It Past Speaker.

Hamlin? Oh, he went to his desk in the house, and sitting down in great calmness wrote him a little resolution. He took it over to John Sharp Williams.

"It's no use," the minority leader said. "You can't get this past the speaker. He will refer it to the committee on ways and means, and there it will be pigeonholed for all time."

"Well," said the member from Missouri, "no harm can come from trying. So here goes."

Mr. Hamlin walked unostentatiously down the aisle on the minority side. He stopped now and then to chat with colleagues, all the time working nearer the speaker's desk. The house was about to adjourn. Mr. Cannon was paying close attention to what one of the house leaders was saying.

Mr. Hamlin slipped a folded piece of paper into the little wicker basket at the speaker's elbow. It was a resolution calling upon the secretary of state to furnish the house of representatives with an itemized statement of expenditures. On the back of the resolution in bold handwriting were the words:

"Referred to the committee on expenditures in the state department."

It was an audacious thing to do. But it got safely past the eagle eye of the speaker, and in due time, by the regular process, went to the chairman of the committee on expenditures in the state department, thereby furnishing that committee its first work in thirty-five years.

A copy of the resolution, though uncertified by the speaker and the clerk of the house, went to the secretary of state by special messenger, by whose authorization nobody knows. Anyhow, the chairman of the committee that was "dead" has received a formal letter from the secretary of state acknowledging the receipt of the resolution and giving the information that the department is now engaged in compiling the desired information.

"Well, I'll be hanged," said Uncle Joe, when his attention was called to the little game that had been practiced upon him.

A few days later Representative Hughes of West Virginia submitted to the house a favorable report on a resolution to revive the ten "dead" committees of the house. The report occasioned much surprise, but it was accepted without objection. Now these committees are very much alive.

Depew, the Young Man Eloquent.

It hasn't been very long since everybody thought our old college chum, Chauncey M. Depew, senator from New York, was as dead as any committee you ever heard of. Well, that's all a mistake. He is as young as the youngest. Nobody is spryer around the senate than Chauncey M. Depew, the "gentleman from New York." He is on his feet all the time the senate is in session. He takes part in all the little debates, and nearly every week you will find him delivering a set speech on some subject of national importance. He is the wonder of the whole congress. There isn't a man today who knew him at the last session who thought he would ever take an intelligent part in the affairs of the senate again. He was all in and down and out. He never spoke. He looked at his friends in a vague way, as if he did remember having met them before, but couldn't really recall their names. Whenever it was necessary for him to vote somebody always went to him and told how to do it. He was brought to the chamber in a carriage, with two or more servants to attend to him, and as soon as he intimated a desire to return to his home he was taken out as if he were an invalid being given a chance for an airing.

Now, if he comes to the senate in a carriage, he comes alone. Generally he foots it down the avenue at a pace so brisk that many a younger man would be put to it to keep up with him. His eye is bright and his cheeks are rosy. His voice has its old resonance, his gestures their old-time flavor. What has done it no one knows. But whatever is the cause, there is no doubt that Senator Thomas Platt, his venerable colleague, would give ten years off his remaining life, short as it must be, to know the secret. Depew smiles when asked whence comes all this renewed youth, and declares it is all due to a clear conscience. He says that is the reason Platt will never get young again.

Statesmen are the proper and constant prey of the photographer. Never does a day pass but some man with a camera approaches a representative or a senator asking him to pose for a picture free of charge. Men like Tillman, Foraker, La Follette, Dolliver, Hale, Frye, Dick, Stone, Bacon, Gaines, (John Wesley), Sims, Payne, Tawney, and so on, could spend their whole time before the camera. Most of them are willing to be photographed if they have the time. They do it more to accommodate the camera man than anything else. But there are some of the old fellows who won't be photographed for love or money, and who take it as an insult for you to ask them to have their picture taken. One of these hard nuts for the camera-fiend man to crack is Senator Cullum of Illinois. The last picture of Cullum was taken about ten years ago, and it looks so much like a picture of Lincoln that the old man has determined that that will be the picture of himself he will leave to posterity. All the Washington photographers know this, and so they don't bother him any more. But a fresh New York photographer came to town the other day, and when told that Cullom had not had a photograph taken for ten years, he sailed right in and announced that he would take a photograph of the Illinois statesman, if he lost a leg.

Well, he didn't lose a leg, but he didn't get a photograph, either. He did lose the better part of three days trying to get an interview with the old man on the subject, and when he did he lost his camera, for the old man got mad at his persistence and kicked the camera out of his way and walked on. That will probably remain the last attempt to photograph Senator Cullom of Illinois.

CONGO TAX

That is Equivalent to a Tax on the Native Women.

London, March 27.—A batch of consular reports relating to the condition of the natives in the Congo Free State has been issued as a white paper. The most interesting of the reports is a memorandum written by W. Thesiger, British consul at Boma, on Dec. 31, in which he states that through the operation of the labor tax the native is practically tied down from one year's end to another to a life of continual labor for the state, receiving in return for his produce a price far below the market value, and for his work a remuneration less even than the low cost of labor as fixed by the state itself.

In Leopoldville the state employs 1,200 workmen, who, together with a detachment of 120 soldiers and their wives and children, number about 2,000 persons for whom rations are found by imposing a tax on the native breadstuff on the women living in the surrounding villages.

To obtain the necessary supply the tax is estimated at 400 kilog. per head yearly. As regards the time and labor necessary to produce these 400 kilog. of breadstuff, the reports of Vice Consul Armstrong, the American consul general, Mr. Smith, and the missionaries all agree that to produce the amount necessary to free her of all obligations to the state each woman has practically to work incessantly twelve months in the year.

Good For Everybody.

Mr. Norman R. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Delbert Building, San Francisco, says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequaled. 50c at all drug stores.

BOSTON GIRL INVOKES

Berlin, March 27.—Ida Clough of Boston, a graduate of Bryn Mawr, who is studying in Berlin for a doctor's degree, wished to use a Greek volume of the year 1255 which is in the national library at Paris. The National Library of Berlin undertook to get it for her. The director of the national library of Berlin accordingly wrote a note to this effect to the German ministry of education. The ministry of education wrote to the foreign office and the latter wrote to the imperial chancellor. The imperial chancellor sent the request to the French ambassador to Germany and then it was up to France. The French ambassador at Berlin wrote to the German ambassador at Paris, who wrote to the French foreign office, and so on, following the circumlocution at Berlin, till the request finally reached the director of the Paris national library.

This red tape occupied five months, but Miss Clough is now able to read the precious volume in the presence of one of the custodians of the Berlin library.

NEW SIAMESE TWINS BORN.

Both Are Girls and Joined Together at Hips.

London, March 27.—A Brighton woman has given birth to twin girls, who are united at the hips by what is believed to be an indissoluble bond of flesh and bone. Dr. James Rooth, who is attending the case, states that each child has a distinct individuality, for one has been noticed to be crying while her sister was sound asleep. The babies are joined in such a way that they are almost back to back, and they have to sleep on their sides, with faces turned from each other.

It is believed that any attempt to separarte them would lead to the death of one or both, but to ascertain exactly whether this is so the children are to be photographed under the X-rays in order to reveal the nature of the connection. At present the children are very healthy and lively. Their mother is poor, and the strange twins have been adopted by a childless woman.

NO CHOKING OFF ON 'PHONE CONVERSATIONS.

Burton, Ohio, March 27.—Gossip over the telephone is free as ever in Geagua county, and all because the people rose up in their might and demanded that their rights of free speech be held inviolate. They didn't want to pay 5 cents a bunch for it.

It looked like trouble for a while, just after the Geagua County Telephone association decided to charge 5 cents for each call which used the wires of any company other than the one upon which it originated. That was cutting off the privilege the 3,000 subscribers had of talking to any point in the county without paying anything above the $12 a year rate.

When the association voted to put a tax on the social calls and other things which took up the time of the wires, the howl went up. The result was that the association rescinded its action.

SPRING DEMAND FOR SASSAFRAS PROFITABLE.

Sulphur Springs, Pa., March 27.—William Roots will clean up nearly $800 this spring from the sale of sassafras bark—that sovereign remedy for cleaning out the system at this season of the year.

Mr. Roots saw several years ago that the wods were being depleted of the aromatic bush, and he conceived the idea of planting a sassafras orchard. He got several thousand shrubs and transplanted them in a racky patch and they flourished.

Then he sent out word to all the mothers of large families that he would be prepared this spring to furnish to them any quantity of sassafras. Orders piled in, and he has had to employ two assistants to dig up roots and shave off the saffron-colored bark.

THIS PROVED TO BE TOO MUCH OF A SWEET FLOW.

Ospring, Pa., March 27.—Henry Adamson, who owns a sugar grove near here, being of an inventive turn of mind, devised an appliance which was to do away with the old-fashioned method of collecting the sap in buckets. He connected all the tapped trees with a system of small pipes and joined these to a large main leading to the sugar-boiling house.

Then nature got busy. The sap began to run, and soon a small system of sweet fluid was flowing into the big receiving tank. The next day the flow of sap was so great that the tank was overflowing and Adamson was calling on neighbors for barrels, wash boiler, tubs and any kind of a receptacle that would hold sap. But the cold weather saved further losses.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, Do You Open Your Mouth Like a Young Bird and Gulp Down Whatever Food or Medicine May be Offered You?

If you are an intelligent, thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true, honest medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of medical practice, are not afraid to print, as they do, the list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, so injurious to delicate women even in small quantities when long continued. Neither does it contain any narcotics, or other harmful, or habit-forming drugs and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised by its manufacturers.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration? It certainly is entitled to far more weight than any number of non-professional, or lay testimonials.

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the organs distinctly feminine. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as sacredly confidential and an answer is returned in plain sealed envelope. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. They are the original Little Liver Pills having been put out for sale by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. One to three a dose. Tiny sugar-coated granules; easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucuous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

FAMOUS INDIAN ATTACK

On Fort Ridgely, Minn., to be Reproduced at State Fair.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An airship race and a reproduction of the Indian attack on Fort Ridgely in 1862 will be two strong spectacular features of the next state fair. The board of managers has decided to guarantee airship entries a certain sum, and the purse will be so attractive that the competition, which will be open to the world, will be a big affair. Two ships have been entered already, the Dallas ship, which took second prize at St. Louis, and the Baldwin ship which took third. At least three, and perhaps five, entries are expected.

The great spectacular representation of Minnesota in 1862 will occupy the entire infield of the half-mile track. Three hundred Sioux Indians from the Pine Ridge agency, descendants of the Sioux who attacked Fort Ridgely, will take part, and 600 soldiers and 200 horses. The massacre feature will be eliminated, but the spectacle will be sufficiently thrilling. Capt. John Vander Horck and Col. Timothy Sheehan, veterans of the Indian war, will be on hand to witness the fight.

Just a little Cascasweet is all that is necessary to give your baby when it is cross and peevish. Contains no opiates nor harmful drugs and is highly recommended. Sold by all druggists.

WEST END

THE MEN HAD NO CHANCE

To Show Ability at Entertainment in M. E. Church.

Ladies of the Congregation Give an Elaborate Program.

The nearest that any man in the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church in the West end got to participation in the entertainment given there last night by the Ladies' Aid society was the composition of a song for the occasion by John Howard.

The ladies of the church gave this entertainment in retaliation for the one the men gave some time ago, and also to swell the building fund of the church. The audience was large and a neat sum was realized.

The members of the aid society looked to all the details of the entertainment themselves.

Nearly every members of the society participating in the opening chorus. All of them were dressed in blue calico dresses and white aprons, and presenteed a pretty sight. The opening address was given by Mrs. Edward Dahl and Mrs. Stenncess led the prayer.

Vocal duets were given by Mrs. H. C. Munsen and Mrs. H. K. Madsen and by Mrs. John Jensen and Mrs. Madsen. Mrs. Madsen also gave a piano solo.

Mrs. E. O. Peppe and Mrs. P. L. Mortenrud gave readings and Mrs. J. S. T. Strom and Mrs. Howard gave an interesting dialogue.

Mrs. P. George Hanson gave the history of the Ladies' Aid society and Mrs. Ed Thorstad and Mrs. Bailey sang.

The ladies' chorus gave the closing number on the program the song being composed especially for the occasion by Mr. Howard and was the only part that a man in the congregation had.

After the program, refreshments were served.

It was also decided to send a delegation to the library board asking for an adequate branch of the city free library, for the West end.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Sophia Elgstrom, wife of Olaf Elgstrom, in the First Swedish M. E. church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, was one of the largest ever held in the West end. The church was packed to the doors.

The services were in charge of Rev. John A. Anderson, pastor of the church. Rev. C. A. Andreen, presiding elder of this district of the Swedish M. E. conference, was here from Marinette, Wis., to preach at the funeral.

Alex Enna sang several solos, and some beautiful numbers were given by a quartet.

Mrs. Elgstrom was very prominent in the First Swedish M. E. church for many years. Her husband is one of the trustees.

LOOKS LIKE A MURDER.

Young Farmer Found With Skull Crushed and No Money.

Faribault, Minn., March 27.—Benjamin Habeln, a thrifty young farmer of Morristown township, south of this city, was found dead beside the Chicago Great Western railway tracks Wednesday. His skull had been crushed.

He had been in the village of Morristown, and had said he was going to visit some friends who lived south of the town. Nothing was seen of him until the next morning, when his body was found and his empty pocketbook beside it. Coroner Ray is investigating and thinks it is a case of murder.

MINNESOTA FARMERS BEGINNING SPRING WORK.

Albert Lea, Minn., March 27.—Farmers have begun work in the fields, and if no actual seeding has been done, discing, dragging and other work are under way. A few more warm days and seeding will actually begin, as farmers more and more realize the advisability of putting in small grain as early as possible.

The acreage to wheat will probably be somewhat increased, as will oats and corn, while barley, flax and hay land will be curtailed. Difficulty in securing seed grain may reduce the acreage in some instances to some extent. Several farmers are to experiment with alfalfa this year, as they feel the need of a hay crop that will produce more forage.

BREWER KILLED BY CARS.

Marshfield, Wis., March 27.—Otto Backhaus, secretary and manager of the Marshfield Brewing company, was struck by a Wisconsin Central passenger train while crossing Vine street yesterday and instantly killed.

POISON COWS AND HORSES.

Croatian and Hungarian Farmers Attempt to Exterminate Gypsies.

Vienna, March 27.—The plague of gypsies in Croatia and Hungary has resulted in terrible reprisals by the farmers, who have suffered greatly from the depredations of these marauders. Nineteen gypsies, comprising an entire band, died suddenly near Pompakevac, Croatia, after eating portions of cow which they found dead in a forest. It was afterwards found that the body of the cow was poisoned.

In a neighboring district sixteen gypsies, belonging to another band, died after eating hares which had been poisoned by the farmers and left dying in the fields. Both Croatia and Hungary are overrun with gypsies who rob wayfarers, keep blacksmith barn lonely farm houses, and are often accused of stealing children. The authorities have been unable to deport them, and imprisonment apparently has no effect on them.

Cheerful days—the days when you take Cascarets. Isn't it wonderful what a difference one little candy tablet makes?

We all need a laxative sometimes.

How often we need it depends entirely on how we live.

If we exercise largely, and eat the right food, we need a laxative only occasionally.

But if we live in-doors, and get too little laxative effect in our food, we may need to get it quite frequently in some other way.

Nobody can doubt the need for a laxative. The only question is: Which one is the best?

And that isn't a question now.

Cascarets are known to embody the only laxative which acts in a gentle and natural way.

Castor oil merely greases the bowels.

Cathartics and salts, acting as pepper acts in the nostrils, flush the bowels with fluids.

But those fluids are digestive juices, and we will lack them tomorrow if we waste them today.

Cascarets alone cause the muscles of the bowels to act the same as some foods will do.

Carry them with you. Take one when you need it. You will then enjoy all the good effects of keeping the bowels clean.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure you get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50c, 25c and

CHEYENNE MARRIAGES

Despite Civilization the Tribe Holds to Its Wedding Customs.

Wooing of Maiden and Buying of Her Father's Consent.

Arapahoe, Ok., March 27.—In relating early day experiences among the Cheyenne Indians in Oklahoma, John H. Seger told recently of the marriage custom in that tribe. The Cheyennes have advanced in the ways of civilization, but they still cling to this old custom. Before he is eligible for the hand of a young woman of more than ordinary charms the young man must have distinguished himself by some feat of bravery or accumulated property.

Courtship begins usually at a dance, attended by the young people of the village. The girls sit by themselves at one side of the tepee, and the young men at the other. All wear their finest toggery. A peculiar feature of their dress is that each wears a blanket, concealing all except their eyes.

The love-sick Indian swain gazes incessantly from the corner of one eye at his possible sweetheart. She responds by arising and dancing round the fire, and seals her choice by cuffing him on the ear. This she does several times, her last stroke sometimes almost knocking the young man from his seat, to the merriment of the onlookers. The two then dance together, often with other couples, until late at night.

He Is No Inconstant Swain.

In a few days the young man goes and stands near the tepee of the girl's father. The observant mother calls her daughter's attention to the presence of Running Panther, or whatever his name may be. The girl, according to custom, must advance from the tepee. If she runs away, the evidence is indisputable that she is a flirt, and that the young man has been jilted. If she is sincere, she stands coquettishly looking in a direction away from the young man. He advances and drops a blanket over both their heads. He has made great progress, and rivals might as well go hunting. The two stand under the blanket and talk to their hearts' content. It would be improper for other persons in the camp to take notice of them.

The next step is for the young man to visit the girl's father, and make known the value of his property, usually in ponies, which is offered to the father in exchange for his daughter. The old man takes the proposal under advisement.

"One ardent lover whom I recall," said Seger, "having been stripped of all his ponies by the vicissitudes of war, gave himself to a chief to get the latter's daughter, and was accepted. For years the old chief called upon his faithful son-in-law to perform all manner of hazardous and dangerous tasks. The son-in-law obeyed loyally so long as the old man lived, and at the latter's death said gallantly that the gift of the old man's daughter had well repaid him for all the sacrifices he had made."

The Ceremony Proper Is Simple.

The father having accepted the gifts of the young man, the latter brings the affair to a close by lying on the ground at the right side of the door of the old man's tepee, curled like a dog, to show how abject and faithful he will be. The father then invites his future son-in-law into the tepee and names the day for the marriage ceremony.

A new tepee, in which no one has ever slept, is now prepared by the girl's mother. Upon its completion the girl is placed inside. Friends of the young brave now seek him out, and place him in the tepee. The door is closed, and a stick placed across it, which means that no one may enter. And the marriage ceremony is at an end.

ENGLAND PRODS NEGRO REPUBLIC

Compensation Demanded of Liberia for Two Britons' Death.

London, March 27.—The British government is demanding compensation from the negro republic of Liberia for the deaths of two Englishmen who, it is alleged, were slowly poisoned by prominent Liberians at Cape Palmas, one of the principal ports of the West Africa republic.

The victims were E. A. Ditchfield, agent for Ditchfield, limited, of Liverpool, and the district agent for Lloyd's at Cape Palmas, and John Blenkinsop, one of his assistants. As Lloyd's agent, Mr. Ditchfield made certain complaints against a local firm of timber merchants at Cape Palmas regarding a shipment of mahogany logs. In some manner a copy of these complaints, which Mr. Ditchfield had forwarded to the British consul at Monrovia, fell into the hands of the firm in question. A libel action resulted, and Mr. Ditchfield was ordered to pay $15,000 damages, this amount being afterwards reduced by the appeal court to $10,000. Mr. Ditchfield placed the matter in the hands of the consul at Monrovia, and demanded an investigation by the British government. Following this libel action, both Mr. Ditchfield and Mr. Blenkinsop were subjected to every conceivable insult by the Liberians at Cape Palmas. Their dwelling was fired into every night, and on several occasions they narrowly escaped being shot.

Were Long Persecuted.

Mr. Blenkinsop, was assaulted by a drunken customs inspector on one occasion and seriously injured. He was afterwards arrested on complaint of the inspector and was subjected to great annoyance by the authorities, who harassed him with continuous legal proceedings, and eventually imprisoned him for some hours in a filthy jail. After his release Mr. Blenkinsop was taken ill, and he died on Aug. 11, having obviously been poisoned.

Mr. Ditchfield, who had a long experience on the coast, and a close acquaintance with danger, ignored the outrages against him and, although the Liberians heaped insult upon insult on him, yet, to use his own words, "he stuck to it, and was determined to see the thing through."

Matters went from bad to worse, and finally Mr. Ditchfield sent an urgent telegram to Sierra Leone for assistance. The British gunboat Dwarf was dispatched under full steam to Cape Palmas, stopping at Monrovia to pick up the British consul.

The consul and commander proceeded to the office of the superintendent and delivered an official message. The consul told the superintendent that he would not warn him any more; the British government had been watching the pinpricking treatment imposed upon Europeans, and the time had come to put a stop to such annoyances. No sooner had the gunboat left Cape Palmas than the persecution of Mr. Ditchfield and his assistant was resumed. After Mr. Blenkinsop's death there was a lull in the hostilities, but in October Mr. Ditchfield became ill, and he died in great agony on Dec. 11.

It is alleged that both Mr. Ditchfield and Mr. Blenkinsop were poisoned at the instigation of certain Liberians, who judged it to be in their best interests that these two Englishmen should disappear.

Avoid Secret Stomach Remedies

Thousands of people, having dyspepsia or stomach troubles in some form, continually "dope" themselves with all sorts of secret tonics, drugs, pills, cathartics, etc., which not only inflame and irritate the stomach and intestines, but in many cases cause the opium, morphone and cocaine habits.

You have a right and should demand to know what any medicine contains before you take it, unless it is put up or recommended by some reputable physician. Fakes and quacks will put most anything into their secret preparations, to make you like their useless stuff so as to want more of it, until it makes you the victim of some drug habit, which will ruin your health in a short time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy, they do not contain injurious drugs, and they are recommended by thousands of physicians in the United States and Canada to their patients for dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, and all other stomach troubles resulting from improper digestion of food.

These wonderful tablets actually digest food because they contain the very elements that are required of a healthy stomach to properly digest food, thus acting as a substitute and giving the overworked digestive organs a rest and a chance to regain their former health, strength and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain fruit and vegetables essences, the pure concentrated tincture of hydrastis, and golden seal, which tone up and strengthen the mucous coats of the stomach and increase the flow of gastric and other digestive juices; lactose (extracted from milk); nux, to strengthen the nerves controlling the action of the stomach; bismuth to absorb gases and prevent fermentation, and pure aseptic pepsin (government test) of the highest digestive power. All of these are scientifically incorporated in these tablets or lozenges and constitute a complete, natural, speedy cure for any stomach trouble.

Write us for a free sample package. This sample alone will give you sufficient relief to convince you. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

SCOTCH RELICS TO BE SHOWN AT EXPOSITION.

Glasgow, March 27.—Arrangements in connection with the Highlands and Islands Loan collection, which will form an interesting feature of the educational and historical section of the Scottish national exhibition, are making satisfactory progress. A long list of over 150 patrons, including the titled owners of estates in the northern and western counties, lend an aspect of importance to the project, and the names of the influential committee charged with the making of the collection afford a sound guarantee of the thoroughness with which the work of selection will be overtaken. Maj. W. Lashlan Forbes of the Royal Scottish Geographical society, Edinburgh, has undertaken the honorary secretarial duties; his former experience in Glasgow in similar work will render his services singularly valuable. The committee is composed of gentlemen who are authorities on the various subjects which will be illustrated by the specific exhibits.

There will be shown the famous Baliochyle brooch, which was long once used as a talisman or charm against witchcraft and disease, both for man and cattle. There will also be lent the Bruce brooch, which was given by King Robert the Bruce to the ancestor of the present owner, Capt. Macneal, Ugadale, Campbeltown. Col. Stewart of Ardvorlich has promised to lend the "clach dearg," or red stone, of Ardvorlich, the Ardvorlich trophy, a unique collection of Highland arms—the targe having the original spike in it, the only one known—and a double-manded sword in the original leather scabbard—also extremely rare.

WILL CALL FOR BIDS

Plans for New Courthouse Will be Advertised April 8.

County Will Probably Get Bids on Wrecking of Buildings.

The courthouse commission will begin advertising for bids on the construction of the new courthouse by April 8, at which time it is expected that the sets of plans and specifications for the structure will be in the hands of the commission. All bids will close by May 5, next.

Assistant County Attorney, W. J. Stevenson, and W. C. Agnew of the courthouse commission have returned from Chicago, where they have been in conference with the architects over the details for the advertising for the bids.

It is probably that the county board will advertise at the same time for bids for the wrecking of the buildings now on the site that the county is acquiring by condemnation proceedings.

The courthouse commission has ascertained the rock levels and the contour lines on the surface and will have this information for the contractors when the bids are advertised.

Drills were put down in about a dozen places over the site to determine the rock levels so that the contractors can figure on the rock excavation.

NARROW ROADWAY

May be Improved on Fifty-Fourth Avenue East.

The board of public works received a communication this morning from one of those interested in circulating a petition for the improvement of Fifty-fourth avenue east, asking that an estimate be secured on the cost of the work with a twenty-four-foot driveway.

A petition is being circulated for the improvement of Fifty-fourth avenue east from Superior to Oneida street. The cost with a wide roadway does not appeal to the property owners, however, and an effort is being made to alter the plans so as to call for a twenty-four-foot roadway, the remainder of the width to be utilized for grass plots and sidewalks.

Poor Pussy

The great fortunes and the great enterprises of this country result largely from the discoveries of certain nameless men. They have been the cats' paws which other men, with less brains, but more shrewdness, have used to get the chestnuts from the fire.

If you read "The Man Behind the Millionaire," by Henry M. Hyde, in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, you will learn a good many obscure facts about American industrial history. The names won't be familiar to you, but you will easily comprehend the men for whom they pulled the chestnuts from the fire.

This and a good deal more in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

CITY WATER FOR PROCTORKNOTT

Board Considers Permit to String Electric Power Wires.

A forerunner of a plan for providing water for Proctor from the Duluth system by power furnished by the Great Northern Power company made its appearance at the meeting of the board of public works this morning, when application was made for the right to set poles and string wires for the conveying of electricity from the alley between Oneota and Magellan streets north on Forty-fourth avenue west to Medina street, thence west to the D. M. & N. right-of-way and southwest along the D. M. & N. right-of-way to Sixty-third avenue west, where the West Duluth reservoir is located.

At the present time, the line is only designed to operate a "booster" plant for the West Duluth reservoir, which runs almost dry at times. It is proposed to pump water from the pumping station near Forty-fourth avenue west to the West Duluth reservoir, using power to be furnished by the Great Northern Power company.

Later, it is said, a pumping station of some kind will be provided at the West Duluth reservoir at Sixty-third avenue west.

BROKEN DOWN AND PENNILESS

Former San Francisco Banker Anxious to Return.

San Francisco, March 27.—The Call today says: Word reached the office of the chief of police late last night that John Dalzell Robertson, assistant secretary of the defunct California Safe Deposit & Trust company, was in New York and anxious to return to San Francisco and turn state's evidence. Robertson was indicted with J. Dalzell Brown, Walter J. Bartnett and James Treadwell for embezzlement. He escaped from San Francisco as soon as the crash came and has been a fugitive for four months. Robertson is penniless and broken in health. Through friends he has made what practically amounts to a complete confession and hopes that he may be granted immunity for the testimony he is willing to give.

The statements by Robertson directly involve Bartnett, Brown and Treadwell.

GRAFT IN CHICAGO.

Fraud in Water Department and Two Employes Discharged.

Chicago, March 27.—An amazing system of robbery and graft involving city employes and big business firms, and extending back through several years, has been uncovered in the water department. As a result of the revelations two employes, including a head, were removed last night and thirty-eight subordinate employes are slated for discharge. Some of them may be indicted for complicity in the thefts. This same water department has been the city's boasted example of municipal ownership.

Through the use of tampered meters and the connivance of city employes several large corporations have defrauded the city of hundreds of thousands of dollars in water taxes. At the same time the employes of the meter division, to which the scandal is confined, have plundered the stock supplies, selling meters to junk dealers, and bartering materials for drinks in saloons.

Supplies never used by the city were purchased ostensibly for the water department and then used by city plumbers in previous outside business. The payrolls of the division were found padded with idlers and incompetents. The force which originally numbered 200 men was reduced by Superintendent W. J. McCourt of the water bureau to fifty. The amount of which the city has been defrauded is over $50,000.

The officials removed by Superintendent McCoart were D. S. Harrington, superintendent of the meter mechanical division, and John Lamkin, chief clerk.

Mr. Phillips sued for $100,000. The case has been on trial several days.

This firm is carrying a very large proportion of the railway business of the country.

Another little girl, who had been rebuked for making faces, got this on her program:

"Do not do anything naughty when anyone is looking."

DECLARE WILL TO BE FORGERY

Startling Developments in the Schooley-Crawford Contest.

Scranton, Pa., March 27.—Startling developments came in the Schooley-Crawford will contest today, when Albert W. Bahman of Swedesboro, N. J., and Charles P. Reidel of Landisville, N. J., pleaded guilty to perjury. They declared the Schooley will, which they witnessed, and by which George B. Schooley of Philadelphia sought to inherit the $1,000,000 estate of his cousin, James L. Crawford, who was a prominent coal operator here, was a forgery. The men came here and made full confession to District Attorney O'Brien, who at once took them into court. They will testify against Schooley next week.

Schooley was arrested some time ago charged with forging a will, and his bail was surrendered today, after Bahman and Reidel confessed. A detective has gone to Nozen, Wyoming county, Penn., where Schooley has been wintering, to rearrest him.

COMMENDS OLD STORIES.

Speaker Before Chicago Mothers' Club Indorses "Mother Goose."

Chicago, March 27.—"Mother Goose" was praised as literature and "Jack the Giant Killer," "Bluebeard" and all the other gory thrillers of the fairy tale books were endorsed by Mrs. William Heffernan, former state president of the Illinois Congress of Mothers, in an address to the West End Mothers' council yesterday.

At the same time newspaper reading was commended, magazine reading was condemned, and the present product of writers for children was scornfully dismissed as trash. Special attention was devoted to stories that point out morals, such stories or books being criticised as either worthless or bad.

Mrs. Heffernan urged the necessity of educating and elevating the taste of a child by surrounding it with only the best in literature and by keeping it in an atmosphere of conversation, ideas, ideals and books beyond its present comprehension.

"It is a deplorable thing," she said, "to bring the atmosphere of a home down to the level of a child's intelligence, especially in the mistaken idea that it will benefit the child.

"The child who listens to intelligent, cultured conversations, who reads or hears read good books, may not understand all that is heard or read, but will profit wonderfully by it. Keep the atmosphere of the home high and let the child grow up to it."

DEPENDS ON ONE LETTER

If It is an "E" Fifty Men Will Get Work.

If a blurred letter in a telegram received by the National employment agency this morning is an "e" fifty men will receive employment by a Michigan firm. If, on the other hand, the letter is an "o" the men who are anxiously awaiting the telegraphic inquiry will not receive the work they have been tentatively hired for.

A typewritten "e" and "o" are very similar, and the telegram received this morning, in response to former negotiations between the firm and the employment agency, either says "Got full crew." or "Get full crew." If the letter in question is an "e" then fifty men will be provided with employment. If it turns out to be an "o" the fifty men will be forced to seek elsewhere for positions.

The whole force in the National employment office puzzled over the letter in question. Bets were made as to whether it was an "e" or "o." The man in charge of the office decided that he would not risk sending a crew to Michigan on such a large chance of it being a typographical error, and wired for a verification of the message. Meanwhile the fifty men are fervently hoping that the disputed letter is an "e."

The proof of the biscuit will be delicious eating and easy digestion, if made with Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder.

ELOPE TO THIS CITY WHERE THEY MARRY.

Iron River, Wis., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Maurice Landry and Miss Emma Schumacher, both of this city, surprised their families by eloping Tuesday morning. They boarded the early morning train for Duluth, where they were married. The bride and groom left Duluth the same evening for Alberta, where Mr. Landry's parents reside, and where he also has a valuable homestead.

DAUGHTER OF MINISTER GONE

Chicago, March 27.—Assisted by the members of his congregation, the Rev. Albert Schub, pastor of the Lutheran church, Monroe, Wis., is trying to solve the mystery of the disappearance from her home of his daughter Anna, 18 years old, March 13. He asked the Chicago police department yesterday to help him.

Dr. Schub has given up his church work and has hardly rested in his search since his daughter went away. He traced her to Chicago, where she came ostensibly to seek a position.

Instead of remaining here, however, according to Mrs. Moran, matron at the union depot, she boarded a train the same night for Northern Michigan.

Before she left Monroe, Miss Schub confided to her friends that she was going away and intimated there was a mystery in her life. Her father said yesterday he knew of no love affair in which his daughter was involved. He thought it improbable that she had eloped, although friends in Monroe are not so certain on that point.

The young woman was popular in her home city and the residents are anxious about her. She has a sister, Amy, a student in the University of Wisconsin.

Age, 19; height, medium; weight, about 114; hair, dark brown; teeth, even, with gold fillings in front; dress, dark blue suit, jacket hip length; blue silk waist, with white dots; fur, grey Siberian squirrel with ermine tails; gloves, gray; hat, blue silk; handbag, large, ornamented with gold;; suitcase, manila straw.

Miss Schub had about $35 when she left Monroe. She had asked her parents to allow her to come to Chicago to get a position as governess, but they would not consent. This, they believe now, was not her real object in leaving.

BOWLING RECORDS STILL HOLD

Good Scores Rolled in Doubles at St. Paul Tournament

St. Paul, March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although no records were broken at the state bowling tournament last night, there was a large number of high scores rolled.

Kenyon and Johnson of Stillwater rolled 1,220 and landed third place in the doubles. McMillan and Arndt rolled into fifth place and Blumenthal and Pampush into eleventh place.

Three new 600-scores were added to the small list. Johnson of the Atwoods got the high three games of the evening, with 627. Sevard of St. Paul rolled 627 and McMillan of the Atwoods, 617.

Johnson is now third man in the total nine-game score list, with the grand total of 1,734, while McMillan has the sixth largest score, with 1,717. There are six scores over the 1,700 mark, and there will probably be four or five more.

Eastman of Stillwater rolled high in the singles, with 288.

The highest single score of the evening was rolled by Easton of Stillwater, 233. Kenyon got a game of 224.

There will be some star bowlers on the alleys this evening. Muggley hopes to be able to overtop Hellhake's great score of 1,812 in the all-events. He needs 607 to do it.

Fred Gosewisch, Pampusch, Frank Malone, Luger, Walszer, Rettner, Chandler and Paul Nelson are among tonight's performers.

BIGGEST CLOCK IN WORLD.

New York, March 27.—A clock, which it is said will be the largest in the world, will be finished soon at Thomaston, Conn., for a Jersey City soap factory. The clock will be placed on the company's sign on top of the soap factory and will be visible from the river at the New Jersey piers. It will have a diameter of twenty-eight feet. Philadelphia has a clock with a diameter of twenty-five feet, and Westminster, London, one with twenty-two and a half feet diameter.

ROBBERS SECURE $2,000.

DIRECT PRIMARIES POPULAR.

Marquette, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Both Alger and Delta counties will, this spring, vote on the direct nominations system of selecting their county tickets. The system is already in force in Menominee, Chippewa and Schoolcraft counties, and there are two or three legislative districts in the Upper Peninsula that have adopted it. The principle is making slow but steady progress north of the straits.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

American Markets Go Off on Reports of Rain.

Flax is Little Firmer at the Close in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 27.—Rains which are breaking the threatened drought in the Southwest were the principal cause for the slump in the American wheat markets during the latter part of the session today. The closing prices were off in all the markets.

What strength there was during the early part of the session was on dryness in the Southwest and light receipts, but when the reports of the rain came in, the market fell off. There was heavy liquidation during the latter part of the day.

The local market was rather quiet and indifferent, the prices being easier than yesterday's during all of the session.

Argentine shipments were liberal, being 6,248,000 bus, against 6,52,000 bus, last week and 3,504,000 bus., a year ago.

Cables were weak. Liverpool closed ¼d to ½d lower, Budapest ⅝c lower and Berlin closed firm at ⅛c higher.

The Modern Miller says:

"Few complaints are received regarding condition of winter wheat. Some uneasiness expressed regarding dry weather in Southwest. Elsewhere crop prospect generally satisfactory."

The May option closed ¾-⅞c lower in Duluth, ½c lower in Chicago, 1¼-⅜c lower in Minneapolis, ⅝c lower in New York and 1c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1c lower in Duluth, ⅝c lower in Chicago and Winnipeg, 1¼-⅜c lower in Minneapolis and ¾-⅞c lower in New York.

May corn closed ¼-⅜c lower in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅛c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a steady undertone to the speculative wheat market at the opening and values were ⅜d higher. Offerings were lighter and support good, stimulated by the late firmness in American yesterday and the fact that a large proportion of the Argentine weekly exports went direct to the continent. Later, however, some easiness developed and prices lost ¼d to ⅜d on the heavy arrivals here and a lack of demand for cargoes. At mid-day the market was quiet and unchanged to ⅛d higher than Thursday.

"Corn was quiet and unchanged. The market was wholly neglected.

Car receipts at Duluth were 31 against 110 last year, and at Minneapolis 114; none last year, holiday; making a total for the Northwest of 175 against 110 last year. Chicago received 20. Winnipeg received 80 against 162 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 320,000 bushels. Shipments, 235,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 261,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of corn were 553,000 bushels. Shipments, 452,000 bushels. Clearances of corn were 366,000 bushels.

Wheat was quiet and easier during most of the session in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ¼c lower at $1.04¼, declined to $1.03⅞, rallied to $1.03¾ and closed at $1.03⅝-¾, a loss of ⅞-1c from yesterday. July wheat opened late at $1.04, advanced to $1.04¼ and closed at $1.04, a loss of 1c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅜c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was rather quiet, but the tone was firm during the latter part of the session. May flax opened unchanged at $1.16⅜, declined to $1.16⅛, reacted to $1.16⅜ and closed at that price, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday. July flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.18⅛, declined to $1.18⅝, rallied to $1.18⅞ and closed at $1.18⅝-¾, a shade higher than yesterday.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Scattered Selling by Commission Houses Causes Weakness in Wheat.

Chicago, March 27.—Scattered selling by commission houses had a depressing effect today on the wheat market, there being very little demand in evidence. Unsettled weather in the Southwest and liberal shipments from Argentina were the chief bearish factors. May opened ⅜c to ⅝c lower at 94⅞c and sold off to 94⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 195 cars against 310 cars last week and a holiday last year.

The market was weak all day chiefly because of reports from the Southwest of scattered showers. The low point for May was 90½@93c. The close was weak with May ⅝c lower at 94½c.

There was only a small volume of trade in corn, and the market was inclined to be weak. Local receipts were more than had been estimated and this had a weakening influence. May opened a shade to ⅛c lower at 66⅝@66¾c and sold off to 66⅜c. Local receipts were 276 cars with 6 of contract grade.

Prices ruled easy and the market was dull. The low point for May was 65¾c. The close was weak with May off 1@1⅛c at 66¼c.

Oats were dull and a trifle easier. The market was affected chiefly by the weakness of wheat and corn. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 54⅜@54¼c, to 54¼c, and sold at 54⅜c. Local receipts were 188 cars.

Provisions were in active demand and the market was strong. A 15c advance in live hogs was the bullish factor. May pork was up 5c to 10c at $12.95 to $13. Lard was 2½c higher at $8.15. Ribs were 3c to 7½c higher at $7 to $7.07½.

Close: Wheat, May, 94⅜c; July, 89¼c; September, 86¾@87c. Corn, May, 66¼c; July, 64@64⅜c; September, 63½c. Oats, May, old, 54⅜c; May, 52½; July, old, 49¾c; July, 46¼c; September, 32½c. Pork, May, $13.05; July, 13.45; September, 12.85. Lard, May, $8.22½; July, $8.42½@8.45; September, $8.62½@8.65. Ribs, May, $7.35; July, $7.35; September, $7.62½. Rye, cash, 75@77c. Barley, cash, 70@85. Timothy, March, $4.75. Clover, March, $22.00. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Dull and Lower Close in Foreign Markets Made Wheat Easier.

Minneapolis, March 27.—Failure of the Liverpool market to hold, and a dull and lower close in the continental markets, turned wheat easy at the opening. Though the winter wheat crop news was not good, there were indications of rain which took the edge off the dry weather scare. May sold down, up to 1 o'clock, to $1.05¾, being then nearly 2c under yesterday's close. But it was quick to rally on any little buying. For the week the elevator stocks will probably increase 175,000 bus. Today Minneapolis got 144 cars and Duluth 31, a year ago being a holiday. Receipts here tomorrow and Monday will look light compared with last year, when, on the two corresponding days, 578 and 573 cars came in. May wheat opened at $1.06⅝; high, $1.06⅞; low, $1.06¼; close, $1.05¾.

July closed at $1.03@1.03⅜; September at 91¼c.

Dullness an an easier feeling were to be found in cash wheat. Millers bought sparingly. For choice No. 1 northern 2c over May was paid but the ordinary stuff went 1½c over. No. 2 northern sold at ½c under May. Close: No. 1 northern $1.07½ spot, $1.07¼ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.05½ spot, $1.05¾ to arrive. No. 3 wheat, 86@94c@$1.02; No. 3 yellow corn, 63¾@63¾c; No. 3 white oats, 50½c.

No. 2 rye, 73¾@75¾c.

Barley was firm and steady with yesterday and in good demand. Close: 65c to 81c.

Flax in firm tone at Duluth May price. Close: $1.16½.

Bran in bulk slightly easier and quotable at $21.50@21.75.

Flour—The orders were light and the raw material sagging and a decline in flour seemed probable. Millers made no changes today. In the event of further decline below the low point of today, flour would probably be affected. Shipments, 54,297 barrels. First patents, $5.40@5.60; second patents, $5.20@5.50; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.40@3.60.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston to Walter W. Carr: The market displayed great underlying strength, influenced by the demand for Amalgamated together with the strong London copper market. The only notable exception heing Boston Consolidated, this stock selling down to 13¾ on heavy transactions. The metal exchange has marked up prices ⅝ cent all around; Lake is now strong at 13⅝. We hear of transactions at 13½ cents. Good buying of North Butte and Copper Range were very prominent, in fact a good demand is apparent for all of the stocks of the good producing companies. As indicated in previous dispatches, we are still optimistic as to the future course of prices and believe that the long side of coppers will prove very profitable.

THE EUREKA EXPLORATION CO.

Represented by Mr. Theodore Ivens, the general manager of the company, has decided to open an office at 303-304 Torrey building, where he will be pleased to meet the Duluth public and tell them all about their copper property, located in San Juan county, Colorado. The Eureka Exploration company is developed mining property (not a prospect), has over 5,000 feet of underground workings, a complete concentrating mill, their own waterpower and railroad siding on the property. 2,000 tons of ore was shipped from property last season, in developing same.

Treatment charges of ore by the smelter trust, also freight rates being out of proportion, the company has decided to build their own smelter; also provide property with electric power, which will mean a large increase in the net earnings of the company, and to equip the property with these improvements, a small block of stock, at 50 cents per share, par value $1.00, will be offered for sale, and subscription list for the purchase of same is now open with the following brokers:

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Prices Rose Steadily With Increasing Demand for Railroads.

Advance in Last Hour Pronounced and Close Was Strong.

New York, March 27.—The opening movement of stock prices was confused and irregular; changes were small as a rule but the dealings were quite active.

The movement of prices remained uncertain during the first hour, but the fluctuations were mostly within range of half a point. Chicago Great Western debentures improved 3 points, American Malting preferred 1½, Denver & Rio Grande preferred 1⅝ and New York Central, Northwestern and Erie first preferred 1. United States Pipe preferred yielded 1½ and American Smelting 1.

Prices rose more easily on a fresh advance. Canadian Pacific and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie advanced 4, St. Paul preferred 3, Consolidated Gas 2⅝, National Railroad of Mexico preferred 1¾, Chesapeake & Ohio and Western Union 1¼, and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Mexican Central, Erie second preferred, Interborough - Metropolitan preferred, Granby Mining, American Locomotive and Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred 1. Atlantic Coast Line declined 1, and Westinghouse Electric 5¼. Bonds were irregular.

Prices rose steadily with an increasing demand for the prominent railroad stocks. The specialties were neglected outside of the copper issues, which were bought freely, particularly Amalgamated Copper and Tennessee Copper. The advances reached 6¼ with Canadian Pacific, 3⅜ in Denver & Rio Grande preferred, 2 in Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Tennessee Copper and Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, 3 in the preferred, 1½ in Southern Pacific and 1 in Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Amalgamated Copper. Pacific Coast ran off 3¾.

Realizing sales held the market in check in the afternoon, the rise inducing considerable profit-taking by the traders.

The market closed strong. In the last hour the rise was more pronounced, extending to 4¾ in Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis, 2¾ in Missouri Pacific and 2½ in Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha sold off 4 points and rallied 2.

Stock Gossip.

Miller, New York, to M. W. Lee & Co.: Union at top on buying of 2,500 shares by a New street house that was very prominent in the bear market last year. Stocks are all well taken and there is only one way in the writer's opinion that any big money can be made for a long time, and that is in buying stocks. At the moment we feel more friendly to Reading than anything else.

The Cotton Market.

New York, March 27.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 5@13 points, with most of the active months selling down to the low record of last Tuesday during the early session, under bear pressure, which was stimulated by easier cables and favorable weather reports from the South. The decline was checked by a demand for May from strong spot and banking interests, and prices later rallied from the lowest, and during the middle of the morning the market was steady at a net decline of about 5@11 points.

Spot—Closed quiet, 10 points lower, middling uplands, 10.40; middling gulf, 10.65. Sales, 4,000 bales. Futures: Closed steady; closing bids: March 9.40; April, 9.42; May, 9.53; June, 9.59; July, 9.54; August, 9.50; October, 9.46; December, 9.48.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKES RECORDED AT ALBANY.

Albany, N. Y., March 27.—It was discovered at the state museum this morning that an earthquake of high intensity and long duration had been registered by the seismographs there last evening. The main shock was preceded and followed by other disturbances which seem to have originated in the same zone, the several shocks probably marking successive stages of a convulsion that is one of the severest recorded at Albany during the past year.

DUKE VERY CHEERFUL

Italian Nobleman Reaches Liverpool Enroute to Rome.

Will Make No Formal Announcement of His Engagement.

Liverpool, March 27.—"There is absolutely nothing I can say regarding my reported engagement to Miss Katherine Elkins," said the duke of Abruzzi when asked for a statement today regarding the many rumors in circulation since his departure from the United States.

The duke arrived here this morning from New York on the steamer Lusitania. He emphasized the personal pronoun in his statement, and intimated that any announcement must come from another source. He greeted the newspaper men cheerfully and smilingly, and gave the above quoted answer to the request for an interview.

Upon leaving the Lusitania in company with the Italian consul at Liverpool, who was the only person here to meet him, the duke faced a battery of cameras, but even this did not ruffle his temper, and, still smiling, he passed up the dock to the waiting car, upon which there was the usual printed notice in large letters, showing that a compartment was the only thing that had been done to facilitate the duke's trip from Liverpool to London, and other passengers had to content themselves with single seats.

During the voyage over the duke mingled freely with other passengers on board the Lusitania and made some friends, but whenever the subject of his engagement was mentioned he immediately became reserved and changed the conversation and thereafter avoided the individual who brought up the topic. He was entertained at dinner during the voyage by Sir Bache Cunard and himself gave a party which was attended by some of his new made friends. The duke created an excellent impression on his fellow passengers and was quite the most cheerful spirit on board. He spent hours walking the deck with his new made friends, among whom were Robert Fairhorn, commissioner of emigration at New York, and William B. Howland, proprietor of the Outlook.

Although the duke could not be drawn out with regard to his reported engagement, he gave the impression that there was an engagement, but that home formalities would have to be completed before announcement could be made and that this announcement must come through official Italian channels. His continued cheerfulness on the voyage over is taken as proof that he at least does not believe that there are any insurmountable difficulties in the way of his marriage to Miss Elkins.

The duke will reach London this afternoon and it is understood that he will proceed direct to Rome.

Abraham Hummel, the New York lawyer, who was released from prison on March 16, also was a passenger on the Lusitania. He was cheerful and laughing when he landed and exchanged hearty greetings with friends. He showed no signs of being ill. He received as much attention from the reporters and the photographers as did the duke of the Abruzzi, but he did not take it so pleasantly.

LEGALITY OF SALARY BASIS

For Oil Inspector May be Tested in the Courts.

St. Paul, March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following further exposures in connection with the state oil department which it is said will be made public in a few days, it is probable that the constitutionality of the law placing the department on a salary basis will be attacked.

The suggested legal attack is on the proposition that an attempt will be made to collect some of the discrepancies found and which it is said extend back into administrations prior to the incumbency of Former Inspector J. A. McDermott. Those inspectors against whom the discrepancies will be charged will refuse to pay and then will follow a suit on their bonds.

The placing of the department on a salary basis and its use as a revenue producer is held to be an abuse of the police powers of the state, and those interested in the matter say there is ample authority and decisions in support of the contention. This point was raised when the law was enacted, but no attempt was made to test it.

The new disclosures which it is reported will be made public shortly concern records since located, and which belong to the administration of Fenton G. Warner. It was reported that these records had been destroyed, but a search revealed them in the office, where they had been left.

Butte-Ballaklava closed tight last night with no stock offered at bid prices. They are very near the 700-foot level. Look out for big news from this great mine within the next 30 days, and it may come any minute. Nothing can stop them now, and the stock will steadily crawl up to $40 or $50 a share with only a pause here and there. Butte & Superior also tightened up today and looks to me like much higher prices very soon.

When you buy Butte & Superior at this level, you are playing a safe and sure game. Does any one question that it will be a big mine? In Butte if you question it for a minute they would think you should be put in a straight jacket. I have been in every drift in this property and know its great possibilities. Buy Butte & Superior, for it is one of the coming mines of the Butte camp. Think

CONTRACTS WILL BE LET

Bids Opened for Trunk Sewer and New Culvert.

Hugh Steele Lowest Bidder for the Sewer Contract.

Bids were opened by the board of public works this morning for the construction of a trunk sewer in Ellnor street, Grand avenue and Forty-ninth avenue west, from Central avenue to the bay shore, and for the erection of a culvert across Grand avenue at Forty-ninth avenue west.

The lowest bidder on the sewer job was Hugh Steele, with a bid of $13,653, and on the culvert work, D. H. Clough, with a bid of $450. When the bids were opened, there was a crowd of interested parties in the office of the board, and the bids showed keen competition for the contracts.

The bids on the sewer contract were: George R. King, $14,690; E. Engle, $17,715; J. A. Johnson, $15,294.50; Hugh Steele, $13,653; P. McDonnell, $15,477.50.

On the culvert there were nine bidders. The engineer's estimate of the cost of the work was $500, and the bids were as follows: D. H. Clough, $450; Charles Ecklund, $469.80; P. McDonnell, $483.30; J. A. Johnson, $495; W. H. Kilton, $495; W. E. Kern, $495; Adam McAdams, $549; Johnson & Caren, $549; George R. King, $549.

The board will report to the council at its meeting next Monday evening, awarding the contract to the lowest bidder and requesting confirmation of the ward. The trunk sewer in Ellnor street, Grand avenue and Forty-ninth avenue west, is one of the most important sewer contracts under consideration for this coming season, and work will be rushed on it as soon as the contract is let. An appeal from the assessment has been filed, but it will not interfere with the construction of the sewer.

GUARDS AT PEST HOUSE

Officials to Guard Against Escape of Herton and McDougall.

Threats Are Made to Take Them From Detention Hospital.

In order that threats of escape and rescue, made by John McDougall and John Herton and their friends may be thwarted, Health Commissioner Murray and Sheriff Bates are putting a double guard on at the city detention hospital, and the two men will be watched night and day. Arrangements were being made today for the employment of two deputy sheriffs, either among the patients at the detention hospital, or people who have had smallpox and are immune, so that Herton and McDougall may be guarded at night as well as they are by the day attendants.

Herton, who is being held pending an examination on a charge of grand larceny in connection with burglarizing doctors' offices, was removed to the detention hospital last week from the city jail, after he had spent some time in the county jail. McDougall, who has already been bound over to the grand jury, was taken from the county jail yesterday.

Friends of Herton and McDougall have openly approached health department officials, asking that they be lenient in their guard over the two men, as there was a possibility of their taking themselves away. There were veiled promises that the health department would not lose anything by its leniency. These advances put the department officials on their guard, and Sheriff Bates was immediately notified and the guard at the detntion hospital increased. "We will get the men, no matter what you do," is said to be the statement of one of the men, who approached the health commissioner.

The two men have been denied the use of the telephone and all other communication with friends outside of the detention hospital enclosure. A guard will be placed on them night and day, and should they escape, or be spirited off by friends, they must show more cleverness than what they have already displayed.

If the men do get away, they will be scantily clad, as the city does not clothe its patients at the detention hospital in Fifth avenue style. Their regular clothes are taken from them, and they are garbed in the hospital clothing, which is rather scanty. It is not believed that Herton and McDougall would try to escape while in their present condition, but the guard will be maintained to provide against all attempts now or in the future while the men are at the hospital.

COURT RESERVES DECISION.

Questions of Law Are Raised in Barnesdale Case.

Acting Judge French of the municipal court will render a decision next Monday, with reference to the motion for a dismissal of the case of the state against Dr. John Barnsdale, who is accused of being responsible for the death of Helen Ninas in a Duluth hospital some weeks ago.

The defense maintains that the state has shown no reason to form a belief that Dr. Barnesdale committed the offense charged and has also questioned the jurisdiction of the court to try the case. In view of the questions of law involved Judge French delayed his decision.

If the court rules in favor of the state then the defense will have to go on with the case or else further proceedings, and Dr. Barnesdale will be bound over to one of the higher courts for trial.

The defendant's claim of no jurisdiction was based on the fact that Miss Ninas' death occurred in another state. The state claimed that the Wisconsin courts have jurisdiction and cited the case of Giteau who killed President Garfield. The state maintains the case should be tried where the alleged crime was committed.

Will Test New Ordinance.

A case has been started in Superior to test the validity of the city's tuberculin ordinance. William McCabe, a cattle dealer of New Richmond made no defense of the case brought against him for violating the ordinance and took an appeal when the court imposed a fine of $5. McCabe is said to have sold milch cows in the city, which had not been subjected to the tuberculin test within a year. The defendant claims that it is the duty of the city's veterinary surgeon to make the test without charge. He alleges his arrest came about because he refused to pay the veterinary $14 for testing each carload of cows shipped into the city.

Rents Increased in Superior.

Notices of increased rentals for residences, flats and offices, after May 1, are being sent out from the offices of the rental agents in Superior. It is claimed that the boost in rentals ranges from 20 to 40 per cent. Strong protest is being made against the boost in rents at the present time, the tenants claiming that conditions do not warrant it.

TOO MANY CLAIMANTS.

So Executor Turns Estate Over to the District Court.

Judge Ensign has signed an order directing James Crawford, as executor of the estate of Elizabeth Pelton, to turn all the money and property comprising the estate into the hands of J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court, Mr. Crawford to be relieved from further liability in the matter. The order is the result of a petition to the court by Mr. Crawford.

He represented to the court that Fred H. Pelton, the residuary legatee, who is entitled to the balance of the estate, comprising $286.78 and a piano, inventoried at $40, and E. E. Collins, who has a suit against Pelton, have both served a demand on him, Crawford, for the balance of the estate in his hands. The executor claimed that he was unable to determine to whom he could legally turn over the property.

LAW MAY BE MADE VOID

Demurrage Law Possibly Affected by Liability Decision.

Same Construction Being Placed on Both These Acts.

Railroad attorneys claim that Minnesota's reciprocal demurrage law has been knocked out by the decision of the United States supreme court on the employers' liability law. In that decision the court declared the whole act of congress invalid because it assumed to regulate the whole railroad business, not only interstate but intrastate business. According to the decision, congress went beyond its authority in assuming to regulate commerce within state lines, therefore the law is void.

The claim that Minnesota's reciprocal demurrage law is void is based on the fact that it imposes a penalty for failure to furnish cars when ordered, and does not distinguish between cars ordered for shipments within the state, and those ordered for interstate business. The railroads have always declared the law invalid as to interstate business, and have been ready to contest claims presented of that character. They have, however, paid without protest several claims on cars wanted for shipments within Minnesota.

Now they take the stand that the whole law is void. A demurrage claim for a Minnesota shipment was turned down by the Great Northern a few days ago upon the ground that under the employers' liability decision, the whole demurrage act is void, for the same construction is placed upon both acts.

ARE SATISFIED.

Shippers Not Bothered Over Commodity Rate Law Decision.

Some of the Duluth shippers and receivers of freight profess to be satisfied with the decision putting the Minnesota commodity rate law out of action on the ground that it is unconstitutional, for they regard the decision as another step toward federal control of freight rates, a move seems to be generally desired by business interests.

Inasmuch as state rates make interstate rates, the control by individual state commissions works to the disadvantage of the shipper, it is claimed. The claim is made that the inflexible tariff laws of Iowa and Minnesota are causing the railroads to build up the state border towns, resulting in the new distance tariff law having a tendency to the advancement of border cities in North and South Dakota, putting the Twin Cities and Duluth at a disadvantage. Attention has been called to the fact that the new commodity rate in Minnesota would disarrange the grain rate clear to the Missouri river and eventually beyond.

CHANGES IN TIME.

Great Northern Rearranges Schedule on the Duluth Division.

Beginning next Monday, the Great Northern will make the following changes in time of trains on the Duluth division: Passenger train No. 38 from the range will arrive in the city at 12:30 p. m., instead of at 12:15 p. m., as formerly. No. 37 for Cloquet, Swan River, Hibbing, Virginia and other range points will leave Duluth at 2:20 p. m., instead of 2:35 p. m., as formerly. No. 34, day train from Grand Forks and Cass Lake will arrive in Duluth at 6:35 p. m. instead of 6:51 p. m. as formerly.

DIRECTORS MEET.

Union Pacific Stockholders May Authorize $40,000,000 Issue of Bonds.

New York, March 27.—The directors of the Union Pacific railroad met here today. An official statement announces that the stockholders of the Union Pacific railroad will be called to meet on May 5 to authorize an issue of bonds, for the amount stated, to be secured by mortgage on the company's unmortgaged lines including the Leavenworth, Kansas & Western, and the Topeka and Northwestern. The stockholders will be asked to ratify the taking over of these two roads by the Union Pacific.

It was said that the amount of the bond issue had not yet been determined.

It was reported unofficially that preliminary stays were taken looking to the use of from $40,000,000 to $50,000,00 in bonds. This issue it was said, would provide for the company's financing for a considerable period and only a portion of the bonds would be offered in the near future.

Convention Rate.

Chicago, March 27.—Western railroads yesterday announced that during the national Democratic convention special rates will be in effect as follows:

The round trip between Chicago and Denver, $30; St. Louis and Denver, $25, and between Omaha and Kansas City and Denver, $17.50. The tickets will be good for thirty days from the date of sale and will allow stop-overs at any point west of the Missouri river.

The tickets will be on sale any time after June 1.

Road Reinstated.

Guthrie, Okla., March 27.—The corporation commission, after a hearing, reinstated the Fort Smith & Western railroad and rescinded its previous order requiring it from the state. The railroad had refused to put into effect a 2-cent-a-mile schedule, asserting that by so doing it would lose money. After hearing the railroad officials, the commission decided that the road could continue to do business on a 3-cent basis.

Will Attack Fare Law.

Chicago, March 27.—Presidents and general counsels of railroads in Illinois and Missouri conferred here today, and decided to attack the 2-cent fare laws in those states, and also the freighe rate law in Missouri. The petitions probably will be filed in the state courts and will ask that the laws be declared unconstitutional because of alleged excessive penalties.

JOHNSON IS RECEPTIVE CANDIDATE BUT REFUSES TO SOLICIT NOMINATION

Does Not Believe in Personal Campaign for the Presidency.

No Objection to Presentation of His Name to Convention.

R. T. O'Connor Confident Johnson Will be Nominee at Denver.

St. Paul, March 28.—At the suggestion of Ed A. Stevens, secretary of the Democratic state committee, a letter was written to Governor Johnson by Swan J. Turnblad, publisher of the Swedish-American Post of Minneapolis, on March 23, asking him to state his position in regard to the nomination for president. Mr. Turnblad's letter is as follows:

"Hon. John A. Johnson, St. Paul, Minn.:

"Dear Governor—My answer to constant inquiries as to your plans and status in connection with the Democratic nomination for president, without claiming to speak by authority, but expressly disclaiming it, is that I am satisfied that, while you would appreciate the honor of such a nomination, as would any American citizen, you are in no sense an aggressive candidate; that while undoubtedly pleased with the many kindly sentiments expressed in your behalf, you would personally do nothing to bring about the proposed result—neither would you decline a nomination not tendered or expected.

"I believe this fairly defines your attitude, and will continue to so state unless I hear from you to the contrary.

"Your friend and well wisher,
"SWAN J. TURNBLAD."

Governor Replies.

Yesterday Mr. Turnblad received Governor Johnson's reply. It reads:

"State of Minnesota, Executive Department, St. Paul, March 27, 1908.

"Swan J. Turnblad, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"My dear Mr. Turnblad.—Your letter of the 23rd of March, in which you state that you have been subjected to many inquiries as to my plans and status in connection with the GOVERNOR JOHNSON, Who Is a Receptive Candidate For Presidential Nomination.

LIVELY AT THE CAPITOL

Between Supreme Court Decision and the Presidential Developments.

No Extra Session of Legislature Unless Absolutely Necessary.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Between the supreme court decision and the developments in the presidential game, it has been a lively week at the capitol. There has been no abatement in the Johnson boom, but offers of support and news of Johnson sentiment continue to pour in upon the governor and his associates. The Bryan men naturally took comfort in the North Dakota convention's action, but the Johnson men were not discouraged, as they never made a fight for that state and never expected it to go otherwise than it did. The mere fact that there was so much Johnson sentiment there showed that, if a fight had been made for the delegation, it might have been secured easily.

The supreme court decision and its probable effect has been the cause of considerable speculation and no one yet is certain as to what it means. It is not likely, however, that it means as much as was first thought, and consequently there is little probability of an extra session of the legislature.

DRUG FIENDS TO BE CURED

Physician Gives Demonstration on Morphine Eaters.

New York, March 28.—If the memory of Dr. C. C. Langsdorf is correct, three confirmed morphine eaters will by Monday be entirely cured of the craving. These men are now under treatment at Bellevue hospital, the first dope of Dr. Langsdorf's cure having been administered to them last night. Seventy-two hours is the time which the doctor estimates will be required for his cure to work effectually. In case it is successful, the formula will be made public to the medical profession, that others may profit by it. Dr. Langsdorf is being assisted in his experiments by Dr. Hastings, visiting physician, and Dr. Kearns, the hospital physician in charge of the alcoholic ward of the hospital.

The three patients chosen were such confirmed victims of the morphia habit that each of them was given seven grains of the drug before Dr. Langsdorf administered his corrective dose. One grain of morphine will kill an ordinary man, but the systems of these three men were so saturated with the drug that they had reached the state called 'tolerance' by scientists, which permitted them to take seven grains each without risk to their lives.

Get Full Measure of Drug.

Dr. Langsdorf explains that he desired the patients to have their full accustomed measure of the drug, so that there would be no condition of collapse from lack of it while his potion was at work.

The patients then took the dose of the "cure" provided by Dr. Langsdorf and were put under watch for the night. This morning they will receive their usual portion of morphine just as if they were not under treatment. "It will req uire seventy-two hours to effect a cure," said Dr. Langsdorf. "At the end of that time the three men under treatment will find themselves in the same physical condition in which they were before they took their first dose of morphine. The formula I have prescribed for them awakens and gives back life to the secretive and excretive powers that have been partially paralyzed by the use of the drug. While this is the first public demonstration, it is not the first experiment. I have cured many morphine fiends and only one of the lot has fallen after being cured.

"I have nothing to gain personally by the development of this cure. I am giving it freely to humanity and I gave the prescription to the physicians who witnessed the demonstration and the beginning of the treatment. At the end of seventy-two hours I will give it to the public. And any victim of the drug may use it and cure himself."

HIGH PRAISE FOR STEVENS

Marquis Ito Pays Tribute to the Murdered American.

Tokio, March 28.—Marquis Ito, Japanese resident general of Korea, will leave here for that country on April 2. Today he lunched with the emperor, and afterwards called at the American embassy, when he talked for a long time with Ambassador Thomas L. O'Brien. It is understood that his visit is for the purpose of an interview with the ambassador regarding the death of Mr. Stevens.

Marquis Ito said to the Associated Press today: "I regard the death of Mr. Stevens as a national disaster and a personal loss. He was a loyal friend and servant of Japan and Korea, and both nations mourn his loss. Mr. Stevens wa my personal friend. He was honest and fearless, with a well-balanced mind, and I regarded him as a fine type of the American. He was always a loyal citizen of America, and his memory alone will serve to increase the friendship of my countrymen for his.

"I am returning to Korea determined to pursue a policy, where I hope to restore that country to a condition whereby the mass of the people can live protected from extortion and corruption. I cannot immediately change conditions which have existed for centuries, but I can already see some light ahead. I shall miss Mr. Stevens, who was my fearless assistant during a recent period, when the difficulties of the situation were tremendously increased by the agitation of the foreign friends of the regime."

A movement is on foot to erect a monument to the memory of Mr. Stevens by popular subscription.

GETS MANCHURIAN JOB.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—Edward C. Parker, assistant in the department of horticulture and forestry in the Minnesota school of agriculture, has accepted a position to found an agricultural experiment station at Mukden, Manchuria. He will leave for Manchuria in June.

WIFE OF REPRESENTATIVE NOLAN BRUTALLY BEATEN BY UNKNOWN ASSAILANT

Struck Down by Powerful Man at Minneapolis Home

Who Makes His Escape After Leaving Her for Dead.

No Cause Whatever is Known for the Unexpected Assault.

Minneapolis, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attacked shortly after 10 o'clock at night by a powerfully built man, who was crouching in the shadows, Mrs. W. I. Nolan, wife of the humorist and state representative, was beaten into unconsciousness and left for dead, while her mysterious assailant disappeared in the dark. His wife's cries brought Mr. Nolan quickly to her side. He realized the seriousness of the injuries and set about in an effort to resuscitate her. It was more than an hour before the wounded woman again opened her eyes. The police were notified as soon as possible, but by the time they arrived at the Nolan residence, 2914 West Fortieth street, the assailant had made good use of the delayed pursuit and, although detectives and uniformed officers are still at work on the case, no trace of the man has been discovered. Although painful, Mrs. Nolan's injuries are not serious, the attending physician being more alarmed at the nervous shock, incident to the affair, than the wounds.

There is no known cause for the attack. Three theories are advanced, but with nothing much to prove that Negro Insists John Collins Did Not Murder Father.

Says Plot Was Carried Out by Two Other Negroes.

Emporia, Kan., March 28.—In a signed statement given out here today, Louis T. W. Archer, the negro ex-convict, reiterated his recent charge that two other negroes planned the murder of L. S. Collins, the wealthy Topeka real estate man, for whose killing John Collins, the university student, is now serving a life sentence in the Kansas penitentiary. Archer, who is 40 years old, now for the first time, gives details of the al-

IS NOT GUILTY OF KIDNAPING

Customs Officer Foulkes Released by Canadian Judge.

Winnipeg, March 28.—The case against Customs Officer Foulkes was decided late yesterday afternoon, the judge deciding the prisoner not guilty, and the American official was discharged.

The case was tried before Judge Cameron. The only important witness was Tolton, the farmer, alleged to be guilty of barley smuggling, who alleged that he was kidnaped by Foulkes.

Judge Cameron, in releasing Officer Foulkes, based the discharge on the integrity of the accused American and on his honesty of purpose as guardian of customs.

The judge held that there was no evidence that violence had been used to induce Tolton to cross the line and sign papers admitting himself guilty of smuggling barley.

Judge Cameron apologized on behalf of the Canadian government at the inconvenience to which Foulkes had been subjected.

MRS. HAWKINS HAS NOW SLEPT 52 DAYS

Los Angeles, March 28.—Mrs. Beulah Hawkins has now surpassed all records for long sleeps in this state, according to the authorities at the county hospital here. Today was the fifty-second day of the aged woman's sleep. Feb. 5, she was removed to the hospital and has spoken but two words since. A score of attempts to awaken her have been without success.

DYNAMITE PLACED UNDER WELLS' BED HURLS FORMER OFFICIAL MANY FEET IN AIR

Gen. Bulkeley Wells of Colorado Narrowly Escapes Death.

Is Badly Shaken Up, But Receives No Serious Injury.

Has Been Active in the Prosecution of Western Miners.

Telluride, Colo., March 28.—Former Adjt. Gen. Bukeley Wells narrowly escaped death, or serious injury, at his home here at an early hour this morning, from a well-planned effort to assassinate him with dynamite.

Despite precautions against such an attempt, such as patrols and arc lights about the house, a stick of dynamite, or a prepared bomb, was placed under or near Gen. Wells' bed.

Gen. Wells was sleeping, as was his habit, on an outer porch of the home, and he was hurled with the debris many feet from the wrecked house.

The side of the house was torn completely out, hardly a stick of the bed remained, and fragments of wood were scattered over the neighborhood. Though badly shaken up and bruised to some extent, Gen. Wells is said to have escaped without injury.

Gen. Wells took a leading part in the suppression of labor troubles in this state in 1904-05, and was prominently identified with the recent prosecution of officers of the Western Federation of Miners at Boise. He had been active also in securing the extradition from Idaho of Steve Adams, who is to be tried here on charges of murder in connection with the miners' strike in 1904.

THREE WOMEN KILLED BY LIGHTNING IN MICHIGAN

Howell, Mich., March 28.—Two women were killed during last night's storm, in a farmhouse, twelve miles from here, near Hartland. They were Mrs. Peter North and Miss Carrie Ellis. The bolt of lightning entered the house along an unused telephone wire and killed both of them instantly. Several other persons in the house were not injured.

An unknown woman was also killed by a bolt of lightning while walking along the railroad track near here.

BROKERS IN WILD RUSH

Almost Riot on the Curb Market in New York.

Street Blocked by Struggling Crowd and Traffic Suspended.

New York, March 28.—Scenes almost approaching riot were witnessed on the Broad street curb market today. It resulted from the offering for sale for the first time of shares in a widely advertised mining property. Five minutes before the usual opening hour more than 500 brokers, who had gathered in the street, made a wild rush for the agents to whom the distribution of the new shares had been entrusted.

Ninety per cent of the brokers are said to have had buying orders for this stock, and, in their anxiety to execute their commissions, they fought wildly to reach the men who had stock for sale.

Men and boys were knocked down and trampled in the rush, the street was blocked by the struggling crowd, traffic was suspended, and the shouts and sounds of conflict brought a throng of spectators to the scene. In the meantime the general business of the outdoor market was practically at a standstill. After about an hour, the excitement quieted down.

PREPARING FOR STRIKE.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 28.—Local miners are preparing for the coming strike of the coal miners. All of the mine mules are being offered for sale, apparently in anticipation of a long contest. Already a large supply of coal has been stored at the mines.

NORTH POLE IS SHIFTING

Climate is Also Changing, Says an English Scientist.

Boundaries Between the United States and Canada May Change.

Victoria, B. C., March 28.—That the north pole is shifting and the climate is changing, making the northern territories of this continent warmer and Northern Asia colder, is the theory to support which Moses B. Colworth of York, England, has been gathering evidence in Alaska, from whence he has returned on his way to England. A curious effect of this change, it is said, may be a number of boundary difficulties between Canada and the United States, especially in the eastern portion. The boundary is fixed by latitude, and if the north pole is really moving, the latitudes change also, rendering it advisable that the boundary be speedily marked everywhere by permanent monuments, where it has not been so marked already.

This movement, Colworth says, is caused by the immense accumulations of ice along the Canadian shore of the Arctic ocean, and especially in Baffins Land and Greenland.

The incalculable weight of the mass is, by the force of gravity, slowly pushing the crust of the earth and consequently the north pole and the Arctic over towards Siberia, where there are no immense accumulations of glacial ice to counteract the movement.

The result is that North America and Europe are becoming warmer and Siberia and Asia generally colder.

HIRE FORTY LECTURERS

Chicago, March 28.—The liquor interests of Illinois have adopted a genuine Chautauqua plan to combat the sudden uprising of prohibition that threatens to make considerable dry territory on April 7, election day.

The only difference between the liquor men's Chautauqua scheme and the ordinary kind is that its forty lecturers are restricted as to their subjects of address to the anti-prohibition topic.

This unusual move began when W. E. Hull, general manager of a Peoria distillery opened headquarters in Chicago.

"I have forty lecturers in the field, mostly preachers and women," said Mr. Hull last night.

"In the coming week they will make 300 speeches in all the principal towns of the state."

Mr. Hull who will keep his anti-prohibition quarters open until after election, said he was working under the auspices of the manufacturers and dealers' association of Illinois.

TO LAY FIRST STONE OF A DAM 315 FEET HIGH.

Butte, Mont., March 28.—The first stone in the highest dam ever erected in the world will be laid with appropriate exercises today on the Shoshone river in Wyoming, according to a statement of Henry N. Savage, supervising engineer in the Northwest of the reclamation service.

Preliminary work on the big Shoshone dam to conserve the waters of the river for irrigation purposes has been under way for more than two years and the excavation for the foundations has been completed. When finished the dam will be 315 feet in height.

TO CLOSE RESORTS.

South Bend, Ind., March 28.—Forced to action by a committee of fifty prominent citizens, the common council last night ordered all questionable resorts, including gambling houses and alley saloons nmmediately closed. During the last year, South Bend has been the most wide open city in Indiana.

LAWYER TO SAVE ORCHARD'S LIFE

Will Ask Pardon Board to Commute Death Sentence.

Boise, Idaho, March 28.—The state pardon board will meet in regular session next Wednesday and in order to take up for consideration the matter of remitting the sentence of death pronounced upon Harry Orchard, the confessed murderer of Frank Steunenberg, it will be necessary that an application for clemency be filed with the board.

In sentencing Orchard Judge Wood recommended to the board that the death sentence of Orchard be remitted. The attorney general has given an ophion that under the laws of Idaho, the pardon board cannot act upon Judge Wood's recommendation alone, that an application must be made to it in Orchard's behalf. Yesterday Frank T. Wyman, Orchard's attorney, by virtue of appointment by the court, visited Orchard in the penitentiary, explained the situation to him and urged him to make such application and agree to make application before the pardon board in person. Orchard emphatically refused to do so. He said he had committed the crime, and felt that he should pay the full penalty.

Mr. Wyman said last night: "If no one else will make the proper application, I will make it myself. It will be my duty as Orchard's attorney."

Under no circumstances can the board act upon the application at the Wednesday meeting and the application has to be filed four weeks before the board can finally act. The date set for sentence is May 15.

The pardon board meets regularly every three months and if action is taken in the matter it will be necessary to call a special meeting of the board the last of April or the first part of May.

$1,500,000 FOR SANATORIUM.

Battle Creek Institution Must Build Branch at Atlantic City.

Battle Creek, Mich., March 28.—Charles E. Wood, a Washington millionaire who died recently, left nearly $1,500,000 to the Battle Creek sanatorium, on the condition that a branch be built at Atlantic City, N. J. Dr. John H. Kellogg, head of the sanitorium, having recently been expelled from the Adventist church, which had supported the institution, says the bequest makes the hospital independent. He had not expected the bequest to be more than $200,000.

VENEZUELANS GROWING ANGRY

Caracas, Venezuela, March 25, via Willemstad, Curacoa, March 28.—W. W. Russell, the American Minister to Venezuela, in a note dated March 21, advised Dr. Jose Dojesus Paul, the Venezuelan foreign minister, that three pouches of official mail that were brought into La Guaira on March 15 by the steamer Zulia for the American cruiser Tacoma, had been opened in the La Cuaira postoffice. The Tacoma arrived at La Cuaira March 15 and is still there. Mr. Russell said it was a very serious thing to break the seal of navy correspondence and he asked for an investigation.

Mr. Paul answered Mr. Russell's note yesterday, enclosing a report from the La Guaira postmaster. He said the opening of the pouches in question was accidental and was due to the fact that the seals on them were similar to others in use in the La Guaira postoffice that it was customary to open. In addition, Dr. Paul said that only a prejudiced mind could call this occurrence "very serious," as the contents of the pouches had not been disturbed.

The incident of the mail bags, coupled with the return of the Tacoma to La Guaira today, has caused the greatest excitement in Caracas. El Constitutionale, President Gastro's organ, publishes an editorial article, entitled: "What Does Roosevelt Want?" in which it declares that Secretary Root, under the influence of the president, and inspired by Americans holding claims against Venezuela, is following a premeditated plan to create a conflict with this republic. The paper says the United States purposes to raise the flag of conquest in South America and that the American government does not intend to recognize the finality of the decision reached by the Venezuelan courts and the mixed commissioners.

DAUGHTERS ALL INSANE

Also Investigates Case of Milwaukee Contract Laborers.

Inspector-in-Charge William H. Dean of the local United States immigration office returned today from Milwaukee, where he has been investigating the case of two men who, it is claimed, were brought into the country in violation of the contract labor laws. They are millers, and probably will be deported. Mr. Dean also investigated the case of an insane girl who formerly resided at Junction City, Wis., to find whether she was eligible for deportation from Manitoba, where she resides at present, to her old home.

The latter case touched the heart of Mr. Dean. He found the girl to be the daughter of a farmer living four miles out of Junction City. When he arrived at the house he learned that two of her sisters were also insane, and confined in upstairs rooms, that were heavily barred with iron to prevent their escape. The farmer's name is Kettleson. The girl now in Manitoba will be sent back to Junction city, for she is a citizen of the United States, and eligible for deportation from Canada, just as an insane Canadian in the United States would be a subject for deportation to Canada.

Charles Hills and James R. Anderson are the two men suspected of being contract laborers. It is claimed that they entered into contract to work in Milwaukee while they were residents of Manitoba. It is understood that they were released admittance into the United States at one point, but later manager to evade the immigration authorities and get across the border. Mr. Dean had them arrested while conducting the investigation, but later they were released on $1,000 bail. The matter has been reported to the department at Washington, and probably the men will be ordered deported. The millers who brought them into the United States are subject to a heavy fine if found guilty of the charge.

ATTEMPT TO ROB OAK HALL FAILS

A broken pane of glass and a woman's screams prevented a burglary at the Oak Hall company's store, last night. The intruders fled when they broke the glass and a woman put her head out of a bedroom window and screamed.

The thieves cut out a lower panel in a rear door of the store, and reaching a hand through the aperture, turned the key in the lock from the inside and loosened the lower bolt. The upper bolt on the inside of the door, however, was what stopped the robbers.

In trying to unfasten the upper bolt, the thieves broke the glass in the upper part of the door. It broke with a loud crash and a school teacher who rooms in the building stuck her head out of the window and espied the men. She thinks there were two. She gave one shriek and the burglars took to their heels. They did not succeed in entering the store at all.

HENRY WILSON UNDER GUARD AT HOSPITAL

Passes Night of Agony, Watched by Two Policemen.

Boy Tells Police His Father Had Killed a Man.

With his face contorted with fearful pain, the agony of which every now and then convulses his body, Henry Wilson, the murderer of his wife and victim of an attempt to take his own life, lies at the Duluth hospital, West Duluth.

All night last night he groaned and muttered, every now and then getting out of bed and trying to walk to the window, through which the police feared he would throw himself if given the opportunity, so a double guard was placed over him from 12 o'clock until 8 this morning, when he became quieter. There is but one officer on watch now.

Dr. Graham said concerning Wilson's condition this morning: "He is in a very serious way and I cannot say whether he will recover or not. The bullet passed through the esophagus and probably lodged in the spine down. We have not located it yet."

Unable to Talk.

This morning a Herald reporter attempted to talk with him. He was sitting propped up with pillows, his head sunk on one side and his eyes half closed. He seemed in intense pain and groaned and coughed continually. The officer sat in the corner of the room, never leaving him for a moment, so great is their fear that he will again try to take his life.

He would not say a word about the cause of his act. When asked whom he suspected of having supplanted him in his wife's affections, he ground his teeth and a faint gleam came into his half-closed eyes. But he would not open his mouth to say a word. When questioned how he felt, he whispered, hardly audible, "My neck," and moved his hand up and down his right arm, as if that also hurt him. They said at the hospital that it was almost impossible for him to talk much and that he could neither eat nor drink, except to take a very little water.

Chief Troyer said this morning at the headquarters that Wilson told him that he had killed his wife and felt justified in doing so.

There are many rumors and ideas as to the cause of the jealousy that incited Wilson to kill his wife. It is generally known that Wilson had often quarreled with his wife over her playing the piano at the Elco tienter, which, he is said to have claimed, she used as a blind to stay away late at night, sometimes until 2 o'clock in the morning.

The body of Mrs. Wilson is lying at Pillatrault's undertaking rooms. Above the left temple there is a deep hole, where one of the bullets grazed her head, in her throat there is a bullet hole and another on the left side. One lodged almost in the center of her breast. Either of the last named would have proved fatal.

She was a very pretty little woman, very small, with brown hair and blue eyes. Her beauty was the cause of her husband's jealousy and of her death.

Was Sword Swallower.

At the West Duluth police station this morning William Wilson, the 11-year-old son of the couple, gave the address of his father's father as 609 Potter street, East side, Saginaw. He said that both his father's parents are living, but not together, as they had separated some years ago. The boy also said that his father, Henry Wilson, had been in the circus business before he married his mother. While in the circus he had done glass and nail-eating and sword-swallowing stunts. He said that even after he had come to Duluth he had earned his living on the stage.

Says Father Was Murderer.

The boy told another story. He said that once his mother had confided in him a short time ago that she intended soon to leave his father again, not alone because he treated her cruelly and because she was afraid of his killing her, as he threatened to do several times, but because he was a murderer. The boy says that his mother told him that his father had killed a young man in a saloon, but where and when Willie did not know. Whether this is purely a story of the boy's imagination, or whether the mother just told him it to get his sympathy is not known. The boy said that as soon as his mother got away from his father she was going to let the police know about his crime so that they would lock him up, and then he could not harm her.

This morning, Dr. David Graham held a post mortem over the body of the murdered woman at Pillatrault's undertaking rooms. Many curious people visited the rooms, anxious to see the lifeless little body.

Tonight Coroner McCuen will hold the inquest.

The gun used by Wilson in killing his wife was a six-shooter bulldog 32-caliber revolver. Out of the six chambers, he used five cartridges, three bullets went into his wife's body, one into the house, one into his neck and the last cartridge was found, unexploded in the yard by the gun, after he had thrown it away.

SCIENTIFIC CURES OF MEN

Wrought By Progressive Medical Specialists With Most Modern Scientific Devices and Dissolving Process.

Every Scientific Medical Doctor knows this to be a fact, that the extremely hard struggle for existence, the stress and strain, the overtaxation on the human Nervous System, and the living on artificial foods has brought on diseases which were practically unknown to our forefathers. The Doctor with a general practice, no matter how schooled he may be, has neither time nor knowledge of chronic and special diseases, for if he is attending to acute diseases, accidents, etc., he has more to do than he really can attend to.

Incurable Diseases Often Curable.

It is on account of this lack of knowledge that people often get the impression that really "curable diseases" are incurable; yes, often they are told that certain maladies are not to be cured, and the poor victim which could have lived, was taken the last hope of Life, and that killed the patient quicker than the disease would. Blood and Skin diseases, Specific and secret troubles require the attention of Specialists. Often doctors call themselves Specialists, while they have no knowledge or skill of these diseases; others come here once every month, while the disease of the patient requires the attention of the Specialist every day of the week. The successful Specialist Never leaves his office, and how could he, if he had to take these heavy scientific appliances along, as the X-Ray, Finsenlight, etc., which have a weight of 1,500 pounds or more? Specialists who leave their place of Home do this because they don't find enough patients to experiment on at home, or else they would stay and have the people come to them.

Quacks Who Prey on Public Killed By Science.

People who have never looked into a Medical College, never burned any midnight oil to study the structure and anatomy, the Physiology and cause of suffering of the human body. These are the people who wrap themselves in mystery, and proclaim themselves "Wonderworkers, Healers, Magnetic Doctors, Faith Doctors, and heaven knows what else. And people have stumbled blindly into the hands of senseless quacks, of fake doctors, who prey on the public with a thousand sure "Cure-alls," that work no more scientific cure any better than the negroe's vaunted "rabbit's foot."

Necessity of Men's Specialists in Duluth.

Physicians of standing and profound medical training saw the necessity of Specializing, they have devoted their life and labor to chronic and specific diseases of men alone and by years of hard work in German and American Hospitals and Colleges by research work and experiments they have won experience and knowledge of Blood, Skin and chronic Diseases of man as only the very best of Specialists can claim. Such an organization is the Progressive Medical Association of Duluth. In the treatment of so-called "Men's Diseases" they have had scarcely a failure in their cures. In all these years since 1880 that we have been in Duluth, Success has crowned nearly every effort and it has done so because we have brought to bear on every case every bit of scientific Knowledge that the world of Medical Scientists knows at the present time on these diseases, which are peculiar to the sex of men.

Every Quack, every Magnetic Doctor, and who knows what kind of other quack and faker do pretend to heal diseases which are really only diseases of the mine or imaginary, but any rent disease like Cancer, Syphilis, Ulcers, Tumors, etc., these quacks who never received any Diplomas of any Medical College, know anything about the nature of real diseases, they find that they are up against it, "for only men of training can take care of these cases, the quakes, however, take care only too often of the money of these poor victims who fall to their prey.

The Doctors of our association have gained their skill and knowledge only in the best of European and American Colleges and have searched for years the ways and means and methods to cure successfully Men's Diseases and have done this with all the energy and perseverance which is second nature to German Scholars.

Cure Chronic Maladies of All Varieties.

Heartburn, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Gallstone, Gravel, Headache, Lumbago, Sciatica, Bladder Trouble, Stricture, Varicocele, Hydrocecle, Rupture and Rectal Diseases we cure without Operation by Hyperdermic Injection and Dissolving Process. Also Piles, Fistula, all Skin diseases, Eczema, Itch, Prurigo, Blood Poison, Impurity of Blood, Lung trouble, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Ear, Nose and Throat trouble, Bowel and Stomach diseases, Nervousness, Melancholia, Paralysis, Nervous Indigestion and all other chronic maladies.

Testimonials and Letters

Of hundreds of cured men are in our office for the inspection of every one interested. The matter of men's diseases is of no little delicacy, as many and most of our patients are known locally and we don't find it necessary to boast with names of people living elsewhere. To this method only Doctors of Law standing or Quacks find it necessary to resort to.

Our method is strictly scientific. All consultations are free to everybody.

Better call at once, if you can't write. Diseases never grow better, always worse. Don't delay your calling.

NEITHER BILL RIGHT.

Commercial Club Committee Finds Flaws in Currency Bills.

For two weeks a committee composed of H. H. Phelps, L. A. Barnes, W. B. Getchell has been investigating the Aldrich and Fowler currency bills, as the result of a communication from the Merchants' association of New York, asking the West Duluth Commercial club to endorse the Fowler bill and recommend it to the Minnesota representatives at Washington. Last night at the club's meeting, the committee proposed the following resolutions, which were adopted after some discussion and will be sent to the representatives and congressmen from this district:

"Resolved, that this club does not agree with all of the features of any currency bills yet introduced in congress. We doubt the wisdom of an asset currency bill, as it revolutionizes our financial system and places us on an experimental basis. We believe that whatever legislation is enacted, some provision for the protection of bank depositors should be made.

"A large portion of the circulating medium of the country is constantly in hiding through fear of the banks. Remove this fear and we fully believe that the country will have money enough.

"We agree with Senator Nelson that the provision of law allowing banks to carry a large portion of their reserves in so-called reserve centers is unwise and dangerous. It has the effect of piling up the money of the country in New York city, where, in order to profitably use it, speculation must be resorted to.

"In our opinion the cause of the recent panic was wild speculation with the funds of bank depositors and life insurance policy holders, which funds were in reach of the brokers of Wall street. A continuous reasonable distribution of the circulation medium throughout the country will steady business and prevent unreasonable speculation."

Caracas, Venezuela, March 25, via Willemstad, Curacao, March 28.—W. W. Russell, the American minister to Venezuela, in a note dated March 21, informed Dr. Jose Lopoxos Paul, the Venezuelan foreign minister, that three pouches of office mail that were brought into La Guayra on March 15 by the steamer Zulia for the American consul, Te mis, had been opened in the La Guayra postoffice and found to contain a letter from Mr. Russell and a very serious thing to break the seal of any correspondence and he asked for an investigation.

Dr. Paul answered Mr. Russell's note yesterday, enclosing a report from the La Guayra postmaster. He said the opening of the pouches in question was accidental; was due to the fact that the seals on them were similar to others in use in the Venezuelan postoffice; that it was customary to open in addition to the Paul mail that only is prohibited mail matter, or mail of the post office department itself.

The latter case touched the heart of Mr. Bowen, who is charge d'affaires here, and caused him to cable a protest to Washington. Dr. Paul's note, which is regarded as very serious, is of a character that has not existed between the two countries for many years.

The latest news in the case, together with the report of the Venezuelan postoffice, has caused the greatest excitement in Caracas. El Constitucional, Prestige Gutierrez organ, publishes an editorial article, entitled "Why Does Roosevelt Want to Intervene?" and says that Secretary Root, under the influence of the speeches and threats of American politicians, is following a premeditated plan to create a conflict with the republic. The paper says the United States proposes to close the door of conquest in South America and that the American government does not intend to recognize the destiny of the Latin race ordained by the Venezuelan courts and the arbitral commissioners.

Also Investigates Case of Milwaukee Contract Laborers.

Inspector-in-Charge William H. Dean of the local United States immigration office returned today from Milwaukee, where he has been investigating the case of two men who, it is claimed, were brought into the country in violation of the contract labor laws. They are millers, and probably will be deported. Mr. Dean also investigated the case of an insane girl who formerly resided at Junction City, Wis., to find whether she was eligible for deportation from Manitoba, where she resides at present, to her old home.

The latter case touched the heart of Mr. Dean. He found the girl to be the daughter of a farmer living four miles out of Junction City. When he arrived at the house he learned that two of her sisters were also insane, and confined in upstairs rooms, that were heavily barred with iron to prevent their escape. The farmer's name is Kettleson. The girl now in Manitoba will be sent back to Junction city, for she is a citizen of the United States, and eligible to deportation from Canada, just as an insane Canadian in the United States would be a subject for deportation to Canada.

Charles Hills and James R. Anderson are the two men suspected of being contract laborers. It is claimed that they entered into contract to work in Milwaukee while they were residents of Manitoba. It is understood that they were recognized at once into the United States at one point, but later managed to evade the immigration authorities and get across the border. Mr. Dean had them arrested while conducting the investigation, but the charges were released on $1,000 bail. The matter has been reported to the department at Washington, and probably the men will be ordered deported. The million who brought them into the United States are subject to a heavy fine if found guilty of the charge.

ATTEMPT TO ROB OAK HALL FAILS

A broken pane of glass and a woman's screams prevented a burglary at the Oak Hall company's store, last night. The intruders fled when they broke the glass and a woman put her head out of a bedroom window and screamed.

The thieves cut out a lower panel in a rear door of the store, and reaching a hand through the aperture, turned the key in the lock from the inside and loosened the lower bolt. The upper bolt on the inside of the door, however, was what stopped the robbers.

In trying to unfasten the upper bolt, the thieves broke the glass in the upper part of the door. It broke with a loud crash and a school teacher who looms in the building stuck her head out of the window and espied the men. She thinks there were two. She gave one shriek and the burglars took to their heels. They did not succeed in entering the store at all.

HENRY WILSON UNDER GUARD AT HOSPITAL

Boy Tells Police His Father Had Killed a Man.

With his face contorted with fearful pain, the agony of which every now and then convulses his body, Henry Wilson, the murderer of his wife and victim of an attempt to take his own life, lies at the Duluth hospital, West Duluth.

All night last night he groaned and muttered, every now and then getting out of bed and trying to walk to the window, through which the police feared he would throw himself if given the opportunity, so a double guard was placed over him from 12 o'clock until 5 this morning, when he became quieter. There is but one officer on watch now.

Dr. Graham said concerning Wilson's condition this morning: "He is in a very serious way and I cannot say whether he will recover or not. The bullet passed through the esophagus and probably followed the spine down. We have not located it yet."

Unable to Talk.

This morning a Herald reporter attempted to talk with him. He was sitting propped up with pillows, his head sunk on one side and his eyes half closed. He seemed in intense pain and groaned and coughed continually. The officer sat in the corner of the room, never leaving him for a moment, so great is their fear that he will again try to take his life.

He would not say a word about the cause of his act. When asked whom he suspected of having supplanted him in his wife's affections, he groaned his teeth and a faint gloom came into his half-closed eyes, but he would not open his mouth to say a word. When questioned how he felt, he whispered, hardly audible, "My neck," and moved his hand up and down his right arm, as if that was what hurt him. They said at the hospital that it was almost impossible for him to talk much and that he could neither eat nor drink, except to take a very little water.

Chief Troyer said this morning at the headquarters that Wilson told him that he had killed his wife and felt justified in doing so.

There are many rumors and ideas as to the cause of the jealousy that incited Wilson to kill his wife. It is generally known that Wilson had often quarreled with his wife over her playing the piano at the Elco hotel, which, he is said to have claimed, she used as a blind to stay away late at night, sometimes until 2 o'clock in the morning.

The body of Mrs. Wilson is lying at Pihatrault's undertaking rooms. Above the left temple there is a deep hole, where one of the bullets grazed her head, in her chest there is a higher hole and another on the left side. One lodged almost in the center of her breast. Either of the last named would have proved fatal.

She was a very pretty little woman, very small, with brown hair and blue eyes. Her beauty was the cause of her husband's jealousy and of her death.

Was Sword Swallower.

At the West Duluth police station this morning William Wilson, the 11-year-old son of the couple, gave the address of his father's father as 690 Potter street, East side, Saginaw. He said that both his father's parents are living, but not together, as they had separated some years ago. The boy also said that his father, Henry Wilson, had been in the circus business before he married his mother. While in the circus he had done glass and nail-eating and sword-swallowing stunts. He said that even after he had come to Duluth he had earned his living on the stage.

Says Father Was Murderer.

The boy told another story. He said that once his mother had confided to him a short time ago that she intended soon to leave his father again, not alone because he treated her cruelly and because she was afraid of his killing her, as he threatened to do several times, but because he was a murderer. The boy says that his mother told him that his father had killed a young man in a saloon, but when and when Willie did not know. Whether this is purely a story of the boy's imagination, or whether the mother just told him it to get his sympathy is not known. The boy said that as soon as his mother got away from his father she was going to let the police know about his crime so that they would lock him up, and then he could not harm her.

This morning, Dr. Lachi Graham held a post mortem over the body of the murdered woman at Pihatrault's undertaking rooms. Many curious people visited the rooms, anxious to see the lifeless little body.

Tonight Coroner McCuen will hold the inquest.

The gun used by Wilson in killing his wife was a six-shooter bulldog 32-caliber revolver. Out of the six chambers, he used five cartridges, three bullets went into his wife's body, one into the house, one into his neck and the last cartridge was found, unexploded in the yard by the gun, after he had thrown it away.

Commercial Club Committee Finds Flaws in Currency Bills.

For two weeks a committee composed of H. H. Phelps, L. A. Barnes, W. H. Gotchell has been investigating the Aldrich and Fowler currency bills as the result of a statement of New York Merchants' association of New York, asking the West Duluth Commercial club to endorse the Fowler bill and recommend it to the Minnesota congressional delegation at Washington. Last night at the club's meeting, the committee presented the following resolutions, which were adopted after some discussion and will be sent to the representatives and congressmen from this district:

"Resolved, That this club does not agree with all of the features of any currency bills yet introduced in congress. We doubt the wisdom of an asset currency bill, as it revolutionizes our financial system and places us on an experimental basis. "In our opinion the cause of the recent panic was wild speculation with the funds of bank depositors and the insurance policy holders, which funds were in reach of the brokers of Wall street. NEITHER BILL RIGHT.

Commercial Club Committee Finds Flaws in Currency Bills.

For two weeks a committee composed of H. H. Phelps, L. A. Barnes, W. H. Gotchell has been investigating the Aldrich and Fowler currency bills as the result of a statement of New York Merchants' association of New York, asking the West Duluth Commercial club to endorse the Fowler bill and recommend it to the Minnesota congressional delegation at Washington. Last night at the club's meeting, the committee presented the following resolutions, which were adopted after some discussion and will be sent to the representatives and congressmen from this district:

"Resolved, That this club does not agree with all of the features of any currency bills yet introduced in congress. We doubt the wisdom of an asset currency bill, as it revolutionizes our financial system and places us on an experimental basis. We believe that whatever legislation is enacted, some provision for the protection of bank depositors should be made.

"A large portion of the circulating medium of the country is constantly in hiding through fear of the banks. Remove this fear and we have before us the country will have money enough.

"We agree with Senator Nelson that the provision of law allowing banks to carry a large portion of their reserves in specified reserve centers is unwise and dangerous. It has the effect of piling up the money of the country in New York city, where, in order to profitably loan it, speculation must be resorted to.

"In our opinion the cause of the recent panic was wild speculation with the funds of bank depositors and the insurance policy holders, which funds were in reach of the brokers of Wall street. A minimum reasonable distribution of the circulating medium throughout the country will stand idleness and prevent unreasonable speculation."

Hospitals and Colleges by research work and experiments they have won experience and knowledge of Blood, Skin and chronic Diseases of man as only the very best of Specialists can gain. Such an organization is the Progressive Medical Association of Duluth. In the treatment of so-called "Men's Diseases" they have had scarcely a failure in their cures. In all these years since '88 that we have been in Duluth, Success has crowned nearly every effort and it has done so because we have learned to beat on every case every bit of Scientific Knowledge that the world of Medical Science knows. Many quacks, however, take care only to get a of the money of these poor victims who fall to their prey. The Doctors of our Association have gained their skill and knowledge only by the best of European and American Colleges and have searched for years the ways and means and methods for the successful cure of Men's Diseases and have done this with all the energy and perseverance which is second nature to a man Scholars.

The matter of men's diseases is no little delicacy, as many and most of our patients are known locally and we don't find it necessary to boast with names of people living elsewhere. Incurable Diseases Often Curable.

It is on account of the lack of knowledge that people get the impression that really curable diseases are incurable; yes, often a day are told that certain maladies are not to be cured, and the poor victim will go and bleed, was taken, the last hope of life, and that killed the patient quicker than the disease would. Blood and Skin diseases, Specific Blood poisons, Private diseases, etc., are the ones that often doctors fail themselves specialists, while they have no knowledge or skill of these diseases, others who have one or two month, wait till these specialists have made a fortune at the patient's expense. Then they stopped. The Specialist every day of the week. The successful Specialist Never leaves his office, as I here said he, or he failed to take these heavy medicines, such as mercury, Iodide potash, Sarsaparilla, etc., which have a weight of 150 pounds or more. Specialists who leave their patients at home to take journeys to the old land enough to get a change of air, stay at home, or else to my world stay and have the people come to them.

Quacks Who Prey on Public Killed By Science.

People who have never looked into a Medical College, never burned the midnight oil to study the human body and anatomy, the Physiology and cause of suffering of the human body. These are the people who wrap themselves in mystery and proclaim to be "Wonderworkers." Healers, Magnetic Doctors, Faith Doctors, and I never knows what else. And people are stumpled right into their hands and senseless quacks of fake letters, who prey on the public with a thousand sure "Curealls," that work no more scientific cure any better than the negro's vaunted rabbit's foot.

Necessity of Men's Specialists in Duluth.

Physicians of standing and profound medical training saw the necessity of Specializing, they have devoted their life and labor to learn and cure the diseases of men, after and from the hard work in German and American Hospitals and Colleges by research work and experiments they have won experience and knowledge of Blood, Skin and chronic Diseases of man as only the very best of Specialists can gain. Such an organization is the Progressive Medical Association of Duluth. In the treatment of so-called "Men's Diseases" they have had scarcely a failure in their cures. In all these years since '88 that we have been in Duluth, Success has crowned nearly every effort and it has done so because we have learned to beat on every case every bit of Scientific Knowledge that the world of Medical Scientists knows at the present time on these diseases, which are peculiar to the sex of men.

Every Quack, every Magnetic Doctor, and who knows what kind of other quick and Liker do pretend to heal diseases which are really only diseases of the mind or monetary, but any real disease like Cancer, Syphilis, Ulcers, Tumors, etc., these quacks who never traveled the Diploma of any Medical College, know anything about the nature of real diseases, they and their they are up against it, for only men of training can take care of these cases the quakes do however, take care only to get a of the money of these poor victims who fall to their prey. The Doctors of our association have gained their skill and knowledge only by the best of European and American Colleges and have searched for years the ways and means and methods for the successful cure of Men's Diseases and have done this with all the energy and perseverance which is second nature to a man Scholars.

THE COME AND SEE SIGN

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

What Does This Sign Mean?

It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of doing business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and aboveboard."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Is it a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs — without drugs?

Come and See.

Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we are told?

Come and See.

Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there any Mrs. Pinkham now to whom sick woman are asked to write?

Come and See.

Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted by women only, and are the letters kept strictly confidential?

Come and See.

Have they really got letters from over one million, one hundred thousand women correspondents?

Come and See.

Have they proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women?

Come and See.

This advertisement is only for doubters. The great army of women who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female ills will still go on using and being benefited by it; but the poor doubting, suffering woman must, for her own sake, be taught confidence, for she also might just as well regain her health.

"Parsifal."

The big spectacular production of "Parsifal," in English, will be given at the Lyceum this evening, a matinee being presented this afternoon. The performance consists of a dramatic setting of the famous story of "Parsifal," which is familiar to all students of either German or English literature. An elaborate scenic setting is said to have been provided by the company, which will be seen here. The engagement is for one night only, with the matinee this afternoon.

The Strong Man

In this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST Dr. William Lee Howard discusses muscular development. He tells what, in his opinion, is the worst form of exercise; why much modern physical culture is a fallacy, why the three-mile boat race is better than the four-mile, what "warming up" really signifies, how pugilists are beaten by a liver, and the meaning of fatigue poisons.

"Memories of Authors," in this same issue, form the continuation of William Winter's reminiscences. He speaks charmingly of his Boston Bohemian friends—including a verbal duel, in bed, between Fitz-James O'Brien and Donald McLeod, on the relative merits of the Scotch and Irish races.

To Owners of Bad Breath—

Foul Odor of Indigestion, Smoking Eating or Drinking Stopped at Once With Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trial Package To Prove It Sent Free.

Bilious breathers, onion eaters, indigestion, victims, cabbage consumers, smokers, drinkers and those with gas on the stomach are in a class all by themselves, distinguished by a powerful bad breath.

They all breathe, and as they breathe, they whiff out odor which makes those standing near turn their heads away in disgust. The pitiable part of it is that these victims do not realize what a sickening thing a bad, offensive breath is to others.

Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of gases and odors. It aesorbs 100 times its own volume of gas.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will put a stop to your bad, offensive breath, and to your belchings, whatever the cause or source, because the charcoal quickly absorbs all noxious, unnatural odors and gases.

If you suffer from indigestion and belch gas as a result, Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will absorb all the gas and make you stop belching.

If on getting up in the morning you have such a bad, bilious breath that you can almost smell it yourself, Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will get rid of it for you quickly.

If you have been smoking or chewing, or have been eating onions or other odorous things, Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges will make your breath pure and sweet.

Charcoal is also the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

And then, too, it filters your blood,—every particle of poison and impurity in your blood is destroyed, and you begin to notice the difference in your face first thing,—your clear complexion.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal, and just a little honey is put in to make them palatable, but not too sweet.

They will work wonders in your stomach, and make you feel fine and fresh. Your blood and breath will be purified. You will feel clean inside.

We want to prove all this to you, so just send for a free sample today. Then after you get it and use it, you will like them so well that you will go to your druggist and get a 2c box of these Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

LISTENS TO IDLE GOSSIP

About His Wife, and Then Biwabik Man Threatens Murder.

John Vrobel of Biwabik listens to idle gossip and slanderous tales about his wife and goes home ever and anon with the intention of killing her, according to reports to the Duluth Humane society. Twice he has caused her to flee with her children to the neighbors, and the humane society is investigating the case.

Vrobel is said to be insanely jealous of his wife and broods over reports of her conduct he hears from time to time. This trait is said to be very marked in his entire family, two brothers being similarly afflicted.

The first time Mrs. Vrobel's life was threatened she was rocking one of her babies to sleep. Her husband came home somewhat under the influence of liquor and informed her he would kill her after she had put the baby to bed. He fell asleep before the baby did, however, and the woman fled. Vrobel was under bonds to keep the peace and now is said to have violated their provisions. Mrs. Vrobel declines to return to him.

CHURCH HAD VERY PROSPEROUS YEAR

Virginia, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the recent annual meeting of the Presbyterian church five trustees were elected. The church was well filled at the meeting, and all entered with zest into the program of the evening.

Five trustees were elected, S. A. Reid and Henry King being elected to succeed themselves, and M. R. Wasson, William Miller and W. R. Emerson being elected for one, two and three years respectively, to conform to the rotary plan of the board.

This meeting developed the fact that the past year was the most prosperous in the history of the church. Extensive improvements were made on both the parsonage and the church during the year, and the church is practically out of debt, less than $300 being unprovided for, and through the wisdom and activity of its officers there is much to show for the money spent.

The annual report showed the following:

	Received.	Expended.
Current expenses	$1,255.57	$1,266.18
Improvement	2,879.50	3,315.15
Benevolence	150.00	150.00
Total	$4,265.07	$4,731.33

Uncollected subscriptions, $240; new members received, 21; losses during the year, 16; present membership, 112.

D. B. McDonald is president of the board of trustees, Mrs. James Shields is president of the Ladies' Aid, Miss Eva Trimble is president of the Y. P. S. C. E., L. Sackett is president of the Help-a-Man club, and William Rice is president of the Junior Boys' club.

The ladies served a liberal lunch in the new basement at the close of the meeting.

LOSES HIS LIFE PLAYING IN MILL

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral was held here Wednesday afternoon from the Catholic church of Francis Paul Decker, aged 5 years, who lost his life by being injured in the pulp mill of the Itasca Paper company early in the week.

Disobedience of the rules of the company and paying no attention to the warnings of employes probably cost the little fellow his life. According to one report of the affair, young Decker, with his brother Lawrence and Fred Smith, both older, were playing about the plant. Although the boys had been ordered not to use the freight elevator, boy-like they persisted, with fatal results for one of the Deckers. The boys got on the elevator to ride from the basement to the main floor, but about the time that the elevator got in motion, they saw the night watchman who had just come on duty, coming to drive them away. The two older boys jumped while the lift was still only a short distance from the floor, but it seems that the little boy, Francis Decker, hesitated about getting off, and that when the elevator had gone up several feet, jumped off and fell, the fall evidently breaking his neck. He was found dead a few minutes later by the night watchman. Another version is that after the other boys had jumped off the elevator, the youngest boy looked down between the beams between which the weights which help to balance the elevator run, and that the weight caught his head and broke his neck, and that he then fell to the floor.

CREDIT SYSTEM EVILS

Eveleth, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A case that comes from the system of credit, that is universally used on the range, was tried yesterday afternoon before a jury of six in Judge Prince's court room. The case is that of August Pacito, against Mrs. John Junich for some groceries and confectionery that were taken on credit by the three sons of the defendant. It appears that the mother of the boys did not know that her sons were taking the goods, which they kept for themselves and for treating their friends. The foods stuff had been secured as far back as July, 1907. The boys did not let their mother know of their dealings with the grocery for fear of being punished. The owner of the grocery was in the old country and he did not know of what was going on. After being out for a short time the jury brought in a verdict of $50, in favor of the plaintiff.

TO RAISE LIGHT PRICES

In Order to Make Up Expenses on Tower Plant.

Tower, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The electric light question, which for the past few weeks has been a source of annoyance and much discussion to the city council and the citizens in general, has finally been settled.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening, the matter was carefully discussed, and in conclusion the council decided that a 10-cent advance be levied on each resident light and that for the summer months the services of a fireman be dispensed with, the engineer doing that duty together with his present work.

Investigations showed that the plant had not been making expenses, and some change therefore became necessary. The decision arrived at will undoubtedly relieve the situation and will, it is hoped, prove satisfactory to light consumers and others concerned.

FIRE IN MOHAWK

Does Considerable Damage to Tramway Before Being Extinguished.

Aurora, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire was discovered on one of the underground levels of the Mohawk mine yesterday afternoon. Considerable of one tramway was destroyed before the fire could be extinguished. The tram was saturated with oil and it is thought the careless throwing of a lighted match caused the blaze.

FRED BOORMAN'S FUNERAL UNDER K. OF P. AUSPICES.

Eveleth, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Fred Boorman, the well-known printer, who died Sunday on his claim, fifteen miles from here Thursday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. Taylor officiating. Interment will be made in the Virginia cemetery. The funeral will be under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, with which order the deceased was long identified. His brother, M. A. Boorman, arrived from Grand Rapids today to attend the funeral.

Since his death it has been learned that Mr. Boorman had led a more picturesque life than many realized. Besides the ups and downs of the printer of the old class, it is said he had had some experience on the professional stage, having appeared with the Oates Opera company. Later he toured the Northwest as a concert-giver with his sister and himself as the main members of the company. In this connection Mr. Boorman was the violinist. Another strange chapter of his life were the years he spent as a member of the Pinkerton detective agency. While with that famous organization he succeeded in unearthing many mysteries. In one instance he spent six months running down a criminal, who had poisoned his step-mother to get her fortune. That criminal is serving today a life-sentence in the Indiana penitentiary for his crime.

Of late Mr. Boorman has lived on the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges, working as a printer. At the time of his death he was foreman for the Eveleth News.

In his travels about the country in the capacity of a newspaper man, he encountered many men who are today famous. While in Minneapolis, working on the Tribune, a number of years ago, he assisted at the famous Tribune fire. He was the man who turned in the alarm, and later returned to rescue the telegraph operators, who had remained at their posts.

He has already instructed the chief to forbid the operation of all slot machines, and this order will go into effect on April 1.

POLICE RAID

Results in Two Arrests From the Mason Flats.

The police continued their efforts to drive undesirable women from the city last night. A raid on the Mason flats by Capt. Fiskett and Officer Westerlund resulted in the arrest of William Kelly and Elizabeth Lowry, who were charged with disorderly conduct. They forfeited their bail this morning.

either of them is correct. It is thought that an insane person committed the assault. A suspicious character has been seen loitering about the neighborhood. Not far from the Nolan residence is a marsh, partly covered with wild timber. The maniac is being sought in this territory.

With nothing much to substantiate the maniac deduction, the police are inclined to believe that it was the act of a tramp. A small colony of these travelers spent several days in shacks not far away. As the last guess, and perhaps the best of the three, it is reasoned that a burglar was making ready to loot the house and, believing he had been detected, sought to add murder to his list of crimes.

leged plot and says he had not previously made known his connection with the case because of the threats made by the alleged murderers.

Archer recently was released from the same penitentiary, where young Collins is serving his sentence. He became educated while in the institution and has with much labor produced a book of his connection with this famous case. This he has supplemented today by his statement, which follows:

"At the time of the Collins' trial in Topeka, in May, 1898, I was in the Kansas state penitentiary. Therefore I was not able to give any definite facts in relation to his case, or to impart to the public the secret which I presume that each and every living soul will feel very fain to believe.

"I was afraid to communicate with young Collins while I was in the penitentiary, from the mere fact that he had forced the world to believe he was guilty, and I was afraid the warden would think I had gone crazy. Therefore, the warden and some of the guards might have caused it to go pretty hard with me.

"My colored people told me before I went to the penitentiary that after they got John Collins in the penitentiary, if I attempted to reveal the scheme, the public would ignore me and put me in the insane asylum. So I kept mum. No one knows how old man Collins left this world except my colored people and myself. My people told me before Collins' death of the evidence on which they would send the wrong man to prison, and I intend to do my part in having him released on the same evidence."

By "my colored people" Archer means the two negroes who, he asserts, assisted him to enter the plot to murder and rob the elder Collins. Young Collins was convicted on the testimony of two negroes.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral was held here Wednesday afternoon from the Catholic church of Francis Paul Decker, aged 5 years, who lost his life by being injured in the pulp mill of the Itasca Paper company early in the week.

Disobedience of the rules of the company and paying no attention to the warnings of employes probably cost the little fellow his life. According to one report of the affair, young Decker, with his brother Lawrence and Fred Smith, both older, were playing about the plant. Although the boys had been ordered not to use the freight elevator, boy-like they persisted, with fatal results for one of the Deckers. The boys got on the elevator to ride from the basement to the main floor, but about the time that the elevator got in motion, they saw the night watchman who had just come on duty, coming to drive them away. The two older boys jumped while the lift was still only a short distance from the floor, but it seems that the little boy, Frances Decker, hesitated about getting off, and that when the elevator had gone up several feet, jumped off and fell, the fall evidently breaking his neck. He was found dead a few minutes later by the night watchman. Another version is that after the other boys had jumped off the elevator, the youngest boy looked down between the beams between which the weights which help to balance the elevator run, and that the weight caught his head and broke his neck, and that he then fell to the floor.

Eveleth, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A case that comes from the system of credit, that is universally used on the range, was tried yesterday afternoon before a jury of six in Judge Prince's court room. The case is that of August Pacito, against Mrs. John Junich for some groceries and confectionery that were taken on credit by the three sons of the defendant. It appears that the mother of the boys did not know that her sons were taking the goods, which they kept for themselves and for treating their friends. The food stuff had been secured as far back as July, 1907. The boys did not let their mother know of their dealings with the grocery for fear of being punished. The owner of the grocery was in the old country and he did not know of what was going on. After being out for a short time the jury brought in a verdict of $50, in favor of the plaintiff.

TO RAISE LIGHT PRICES

In Order to Make Up Expenses on Tower Plant.

Tower, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The electric light question, which for the past few weeks has been a source of annoyance and much discussion to the city council and the citizens in general, has finally been settled.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening, the matter was carefully discussed, and in conclusion the council decided that a decent advance be levied on each resident light and that for the summer months the services of a fireman will be dispensed with, the engineer doing that duty together with his present work.

Investigations showed that the plant had not been making expenses, and some change therefore became necessary. The decision arrived at will undoubtedly relieve the situation and will, it is hoped, prove satisfactory to light consumers and others concerned.

Aurora, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire was discovered on one of the underground levels of the Mohawk mine yesterday afternoon. FRED BOORMAN'S FUNERAL UNDER K. OF P. AUSPICES.

Eveleth, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Fred Boorman, the well-known printer, who died Sunday on his claim, fifteen miles from here Thursday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. Taylor officiating. Interment will be made in the Virginia cemetery. The funeral will be under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, with which order the deceased was long identified. His brother, M. A. Boorman, arrived from Grand Rapids today to attend the funeral.

Since his death it has been learned that Mr. Boorman had led a more picturesque life than many realized. Besides the ups and downs of the printer of the old class, it is said he had had some experience on the professional stage, having appeared with the Oates Opera company. Later he toured the Northwest as a concert-giver with his sister and himself as the main members of the company. In this connection Mr. Boorman was the violinist. Another strange chapter of his life were the years he spent as a member of the Pinkerton detective agency. While with that famous organization he succeeded in unearthing many mysteries. In one instance he spent six months running down a criminal, who had poisoned his step-mother to get her fortune. That criminal is serving today a life-sentence in the Indiana penitentiary for his crime.

Of late Mr. Boorman has lived on the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges, working as a printer. At the time of his death he was foreman for the Eveleth News.

In his travels about the country in the capacity of a newspaper man, he encountered many men who are today famous. While in Minneapolis, working on the Tribune, a number of years ago, he assisted at the famous Tribune fire. He was the man who turned in the alarm, and later returned to rescue the telegraph operators, who had remained at their posts.

either of them is correct. It is thought that an insane person committed the assault. A suspicions character has been seen loitering about the neighborhood. Not far from the Nolan residence is a marsh, partly covered with wild timber. The maniac is being sought in this territory.

With nothing much to substantiate the maniac deduction, the police are inclined to believe that it was the act of a tramp. A small colony of these travelers spent several days in shacks not far away. As the last guess, and perhaps the best of the three, it is reasoned that a burglar was making ready to loot the house and, believing he had been detected, sought to add murder to his list of crimes.

leged plot and says he had not previously made known his connection with the case because of the threats made by the alleged murderers.

Archer recently was released from the same penitentiary, where young Collins is serving his sentence. He became educated while in the institution and has with much labor produced a book of his connection with this famous case. This he has supplemented today by his statement, which follows:

"At the time of the Collins' trial in Topeka, in May, 1898, I was in the Kansas state penitentiary. Therefore I was not able to give any definite facts in relation to his case, or to impart to the public the secret which I presume that each and every living soul will feel very fain to believe.

"I was afraid to communicate with young Collins while I was in the penitentiary, from the mere fact that he had forced the world to believe he was guilty, and it was afraid the warden would think I had gone crazy. Therefore, the warden and some of the guards might have caused it to go pretty hard with me.

"My colored people told me before I went to the penitentiary that after they got John Collins in the penitentiary, if I attempted to reveal the scheme, the public would ignore me and put me in the insane asylum. So I kept mum. No one knows how old man Collins left this world except my colored people and myself. My people told me before Collins' death of the evidence on which they would send the wrong man to prison, and I intend to do my part in having him released on the same evidence."

By "my colored people" Archer means the two negroes who, he asserts, assisted him to enter the plot to murder and rob the elder Collins. Young Collins was convicted on the testimony of two negroes.

CURRENCY BILL PASSES

Senate With Some Amendments, by Vote of 42 to 16.

The Aldrich Measure Will Now Go to the Senate.

Washington, March 28.—The Aldrich currency bill was passed by the senate yesterday by a vote of 42 to 16, in the main a party vote. Previous to the taking of the vote on the Aldrich bill a vote was taken on the Bailey substitute, authorizing the government instead of the national banks, to issue the emergency circulation for which the bill provides.

The vote on the substitute stood 42 to 13, and this vote was entirely partisan, even Senator La Follette casting his vote with the Republicans. The bill has been before the senate since Jan. 2. The vote was not reached until after 6 p. m. and the galleries were practically empty.

An interesting feature of the passage of the bill was a reiteration by Mr. Aldrich of his promise to bring in a bill for an investigation of the entire banking system of the country with a view to instituting reforms.

Provisions of Bill.

As passed the bill provides for not more than $500,000,000 of emergency currency to be issued to national banks upon the deposit by them of state, county and municipal bonds to be approved by the secretary of the treasury. The currency is to be issued with a view to securing its equitable distribution over the United States and in accordance with the unimpaired capital and surplus of banks in each state. Banks are to pay for this emergency circulation, half of 1 per cent a month during the first four months it is circulated, and afterwards ¾ of 1 per cent a month.

The bill provides that national banks shall pay not less than 1 per cent on government funds deposited with them.

As amended yesterday, the bill carries an important change in banking laws relating to bank reserves. This amendment provides that of the 15 per cent reserve required to be kept by banks not in reserve cities, four-fifths is to be kept in the vaults of the banks, and of that amount one-third can be in the form of securities of the kind required.

By another amendment agreed to yesterday, the period during which half of 1 per cent interest is to be charged was reduced from six to four months, after which three-quarters of 1 per cent is to be charged, until the currency is redeemed.

Amendment by La Follette.

At the instance of Mr. La Follette, an amendment was adopted prohibiting any national banks from investing its funds in stocks or other securities of a corporation, the officers or directors of which are officers or directors of the bank, and providing a penalty of imprisonment of from one to five years. In accepting this amendment, Mr. Aldrich stated that he had not time to consider the amendment fully, but was in sympathy with its general purpose. He said it could be perfected in conference.

The proposition to insert a provision for a government guarantee of deposits in national banks was the subject of an extended debate, and was defeated by a vote of 11 to 46, most of the Democratic vote being against the proposed amendment.

Another amendment offered by Mr. La Follette prohibited loans by national banks to its officers or to any corporation, the majority stock of which is owned by the officers of the bank. It was rejected, as also was an amendment offered by Mr. Nelson of Minnesota, providing that no officer or employe of a national bank shall be a member of a stock exchange or engaged in buying or selling stocks or bonds on a commission basis.

An amendment by Mr. La Follette to punish by from one to five years' imprisonment any falsification in bank securities was adopted, but was protested against by Senator Knox as already provided for in the existing law.

CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS NEGRO

Heflin of Alabama in Affray on Washington Street Car.

Washington, March 28.—In a desperate affray on a Pennsylvania avenue car last night, a negro and a white man were shot by Congressman Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama.

Thomas Lumby, the negro, was shot in the head and is in a critical condition and Thomas McCreary, a New York horse trainer, is suffering from a wound in the leg. The shooting of McCreary was accidental.

Mr. Heflin was arrested and taken to the Sixth precinct police station, where a charge of assault with intent to kill was placed against him. Later he was released on $5,000 bail.

Congressman Heflin, accompanied by Congressman Edwin J. Ellerbe of South Carolina had boarded the traction car at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Upon boarding the car he observed two negro passengers, one of whom was Thomas Lumby, in the act of taking a drink from a bottle of whisky. There were a number of other passengers, including several ladies. Mr. Heflin says he remonstrated with Lumby and asked him to stop drinking.

The other negro who was sober, attempted to take the bottle away from his friend, but failed. It is said Lumby became offended at Mr. Heflin's remonstrances and applied vile epithets. As the car reached Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue Heflin and Lumby were engaged in a desperate struggle. Mr. Heflin, who is a large, powerful man, succeeded in throwing Lumby off the car as it came to a stop. Most of the occupants of the car hastily alighted, including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCreary. The negro fell to the ground on being pushed off the car.

He rose and, it is said, began cursing Mr. Heflin again and made a motion for his hip pocket as if to draw a weapon, whereupon Mr. Heflin fired at him through the car window, missing the negro and hitting Thomas McCreary, who was about twenty feet from the car, one of the shots striking Lumby in the head above the ear. Lumby ran a short distance and fell. An ambulance was called and he was taken to the Emergency hospital.

Mr. Heflin was escorted by Officer Scriven to the Capital hotel and later was taken to the police station in a cab. He was not locked up. Mr. McCreary's wound is not serious and after treatment at a hospital he returned to his apartments.

At the Emergency hospital it was said that Lumby, though badly wounded and unconscious, has a chance to recover. His skull was fractured, but the surgeons were unable to ascertain last night whether the bullet entered the head.

"BLIND PIG" AT MINE CENTER

Where the Indians Get All the Liquor They Want.

Mine Center, Ont., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fort Frances Times recently printed a summary of the annual report of J. P. Wright, Indian agent, telling of the Hungry Hall bands of Ojibways.

"These Indians," say the agent, "are addicted to the use of intoxicants, which they can easily procure on the American side for, as the law now stands, there is no penalty for supplying liquor to Canadian Indians on the American side." In his report of the Little Forks band, the same story is told in other words: "These Indians are intemperate," says the agent, "and as there is a 'blind pig' kept on the American side of the river, opposite the reserve, they can get all the liquor they can pay for, consequently a great deal of their money is spent in liquor. In November last two of these Indians were shot and one seriously wounded in a drunken row with the keeper of this 'blind pig,' but both recovered."

If Agent Wright will take a trip to Old Mine Center he will there find a "blind pig" that has been running full blast for two years, and where the Indians get all the liquor they want. But Mr. Wright has been told more than once of the Indians getting drunk there, and therefore is well aware of the fact. People here are therefore surprised that he should be so vehement in denouncing "blind pigs" on the American side of the river, when the Indians get all the liquor they want in Ontario close to their reservatioon.

PRESENT POSITIONS OF THE RACING AUTOS.

Ogden, Utah, March 28.—In the New York-to-Paris race the American car is on a steamer bound for Seattle; the Italian car left Ely, Nev., at 7 a. m. for Tonopah; the French car is in Ogden and the German car is at Rock Springs, Wyo. The axle of the latter is broken and as the machinery for the repair is not to be had in Rock Springs, the driver contemplates sending it to Ogden, having the necessary work done here and reshipping it to Rock Springs for a new start.

Children should not be allowed to drink Coffee. It contains a drug—Caffeine — which interferes with the child's natural growth.

Almost any doctor will tell you this. Many are now advising Postum — made from clean, hard wheat—as a table beverage in place of coffee. When served hot with good cream, and sugar to taste, it is delicious, cheering and at the same time, healthful.

Postum contains no coffee or other harmful substance, but includes the "vital phosphates" from the wheat.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Retail Trade in Spring Goods is Making Further Progress.

New York, March 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Retail trade in spring goods has made further progress and the conservative buying by dealers in preparing for currency distribution is now providing a good supplementary demand from wholesale and jobbing houses. Unusually advanced weather in many sections stimulates business, and agricultural work is making an early start. In the leading industries there is evidence of gradual increase in contracts, many plants preparing for greater activity on April 1, while proposed reductions in wages have produced no threats of strikes.

The best news of the week as to manufacturing conditions comes from the leather industry, although shipments of footwear through Boston are only about two-thirds those of the same week last year. Dispatches from the West and South are most favorable as to the general commercial situation, a few cities reporting the volume of business fully equal to last year's and these statements are supported by bank exchanges at these points about the same as in 1907. There is still complaint regarding mercantile collections, although improvement is noted.

Progress in the iron industry continues irregular, actively increasing in the wire department while other lines await resumption of normal orders.

In the primary markets for textile fabrics there is more inquiry especially for small quantities of cottons to be shipped promptly. Demand for immediate shipments indicates low stocks in retail departments. The decline in prices of raw material has had a depressing effect on the tone of the market for cotton goods and actual improvement is therefore the more gratifying, while finished products are no cheaper.

Signs of improvement are seen in the New England footwear industry although many leading manufacturers still report trade quiet. Business in russet goods is the feature of the season. The tone of belting butts is firmer, although quotations are unchanged. There is a better feeling in the hide market, prices advancing in several instances, especially hides suitable for sole leather.

MINNESOTA IS INVITED

To Exhibit Grain at National Exhibition at Omaha.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota has been urged to send an exhibit to the National Corn, Grain and Grass exhibition to be held at Omaha Dec. 10 to 19, 1908. J. W. Jones of Omaha, general manager of the exhibition, appeared before the state immigration board to present an invitation and to explain the nature of the project.

Mr. Jones' proposition was that a volunteer organization be formed from forty to fifty of the principal counties of the state, and that the immigration board appropriate $2,000 to cover the expenses of getting up the exhibit.

Members of the board did not take kindly to the appropriation idea and referred the invitation to the officers of the state experiment station and the editors of the agricultural papers to determine what could be done by other means.

FIERCE TORNADO

Sweeps Over New Boston, Iowa, Doing Considerable Damage.

Burlington, Iowa, March 28.—A report from New Boston, Iowa, a town about ten miles west of Fort Madison on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, states that a tornado struck that place last night, blowing twelve freight cars from the tracks, demolishing a church and injuring a number of people. No one is reported to have been killed at that place. A balloon shaped cloud was seen to pass from west to east along the Santa Fe road and considerable damage to farmhouses in its path was reported.

SOLDIERS ARE SENT TO ALASKA TO ENFORCE LAWS.

Washington, March 28.—Eight hundred striking miners, most of them foreigners, possessed of ten cases of dynamite and a desire to destroy property and perhaps life at the Treadwell mines in Alaska was the situation presented to Secretary Taft by telegraph from the acting governor of that territory, who requested the aid of federal troops. The secretary acceded to the request without delay and announced this action at the conclusion of the cabinet session yesterday. The order, which went forward, directed Gen. Bush, commanding the department of the Columbia, at Vancouver barracks to place a sufficient force at the disposal of the United States marshal at Treadwell to assist him in the enforcement of the law and to enforce and execute the orders of the United States courts. Gen. Bush responded that he sonal application from the condemned. had dispatched one company of infantry to Treadwell. The distance is about 100 miles and the troops should reach their destination in a day or two.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The New Jersey Democratic state convention, to choose delegates to the national convention, will be held in the State Street theater in the afternoon on Thursday, April 23.

With a temperature of 71 degs. in the office of the weather bureau, and several degrees warmer on the pavement, New York experienced ideal June weather Friday.

Mrs. Grace Broderick, formerly of Dowagiac, Mich., was arrested in Chicago Friday, on a warrant sworn out by the J. Bresnahan company of Dowagiac, which charges her with the conversion of property.

The residence and barn of John Osborn, at South Ripley, Ohio, were destroyed by night riders Friday night.

Mrs. Matilda Nebon, aged probably 33, Friday sprang in front of a Burlington passenger train, at Holdrege, Neb., holding her 2-year-old son in her arms. Both were instantly killed, the woman's body being ground to pieces. Poverty and alleged domestic troubles are supposed to have prompted the act.

Harry Orchard, the confessed murderer of Governor Steunenberg, has, it is said, refused to apply to the board of pardons for remission of the death sentence. His attorney will see that the application is made, as the law does not require personal application from the condemned.

Omega Oil

A SPRAIN never was and never will be cured by a liniment. The only thing that cures a sprain or bruise is Nature herself. But Omega Oil will stop the pain while Nature is doing the curing. The Oil helps Nature make a quicker cure because it keeps the sufferer from worrying. It makes the patient quiet, and that's the main thing.

EACH FAMILY HERE OUGHT TO KEEP A CASE HANDY

Why Not Make Up Your Mind Now and for All to Get Rid of Your Stomach Misery and Indigestion?

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will eat one 22-grain Triangule of Diapepsin after your meal. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood 3,000 grains of food.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of a case of Indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, Belching, Gas on Stomach, Heartburn, Headaches from stomach, Nausea, Bad Breath, Water Brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries.

If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or Sleepless nights or Headache or Stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

These 50-cent cases contain more than enough to cure the worst dyspeptic, and often sufficient to relieve other members of the family. There is nothing better known for Gas on the Stomach or Sour odors from the stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.

The complete formula is plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, and as soon as you read that, you will understand what a blessing you have, as Diapepsin couldn't harm any one.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.

FORECAST OF COUNCIL

Confirmation of Mayor's Appointments Will Again Come Up.

Compromise May be Reached on Second Street Work.

The confirmation of Mayor Haven's appointments and the postponing of the improvement of Fourth street are the two questions to come before the city council, in which the citizens are most interested. There is speculation as to the probable action on both matters and the usual crowd will probably be on hand.

Every Democratic alderman is encased in a covering of silence and what will be done on the appointments is just as hard to guess now as it was two weeks ago. It is said in some quarters that the Democrats have receded from their position and will let the appointments go through, but others deny the report. The Cromwell-Bloedel contest decision has not yet come out and another postponement of action may be made to await that.

The committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, which will report on the protest against the improvement of Fourth street this year, is all torn up by the vigor of the arguments pro and con. The property owners did not stop at the public hearing. They are buttonholing the members of the committee and the other aldermen, thrusting their views upon them and praying for a favorable decision.

Taking the position that all protests for the last two or three years have been made on the ground that labor was scarce and high, the committee believes that the protest because of a reversal of conditions is unjustified. Men are plentiful now, they will work for reasonable wages and it is urged that the work could be done this year for fully 25 per cent less than at the same time next year.

There is no inclination to let the improvement matter drop. On the Second street work, the city has spent several hundred dollars in preliminaries. Abstracts have been secured, assessments levied, publication made and the city is in rather heavily. The postponement puts it off until July, and then it will be taken up just as vigorously again. There is a disposition to postpone the Fourth street work for two months, bringing it into June, when the operations could be renewed and the work probably be pushed through. The petition for postponement is for a year, but the committee will probably not recommend that action.

MORGAN VISITS KING.

Rome, March 28.—King Victor Emmanuel today received J. Pierpont Morgan in private audience and conversed with him on American affairs. The king manifested keen interest in the approaching presidential campaign.

MAN ENDS LIFE.

St. Louis, March 28.—Being unable to meet a mortgage that was about to be foreclosed on his furniture, Henry Cock, 65 years old, committed suicide at his home on Biddle street, today, by shooting. As he took his life, Morris Finn, holder of the mortgage, was knocking at his door.

BOYS MENACED TO MULCT FATHER

Blackmailer Attempts Use of Acid to Force $500,000 Payment.

Berlin, March 28.—A diabolical case of blackmailing, in which the miscreant attempted to carry his hideous threats, is reported from Munich. Some weeks ago a manufacturer millionaire named Wilhelm Ludovici, received a letter, in which he was summoned to leave $30,000 at a spot afterwards to be indicated, and to intimate his willingness to do so through the advertising columns of a local paper. The communication continued:

"You will now, as I assume, hand this letter to the police and have me arrested when I go to get the money. In the latter you would not succeed, but you would, nevertheless, experience the following: To convince you of the seriousness of the matter I would first kill one of your children, and do it with means of which you have no idea, and against which there is no protection. Then I would again address to you my demand for money, but this time require $500,000.

"If you remain stiffnecked I would cause another of your children to follow the first, and each time demand $250,000, till your resistance was broken. Take care of your eyesight in case you should lose it. Escape from this doom is impossible for you and yours. You may have yourself watched by detectives. In vain. You may leave Munich, but I will follow you. Even if I should be caught, that would be nothing to me. No one is executed now, and jail has no terrors for me.

"Experience gives wisdom, and as a rule one evil experience is enough. Take care that you do not recognize in the corpse of your first murdered child how foolishly you have acted. But then it will be too late, you will not know another peaceable hour, for every moment you may expect another Job's messenger, whereas now by payment of a trifling sum, you escape it all. It rests with yourself to choose what form your life shall take."

This letter, which was written with the freedom of a cultured man, bore the signature of Josef Meier. Herr Ludovici, who is generally known to be particularly devoted to his three boys, regarded the document as on a level with other crazy applications, of which every notoriously wealthy man is the object, and said nothing about it. He also paid no attention to a further letter, in which the writer announced that the death sentence of his first son had fallen.

One evening last week, however, as two of the millionaire's sons were returning from school to their father's villa in the suburb of Bogenhausen, they were followed by a couple of lads of some 12 or 14 years of age, who, as soon as they reached a lonely spot, rushed at them, and attempted to empty bottles of vitroil over their heads.

Luckily, the plan failed, only one of the boys being touched on the back of the neck by a drop of the acid. The assailants made off. One of them, who had apparently scorched his own hand with the acid, flung away the bottle, wrapped in cloth, as he ran.

RAILROADS WILL START DEPOT WORK

Wisconsin Central Will Begin Excavating Work About May 1.

Fine Progress is Being Made on Duluth Rock Work.

Work of excavating for the Wisconsin Central depot at the corner of Sixth avenue west and Superior street will be started the first of May, according to local officials of the road. Now that the buildings on the site have been sold, all that remains is to vacate them and tear them down before construction work on the station can begin. The Metropolitan theater will not interfere with the depot work, it is thought, and may be allowed to stand until the end of the theatrical season. The management has been notified, however, that it will be expected to vacate any time upon a 15-day notice.

Excavating for the foundation of the structure, and later laying the foundation, will be a very expensive undertaking, for the basement will be a considerable distance below the street and it will be necessary to build heavy concrete walls as a protection to the street as well as to the building. A concrete wall will also be necessary along the street for a certain distance to keep earth and rocks from sliding into the cuts that are being made.

Officials of the line are more than pleased with the progress that has been and is being made with the tunnel and other rock work. Remarkably good progress has been made in this direction, and it is possible the contract will be finished much sooner than was expected. Good progress is also still being made on the Duluth extension below Superior, and trains probably will be running over the Wisconsin Central into the city across the bay by the first of July, if not sooner. Probably the Northern Pacific tracks will be used into Duluth until the Wisconsin Central tracks are ready, and the trains will run into the Union depot until the other structure is completed.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Anticipating the early return of prosperity and to be prepared for a largely increased business with the New England markets, an order for $500,000 worth of equipment will be placed by the Lehigh & New England Railroad company within the next few days.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Companies Trade Property.

The Soo Railroad company and the Superior Shipbuilding company have made an exchange of properties on Connor's Point. The Shipbuilding company has transferred to the railroad company portions of several lots on Main street running back to Howard's Pocket while the railroad company has decided to the Shipbuilding company a fraction of an acre including dock frontage in lot 3 and one and one-fourth acres in lot 6.

Officials Deny Charges.

The charges made to Governor Davidson by Bert Holdridge, a Superior resident, that he was mistreated in the state reformatory at Green Bay, has caused quite a stir among the reformatory officials and others in the state. The superintendent of the institution claims that some of the inmates of the institution have been used to high living before their confinement and that is the reason they complain of the food furnished them. He makes a general denial of the charges made by Holdridge as to overcharges for certain materials furnished or unfair pay for the time Holdridge worked in the factory in connection with the reformatory.

Railroad Company Seeks Land.

The South Shore Railroad company has started proceedings in the circuit court for the vacation of the plat of West Superior, Sixth division so far as it includes Blocks 161, 162, 175, 176, 177 and 178. These blocks lie between Oakes avenue and the Northern Pacific tracks and Belknap and Eighteenth streets. The ground is occupied by an ice storage house and an elevated track for unloading crushed stone. There is much speculation as to the intention of the railroad company relative to the use of the property. It is possible that the company will erect a freight depot there.

H. W. Dietrich Buys Property.

H. W. Dietrich has purchased from the J. Duryea estate, for about $13,000, the four-house brick terrace on the east side of Hughitt avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. The building is two stories high and stands on six lots. Mr. Dietrich resides in one of the houses and has bought the whole property for an investment.

FIRE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 28.—Fire today partially destroyed the Bohemian Bazar, a co-operative department store, at 534 to 538 Blue Island avenue. Several persons living in adjoining buildings were overcome by smoke and had to be assisted to the street by policemen. The loss will probably exceed $50,000.

PENROSE BETTER.

Philadelphia, March 28.—United States Senator Penrose, who is ill at his home here suffering from erysipelas and other complications, passed a good night and today is resting easily. The physicians announce that if the senator maintains his present strength he will recover.

WATCH ON THE BETHEL

Health Department Fears Spread of Smallpox Among Lodgers.

All Public Gatherings at Lake Avenue Home Stopped.

Dr. D. D. Murray, health commissioner, today issued an order, prohibiting all public gatherings and assemblages at the Bethel on Lake avenue until such time as he raises the ban. The action is to prevent a possible spread of smallpox, three cases being taken from the Bethel within the last few days.

There is nothing alarming in the situation, but the health commissioner wishes to be on the safe side. The regular work of the Bethel is going along, lodgers will be accommodated, and meals served, but there will be no gathering for service or Sunday school, or entertainment features.

The Bethel was recently fumigated from cellar to garret, but smallpox was discovered there later, causing the step now taken. Every person making his regular home at the Bethel will be vaccinated by the health department, and every other precaution taken against the disease. The men, who were found to have smallpox, were immediately removed to the detention hospital and the rooms they occupied fumigated. There is a chance, however, that the germs are still in the building.

REFUSES TO EAT.

Keepers Are Worrying Over Final Fate of Alligator.

New York, March 28.—Keepers at the Bronx zoo are puzzled over the problem of Mose, the twelve-foot alligator, who has refused to eat anything for four months, and is slowly starving to death. Formerly the alligator was kept in an enclosure with twelve or fourteen crocodiles. His habit of frequently becoming angry and attacking his companions led to his isolation four months ago. From that day his self-imposed fast dates. The keepers attribute his refusal to eat to peevishness at being kept by himself and have been hoping that the fit would wear off. To date it has failed to leave him, and the head keeper has called a consultation of animal experts to discuss the case and see if anything can be done to save the big reptile.

THREE HUNDRED BRAVES INITIATED AT BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Red Cloud tribe, No. 13, of Red Men, initiated a class of nearly 300 on Thursday evening. There were delegations of braves from Walker, Nevis, Pine River, Little Falls and Detroit. The work was done by the degree team of Chippewa tribe, No. 10, of Minneapolis, under the personal charge of Dr. T. J. Reid, great sachem of the reservation of Minnesota. After the work was exemplified, there were a number of addresses, and an elegant lunch was served. The pale faces adopted hailed from Brainerd, Aitkin, Deerwood, Staples, Motley, Pillager, Merrifield, Hubert, Sylvan, Fort Ripley and Ossipee.

SUICIDES TO JOIN WIFE.

Chicago, March 28.—Lying on the grave of his bride, and with the pleading of his mother still ringing in his ears, Frank Brock, a young business man of Hobart, Ind., shot himself in the head and through the lungs in Crown Hill cemetery Thursday. With his lifeblood ebbing away, the man crawled on his hands and knees to the home of the sexton, 100 yards away, and died a few minutes later. "I did this because I wanted to join Mabel," he said.

WILL HOUGH CAPTURED.

Chicago, March 28.—Will Hough, who wrote "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "Honeymoon Trail," and other musical comedies, containing jokes on matrimony, has been stung—stung by the love bug he has been ridiculing. All of which means he is to be married to Miss Helen Hale, who is said to have jilted Henry W. Savage for the Chicago university boy, who has won fame and fortune in two years.

POPE IS TO CANONIZE

Several This Year in Connection With His Sacerdotal Jubilee.

Joan of Arc Expected to be Among Those Sanctified.

Rome, March 28.—In connection with the sacerdotal jubilee of the pope, it has been decided to hold a series of beatifications and canonizations at the Vatican this year. The pope himself is personally to assist in all the ceremonies attendant upon the matter, and as he does not like to officiate in St. Peter's church, the Hall of Beatifications has been set up over the porch of the great basilica. The hall is a splendid one and has recently been decorated. At one end a throne has been erected for the use of the pope, and this throne Pius X will frequently occupy during this year, when so many more ceremonial occasions are planned than ordinarily.

One canonization is expected to arouse great interest and perhaps excitement in France. It is the canonization of Jeanne d'Arc, Pulcelle de Orleans. It is said that by his act in the canonization of the heroine the pope designs to show that he still holds a deep affection for the French people. Under the late pope, Leo XIII, many efforts were made to obtain from the congregation of Rites a decree of canonization of the French heroine, but all efforts then made were unavailing. It is believed that a large number of French Catholics will come to Rome on the occasion of the canonization, which, it is expected, will take place shortly after Easter Sunday.

Several other canonizations and beatifications have already been decided upon. By the direction of the pope, the congregation of Rites has been very busy of late months, and there will soon be issued the results of its processes of investigation. One prominent personage who is to receive the honors of the altar is the late Mother Barat, who was the founder of the order of the Sisters of the Sacred Heart, and the cause of whose beatification has been earnestly supported by that order. Father Endes, who was also the founder of an order, will also, it is understood here, be proclaimed a venerable before the end of this year. For there are three degrees in sanctity, and they are classified by the Congregation of Rites as venerable, blessed and saint.

The American public, however, will be most interested in the fact that the canonization of Bishop Neumann, the first bishop of Philadelphia, is proceeding and that a decision will soon be announced regarding the matter. Archbishop Ryan conducted the preliminary investigation in this case, and it is believed that he has succeeded in securing the canonization of his predecessor.

Expenses Are Heavy.

There are rather heavy expenses attendant upon the canonization of holy persons of the church, the actual amount of which is not generally known. The Vatican claims certain fees; the expenses of the congregation of rites have to be met; and each cardinal who is a member of that congregation is entitled to an oil painting of the new saint and a handsomely bound book describing his or her life. It is said here that the paintings and the books would alone bring the cost of canonization up to several thousand dollars. As a rule the blood relatives of the honored person pay all these expenses, but in the cases of members of religious orders, the orders are expected to pay them. When it is a bishop who is to be canonized, like Bishop Neumann, his former diocese is supposed to defray all the expenses, and it is said that already there have been successful efforts in Philadelphia to secure subscriptions to a fund for this purpose. No doubts are entertained here as to the canonization of Bishop Neumann, although there has been as yet no authoritative announcement. It is said, however, that his case has already received the favorable consideration of the congregation of rites.

Mgr. Shoeffel, the French bishop of Tarbes, under whose jurisdiction is the famous sanctuary of Lourdes, has just arrived here at the head of a large French pilgrimage. He had the pleasure of conveying to Pope Pius X the grateful information that there is no danger that the sanctuary will be appropriated by the French government. It was at one time thought that this danger was imminent, but the parliamentary representatives of the district pressed their claims before the government and obtained the victory. It is estimated that the sanctuary at Lourdes brings to the diocese of Tarbes at least $1,000,000 a year. Every summer there is a constant flow of pilgrims to the place, and as the present year is the fiftieth anniversary of the apparition of the virgin, it is confidently expected that the usual numbers will at least be doubled. In any event, local arrangements have been made, according to the statement of Mgr. Shoeffel, to accommodate an enormous number of pilgrims at Lourdes within the coming summer months.

Because of the frequent recurrence of earthquakes in Southern Italy, a new seismographic instrument has just been installed in the Vatician observatory. The installation was made by the desire of the pope himself, who has been much concerned because of the earthquakes and expressed the belief that scientific investigation should be made of them. With the new instrument in place, it will now be possible for the director of the observatory to report at once to the Vatician authorities when seismographic disturbances occur.

TO ABOLISH A JAP CASTE.

The "Common People" May be Officially Done Away With.

Tokio, March 28.—A representation to the government of more than passing interest was introduced into the house of peers Feb. 18. Its object was to abolish the designation "Heimin" in describing the "common people."

Japanese society, it should be explained, is divided roughly into three groups, exclusive of the emperor, who stands alone. Those groups are the "Kazoku" (literally, "flower family," i. e., the peerage), "Shizoku," or "warrior family," the modern name for the ancient Samurai, or fighting class, and "Heimin," or masses.

Before the present era of Meiji there existed a fourth class known as the "Eta," who were practically outcasts, to whom were relegated special occupations held in universal contempt, such as tanning, cobbling, scavenging, while in many cases "Eta" served as executioners of common criminals.

After the revolution which resulted in the downfall of the Shogunate and the restoration of the emperor to actual power the "Eta" classification was abolished, but custom and tradition die hard in Japan as elsewhere, and, although in the eyes of the law the descendants of these pariahs enjoy the same rights as all other "Heimin," with whom they have been merged, they continue largely to monopolize their former callings and help to swell the ranks of "Kojiki" or beggars, who infest the great highways of the empire and form regular colonies in particular spots.

No doubt in individual cases the iron barriers of convention have been razed, but speaking generally, no pure "Heimin" would be willing to regard as a social equal the known descendant of this despised caste. Before the Meiji era the line of demarcation could not be crossed, or if a member of the Samurai class so far demeaned himself as to wed an "Eta" woman he thereby forfeited his privilege as a Samurai. An incident of this kind furnishes W. B. Mitford, now Lord Redesdale, with the plot of one of his true stories of old Japan.

It was pointed out by the introducer of the representation that the special necessity for the "Heimin" classification no longer existed, since it was today well understood that those having no special designation were common people, and that they belonged to the majority. No confusion could possibly arise while the members of the other two orders continued to be described by their proper titles. On the other hand, the cancellation of this discriminating formality would effect a vast saving of time and trouble now required in the filling up of residential reports and all other official documents.

The representation was finally referred to a special committee for more detailed consideration.

CHINA'S FOREIGN DEBT.

Before the outbreak of the war with Japan, 1894-95, the foreign debt incurred by China was insignificant in amount, the only loan of which any portion now remains outstanding being a small one of £115,080 at 7 per cent, issued in 1886. Of this amount £61,980 has been redeemed (to Dec. 31, 1906), leaving £53,100 still to be redeemed.

The government had some knowledge of the financial history of Turkey and of Egypt, writes a correspondent of the London Times, and it steadily resisted all blandishments to "improve its estate" on borrowed money.

But the thirty years of peace from 1864 to 1894 were followed by some very expensive events. First the war with Japan, with its resulting indemnity and the necessity of rearmament.

Next came the midsummer madness of 1900, which was punished by the various powers with the infliction of an indemnity demand footing up about £67,000,000. At the time of the Russo-Japanese war another loan of £1,000,000 was floated. In addition there are the railway loans all with a government guarantee.

The total amount of the foreign debt constituting an obligation of the imperial government and secured on its revenues, including government loans not yet paid off, indemnity (1901) and railway loans is as follows:

Total amount of original issue, £135,276,680; charge in 1906 for interest and sinking fund (including one redemption in January, 1907), £7,433,749; paid off to Jan. 31, 1907, £9,974,241; outstanding Jan. 31, 1907, £125,295,839.

LITERARY MECCA OF ENGLAND.

Westminster Gazette: The place to which the lover of English literature will sooner or later turn his steps is Twickenham. No other small town can boast of having been the residence and beloved abode of so many famous literary lights.

With it are associated the immortal names of Pope, Horace Walpole, Swift, Gay, Lady Worthy Montagu, Gibbon, Boswell, Johnson, Tennyson and Dickens. Surely this is enough to make any place doubly immortal! Twickenham was well nicknamed by Horace Walpole the Balae, or Tivoli of England; for it has truly been to London what Balae was to ancient Rome—indeed, in a far higher degree.

The big red brick house in Montpelier road where Alfred Tennyson lived for so many years of his earlier married life was one in which many of his earlier poems were written. Here his son, Lionel, the second Lord Tennyson, was born, and there the author of "Idyls" entertained many of his literary friends and acquaintances.

That house should surely be sacred to all lovers of English literature which saw the dawn of "In Memoriam;" which witnessed those delightful gatherings graced by Tennyson, Hallam and kindred spirits within its walls. It is today called "Tennyson House" and is now without a tenant.

DATE SET BY DEMOCRATS

County Delegate Convention Will be Held on May 9.

County Committee Will Probably Hold Meeting Next Saturday.

The executive committee of the Democratic county committee is meeting this afternoon. It will decide upon a date for a meeting of the county committee. W. B. Getchell, W. E. McEwen and August Habgerg comprise the executive committee.

The Democratic county convention, called for the purpose of electing twenty-nine delegates to the state convention for naming delegates to the national convention, has been called for May 9, at the city hall. The state convention will be held in St. Paul on May 14. It will elect twenty-two delegates, including four delegates-at-large, to attend the Denver convention on July 7.

The primary election for selecting delegates to attend the county convention will be held throughout the city and county on May 6. Probably one delegate will be allowed for every 250 votes cast for Johnson at the last state election. It will also be the duty of the county convention to designate a resident of the county, who shall be recommended to the state convention as a suitable member for the state central committee from this county.

It is a practical certainty that the meeting of the Democratic county committee will be called for next Saturday evening, at the St. Louis hotel. This will give Mr. McEwen and the range members an opportunity to be present.

Mr. McEwen arrived in the city last night from St. Paul. He says that while there have been no special developments this week, aside from the formal announcement of Governor Johnson that he would accept the Democratic nomination for president if tendered him, there has been a generous amount of interest in things political. Friends of Governor Johnson, he says, are confident that he has a good show of winning out against Bryan at the national convention.

The state convention for nominating a state ticket will be held late in the summer, after the national convention.

For a Real Yachting Trophy.

There is much earnest talk among prominent yacht owners of providing a new trophy to represent the supremacy of American yachting and holding it up to invite the challenge of the yachting world, but on more liberal terms and conditions than the arrangement now existing. LABOR

WILLIAMS GIVES TALK

Labor Commissioner Discusses Trade Schools and the Lid.

Says Sunday Saloons Are a Curse to Laboring Man.

Trade schools and manual training departments, taxation, politics, religion, the liquor question and the union label all came in for attention at the hands of State Labor Commissioner W. H. Williams, in a talk before the Federated Trades assembly, at its regular meeting in Kalamazoo hall last night. He expressed himself as strongly favoring trade schools and manual training, and said the lid was a good thing, incidentally remarking that politics was "the rottenest business any man ever engaged in."

"I realize that a good many members of organized labor are opposed to the trade school idea, but their opposition is due to the fact that they have not carefully investigated the matter," said Mr. Williams. "I do not believe any man who looks into the merits of the question can consistently oppose the establishment of trade schools in connection with our educational system throughout the country. It is within the power of every member of organized labor to learn for himself the advantages and disadvantages of the new system, and he should not pass an opinion until he has looked the matter up. I have looked into this thing pretty carefully, and am thoroughly convinced that the idea of the trades school is a good one, and that it should be carried out. And the girls should receive attention as well as the boys in this direction, especially in the line of cooking, and other instruction tending to make them better fitted to become wives and mothers.

"I recently visited the famous Stout school at Menomonie, Wis., in company with sixteen members of the school boards of St. Paul and Minneapolis. This school, which is a gift of State Senator Stout to his home city, is, in my estimation, one of the best of its kind in the country, if not the very best. The courses are so arranged as to give instruction to the children from the kindergarten up in manual training, while most manual training schools admit only such pupils as are graduates of the eighth grade.

"Those who are prejudiced against trades' instruction departments in our schools claim such schools are turning out strike-breakers. This is not true. Boys thus educated learn the true value of their labor, and readily see the justice of the union designed to hold this scale at a proper figure. It has been shown that 75 per cent of the boys who finish a four-years' course at a good trade school, supplemented with an apprenticeship of one year in the trade they have selected, make better mechanics than those who spend the entire five years as apprentices. The apprentice merely absorbs his knowledge from watching and assisting the trained mechanic he is working with, while the student in the trades' school is given practical instruction. The why and wherefor of everything is explained to him carefully by competent instructors, and he is thus able to make much better progress than would be the case if he were forced to get all his knowledge from a man who is working by the hour, or by the piece, and who, therefore, has no time to devote to careful instruction of his assistant.

The Union Label.

"While I am talking I want to say something in regard to the union label. Too much cannot be said about the label. Members of organized labor have to be continually reminded that they should call upon their wives and children to do the same. If every union man, and every union's man's family, demanded the union label in the purchase of goods, there would be more than enough work in all lines to accommodate skilled labor of every description, and none of our men would be out of work anywhere. The output of union factories would be so increased that the working forces would be greatly increased. Insist upon the union label, boys; by so doing you may be giving some poor devil a job.

The Lid Question.

"And before closing, I want to pass a few remarks on the lid question. I am absolutely in favor of the lid. It is the best thing for the welfare of the laboring man that could possibly happen. The saloon is called the laboring man's club room. It is a mighty good thing to have these club rooms done away with, especially on Sunday. They are a curse to the laboring man. Under the delusion that he is resting and enjoying a little recreation, a laboring man will spend all day Sunday in a saloon, playing cards and buying beer, until half his week's wages, or more, are gone. I am talking from experience. I have been there myself, and am no better than the other fellow. Saloons are taking the bread and butter out of the mouths of our wives and children. I do not believe in prohibition, exactly, but do believe in clamping on the lid reasonably tight, and by reasonably tight I mean the saloons should be closed all day Sunday, and after 11 o'clock at night.

Of course, politics has more or less to do with the lid. Politics is the rottenest business man ever got into. I have been in it for a long time, and I know. It is impossible for a man to get into politics and not become tainted in some fashion. We may have different ideas as to the value of ministers, but we all must agree that they are doing good work in the matter of the lid."

Pastor Talks.

Rev. J. A. Lumley, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church of West Duluth, followed Mr. Williams with a bunch of funny stories, and words of sincere appreciation of the value of organized labor. He said he had once been a union man himself, and that since his graduation into the ministry his sympathies had always been with organized labor, and he stood ready to help out the movement at any time, and in any way possible.

No business of special importance came up at the meeting. Aside from the talks mentioned above, everything was of a routine nature.

It is said that after May 1 the restaurant and hotel waiters of the city will refuse tips, on the ground that the tipping system tends to keep wages at a lower scale than would otherwise be the case. The matter is understood to have been discussed by the waiters, and the majority of union men, it is said, have taken a stand against the tipping system.

The labor situation hadn't much new to offer this week. The lockout situation remains unchanged. Common labor is in a little better demand than it was last week. The common labor situation, it is expected, will improve from now on. Developments between the building trades and the contractors are expected soon.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

Cheap Substitues and "Just As Good As."

Unscrupulous dealers, mindful only of profit and caring nothing for the health of their patrons, are offering for sale low-grade, impure whiskey, which they tell you is as "good as Duffy's."

It is a cheap concoction and fraud, intended to deceive the people.

Of course, when a remedy has been before the public so long, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in all the prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessing of health into so many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances renders it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

Any firm that will sell imitation or substitution goods will sell impure drugs. The firm that is dishonest in one thing would not hesitate to be dishonest in another. Whenever you see imitation and substitution goods offered for sale by a firm, beware of anything and everything put up by that firm. You endanger your own life and the lives of your family and friends by dealing with them.

BEWARE OF FRAUDS!

Duffey's Pure Malt Whiskey

is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. A facsimile of the genuine bottle, full size, is printed here so that you may easily recognize it. REFUSE IMITATIONS AND SUBSTITUTES

When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine, which is the only absolutely pure malt whiskey containing medicinal, health-giving qualities. CONDITIONS IN NEVADA

R. K. Toms, Former Duluthian, Says Opinions of Rawhide Differ.

New Town of Ely Being Built Near Old Site.

R. K. Toms, a representative of one of the large copper companies of Ely and Ruth, Nev., is at the St. Louis today. Mr. Toms, who is a former Duluth man, left this afternoon for the range on important business in connection with the affairs of his company.

"They are constructing the biggest smelter and concentrator in the world, at McGills, seven miles from Ely," said Mr. Toms. "The smelter will be near the location of one of the largest of the consolidated company's mines. The completion of the new smelter will give a wonderful impetus to the Nevada copper development.

"There is a rich copper producing district of almost nine square miles in the Ely district. Eastern capital is heavily interested in developing this ore. Prospectors are there in abundance and are continually searching for new finds. Active work on the taking out of the copper ore will begin in May."

Opinions in Nevada differ as to the richness of the newly discovered mines at Rawhide, the latest gold camp in Nevada. Mr. Toms says returning prospectors are optimistic if they have been lucky, or pessimistic if they have failed to strike a find. It is too early to judge of the richness of the new mines at Rawhide.

The people in Nevada believe in the advance in copper. They have felt both the money stringency and the decline in copper. Work has been curtailed somewhat, but Mr. Toms states that active preparations are underway for the heavy development of copper property this spring.

They are building a new Ely, about a mile from the site of the old town. Everything in the new town is modern. Buildings, houses and all the things that go to make the thoroughly up to date town are there. The Easterner and his automobile have invaded Nevada. The automobile can travel the flat Nevada prairies like a macadam street. College men, engineering experts, adventurers in search of a strike, and men from almost every clime make up the picturesque population that composes the 7,000 inhabitants of Ely.

The American car, at the present time in the lead in the New York to Paris automobile contest, passed within a mile of one of the Consolidated company's mines. The drivers were comparatively fresh, but the machine looked like it had forded creeks, bucked snowbanks and fought the varying elements since leaving the sheltered life of well paved New York.

LACK OF CONFIDENCE IN FINNISH SENATE.

Helsingfors, March 28.—At the close of a heated debate in the Finnish diet, which lasted until 5 o'clock this morning, the Socialist members carried a vote of lack of confidence in the senate by 71 to 47. The debate arose over certain anti-Finnish interpellations in the Russian duma. The Socialists formally censured the Finnish administration for the delivering of Russian Terrorists and political agitators to the Russian authorities and for lack of firmness in resisting Russian encroashments upon the rights of Finland, and the demanded the retirement of the senate as incapable of finding the autonomy of Finland against the reactionary campaign in Russia.

TOURNEY IS NEARING END

St. Paul, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seven shifts of singles were put on in the state bowling tournament last evening, but none of the forty-two men was able to overtop Campbell's high score of 622. Con Sandblom did the best rolling of the evening, getting 597 which puts him in tenth place. The only other men to do much were P. E. Amlius with 585 and Frank Malone with 583, both of whom were well up in the money.

Interest in the last shift centered on Harry Muggley, who had to make an average of 204 in his three games to beat Heilmake, but he was not hitting them right, and got scores of only 180, 183, and 193, for a total of 556. After getting 190 in his first game, Johnson rolled 245 in his second, but came back again in the third with a 161, for a total of 575.

The tournament will come to an end this evening, with one shift of doubles at 6:30 o'clock, followed by five shifts of singles. Several of the North St. Pauls and Jacksons will roll in the singles this evening, so there is still a chance of the records being broken.

BOYS' DEPT. NOTES

Another crowded house greeted the boys' department minstrels last night on their second appearance. Every seat in the house was filled and the audience was thoroughly pleased with the performance. The opening number was a horizontal bar exhibition by Dr. W. H. Olson, Charles Lindbloom and Albert Olson, physical director of the boys' department. They did some very clever work and were heartily encored.

The second number was the comedietta "The Happy Pair," by Miss Agnes Johnson and George Wilson. The entertainment closed with the boys' department minstrels. Winn Francisco acted as interlocutor, and kept the crowd in good humor from start to finish. Charles Cargill, Fred Ryan, Stanley Lamb and Laurence Duby were the end men. They had a good line of jokes and were repeatedly encored. The musical numbers were:

"I'd Rather Be on the Outside Lookin' In" ..... Charles Cargill
"Gratitude" ..... Fred Ryan
"I'm Going on the War Path" ..... Cecil Gilliland
"Smile, Smile, Smile" ..... Joe Lonegren and Erling Mostue

"Just Help Yourself" ..... Joe Lonegren
"He Goes to Church on Sunday" ..... Sidney Morterud
"Much Obliged to You" ..... Stanley Lamb
"Because You're You" ..... Erling Mostue

Miss L. McKaskill was the accompanist.

The music was furnished by the boys' department orchestra, Erling Mostue, leader, and Cecil Gilliland, pianist.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

The quarterly union rally, held last evening at the Pilgrim Congregational church, was poorly attended, on account of the stormy weather. The Christian Endeavorers were addressed by Rev. Alex. Milne, pastor of the Congregational church. He spoke on the Christian Endeavor pledge, telling of its most important points, and how they should be observed. The reports of the committees showed that good work was being done by the society. The Pilgrim Congregational society won the attendance pennant, as they had an attendance of 80 per cent.

The members of the social committee of the Congregational society deserve great credit for the excellent work they did in preparing for the social part of the rally. Each member of the committee was given charge of a table, which was placed in a room prettily decorated. The rooms were decorated in different ways. One room was decorated in the C. E. colors, another in pink and white, another with evergreens, and another with sunflowers. The endeavorers were directed to the different rooms by cards, painted with some design, denoting the different rooms, according to their decorations.

BRYAN NOT IN FAVOR OF FIGHT

In Minnesota Against Johnson, But Radicals Keep It Up.

Washington, March 28.—Since his arrival in Washington, W. J. Bryan has received news that North Dakota had instructed its delegation for him, and he expressed much satisfaction.

It can be authoritatively stated that Mr. Bryan, himself, does not favor a fight in Minnesota for a delegation. He is decidedly inclined to concede the delegation to Governor Johnson, but the matter of local control and of party organization in the North Star state seems to have reached a point where it must be fought out.

The radical Bryan men in Minnesota, according to statements here today, would not be pulled off, and before the overtures for an amicable peace between the Bryan and Johnson following could be formulated by Mr. Bryan's managers here and elsewhere, his followers in Minnesota had declared war on Frank Day.

News of the Theater

AT THE LYCEUM

Viola Allen Will Appear in "Irene Wycherley," "Tillie Olson" and the Mack-Leone Company During Remainder of the Week.

Viola Allen will appear at the Lyceum theater next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Allen, it is claimed, has never done more thoroughly worthy and high class work than in her reproduction of "Irene Wycherley," a drama she secured during a recent visit to London, where critics and patrons had acclaimed it as one of the most original and effective stage contributions shown in many years. So impressive was its effect on Miss Allen that she secured it and decided to abandon, temporarily, the Shakespearean impersonations in which she is so popular, and to bring to the attention of American theater-goers this remarkable play. It was written by a university professor, Anthony B. Wharton of the University of Dublin, and in effect it is frankly and without equivocation a hard blow struck in the interests of the anti-divorce agitation that is now, and has been for a year or more, sweeping the country. It is one of the best arguments in favor of that feeling that has yet been presented to the public, and yet it is altogether by an accident that the play carries that weight, for the divorce mission is wholly a side issue in the play, and while it forms an integral part of the same, is not the main theme by any means. The situation that is raised by the author is as follows:

Irene Wycherley is a woman who has unfortunately married a man in the belief that he is clean, morally, and awakens to the realization that he is a brutal libertine, without honor and without decency. She leaves him, after suffering four years, and only then because he has struck her across the face with his riding whip. She has been parted from him four years when the play opens, and it is at this time that Sir Peter Wycherley, her father-in-law, comes to her with the avowed intention of inducing her to return to her husband; for, as he points out, the family will die with Philip unless there are children to carry the name on. Irene assures him that what he asks is impossible, as she would never trust herself with his son again. He then asks her why she will not divorce his son, and Irene replies:

"You know that in the Roman Catholic church there is no such thing as divorce."

"To add to Irene's complications, she finds that she has fallen somewhat under the spell of Harry Chesterton, a man whom she discovers has fallen in love with her. When she realizes this, she sends him away from her. At this point, Sir Peter returns and tells her that his son, Philip, has been seriously injured in the hunting field, and that there is small hope of his recovery. Irene decides at once that in this case her duty is plain, and that she must go to him at once.

In the second act Irene is seen making desperate efforts to bring herself to live amicably with her husband, and to light down the disgust and resentment with which she regards him. Sir Peter does his best to stiffen her determination, holding out to her the necessity of "duty."

Liebler & Co., who again direct Miss Allen's tours, have provided a company that is quite remarkable for the prominence of its individual members in the lines of their work. Edwin Arden has the role of the husband, Marie Wainwright and Grant Stewart are the mother and father, respectively, and others in the cast are Nellie Thorne, Paul McAllister, Mrs. Sam Sothern, Norah Lamison and Mrs. Ben Webster.

"TILLIE OLSON."

Swedish Dialect Comedy Will be Seen at the Lyceum.

A Swedish dialect comedy, in which the action of the story is made to revolve about the person of a bright and witty young Swedish girl, would seem to promise a maximum measure of entertainment. The play "Tilly Olson," which Manager Fred Faulkner announces for presentation at the Lyceum Monday night only, is claimed to be the best drama of its class that has yet been shown. The only Swedish character in it is Tilly Olson, but her ready wit and resourceful spirit dominate the action of the story. The rest of the characters are products of the great Northwest, the scene being laid first on a Minnesota farm and later in the city of Minneapolis. "Tilly" proves to be a very entertaining stage creation, for she is bright and witty and with a fund of good humor hidden beneath the imperturbability for which her nation is noted. The situations of the play are said to be extremely amusing and the comedy is clean cut and scintillating with good things from beginning to end. Some original specialties are introduced and a fine quartette is carried for the church scene. An adequate scenic equipment has been provided, every scene being from the studio of Messrs. Moses & Hamilton of the Broadway theater, New York. The title role will be played by Miss Emily Erickson Greene. Another prominent member of the cast is Master Georgie Falkner.

"THELMA."

Marie Corelli's Own Dramatization Will Be Shown Here.

The Mack-Leone players have but three nights and a Saturday matinee during the coming week, and their bill selected for these four performances is a dramatization of Marie Corelli's great novel, "Thelma."

MISS GEORGIE RAMEY, At the Bijou Next Week.

JOE BARTON, At the Metropolitan.

While the play has been given many times in Duluth, the Mack-Leone people are the first to present the authorized version by Miss Corelli herself. The story of the beautiful Norwegian girl's love for the English aristocrat, their subsequent marriage, the influence of London's society upon the daughter of the North, the return to her Norway home and the final reconciliation of husband and wife, while Olaf Guldmar, Thelma's father sails out to sea in his blazing ship, to die as the Vikings of old, will all be shown, artistically and scenically as it has never been done here before.

There will be a Saturday matinee.

LYCEUM NOTES.

News and Gossip of Attractions Coming to Duluth.

Manager Marshall of the Lyceum has booked some very strong attractions for the spring, among which are Liebler & Co.'s "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Coming Thro' the Rye," a musical comedy that was a big success in New York last season and Clay Clement in his old favorite "The New Dominion."

Jules Murry's production of George V. Hobart's new play, "The Wheel of Love," is announced to be brought here in the near future. Paul Gilmore, who will be remembered for his work last year in "At Yale," has the stellar role. The play is called a semi-western automobile love romance.

"Buster Brown" is coming. The date is fixed for April 10 and 11. The annual visit of "Buster" is always looked forward to with happy expectancy, by the children who have seen him, and the later crop of youngsters who haven't.

A number of the latest musical hits are sung during the action of the play, and the supporting company is the strongest that has ever appeared in the piece.

Play, company and scenery are the three very important requisites contained in W. F. Mann's production, "The Cow-Puncher," which is booked at the Lyceum for Monday and Tuesday, April 20 and 21. Manager Mann has always brought out some splendid attractions in the past and the success of "The Cow-Puncher" in the East last season was quite pronounced.

William H. Taft, the secretary of war and presidential candidate, has been made the subject of a burlesque by Al. G. Field, the minstrel manager, who is coming to the Lyceum. The skit is most humorous, and touches upon the recent visit of Mr. Taft to the Philippines, Japan and Russia, while his recent political pronouncements on the government's policy toward our colonial possessions, and the political agitation at home, is handled in a manner, that if not instructing, is at least amusing. The secretary's speech in the Philippine skit in which he is impersonated by Al. G. Field in black face, is hardly in line with his original utterances either at home or abroad, especially the speeches at home, in which the stage impersonation makes the secretary attempt to contradict William Jennings Bryan.

The greatest care possible has been exercised in forming this season's company for the Pixley and Luder musical comedy success, "The Burgomaster." Manager William P. Cullen has re-engaged the original "Burgomaster" in the person of Gus Weinburg, also the well known prima donna, Ruth White, who will again be seen in her original creation of Willie Van Astorbilt. Mr. Weinburg and Miss White have appeared here in many characters, but never to better advantage or more favorable auspices than in "The Burgomaster." Messrs. Pixley and Luder certainly had these artists in mind when they wrote this musical masterpiece.

FINANCIERING IN THE KITCHEN.

Anna Steese Richardson, in the Womans' Home Companion, gives some helps that are of inestimable value to the housewife, and especially to the girl who earns her own living.

One woman writes her:

"How can I earn money without leaving home? Can a woman whose one talent is housekeeping turn it to practical account?"

Her reply in part is:

"The woman who can cook well, who knows how to prepare dainty as well as wholesome food, who has something worth offering in the culinary line, is really better off today than the home girl who is an indifferent cook, but free to turn to office or store when the family income drives her to wage earning.

"In every city the country over you will find women who seldom leave their kitchens, yet make incomes that put a stenographer or bookkeeper to shame.

"They bake cakes, bread and pies for women's work, or grocers. They specialize on salads or jellies or home-made candies. They provide college spreads in university towns. They cater to hostesses who cannot afford the professional caterer from the nearest city, and whose servants are not to be trusted with dainties for luncheons, card parties, receptions, etc."

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Tom Miner's Bohemians, With Andy Gardner, Ida Nicholai, Billy Spencer, Joe Barton, Carew and Hayes and Many Others, Will Be Here Next Week.

The New York favorites, Miner's Bohemians will frolic during the coming week at the Metropolitan, giving the usual matinees and an amateurs' night Friday.

This season they are presenting what is considered the best entertainment they ever had. The burlesque offering is "The Summer Time," written for the Bohemians by Barney Garard and Dave Marion. Both of these writers have furnished Empire circuit shows with good stuff in the past.

Andy Gardner and Ida Nicholai head the company, which is a large one, and includes Billy Spencer, "The Original Grogan"; Carew and Hayes in their Western novelty, "The Mad Stampede"; the Great Joe Barton and Brother, trick bicyclists, and the Bohemian Trio of singers and dancers. In addition, there is, of course, a large chorus of fair, young Bohemians.

Andy Gardner has two new songs, which have been making a big hit all over the circuit. They are "The Fly Old Moon" and "She Said Hello, and So Did I, and Then We Both Said Good Bye." Gardner is said to be making even a greater hit with these than he did with "He Walked Right In and Turned Around and Walked Right Out Again."

AT THE BIJOU

Seven Samois, Arabian Acrobats, Will Be One of the Principle Features Next Week---New England Playlet, Entitled "Cynthia's Visit."

The bill of vaudeville at the Bijou next week should draw crowded houses at each performance. Heading the bill will be the seven Samois, Arabian rapid-fire acrobats. This European feature was imported by the United Theaters company, and they are recognized as one of Europe's best troupes of acrobats. They will appear at every performance during the week.

Among the other feature attractions will be Mrs. James B. Macks, Lily Dean Hart and Peter LaMarr, who present a beautiful New England playlet entitled "Cynthia's Visit." The playlet has a bright story of New England life, and is brim full of refined comedy with a sprinkling of pathos throughout its lines.

A very interesting number will be given by Georgie O. Ramey, who is one of the bright musical comedy stars now in vaudeville. Miss Ramey has a charming appearance and introduces an act of singing, dancing and character changes that never fails to bring her rounds of applause from her hearers.

Another European act of considerable note will be Walter Rivers and Nina Rochester, who are an Australian vocal comedy sketch duo, introducing many new songs and bits of comedy in a style of their own that makes them one of the popular hits in vaudeville.

A spectacular novelty of considerable note will be Prof. H. Armand's electric scenic production entitled "The City of Yesterday," or the San Francisco earthquake. This is not presented by a moving picture machine, but a car load of scenery and electrical effects, which makes it one of the most interesting novelties ever offered to the public in the amusement line.

The moving pictures will be "The Useful Hackensmith" and "The Adventures of a Cabin Boy." Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Ellen Beach Yaw's Debut as an Operatic Prima Donna Proves a Success---Bon Mots and Anecdotes of Footlight Favorites.

New York, March 28.—Ellen Beach Yaw, who used to be heard often on the concert platform, emerged last Saturday night as a full-fledged operatic prima donna at the Metropolitan opera house, singing Lucia in Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor." The opera was put on for the first time this season in order to give her an appearance, which was in the nature of a test of her fitness for further usefulness in the house. The Sun says that the performance was heard by a large audience and Miss Yaw was applauded with vigor which at times became vociferous. The attitude of her hearers was friendly at the start and approving at the finish. Hence it becomes necessary to record a popular success.

Miss Yaw has a soprano voice of light color and slender body, but it is a decidedly agreeable organ in its better part. Long ago great stress was laid on the ability of this soprano to sing higher notes than any one else in the world, present or past. It has been asserted that she could sing a C an octave above the familiar "high C" of all other sopranos. In "Quando rapito" Saturday night she sang a high G, the same tone which Sybil Sanderson made famous in "Esclarmonde" in 1889 as her "Eiffel Tower note."

The value of such notes, however, lies not so much in altitude as in beauty. It can be said of Miss Yaw's amazingly high tones that they are most filamentous and phantasmal. They sound like the echoes of notes. They may astonish, but that is about the best that can be said for them.

On the other hand, the fundamental part of her voice is really good and to hear it gives pleasure. She has some mannerisms in her style, but she sings in tune and phrases with breadth and generally with taste. She sang the traditional cadenza in the "mad scene," and had to repeat it. Miss Yaw's principal associates were Mr. Bonci, an admirable Edgardo, and Mr. Stracciari, a tolerable Enrico.

"While I was once playing 'Richard III.' in a small city in England, the following incident occurred," said Robert Mantell. "The performance went along all right until I came to the speech, 'A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse,' when some young fellow in the gallery called out: 'Won't a donkey do just as well, Mr. Mantell?' 'Yes,' I said, 'come right up on the stage, my man.'"

We can't help wondering what Richard Mansfield's conduct would have been under the circumstances.

Apropos of the above, an incident in the career of the elder Booth (Junius Brutus, father of Edwin), was current for many years in Boston, that, while playing Richard at the Boston museum one night, Mr. Booth, on making his exit after the lines: "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse," rushed from the stage and down the rear entrance and into the alley. There he found a horse that was hitched to a post, which he instantly mounted, thus intensifying the realism, to him, of the situation, and away he sped. How far he rode in his mad search for "another Richmond" before Richard again became the mortal Booth, was never known. But horse and rider were both found in the outskirts of Salem the following morning, while the audience waited in vain for the reappearance of the greatest Richard that has ever been seen upon the mimic stage.

Katheryn Kidder recently related an incident that occurred while she was appearing in the title role of "Mme. Sans Gene:"

"I was playing the part of the blanchisseuse in the laundry scene and was busily ironing," said she, "when a cat which had its home somewhere about the theater came walking onto the stage. I thought this would furnish a good opportunity to give a realistic domestic touch to the scene, and so, when puss came purring up and rubbed against me, I stroked her fur, spoke to her, and then, for fear she might be distracted, I picked her up and put her down on the nearest place at hand, saying, 'There, pussy, go to sleep.' The cat curled up contentedly, and I went on with my new lines. Suddenly I was aware of a murmur among the audience which increased to a ripple of laughter. I realized something was up, and turned instinctively to look at puss. There she was, asleep where I had put her, among the irons on the 'red hot' range."

Jefferson DeAngelis describes the following incident, which took place in a church in New York, where he had dropped in casually to hear an evening sermon. Directly in front of the pew to which DeAngelis was ushered, was one occupied by a deacon of the church. On this particular occasion a drunken man staggered into the deacon's pew and sat down. The preacher was discoursing about prevalent popular vices. Soon, he exclaimed, "Where is the drunkard?" The man was just far enough gone to think the call was personal. So, rising heavily, he replied, "Here I am," and remained standing while the drunkard's character and fate was eloquently portrayed. A few moments later the preacher another head of the discourse and asked, "Where is the hypocrite?" Gently nudging his neighbor, the drunkard said in an audible whisper: "Stand up, deacon. He means you this time. Stand up and take it like a man, just as I did! It will do you good!"

A great deal has been written regarding Wilton Lackaye's protuberant sense of humor. One of the latest is almost worthy of the comedian himself. The man who makes Lackaye say funny things in the papers scratched this one out:

During the engagement of "The Bondman" in an Eastern city the past season the vegetarian society gave a banquet to Mr. Lackaye and the members of his company. The menu was made up entirely of wheat served in various forms. A clergyman who had been invited to attend the banquet was very late in arriving. Some one mentioned the fact that a minister was expected and the vegetarians awaited his arrival in order that he might ask a blessing before the meal was served. Lackaye offered his services and was escorted to the head of the table. While all bowed their heads reverentially, Lackaye said with great seriousness: "There is no clergyman present—let us thank God."

That opportunity may make the man, but the part the actor, is instanced by the experience of John Barrymore, who, for his performance of Lord Meadows in "Toddles" is today spoken of as "one of the best of our living farceurs." Practicing a resourcefulness an ingenuity only less brilliant than his father's, Mr. Barrymore has built up the part of Toddles until the farce as a farce is forgotten, and one playgoer's advice to another is "go see Jack Barrymore play 'Toddles.'"

OLGA NETHERSOLE DENOUNCES CRITICS

Says Office of the Critic is Obsolete and Also Pernicious---In Its Place Would Rear a University of Acting.

MISS Olga Nethersole met a New York Herald reporter in her dressing room in Daly's theater. The appointment was for a day on which the actress had a matinee performance. Her carriage was late, and when Miss Nethersole appeared it was well after 1 o'clock.

"The beastly weather has made me tardy. But we'll have our chat nevertheless. Call me 10 minutes before 2." The latter remark was addressed to the maid, who was then dismissed by a wave of the hand.

Miss Nethersole threw off her street wraps and motioned to a chair, while she sat at a table. It was a high ceilinged dressing room, one that had been occupied by other eminent players, and the walls of which have doubtless listened to famous discussions by famous Thespians. But it is doubtful if ever the four upright boundaries of this chamber heard a more sincere plea voiced more sincerely by a woman—or man either, for that matter.

The only light in the room was furnished by the electric bulbs that framed the mirror of the actress dressing table, and the mirror caught the glare and threw it across the face of the speaker.

During the hour which the interview lasted there was not a smile to be seen upon Miss Nethersole's features. She was in deep earnest and spoke with the conviction of a woman who had given her subject very mature consideration and was not to be shaken in her premises nor in her conclusions.

When the conversational ball was set a-rolling the reporter did not suspect the presence of an eloquent mind. He had interviewed people of the stage before and his experience had taught him that the ball of talk was apt to be tossed about by whim and caprice until it settled into a groove. But in Miss Nethersole he encountered one who had firmly determined upon the topic. She was exceedingly gracious about it and even gave the reporter an opportunity to direct the converation; but that move, as you will see later, was but a ruse.

"The Herald is very generous to place its columns at my disposal for an interview. I have read some of the Herald interviews—one especially in which Miss Ethel Barrymore indulged in some comments about me."

"Yes," said the reporter, supposing she wished to pursue that particular topic. "And what is your opinion, in return, of Miss Barrymore's art?"

"No, thank you. I've not seen Miss Barrymore for years. I knew her when she was quite young—her father was in my company, you know, and she used to come to the theater. I remember once letting her look over my wardrobe, with which she seemed delighted. Her mother I never knew, but I am told that she was possessed of a caustic wit, and I fear me"—and here Miss Nethersole shrugged her shoulders deprecatingly—"that Miss Ethel has inherited that wit from her mother.

"But discuss Miss Barrymore I will not," continued the actress, "for I do not think she is important enough. She indulged in some personalities about me—and I could not possibly take the time to do the same about her. There is something far more serious in my mind at present. Listen to me."

Miss Nethersole lighted a cigarette and puffed sententiously a moment.

"I want to make myself perfectly clear. Instead of only assuming the artistic responsibilities of my company I also assume the financial risks. I am my own backer and the expenses of this undertaking are about $5,000 a week, which sum, when figuring on the basis of a full year, amounts to about $250,000—quite apart from any salary that must be taken as my compensation. Is that clear?"

The reporter admitted aloud that it was, pefectly, and inwardly he groaned at the prospect of having to listen to some details of business connected with a theatrical venture. Not even then did he suspect the trend of conversation which Miss Nethersole was bringing about.

"Now, is it not reasonable to suppose that a business enterprise which pays out $250,000 in salaries and expenses should be entitled to let us say commercial respect?

"You agree? Good. Yet, instead of earning the respect to which you admit I am entitled—I say I because I am quoting my particular case, but there are hundreds of parallel instances, commercially—what happens? I put before the public the results of my brain, my talent, my art—I and those of the other members of this company—and I invite a certain number of critics to see the performance.

"These critics have it in their power, sometimes by the single stroke of a pen, to put into the gutter all that I, that we have striven for. And the wickedest part of is all is that we actors have absolutely no means of knowing whether or not the men who sit in judgment upon us are qualified in any way to pronounce the verdict which they utter."

Miss Nethersole spoke with impressive seriousness. The fire had died from her cigarette but she did not heed that at all. She caught her breath and then plunged again into the very heart of her subject.

"Understand me right. I do not level that at any one particular person of the dramatic critical profession. I have quite a number of acquantances among the critics and some even whom I value and esteem as friends. I am never false to a friend, yet the serious truth of the situation compels me to declare that the office of the critic is obsolete. Not only is the office of the critic obsolete, but it is at present a pernicious one."

"Why is the critic's office obsolete?" asked the reporter. And the answer stood ready:

"Because it has outlived the purpose for which it was created. At first the critic was intended, or was conceived or whatever you choose to call it, to lead the great public aright in its tastes, to guide it in finding, let us say, the melody. But no power on earth can persuade me into believing that the great American public, the vast New York public, needs to be guided in finding the 'melody.' They can find it for themselves very readily.

"You Americans are wonderful people. And the most wonderful part about you is your press. That institution has greater power today than it ever had, and nowhere in the world is the press so great as in America.

American and Foreign Newspapers.

"The newspapers of America have revolutionized all of newspaperdom. Instead of setting itself up to tell the people what to think and how to think about any topic, the American newspapers give their reading public facts, facts and again facts. The paper here says to its readers: 'Here is what happened; now think for yourself.' How the London papers sneered at the American tabloid method. But how, also, are they coming to employ just that method. Why? Because it is the only way to treat an intelligent people. Are not the methods of American newspapers being investigated by men of science and of statemanship from every part of the world? The reason is obvious, I assure you.

"This is not digression," went on Miss Nethersole. "To the contrary, it is in the direct line, for I firmly believe that the American newspapers will revolutionize the critical question by abolishing the office of the critic. I am speaking frankly and am looking at this subject according to the demands of commercialism.

"Suppose a man opens a big store. Does he send out invitations to people to come and criticise his store and his wares? No; he invites the public to patronize him, and he tells the public how good his wares are. If they are not good the public will not return there, and so he invites his own destruction by not dealing fairly with the public. But we theatrical managers invite the public, and we invite the critics, too; and before the great public has had an opportunity to judge of the wares offered at the theater the critics are given voice the following morning to declare these wares profoundly bad. Does it seem logical and just? Could any newspaper print a criticism of articles that are offered for sale by stores which advertise their wares in the self-same newspaper? Hardly."

"But is not this putting the art of the theater upon a sheerly commercial basis?" asked the interviewer.

"No, it is only ranging it at its real commercial value. There is art in the theater; there must be, else the whole theatrical structure would fall, but there must also be commerce—if there were not the same structure would fall, too. But after all, commerce is nature. Nature gives nothing for nothing; it barters upon the basis of something for something, always. If you spend what forces nature has given you, you become bankrupt; if you save them you become rich in health and strength. That is equity, that is nature—and that is commercialism.

"I am a natural woman. I have sacrificed my personal comfort, my social duties, my fancies and what not for my art. In addition, I carry the financial burden of my artistic enterprise—why should all that be put at the mercy of the critics, who may and who may not be capable of judging me and my art? It is unjust, and I tell you it all points to the fact that the post of the critic is an obsolete one and should be abolished."

"But Miss Nethersole, so far your attitude has been one of critical destruction. You probably preach that instead of pulling down, something should be reared. What would you rear in place?"

"I would rear a university of acting, and it is there that the critic would find their just vocation. Let them, instead of trying to tell the public what to think, let them teach the actors how to act—that is, if they are able. Let the faculty of teachers of this university be made up of critics who have been selected by masters in the various branches of learning that go to make up actors—say elocution, literature, etiquette. Some of the critics might be found wanting, you know—and they would have to fall by the wayside, just as the actors fall who are found wanting. Let this great university of acting have its branches in all the principal cities, and if the critics are found capable there will be ample employment for them all.

"You are to have a national theater here. I believe it is to be called the New theater. I bow profoundly in reverence to this scheme—but, alas, the cart has been put before the horses. Where are the actors to come from who will appear at the New theater? The plan is like establishing a hospital before there are any doctors, and that you know, would be laughed to scorn. Better first establish a university of acting, and then let the products of this university find their way to the public through the channel of the national or New theater. So you see my cheme provides for ample employment of able critics, and they would be employed in such a manner as not to throw into the gutter the fortunes and the hopes of actors and managers."

"But if you abolished the critics, how would you inform the public of the plays and their merits?"

"By advertising. For instance, I am producing a play by Paul Hervieu. I write an article about the author and about the play, calling attention to its points of interest and to its cleverness. I take that to the office of the Herald and say, 'I would like to have this inserted in the Herald.' They measure its length, tell me the amount of space it is going to consume and the rate per inch or per column. I pay the total sum asked for—and there is my manner of attracting the public to see my production of a play by Hervieu."

"But how would you keep the public from being deluded by the advertisements of unscrupulous managers?"

"Easily enough. The public would regulate that of its own accord. If they were taken in once they would not return to that theater again while that management continued. Just as, if I buy a piece of silk in a shop and find it defective, I avoid that shop in the future. That is very simple, indeed."

"If the public regulates such things, does not the public do it over the heads of the critics now?"

"It does," eagerly replied the actress, "it does. If a play that is really good is scheduled for a run sufficiently long so that the public can ascertain for itself what its virtues are, then the pernicious effect of the critical voices is overcome, but if a play is on for a brief run there is not time enough to overcome any prejudice the critics might have created in the public mind.

"I assure you that what I have told you is nodne with any idea of advertising myself. It is the result of a very firm conviction, and I utter it because I believe that the future of serious dramatic art must be helped by the abolition of the critics. There are a lot of people in the world who do not go to the theater solely to laugh, so there is no danger of the death of serious drama from the source of neglect. But I believe with all my heart that the post of the critic is an obsolete one. He creates a prejudice, and this is pernicious in the end, be it favorable or unfavorable. The system of criticism is all wrong, for the public should not be influenced one way or another. It should be allowed to think for itself, and I am absolutely certain that it can do so—at least in this country."

Twice the actress had been interrupted by her maid, who warned her that the hour was fleeting. At a third call Miss Nethersole arose to bid the interviewer good-bye.

"I hope the Herald will believe that I am sincere, and if it believes it I hope the Herald will try to convince its readers of my sincerity," she said in conclusion.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by all druggists.

SPORTS OF THE WEEK.

MANAGERS ARE WILLING

No Opposition in Duluth to Proposed New League.

Park Would be Available for Fully Twelve Series.

There is more than a possibility that the Fitwells and Kelleys of Duluth will get into the proposed Northern Minnesota Semi-Professional Baseball league. Managers Jacobs of the Fitwells and Ziegler of the Kelleys are both willing to get in with the range teams and are enthusiastically boosting the league scheme.

The question of a park in Duluth is easy to decide, in view of the fact that Manager Kuehnow of the White Sox is willing to allow the teams to use Athletic park on Saturdays and Sundays when the Northern League club is not at home. On Sundays, when the Northern League club it at home, the semi-professionals would be forced to play out of the city, anyway, and, if there is an excuse for their existence, there is a reason for their being in a league.

Under the schedule now being considered by the Northern League clubs, Duluth will have no more than a dozen Sundays at home. The fact that no Sunday ball will be played in Canada doesn't work toward a greater number of Sunday dates on this side of the border. Winnipeg will get the largest number of home games, on account of the larger gate receipts, so that the teams will not cross the border to play any more Sunday dates than they would were Sunday ball played in Canada.

If the Sox are at home only about a dozen Sundays, there will be fully as many for the Kelleys and Fitwells to divide between them. If they each play six Saturday and Sunday series in Duluth, it would be much more than they would play under the independent arrangement, and the supporters of the semi-professional teams want to see them play at home once in a while. Last year both the Kelleys and the Fitwells were virtually travelling clubs.

The opinions of range managers, with whom the league plan has been taken up, have not yet been given, but they will get in conference with the Duluth people within a few days, and a meeting will probably be called for a week from tomorrow.

Unequaled as a Cure for Croup.

"Besides being an excellent remedy for colds and throat troubles, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is unequaled as a cure for croup," says Harry Wilson of Waynetown, Ind. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, this remedy will prevent the attack. It is used successfully in many thousands of homes. For sale by all druggists.

TAIL-ENDERS WIN TWO GAMES

Bankers Fail to Break Into Tie for First Place.

The Bankers' dream of a tie for first place with the Fitwells were shattered last night, when the tail-enders stepped in and took two out of three games in the Duluth City Bowling league match.

All of the Big Duluths were in fine form and they rolled over the 900 mark in every game, while the Bankers were off except in the second game. F. Steigler rolled the high score of 231 from scratch and Zimmerman secured the high average of 215. The Fitwells still have a comfortable lead in the league, with little chance of being headed for some time.

SHORT AND THIRD BASE

Are the Two Most Difficult Positions to Play.

Wagner is Greatest of the Present Day Baseball.

Shortstop and third base are two of the most difficult positions to play on the baseball diamond. The short fielder is called upon to handle more assists than any other player on a ball team.

Nearly all the great championship teams have had star shortstops. When Comiskey won his four flags in St. Louis, Bill Gleason covered short for the Browns. Neil Williamson, then king of them all, played short for Anson's Chicago White Stockings. Jack Rowe of Big Four fame, was the short fielder of the Detroit champions.

Johnny Ward played short for the New York champions of 1888. Herman Long guarded short for the Boston champions. Hugh Jennings covered the position for the Baltimore champions.

Wagner's great work at short and with the stick brought several pennants to Pittsburg. Freddie Parent covered short a field for the Boston American champions. Monte Cross was the shortstop of the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

George Davis of the White Sox and Joe Tinker of the Cubs helped their respective teams to win championship pennants, and O'Leary's work with Detroit, last season, stamps him as one of the best fielding shortstops in the game.

George Wright, who played the position for Boston back in the early '70s, was the greatest man of his time. As a fielder he was a star, and he stung the ball at a .550 clip regularly. For years he topped the shortstops, being first five years in succession. He was a good inside player and one of the Boston's mainstays in winning six pennants, four of them in a row—1872, '73, '74, '75, '77 and '78. His fielding mark of .948, made in 1872, stood until 1902, when Wallace, the Browns' shortstop, hung out a mark of .951. This mark has since been beaten by Turner of Cleveland, who made a record of .960 in 1905.

Wright's greatest rival for honors was Davy Force, who played with St. Louis, thirty years ago. He was not much of a batter, but he was a cracking good fielder. He led the National league in fielding in 1877, 1882, 1884 and 1886, while in 189 he tied Wright for the honors. Force played with St. Louis, Buffalo and Washington.

Then came the redoubtable John W. Glasscock. "Pebbly Jack" played with Cleveland, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Pittsburg before he closed his career. As a fielder Jack had few peers and no superiors. He had the honor of leading the National league in 1881, 1883, 1885, 1889 and 1894. As a club batter he was as good as the best, and always was in the first flight when the averages were in. He had a great arm and played very deep.

Glasscock has been living for years past in Wheeling, W. Va. He has given up the game, rarely going to see one. He is a carpenter and has been working at that trade since he quit playing ball. Old fans will recall that Glasscock was the first player to throw dirt at the baserunner, thus confusing him and making him pull up in his tracks.

Comiskey's shortstop, "Brudder Bill" Gleason, was one of the best men of his day, both as fielder and batter, being one of the mainstays of "Mr. Boss President's" Browns when he won four flags and a world's championship banner. Bill is now a captain in the St. Louis fire department and is getting along very nicely.

Jack Rowe of Detroit was a fair fielding shortstop and a great batter. He played with Detroit when they beat the Brown's for the world's championship in 1887.

John M. Ward, who played short for New York in the late '80s and the early '90s, was a very good man. Johnny Cooney, who played with Chicago in the early '90s was a fine fielder, a heady player, but only an average batter.

Then we come to "Ki Yi" Jennings, the red-haired leader of the Detroit Tigers. Jennings played with Baltimore when Johnny McGraw, Willie Keeler and Joe Kelly were coming out. Jennings covered short as it was never played before. As a batter he always was among the .300 boys. He was one of the mainstays of Ed Hanlon when that manager "copped" three straight pennants with his bunch of Baltimore youngsters.

Jennings' arm went back on him, however, and he finally fell out of fast company, only to return as a manager and "cop" a flag. Hugh was one grand ball player in his day.

Herman Long, who played short for Boston in the early '90s, was one of the greatest fielding shortstops the game has ever seen. He was not much of a batter, however.

George Davis, now one of the "main guys" of the White Sox, began to show what was in him in the late '90s. He played with Cleveland when the Spiders beat Baltimore for the Temple cup. He went to New York and then to Chicago. As a fielder he was as good as the best of them, also a great batter, but his main asset is his "think tank." He is one of the headlest men in baseball.

This brings us down to the old problem: "Who is the best, Wallace or Wagner?"

Bobby Wallace is the greatest fielder the position ever knew. He is not the best batter in the business, but watch the pitchers in a pinch with Wallace up and see if they don't pass him. In a tight place Bobby can always be relied on. He is a fair man on the sacks and rarely gets caught napping. His long suit is his ability to keep the baserunner on pins and needles.

Wagner is a batsman par excellence. He also is a fine fielder, being one of the best in the business. As a baserunner he has few equals. But his gameness has been questioned since 1903, when Dineen struck him out in the world's championship series, and it cost Pittsburg the title.

Terry Turner is perhaps the best after Wagner, Wallace and Davis. He is a good batter and a fine fielder. He is young and has years in which to improve.

Elberfeld of the Yankees is one of the best hitters in the business, a fine fielder and a good inside player. His throwing arm, however, is under suspicion.

"Boy Wonder" Defeats George Sutton at 18.2 Billiard Game.

Madison Square Garden, New York, March 28.—Willie Hoppe of this city won the world's chaplonship at 18.2 balk line billiards by defeating George Sutton of Chicago, by a score of 500 to 272 last night at Madison Square Garden.

The winner played cleverly at times, being brilliant at open table work, while Sutton failed to get the ivories into position for his favorite balk line nurse.

MANAGERS ON CHANCES

Every National League Leader is Full of Confidence.

Frank Chance Says There is Nothing to It But Chicago.

If the reports from Frank Chance and Johnny McGraw, managers of the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, respectively, are to be taken seriously, the other six members won't have a chance in the coming National league battle.

The former, however, has the "dope" to back up his statements, while it looks like "Mugsy's" outfit is going to be a lottery. The eight spiels follow:

JOHN McCLOSKEY—St. Louis. Houston, Tex.

"I'm not going to claim anything, but I will guarantee that the Cardinals will make more than one member hustle the coming season. I figure that the present team I own is fully 25 per cent stronger than the one in 1907. I can't see where any one has a better pitching staff than mine. Then my infield, outfield and catching staff look mighty good."

FRANK CHANCE—Chicago. Vicksburg, Miss.

"We won the last two pennants, and there is nothing that is going to prevent us from making it three in a row. We are as strong, if not stronger, than when we won the world's championship. Isn't that enough? I have heard good reports of McGraw's team and Murray's outfit, but I can't even give them a chance with the Cubs."

FRED CLARKE—Pittsburg. Hot Springs, Ark.

"All I can do is to hope for the best. My outfit will be sadly weakened if Wagner makes good his threat to retire from the game. However, I hope to get him in line. I have many promising youngsters, but it is too early to state just what they will do. Leifield, Maddox, Camnitz, Phillippe and Leever will do the bulk of my pitching, and they loom up very formidabe."

JOHN GANZEL—Cincinnati. St. Augustine, Fla.

"The Reds finished sixth last season with a very inexperienced team, one that didn't pull together on account of the management. However, all the boys are out for success and we ought to have a very good year. Weimer's failure was a setback and I look for Jake to have a good season. Hulswitt is bound to add strength to the infield."

JOHN McGRAW—New York. Marlin Springs, Tex.

"The Giants are going to come back and show the populace that they are just as strong as when they won pennants in 1904 and 1905. It will be a much improved team the Cubs will have to beat out. We are an improved bunch all the way, in batting, fielding and pitching. I look for us to finish ahead of the Cubs and that will give us the pennant."

WILLIAM MURRAY—Philadelphia. Savannah, Ga.

"I look for this to be the greatest race in the league. To my way of thinking it will be my team, the Cubs and Giants battling for first honors, and if several of my youngsters pan out the way I hope, we will be the winners. It is early to do any boasting, but we've shown such good form to date and I can't help but think that we have a great chance."

JOE KELLEY—Boston. Augusta, Ga.

"I never was a talkative manager and never expect too much of my boys, but I am certainly stuck on the outfit I own just now. The trade I pulled off with the Giants is bound to benefit me. I have every position practically assured with the exception of my outfield. Beaumont and Browne will be fixtures and if I don't move very fast Bates will take my place."

PATSY DONOVAN—Brooklyn. Jacksonville, Fla.

"To say that I am pleased with our prospects would be putting it too mildly. Our finish last season was a smoky one and but for the bad start we would have wound up ahead of the Giants. There'll be no bad start this campaign, so keep your eyes on us. Just where we will finish is hard to state, but the worst I can see is fourth place."

CRITICIZE OXFORD.

Crew Rows Secretly Over the Full Thames Course.

London, March 28.—The Oxford university crew has invited some deprecatory comment in rowing circles by a secret trial yesterday over the full course to be rowed with Cambridge April 4. Such secrecy is not unprecedented, but it is regarded as unsportsmanlike for amateurs and strictly at variance with 'varsity traditions. A sporting paper recalls the fact that Ten Eyck adopted similar tactics at Henley in 1897 and provoked the virtuous indignation of the 'varsity blues.

Sporting writers at this time consider that Cambridge has the superior crew.

SKI CLUB WILL MEET

Reports Will be Made on Most Sucessful Season.

Long Strides Made by Club Since Last Annual Meeting.

Monday night, at the rooms of the Builders' exchange, in the Lyceum building, the annual meeting of the Duluth Ski club will be held, and the most successful season in its history brought to a close.

The officers will have rather pleasing reports to make. The club has made wonderful advances since the last annual meeting. The grounds have been secured, the clubhouse erected and the finest artificial slide in the United States is owned by the organization. The membership has been boosted to a figure at which it is representative of Duluth, and more interest is being taken in the sport than ever before.

Financially the club has come out just about right. Three club tournaments were held, besides the big national tournament in February, and all were well attended. The national tournament, especially, brought out good crowds, and enabled the club to meet the heavy expense it was under in entertaining the National association.

The officers and members of the club are keeping quiet on the reported split in the ranks of the directors, and the matter may not be broached at all Monday night. There was a movement on to oust some of the directors, and it may show itself if officers are elected. The whole affair comes out of a trivial matter, and even though there is a contest over places on the board, it will bring no serious split in the club ranks.

WIN GAME AT PROCTOR

Duluth Y. M. C. A. Team Given Hard Game at Little Town.

Five Handicapped by Injuries to Two of the Players.

In a hard fought basketball game at Proctor last night, the Y. M. C. A. team of Duluth defeated the Proctor Y. M. C. A. five by a score of 30 to 14. The score of the first half was 20 to 4, but in the second half Burg of the Duluth team was rendered practically helpless by an injury and Proctor came up strong, holding the faster Duluth team to a 10 to 10 score for the half.

The game was played in a hall, where the spectators sat around the playing space, so that the players dived into them frequently, following the ball. On that account the game took on a rough aspect at times, but it was fairly clean, only about seven fouls being called on each side.

All of the Duluth boys were in the game despite Burg's injury and McLean's sprained wrist. Their team work was better than that of Proctor, but their inaccuracy in basket throwing cut them out of a lot of scores. The Proctor players showed good knowledge of the game and at times made it interesting for their fast opponents.

Burg's injury came early in the second half. Boards were piled in one corner of the hall, not far from the basket, and, after jumping for the ball, Burg came down and his elbow struck on the sharp edge of the lumber. A gash several inches long was cut in his arm and it bled freely. Dr. Fahey, who accompanied the team, dressed the injury and Burg resumed play, although he was in no condition to do effective work. One of the Proctor players was also injured.

The teams lined up as follows:

Proctor.	Position	Duluth.
Fraser	forward	Fenton
Emelin	forward	Burg
Wambach	center	Dinham
Raetz	guard	Smith
Bell	guard	McLean

Scores—For Proctor: Emelin, three fouls, two baskets; Fraser, one foul, three baskets. For Duluth: Fenton, six baskets; Burg, five baskets; Dinham, three baskets; Smith, one basket.

MURPHY IS RIGHT MAN

Selection of Pennsylvania Trainer May Appease the Athletes.

Halpin Will Have Business Management of Olympic Team.

New York, March 28.—With the final refusal of the American committee to remove Matthew Halpin of the New York Athletic club as manager of the American Olympic team, and the selection of Michael C. Murphy of the University of Pennsylvania as trainer, the great task of getting together a team which can bring back to this country the Olympic championship for the fifth consecutive time was formally started. By its appointment of Murphy the committee made a ten strike, for it silenced the criticisms of Halpin and gave the athletes assurance that their physical conditioning would be in the hands of the premier trainer of the world. Murphy's appointment means that Halpin will attend solely to the business management of the team, which, of itself, is enough work for any man. Anybody who knows Murphy knows well that he will not tolerate any interference with his charges.

Now that the committee has restored harmony among the athletes who will be candidates for the team, its plans for training the men will shortly be announced. The actual make up of the team cannot be determined until after this date as possible, for the team sails June 27. In order to make it possible to select the entire team within the week following June 6 the American committee will probably request that the Western intercollegiate meet be held May 29 and 30—the same date as the Eastern meet. The present date of June 6 conflicts with the Olympic tryouts, and a later date for the Olympic trials would be most unsatisfactory. There is little doubt that the conference association will set its games a week earlier.

Under Murphy's Training.

Although no official announcement has been made on the subject it is likely that as many of the athletes as can spare the time will go to Philadelphia after their selection and put themselves in the care of Mike Murphy at Franklin Field. Although Murphy has been named as the trainer, his duties will not begin until after the team is officially named. As trainer, Murphy will have a huge task on his hands. There will probably be between fifty and seventy-five men on the team, all sent to him from different trainers. Murphy is too wise a man to attempt to change the styles of any of his charges and he will not interfere with the training of the men, even if they do use some methods of which he does not approve. Murphy appreciates that many of his charges come from his rival trainers and he will therefore encourage them to train as they have been doing.

Murphy's services will be most appreciated by his rare skill in getting his men in fit condition physically and holding them there. It is this quality which has been most responsible for Murphy's success as a trainer. Murphy is a remarkable judge of athletes, their good points, bad points, and their characters and dispositions. He never handles two men according to the same rules. He is not a disciplinarian in the strictest sense of the term, but he knows when to draw the line and his men seldom go contrary to his instructions a second time.

Murphy's Great Success.

The success of Murphy has been little short of phenomenal. He has developed more champion athletes than any other man. It was he who brought out Wefers the holder of the world records for the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Kilpatrick and Conneff, the half and mile champions; Sweeney, the world's champion high jumper, and Kraenzlein, the world's champion hurdler. His success in turning out intercollegiate champions has been just as remarkable. Of the men who hold the fourteen intercollegiate records, counting the mile walk, eight of these are still held by the men who made them under Murphy's training.

These include the quarter-mile by Taylor in 1907, the half-mile by Parsons in 1906, the mile by Hastings in 1907, the high jump by Moffitt in 1907, the two hurdles by Kraenzlein in 1898 and 1899, the broad jump by Kraenzlein in 1899, and the mile walk by Fetterman in 1888. In addition to these record-holders, until last year the men Murphy trained held the records in the pole-vault and the shot-put. Of the eight intercollegiate records mentioned above, seven are held by Pennsylvania men and one by Yale. In the last fifteen intercollegiate championships the teams Murphy has coached have won twelve times, there being but three defeats—once by Harvard and twice by Cornell. Of his twelve victories Murphy won seven at Yale and five at Princeton. It is small wonder, then, that the man with such a record as this should have been unanimously chosen to train the American team.

To Take Only the Best.

It is becoming more and more evident every day that the American committee does not intend to avail itself of the permission to start twelve men in every event on the program. If they did, the United States would send abroad a team of 150 men, which would be a wanton waste of funds. In the two sprints six or eight men can be chosen who will get all the points possible, for this number includes the cream of America's sprinters. Of course, there will be many "phenoms" developed with records of ten seconds or better, but when these would-be champions toe the mark at the intercollegiate or the try-outs, most of them will be badly beaten in ten seconds.

In all of the other events the same is true. Half a dozen men will be enough for the quarter-mile, and a similar number for the half and mile runs. In the special events like the high and broad jumps the committee would be foolish to take the full number of men, for the athletes who can do six feet or better in the high jump or twenty-three feet in the broad jump can be counted on the fingers of one hand. In some of the events there will probably be half a dozen or more men with ability fairly equal, which would necessitate taking them all. But this will be the exception rather than the rule There is no doubt that all the points America will get will be scored by no more than twenty-five men, which further proves the uselessness of taking too many men.

CHANGES IN GOLF RULES

Golf Association Only Asks for Five Hundred Changes.

Modest Demands May be Met in Part This Year.

When you want something, ask for it and maybe you will get it. Ask for a whole lot and maybe you will get some of it.

That seems to be the principle upon which the United States Golf association is proceeding in its efforts to get a revision of the rules governing the game of golf.

The United States association is very modest—it is only asking for 500 changes in the rules—only 500. These 500 little alterations sought by the American golfers have been compiled into a special booklet and forwarded to St. Andrews in Scotland, where golf rules are made and unmade. And the bonnie, braw Scots have promised not to throw the suggestions of the American fellow golfers into the wastebasket without at least looking them over.

When they made that promise, however, it's a safe bet they didn't realize that the Americans would tee off with suggestions for a half a thousand alterations. It's true that but few of the changes suggested are in any way radical—most of them being changes to make the rules read more simply or with less ambiguity.

The most decisive suggestion is regarding medal rule 10, where it is recommended that a lifted ball may be teed anywhere on the course if not nearer the hole as a set-off to the penalty of two strokes. On this change the American commentators stood unanimous.

Another decided change recommended is regarding the boundaries of a water hazard, where the suggestion is that the overflowed part should be casual water and contradicts the present rule. The suggested change leaves room for arguments as to where the overflow really begins. The committee was not unanimous on this suggestion.

Regarding taking advice, as H. Chandler Egan had to do in the amateur championship qualifying round through the speaking up of an outsider, which is proffered unsolicited, there is a neat change suggested in the old rule 33. It reads:

"A player shall not ask for advice from any one except his own caddie, his partner or his partner's caddie, nor shall he willingly be otherwise advised in any way whatever, under penalty of the loss of the hole."

The boundaries of a water hazard come in for attention. If the water in a recognized water hazard overflow its usual boundaries, to quote old rule 14, the overflowed portion of the course "shall be considered as part of the hazard and not as a casual water." The American interpretation of the bottom of rule 9 reads that if the water in a recognized water hazard overflows its usual boundaries the overflowed portion of the course "shall not be considered as part of the hazard, but as casual water."

A ball is "lost," as in the old rule, if it be not found within five minutes after the search for it has begun, but the suggestions adds "a player need not search for it."

The old definition of "out of bounds," as any place outside of the defined or recognized boundaries of the course, it is suggested, should also include the ball, which should be out of bounds when the larger part of it is outside the defined boundaries of the course.

SAVE DERRICK, SAYS ARMOUR

Toledo Manager Would Not Yank Man for Few Bumps.

Toledo, March 28.—"If a manager derricked a pitcher when the fans wanted him to, he wouldn't have a man on the throwing staff fit for duty. Every one of them would lose his nerve. Nobody would have confidence, and without confidence a pitcher is no good."

So declared President Armour of the Toledo team. The hangers-on at the baseball office were discussing the freedom with which bleacherites, and grand stand folk, too, noisily proclaim their desires to have a pitcher removed from the box.

"It's a wonderful thing, this confidence," said Armour. "The ordinary pitcher who makes good can stand the racket from the crowd if he has confidence in himself and he knows that his manager has confidence in him.

"Several years ago, during a game in Philadelphia, a now celebrated pitcher was working in the box. He hadn't won a game in five weeks, and he was doing his level best to break the hoodoo. Things went along nicely for seven innings, and then the batters began to 'get to' him. The man who was manager 'sent out another pitcher to warm up, and when the fellow in the box finished the inning he walked to the bench and took off his playing shoes.

"'What's the matter?' the manager asked.

"'What's the matter?' asked the player. 'How do you suppose I'

LAKE NAVIGATION NOT LIKELY TO OPEN BEFORE JUNE

BIG FLEET OF VESSELS AT DULUTH WILL BE LATE IN GETTING UNDER WAY.

FLEET OF VESSELS LYING AT ANCHOR IN THE UPPER HARBOR.

Practically no preparations have been made to fit out the big vessels wintering at the Head of the Lakes for the coming navigation season. The reason for this is the anticipated lateness of the season. General navigation is not expected to open much before the latter part of May, and for that reason the vessel owners are in no hurry to begin the work of getting the boats ready for the first trip down the lakes.

There is practically no expense attached to the keeping of a boat in winter quarters. It won't amount to much over a dollar a day. As soon as the vessel is put into active use, however, the expense will jump to over $200 a day. That is another reason why the vessel owners, in the face of a very dull opening season, are in no hurry to place some of the boats in active commission.

The work of overhauling the big boats which are wintering here has not begun as yet. Most of the vessels are waiting orders from the company headquarters at the lower end of the lakes. Until that order comes it only requires the service of one employe, who is paid to see that the big sleeping bulk of iron and steel is kept from disturbance.

The reason for the apparent tardiness of the vessel owners is the fact that about ten or twelve million less tons of ore will go down the lake this season than was the case a year ago. Added to this is the number of new boats that will ply the lakes the coming season. There are thirty-six steamers to carry lake traffic this season, which with a dull season ahead, make it the part of economy on the part of the owners to delay the opening until a later period than last year. Expenses increase many fold the moment the traffic season opens, and, with no urgent reason for an early opening, the owners naturally will hold back.

It is a safe prediction that many of the boats wintering here will ride at their anchors until well along into next month.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Several Wrestlers Will Accompany the "Gym" Team to Madison.

Much Interest Being Aroused in the Senior Class Play.

Minneapolis, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At least three wrestlers will accompany the "gym" team to Madison on April 9. Tryouts for heavy, middle and lightweight men are dated for today after drill. Over twenty boxers and wrestlers have entered and many more have signified their intention of doing so. The men picked will engage in a series of matches with Wisconsin at the intercollegiate gym meet. Wisconsin claims a wrestler related to Fred Beell, the prominent middleweight. Dr. Cooke, however, is not worrying, as he has some splendid material to choose from. This will be the first time that a Western meet has including wrestling, although it has long been the custom among the Eastern colleges. Yale, Cornell and Pennsylvania encourage this sport, and provide instructors for the contestants.

Considerable interest is developing in the senior class play, which is growing in the hands of Winnifred Smith, Meriam Clark, Florence Godley and Lee Sanford. The four dramatists, on being questioned, shrug their shoulders mysteriously and only say, "Wait and see." This much has leaked out. Unlike most college plays, there is to be neither a boatrace, a football game nor any athletics. Lee Sanford keeps the girls "hopping to it," doing the "heart interest," which is to be mild and elusive. The girls say there is no girl question in it, though it deals with one of the most vital problems of college life. Tryouts for the parts will be held some time in April, and it is expected the play will be given in the Orpheum, the first of June.

"Germels-Hansen," the play written by Mrs. Potter, Miss Peck and Prof. Schelenker, was put on the Lyceum stage for five performances the first of the week. This play is founded on the old German legend, and is quaintly attractive. Tuesday night was university night, and at the end of the first act the students and professors lavished their applause and flowers upon the authors. Prof. Schlenker responded with the authors' speech.

Prof. Schlenker's German class was entertained Friday, the third hour, by the little two-act German play, "Eigensinnin." It is a comedy, with six characters, three girls and three men. The two servants fall in love with each other, and while having a desperate quarrel, are discovered by their newly-married master and mistress, who take opposite sides. The father, and another-in-law drop in that night, and, while much worried over the situation, they are soon drawn into the quarrel. Many humorous complications arise, which are finally settled to the happiness of all the parties.

Perhaps nothing finer in the way of dramatic reading was ever done before a Minnesota audience than Richard Burton's interpretion of "Monsieur Beaucaire," Tuesday afternoon. No greater art was ever exemplified than in Tarkington's exquisite portrait of the fine spirited young French nobleman who, in the ture romance fashion of the eighteenth century, plays in disguise, but observing all the rules in the code of a true gentleman, the world-old game whose prize is a woman's heart. Catching marvelously the irresistible charm of the young Frenchman's manner, Dr. Burton held a big audience engrossed, maintainin that note of chivalrous feeling, ever close to tears, which grows out of Lady Carlyle's failure to know true greatness divorced from a title and which lifts capital romance to the quality of classic literature.

An open game will be played tonight with the Stanley Hall girl's basket ball team. The Stanley team is as yet unbeaten and the game will decide the championship of the state. The same lineup as at the Nebraska game will be used by the university team.

The Forums and Shakopeans will hold their inter-society debate on April 7, in chapel. The subject for discussion is "Woman Suffrage in Minnesota," its constitutionality to be disregarded. The Shakopeans will be represented by Max Lowenthal, L. Prigge and Theodore Thompson, who will favor suffrage of women. They will be opposed by Haddon Ostlund, C. Carlson and B. Petterson of the Forums. The winners will receive the Jacobs cup which is now in the possession of the Law Lits, who were visitors last year.

The season for the traditional fourth hour informal is now at hand. But this year it is the third hour that will be favored, on account of the popularity of fourth hour classes.

THEORY OF H. W. PEARSON

On Raised Ocean Beaches Published in Scientific American.

In the current issue of the Scientific American the first of a series of articles on a new theory in regard to raised ocean beaches by H. W. Pearson of this city, is published. Mr. Pearson is the author of a new theory in regard to raised beaches. He has been studying raised beaches for twenty-five years, following the beaches on foot for miles, through the United States, Canada and Europe, surveying and minutely investigating them, gathering the statistic of other investigators and tabulating the data thus obtained. Attention is called to the series begun this month by a lengthy editorial in the magazine, which says after a review of the theory advanced by Mr. Pearson:

"Its importance lies in the fact that it seeks to establish law and chronology in the epochs of geology, and if accepted would affect many other branches of science. While it is the policy of the Scientific American to avoid, as far as possible, the consideration of purely theoretical subjects, the originality of Mr. Pearson's work and its support by prominent scientists, has influenced us to make an exception of this case, and we have decided to publish the matter in full in the Scientific American Supplement. Even those who cannot accept Mr. Pearson's views should find the matter most interesting and worthy of investigation."

Mr. Pearson is now in the East. His many friends in Duluth will be interested in the honor which has come to him.

WEDS PROUD MAHARAJAH

Dancing Girl is Daughter of Malaga Fried Fish Vender.

Went on Stage in Spain and Attracted Prince's Attention.

Paris, March 28.—Romance has entered the life of the proud and splendid Marahajah of Kapurthala, according to a wondrous tale of the potentate and a beggar-maid. Some years ago the Delgados, father, mother and two little girls, lived at Malaga on the proceeds of a fried fish stall at a street corner. They went to Madrid to better themselves, and the two little girls learned dancing. The "Hermanas Camellas" were tiny stars just beginning to sparkle on the music hall stage in Madrid at the time of Alfonso XIII.'s wedding. For the latter ceremony the Maharajah of Kapurthala went to Madrid, saw the sisters, and was vanquished by the elder. He carried her off, gave her a palace in Paris, and masters and mistresses to teach every accomplishment befitting a princess. The other day Anita Delgado that was, the little Spanish dancing girl, whose father kept a fried fish stall in the streets of Malaga, was married to the Indian prince, and she is now her highness, the Maharanee of Kapurthala, and both are expected in Paris on their honeymoon.

Water Colorists' Show.

The annual show of French watercolorists has been thrown open to the public. President Falleres inaugurated the exhibition at the Petit Palais, which this year contains about 350 works. It is satisfactory to note the excellent quality of many of the contributions this year. Indeed, the general verdict is that the show is better than usual. M. Pierre Vigual, in his "Souvenirs of Venice," almost surprises one by the striking manner in which he paints the water of the canals.

This artists's compositions are to be classed with the best at the show. M. Albert Calbet exhibits no fewer than twelve water colors, gems in their line, tender and transparent in their treatment. Of the twelve, all excellent, perhaps the best are "Deux Bavards" and "Nonchalance." M. Luigi Loir gives a few of those exquisite scenes of town life, taken at various hours of the day, in which he delights and excels. This year the class of Orientalists is represented worthily by M. Georges Scott. M. Aublet, and the well known veteran artist, Clairin. M. Scott's Tunisian studies are delightful and, above all, extremely truthful, and Clairin comes out well with his picturesque studies of Eastern foliage. M. Binet's contributions this year appear to meet with special approval, to judge from the remarks overheard in the group of critics standing before his works. His studies of Rome, Florence, Mayence, and old Nuremberg call forth genuine admiration, and each succeeding year this gifted artist seems to stride on further towards perfection in limpid coloring and transparency. M. Doigneau selects cattle for his subject. He has a remarkable talent for producing the maximum of effect with the minimum of subject. With two or three cows scattered about we have quite a fine picture. Mr. Jean Geoffrey remains true to his vocation as a painter of child life among the poor. Landscapes at the exhibition are this year rather superior to the average. M. Paillard notably has done good work in his Southern scenes, glowing with warmth and light.

Interesting Scheme.

Countess Greffulhe, chairwoman of the Societe des Grandes Auditions de France, which has done much for music-lovers here, having, for instance, arranged the only performances given in Paris of "Die Gotterdammerung" and Dr. Strauss's "Salome," has approached the senate with an interesting scheme. This is to use the historic theater in the palace of Versailles, built in 1770, for special operatic performances. Famous representations were given there under Louis XV and XVI. Since 1870 it has been the property of the senate, which say there during the first years of the Third republic. Countess Greffulhe's idea would be to make the Versailles theater a "French Bayreuth," which does not, however, mean that it would be devoted exclusively to Wagner. Classic operas, which neither the grand opera nor the Opera Comique manage to revive, and new works which wait years before production, would be performed in the French Bayreuth.

Suit Against Maxims.

A "Lady from Maxim's" is suing Maxim's for the loss of $2,000 worth of jewelry. She was sitting at the bar in the Rue Royale, and put down beside her a reticule, in which, for some unexplained reason, she had placed all the valuables she possessed. The dress of a friend of hers "happened to get disarranged." Like a good soul, she helped the lady in distress and "readjusted her toilette" for her. While engaged in these sisterly ministrations, her attention was withdrawn from the reticule. When she bethought herself again of the latter it had gone. A waiter had vanished with it, and he was not found till long after, minus the valuables, when he was arrested, convicted and sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment. The lady is not satisfied, and claims $2,000 damages, the price of her lost property, from the Maxim's cafe, as responsible for its servants. But the cafe disclaims all liability, and says that the lady was guilty of contributory negligence by putting down her reticule on the bar counter and leaving it there.

Coquelin Breaks Down.

Very unsatisfactory is the latest news about the health of Coquelin cadet. Some weeks ago, after performing to perfection his part in a new play at the Comedie Francaise, Coquelin the younger broke down, a victim to nervous prostration. He was placed in a medical man's special establishment for maladies of this nature, but, if what is said be correct, far from improving, his condition became worse. It is not, it appears, overwork alone that is telling upon this favorite actor. He is said to have been disappointed in his affections. At the present time he seems to be suffering from mental trouble, occasioned by the belief that everybody is seeking to persecute and injure him. It is, it is said, with the greatest difficulty he can be induced to take food or drink, because he imagines people seek to poison him, and not even the fact that the doctor partakes of the same dishes will reassure him.

Women Attendants.

The minister of the fine arts in France cannot be considered to be opposed to feminist progress, as he has just signed a decree authorizing women to be appointed attendants in the public museums and libraries. The women, of course, are to be entirely on the same level as male candidates—that is, they must pass an examination which varies with each post, and in some cases academic degrees and a knowledge of foreign or ancient languages is required. This news has come like a bolt from the blue to all the museum officials in Paris, not one of whom, from the chief curators down to the ushers, knew that the minister had signed such a decree. When asked what they would do, they said that they would simply wait for further orders, and someone very cruelly remarked that there was talk recently of employing dogs, therefore why not women, to watch over the safety of the museums. At the Louvre certain officials were very skeptical, and took it almost as an offense to their personal dignity. "There will always be the question of the uniform," said one, "and the idea of a woman wearing a uniform is not to be thought of."

Plays for Cinematograph.

Alfred Capus, Victorien Sardou, Henri Lavedan, Edmond Rostand and Maurice Donnay are "writing" plays for the cinematograph, and Sarah Bernhardt, Rejane, Bartet, Jeanne Granier, Mounet Sully, Coquelin, Le Bargy and Guitry will act them. This will surely be something new. The cinematograph has undoubtedly damaged theaters. Why should not playwrights and play actors turn the new invention to account? The idea first came, it seems, to M. Henri Lavedan, and his fellow dramatists are taking it up enthusiastically. He will arrange for the "production" of the plays, and M. Le Bargy undertakes to "stage" them. M. Alfred Capus says that he is now "writing a cinematograph play for M. De Feraudy of the Francais and Mlle. Eve Lavalliere, that quaint little jerson of the Varieties. The play will be a "series of very short scenes, reproducing types of Parisian life." As it is merely to be seen in dumb show, it would be a work of supererogation for M. Capus to write a complete dialogue. But he sketches an outline, the actors playing it before the recording camera fill in the canvas more or less with their own words. In fact, the principle seems to be that of the charade. The beauty of the cinematograph play for the actors is that, after the final performance before the camera their work is over. According to M. Capus, they are to draw $40 each per rehearsal, and $200 for the final performance. M. Capus refuses to look down upon the cinematograph. Shows of this class are now signing regular contracts with the Society of Dramatic Authors, and the best dramatists are "writing" for them.

Broke His Nose.

Louis Tartarin, the inventor of a new diabolo game called yoko, was demonstrating in the Tuileries gardens the other afternoon, when the pointed yoko—a woden peg top-shaped instrument—fell on him and broke his nose. The crowd shouted in glee, and this made Tartarin so angry that he ran amuck among them, and, tying his yoko to the cord, swung it round and round, breaking one man's leg and badly hurting another. He is in prison.

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Why not let it help you? Sold by all druggists.

RAILWAY CONDUCTORS' DANCE

Will be Given in Amphidrome, Houghton, April 20.

Houghton, Mich., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of Houghton lodge, Order of Railroad Conductors, will give their first annual ball on Monday, April 20, and preparations for this event are well under way. Within a short time committees will be appointed and necessary preparations will be completed. The hall will be held at the Amphidrome, and the interior of the hall will be elaborately decorated for this occasion.

The Portage Lake orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music, and a lengthy program will be arranged.

Cold Settles on Kidneys

Medical authorities place colds as the most frequent cause of kidney diseases.

It is customary to consider the lungs alone in danger from colds.

This is a mistake.

The kidneys are quite as susceptible and the effect is to congest and clog these filtering organs until the whole system is poisoned and there comes backaches, lumbago, aching head, painful limbs and urinary derangements.

In a wonderfully short time Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills afford relief and cure.

By reason of their direct and combined action of kidneys, liver and bowels they cleanse the system, purify the blood and carry away the poisons generated by reason of the cold.

The great secret of health lies in keeping these filtering and excretory organs regular and active, and this can best be done by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

On the extraordinary success of this medicine as well as on the reliability of his great Receipt Book rests the fame of A. W. Chase, M. D.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Steel Trestle to Be Erected at Steel Corporation's Blue Mine---Concrete Shaft Through Quicksand at the New Smith Mine.

The Lake Superior region's first structure of the kind built of material other than timber, a steel trestle is to be erected at the Steel corporation's Blue mine at Negaunee, Marquette range. It will be used to carry the hoisting cable from the engine house to the new steel shafthouse, and it will extend from the one to the other. Its average height will be sixty feet. It will be surmounted by a platform, with railing on each side, over which the employes will walk, and underneath which the cable will operate. That steel is to be used in the construction is evidence, both of decreasing timber supplies and of the Steel corporation's policy of providing its mines with equipment of enduring nature. At Ishpeming, the company is rebuilding its shafthouse at the old Hematite mine, preparatory to a resumption of mining operations. A drift is to be extended westwards from the shaft to the old workings, which were abandoned nearly twenty years ago. There is one remaining there and this will be taken out.

The concrete shaft, sunk through quicksand at the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's new Smith mine at Swanzey, Marquette range, is now some twenty feet below the ledge. The concrete has been firmly anchored to the rock bottom, and at no point from the surface down is water seeping through. The work of sinking to the ore body will now be energetically prosecuted. While it was because of the character of the ground that it was necessary to use concrete in this instance, this material is steadily growing in favor in the Lake Superior region, as timber is growing scarce and more costly. This is particularly the case in the copper district. Where wood was formerly employed for various purposes in underground work, concrete is gradually being pressed into service. More extensive use, also is being made of steel.

A gratifying result in this connection is that of minimizing the danger of an outbreak of fire, such as occurred at the Steel corporation's Tilden mine, at Bessemer, Gogebic range, some days ago. This fire had its origin from a miner's candle, the flame from which ignited the timbering in a subway on the ninth level, between

GOOD SHOWINGS BEING MADE

Battle, Mountain, Nev., March 28.—Rumors of several large mining deals now pending for the control of some of the most promising properties in the Battle Mountain district are afloat, and it is stated on good authority that some of the largest operators in the country may become interested here. If these deals go through the capital necessary to properly develop the mines will be assured. Indeed there are signs of an early quickening in mining activity on every hand throughout the entire district. A large number of properties which are being worked in a limited way by the owners, who in many cases are not in position to push forward the development along very extensive lines are making good showings.

The Little Giant, one of the steady producers, will soon begin shipping again, having had to suspend on account of the inability of the smelters to take care of the ore. The work on this property, however, did not let up, and a large tonnage of shipping ore has been blocked out. A strike of very rich ore was made a few days ago on the 200-foot level.

On the Divie group, owned by Maj. G. L. Scott, J. D. Scott and Mrs. W. T. Jenkins, a cut was run on the Dixie claim disclosing a ledge of twenty feet in width from the hanging wall, with the foot wall not yet in sight. The ore is an iron sulphide or pyrites, the values occurring in combination with the sulphides. The sulphides are in a quartz gangue and consist of about 15 per cent pyrite and 3 to 5 per cent galena, with small percentage of chalcopyrite. The main ledge has been traced across the length of seven claims and returns good assays in gold from the surface.

Maj. Scott, part owner of the Dixie group, was for four years Indian agent at Leech Lake agency and is well known in Minnesota. The Dixie group was discovered last summer by Joe D. Scott, a young mining engineer and a nephew of Maj. Scott. It is situated about nine miles from Battle Mountain. The width of the ledge cannot yet be determined, as the foot well has not been reached, and it is considered one of the largest ledges in Nevada. Over a hundred assays have been made across this immense ledge, and in no case has the rock been without values, from the grass roots down.

CRIPPLE CREEK'S TONNAGE

Is Heavier Than for Several Years Past---Activity in the Camp is the Greatest Since the Summer of 1903.

Cripple Creek, Colo., March 28.—At no time since the summer of 1903 has so much practical mining activity been shown in all sections of the Cripple Creek district as is to be seen now. Its gross ore tonnage is advanced to a general average quite beyond what it was at almost any time during the last four years—that is, the monthly output in tons is at present greater than for several years.

While definite figures are not yet compiled on the subject of comparative increase or decrease in the values of the present monthly tonnage when shown against a similar tonnage over any long period during the last three or four years, it is believed that accurate data on this point will reveal that the present gross tonnage values, in the face of the fact that a very large percentage of low grade ore is now being mined, will also demonstrate that there is a net improvement in total tonnage values over the gross values which prevailed from month to month almost without exception during the years suggested. The illustration must be understood to mean a comparison of ton to ton values in the present monthly gross output with those of the years past since 1902.

It is stated on good authority that the payroll last pay day was larger than at any similar time during the past four years. The Cripple Creek District Mine Owners & Operators' association last September called in all of the old working or recommendation cards, and issued a new series, which are commonly known among the men as the "red card" because of its color. Since Sept. 1, 1907, there have been over 7,000 cards issued, and these are now over 3,400 men constantly at work, and the indications are that this number will be increased as the year grows older.

With 3,400 men at work it, in reality, means that the force is a really larger than at any time in the history of the camp. With the advent of the little "buzzer machine drill," which does the work of five men, and with the discontinuance of hand steel or single jackers, there is no need for as many men, while there is double or triple the amount of labor performed.

Working cards are in great demand and in fact there is a surplus of labor in the camp, owing to the fact that practically all of the camps of Colorado and neighboring states have closed down or greatly curtailed operations. The railroads are still bringing former miners back to camp and each one is trying to secure employment.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Old Cleopatra Mine On Squaw Creek to Be Reopened and Worked---Another Power Drill Installed On the Mariposa Property.

Deadwood, S. D., March 28.—In a circular letter addressed to its stockholders, the officers of the Cleopatra Mining company, operating on Squaw Creek, near here, outlines the future plans of development and operation of the property, and shows a good financial condition. The Cleopatra, some years ago, when mining was much more costly than at present, secured over $30,000 from bullion. The original cost of the ground was approximately $36,000, and later a $20,000 mill was erected which is in good shape at present. There is today a large supply of ore opened up and on hand for milling, but the officials advise still further development work before the plant is run again. Seven distinct ore veins have been opened during the progress of a 1,200-foot crosscut, the values running from $10 to $20 per ton in gold. It is now the intention to continue this crosscut into the lower contact where it is thought still richer bodies will be found.

Another power drill has been installed on the property of the Mariposa Mining company at Mystic and good headway is being made in the drift. One drift is running along the course of the ore body recently located and a fine grade of free milling ore is being opened. The second drill is working in the face of the tunnel driven to tap another ore body.

Thomas Crum, an old prospector and mining man of the Central Hills, has opened up a good looking property, lying between Redfern and Mystic. The ore contains copper, zinc-blend and silver, the latter predominating. Assay returns show the value of the silver about 65 ounces to the ton. The ground consists of four claims across which runs a ledge eight feet in width. A shaft is being sunk on the ledge and is now down sixteen feet, and is all in ore.

The Continental Copper company, operating the Dakota-Calumet copper property, near Sheridan, is now putting in electric machinery that will greatly aid the work of development. An electric station pump is being placed at the 500-foot level of the shaft, which will be connected with the smelter by a tunnel now being driven. The ore is to be mined through the tunnel into the smelter. At present twenty men are employed on the property.

THE BONANZA CIRCLE MINES

The annual reports of the Calumet & Arizona and the Superior & Pittsburg Copper companies have been issued. The directors of the Calumet & Arizona say that the company produced 15,344 tons of refined copper during the year 1907. The product in gold and silver was valued at $210,846.12, averaging per ton of refined copper, $13.74. The highest average price per month received for refined copper was 25.62 cents in June, 1907. The lowest was 12.48 cents, for copper delivered during November, 1907. The average price received for refined copper delivered in 1907 was 18.1026 cents. This was from sales made of the copper produced from Oct. 1, 1906, to Sept. 30, 1907. September product was ready for delivery at the electrolytic works in December, but was not all sold. The total dividends paid during the year was $3,330,000. The average number of men employed for the year was 1,028. Of this number 621 were employed at the mine and 407 in the smelter. In April the demand for copper slackened. The manufacturers kept almost entirely out of the market instead of contracting for delivery several months ahead as is their usual custom. By September it was evident less copper must be mined. The directors then decided to reduce production 50 per cent. The output for the last of the year was therefore much reduced. The lowest product was October month, 680 tons. The product for January, 1908, was 925 tons. The employes of the company have been practically all retained. Large sales of the company's copper were made in September for export at 12¼ cents. The company is now receiving returns from the months of reduced output. The combination of copper at around 13 cents with low product and expenses about normal is not conducive to profits. The aggregate amount on options held by the company is $800,000. There was expended for development work on properties under option during 1907, $315,445.55 and for payments on options, $58,911.97, a total of $374,357.52.

Following is a statement of the assets and liabilities of the company on Dec. 31, 1907:

Mr. Powell's Report.

The report of L. W. Powell, third vice president, on the operations at the mines and smelters during the year tells of the addition to the plant and changes in equipment both at the mines and the smelter. The ore in stock at the close of the year totaled 518,456 tons. Mr. Powell says:

"During 1907 the development in the Calumet & Arizona mines has been exceptionally satisfactory at both the Irish Mag and Oliver shafts.

"At the Irish Mag the most important discoveries have been made in the blocks of ground southeast of the shaft, where high-grade oxide ore has been found on both the 950 and 1,050-foot levels. The development of these finds practically assures the existence of stoping ground all the way between the 850 and 1,050-foot levels.

"Further developments of importance at the Irish Mag have been in the neighborhood of the known ore bodies northeast of the shaft on the 950 and 1,050-foot levels. The work done here has greatly extended the known limits of the ore.

"During the year a drift was run on the 650-foot level above our old workings for the purpose of proving whether or not the ore bodies extended to that height. This drift has been driven almost continuously in leached and copper-stained material, with occasional streaks of ore, but no ore of value has so far been encountered.

"At the Oliver the ore bodies on the 1,050-foot level have been extended very much beyond what has been previously considered as their limits. This is particularly true of the large oxide body northwest of the shaft, and of also the one due east of the shaft, the development in these alone having probably doubled the oxide ore reserves of the Calumet & Arizona. In addition to this, we have found several small bodies of oxide ore on the 950 and 1,050-foot levels, but the most important discovery of the year has been in the sulphide ore on the 1,150 and 1,250-foot levels; here we have cut four new bodies of high-grade sulphide ore, and long stretches of low-grade ore in the less altered ground below the oxide zone. This development has very conclusively proven the existence in the lower portions of the mine of large areas of practically unaltered sulphides of iron and copper, with the copper in places predominating, so that our work on these levels yields very rich chalcopyrite and bornite copper ores in quantity. We consider finding ore of this nature and its extensive occurrence on the lower levels as of the most vital importance in assuring the permanency of the mine, and it can be distinctively regarded as one of the most noteworthy steps in the development of the camp as a whole. This work will make it imperative to sink the Oliver shaft deeper, and it is intended to start this work in the near future.

Was a Good Year.

"Taken as a whole, the development of

THE OUTLOOK IS PROMISING

For District in Butte North of North Walkerville—Encouraging News From Butte and London Properties—Shaft Sinking by Butte-Ballaklala Company Proceeding at Rapid Rate.

Butte, Mont., March 28.—Recent developments in the properties of the North Butte Copper company, as well as in some further to the north, the Elm Orlu and the Butte & Superior, are proving the territory distant from the originally proved district to be a section containing permanent ore bodies and the seat of almost incomparably rich ore deposits. The North Butte company has proved the richness of the veins to a depth of 1,800 feet, and is taking out first-class ore from the 800-foot level down. Considerable underground exploration by means of the diamond drill has been done from some of the Amalgamated properties, this drilling extending far to the north, and big veins of copper ore are reported to have been encountered. A number of the newer companies have commenced development work in the district further north than the North Butte, and their prospects of success within the next twelve months are promising.

While little if any development work is in progress north of the properties of the Butte & Superior company, the Butte-Milwaukee, Butte & Bacorn and North Butte Mountain Copper companies have extensive holdings, and there is little question that all of them will be pushing their development work as soon as the money situation becomes settled.

It will be the policy of the Butte & Bacorn company to resume sinking in the Belinda shaft, which is located about 500 feet north of the Calumet shaft, where operations were suspended several months ago, and by means of the Belinda the company will be able to develop all of its big ledges which were proved to exist by the crosscuts and drifts which were run from the Calumet at a depth of 1,500 feet. The Belinda shaft is now down 850 feet, and when operations are resumed it is intended to install a complete new hoisting plant to sink to a depth of at least 2,500 feet.

The Butte-Milwaukee company owns about sixty acres of mineral ground across the gulch from the Butte & Superior and about midway between the Butte & Superior and Butte & Bacorn properties. It is understood that operations are to be resumed about April 1, and that a new equipment, consisting of a Nordberg first-motion hoist and additional boiler and compressor capacity are to be added. The shaft is now down below the 700-foot level, and it is the intention of the company to sink to a depth of 1,500 or 2,000 feet.

The North Butte Mountain Copper company owns 160 acres of ground west of the Butte & Bacorn, and while only limited exploration work has been done, the showing is such that there is scarcely a doubt that with depth high copper and silver values will be found.

Very encouraging news has been received from the Butte & London properties during the past week. The southeast drift on the 1,100-foot level has opened into an ore body assaying 2.3 per cent copper, 5.7 ounces of silver and $2 in gold to the ton. The ore is of commercial value, but the extent of the deposit has not been determined. The management is higaly pleased with the development, but it is hardly expected that ore in sufficient quantity to warrant shipping will be found until greater depth is attained.

The Amalgamated Copper company is pushing operations on the Greenleaf claim, on the flat, and the crosscut on the 1,600-foot level has encountered a number of stringers which give encouragement. The vein which the Butte & London company is working on at a depth of 1,100 feet, is believed to be the same as extends through the flat in a southeasterly direction to the Greenleaf.

Shaft sinking by the Butte-Ballaklala Copper company is proceeding at a rapid rate, and it is expected that cross-cutting on the 700-foot level will be commenced early next month. At a distance of about twenty feet north of the shaft the great Edith May vein, from which the North Butte Copper company is taking its richest values, will be intersected, and there is little doubt that the company will be in a position to extract commercial ore in large quantities early in the summer. The crosscut will intersect all of the four known veins, the Edith May, Bell-Specaulator, Old Joe, and Modoc, which have been explored on the 500-foot level. The Edith May vein, particularly, proved very rich on the 500-foot level, the vein being nearly thirty feet wide at that depth and carrying two feet of 20 per cent copper ore, besides good silver values. The new electrical equipment, which has been in operation for the past month, consists of a double-drum hoist capable of sinking to a depth of 2,500 feet, and a compressor for furnishing air to the drills and to the pumps on the 700-foot level. It is designed to install an electrical pump in the station on the 700-foot level. An order has been placed for a second compressor, similar in capacity as the one now in operation. Under the excellent management of President R. B. Dear, who is now in Duluth to attend the annual meeting of the directors, the work is progressing at a rapid rate.

The Davis-Daly company is confining its operations to the Colorado shaft, and there is little hope of early resumption at its other shafts on account of the shortage of money for operating expenses. The crosscut south from the Colorado at the 1,000-foot level is progressing and it is reported that it is now in well mineralized ground. A promising vein was cut at a distance of 160 feet from the shaft, the vein being cut at a

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Output this Year Expected to be Approximately the Same as in 1906—No Surplus of Skilled Mine Labor and 2,000 More May be Needed.

Houghton, Mich., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—While a trifle early in the year to attempt forecasting production for the twelvemonth, especially with the copper trade remaining in a considerably mixed condition, though on the mend from a season of extreme debility, it now appears as though the Lake Superior output for 1908 would be approximately the same as in 1906, or about 230,000,00 pounds of fine copper, as compared with about 210,000,000 pounds output for 1907. Later developments may cause a change in the present prospects, but in no case is the output likely to fall below the figures of last year, while it is not probable that the recovery of the copper trade will be so rapid that the high-water mark of 1906 will be effaced by a new record. The Calumet & Hecla, which made 100,000,000 pounds fine copper in 1906, and only 84,000,000 pounds last year, could increase production by about 1,500,000 pounds monthly without any great effort, and Osceola also could do better this year than last. Of the other mines of the district, Baltic is the only one that will be in shape to materially increase production this year, and Baltic will be in shape to make about 2,000,000 pounds monthly during the latter half of the year. Superior may or may not become a producer this year, but in case it does, the start will be made so late that an output of not exceeding 1,000,000 pounds can be looked for, though Superior may be in shape to make nearly 3,000,000 pounds next year. All things considered, an output by lake mines of nearly or quite as much copper as two years ago is about all that can be looked for in reason.

There is no surplus of skilled mine labor, and as about 2,000 extra men will be needed before the season is over, there is not likely to be any serious congestion of labor this season, though there may be a slight surplus of unskilled workmen. Even this is not certain, as the number of men out of work in the district is very small at present.

Adventure has no work of importance under way outside of diamond drill boring, in search of the extension of the Lake amygdaloid. It is out of the question for the Adventure to get a new dollar for an old one with copper at anything like the price now ruling, or likely to rule for some time to come.

Mass also is searching for the extension of the Lake lode, but, unlike the Adventure, is maintaining production, and is doing great work under serious difficulties. It is a subject of general rejoicing in the Lake district that the local management of the Mass is to remain unchanged, there being perfect unanimity on the part of local mining men in the opinion that no management could do better than Capt. Wilcox is now doing, while few would be likely to do so well.

No. 2 shaft of the Hancock Consolidated remains in an unidentified amygdaloid, the hanging-wall portion of which carries stamp-copper in promising quantities.

A spur has been laid to No. 4 Isle Royale, and shipments are to be made from the dump. A crusher has been installed, and drifting on the first level is expected to keep the crusher busy. The shaft is now bottomed out of the lode, which heaves considerably, bringing the shaft in and out of the copper-bearing amygdaloid from point to point. Rock shipments from No. 6, Isle Royale, amount to only about six cars daily. The shaft, started originally as an exploration, is being cut down to full three-compartment size, and retimbered, the work being nearly done. The underground showing is promising, and three rock drills are being worked. Connection is to be made for this shaft with the company's private railway. No. 2 shaft is working about twenty-five drills, and stamp rock, of rather poor average grade, is being hoisted from the present stopes on the thirteenth and twenty-second levels, inclusive. The quantity of mass copper secured from No. 2, the principal shaft of the mine, is growing smaller, being only about twenty-five tons in February. No. 4 is giving the best showing in the mine at present.

Crosscutting on the Allouez conglomerate upon the Medora property of the Keweenaw Copper company has not yet shown workable ground. The Allouez conglomerate, though mined extensively in the past at the old Allouez and Albany & Boston mines, the latter being now known as the Franklin Junior, has not yielded dividends. The Medora amygdaloid continues to give a satisfactory showing.

Recent developments at the King Philip are of an encouraging nature, the sixth level crosscut showing nearly twenty feet in width of stamp rock of promising character.

Small loss of copper, amounting in

THE VEINS WERE EXHAUSTED

Reason Why Calumet & Arizona Directors Allowed Option on Leadville Property to Expire---Will Probably Take the Mammoth Property.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 28.—The most recent feature in the local mining situation has been the meeting of the Calumet & Arizona directors and their determination not to take advantage of the option which they held on the Leadville property. For some time past it had been rumored that the group of claims at Leadville, which was under course of development by the Calumet & Arizona company, had proved to be a wonderfully rich property, and that there was no doubt of the taking up of the option. Last week some of the directors arrived here from the East and Thomas F. Cole and Charles Briggs arrived at Douglas, from which point the former made a trip immediately to the Leadville property, where it is understood, he was joined by William Kempt, the well known mining expert. A thorough examination was made, and the party them came on to Bisbee. A meeting of the directors was held, at the conclusion of which a statement was given out by Mr. Briggs, president of the company, that it had been decided not to take up the option on the Leadville property, as the ore body which had been encountered had proved disappointing. Recently some very good ore was encountered at the property, but later the veins were exhausted, three winzes passing through them into limestone. The Leadville property is located in this county about ten miles south of Pearce, and the option the company held on the ground expired last week.

The Calumet & Arizona still has a number of properties under bond in Pima and Pinal counties, the most promising of which, according to the statements of one of the directors, being that located at Mammoth. The option on this property does not expire until Jan. 1 of next year when it will undoubtedly be taken up.

The Shattuck is going ahead with a reduced force of men, devoting most of the attention to development work in new ground, and the blocking out of the already known ore bodies.

At the Denn-Arizona diamond drill operations are going on from the 1,100 level.

A stir has been caused in mining circules in the Jerome district by the jumping of the valuable property of the North Verde Copper company at that place by Sullivan, Harrington & Bowser. The new claimants are holding the ground on the contention that the assessment work for 1907 was not done by the North Verde Copper company.

The Johnson Copper Development company has acquired the old Climax group of mines in the Johnson district. The new owners will soon start work on sinking a vertical shaft on the property.

BIDS FOR THE NEW SMELTER

For the Shattuck Are Now Being Filed and Will be Opened Soon---Contract May be Awarded in May.

Douglas, Ariz., March 28.—All doubt about the building of a smelting plant in Douglas by the Shattuck-Arizona Mining company may be regarded as past now, notwithstanding the uncertainty which has surrounded the proposition during the past year since the matter was first talked of. During the past few weeks there have been in Douglas a number of representatives of the large machinery houses of the country for the purpose of submitting bids for the new plant, and it was stated recently by a man who knew about the situation that some of the bids have already been handed in to the Shattuck managers. Other bids are known to be in course of preparation and are expected to be received in the very near future.

It is the expectation now that the bids will all be in before the first of April and that the contract will be awarded early in May possibly by the first of next month.

The Shattuck smelter will be completed first with two 1,800-ton furnaces, according to the plans which were made last year. If the work is started by the last of May or the first of June its completion may be expected about the first of next year, or at least one furnace should be ready to start by that time.

The location for the Shattuck smelter is about one-quarter of a mile south of the Calumet & Arizona and about the same distance west of the Copper Queen. Topographical surveys have already been made of this excellent site and it is ready for the work of foundation building to begin.

The street car line can reach the Shattuck smelter by the construction of a half mile of new track.

THE GRANBY CONSOLIDATED

Plans to Spend $200,000 on New Coke and Ore Bunkers and Other Improvements---Blast Furnace to Be Extended.

Phoenix, B. C., March 28.—The Granby Consolidated Copper company intends to spend $200,000 this year in improvements and enlargements at its smelting works near Grand Forks, B. C. New ore and coke bunkers and machinery and structural steel work for the enlargement of the smelter proper are included in the plans.

A. B. W. Hodges, the local manager, furnished the following details of the orders placed a few days ago for machinery and additional electrical and other equippment, all of which is to be delivered in the early summer, and should be completely installed in the fall. It will give the smelter a capacity of 4,500 tons or more each twenty-four hours under normal conditions.

The blast furnaces, of which there are now eight in the battery, are to be made four feet four inches longer making each twenty-two feet in length. This will require thirty-two feet more water jackets, making a carload. It will not be necessary to enlarge the furnace building for this purpose.

The converter plant will be renewed. At present the converter plant has just about all it can do to handle the product of the furnaces, even though operating at fullest capacity for twenty-four hours every day.

To make room for the enlarged converter plant, the steel converter building will be lengthened eighty feet. The new converter will be electrically operated—the first of this type in the boundary—and will be operated by 250 horsepower electric motors.

In the blower building the engine capacity will be doubled. At present the engines have 500 horsepower capacity, and a new engine of 500 horsepower motor to drive it. It will be of double cylinder type, capable of furnishing 10,000 cubic feet of free air a minute at fifteen pounds pressure.

To supply the additional blast needed for the furnaces necessitated by their being considerably lengthened, two new Connersville blowers have been contracted for, each having a capacity of 30,000 cubic feet of free air a minute. To operate these blowers there will be four 150 horsepower electric motors, all the new motors to be of the latest improved type.

With the enlargement of the blast furnaces will also be required additional trolley engines to haul the feed cars from the coke and ore bins. Four of these trolley engines, each of thirty horsepower, are now on the way to Grand Forks from the makers in the East.

All of the above machinery has been contracted for with the explicit provision that it is for delivery on or before July 1.

GOLD QUARTZ MINE IN IDAHO

That Has Ore Blocked Out Which Will Yield $7,500,000---Big Giant Mine Has 7,000 Feet of Tunnels, Crosscuts and Raises.

Boise, Idaho, March 28.—Last week the Big Giant gold quartz mine, ten miles northwest of this city, was inspected by General Manager O. E. Jackson. There are 7,000 feet of tunnels crosscuts and raises. The main tunnel starts in over 200 feet above the bed of Ruby Creek and follows the vein in a northwesterly direction. This is on the Big Giant proper and secures a depth of 500 feet. At intervals crosscuts are run to each wall—in the first the vein is fifty feet wide, the narrowest point yet discovered, and in one of the others the width was found to be 160 feet. The walls are a soft granite and covered with talo. The vein dips into the mountain at an angle of forty-five degrees. The ore is quartz heavily impregnated with brassy sulphides that contain the greater part of the gold, although good prospects of free gold are obtained by panning. At the depth of 400 feet there is a streak near the center of the ledge ten feet wide of ore nearly sulphides that is worth between $15 and $20 per ton, and of over 500 assays made by different men not one was as low as $1 per ton, while many went above $50. An average of all under $50 per ton gives a little below $8. The samples are selected by taking at random 1,000 pounds of ore, breaking it up, mixing and quartering. Estimating the average width of the ledge at seventy feet, there is 1,500,000 tons blocked out ready to be sent through the working tunnel, enough to keep a 100 stamp mill running day and night for twenty years. The ore can be mined and milled for $1 per ton. The mill site is below the mouth of the tunnel. There are five parallel veins in the Big Giant, one a short distance north and three south. One of the veins on the south has been cut by a crosscut and found to be eight feet of good sulphide ore. It has not as great a dip as the Big Giant, of which it is considered to be a branch. A short distance south of this is the Delhi, a large ledge that will soon be cut, and 1,000 feet further south is a large ledge. These all contain good milling ore at the surface.

It is estimated from careful measurements and hundreds of samples that the ore blocked out will yield $7,500,000, at a cost of considerably less than half that amount. In running the GOVERNOR JOHNSON'S STATEMENT.

Governor Johnson has replied at last to the demands upon him for a statement of his position as to the Democratic nomination for president, and his attitude is just what was to be expected of him. It is dignified but not indifferent, modest but not coy; it is frank, open and manly. It shows a high conception of the proper attitude of a man who is being considered in connection with this great honor. It is typical of the man, and will add to the high esteem in which he is held not only in Minnesota but all over the country.

Governor Johnson does not believe that any American citizen should be an active, open candidate for the nomination to the presidency. In this he is absolutely correct. No man can exhibit an indecent itch for this honor without cheapening himself and degrading the office he seeks.

This statement is in thorough harmony with Governor Johnson's attitude during all the months in which he has been freely discussed as an available candidate for the presidency. Through it all he has devoted his time and attention to the duties of his present office. His head has not been turned by the praise that has been showered upon him nor has his dignity been disturbed by the contemptible insinuations of political enemies in Minnesota.

He simply says that if the Democratic party of the nation believes him to be more available than any other man, and if it is felt that by his nomination he could contribute any service to the party and to the nation, he would be happy to receive the honor which this would confer. He is not a candidate for the purpose of defeating Mr. Bryan or any other man, and the only consideration which would induce him to allow the use of his name would be the feeling that he might be needed by the cause. If the party sees fit to nominate Mr. Bryan or any other man the action will meet with his approval, and the nominee will have his unqualified support, just as he would expect his support if conditions were reversed.

In short, he will make no undignified scramble for the nomination, nor will he countenance any in his behalf. If the party needs him, he is ready. If it chooses another, that man will have his unqualified support.

It is a clean-cut, manly announcement, characteristic of the man. Having stated his position, he is entitled to the support of the Democrats of the state to which he has given an earnest and undivided service that has brought fame both to the state and to himself. Minnesota's delegation to the national convention should and will go pledged to propose his name and to back it up with its best efforts to bring about his nomination.

CAUSES OF RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

In a recent issue of the Locomotive, a publication whose title is self-explanatory, appears an ingenious and interesting article by Victor Hugo of St. Louis, Mo., a graduate of the Duluth high school and a son of Former Mayor T. W. Hugo. In this article Mr. Hugo analyzes a year's reports of railroad accidents provided by the interstate commerce commission with a view of determining what proportion of the casualties is due to the man and what percentage is due to the machine. In October, 1904, Mr. Hugo prepared a similar analysis in which it was made clear that 68 per cent of the accidents for the period covered, the first six months of 1904, were due entirely to the men themselves and not to the machines. In the present analysis this percentage is increased to 74.5.

The reports upon which the analysis is based covered 166 prominent train accidents, which killed 476 persons and injured 2,469, involving a property damage of $2,061,297. Because of insufficiency of information 15 per cent of these accidents were eliminated, leaving 141 accidents upon which the figures are based.

Mr. Hugo divides the causes of accidents into three divisions, the man, the machine and the weather. The man was responsible for 74.5 per cent, the machine for 18.3 per cent, the weather for 3.5 per cent, and, besides these, malice was at the bottom of 2.8 per cent.

The largest item in the first class consists of accidents due to mistake, 28 per cent. These were nearly all due to error in giving or receiving signals or in writing or reading orders, 2 per cent being due to confusion in throwing switches.

The next largest class was due to forgetfulness, which caused 27 per cent of the accidents. In these cases somebody, to quote Mr. Hugo, "just plain forgot to do what he was told to do." Recklessness was responsible for 16 per cent, including these items: exceeding yard speed limit, failing to observe 5-minute interval between trains, failure to test air brakes, etc. Physical incapacity caused 3.5 per cent of the accidents, and in these cases men fell asleep, presumably on account of previous exposure or exhaustion.

Twelve per cent of the accidents were due to defective equipment, including broken rails, broken wheels, failure of air brakes, and broken switches. Defective roadbed caused 6.3 per cent, mostly washouts or tracks out of gage. The 3.5 per cent attributed to the weather happened when fog or snow interfered with the reading of signals or when the wind blew out signal lamps. The element of malice caused 2.8 per cent, attributed to malicious interference from persons not employed by the railroads.

Mr. Hugo rightly says that in preparing an analysis of this sort much depends upon the personal equation of the compiler, because in some cases an accident might with equal propriety be placed under either one of two or more headings. For instance, there is a case where an engineman caused an accident by putting an order in his pocket and not reading it. This would constitute extreme carelessness were it not for the fact that the man had been on duty forty hours, and this led Mr. Hugo, correctly we believe, to put the accident under the head of physical incapacity.

TOO MUCH REALISM?

Dr. Herman Kruger, an authority on the German drama who is visiting in this country, says that our theatrical managers pay too much attention to stage settings and not enough to proper presentation along more important lines. He asserts that the craze for realism turns them from a higher appreciation of the vital necessity of dramatic action. The scene painter holds the center of the stage, while the players look on from the wings. Given a proper number of artistic sets and a profuse allowance of properties, the cast counts for little. If a certain amount of money for the production of a new dramatic venture is set aside, the cost of the scenic investment must be figured out first, and then what is left will go to cast-building. In this way a lower standard of dramatic genius is secured, and the lines of the drama are weakened by faulty interpreters. This critic admits that what is true of the American stage is also true of the German.

Dr. Kruger is right, and yet he isn't right. His attack should be upon the niggardness of theatrical managers who seek only the maximum of profit and the minimum of expense, with only incidental regard to artistic completeness.

An ideal dramatic production would involve the completest possible realism. In the first place, the play itself, if it is to do anything more than amuse, must be sternly realistic. George Bernard Shaw, whom many conceive to be a brilliant triller, but who is really the most serious and sober and clear-visioned playwright now living, in his introduction to a volume of plays which includes "Candida," makes the most convincing plea for realism that has been uttered. If the drama is to serve any useful purpose, it must do it by picturing actual conditions. Idealism is simply the glossing over of actualities; realism tears away the gloss and shows us the real thing. To see the true picture of things as they are must involve disclosing many things that are unpleasant, as "Mrs. Warren's Profession" does; but the unpleasant things are the most vital, since they point out evils that need correction.

The idealist and the romanticist produce little that is lasting, little that is effective. They shut their eyes to the unpleasant things, which are the things that require attention, and they exaggerate the pleasant things with a view to producing for us a picture that will drug us by its soothing optimism into forgetfulness and neglect of the unpleasant things that cry for our attention.

So the play itself should be realistic. It follows that every detail, to make the picture more telling and more effective, should be realistic, too. The players should make their roles as real as possible, and the stage settings should form a true picture. There cannot be too much realism for artistic and dramatic success. But this would be an ideal production, and we don't get any ideal productions. Probably they would fail for lack of patronage if we did. We have to do the best we can with a public which prefers pleasant things, which goes to the theater to be soothed and not to be aroused; with managers who are pandering to public taste for the money there is in it; and with actors whose conventionalism is too often totally destructive of realism. If the managers will not provide the best both in scenery and players, Dr. Kruger is right in saying that the quality of the players should be considered first and that of the scenery second. Yet the managers do not see it that way, and they are expert at judging public tastes and unscrupulous in meeting them regardless of how false they may be.

THE PEOPLE'S FIGHT.

Kansas City is involved in a fight for a public utilities commission that will supervise and regulate its public service corporations.

You might suppose that if Kansas City wanted this there should be no fight against it. But there is a fight against it, and of course the public service corporations are back of the fight.

The Kansas City Star, which is leading in the fight for the commission, apologized the other day to its outside constituency for giving up so much space to the local matter.

The Star need not have apologized. It is fighting for the people, and a fight for the people in Kansas City is a fight for the people everywhere.

The fight for a public utilities commission in Kansas City is a fight for a square deal for the people of Kansas City. Its success will give aid and comfort to those fighting for the people everywhere.

A victory for the people of Kansas City will encourage the people to demand and enforce their rights everywhere.

The fight of one is the fight of all; the fight of Kansas City is the fight of the nation.

The very opposition to the public utilities commission from the public service corporations of Kansas City proves the need of a public utilities commission. Such a commission would do no more than enforce a square deal between the corporations and their patrons. It could not do more than this without dealing injustice to the corporations, and the courts may be relied upon to prevent that. Therefore the vigor of the fight against the measure providing for a commission shows that the corporations have reason to fear a square deal, which means that they are profiting now by failing to afford a square deal.

There is nothing harmful to an honest corporation in public regulation such as the public utilities commission plan provides. The duties of the comsion are simply to see that the corporations are honestly capitalized, that they provide adequate service, and that their rates are no higher than they should be to yield a fair return upon their capitalization. This is all any corporation is entitled to. It should not be denied that much, and it should not be permitted to exact more than that.

When a public service, from a railroad down to an electric light plant, is capitalized at what it is worth and no more—and that does not mean that it should be capitalized upon the profits it can squeeze out of the people when it is not regulated; when it provides adequate service at fair rates, there will be no trouble between it and the people. When it demands more than this, it is paving the way for public ownership and making it inevitable.

THE PAPER TRUST'S FRIENDS.

The tariff upon wood pulp is but one of the many iniquities of the Dingley tariff law, but it is a very conspicuous one, and it requires no investigation on the part of congress to make clear the necessity of its repeal. It is notorious that it not only bolsters up the infamous paper trust in its iniquitous exactions, but that it hastens the destruction of the American forests by barring out imported forest products.

Yet congress—or rather Speaker Cannon and his ways and means committee—stands in the way of relief, and refuses to take any action. The American Newspaper Publishers' association has secured assurances from a majority of the members of congress that they will vote for the repeal of the duty if it comes before them, yet Speaker Cannon and his tool, the ways and means committee, not only refuse to let the matter reach the house, but the committee has even gone so far in its arrogance as to refuse to give a hearing upon the question.

Nobody claims that the duty on wood pulp should be retained. It is not denied that it results in the plunder of the newspaper industry by the paper trust, and thus of the public, and that it furthers the destruction of the American supply of timber suitable for making paper.

President Roosevelt has asked congress to repeal the duty immediately. The Democratic minority in congress demands action, and threatens to obstruct all legislation unless the Republican majority permits consideration of the measure.

The paper trust has not even dared to ask openly that the duty be retained; apparently it has not had to ask openly.

No clearer evidence than this of the subserviency of the Republican machine in congress to rich special interests could be provided. The refusal to afford relief that is immediately needed perpetuates for at least a year the robberies of the paper trust, and in the meantime—providing the trust has any fear that a Republican congress will ever reduce or repeal any tariff schedule—one may be quite certain that the trust will make the most of its opportunity.

And it will be enabled to do by the conspiracy of the Republican machine in congress to defy the president and the people for the sake of the special interests that are waxing richer every day through the tariff tax.

The paper trust is but one of the beneficiaries of this special tax upon all the people for the benefit of a few. Other schedules protect other trusts, and it is in the interests of these other trusts, probably, that the Cannon-Payne-Tawney machine is obstructing relief measures. They fear that if they permit congress to take up one schedule it will take up others. So they declare that there shall be no action on any tariff schedule.

The president, the people and a majority of congress favor tariff revision, but one man, a senile high priest of special privilege, has the power to defeat their wishes. A pretty exhibit of popular government this is!

PUNISHING THE INNOCENT.

The man who submits to temptation never reaps all of the harvest of punishment that belongs to him, unfortunately. He is invariably punished, but the pity of it is that usually his punishment is shared by innocent parties, whose innocence makes their punishment all the more bitter.

For instance, there is the case of William L. Wilson, the supreme secretary of the Home Protectors' Fraternity, a Michigan order somewhat similar to the building and loan associations that are so common and so useful. It was recently discovered that he had been plundering the funds entrusted to him by thousands of poor people who were trying to get enough together to build homes for themselves. It was tragedy for this man to sell his honor for luxurious living, as he did; it was tragedy for him to be discovered and to face punishment; but it was sterner tragedy still for the men who had been saving for years, a few pennies at a time, in order to buy homes. These poor men are punished for Wilson's dishonesty, and so are Wilson's wife and children, and this, too, is bitter tragedy.

For twelve years, it appears, Wilson has been taking the money that had been painfully saved and trusted to his care, and his thefts amount to $75,000 to $125,000—exactly how much is not definitely known. The picture of the defrauded poor people who see the tidy homes they had toiled for vanish in the twinkling of an eye is pitiful, but there should be some sympathy for the wife and children who share the shame of the wretch that wrecked these hopes.

The Wilsons had a beautiful home at Port Huron, Mich., and a country home at Harbor Beach. They have maintained two automobiles, horses, carriages and a steam yacht. They have figured in society, and they have lived luxuriously.

Nearly a year ago Wilson, seeing the end, confessed to his wife that he had been stealing from the accumulated savings of the poor. The woman was crushed by the intelligence and shamed by the knowledge that her pleasures had been stolen. She has since shunned her friends. She has refused to enter the summer home. She has refused to use the stolen automobiles and carriages and the yacht.

Picture the poor woman's situation. She could not betray her husband, yet she could not in honor partake further of the proceeds of his shame. One moment she held her head high because of the honor that was extended to her for her "social position," her wealth and her ability to entertain lavishly; the next moment she knew that her husband was a thief and her luxuries stolen, and that disgrace lurked expectant without her door.

Wilson lost his self-respect and the respect of his wife and the world; the members of the society lost their hard-earned savings; and Wilson's family lost their standing, their luxuries and, worse than all the rest, their respect for the husband and father.

All because of one man's criminal weakness.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

The hut inhabitants and the adobe dwellers of Fuente, Mexico, have taken to society manners. Now watch for the millenium. Theodore Torrey, who has been down among the ancient remnants of the Aztecs, vouches for the story. He is at the Lenox.

Not so very long ago a regular function was given not very far from the vicinity where the adobe dwellers make their headquarters. There were at least four open-faced dress suits worn on this occasion. If there is anything the Mexican loves it is the novel and the picturesque. One of the peons happened to catch a sight of the ball through a chink in the door, or, perhaps, his invitation was regular, sure enough, for it is a matter of local history that he hiked to the settlement near Fuente and surprised the natives not so very long afterwards by appearing in full evening regalia.

If the peons have one weakness it is that of vanity. They couldn't stand for Brother Arcinas sporting the open front while they went around in sashes, frayed trousers and malicious frowns. Besides Arcinas wasn't at all formal in donning his newly-acquired rags. He didn't wait until the work whistles over in Fuente sounded the release from labor, but just pulled the garments that had once decorated a waiter in San Antonio, on at any hour of the day. He did the proud and haughty act from 9 in the morning until the envious peons grew tired of watching him and doused the glim for midnight prayers and dreams of spiketail habiliments.

It wasn't long before another dress suit made its appearance in the settlement. Brother Gonzalez sneaked down to San Antonio and negotiated for an antidiluvian specimen that had once done duty in the family of one of Andrew Jackson's relatives. Style didn't cut much ice with Gonzalez. It was the tout ensemble that he was after, and he returned to the adobe hangouts with a heart that leaped to the battle of worthy emulation.

Little did it matter if Gonzy garnered his spike tail from one of the junk merchants of San Antonio. The fact remains that he accepted the dictates of convention, as mapped out by Senor Arcinas, and strove to better the dress and manners of the dugout settlement.

Some wily maverick calico dealer of San Antonio heard of the miniature internecine social warfare that threatened to separate the dugout dwellers into cliques and make enemies of ancient families. He secured some bargain sale 39-cent crepe de chene kind of material dress suits that were manufactured to order, and journeyed down Fuentewards.

He had no trouble in disposing of his wares at a very heavy per cent of gain. Every young blood in the adobe settlement who could rake the shekels together invested in the popular mode of dress. Friends once more spoke, and harsh and bitter words were forgotten. The coming of the consignment of hand-me-downs had healed the social sore of the peon settlement. Social conditions were again resumed upon an amicable and hilarious foundation.

That is the reason that, should you ever journey down in the chili con carni district inhabited by the peons of Fuente, you would be surprised by the social parade of greasers arrayed in the finest array of nondescript cast-off clothing that has ever been exhibited.

They don't all wear starched shirts. Time has robbed them of some of the carefulness of toilet, but the fact that the American open-front has made its appearance south of the Texas line, down in a little out-of-the-way adobe settlement, is one to make you wonder. Senor Arcinas must be given credit for the introduction and Senor Gonzales with disputing his right to rule alone in starched bosom and trailing broadcloth.

The Chiyuna "kid" and the "Duluth Mudhen," wrestlers of local renown, as well as local business reputation, are making their headquarters at the St. Louis. They are swords-points about their respective ability. Each noon they tug and tussle with the medicine ball and heavier objects until the perspiration pours from their pores. Muscle they have accumulated in mighty abundance. So far, in discussing their abilities, they have only engaged in airy persiflage. But lately an ominous guttural growl has crept into the match negotiations. The call of strife is making them peevish. Frank Gotch is not the only worthy whose title is in danger. If the threatened conflict is as fierce as it promises to be, the business world will mourn the loss of two of its decorations.

THE WEATHER.

The wind got out of the northeast last night, and this morning, though it was dull and cloudy, the rawness had left the air, and it was much more comfortable. The weather man says it will be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow, without decided changes in temperature. The wind will be northerly to westerly. Last night's lowest temperature was 13 degs. and yesterday's highest was 23 degs.

A year ago today it was mild and pleasant after a light snowfall in the night.

The sun rose this morning at 5:55 and sets tonight at 6:31, making 12 hours and 36 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure areas central this morning over Lake Erie and Texas caused light to heavy rain or snow in the central valleys and throughout northern states during Friday or last night, and warmer temperatures this morning in Manitoba and the southern lake region. A high pressure area that has developed over Pacific coast states has caused colder weather in the Rocky mountains and the Southwest. Generally fair weather is indicated for this locality tonight and Sunday."

"All he has to do is wish for it, eh?"

"Oh, no. Keep on wishing and persevere in wishing for it."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

A Word as to Invalidism.

Notwithstanding all the physicians and systems of medicine in the world, notwithstanding the pills and the powders, the message and mental healing treatment, the "chew-your-food-slowly" devices, the rigorous courses in physical exercise and the prescription respecting diet, there is likely to be for sometime yet a great residuum of invalidism. The sick, like the poor, we have always with us, and whensoever we will we may do them good.

My thought is not how so much of the sporadic cases of temporary illness from which there is comparative speedy recovery, but of the great army of chronic invalids, the "shut-ins," who require more or less ministration from friends or hired helpers. They are in every part of this world, some in marble palaces, multitudes in humble homes, some bearing in their bodies penalties arising from the dissipation of their ancestors, and some suffering the evil consequences of their own excesses or neglect of the laws of health. When one stops to think of this myriad of incapacitated and unfortunate ones, who have been set on one side from the active work of life, who recline in darkened chambers, or who move restlessly from room to room in search of rest and ease, the heart is almost overwhelmed with tender sympathy.

Most of us who read these lines rose this morning from quiet slumber, refreshed and ready for the day's tasks, but to many another the night hours have been full of unrest and pain. What must it be when every nerve is a quiver, and the slightest sound disturbs you, jars them? What must it be never to be totally free from pain, never to be able to do what other people do; to go with strong and eager step for the day's work, to mingle freely with others in social festivities; to be able to carry through to the finish some important task!

But right here we find our first explanation of why invalidism is allowed in a world over which a beneficent ruler presides. Subtract the sympathy drawn out by physical suffering and men would be far less tender and considerate. It is weakness and suffering that calls forth that which is best in one. Imagine a world in which everybody was perfectly healthy; in which there was no occasion to send flowers and notes of sympathy to soothe the fevered brow, or caress the wasted hand—would we not all, under those circumstances, grow callous and self-centered?

Let the invalids remember, too, that much can be accomplished, even without a full measure of health. The career of Robert Louis Stevenson and of many another man of letters, shows that it is possible, even when the head throbs, to keep cheerfully at one's task and in the end to produce something of value to others. Whittier wrestled frequently with insomnia, but some of his noblest poems grew out of his wakeful hours at night, and many a mother, not blessed with good health, has been able still to be the center and the stay of her home.

Certainly, invalidism, when gracefully accepted as an inevitable experience, gives one a vantage ground from which to help others. They said before Henry Drummond was stricken with the illness which confined him to his room for the last two years of his life, that his religion was of the fair weather type; that he had never had any privations or discipline, but let suffering come, and then see how he would take it. But the answer to this challenge was the sweetness and courage of his spirit as he lay struggling with a malignant disease for many weary weeks.

In a certain New England city there is a woman in middle life who, since girlhood, has not been able to move alone from her bed. To a terrible physical affliction has been added the burden of poverty. And yet that woman has made her sick room a fountain of blessing for the whole community. Young ladies attending college in the town have come to her, not simply to minister to her in her needs, but to get light and leadership respecting their own personal problems. Out of her stores of faith in God, her marvelous patience, her unfailing cheerfulness, she has done a work in that town not exceeded by that of any minister of the gospel.

Above all, let the invalid not lose sight of the fact that he is especially dear to God, who does not willingly afflict the children of men, but who sometimes permits them to pass through the furnace of pain, in order that the gold in their characters may be revealed and that they may be made more fit to take their place among the shining ones, by and by.

WILLIAM O. BRADLEY OF KENTUCKY

BY SAVOYARD.

MR. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN is a maker of happy phrases. His latest —"embezzlement of power" — is fortunate, fine, felicitous. And there are few to disagree with "the peerless one" when he makes declaration that it is more wicked to usurp power than to steal money. In proof of this I need only to cite two episodes of "the matchless one's" political career.

In 1900—St. Jackson's day of that year—Mr. Bryan made a speech at a banquet in the city of Frankfort, commonwealth of Kentucky, in which he advised the legislature, then in session at that capital, to embezzle the power to reverse the decision of the people of Kentucky, as expressed at the election some weeks before. Acting on this advice, the legislature did embezzle the power indicated and turned out of offices persons duly elected thereto and put in their stead others whom the people had rejected. Unnumbered woes followed this usurpation, and unshirted political shoal has had lodgment in old Kentucky ever since.

Early in the present year of 1908 "the peerless" and "the matchless" again appeared before the Kentucky legislature, Democratic in both houses, and made a speech in denunciation of embezzlers of power. Again the legislature accepted his counsel and defeated for United States Senator a Mr. Beckman, who, in his reign of some eight years, embezzled more power than all the other Kentuckians together since the bloody drumhead courts-martial of the vile, the base, the atrocious, the forever infamous Stephen G. Burbridge.

And now Mr. Bryan is quarreling with the Kentucky legislature for rebuking and defeating a flagrant and nefarious embezzlement of power. But what angers Mr. Bryan is the fact that the action of the Kentucky legislature in choosing a senator in congress to succeed James B. McCreary is notice to the Democracy of the entire republic that if that party desires the vote of Kentucky in the electoral college this year, it must not offer William Jennings Bryan as its candidate. Nothing is plainer than that.

William O'Connell Bradley has in his veins the blood of the great Irish orator and agitator, Daniel O'Connell, and thus inherited much of the eloquence, as well as the name of that remarkable man. Bradley was born at Lancaster, Ky., March 18, 1847, the day Grover Cleveland was ten years old. His father, Robert M. Bradley, was an eminent lawyer, one of that coterie of jurists of that generation, such as Madison C. Johnson, Ben Hardin, George R. McKee, George Robertson, Elijah Hise, and Humphrey Marshall, any one of whom, without special preparation, would have been capable of lending valuable aid to the most learned English jurisprudence. These men were deeply grounded in the philosophies of the law. They not only knew what the law was; but why it was.

"Old Bob" Bradley, as he was familiarly and affectionately called, was one of the most consummate practitioners at the Kentucky bar, when that bar was unsurpassed for skill, learning, and eloquence by the bar of any other state of the Union. His specialty was what they called in the Kentucky of that day, "land law," and he lent valuable aid to the bench of that state, who rendered the decisions that made the land law of Kentucky the grand edifice of legal jurisprudence it is universally conceded to be, surpassing that erected in even Old England herself as to land titles. If one would know the "perfection of human reason" from its richest lore he must go to the Kentucky decisions settling land titles to obtain it.

Young Bradley studied law in his father's office, and came to the bar by operation of an enabling act of the legislature at the age of 19. He was an apt pupil and had inherited the plain common sense of his father, to which, in him, was added the gift of eloquent speech. As a practitioner he is the equal, especially at nisi prius, of any lawyer in the state. A powerful advocate, he has won verdicts in many a desperate case, while his knowledge of the principles of the law makes him exceedingly formidable in the superior courts.

While his biographies in the cyclopedias relate that young Bradley was early chosen prosecuting attorney of Lancaster county, they are silent as to his politics at that time, which tradition says was intensely and Bourbonish Democratic, and so enthusiastic was he in that behalf that his rivals in the G. O. P. discover the envy that consumes them when they quote him on the stump in the days of his youth, as exclaiming in an ecstacy of fervid eloquence, "If I believed there was a drop of Republican blood in my body I would open my veins to let the corruption out!" But the plea of infancy is a bar to charges of that sort. Swope, Denny and Hunter were all recruited from the Democratic ranks.

By 1872 Bradley was a brilliant Republican orator and gave the Democracy a deal of trouble. Four times he ran for congress in the Eighth district, and every time he increased his party's vote. At 29 he was the Republican caucus nominee for United States senator against James B. Beck; but it was not until he was the sixth time such nominee that he was elected, though had he been the caucus nominee in 1895 there is little doubt that he would have got Joe Blackburn's toga that fell to the incomparable Deboe.

And here I may be indulged a brief retrospect. Abraham Lincoln appointed Robert J. Breckenridge, John A. Praull and A. G. Hodges to make a Republican party in Kentucky. That was soon after the first Union victory in the state—Mill Spring—where George H. Thomas was in command. George D. Prentice was invited to lend his aid, but he refused, as did Thomas E. Bramlette, Edh. Hobson, Richard J. Jacobs and thousands of other Union men. Hobson was the candidate of the opposition to the Democracy on the state ticket of 1866; but it was called the Union Democratic ticket, and was inspired by those who were too loyal to be Democrats and too respectable to be Republicans.

By 1871 Breckenridge, Praull and Hodges were too old for the business, and Ben H. Bristow and John M. Harlan came on to head the new Republican party. The fifteenth amendment had been adopted, and has never been nullified in any Kentcky county. Harlan's vote for governor in 1871 was very large, and gave earnest of the Republican victory of two dozen years later. After Grant's second election, Bristow went out, or was forced out of the political business, and after the Republican sequestration of the presidency in 1877, Harlan went on the supreme bench.

This put the Republican satrapy of Kentucky in commission, and W. O. Bradley became chief of the commission of which Walter Evans, Ell H. Murray, Swope, Godfrey Hunter, and some others were members. If William H. Wadsworth had been endowed with the political virility of W. O. Bradley, he would have been chief, and that would have meant a Republican Kentucky, or rather a Republican victory, in the state, a dozen years earlier than it came.

In 1880, Bradley, Evans and Hunter, whose mutual hatred and jealousies would have furnished raw material for a platoon of Molochs, were all at Chicago and all 308-ers. Bradley made an oration seconding Grant's nomination, and it was way above the average of convention eloquence, though eclipsed in the dazzling splendor of Conkling and the wonderful resources of Garfield. By this time Bradley was the leader of his party in the state, and at him was leveled more envy in his own party than any Kentucky Democrat was ever mark for. In 1883 he nominated his brother-in-law for governor against Proctor Knott. In 1887 he nominated himself against Simon Bolivar Buckner. In 1891 he nominated a Maj. Wood against John Young Brown, and in 1895 he nominated himself against Wat Hardin.

Hardin repudiated the sound money platform of his party, and the Cleveland element left the work of electing him to the 16-to-1-ers, and they failed. Thus Bradley became governor. During that campaign there were just two men in the state who believed the legislature, too, would be Republican —one was an Godfrey Hunter, chairman of the Republican committee, and the other was an obscure newspaper man. When the returns came in the Republicans had a plurality on joint ballot and two Pops had the balance of power.

Here was a kettle of fish. Was Bradley to gain a signal victory for W. Godfrey Hunter to run off with the upper crust of the usufruct? Sooner would the elder Brutus have brooked the Tarquin "to keep his state in Rome," and sooner would Bradley have brooked the eternal devil himself to become his master. Hunter was an Irishman, but Orangeman or Ribbonman, God knows which. He played both—Orangeman in the Presbyterian church at Burksville and Ribbonman in the Louisville and Nashville roundhouse at Bowling Green, and if there had been other parts to play he would have acted them, too. Not only can he cut the caper of the distinguished Missourian, who hides the shells of the eggs he sucks, but he can dance a clog on a thousand eggs without even so much as cracking a shell.

Jack Chinn, Bob Franklin, and Eph Lillard, the later a Democrat who elected Bradley a senator the other day, sang and joked and bullied the legislature into a deadlock, and the first session was dissipated without an election. Everybody said Bradley was done for because he would not aid Hunter, the caucus nominee. At a called session, the peerless Deboe was elected, at the dictation of Hunter. The grand jury scrutinized a certain $15,000 cash in hand that played a part and returned an indictment alleging bribery, but it fell through.

When the McKinley-Hanna regime came on Hunter was chosen boss of the Kentucky contingent. Everybody supposed Bradley was done for. Hunter went to Central America in the diplomatic service, but came back long enough to run the Kentucky state convention that nominated Taylor. He believed Goebel would be elected and named the ticket solely to preserve his boss-ship. The election of Taylor, the contest, the assassinations of Goebel and McKinley followed in rapid sequence, and in the changing events Hunter lost the primacy. John Yerkes got it, and there was no love wasted between him and Bradley.

And here I may disgress to mention a new element in Kentucky politics—mugwumps of Democratic antecedents. They elected Bradley in 1895 and carried the state for McKinley in 1896. They beat Goebel in 1899. There is in Louisville a very remarkable man, now fourscore, Rueben T. Durret. He is the founder of the Filson club, that holds its meetings in his library, one of the most valuable private collections of books in the entire county. Durrett was a successful lawyer and a graceful writer, whose rivalry with George D. Prentice when they were contemporaneous editors of antagonistic newspapers in Louisville—the Journal and the Courier, since merged—culminated in a street fight with firearms, in which one was wounded, but I have forgotten whether Prentice shot Durrett, or Durrett shot Prentice.

Nearly all the Kentucky Democratic mugwumps, the ablest of them, are members of the Filson club. Now, it was in Durrett's library that Theodore Roosevelt wrote "The Winning of the West." He was there for months, and learned much of Durrett, his friends and his books. Roosevelt was enthusiastic over the Filson club, and so would be Cabot Lodge if he should write a book in Durrett's library.

What followed was quite natural. When Roosevelt became president, the Filson club became his most trusted adviser on affairs Kentuckian. I doubt if Bradley is a member of the Filson club. Certainly he is no mugwump, and certain its is that the Roosevelt Democratic mugwumps of Kentucky are disgusted with his election to the senate. Here is what the leading Roosevelt organ in the state has to say of Bradley and his election:

"Bradleyism is the most costly indulgence of the Republicans of Kentucky.

"Fortunately, the Democrats must share with the sixty Republicans the responsibility for the election of Bradley to the senate. If the Republicans had gone into a caucus, with a vote sufficient to elect, Bradley would not have secured the nomination.

"The election is the greatest calamity that has befallen the Republicans of Kentucky since the assassination of William Goebel. It was an election not fit to be made. It was not fitly made.

"The coalition between the four or five or six direct representatives of the whisky ring in politics, with a party which had just carried the state because it was pledged against the whisky policy, carries with it an odium that it will be difficult for the Republicans to live down."

From many and varied expressions emanating from Roosevelt Republicans and Bryan Democrats of the old commonwealth, the election of Bradley to the senate is monstrous in its depravity, and due to a coalition between the party of God and morality, the race course, the gambling hell and the grog shop.

"So lust, though to a radiant angel link'd,
Will sate itself in a celestial bed
And prey on garbage."

And what a grand old party it is! It has annexed that twin relic of barbarism, the Mormon church, and made of it a valuable political asset. It has gathered to its train what Father Burchard called "Romanism," and this not only without offense to the Methodists, but with their cordial approval and enthusiastic applause. Then, in addition, it caught the "peerless one" in bathing and ran off with his clothes, and is even pretending to be a tariff reformer.

No wonder it is victorious everywhere. In Maine it is for sumptuary laws; in Kentucky it coalesces with the saloon. In time of panic it succors Wall street, and in time of prosperity it chases the octopus. It is the devil's incomprehensible, and as a political gymnast it would uptrip the devil himself in the athletic arena.

W. O. Bradley is a strong man. In the senate he will rival Mr. Rayner as an orator and Mr. Foraker as a debater. He will not nearly rank with Mr. Bailey as a constitutional lawyer, and I would advise him to keep shy of John Sharp Williams in a general political discussion, especially if economic subjects be the theme.

For my old friend Bradley is not very strong on tariffs and things, except the stump claptrap of them, that doesn't go in the United States senate, and having never been a member of a legislative body, Bradley will be surprised and disconcerted to find that the senate is so little like a nisi prius court.

But he is a brilliant man all the same, and if the groundlings want their ears split he can do the thing up brown.

Democratic nomination for president, I have for acknowledgement.

"In reply thereto let me say that I do not believe that any American citizen should be an active, open candidate for the nomination to the presidency. Any American would appreciate the high honor which could come to him in being selected as standard bearer of his party. While I recognize that the press has had much to say of me in connection with this high office, I have hitherto avoided any public or private expressions regarding my position.

"Matters have progressed so far, however, that it seems to me that I should at least say, in answer to your interrogation that if the Democratic party of the nation believed me to be more available than any other man, and felt that by my nomination I could contribute any service to the party and to the nation, I should be happy to be the recipient of the honor which it would thus confer. I am not unmindful, either, of the high honor which has been paid me by the people of Minnesota, and if the Democratic party of the state desires to present my name to the next national convention, I am sure I would have no objection; but even if Minnesota should be the only state to declare for me at that time, I should still feel that the distinction was one of the greatest which could come to me.

Will Not Seek Nomination.

"I have done nothing and will do nothing in the way of organization to bring about this end, and shall not be a candidate in the sense of seeking the nomination. If, however, those who have the welfare of the country and the Democratic party at heart, should feel that I am necessary in this year of grace, I certainly shall respond to any call which may be made upon me. In this connection I desire it understood that in no sense am I a candidate for the purpose of defeating Mr. Bryan or any other man; that the only consideration which would induce me to allow the use of my name would be the feeling that I might be necessary to the cause. If the Democratic party should see fit to nominate Mr. Bryan or anyone else the action would meet with my approval and the nominee certainly would have my unqualified support, as I should expect his support is conditions were reversed.

"I have written you fully, that you may thoroughly understand the situation. In order that there may be no doubt I would say, in answer to your question, that if a nomination came to me, I certainly should not refuse it.

"Very truly yours,
"JOHN A. JOHNSON."

Secretary Talks.

Frank A. Day, private secretary to Governor John A. Johnson, and chairman of the Democratic state committee, makes the following statement:

"If Governor Johnson had announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president three months ago, nothing could have stopped him. Mind you, I am not saying that it is too late now. There is a strong sentiment for Johnson all over the country and it may yet dominate the Denver convention.

"As a matter of fact, Governor Johnson has been sincere all the time in his position on the nomination for president on the Democratic ticket. His friends have been unable to persuade him that he could be nominated for president. Governor Johnson has been sincere in his position of not asking the nomination and in his advocacy of the nomination of William Jennings Bryan.

"Why, he did not want us even to get the Minnesota delegation for him, but the boys insisted on it and we are going to get it, too. That is an honor that no man in Minnesota has ever had."

"THE CARDINAL" CONFIDENT

That Johnson Will be Nominated at Denver for President.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—"No, we did not expect to get the North Dakota delegation for Johnson," said R. T. O'Connor last evening at the Minnesota club. "If you remember, the Democratic state central committee of North Dakota declared for Bryan when it met three weeks ago and nothing was done in the meantime to bring that state into line for John A. It might have been different if Johnson had declared himself. There is a difference of opinion on that point amongst Johnson's friends. I, myself, have felt that Johnson would have done better if he had come out some time before he did. But you can't always tell how those things work out. I may be wrong and the other fellows may be right.

"But you can say this as coming from me: You can say that I am positive that John A. Johnson will be nominated for president on the Democratic ticket at the national convention in Denver. I am just as sure of that as I ever was of anything in my life.

It's Worth a Million.

Mr. O'Connor returned yesterday from the North Dakota Democratic state convention, held at Grand Forks, to elect delegates to the national Democratic convention. He has also spent a considerable time during the last three months in the South and East and has been giving close attention to the presidential situation.

Asked on what grounds he based his prediction that Governor Johnson will get the Democratic presidential nomination, Mr. O'Connor said:

"My conclusions are based on the widespread sentiment for Johnson. You find it all over the country. Look at the magazine and newspaper advertising he has received, and not a cent paid for it; you know that. He couldn't have bought that advertising for a million dollars. Walter Wellman of the Chicago Record-Herald was here to see Johnson yesterday, and has written an article for his paper declaring that Johnson will be the next nominee of the Democratic party. He figures it out from investigations he has made all over the country. And he is generally pretty nearly right in his conclusions. All the newspaper correspondents in Washington are with Johnson. He made the big hit at the Gridiron dinner there this winter. He is acceptable to all factions of the Democratic party, except those radically in favor of Bryan, who can see no one else.

"Johnson's Lucky, That's All."

"What do I think it is that makes Johnson popular? Well, it's just the same thing that got me for him. There is some personal trait about Johnson that makes friends for him every time he talks to a man. I have taken men up to see Johnson and listened to him talk to them. I didn't note anything particularly out of the ordinary about what he said or in the way he said it, but when those men come out they say to me: 'Johnson is a wonderful man; he's a great man. Did you hear what he said?'

"Johnson's lucky, that's all there is to it, and he's got the goods to back up his luck.

"How do I account for the Bryan sentiment being so strong up here in the Northwest when the East and the South are strong for Johnson? That's easy. The Democratic party in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, hasn't had any standing. It's been two-thirds populistic. Four years ago it was all Bryan. Last year it was all Bryan. If Johnson had jumped into the game six months ago, however, it would have been all Johnson. These states up here are not going to beat Johnson or get him the nomination, except as they swing to him the minute they find Bryan can't get the nomination. The New York delegation is going for Johnson. It's uninstructed, but you watch it vote for Johnson in the convention.

Bryan Up Against It.

"Bryan has got Illinois and Indiana, but what did he do to get them? He had to swallow Tom Taggart and Roger Sullivan as national committeemen, and you know what a row he kicked up over those fellows a while ago. Talking about corporate interests, etc., it looks like he, himself, is pretty well satisfied to make some corporate support now, doesn't it?

"Bryan has broken his pick. He's up against it and he knows it and he is willing to compromise on any proposition and with anybody to get delegates to the convention.

"Now, mark what I'm telling you. Johnson will have the East pretty solid. The South is going to break badly and Johnson is going to get a good share of the delegations. Common sense is going to predominate in the Denver convention. It is not goin gto be stampeded by any flights of oratory. It is going to be a question of picking the man that can win. Johnson can carry the Northwest, the South, East and the Pacific coast."

Excessive Drinking

Excessive or continued use of alcoholic beverages always results in a diseased condition of the nervous system.

The drinking man is often heard to say, "I can stop of my own free will and when I wish," but the poor fellow is now devoid of the power to act at the proper time and in the right way, —it's too late, the craving has secured a firm hold and because of the diseased nervous system he has not the ability for sustained effort. The result we all know.

Drunkenness is no longer considered a crime; eminent scientists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease and must be treated as such.

The home treatment that has been used for a number of years, and is highly successful, is Orrine. It is sold under a positive guarantee that if it does not effect a cure your money will be refunded.

Orrine is in two forms. When desiring to give secretly, purchase Orrine No. 1, and if the patient will voluntarily take the treatment, Orrine No. 2 should be given. The guarantee is the same in either case. Orrine costs but $1.00 per box. Mailed in plain sealed wrapper on receipt of price. Write for free treatise on "Drunkenness" mailed in sealed envelope by The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Sold by leading druggists everywhere and in this city by F. W. Kugler & Co., 108 West Superior street.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

There is only one contingency that might cause an extra session and that is the possibility of an increase in the passenger fare. If the 2-cent fare has been completely knocked out, as some believe, the railroads will be free to raise the rate, and it is reported that they are considering raising the rate to 2½ cents, with a 1½-cent rate during state fair week and possibly on some other occasions. If they do this, it is believed that the legislature will be called for a special session to pass a 2-cent fare bill that will be minus the penalties which the court objected to.

The commodity rates, on the other hand, were never put in force, so if the law is knocked out entirely the state will be just where it has been both since and before the law was passed. It would take a great deal of time to find out just what kind of a law would be necessary in order to hold water, and it is likely that a legislature meeting now, before the question has been fully discussed or before they know where they are at, would not be able to do much in the way of untangling the mess. To draw up a passenger fare law would not be as difficult, and there would be some object in calling a session of the lawmakers.

The politicians have, of coruse, been busy figuring out the possible political consequences of an extra session and have been trying to convince the state officials that there might be political gain for them through a session now. But Governor Johnson has refused to listen to any of these considerations, and he will not call a session unless he is thoroughly convinced that it is necessary and that some good could be accomplished for the people of the state.

There is, of course, danger in a session at this time. Most of the house members are candidates for re-election and they would naturally try to make use of the session to make political thunder which they might use in their campaigns for re-election. Consequently there might be all sorts of "anti-everything" legislation that might prove dangerous to the state.

Heatwole has been butting into the state game pretty strong this week. First came his platform, a county option and anti-corporation platform. This was published in the Albert Lea Times Enterprise and reprinted widely. Joel did not say he was a candidate, in fact he said he would not seek the honor. But he said he could not refuse to serve if called and he submitted a platform which he thought anyone seeking the office ought to stand on.

Then some of the Jacobson managers came to town and told of overtures which certain men, supposed to be speaking for Heatwole, had made to them suggesting that they get Heatwole to manage Jacobson's campaign. They added—that it looked as if Joel was seeking to gain strength this way and build up a machine which would eventually land him in the senate.

To this Joel makes sharp rely, that he is not seeking to manage anybody's campaign and not trying to make any combinations. "But," he adds, "if they want the truth, I'll tell them." He makes this emphatic, too, and there are some people in this state who are not very anxious to have Joel tell all he knows.

As an example of what methods the anti-Johnson men will go to in their campaign is cited the letter of J. R. Bennett, Jr., of St. Cloud, sent to a friend, telling of a conversation he claimed to have heard at the Ryan hotel, in which an appointee of the governor is supposed to have said that they did not expect to nominate Johnson, but they wanted to beat Bryan. "I have seen a copy of this letter," said Frank Day yesterday, "And this story is an outrageous lie. I don't believe there was ever the slightest foundation for it. They know that the Johnson men are for him because they want him for president. But the Bryan men have been abusing and misrepresenting the governor from the start, ever since our national committeeman went to Washington to attend the meeting of the committee, but spent the whole time spreading stories accusing the governor of being the candidate of the interests."

George Simpson seems to have a big lead in the campaign for the Republican nomination for attorney general. Not only does he have the field practicaly to himself, but he has much of the field occupied in such a way that no one else can get onto it. A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota is a probable candidate, but he is doing nothing to get the delegates and it is not yet certain if he will enter the race. Besides the friendliness between the Jacobson and Simpson people indicates that Jake's friends are favorable to Simpson, because Rockne, being a Norwegian, might interfere with Jacobson's chances on the ground of nationality.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.

They cure backache.

They cure every kidney ill.

J. E. Watts, living at 918 Tenth avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have had no reason to change the opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills which I expressed in a testimonial given in 1898. At that time they cured me of a bad attack of backache and lameness, which made me stop work. I was unable to stoop, and the pain was severe just over the kidneys and through the loins. Plasters and other remedies I used brought me no radical benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me so strongly that I decided to try them. I soon found that they were just the remedy for my case. In a few days the pain left me, and the cure has been permanent."

The Art School.

Memories cluster about the third floor of the old Washington school building, the place where many of Duluth's young people received their high school instruction, and the rooms which have been given over to the Women's council to be used for an art school have an added interest to many because of their early association. The third floor of the school is admirably suited for the needs of the new school. It is partitioned into four rooms, to be used as the antique rooms, for drawing from costumed models, the director's offices, and another room for the applied crafts when those classes are formed.

The board of managers of the school has been busily engaged in arranging the rooms, which are admirably adapted for the purpose, and in few of the enterprises undertaken by the council have the prospects for success been greater.

C. C. Rosencranz of Buffalo, who has been engaged as director of the school, has been delayed by illness, but is expected to arrive in the city tomorrow or Monday. The plans at present are for a reception Tuesday afternoon at the library to which the public is invited, and Wednesday the registration will take place at the school. The first classes will be held Thursday. Already almost forty written applications have been received, and the first term of work will probably establish the school on a firm financial basis.

The board of managers of the school consists of Mrs. H. C. Marshall, chairman, and Mrs. Joseph D. Titcomb; Mrs John B. Weston, Miss Gertrude Carey, Miss Mary Naughton, Miss Robertson, Miss Ella Roe, Mrs. W. B. Phelps, Mrs. Henry S. Mahon, Miss Lydia Poirier, Miss Jessie Thompson and Miss Jessie Hopkins.

At Masonic Temple.

The last meeting of the year of the Matinee Musicale will be held Saturday afternoon April 11, at the hall of the Masonic Temple. The use of the Masonic auditorium has been extended to the club for this occasion through the courtesy of the Masons. A program of organ music will be presented and the cantata for women's voices "Sea Fairies" will be repeated.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held Monday, April 6, at Steinway hall as usual.

To Read "Faust."

A special meeting of the German Literature Class of the Twentieth Century club will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the committee room of the library. The reading of Part II of "Faust" will be begun, and anyone interested is invited to attend the meeting.

New Song by A. F. M. Custance.

One feature of Easter music in several of the churches will be the singing of a new composition by A. F. M. Custance, an Easter song, "The Gate of Life." The words of the song are a paraphrase by Bishop Wordsworth of the beautiful collection for Easter eve. The song, which has been recently published by a New York firm, is original, musicianly, of moderate difficulty

HERBERT'S HEROISM.

By William Wallace, Jr.

He pulled off his gingham shirt, doing so as he ran, and waved it wildly over his head.

HERBERT JONES was 12 years of age. He lived with his parents on a farm several miles from town. He was a brave, industrious boy, well-liked by all who knew him. He was fond of fishing, and of all the country sports, and when not in school or busy with his work on the farm he spent much of his time on the river bank angling for minnies.

One bright day in early April Herbert decided to go fishing. The week had been a rainy one, pouring for hours every day, and the ground was too water-soaked for plowing or garden work. So Herbert had nothing to do but spend the day angling, hoping to bring home a fine string of fish for supper.

"I'll show you a fine catch when I come home this evening," Herbert said to his mother as he left the house, fishing rod over shoulder and bait in the form of angleworms in an old tin can. "Just you and dad fix up your appetites for a fine supper of fish," he added, waving his fishing rod in farewell.

"Be mighty careful, son, not to fall into the river," called out his mother in warning. "The river is very high now, since the heavy spring rains, and you might find it too deep for wading and so cold that it might produce cramps. So, be very cautious."

"All right momsey," called back Herbert merrily. "I'll hang my clothes on a hickory limb and not go near the water!"

En route to the river Herbert was obliged to cross a little railroad ditch. It had been what the farmers called a "draw," but when the railroad was built this "draw" had been dug much deeper to form a drain-ditch. During the rainy season this ditch became quite a pretentious stream, almost filling to its banks with water from the surrounding hills.

When Herbert arrived at the ditch he was astonished to find it was fuller of water than he had ever seen it, and he could not cross it by leaping from stone to stone, as had always been his habit. He was obliged to go half a mile out of his way to the railroad crossing, where he might walk across on the ties.

But hardly had Herbert stepped upon the ties when he noticed that a piece of timber, evidently from the trestlework, was floating in the swollen stream. And, furthermore, he noticed that the water was surging under the crossing like a very torrent, pouring down from all the hills round about and making of the "draw" a veritable river. As it dashed, seethed and roared about the base of the slight trestlework Herbert felt, or imagined he could feel, the ties and framework of steel tremble. He paused and looked below, scanning closely the framework beneath him. Only one sign of weakness was apparent, the loose beam or piece of timber, which was floating away. But, surely, he thought, if one piece of the trestlework had become loosened, other parts connected with it must be insecure. "I don't like the idea of the afternoon train coming along over this crossing. But—I reckon the section men will be along before noon and examine this place. They know enough of these high-water tricks to keep on the alert during rainy times. I guess it's not my lookout."

And deciding thus, Herbert went on his way, whistling a happy tune to the time of his feet. He reached the fishing place to find the river so high that he knew no fish would bite that day.

"Now, isn't that just my luck!" he exclaimed in a voice of disappointment. "When I had hoped to take home a dozen fine fish for supper, too, and momsey and dad expecting the fine treat. Poor old dad, he's so blue over not being able to send me away to college next year. When Billy and Tom Brown went away to school last year dad said to me: 'Never mind, son, next year shall come your turn. You shall go to the best school in the state. So study hard this year, and when next year rolls round you'll be ready to enter a finer school than our little one of the district.' But last year our crops failed. So the outlook for any school except our little district school is now out of the question. It's harder on dad and momsey than it is on me. They want to give me every advantage, and it hurts them awfully to be too poor to do so. Well, I can get a good education right in our own little country school. But—I really would—like—to go—away. The other boys go away every year to school, and I'd—like it, too. But I don't ever mean to fret about it to dad and momsey. They aren't to blame, goodness knows. They'd go without bread and meat to give me a chance. So I'll plug along and do the best I can another year, and maybe another and another year on top of that. If only we could depend on our crops and cattle! But—well, what's the matter with me, anyway. I came out to fish, not to hold a debating society with Herbert Jones, Esquire."

Then Herbert sat down on the bank and fixed a bit of bait on the hook. "It's no use throwing in the line," he said to himself, "for no fish could be induced to bite with the water in such a turmoil. But there might be one playing along close to the bank, and seeing a nice, fat worm would take it as he passed by."

But all in vain did Herbert throw in his line. The swiftness of the water carried the bait as far down stream as the length of the line would allow, and several times the hook became entangled in some floating driftwood.

"Oh, there's no use," declared Herbert, drawing in the line and rolling it up. "I might sit here for several days—till the water falls—and not get so much as a nibble. So I'll just home. I can always find work there, if it's nothing more than rolling carpet rags for momsey. Poor dear momsey! How she and dad do work for me. It's their one aim in life to do for their Herb. I wonder if I shall ever be able to return their many goodnesses to me. Well, whatever good luck comes into my life shall be shared by my momsey and dad. Won't they be surprised when I go home and tell them how the river has risen since the last heavy rain? And that railroad ditch—that little draw. Geo! it's like a river, too. And it's dangerous, I'm afraid. Hope the section men have been along with their handcar and tools this morning. I didn't like the way that piece of timber had become loosened."

Herbert took up his fishing rod, throwing the bait on the ground and telling the worms to "make for tall timber till he wanted to go fishing again," and started toward his home. When nearing the railroad crossing he was startled to see a part of the trestle work gone. That part of the road which was supported by the trestles had, of course, gone into the ditch also. And the waters rushing madly through the ditch were threatening to break away the banks, which would mean greater damage to the railroad.

"Well, now, how am I to get across that stream?" Herbert questioned himself. "I don't like swimming, for the water is cold, besides being full of dangerous driftwood, caught all along the banks. But—what am I talking about? Go home and let the train come along without warning? I guess not." And Herbert turned his face in another direction, going at full speed over the railroad track.

It was about noon, so Herbert judged by the sun. The train was due at that point at 1:30. He had an hour and a half. He could reach the house of the section hands before that time and they could signal the train as it came along.

But he had calculated without thinking twice, as he said to himself half an hour later. The "draw" or railroad ditch which he had left behind him wound about in such a way that the railroad crossed it a second time two miles further on. And to Herbert's great surprise the trestlework at the second crossing had also been washed out. Here was a dilemma. How should he get across? The section hands were quartered two miles further on, and to reach their place he must cross this swollen stream. And there was but one way to do it. He must swim. It was a dangerous undertaking, but Herbert could not allow thoughts of personal danger to detain him in his duty. But suppose the section men had already been there and seen the washout! They had no doubt sent a wire already to the train officials at the station five miles away. And why should he, Herbert, risk his life by swimming the stream if the section men had already attended to their duty?

He was on the point of returning to his own home when a shrill whistle came on the air. It was the train, and it was whistling as it drew close to the section hands' houses. Herbert bent his ear to the ground. In another minute he would know what to do in the matter. He heard the rumbling of the heavy train as it flew along the steel way. It must have passed the section hands' quarters without stopping, for the rumble did not cease for an instant. Instead of doing so, it had increased in sound and speed. No, the train had passed the section houses without warning from the men placed there to keep watch over the road.

Herbert's mind was instantly made up. Jerking off his shoes, coat and hat, he threw himself into the turbulent water that rushed so madly through the deep-banked ditch. The stream was not wide, but it was a perilous time for Herbert, and when he at last reached the opposite bank and drew himself out of the water by catching hold of some weeds and grass he was all but exhausted. Then, dripping and barefooted, he ran along the railroad track towards the coming train.

It was only a few minutes till the train came in sight around the foot of a steep hill. It was coming at high speed, and Herbert flew toward it, waving his arms madly and crying out, "Stop! stop!" But fearing that the engineer might not understand the signal, he pulled off his gingham shirt, doing so as he ran, and waved it wildly over his head.

The train began to slow down very quickly. Passengers thrust their heads from the windows. A few seconds later the conductor and engineer, accompanied by several excited passengers, were on the ground, talking to Herbert, whose breath was now quite gone.

From a special coach, which was attached to the rear of the train, came the president of the road; with him several high officials. When it was learned that Herbert had saved the train from a terrible wreck their words of thanks and praise knew no bounds.

"Here, little man, give us your address," said the president of the road. "You shall be amply rewarded for this, I tell you. Swam the swollen ditch and ran barefooted and dripping with cold water, in the teeth of this April wind, to save us? Well, I call that the act of a real hero."

A week later Herbert's reward came to him while he and his parents were at dinner. It was brought by a special messenger, and it was of a nature to make Herbert's mother weep for very joy, and his father to pat him on the back and say: "You deserve it all, my little son, for you ran a terrible risk to save the lives of those poor unsuspecting passengers on that train. You deserve it all, boy. And now you can go to college—not one year, but as many years as are needed for you to get your education. And I thank the good man—the president of our little railroad—for remembering your act of heroism, and for so richly rewarding you for it."

But for a few moments Herbert could not speak for the emotion which choked him. Then he said: "And you, momsey and dad, shall share my good luck. I would not be happy otherwise."

And that day there were three very happy persons in the little farmhouse of Jones, wife and son. And the two older ones declared there was not a braver or nobler boy in all the world than their little Herbert, to which the whole neighborhood agreed.

Tit for Tat.

Early on the first of April
Benny waked and looked without:
Then he turned to sleeping Charlie
And into his ear did shout:

"Come, 'tis raining toads and pitchforks,
And a horse is in each tree:
Come, just look out of the window;
Such strange sights you'll surely see!"

Charlie, of the day not thinking,
Jumped up, eyes wide with surprise,
Ran to look from out the window,
And saw bluest of blue skies.

"Ha, ha, ha!" cried merry Benny,
"April Fool!" Then he did roar:
When, all of a sudden, Charlie
Stared and pointed toward the door.

"What's that, brother?" low he whispered;
Benny quickly looked about,
"April Fool, yourself, young smarty!"
Laughed gay Charlie, with a shout.

Places of Interest in Foreign Lands.

Cahors, a quaint capital of southern France, is the greatest truffle market in the world. Above it the soil and the oak trees are peculiarly fitted for the growth of the truffle, which is a round, potato-shaped tuber, about two inches in diameter. It is of the nature and order of the mushroom, but, unlike the latter, it is very aromatic. Like the mushroom, it grows from spores and is considered by the French to be a great table delicacy. In fact, no Parisian dinner is complete without the national dish, and the truffle always appears on the menu of a well-appointed dinner.

The Truffle Gatherers.

Truffles grow under ground, thriving upon the fibrous roots of the oak tree. Their presence can often be located by the absence of vegetation about the trunks of the trees on whose roots they feed, for they are of parasitical growth and kill the vegetation that dares to infringe upon their territory.

The manner of truffle-gathering by the peasants is very unique. A pig—preferably a sow—is trained to go rooting for them, and after locating them by their odor uncovers the dainty tubers by the strength of her snout. The peasant, who has the sow in charge, keeps close beside her, and as soon as she reveals truffle strikes her nose with a stout stick, preventing her from biting the coveted tuber, which he immediately takes possession of.

The pig is trained in truffle-hunting while very young by his food being mixed with sliced truffles that he may cultivate a taste for them and become familiar with their odor. Then, when turned into the woods where the truffles grow his acute sense of smell will readily lead him to the spot where they are hidden under the soft soil.

Sissie's and Andy's April Fool.

BY MAUD WALKER.

"Say, mamma, do you know that tomorrow is the first of April?" Sissie asked the question of her mother, rising from her little chair, where she was propped up in pillows, to take a peep out of the window at the children going by on their way to school. "And see how brightly the sun shines, just like a real spring day."

"Yes, dearie, and you will soon be well and strong again," said Sissie's mother, stopping in her work to lay her hand lovingly on her little daughter's head. "You've been ill just three weeks today. And you have been a brave little girl, too, never complaining of the suffering."

"Yes, how glad I shall be to get out again," sighed Sissie. "And how glad I shall be to be able to help you with the work, mamma. It has been very hard on me to be here, having you wait upon me while your hands were so full of your sewing and the housework. Oh, how much you have to bear, mamma dear." And a tremor was in little Sissie's voice.

"I have nothing to complain of so long as I can provide for my dear little Sissie and Andy," said the mother, taking up her sewing. "And ever since your dear father went away—two years ago last month—I have prayed for but two things—to be able to hold out with the work I am obliged to do to keep a roof over our heads and food in our mouths and for our dear absent one's return. Somehow I can't give up hope that your father will return, and soon, too. I know everyone is whispering that he is—is—dead, but within my heart there lives a hope that he is alive and on his way back to us."

"But, mamma dear," said Sissie, "we've only had two letters from him since he reached the Klondike country. And in the last letter he said he'd struck it rich, and that he'd be home within the year. The letter was written in October of last year. And here it is the spring following, and no papa yet." There was a tone of disappointment in Sissie's voice as she spoke, and she lay back against her pillow wearily. "I was just thinking, mamma," she went on, "of how papa used to play April fool with us before he went away to seek for gold in that far-away land. Do you recollect one time—about three or four years ago—when on April fool's day he put sand in the sugar bowl and passed it to brother and me, asking us to hunt for a lump of sugar? And how he put a cotton pie between our plates at dinner, saying it was fresh from the baker's, and that the one who could cut it neatest—make the pieces all of a size—should have a quarter? I begged to be allowed to try cutting it, and Andy begged also for the privilege. Then, to settle the matter without showing favor to either of us, papa had us draw straws, the long straw being the lucky one. I drew the long straw and tried cutting the pie. My, how you all laughed at me, and how papa cried out: 'April fool! Wash your face and go to school!'"

"Yes, yes, those were happy days," sighed the mother, drawing out a long basting thread from her work. "But, dearie, you must not tire yourself talking too much. Just lie still and look out at the bright sunshine. And if I do not chat very much you must not be lonely, for you know I must finish this dress for Mrs. Brown today. She wants to wear it tomorrow night to some sort of social function, and she's very cross if she doesn't get her things at the very moment they have been promised her. So I must work with double energy today to get this dress finished on time. I can't afford to lose Mrs. Brown's patronage. She gives me enough sewing to pay the rent and fuel bill. The work I get from other customers pays for our food, clothing and other little living expenses, and this week I've laid away enough to get a pretty new frock for you and a pair of new shoes for Andy. Dear little brother! I wonder what keeps him down town so long? I fear he'll be late at school. It's about time for the second bell to ring. Ah, there he comes now. I hear him whistling. Was ever there a finer boy than my Andy?" And the good mother rose to open the door for her son, who came whistling into the house, carrying a big paper-wrapped bundle.

"Here's Mrs. Akerman's dress, mamma. She says she'll be over tomorrow to look through the latest pattern book for the new style. She says everything is here—thread, buttons, lining and bones. But, say, mamma, why does she want bones in her new dress? She's already bony enough, for she looks like an animated skeleton," and Andy laughed as he put the bundle of dress material on the table.

"You're a great joker," declared Sissie, smiling at her brother's wit, made at the expense of Mrs. Akerman. "If it weren't for you, brother, mamma and I'd have little to laugh at these days."

"Oh, so I'm the fool of the family, am I?" And Andy assumed a mock expression of injured feelings. "Well, we'll see who'll be the fool tomorrow. Just you be on your watchout, Mistress Sissie, or you may have the joke turned on yourself. But there goes the last school bell and I've got to hike like 60 or I'll be tardy," and away went Andy on the fly, covering the distance of two blocks—which he had to traverse to reach the schoolhouse—before the last peal of the bell had died away.

"What a cheerful boy Andy is," said the mother, resuming her work. "He's just like your dear father—always happy and full of fun. Even when times were very hard with us, when papa was out of work and almost out of money, he kept up his good spirits and would play and laugh with you little ones just as though he had no weight of care on his heart and mind. He never would give up; and even when he was off to the Klondike country, leaving with us all the money he had except just barely enough to take him there, he was in good spirits and full of hope, telling us that within three years we should all be together and happy, with enough of the world's goods to make us comfortable. Ah, how he infused hope into me! And I've never lost that hope, either. Somehow, your father wasn't the sort of man to succumb to any sort of disaster. And he was physically so strong. He never knew what sickness meant. So I feel sure that he'll be with us—and soon."

That evening after school Andy performed his usual chores and ran several errands for his mother's customers. He always managed to make a few dimes doing odd chores of evenings, and in this way was of much financial aid to his mother as well as being a dear, light-hearted and hopeful little comrade to her and Sissie.

"It's time you were getting to bed, my dears," said the good mother to Sissie and Andy as the clock struck eight. "You know Sissie mustn't tire herself out these first days of her convalescence, and you, Andy dear, have your lessons for tomorrow. So, get you to bed and to sleep, my little chicks."

"Tomorrow's April Fool's Day," said Andy. "And Sissie'd better be on the alert or she'll be elected fool of the family for the next year. Well, so long, mommer mine; good night, Sissie. I do feel sorry for you, kiddie. But it's a feller's privilege to fool even his nearest and dearest on April first. Tata, and happy dreams." And Andy was off to his little room with a happy laugh, which ended with the whistled tune of "Oh, I don't know."

The following morning Andy's mother called to him earlier than was her custom. Dawn had scarcely driven the stars from the sky when her voice roused him from slumber. To his surprise, he found Sissie up and dressed when he came into the kitchen, where their mother was preparing breakfast. A fresh steak—tender and juicy—was on the table, all prepared for broiling. The coffee steamed on the stove and toasts browned in the oven.

"Whew!" whistled Andy, seeing the spread. "Guess this is a new kind of April-fool surprise. Is that a real steak, mommer, or just a make-believe?" And Andy poked the steak with his finger to test its genuineness.

But at this moment Sissie called his attention to two parcels on the table, one at each of their plates. "Oh," she said, raising her eyebrows, "you can't fool me, Mister Andy. You put that little parcel at my plate, and in order to fool me into opening it you placed one just like it at your own plate."

"What-t-t?" And Andy, his eyes full of wonder, went to the table and looked curiously at the parcel by his plate. "Oh, ho!" he laughed, "so you think that's the way to catch me, do you? I put those things on the table, did I? Well, just you wait till I open that, and then you may laugh. But I'm not so easy, Sissie." And Andy whistled gaily, eyeing his sister the while.

"Pon my honor, I didn't put those parcels on the table," declared Sissie. "And if you didn't do so I have not the slightest notion who did."

Andy knew his sister was in earnest. Then he looked at the parcel a second time, daring this time to touch it. "Mommer did it," he exclaimed, and looked questioningly at his mother whose face shone with happiness. "Why, mommer, what's up?" cried Andy, running to her side. "You look just lovely, you do. Didn't you put those parcels on the table for Sis and me?"

"They were put there by your April-fool friend," said their mother. "But why don't you open them and see what the joke can be. You don't mind getting fooled a bit—if the joke is worth the while."

Something in their mother's voice and smile made the children decide to open the parcels. When they did so out rolled a 20-dollar gold piece into each plate. With a cry of happy surprise they looked up at their mother, asking: "Who did this, mamma?"

But at the same instant the pantry door slowly opened and into the room came a tall, bearded man, his eyes full of love and words of endearment on his lips as he took two happy and excited children in his arms. "Oh, it's daddy who brought the April-fool presents," cried Andy. "Yes, daddy," echoed Sissie.

"And he came before you were awake this morning," explained the happy mother. "Isn't this the greatest April-fool joke you ever had?"

"Yes," laughed the father, "I came to be your April Fool."

"Oh, it's Daddy who brought the April fool presents," cried Andy. "Yes, daddy," echoed Sissie.

April's Notions.

Out you go in April weather:
Back you run again,
For you've scarcely gotten started
When down comes the rain

Then, just as you're settled, reading,
Brightly shines the sun;
And your book is quite forgotten
As out again you run.

Just a little way you hurry
When, to your surprise,
Sunshine ceases, gloom's about you,
And clouds veil the skies.

But what is the use of running
To your home again?
Sunshine always quickly follows
Every April rain.

So, just raise your umbrella,
And make a wee, snug bower,
Under which you all may shelter
From an April shower.

SWANSON OF VIRGINIA. BIG JOVIAL "BOB" GLENN OF NORTH CAROLINA

BY DEXTER MARSHALL

PROBABLY at no other time in the last decade or two has the South had so many governors at one and the same time in which the country at large has shown so much interest. There are, for example, Comer and Smith, the saloon and railroad "buster" of Alabama and Georgia, respectively; Glenn and Swanson, the railroad rate "busters" of North Carolina and Virginia; Willson, the new Republican governor of Kentucky; Broward of Florida, who first gained the public's eye as a Cuban filibuster and part owner of the notorious Three Friends, and Campbell of Texas, who has been busily engaged in throwing corporations bodily out of the Lone Star state. In the list also should be put Haskell, the first duly elected executive of Oklahoma, much more a Southern state in make-up than a Northern one; Dawson of West Virginia, which lies below the Mason and Dixon line; Patterson of Tennessee, who was unknown to the voters of his district when he ran for congress just seven years ago, and, of course, Joseph W. Folk, a Tennessean by birth, who is the big man in Missouri. Dawson was born in Maryland, Smith in North Carolina, Haskell in Ohio; all the other executives are products of the respective states over which they have been elevated by the voters.

It is rather interesting to note that all the eleven were born either in small towns or on farms. Broward, Campbell, Comer, Glenn, Haskell and Swanson are countryborn; so is Blanchard, who first saw the light of day on a Louisiana cotton plantation fifty-nine years ago, and is the oldest of the governors after Willson, who is three years his senior, and Comer, about four months older. The youngest of the governors is Folk, who will be 40 next October. The only others under 50 are Swanson, who will be 46, and Patterson, now is the forty-seventh year. Wilson is the only one of the eleven who is 60 or over.

There is an American truism to the effect that the average youth born on a farm or in a small town in this country has to work his way up the ladder alone and unaided as a general rule. Certainly all but two of the governors—Blanchard and Willson—found no roses strewn along the paths they took and which have finally placed them in governor chairs.

Swanson's Uphill Fight.

But though most of the governors had to make a stiff and frequently uphill fight of it right from the beginning, it is rather noteworthy that nearly all managed to secure college being agreed that such apparent genius ought to enjoy the fullest opportunities for cultivation, made up a purse with which to put the young man through college.

This time Swanson went to Randolph-Macon, where he took about all the honors in sight and was graduated in three years. Then he did the three-year law course of the University of Virginia in two years and hung out his shingle at Chatham, Va., where his eloquence made him the leading lawyer. Though Swanson won't talk about it, his friends declare that with the first money he saved from his legal fees, he paid back, with interest, the men who saw to it that he had a college and professional education.

Though Hoke Smith's father was a college president, Hoke himself never went to college, the father personally looking after the son's education. At the age when the average Southern boy enters college Broward had shipped on a cod-fishing boat for a season on the Grand Banks. Dawson never learned a college cheer, because he was too busy as a boy making both ends meet in a cooper shop, and, as a young man, as a country clerk and school teacher. Haskell's school days were limited to a few weeks a year during his boyhood, which was pent as a farm drudge for a man who was exceedingly disagreeable, to say the least, to the orphan lad. Willson is the only one of the college men who left the South to get his college education in whole or in part. Hereceived his A. M. from Harvard back in 1869. Comer graduated from Emory and Henry the same year. Folk and Patterson are alumni of the law school of Vanderbilt university.

Glen, whose mother plastered a mortgage on the family farm that her son might get the college education she had long planned for him, and Haskell and Broward, orphans, had a harder struggle to get up perhaps, than any of the other self-made Southern executives.

Haskell's Ill Treatment.

From the time when he was 5, when his father died, until he was 16, Haskell was worked and treated much like a dog by an Ohio farmer of the name of Miller. The only solace in the boy's life was the kindness of Mrs. Miller, whose only child, a son, had died shortly before Haskell had come to the farm. To supplement the little he learned during the few weeks each winter he was permitted to go to school, Mrs. Miller read to the boy and instructed him in the three R's when her husband was away from home, which happened quite frequently. In such wise he gained an education sufficient to secure a teacher's certificates when he was 16.

When young Haskell made up his mind he would try for a teacher's certificate he did not first ask Miller's permission to do so. He knew too well that a stern refusal would be his portion. So one Saturday morning, before the rest of the house was stirring, he put what little money he had in his pocket and sneaked off to the county seat. Arrived there he paid 50 cents for the privilege of taking the examinations, with his remaining 5 cents feasted sumptuously on a sandwich and then took the examination, "passing them with flying colors," as the country weekly has it.

That night, when the boy had reached his farm home after a second walk of twelve miles, he found old man Miller waiting for him with a snake whip. During the homeward journey Haskell had come to the conclusion that he would not be beaten longer by Miller; so when the latter rushed at him with the whip upraised the lad grabbed up a pitchfork to defend himself. He was not whipped.

Miller was mean enough when he learned that the lad had won a teacher's certificate to ask the school examiners to revoke it. The man's treatment of the boy being a subject of widespread gossip, the examiners only laughed at the request. With a perseverance worthy of a better cause Miller then endeavored to get the school board, to whom Haskell had applied for a position, not to consider the application. He went to great length to decry the lad, and when he was done the board engaged Haskell.

The new teacher made the most of his first years of freedom. The school day over, he spent most of his time teaching himself, and when, a few years after he became a teacher he took up the study of law by himself by night, he was fairly well educated and broadly erad. When he had passed his law examinations and been admitted to the Ohio bar he had the satisfaction of knowing that he had got there solely through his own efforts.

Before he moved from his native state to Indian Territory he had become a member of the Ohio legislature and been his party's nominee for governor. As a resident of the territory he combined promoting with law and politics, putting up several big business buildings in Muskogee and building a couple of territorial railroads. By the time it was a certainty that the two territories would soon have to be admitted to the Union as one state Haskell was one of the big men in them.

Big "Bob" Glenn.

"Bob" Glenn, the big, jovial and partly bald-headed executive of North Carolina, was about as poor as the proverbial church mouse from his early childhood until his luck turned a year or two after his marriage, which occurred in 1878, the year he hung out his lawyer's shingle in Winston, N. C.

He and his Tennessee sweetheart began married life on $25, so the story runs. They set up housekeeping in a little three-room cottage. Glenn eked out his lawyer's fees by teaching school and holding down a clerkship in the courthouse. Mrs. Glenn did all the housework, even to the washing and ironing, and when her husband was busy with a law case, she took a place in the school. They were bound to get ahead somehow, but it was difficult work; in fact, they were so poor for a time that Glenn himself had to run all the necessary household errands and carry home the few purchases that he and his wife were able to make. Winston folk are fond of telling the following incident in this connection:

One day while he was "toting" home a sack of flour he was hailed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners.

"Why don't you hire a nigger to carry that bag for you?" the commissioner asked.

Glenn's reply was punctuated with one of his hearty laughs:

"Because I haven't 10 cents to pay the nigger."

Though he was unconscious of the fact at the time the manner in which he answered the commissioner marked the turning point in Glenn's financial fortunes. The commissioner, after thinking over the incident for a few days, decided that a man of such stuff as young Glenn apparently was should have a chance to make good, so he took to him a bundle of old notes for collection, at the same time telling Glenn how he happened to be favored. Glenn, duly grateful, started hustling, and in a short time was able to report the last note collected. He got $800 for his trouble, the most money he had been able to call his own at one time to that date.

Glenn was 7 years old when the Civil war broke out. His father, fighting for the Confederacy, was killed in battle, and the sons and their mother went to live with the youngsters' great-uncle, who also had raised their father. But for this relative's assistance the Glenns undoubtedly would have had a pretty hard time of it, indeed. As it was, they had no spare cash, the uncle being continually in debt and on his death leaving to the boys a big bunch of promissory notes, as well as his farm. It was this farm that the mother mortgaged in order to give "Bob" a college education. But before he went to college the future governor and his brother took turns going to school and running the farm. It was while he was a farm lad that the governor built up his giant-like physique. He has said that he owes his good health to the fact that he got so much exercise chopping wood when a boy.

Governor Glenn has been "somebody," politically, in North Carolina since 1881, when he was sent to the state legislature. Five years later he became state solicitor; he was elector for Cleveland in 1884, and again in 1892; during Cleveland's second term he was a United States district attorney, and two years ago he became governor. His ascent up the political ladder has not been so sudden, therefore, as many persons were led to suppose, when they first heard of him, last year, in connection with the railroad rate dispute between the North Carolina and the federal courts.

Hoke Smith's Struggle.

Like Glenn, Hoke Smith, who has been pretty much in the public eye since 1893, when he became Cleveland's secretary of the interior, had to look sharp after the pennies when he took up the practice of law in Atlanta, at the rather tender age of 18. His small law office was also his living and bedroom; and in it moreover, he cooked his own breakfasts, which he bought each morning, not having enough money ahead to lay in a stock of staple foodstuffs. Smith, however, prior to leaving home for Georgia, where he first taught school, had an easier time of it than did Glenn. While his father, who was president of Catawba college, N. C., was not in affluent circumstances, still he had sufficient to give Hoke the usual comforts. It was when he struck out for himself that the young man learned fully what the lack of money means.

But Hoke was not long without the necessary wherewithal. Almost from the start of his career he developed the faculty of getting money, and almost everything he has undertaken has turned out financially successful. He is credited with making $25,000 a year at law. Glenn, it is said, never made more than $5,000 or $6,000 annually out of his practice. Perhaps Smith's most noteworthy financial feat was the way in which he built up the Atlanta Journal, now one of the best known afternoon papers in the South.

When Smith got hold of the paper, in 1887, it was near death's door. His method of building it up was simple, though somewhat novel. He not only secured the best men in sight, but when any one did a particularly fine piece of work he was sure to find in his pay envelope the following Saturday, an order for a high-priced suit of clothes or for something else equally as satisfactory. One of his city editors he presented with a fine horse and carriage. In a few years the Journal had been turned into a fine business proposition.

Smith's career is full of similar incidents showing his Yankee shrewdness, by which—though he is a Southerner—he comes honestly, his paternal grandfather having been a New Englander who was on intimate terms with Daniel Webster. His father and Mary Baker G. Eddy, the Christian Science leader, were cousins. In his facial ruggedness Smith betrays his Yankee blood.

Smith's stirring anti-saloon campaign for governor is of too recent occurrence to need recital here; also his verbal contests with Clark Howell of the Atlantic Constitution. The picturesque qualities he then displayed have punctuated his entire political career.

Broward's Varied Career.

Another Southern governor with New England blood in his veins is Napoleon Bonaparte Broward of Florida. His mother was of an old New England family. On his father's side he is of Huguenot descent, which explains his French forenames.

Broward's parents, like Haskell's died when he was young, 12 years old, in fact. Two years later he began as varied a career as ever led to a governor's chair by finding employmyent in a logging camp run by an uncle. He rafted logs, sawed fence rails and made himself generally useful. Next he tried farming, then he became a steamboat roustabout. Starting on a tug as cook, he had worked his way to second in command, when he shipped north on a coastwise sailing vessel, bound for New Bedford. At 16 he was fishing for cod on the Great Banks. One of his vivid recollections of this chapter in his career is that he went to the fishing grounds clad in a gingham shirt and jean "pants," and nearly froze in consequence.

Broward first went after cod in 1873. During the fourteen years that ensued he was a seaman on coastwise sailing vessels and fishing boats, a steamboat hand and a pilot in Florida, finally becoming part owner of a steamboat plying between Mayport and Palatka, Florida.

In 1887 he gave up the sea to run a wood yard. The same year he was appointed sheriff of Duval county, in which he was born, to fill a vacancy caused by death. By reappointment, election and re-election he remained sheriff until 1900, when he went to the state legislature from his county. He became governor four years later. But before he quit the office of sheriff he had gained fame in at least two national capitals as one of the most daring of the Cuban filibusters.

In 1895 he re-entered the steamboat business, having secured an interest in the notorious Three Friends. This ocean-going tug was built in Jacksonville for the primary purpose of supplying the Cuban patriots with munitions of war. Broward himself commanded the tug on eight of her trips to and from Cuba; he always took charge whenever the signs pointed to an exciting voyage. Through his connection with the Three Friends Broward has the distinction of being the only living governor for whose capture a foreign government offered a large reward. One of Broward's partners was "Dynamite Johnny" O'Brien, the Spanish government also having a standing reward for his interception and capture. Both men, however, were keen enough to circumvent not only the Spaniards but Uncle Sam as well.

Broward could not, with truth, be called a poor man these days, though even now he is no millionaire. A goodly portion of his worldly possessions has resulted from his filbustering ventures. While Broward turned filibuster partly to make money and partly for the excitement of the game, he insists that he was actuated also by a strong desire to see the Cubans freed from Spanish rule. In any event, his is a name writ large in the last years of the history of Cuban filibustering.

A few years before he became interested in the Three Friends Broward mined phosphate; two years before he was made governor he got in the towing and wrecking business. The native of Florida, asked as to what his governor has done, could reply quite truthfully, were he so minded, "About everything except fly."

Physically Broward would be a good match for Glenn in a muscle contest. His jovial disposition also sizes up well with Glenn's. Otherwise the two men are antipodal. Like Haskell of Oklahoma, Broward obtained most of his education by reading. After he went to work in his uncle's logging camp he put his public school days behind him forever.

A Wealthy Governor.

Newton C. Blanchard of Louisania, the only Southern governor whose term expires this year (Maine and Vermont also inaugurate new executives this year), has been a big man politically in Louisania since the late '70s. He has been member of congress, United States senator and associate justice of the supreme court of Louisiana. He is now the member of the Democratic national committee for his state. Part of the time he was in congress he was chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors and he was as popular in the house and

FIRST WHITE WOMAN DOWN THE RED RIVER

Mr. P. L. Knappen of Tenstrike, Minn., enjoys the unique distinction of being the first white woman to journey down the Red River of the North from its source to Winnipeg, says the Winnipeg Free Press. In fact, it is doubtful if that feat has ever since been duplicated by any of her sex. While white women aplenty have canoed, rowed and steamboated the Red river, the occasion has probably never since existed that induced Mrs. Knappen to undertake the perilous trip. Though that was thirt-seven years ago next May and her girlish features have long since taken on the lines of a matured womenhood, she still says that the call of the wild is the sweetest music in her ears.

An incident of the trip which lingers in Mrs. Knappen's memory today as vivid as when it happened was her meeting on the deck of the famous old steamboat, "The Selkirk," whose timbers have long since fallen apart, with such distinguished men as Charles A. Dana, the famous editor of the New York Sun; Governor Bromley of Connecticut; the gifted Bayard Taylor, Editor Bross of Chicago, and many other celebrated men of that day.

The greatest editors, whoe pens were potent weapons in empire building, had journeyed to the Far Northwest to see for themselves how the country looked, to better pass judgment on the already famous instruction of their contemporary Horace Greeley of the Tribune, "Go west, young man and grow up with the country."

Met Prominent Men.

Mrs. Knappen was assisted on board the steamer from the lumber raft and shook hands with the eastern moulders of public opinion.

She recollects a remark made by Governor Bromley, the wit of the party, who opined that if the Red river was "stretched out straight it would reach from Cape Horn to Lake Winnipeg." The numerous bends of the Red convinced the governor that he was well within the bounds of truth.

"That cook upon the boat," writes Mrs. Knappan, "had substituted beans for potatoes—the later vegetable not then being produced in that part of the country. This led Governor Bromley to remark: 'Imagine eating beans three time a day from Cape Horn to Lake Winnipeg.'

"This editorial party, about forty in number, was entertained at Pembina by the officers of the fort on their arrdval at what was then called Fort Garry, later named Winnipeg.

Following the then rapidly advancing frontier, Mrs. Knappan and her husband, now dead, found themselves at Otter Tail, Minn., May 13, 1871. Otter Tail had been touted by some pioneer boomers as the site on which the "Lake Superior and Puget Sound Townsite company" was ging to build the prize town of the northwest. They reached Otter Tail only to find that there was "nothing doing" and that they had been duped.

How they came to make the trip down the Red river from that point is best told in Mrs. Knappan's own words:

"After the Otter Tail bubble had been pricked, we sold our belongings and our interest in the townsite, which was precious little. We then decided that the best way to recoup was to raft lumber down the Otter Tail river and thence down the Red to a point where the Northern Pacific railroad was expected to cross the latter river. Wherever that point might be, somewhere between Fort Abercrombie on the south of Georgetown, an old Hudson Bay post, to the north, we intended to build a hotel. We expected to accomplish the journey in ten days. But man simply proposes. It took up three months.

"This was the second attempt made to navigate the Otter Tail river, which changes its name to Red, when it turns toward the north at Wahpeton. James J. Hill and Griggs & Co., of St. Paul took two Katboats over the same route in 1869 and 1870. On these boats they conveyed lumber which they landed at Breckenridge, opposite Fort Abercrombie, and there they built the steamer called The Selkirk, which was to be used for freight and passengers bound for what at that time was called Fort Garry. Fort Garry was on the site of the present city of Winnipeg, the post being so christened at the time of the "confederation of Canada."

"The old International had been plying those waters for a few years and was formerly a boat on the Mississippi. It was owned by J. J. Hill and the late Commodore Kitson. It was divided into sections and was taken up the Minnesota river by Anse Northrup, thence through Big Stone lake and Lake Traverse and finally through the Bois De Sioux to the Red river.

"From Otter Tail village to the site of Fergus Falls, then a town of eight or ten dwellings, a distance of thirty miles by winding road, it took us fifteen days to negotiate the distance by water. We were delayed three weeks at that point in taking the rafts over the mill dam, below which the water falls twenty-two feet in half a mile.

A Perilous Trip.

"Well, the trip was a perilous one indeed. More than once I selected trees to climb while left alone, to protect myself from wild animals, which were plentiful in those days. Part of our fleet was swept loose by the current and was stranded high and dry in mid-stream.

"I recollect that, as 'chief cook and bottle washer of the party,' I was at that psychological moment engaged in cooking a pan of dried apples, of which the raftsmen had partaken liberally. One of the men afterwards jocularly remarked that the apples enabled him to reach shore. Having eaten the dried apples, being unable to swim, he felt in no danger of sinking. Safeguarded by this internal life-saver, he jumped overboard and they drifted him ashore.

"About eight miles below Fergus Falls was a point called Dayton, a prospective townsite and rival to Fergus Falls. The Wright family of St. Cloud were the owners of the site.

"Our difficulties multiplied from day today. We were always in doubt over which channel to choose. Islands were constantly barring the way as we connived to navigate the treacherous Breckenridge bends, as they were known. Growing narrower and swifter, the stream was now filled with snags, which stubbornly disputed our passage.

"Finally we reached the 'old crossing' of the Otter Tail, where trains of famous Red river carts had crossed for many a year with their precious loads of fur. An army of these carts was moving on St. Paul when we reached the crossing. We saw 600 carts in one long line. These carts, as all old-timers know, were owned by the Hudson's Bay company and other independent dealers. St. Paul was the great distributing center.

"There was not a piece of iron in the make-up of these rude vehicles. Primitive indeed they were, rough hewn and hand-made entirely of wood. The wooden axles were never greased, for that would have ruined the wheels. The result was a nerve-racking creaking which heralded the approach of the carts from a great distance.

"We encountered a fierce electrical storm at this point. One thing that kept us in constant alarm after leaving Otter Tail was the fear that the great drive of logs from the saw mill at McCauleyville might overwhelm us at any time. Fortunately or as though we were unaware of this almost providential intervention, the boom broke loose in the Otter Tail lake and in a big wind the logs were scattered. It took much time to round them up, and we were spared.

"Wild fowl were very plentiful and the stream was full of young ducks. The men collected eggs in abundance and wild fruits were plentiful. We saw great schools of fish. In crowding around bends many of them were thrown upon the rafts.

The N. P. Crossing.

"Where the river occasionally straightened out for a considerable distance, we spread blankets and made time by sailing. At Fort Abercrombie we met the officers and their families and these glimpses of civilization made our trip less lonely. The point of interest beyond the fort was called 'Twenty-five Mile Point,' a mail station.

"In the middle of July we tied up at the point where Fargo and Moorhead now stand. Two brothers named Holes had taken claims on either side of the river. Up and down the river for twenty miles on either side eager settlers had taken claims in the expectation that they had secured the magic ground where the Northern Pacific would locate the 'crossing.' Three miles down the river from Moorhead and Fargo was a farm owned by a man named Probtsfield. Governor Smith wanted to secure this farm for the railroad crossing. He was particularly anxious to get title to the farm because of its strategic location. In possession of the farm, the road of which he was president, although he lived in Vermont, would have seventy miles of straight road, which at that time would have been the longest stretch of rail without a deviation in the world. Probtsfield wanted $8,000 for the farm. The Lake Superior & Puget Sound Townsite company, a ring within a ring for the Northern Pacific, chose to purchase the site owned by the Hole brothers for $3,000.

"Governor Smith was exceedinly wroth at this decision. It was then that he made the famous remark: 'I'll bust your townsite and put you out of business.' True to his word he gave Moorhead a black eye by promptly ordering all the railroad interests over to the Fargo side. The action of the townsite company made a big curve necessary at Fargo and the governor was correspondingly incensed.

"It took all summer to settle this crossing question. Despairing of its ever having settled, we pushed on for market to Winnipeg, which necessitated another month of roughing it on the river. In the lower reaches of the river we passed historic Georgetown, a Hudson's Bay post. At Frog Point we began to look for the steamers, Selkirk and International.

Grand Forks Was Finally Reached.

"The now thriving city was chiefly distinguished then by a log house and portable saw mill.

"A whole week we floated without seeing a sign of civilization. The navigation was less difficult. When within a few miles of Fort Pembina, just at sunrise, we heard the whistle of the Selkirk."

Recalling other incidents of the meeting with the editorial party, Mrs. Knappen here recalled that Bayard Taylor sought the shady side of the boat to read and write.

"He frequently encountered sunshine as the steamer swung 'round the bends.' 'What a wonderful country,' he finally exclaimed. 'The sun appears to rise in every direction!' Then he went indoors.

"The editors," continued Mr. Knappen, "were highly entertained at Fort Pembina. At Winnipeg Mr. Taylor, the American consul, showed the party the principal points of interest about the settlement. At the government house at lower Fort Garry, they viewed a herd of tame buffalo. To make the visit a bit more memorable, Mr. Taylor invited them to a pemican (dried buffalo) feed.

"Mrs. Bannatyne and some other ladies, assisted by the wives of the Hundson's Bay post officers, prepared the most appetizing repast. I think I am safe in saying, that Mr. Dana ever sat down to, not overlooking any banquet in which he may have previously participated at Delmonico's or other show restaurants of New York. In addition to the buffalo steak, there were all sorts of wild game, toothsome jellies and rare old wines set out, most elaborately in silver, cut glass and fine damask."

GOVERNMENT AND INJUSTICE

"Uncle Sam is after crooks," says a news item. The United States government is a business institution to a larger extent than the average man is aware of. It seems to be a system which has favors to grant upon a certain class in society, and it would seem to the average observer that its decisions of justice were based upon favor or power. That the government should be the first upon the weaker individuals in society and allow the stronger to go unpunished can be set forth by events as they are carrier out in our every day life. The farces as carried out are an insult to decency, to morals and to our civilization. That we should license robbery, graft and theft is only expressed by our willful ignorance of the existing conditions. Our government is the greater of all criminals; it upholds conditions which breed graft and robbery. It protects the strong against the weak, as I shall set forth as follows:

By the term government I mean the forces that exist in the national affairs that have power to force their opinion, from the point of view they may see them, regardless of the injury they may inflict upon the majority of people, individuals in the cabinet of our government have confessed to crimes and acts that were in direct violation of existing laws, and yet the only verdict rendered against them was that they resign, to accept a greater office of trust. The grafter is another notable instance of crime committed, and yet those who committed it were unpunished. The burning of cotton in the South is one of the greatest crimes that will be recorded in our history. As a result of the methods used by the Standard Oil company—thievery and plunder—it was fined a large sum of money, its conviction proving that its acts were criminal.

The injunction has become a very effective weapon of the rich as against the other classes in society. It would seem that the club can be bought, but the buyers must have the price in their hands, as the government does not do business on tick—the club used by Chancellor Magie against the silk workers, also the decision of Judge Gould regarding the Buck Stove company, as against the American Federation of Labor—the greatest of all crimes in our modern history, one that will make all sane and thoughtful people blush with shame, and be filled with remorse when they begin to understand and know the seriousness of the crime committed in this one act. It has always been considered that in a great measure we were equals, as far as rights went, whether belonged to the working class or to the capitalist class. But the rulings of the government of late would cause us to think that the only right the worker had was the right that the capitalist was willing to give him, and that in the future the union which had built up such an organization that it had become a power in the industrial field, whereby we had a chance to force just conditions and a better wage, and at the expense it has cost us to build up that organization with our money and energy, to find that it was only a bubble, and that the bubble was bursted by the government, which we were led to believe would deal fairly with both of us. We union men have no rights that the employer must respect, He can dictate to us, and we are no longer in a position whereby we may make a counterclaim for the reason that as soon as the employer learns that we are union men he has the legal right to discriminate against us, or in other words, fire us because we are union men.

What right has the worker today other than the serf or slave of the olden times had, but to assent to the conditions and rules as laid down by our boss? Not that he is made of better clay than we, but because of his power that is backed up by his money, and that money being more powerful than the government, which has been compelled to bow to that power regardless of the injustice it may work upon the other class in society. We are compelled to recognize that classes do exist, and that these class interests are diametrically opposed to each other. The interest of the capitalist is to pay the least wages he possibly can induce men to work for, and also to extend the hours of labor, while labor, upon the other hand, demands a greater wage and less hours. There is no system that exists today, or has ever existed in the past (I mean civilization) that can or has ever been able to set up a form of government that could operate in the interests of both classes. The fault does not lie so much in the government granting favors to individuals as it does in its inability to control the economic laws that are the basic principles upon which our government is built, that is, that it protects the private ownership of the natural resources of the earth and of the tools by which those resources are worked. Through the ownership of these tools the employer is able to say to the worker, "I own the job. You own your labor. I will give you the right to take my tools and work with them, provided you accept the wage I offer you." The worker begins to think there is something wrong in this deal, and therefore refuses it, but the pangs of hunger, and the crying of wife and children, cause him to realize that he must work, beg or steal, and as the government gives him to understand that he can work, but must not beg or steal, he asks himself the question, where are my rights "in the land of the free, and the home of the brave," but to become the untutored slave of my autocracy, the like the world has never known?

The fault lies with the workers themselves. They will not study the conditions that confront them, but allow themselves to be led by men whose interests are directly opposite to their own, but who are able to make them believe that the interests of all are alike. There is only one thing left for the worker to do, and that is to get into the political game and to fight for the product of his labor and not for a part of it. "Workers of the world, unite. You have nothing to lose but your chains."

PROMINENT GOVERNORS OF THE SOUTH

senate as Mrs. Blanchard was socially in the national capital.

Blanchard is among the wealthiest of the Southern governors. Among his accomplishments he numbers shooting. He is a crack shot; indeed, probably no other present occupant of a governor's chair is a finer. He got acquainted with the rifle in his boyhood days, when he hunted small game in the woods about his plantation home. He is extremely fond of deer shooting. While he was in Washington it was his practice to frequent the shooting galleries in order to keep his aim true and steady. Willson of Kentucky finds relaxation in golf; he and Justice Harlan of the supreme court have played many a game together. Glenn's favorite recreation is walking. He and Willson are enthusiastic out-of-door men.

slight angle, and for a distance running with the crosscut. The assays gave a small percentage of copper, about 30 ounces of silver to the ton, $1.50 in gold, 21 per cent lead, and 48 per cent zinc. Owing to the great excess of zinc, the ore, if any develops will be treated at the zinc plant of the La France Copper company, which is operating with the Steel-Sutton-Steel dry concentration process. The leasers on the Lizzie claim, one of the Davis-Daly properties, are making an excellent showing on the 200-foot level, where two good veins have been cut. On the smaller of the veins drifts are being run and some sloping is going on. The assays show eight per cent copper. The larger vein, which is sixty feet wide, gives less than 3 per cent copper. The latter vein will be worked from a lower level where it is believed that the values will greatly increase.

tunnel, drifts and raises 15,000 tons of good milling ore has been placed on the dump.

The manager of the Gold Eagle and Homestake mines at Meal, twenty miles east of Boise, is putting a large force of miners on development work. The property is equipped with a ten stamp, but this will be enlarged as soon as the mine is put in shape to produce sufficient ore. The Homestake is already cut at the depth of 400 feet.

the aggregate to several million pounds, have been shipped in carload lots to points ranging from Savannah on the southeast and Kansas City on the southwest, to Des Moines and Minneapolis on the northwest, in the past few weeks, all going in the name of A. Sleighman.

Reports of trouble with the hydraulic-pneumatic power plant of the Victoria have been greatly exaggerated. The underground chamber is not leaking, as stated in some reports, and the only change of importance made in the plant has been at the intake, where the five thousand small tubes in the three circular shafts have been removed and replaced by common planking. The pipes gave considerable trouble from freezing, in cold weather, necessitating the use of much steam to thaw them out, while the planks, in even the coldest weather nothing is required beyond occasionally chiseling off accumulated ice around the collars of the shafts. The tailings loss at the Victoria is now about one-tenth of one per cent, or two pounds of copper per ton, but the average of copper carried in the rock coming to mill apparently is not more than twelve to fourteen pounds per ton, giving an extraction of ten to twelve pounds fine copper only, per ton of rock stamped. It is planned to handle rock by the gravity system for the crushers, thereby saving one extra handling, and consequent expense. A four-ton skip is to replace the present skip of three tons capacity. The mine is running eighteen drills, of which twelve are drifting, three are stope-drifting and three are cross-cutting. Daily rock production averages about 420 tons.

No. 1 shaft of the Ojibway is 300 feet deep, and the first level will be opened at 350 feet, the shaft lying about seventy feet under the Kearsarge bed, on which the mine is to be developed. The shaft is making depth at an average of a little better than fifty feet monthly, and is sunk at an angle of 33 degrees. Two drills are running.

The Red Jacket vertical shaft of the Calumet & Hecla is down to the eighty-first level, a depth of 4,920 feet vertically, and produces 1,600 to 1,800 tons of stamp-rock daily. The shaft has six compartments, of which two handle the rock tonnage, while a second set of two compartments cares for the water, the third set being used for men and supplies other than timber, the timbering being lowered through No. 5 incline shaft, and sent thence to the Red Jacket workings through a cross-cut. With the completion of work at the rock house of No. 6 shaft, all of the Calumet & Hecla shafthouses will be ready for the use of 40-ton rock cars, to replace the seven-ton cars that have survived their useulness.

Storage bins at B, D and E shafts of the Champion mine have been given increased capacity, through raising their height by twenty feet, and C shaft is being given enlarged storage capacity in the same manner. This change saves one extra handling of stamp-rock in the rockhouses. Ground has been broken for a powerful new hoist at C shaft, this being the last shaft of the mine to retain the holst with whic it was equipped originally. Because of the improvements underway at C shaft, only one compartment is working; this producing about 600 tons daily of exceptionally rich rock, with merely a two-ton skip. Heavier skips will be installed shortly, with pneumatic dumpers similar to those at the three other shafts, and when the new hoist is in commission, S shaft will be in position to nearly or quite double its present production.

No. 6 and No. 7 shafts. Dense smoke soon filled the passageways in the vicinity, and it was necessary to suspend underground work. Bulkheads were built in the openings leading to the shafts, in addition to which the two shafts were sealed on the surface. The smothering process has been effected, and comparatively small damage has resulted, still the occurrence has been annoying; has rendered a considerable number of men idle for a fortnight, and has cost one employe his life, this is consequence of a fall of some hundreds of feet while on an investigating tour to the neighborhood of the fire zone.

The Steel corporation's Clark mine, at Chisholm, Mesaba range, is not to be stripped, as was reported last season.

The fact that the ore body is overlaid with taconite makes steam shovel operations inadvisable. However, an electrical haulage system is being installed beneath the surface, and with this in commission soon the tramming will be done by motor. The west shaft will be abandoned, and all the ore will be hoisted through the shaft at the east end of the property. At Virginia, night-shift work has been resumed at the Lincoln mine of the Jones & McLaughlin company.

A saw mill, purchased from a Menominee river lumber company, is to be dismantled and removed to the Gogebic iron range by the Steel corporation, for re-erection at Ironwood, where it will take the place of a similar plant destroyed by fire at the East Norrie mine last summer. The mill will be much more complete than was the old plant, and aside from turning out mining timber, it will furnish the company with finished lumber for building purposes.

A large consignment of acetate of lime, a product of the chemical works at the Ashland (Wis.) charcoal iron furnace, has been shipped to Japan by the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company. The commodity is for use in the manufacture of smokeless powder.

E. C. Dean of Boston, Mass., has been a recent visitor to the Lake Superior iron region. He is the secretary of the Keweenaw association, which owns the fee of a number of important mines on the Gogebic range.

Both on the western end of the Menominee iron range, and to the east on the same mineral formation the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad is preparing to make a bid for additional ore traffic. It was not so many years ago that the Chicago & Northwestern company had a monopoly on the business.

the Calumet & Arizona mines has been as good during the year 1907 as in any year of our history, and the ore reserves have been greatly increased, not only in the way of extensions of known ore bodies, but also in the way of development of absolutely new ore bodies, all of which has added materially to the permanency of the mines, and there still remains on the Calumet & Arizona properties a large amount of well-located ground which as yet has not been developed.

"The conditions which prevailed during the year 1907 were certainly not favorable for the operations of mines and smelters in this section of the country. The railroad congestion made it impossible for us to secure oil from our natural source of supply, to-wit, California, and we were compelled to go to Eastern Texas for it, and pay much higher prices than California oil costs. This same congestion made it necessary for us to secure the majority of our coke supply from the East, which also cost more than Western coke would have cost us.

Mining timber, lumber and practically all supplies used were exceedingly high during the year. During the latter part of the year our output of copper was reduced 50 per cent. Summing up the above, it is easy to draw the conclusion that it was impossible under such conditions to secure the same results as could be had under normal conditions."

Regarding the operations at the smelter, Mr. Powell says: "The recent strikes of ore on our Superior & Pittsburg properties have increased the shipments from that property to such an extent as to make it necessary for us to operate all five of our present stacks, which means that the smelter is now running at its full capacity. The work of completing the scheme of enlarging the plant is being pushed as rapidly as possible, however, and in a short time we will be able to erect the sixth furnace, which will be of 500-tons capacity, and following this erection, we will commence the extension of the old stacks, which work, when completed, will very largely increase our capacity."

Superior & Pittsburg.

President Briggs, on behalf of the directors of the Superior & Pittsburg company, has submitted the following report of operations for the year ending Dec. 31, 1907:

"We produced during the year 1907, 4,845,166-2000 tons of refined copper. The product in gold and silver was in value $33,401.21, averaging per ton of refined copper $6.90. The highest average price per month received for refined copper was for copper delivered in June, 1907, viz:—26.62 cents. The lowest was for copper delivered during November, 1907, viz—12.48 cents. The average price tor refined copper delivere in 1907 was 15.1625 cents. The average price received was from sales made of the copper produced Oct. 1, 1906, to Sept. 20, 1907. September product was ready for delivery at the electrolytic works in December, but was not all sold. The average number of men employed for the year was 734.

"Our expense for pumping has been heavy during the year, as the Hoatson, Junction and Briggs shafts have been sunk. It has been the experience with these shafts that when not sinking and the ground has drained, the normal inflow of water is small. All the water from the above named shafts is now raised to surface through the Junction shaft as noted in Mr. Powell's report under the heading of "Water and Pumps." This plan, as soon as we are deep enough to stop sinking, will result in comparatively low pumping costs. Construction work is now nearly through at all the shafts.

"Deevelopments the latter part of the year and to the present writing on the 1,200 level of the Hoatson and Junction mines have been very gratifying. Drifting has now commenced on the 1,300 level of both these mines. Our product for January, 1908, was 937 tons."

The assets of the Superior & Pittsburg company on Dec. 31, 1907, was as follows:

ASSETS.

Cash and copper on hand at 12½ cents per lb.		$473,677.57
Ore in stock at mine and smelter at $10 per ton		7,000.00
Supplies on hand at mines		161,824.68
Accounts and bills receivable		38,898.25
Stock in other companies		82,750.00
		$ 759,150.50

LIABILITIES.

Accounts and bills payable at Calumet and Bisbee	$1,275,087.65

Liabilities in excess of assets $ 515,937.16

Third Vice President Powell, after relating the additions to the plant and changes in equipment, says: "With the exception of a more economical compressor plant to furnish air for the Junction, Hoatson and Briggs shafts, we are now splendidly equipped with machinery at all of our shafts on the Superior & Pittsburg property, both on surface and in our pumping plants, and our requirements along this line, with the exception of the compressor, should be very small for a great many years to come."

Development Work.

The total feet opened in development work during the year was 23,332.50, and new ore was opened up from the Cole, Junction and Hoatson shafts, concerning which Mr. Powell says:

"Cole shaft: The Cole shaft was sunk 91 feet during the year, and is now 1,491 feet deep. The new level at 1,300 feet has cut no ore, but has developed a very fine showing of leached ground, and the 1,400-foot level has been started to explore under this large showing. The most important ore developments during the year have been on the Sunnyside and Jesse Glencairn claims. The Sunnyside has been developed to such an extent as to prove that all of the ore developed in different places on that claim is connected through what had been supposed to be barren ground, and the result is that we have one of the large ore bodies of the camp on that property. On the Jesse Glencairn we have also developed a large ore body on the 1,100-foot level. Ore bodies have been cut on the Suppligment and Election claims, but not sufficient development has been done as yet to indicate the extent of same. Since the first of the year we have cut a body of high grade ore on the 1,000-foot level, Discovered claim. This ore body is now being developed, and we feel confident will yield a large tonnage. The fact that it is in outlying ground heretofore practically no development has been done adds to its importance, as it indicates the possibilities of the large, unexplored area in which it exists.

Briggs shaft: The Briggs shaft now has a total depth of 1,271 feet, and the new level, the 1,100-foot, was driven during the year north and south from the shaft, and on both sides has cut long stretches of leached and copper stained ground that holds great promise for this mine lower down.

Junction shaft: The Junction shaft has been sunk to a depth of 1,348 feet, and during the year a new level, the 1,200-foot, was driven. The development on both the 1,100 and 1,200-foot levels during the year has been in ground that is very promising. We have cut on both levels large leached areas with considerable showing of copper and in several places have opened small oxide ore bodies. This ground is especially noticeable on the Ormond claim. Our drift northeast from the Junction shaft, 1,200-foot level, opened during the last part of the year some sulphide ore which since the first of the year has developed into a fine body of high grade sulphide ore. On the 770-foot level, we discovered during the year a new body of oxide ore about 250 feet west of the shaft from which we are mining very rich ore. While the development at the Junction mine has been successful in finding considerable ore during the past year, the best feature of it, in our judgment, is the great extent of leached material which we have cut, which gives every promise of much more extensive ore bodies below. The 1,300-foot level is being driven from the shaft, and the sinking of the shaft from the 1,300-foot level down has been resumed.

Fine Ore Bodies.

"Hoatson shaft: The Hoatson shaft has attained a depth of 1,427 feet. The opening of the 1,200-foot level was started during last year. In our annual report for the year 1906, we called attention to the fine showing of leached and copper stained ground opened from the Houtson shaft and predicted important ore bodies below. We are glad to report that our developments on the 1,200-foot level have justified this prediction, and have opened some exceptionally fine ore bodies both oxide and sulphide. The showing of oxide ore is particularly fine, and while we have as yet done little more than cut it with our original drifts, it is so extensive and of such a nature that the Hoatson bids fair to be one of the big mines of the district by the time we have opened up the 1,300-foot level, which will be started about the 20th of February.

"In its entirety, the Superior & Pittsburg developments during the year 1907, have been far more productive of good results in the way of ore finds than any previous year in its history, and the property starts the new year with every prospect of not only speedily becoming one of the great copper producers of the country, but also with extremely bright promises for a long life. The ore development of the district has been consistent and unbroken towards Superior & Pittsburg ground, and the substantial results of development from the Superior & Pittsburg shafts since sufficient depth has been attained to reach the ore zone, indicates the great possibilities of this property, inasmuch as comparatively only a few small spots of its large area have been developed, and there remains enormous areas of absolutely undeveloped ground which the history of the development of the camp indicates clearly are in the direction of the strike of the rich ores of the district."

The Year's Production.

Mr. Lavell adds: "The new ore bodies recently discovered from the Hoatson, Junction and Cole shafts have enabled us to more than double our production of copper from the Superior & Pittsburg properties, and if the new levels which we are now driving from the Cole and the Junction shafts, and the 1,200-foot level which we will soon be ready to start opening from the Hoatson, develop ore bodies in the manner in which we have every reason to believe they will; we should be able to materially increase our oupput of copper over the present rate, a little later in the year.

"All of our water is raised to surface through our Junction shaft. Our main object in doing this is because of the fact that the collar of the Junction shaft is 126 feet lower than the collar of the Briggs shaft and 156 feet lower than the Hoatson. Our Hoatson shaft is making very much less water than heretofore, and as we are getting into the ore bodies and apparently below the majority of the large leached areas, we are all of the opinion that the great volume of water on the Del Norte claim has been removed. We have had a long, hard fight with the water in this valley, but now that we are reaching the ore zones, we feel that we can begin to see the end of our fight, and with the present large equipment which we have, we are able to go ahead with our work without the delays and difficulties which we had when our plant was much more limited in capacity."

FIRST WHITE WOMAN DOWN THE RED RIVER

Mr. P. L. Knappen of Tenstrike, Minn., enjoys the unique distinction of being the first white woman to journey down the Red River of the North from its source to Winnipeg, says the Winnipeg Free Press. In fact it is doubtful if that feat has ever since been duplicated by any of her sex. While white women scarcely have canoed, rowed and even navigated the Red river, the scene was probably never since existed that lured Mrs. Knappen to undertake the perilous trip. Though that was thirty-seven years ago next May and the striking features have long since taken on the lines of a matured memory, yet she says that the call of the wild is the sweetest music in all the world.

Although one of the keys which fingers in Mrs. Knappen's memory relay is missing when it happened was her setting on the deck of the famous old steamer, The Selkirk, whose engines have long since fallen apart, she distinguished friends Charles A. Bond, the famous editor of the New York Sun, Greeley, Bromley of Connecticut, the gifted Bayard Taylor, Judge Dyer of Chicago and many other great men of that day.

The greatest editors, whose pens were powerful weapons in empire building, had journeyed to the Far Northwest to see for themselves how the country looked, a better pass judgment on the widely famous instruction of their self-imposed Horace Greeley of the following: "Go west, young man, and grow up with the country."

Met Prominent Men.

Mr. Knappen was assisted on board the steamer from the lumber raft and canoe with the western boarders of prominence.

"As a remark made by Mr. Bond at the time," she said, "I was the first white woman to journey down the Red river from Lake Winnipeg to Lake Winnipeg. Fifty miles down the river from Moorhead and Fargo was a farm owned by a man named Probstield. Governor Smith wanted to secure this farm for the railroad crossing. He was particularly anxious to get title to the farm because of its strategic location. In possession of the farm, the road of which he was president, although he lived in Vermont, would have seventy miles of straight road, which at that time would have been the longest stretch of rail without a deviation in the world. Probstield wanted $8,000 for the farm. The Lake Superior & Puget Sound Townsite company, a ring within a ring for the Northern Pacific, chose to purchase the site owned by the Hale brothers for $3,000.

"Governor Smith was exceedingly wroth at this decision. It was then that he made the famous remark: 'I'll bust your townsite and put you out of business.' True to his word he gave Moorhead a black eye by promptly ordering all the railroad interests over to the Fargo side. The action of the townsite company made a big curve necessary at Fargo and the governor was correspondingly incensed.

"It took all summer to settle this crossing question. Despairing of its ever having settled, we pushed on for market to Winnipeg, which necessitated another month of roughing it on the river. In the lower reaches of the river we passed historic Georgetown, a Hudson's Bay post. At Frog Point we began to look for the steamers, Selkirk and International.

Grand Forks Was Finally Reached.

"The now thriving city was chiefly distinguished then by a log house and portable saw mill.

"A whole week we floated without seeing a sign of civilization. The navigation was less difficult. When within a few miles of Fort Pembina, just at sunrise, we heard the whistle of the Selkirk."

Recalling other incidents of the meeting with the editorial party, Mrs. Knappen here recalled that Bayard Taylor sought the shady side of the boat to read and write.

"He frequently encountered sunshine as the steamer swung 'round the bends.' 'What a wonderful country,' he finally exclaimed. 'The sun appears to rise in every direction!' Then he went indoors.

"The editors," continued Mr. Knappen, "were richly entertained at Fort Pembina. At Winnipeg Mr. Taylor, the American consul, showed the party the principal points of interest about the settlement. At the government house at lower Fort Garry, they viewed a herd of tame buffalo. To make the visit a bit more memorable, Mr. Taylor invited them to a pemican (dried buffalo) feed.

"Mrs. Bannatyne and some other ladies, assisted by the wives of the Hudson's Bay post officers, prepared the most appetizing repast. I think I can say, in saying that Mr. Dana ever sat down to, not overlooking any banquet in which he may have previously participated at Delmonico's or other show restaurants of New York. In addition to the buffalo steak, there were all sorts of wild game, necktsome jellies and rare old wines set out in cut-glass and fine china."

"Uncle Sam is after crooks," says a news item. The United States government is a business institution to a larger extent than the average man is aware of. It seems to be a system which has favors to grant upon a certain class in society, and it would seem to the average observer that its sessions of justice were based upon favor or power. That the government should use its force upon the weaker class in society and allow the stronger to go unpunished can be set forth by events as they are carried out in an every day life. The larger sin is overlooked and in many cases is deemed a necessity to the existence of the government, if profits will result. The small and lowly is the one that is made to feel the strong hand of the law, as I said before, to the full.

By the term government I mean the forces that exist in the national affairs that have power to control in dealing from the low to the high. The power of the judiciary may be called upon in custody of people in the charge of our government, in which the members confessed to the fact that many of the acts of securing law and order in the country cannot be carried out as they would desire to do, because of the fact that the interests of corporations are so closely connected with the business of the country that they could not be disturbed. The fault does not lie so much in the government granting favors to individuals as it does in its inability to control the corporate laws that are the basic principles upon which our government is built, that is, that it has ever been able to set up a form of government that could operate in the interests of both classes

Will Tour Europe.

Duluth is well represented among the students of music in Berlin this winter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lachmund, Miss Carlotta Simonds and Theodore Fossum being among those who are in the German capital. He will leave in May for a tour of Italy and Switzerland and in the autumn will go to Paris to continue his studies with Moritz Moszowski. His progress will be watched with interest by many Duluthians who are interested in the young musician.

Madame Sembrich.

Duluth is fortunate in having secured Mme. Marcella Sembrich and her supporting company for a concert here during the spring season. Mme. Sembrich who is chosen by many as the greatest coloratura soprano of the world has been equally successful in opera and concert and before entering her concert tour this spring she completed the most brilliant and most successful opera engagement of her career.

On the concert platform she has gained triumphs such as no singer has won since the day of Adelina Patti, while as a member of the Metropolitan Opera company in New York, she takes rank as Mr. Conried's star of stars.

Marcella Sembrich was born at Wisneweyzk. Her father, who was a violinist and a self-taught pianist, began to teach her piano playing when she was 4 years old, and at the age of 6 she began to study the violin. Her parents were very poor, and Marcella had to begin to earn her own living at the age of 12. An old Pole named Lanowitch sent her to the conservatory at Leopel, and there she began advanced studies under a young teacher named Wilhelm Stengel, who for four years taught her the works of Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin, and Mendelssohn. Prof. Stengel was so much interested in his pupil that he sent her to Vienna to study under Epstein. This master advised her to put aside piano work for a time in order to devote herself to the study of singing.

Acting upon this advice she went to Milan and studied with the greatest vigor under Lamperti, the younger, for two years. She made her debut as Lucia at the Royal Opera, Dresden, under her mother's maiden name of Sembrich. Her success was great, but she felt that her voice and style were best suited to the Italian stage, and returned to Milan, where she sang Lucia in Italian. In London, a few years later, her success was enormous. She also sang with immense favor in Warsaw, St. Petersburg, Moscow and Madrid.

Mme. Sembrich, now the wife of her early teacher, Prof. Stengel, sang all over the Continent. Her success in Berlin and Vienna has been immense, and all the famous critics have united in one grand chorus of praise. In New York her triumphs as a member of the Metropolitan Opera company are too familiar to require mention.

Mme. Sembrich will appear next Tuesday evening at the First Methodist church and the program to be presented at the Duluth engagement is as follows:

AMONG THE PLANTS

If you want sweet peas early, now is the time to get ready. Take a soap box that will be large enough, or you will get too much weight; dump into the box a half bushel of good soil; now take three-inch pots, fill them with soil and stand them close together on the bottom of the box, filling in around them until they are plunged to the rim in the soil. Then place twelve or fifteen seeds on top of each pot, pressing them down with the bottom of another pot. Now give them a good watering, enough to thoroughly wet both earth and pots, and cover them with some fine soil. Cover the box with anything handy to keep the moisture in and set in any old place until the seeds germinate; then give them all the light possible and by the last week in April you can place the box outside. If there comes a hard frost throw an old carpet over them, but they soon harden, and, except an occasional watering, are no trouble. As soon as the ground is warm enough to work, plant them out. Do not separate them, but plant them a foot apart. They will spread themselves and, grown this way, they will be two to three weeks earlier than those sown in the open ground and they will repay the little trouble they are.

Many have asked how we grow such lovely pease as are seen in our greenhouse garden. They have always been a success and the flowers very large. Well, in the first place, the best seeds obtainable are purchased, the land, which is of such a hard clay nature, is plowed in the fall, and by the middle of April the top is light and mellow, although there may be frost six inches below the surface. But the top is dry, and now is our chance. A line is stretched along, and with the corner of the hoe a small furrow is made about three inches deep, into which the seeds are sown. The soil is pushed back on them with the feet and firmed by pressing the soil down on them with the full weight of the feet and no further attention given them than thorough cultivation as soon as they are up and until they are in bud.

About Chewing.

Gladstone's forty chews have been added to from time to time by different medical authorities, who advise that the chewing process last until the food is reduced to a liquid. It is safe to say that ninety-nine persons out of a hundred swallow their food before it reaches the liquid state. For a real liquid food, golden grain belt beer is all that could be desired. Its food value is recognized, and it is a valuable aid to digestion. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

DAKOTAS

THEY HAVE BIG TUSSLE

Stalwarts and Progressives of North Dakota Fight It Out.

In Warm Contest in Ward County Convention, at Minot.

Minot, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stalwarts and progressive Republicans met in battle royal at the Ward county Republican convention held in this city this week, and although the stalwarts won a slight victory, the progressive element feels entirely satisfied with the result, and expects a victory in the county at the primaries. Representatives of McKenzie from all over the state were on hand to influence the convention, and the Hansbrough, Little and Hanna factions united to down the progressives.

The first test in the convention came in the selection of a temporary chairman, and Sam Lockerby of Perial, the McKenzie representative, was chosen over G. L. Bickford by a vote of 84 to 69. McKenzie delegates to the state convention were also chosen by margins as close as 15 votes. Outside leaders of the McKenzie element were busy all day circulating misleading accounts as to the motives and stand of the progressives, but the only result was to influence the people of the county against their cause.

Red Plantagenet adopted endorsing the policies of Roosevelt, and Taft was favored for the presidential nomination by the party of the nation. The strength of the progressive element came to the front when a resolution endorsing C. A. Johnson of Minot for governor, was turned down after a warm fight. An anti-McKenzie resolution on the part of the progressives met with a similar fate, and the convention broke up in a scrap over this proposition.

Congressman A. J. Gronna returned to his home in Dakota from Washington on the early morning train yesterday. Mr. Gronna's coming was entirely unexpected, and it is said that even members of his immediate family were taken by surprise at his early return.

Mr. Gronna at once delved into matters political, and left on the Saries branch for Brockett and other points in Ramsey county to take a personal hand in the caucuses to be held in that county today to select delegates to the county convention which meets next week in Devils Lake.

DEAD COMES TO LIFE.

Grand Forks Doctors Give Up Patient Trifle Too Soon.

Bismarck, N. D., March 28.—Harry Beach, an electrician of this city, has returned from Grand Forks, where he had been called to attend the deathbed of his father-in-law, who had been crushed by an engine backing into the wall of the round house, he being employed as engine hostler.

When Beach reached Grand Forks two doctors had declared his father-in-law dead, and had sent for an undertaker to prepare the body for burial.

Beach was surprised to see how lifelike the man was, and expressed the belief that he was not dead and was laughed at by the doctors. After the doctors had left, he lifted the dead man into a sitting posture and began rubbing his head and hands, and was startled to note that the body began to warm and soon the man was breathing.

The doctors were again summoned, and in a few hours the supposedly dead man was doing so well that Beach returned home, and it is probable the man will recover.

Deadwood, S. D., March 28.—Circuit Judge McGee has sustained the legality of the South Dakota primary law, which exacts a fee of $15 from any candidate for office before his name can go on the official ballot. Socialists of this country contested the law on the ground that it would prevent a poor man aspiring to office. The Socialists will appeal.

He had been railroading two years and had just recovered from a fever. He has a wife and child at Mandan.

Bismarck, N. D.—Assurances have reached this city from St. Paul, that the Northern Pacific branches, northwest and southwest from Mandan, will be built this year. Large supplies of grading outfits have been accumulated in the Mandan yards and it is reliably reported that Murphy Bros. have already received a contract for 100 miles of the work.

Fargo, N. D.—Bishop Cameron Mann has presented the zoological department of the agricultural college with a fine collection of shells of mollusks. These specimens were collected from the fresh water of New York.

MINNESOTA.

VETERAN OF WAR LOSES HIS LIFE

Peter Jerrard After Facing Bullets Sustains Fatal Fall.

Walker, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—To have served through the great Civil war without being wounded, then to have faced dangers in the early day settlement of this section, only to finally be killed by falling down stairs was the fate of Peter Jerrard, who was buried Thursday with the honors due an old soldier.

Mr. Jerrard, who was 68 years old, lived in rooms over a shoe shop, and early Tuesday morning he was noticed by Mike Stediand, lying at the foot on the stairs in an unconscious condition. Aid was summoned and the man conveyed to his room, where he breathed his last, in spite of all efforts to revive him.

The old man undoubtedly fell down stairs the evening before upon returning home and being stunned by the fall, was unable to cry for aid and remained throughout the night in the chilly air. The result of the fall and exposure proved fatal.

He had been in very feeble health for some months.

NEW TELEPHONE COMPANY

Bemidji, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new telephone company has been organized in this city, to be known as the Plantagenet Telephone company, in which A. H. Jester, owner of the Jester farm on Lake Plantagenet, but most of this work was done last fall, and several local and St. Paul capitalists are interested.

The new company will construct and operate a telephone line from this city to Red Lake Plantagenet, the line to connect Bemidji with the Northwestern Telephone company's local exchange, with local and long-distance connections, if desired.

Contracts have been let for the necessary poles to construct the line, and the balance of the paraphernalia will be ordered to be on the ground immediately.

AMATEUR PLAY PLEASES.

"In the Shadow of the Rockies" Well Presented in Akeley.

Akeley, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opera house was filled to its utmost limits Thursday evening to witness the home talent play, "In the Shadows of the Rockies." The cast was the best the best ever seen in Akeley, and the parts were splendidly acted. Much interest was shown by the people and the various business men in the play. Miss Myrtle Ramsdell, the principal character, made a sensation by her clever delineation of her part. The staging of the play was ideal under Manager Harvey, and Messrs. Scheers, Harvey, Wilsie, Peterson, Mosher, Bennett and John Peterson, made a splendid success of their parts. Miss Mary Helmark and Mrs. Dr. Louthlan ably supported Miss Ramsdell. The choruses by local singers were excellent. And Charles Scheers, as judge, created a sensation by his realistic delineation of that swain.

ONCE POWERFUL TRIBE OF REDS

Chilton, Wis., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in over 100 years, the Brothertown Indians, the remnant of the once potent Six Nations, who held sway in New England at the time of its colonization by Great Britain, are to hold a general council. There will be delegates from Indiana, New York and wherever members of the Six Nations have established themselves. The purpose of the council, which will be held at Quinney, an Indian town on the shore of Lake Winnebago, is to take measures for the preservation of ancient forms and usages.

The ceremonies will be conducted in a grove on the east shore of the lake. A typical Indian village will be built, and as far as possible the ancient form of dress will be affected. The council will last a week. The "pipe of peace" will circulate among the assembled warriors, and tales of the former prowess of the nations will be recited by the historians. The story of the wanderings and tribulations of the tribes since they first were driven from their haunts in New England will be retold. Preparations have been made to feed the hundreds who will attend in a manner approximating the fare of the tribesmen of long ago.

Inventor Dies Before Derailing Device is Adopted.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., March 28.—A. A. Brooks, who passed away at his home in Eau Claire recently, spent the greater part of his life in perfecting an invention which would prevent derailments of trains. Some time ago a representative of the interstate commerce commission visited this city to study the invention, and made a favorable report. At one time Mr. Brooks almost succeeded in getting his invention adopted by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. He was called to Milwaukee by the late S. S. Merrill, general manager of the road, who promised to have it installed. Mr. Merrill died, however, soon after that, and nothing could be done to interest his successors.

BLUNT IS RELEASED.

State Fails to Make Out Case of Embezzlement.

Oshkosh, Wis., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. L. Blunt of Omro, this state, who was arrested in Minneapolis Dec. 16, last, and brought here on the charge of embezzlement of $2,710 of the Red Gulch Gold, Copper, Mining & Milling company of Colorado, was released from custody on the second day of his trial.

The state had failed to substantiate the charge of larceny as bailee of the money, which was set up in the indictment, and had requested the court to take a recess in order to consult with some of the witnesses on the embezzlement charge. After the recess the district attorney stated to the court that the existence of a contract between the mining company and Mr. Blunt had just come to his knowledge, which, on the face of it, removed from the case all question of criminal intent on the part of Mr. Blunt, and asked that a nolle be entered, which was granted.

"ROARING" WELL AGAIN.

Wisconsin Phenomenon Made 'Good' in Predicting Earthquake.

Beloit, Wis., March 28.—The "roaring" well has "made good" again, March 19, it was found that the phenomenon of the farm of Charles Lathers, northeast of Beloit, was active. The well roared for several weeks before the great earthquake at San Francisco, and the sound of rumbling, together with wind from the mouth of the well, ceased at the precise hour when the shock struck the California city. On the day a little over a week ago, when the well resumed its clamor, the residents of Rock county predicted a calamity. Yesterday it came—in Chilapa, Mexico.

UPPER MICHIGAN

CAPT. SPAULDING CLAIMS RECORD

For Longest White Man's Residence in Lake Superior Region.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Residing in honored old age and well-earned affluence in the Michigan copper country, John Senter has the distinction of having been in the Lake Superior region a greater length of time than any white man living.

Ranking only second to him in this particular is Capt. W. P. Spaulding of Sault Ste. Marie, and standing third in the list of pioneers is Samuel L. Barney of Marquette.

Mr. Senter came to Lake Superior in 1848, as an assistant government surveyer, and he has been here ever since, a period of sixty-five years. He now resides at Houghton. Capt. Spaulding has lived at the Soo for sixty-two years, having gone there in 1846, or just a year prior to the arrival at Marquette of S. L. Barney. Eclipsing all these records, however, is that of the aged Chippewa Indian Chief Santigo, now reported on his deathbed at his home near St. Ignace. Santigo was born in the region ninety-five years ago. Capt. Spaulding, a native of Windsor, Conn., and still hale and hearty, despite his four score and six, was united in marriage sixty years ago, and with his wife, he recently celebrated the event.

LESE MAJESTE IN ENGLAND.

Using of a Postage Stamp Upside Down Punishable in Great Britain.

Pearson's Weekly: Many people blissfully imagine that lese majeste—that is, insulting royalty—is a crime peculiar to foreign countries and unknown in free and happy Britain. That, however, is where they make a mistake. There are all sorts of pains and penalties on the statute book relative to peculiar British forms of lese majeste. Man of them have fallen into oblivion or abeyance owing to one cause or another, but they could still be enforced if those in high places claimed all they are strictly entitled to do.

It is, for instance, technically a punishable offense to stick a penny stamp on a letter upside down. Doing so is to insult the king through his effigy, and a few centuries ago—supposing penny stamps to have been then invented—might easily have landed the offender in prison on a charge of seeking to bring ridicule on the sovereign, or to express contempt for his authority by causing his picture to stand on its head.

Also it is a punishable offense to deface a coin of the realm bearing the royal image and then deliberately put it into circulation again.

Any private individual who audaciously hoisted the royal standard over his dwelling would get into serious trouble. He would be peremptorily ordered to take it down and abjectly apologize, and if he escaped a heavy fine, would have to thank his majesty's forbearance for his good luck. The royal standard is the emblem of the king's regal authority, to be displayed only where he is personally present, and for a subject to hoist it is nominally equivalent to high treason. The union jack, as the flag of the nation, is a different thing altogether, and can be displayed by anybody.

It is popularly supposed in this country a man can get up and say whatever he likes about the sovereign with impunity. This is true only within strictly defined limits. A Socialist orator can publicly denounce the theoretical evils of monarchical institutions and announce a decided preference for a republic, and nobody car. touch him.

But if he once began to speak insultingly or slightingly of the king personally he would be at once "run in" or at least effectually suppressed by the nearest policeman.

To strike the king would, according to the strict letter of the law, render the assailant liable to the death penalty no matter how trifling the blow was in reality.

Lieut. Pape, who is usually reckoned among those who attempted the life of the late Queen Victoria, could not have actually contemplated murder. He had no lethal weapon in his possession at the time of the outrage, but he struck her majesty across the face with his riding stick. This was sufficient to bring him within the shadow of the scaffold. He was condemned to death and would have been hanged had his sentence not been commuted.

It is lese majeste to bring the king's uniform into contempt. Members of theatrical companies who have appeared on the stage as comic characters attired in discarded military or naval uniforms have occasionally been unpleasantly reminded of this fact. Careful stage managers put themselves on the safe side by seeing that no uniform, whether to be worn by the hero, villain or ow comedian of the piece, is an exact copy of the real uniform of any branch of his majesty's forces.

HEALTH FROM SEA WATER.

Following on the track of Easteur, the pioneers of the medical profession have in the course of the last few years devised a treatment based on serum injection below the skin, in the case of a number of diseases. So writes Dr. Alfred Gradenwitz in the Technical World Magazine for March.

The formation of a virus or toxin resulting in the disease has in fact been found to be generally attended by the spontaneous production of some antidote or antitoxin, and when this is produced by an artificial process, it can be used both for healing the disease and for immunising the body against it, if injected in time. The diphtheria sera of Behring and Roux are classical instances of this novel therapy. Though definite results have not so far been obtained with tuberculosis sera, scientists seem to be on the eve of producing an efficient antidote against the bacilli of even this disease. Other instances of serum treatment are the successful experiments on dysentery sera recently made in Austria and France.

While each of these sera is a specific liquid applicable only in the case of a given malady, a French physician, Dr. Rene Quinton of Paris, has recently discovered in sea water a health-restoring liquid of quite general effects, and which is entirely independent of any agent resulting in or guarding against given disease. So far from being due to chance, this discovery was the outcome of a philosophical doctrine developed by Dr. Quinton.

HAD ALIBI PERFECTED

Walter Whitbeck Believed to Have Planned Murder of Father.

Laid Trail of Souvenir Postal Cards in Advance.

Walter Whitbeck, the young man who was arrested here last week, charged with the murder of his father, is believed to have worked a clever scheme for throwing the police off the track. He pleads an alibi and worked up his evidence beforehand. It is said that on the day of the murder, he went to Minneapolis and registered at a hotel under his own name. He then mailed a postal card to his mother, it is claimed, taking a train immediately, so as to beat the card to its destination. Two neighbors at West Union saw him two hours before the murder was discovered, and their evidence is the most damaging to the alibi defense. After the murder, it is charged, the young man took a train direct to Rush City, where he mailed another card, proceeding to Duluth to complete the trail he had made by the cards.

The murdered man was about 60 years of age and was popular in the community. He was killed by being beaten over the head with a heavy piece of wood, his head being pounded into an almost unrecognizable mass. The young man and his father had frequent quarrels, and it is said the son had carefully planned the murder to get the old man out of the way. There has been talk of a lynching, so intense is the feeling at West Union.

CONFER WITH TRACTION CO.

Rock Will be Transported at Night on Work Cars.

President Olson and J. W. Preston of the board of public works met with Manager H. W. Warren of the Duluth Street Railway today to talk over arrangements for transporting rock from the point of rocks to St. Croix avenue, where the embankment is to be strengthened.

The members of the board and the railway official visited Fourteenth avenue west, where it is proposed to establish the derrick for loading the rock on the cars. It will be necessary to construct a temporary spur track there and another on Morse street from Lake avenue to St. Croix avenue.

The agreement has not yet been made with the street railway people, but it is said there is no opposition to the plan, providing there is no obstacle in the way of building the tracks and running the cars after the regular cars have stopped running at night.

OPEN WORK HOSIERY NOT LACE WEARING APPAREL.

New York, March 28.—Open work hosiery is not "lace wearing apparel." The board of United States general appraisers has so decided. The matter came up on the petition of a Wesetrn importer, who objected to paying duty on open work stockings as lace wearing apparel, claiming that they should be classed as "hosiery fashioned and shaped," on which the duty is a great deal less. The importer's contention was upheld by the board.

"I'll do it," Sarah Sharp declared with emphasis.

"I'm sorry to her it to do, for Miss Howard's a very charming young lady, an' I warrant she's as good as she's nice, but I mustn't let that stop me. Old hearts should never be broken for young uns; the young uns hev time to mend, but the old uns are done for an' away afore the stickin' plaster's hed time to set. Old folks first—that's my motto, so here goes!"

And forthwith Sarah brought out a penny bottle of ink and a packet of stationery, rolled her sleeves up above the elbows, and settled down to the manufacture of an epistolary thunderbolt, whereby the converging lives of her master, the Rev. John Clifton, now of Allerdale, and Mary Howard, only daughter of the Rev. Richard Howard, were to be sundered, though its primary object was the restoration of peace to the soul of the Rev. John's mother.

On the following day a letter was dropped into the letter-box, addressed to—

"Miss Mary Howard, daughter of Reverend Richard Howard,
The Presidient,
Hamsted Collige, Lundon."

Sufficient though it might be for postal purposes, the superscription nevertheless suggested a broken link in the writer's education, and it is hardly surprising that the president should have smiled when he took it from his mail bag. He smiled again when he passed it to his daughter at the breakfast table, and Mary smiled also, but the dimples were instantly smoothed out by a blush as her eyes fell upon the postmark.

The moment the meal was over Mary beat a hasty retreat to her own room, locked the door—a quite unnecessary precaution—took the letter from her pocket and read it.

First, because the message it contained wounded her pride, she stamped her foot and in tones of real anger exclaimed: "Well, I don't care; he's nothing to me!" And then, because it had thrown into her life a sense of irreparable loss, she dropped into a chair, buried her face in her hands, and burst into tears.

By and by, when her sobs had spent themselves, she rose, looked very woebegone, and not a bit like Mary Howard, gazed wistfully for a few seconds at the luckless letter, then slipped it in a drawer and in a husky half-whisper exclaimed: "Well, that tale's done—but never again, never again!"

When day or two later John wrote, announcing his coming, she received the news in silence.

That night, however, as Mr. Howard sat dreaming dreams by the study fire, Mary stole to his side and inquired whether he had dispatched his reply.

"No, dear, I haven't done so yet. What shall I say?"

"Whatever you like, dad, only—well, I would rather he didn't come!"

"Mary!" and the father drew her down by his knee, "what is the meaning of all this mystery? Is it that letter that came to you the other day? Come, we've always been chums, haven't we? and we've never had any secrets until now. Won't you let me into this one?"

"I can't, father," answered Mary slowly; "I really can't—not yet."

It was not until the joy-beams of lover's love had flashed from his own eyes, not until Mary Howard's smile had glanced radiantly across his own path, that the Rev. John Clifton realized that love itself may be tainted by the very quintessence of selfishness. His devotion to Mary Howard was being deeply resented by his mother.

Now Mrs. Clifton had no intention of interposing herself between her son and his happiness. In her own way she rejoiced in his joy, and held it as another mark of distinction that he might aspire to the favor, not of Mary Howard, but of the president's daughter; but, after all, her son was the only treasure her little world had retained, and she wanted his love all for herself just a little longer. Sarah Sharp, the serving-maid, divined the tragedy that the twin loves had conspired to produce.

Now, Sarah was an energetic little person, inspired by a very laudable ambition to smooth out the rugged places and convert the crooked paths of other lives into straight, easy-going tracks; but, alas! the ends that she sought did not always justify the methods adopted and, she often fell in error in the application of her creeds.

When John Clifton returned from a visit to Mary, shortly after the writting of the letter, with a panic-stricken face, and his mother's anguish deepened because of her son's sorrow, Sarah became gloomily apprehensive of a new blunder and a fresh overthrow of her plans.

For the first time in her life Mrs. Clifton had dreaded the home-coming of her son, and shrank from the story he might have to tell her—the announcement from his lips of her own deposition. But when she saw the lines that disappointment had carved upon his face, when with searching glance she peered through his veneer of dissimulation, and detected the anguish which he innocently thought to conceal, all thought of herself and her own grief vanished—the son's sorrow became the mother's woe. Just another proof of the wondrous workings of a woman's heart.

"I must tell you!" the old lady cried. "There's never been anything between us, and I can't keep it back. I'm a silly, selfish old woman, and I thought this girl had stolen your love from me, and I was angered against her, and my heart was full of rebellion. That's all done with now. I've come to my senses, but I can't get away from my punishment. When you came home, all my bad old grudge vanished like smoke, and that's where my punishment bears upon me—that my lad should be crushed before I could be cured. Eh, laddie, if I could only have her here now and fold her in my arms—can you ever forgive me?"

"Hush, mother, hush! There must be no talk of forgiveness between you and me. It's not been jealousy; it's not been selfishness; it's been love all the time—your great big love for your lad."

The evening after her dismissal of John, Mary Howard repenting her reticence to her father, showed him Sarah's letter and told him all the circumstances which he had already divined. The next morning he informed her at breakfast time that he proposed to let her have a day all to herself. "I want to slip down to Gammersby," he added, by way of explanation, "just on a little business." What she would have said and done had she only seen the telegram which was dispatched a little later cannot even be surmised, for its destination was not Gammersby, as she imagined, but Allerdale; the man to whom it was addressed was none other than John Clifton; and when the president stepped out upon the platform at Gammersby station, John was there to give him greeting.

A delightful study in contrasts was afforded by the faces of the two men when they met—that of the younger one flushed with eager questioning, the other cast in iron mould, eyes that revealed no secret, lips that told no tale.

It was no trifle that the president had called him out for, of that John was convinced, but he also knew that the president would choose his own time. It was only when they had tramped away from the beaten track out on the moor that the president touched the fringe of his theme.

"John," said he at last, "I want to propound a little parable for your enlightment—and for your happiness, too, God grant! Now listen; here beginneth the parable:

"Once upon a time a certain young man went forth into a far country to preach the Gospel. He had little money in his purse, but he was passing rich, for his mother went with him.

"By and by the man met a certain maid, and the man looked into the eyes of the maid, and saw that she was fair and good; and the maid looked upon the man, and saw that he was strong in character and worthy of a woman's trust. And it chanced one day that as they spake to each other with their eyes, the father of the maiden stood by, and understood, and he said: 'I am stricken in years and will soon be gathered to my fathers, and my daughter will need another man by her side to shield her from the world. Here is the one to whom, above all others, I would give her.'

"And it also fell out that the mother of the young man was there, and she, too, understood, and her heart became as lead, for she said: 'All these years have I reigned alone in my son's heart, and now another is seated on the throne, and my kingdom is divided.' And she was very sorrowful, and went her way with troubled visage; but the son saw it not, for he loved the maid.

"Now, the thing that was hidden from the man was revealed to his serving maid, and she said: 'The heart of my mistress is breaking because of this maiden; there is none to help her save me,' and she penned the letter to the maid telling of the mother's woe.

"And then it came to pass that when the man traveled into the South country and asked the maiden to wed, she had respect to the mother, and also to herself, and said him nay. But the man knew naught of the letter—

"What's the matter, John? I wish you wouldn't interrupt me! Oh, train to Keswick—just time to catch the next? Well, of course, if you must go. Excuse you? Oh, yes, I'll excuse you, certainly. Don't trouble about that, my lad; I'll find my way back. Goodby—and God go with you!

* * * * *

Screened by the friendly pines from the burning glare of the sun, Mary waited upon Latrigg for the coming of her father.

Suddenly, close at hand, there was the whiplike snapping of a twig, the rattle of a foot-spurned pebble, a shadow flung athwart her retreat, and, looking up, Mary found herself gazing into the face of John Clifton.

Shyly she offered her hand in greeting, and somehow, when John declined to relinquish it, it seemed the most natural thing in the world that he should have his own way.

"You don't ask me why I have come, Mary?" What else could she do better than study the fir-cones carpeting the ground?

"I've come to make my second plea," he went on after a very brief pause. "You remember what I told you in Epping Forest? I've hardly dared to look my life in the face since then, Mary; but now a little ray of sunshine has shot through the murk. Then I knew nothing of Sarah Sharp's foolish letter, but I do now. Supposing it had never been written, would your answer to me have been any different?"

The little hand held so firmly in his own eager grasp trembled just a little more, and then Mary raised her head, and in her eyes her lover read just the answer that his soul was longing for.

"But your mother?" Mary inquired, after a long but very eloquent interval.

"Sarah was mistaken. Ah, you little know my mother. Why, her eyes are just aching for a sight of your sweet face again, and her heart is longing for you, and now she will be the happiest woman on earth. Listen; it is only a short time since—in the winter, when she was very poorly and in great pain, that she said to me: 'I must get well again, John; I mustn't give way. After Mary Howard and me, I don't know another woman that's fit to look after my lad.' Is that enough?"

On the following day a silvery-haired woman, whom John Clifton had the privilege of calling "Mother," put her arms about her and blessed her as "My lassie, my own bonnie lassie."

301 MEN IN BREAD LINE

Attendance at Free Breakfast Breaks the Bethel's Records.

The Society's Big Building Crowded With Penniless Workers.

It was cold down on Lake avenue last night with a stiff northeaster blowing from the lake, and 301 men were in the Bethel's bread line this morning, which breaks all records for attendance since the practice of serving free breakfasts to the unemployed was inaugurated by the society.

The previous high mark for attendance was 259, yesterday morning.

Never has the Bethel been so crowded with penniless workmen seeking shelter as it was last night. Every available space in the big building on Lake avenue South was taken up by the wayfarers, who laid their heads down to rest anywhere they could find the space.

The reading room, the chapel, the dining room, the office and all the rooms in the Bethel building were full. No man who applied for shelter last night with the plea that he was broke, was turned away. Many came and it was crowded, but they were all taken in out of the cold anyway.

The practice of issuing tickets to the bread-liners who spend their nights at the Bethel and excluding the men who come in from the outside in the mornings, has been abandoned. It was done only one day, and with the idea of eliminating undeserving. But the Bethel people were afraid that they might turn away some one who was really in great need of food, so they decided to take chances on being imposed upon, and now all men who come, saying they are without a job or funds, are fed.

Donations for the bread-line at the Bethel are becoming more plentiful. "And they have come largely as a result of The Herald's efforts in behalf of the bread-liners," was the neat tribute the lady at the Bethel paid this paper when telling about the situation today.

During the past two days about $42 in cash has been donated for bread-line purposes, of which Alderman Foubister contributed $20, the Modern Woodmen, 10, and Martha McGibbert, $5. Other amounts were given by persons who requested that their names be not mentioned. Contributions of provisions, including bread, hams, eggs, sugar and coffee, have been received during the past two days from Mrs. M. H. Smith, F. A. Patrick and Miss Ebing.

After listening all the morning to arguments for and against a motion for the continuance of the hearing on an order to show cause in the case of H. L. Hartenstein, against the American Carbolite company, Judge Cant ordered a continuance until next Saturday, to give Hartenstein time to prepare a reply to the allegations made in the defendant company's answer to the complaint.

Although the hearing this morning was supposed to be confined to the question of the postponement, it developed into a sort of general hearing, and allegations and counter-allegations were made by the attorneys, Oscar Mitchell for the company, and K. R. Briggs for Hartenstein.

Hartenstein sought by injunction to prevent the company from going into the hands of an assignee, a line of action recently determined on at a meeting of the stockholders. The company was ordered to show cause today why an injunction should not issue, and it was ready to try the issue, but Hartenstein, who did not appear personally, only by his attorney, asked for a postponement for one week.

The motion for the continuance was vigorously opposed by the carbolite company and the arguments brought out some of the issues in the case.

It appears that Hartenstein wants a receiver appointed for the company instead of having the affairs of the concern going in to the hands of an assignee.

The company alleges that Hartenstein mismanaged the plant and failed to make good as a manager. It is intimated that Hartenstein's whereabouts are unknown at the present time and that he got out of town to avoid being served with a summons. It was further intimated that he went through the company's books and papers and departed with a suit case which may or may not have contained documents of value to the company.

Mr. Briggs claims that his client is sick and unable to appear.

HARRIS WANTS TO SEE MONEY

Maurice Harris, the Superior wrestler, is indignant over the articles drafted for the match between himself and Charles Sutter of Proctor, to take place at Superior, Wednesday evening, April 8. He claims that he had $25 posted since March 20, to go as a forfeit and side bet, and when the match was arranged, it was agreed that Sutter should put up a similar amount as a side bet.

Now, he claims, Sutter's manager, who drew up the articles, neglected to incorporate a word in them in regard to the side bet, providing that the $25 shall go for appearance money only. Harris says unless Sutter comes across with the money there will be no match.

"They have made all kinds of charges against me, but I notice they are doing some stalling themselves," said Harris today. "My money has been up since March 20, and I have repeatedly urged Sutter's manager to cover it. If Sutter thinks he can throw me, he certainly ought to be willing to bet $25 on his chances. Unless he does, there will be no match at Superior April 8, or any other time. I have had enough of the quibbling. Money does the talking now."

SELL NO MORE GRAVEL.

Board of Public Works to Keep Choice Stock in Pits.

At its meeting yesterday, the board of public works decided to sell no more gravel from the city pits and also fixed the prices for crushed rock from the city crusher. Contractors must in the future pay $1.40 per cubic yard for rock from the pockets and $1.25 per cubic yards for rock from the stockpiles.

The city's gravel pits are located on Tenth avenue east, at Tenth street, and on Twenty-third avenue west, near the boulevard. The contractors have been accommodated with gravel at a small price in the past and the board found it necessary to have men constantly on duty to care for them. The contractors picked the best gravel in the pits and paid just about enough for it to pay for the men, who were kept at the pits by the city. The board found that it was making nothing on the deal and losing the best gravel, so decided to stop the practice.

The prices on crushed rock are for ordinary sale, though in case of a big city contract, the board has the right to fix any price it may for the large quantities.

SUPERIOR HAS VOTING SCANDAL

John Fant Arrested for Repeating at Recent Primaries.

Superior has an illegal voting scandal also, after the recent hot mayoralty primary fight.

SCHOOL WILL REMAIN CLOSED

Horace Mann Building Will Not Reopen on Monday.

So that the city health department may wage a more effective campaign against smallpox, the Horace Mann school at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street will remain closed all next week.

The rest of the city schools will reopen Monday after the spring vacation, but the health commissioner has requested that the Horace Mann school be closed for another week, so the children attending that building will enjoy a double vacation.

There is a lively smallpox epidemic raging in the immediate neighborhood of the Horace Mann school, and the spread of the disease has been attributed to the fact that children have been attending school while suffering from the complaint.

BAD BOYS ARE DISCIPLINED

Juvenile Court Deals With Some West End Rowdies.

Four or five boys from the West end who have been acting the part of rowdies were brought into the juvenile court and disciplined this morning. It is expected that several others will meet a similar fate if they do not immediately mend their ways.

Some time ago the Duluth Gymnasium club, which has quarters under Rev. R. J. Mooney's church at Nineteenth avenue west, provided for a free reading room and made arrangements to procure 100 volumes each week from the public library. The reading room has been open to the people and the children in the vicinity of the church every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Boys in the neighborhood of the church building have been very annoying to the young women who are conducting the reading club. One night last week the boys tore up one of the library books and on several occasions they have turned out the lights in the room and endeavored in other ways to make themselves a nuisance.

JAIL FOR THE LUMBERMEN

Circuit Court Affirms Sentences of Wealthy Toledo Men.

Toledo, O., March 28.—The circuit court today affirmed the decision of the lower court in the case of the twenty prominent lumbermen of Toledo, who last July were sentenced to the workhouse for six months, under the Valentine anti-trust law. The supreme court having decided, in the ice trust cases, that imprisonment must be in the county jail, instead of the workhouse, the lumbermen were sent to the lower court for resentence. The lumbermen are wealthy and leading citizens of Toledo.

The mandate of the circuit court will not be pressed for a few days, and attorneys for the lumbermen will try to find a loophole by which the cases may be taken to the supreme court. The names of the lumbermen are:

Marcus V. Barbour and Rowlan Star of Barbour & Star; George W. Campbell and James H. Campbell of the Campbell company; Hiram R. Kelsey and George L. Freeman of Kelsey & Freeman; Reuben Kimball, treasurer and manager of the East Side Lumber company; Clarence H. Packer, secretary and treasurer of the Buckeye Lumber & Manufacturing company; John H. Puck, vice president of the Western Manufacturing company; H. W. Smith and David Trotter of the firm of David Trotter company; D. E. Wilker and W. F. Wilker, respectively president and secretary of the Wilker Manufacturing company; E. F. Farnsman and C. Bremer of Farnsman & Co.; F. Coulet; Charles G. Barris and Edward E. Washburn of Washburn & Harris; I. August Van Karzen and Eben D. Hopkinson of Van Karzen & Co.

ITALIAN MURDERED.

Cleveland, March 28.—The body of an Italian, supposed to be Salvatore Guell, who came here from West Virginia, three weeks ago, was found in an alley early today. The man had evidently been murdered, the body being badly mutilated. There were a score of stiletto wounds upon the face and body.

GUILD IS BETTER.

Boston, March 28.—An official bulletin issued this forenoon showed no marked changes in the condition of Governor Guild during the past twenty-four hours, except for the better.

MILLERS CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

On Export and Domestic Grain Rates by Railroads.

New York, March 28.—Hearing in a complaint made by the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling campany, charging discrimination on export and domestic grain rates by several railroad companies, was given today by Charles A. Prouty of the interstate commerce commission. The railroads are the Baltimore & Ohio, the Erie, the Pennsylvania, New York Central, the West Shore and about a dozen others. William Kallan, second assistant freight manager of the New York Central east of Buffalo, said the principal reason for a lower rate of wheat for export than for domestic consumption was the competition by water with rail in this country, and competition with grain from Russia and other foreign countries. He said there is a tendency to increase the export of grain from Galveston and other gulf ports, causing fluctuation of rates, so that there is now a differential of 3 cents in the rate to gulf ports. He said that the mills in Boston and Philadelphia are required to pay the domestic. He said the railroad requires proof from the shipper that the grain was ground for export before they are given the lower rates.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS

Washington, March 28.—It was stated at both the White House and the state department, that no additional information had been received from Berlin since the informal dispatch several days ago, indicating that Dr. David Jayne Hill would be persona non grata to Emperor William as an American ambassador to Germany. Officials of the state department, after reading the recent press dispatches from Berlin to the effect that the emperor will be gratified by the appointment of Ambassador Lloyd Griscom, now consul at Rome, commented today on what they regard as additional discriminations against Dr. Hill. Dr. Hill's reputation as a diplomat is regarded here as inferior to none. That the German emperor should indicate a preference between the two men, one young and wealthy and the other an experienced statesman, is looked upon with some surprise. It is clear that considerable anxiety is being suppressed pending the receipt of Ambassador Tower's letter of explanation, which is due at Washington next Tuesday.

"DICK" O'CONNOR

Author of the Story Regarding Manahan and the Railroads.

Crookston, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. E. O'Brien and Henry Ebbighausen state that "Dick" O'Conner stated in their presence in the Hotel Dacotah at Grand Forks, on the day of the state convention, that James Manahan had offered to drop all antagonism to the Great Northern and other railroads if he was given a position in the Great Northern legal department. Both say they will make affidavits to this statement.

KAULILLA CLAIMS FRAUD.

Suit is Filed Against Meagher-Johnson Employment Company.

John Kaulilla, a laborer, has filed suit in the municipal court against the Meagher-Johnson Employment company of 409 West Michigan street, to recover $25.63, which he claims to have lost by being fraudulently hired by the company to go to work for the Edward Hines Lumber company at Hines, Wis.

The complaint claims that Kaulilla went to Hines and the foreman told him the Duluth company had not been authorized to hire men. He claims they refused him redress on his return and he wants $25 general damages and his railroad fare both ways, time and board for three days.

SAW GUN FLASHED.

Officers Arrest West Duluth Men for Carrying Concealed Weapons.

Officers entered a room in a boarding house at 5626 Raleigh street last night and saw a gun flashed. It passed from one man to another, and was finally lost in the shuffle, but Nick Bagah and Mike Dillage were arrested and locked up in the West Duluth station.

Just what the fight was about isn't clear. It was said Bagah and Dillage were preparing to fight a duel, but there was only one gun between them, and that wasn't found. The two were arraigned before Justice Flack this morning and fined $15 and costs.

STOBBART OF ST. PAUL

St. Paul, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. J. Stobbart of St. Paul, is being talked of as a Republican candidate for railroad commissioner, and the chances are that he will get into the game. "Yes, I am thinking about it," said Mr. Stobbart today. "But as I have not made up my mind whether or not I have talked with a number of my friends concerning the matter and have been urged by some of them to stand for the nomination. I can only say at the present time that I am thinking very favorably of it."

BRYAN TALKS ON THE MONEY QUESTION.

Wheeling, Va., March 28.—William Jennings Bryan, en route to Parkersburg, W. Va., where he speaks tonight, made a brief stop here today and addressed one of the largest open air meetings seen in Wheeling for some time. His remarks were chiefly on the money question in connection with the business depression. Mr. Bryan referred to the panic of 1893 which he said was called a Democratic panic because Democracy was in power. "If it was logic then, then this panic is a Republican panic, but I will not blame the president for the conditions. Presidents should not be blamed for everything. The Republican leaders in 1896 cried that we had enough money, that we did not want mines but mills. Why if we had enough money then, and there is a greater per cent per capita now, are they running printing presses in Washington to issue more money. They have had eleven years to open the mills. The proof of political pudding is in the eating. You have had Republican pudding for eleven years and ought to know what it tastes like."

SHOT WHILE STEALING TO HELP HIS MOTHER.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Discovered escaping with the booty of his first robbery, to commit which he said he was prompted by lack of employment, John Robinson, aged 24 years, was shot and probably fatally injured today by a policeman. A statement to his mother, in the presence of a police magistrate, the young man said:

"Mother, this is what I got for trying to help you. I knew we had no money and that we would be put out of our house if we did not get some. I got desperate and tried to steal."

FUNERAL OF WANAMAKER.

Philadelphia, March 28.— With simple services, the funeral of Thomas B. Wanamaker of this city, who died in Paris, March 2, was held from his late residence, here, this afternoon. Mr. Wanamaker was the proprietor of the North American of this city, and a son of John Wanamaker, former postmaster general.

THE POPULAR DIAMOND.

Romance of the Gem Which is as Sure as Government Bonds.

New York Press: While the ruby remains the most valuable of all gems, the diamond never loses its popularity. Its price fluctuates little. It is as sure as government bonds. You cannot very well ornament your fingers, your necks, your arms, your corsage or your shirt fronts with bonds, but the diamond is always there. "Diamond Jim" Brady is one of the abler business men of New York, but Jim would never think of wearing government bonds on his suspender buckles or in the ferrule of his big walking stick. Mrs. —— is a leader of society, but she never dreamed of wearing government bonds on her garters. The diamond is the thing.

John O'Reilly, a good-natured Irishman who made a poor living by hunting and trading in South Africa, the land of the Boers, stopped for a night with Hans Van Niekerk, a simple farmer. After supper he made himself agreeable by frolicking on the floor with the children, who were playing marbles with some pebbles they had found in the river. It was great fun for all, and as a reward the brood of youngsters presented him with one of the marbles. John afterward showed it to Dr. Atherstone at Cape Town as a curiosity. "Why, man, that is a genuine 23½-carat diamond," said the doctor. He called in a dealer, who paid John $3,000 for it.

A traveler saw a stone in possession of a Koranna child in a kraal on the Orange river, purchased it for a song from the little one's father and sold to to the governor of Cape Colony for $2,500. It is generally agreed on all sides that the second diamond found in South Africa is now the famous "Star of South Africa," which belongs to the countess of Dudley.

Apropos of the "Star of South Africa," After John O'Reilly's discovery of the first diamond, Van Niekerk remembered that he had seen a "marble" in the hands of a Kaffir witch-doctor, who used it in his incantations. He visited the man, gave him 500 sheep and horses, and in fact, nearly everything he owned, for the stone. He would have thrown in a few of the Van Niekerk children, if necessary. The very same day he sold this diamond to an experienced buyer for $56,000.

Soon after the first diamond was found in the kraal of the Koranna a much larger stone, weighing about 80 carats, was picked up on the bank of the Orange river and sold to a firm in Hope Town for $56,000. Those are said to be the only two diamonds ever found in that particular locality.

In 1868 a black shepherd of the name of Swartzboy brought to his master, Nie Kirk (doubtless the same Van Niekerk), a diamond weighing in the rough 83½ carats, and received for it $2,000, with which he drank himself to death. Niekerk sold the stone for $60,000, and the Earl of Dudley gave Messrs Hunt & Roskell $150,000 for it. It was cut into a heart shape, and now weighs 44¼ carats. It is a stone of great brilliancy.

A prominent diamond importer, speaking ex cathedra, said to me: "I believe the diamonds found in the vast river are worth twice as much as the Kimberley gems; but you can't make people believe it. Kimberley diamonds are very yellow, De Beers and Du Toit's Pan ones are less so, those of Bultfontein still less, those of Jagersfontein almost white, and the river diamond practically white. The value of the stones from the different mines follows, of course, the same classification. The stone recently presented to King Edward by the South African republic must be a gorgeous one. I have not seen it. The largest diamond in the world was sent to London from Jagersfontein in 1886. It weighed 971 carats, or nearly half a pound, and was three inches in length. It was of fine color.

"A prehistoric mine was discovered near Winburg, in the Orange Free State, 100 feet in depth, and with branches extending from the central shaft in every direction for several hundred feet. In these were found primitive tools, armor, weapons, and the skeletons of men who must have been far above the stature of any race of the present day."

I asked the dealer: "How is it possible to distinguish a diamond in the rough from ordinary pebbles of quartz, jasper, cornelian, heliotrope and other similar stones? Are not many valuable stones lost in the sorting?" "Millions of dollars worth annually," he replied. "Here is a rough diamond. It weighs fifteen carats. Shut your eyes and put it in your pocket. There. Now feel it, and remember exactly how it feels. You notice a smooth soapiness? Of course. That soapiness, or oiliness, is shared by no other mineral, or, at all events, by no other white stone. Now hand it to me, still keeping your eyes shut. Thanks. Put this in your pocket. It is another 15-carat stone. I have only two of that kind. How do's it feel? You find the same oiliness or soapiness, do you not? Of course.

"Give it back to me. Open your eyes. Here are the two diamonds side by side. One is a real diamond, the other is a piece of alum. Alum is the only substance that can be mistaken by the feel for a diamond. If you had not been so anxious about your sense of touch you would have noticed that the alum diamond is much lighter than the genuine. Play this trick on some of your expert friends, who think they can tell a diamond as far as they can see or feel it."

I recalled a Boer, who, having heard that the diamond is the hardest material in nature, placed a good-sized one on the tire of his wagon wheel and gave it a mighty crack with his sledge-hammer. This, naturally, splintered it to atoms, for the diamond, singularly enough, is not a homogeneous substance, but is laminated, or in layers. In some diamonds these layers may be easily separated, especially in the so-called "plate-glass" ones. Cutters always take advantage of the layers in their operations. "Plate glass" diamonds are always white and peculiarly clear. They are so brittle that they often splinter of themselves on being disemboweled from the earth and introduced to the light. It is the practice now to wrap them in cotton wool and let them receive the light and air very gradually.

LORD KELVIN'S CAREER.

F. J. Springer in American review of Reviews: The life of Lord Kelvin was full of activity from beginning to end. Born in 1824 and dying in 1907, he spent practically the whole of this long life from his youth onward in serious scientific pursuits. Ireland was the land of his birth, but Scotland early became his home, when his father, in 1832, removed to Glasgow to become professor of mathematics at the university. In 1834 young William was a regular matriculated student. During the four years, 1841-1845, he studied at St. Peter's college, Cambridge, becoming second wrangler and Smith prizeman upon graduation. It is not quite clear why he did not obtain the first wranglership, as one of the examiners is understood to have thought that no comparison existed between the two successful contestants, and this judgment would seem to have been justified by time. While at Cambridge he became the first editor of the Cambridge and Dumblin Mathematical Journal. In 1846 he took the chair of natural philosophy at his alma mater in Glasgow. In this position he continued for fifty-three years, less, say, than one having occupied any other professional chair. In the case of a man of his attainments and celebrity this may be regarded as indicative of his devotion to his own university. The professor of natural philosophy in those days did not have available the splendid equipments that are so common today. In fact, there existed, apparently, nowhere in the world a physical laboratory for students. But Thomson established one in an old wine-cellar. Enthusiasm, intelligence, industry—all were his in marked degrees.

MARKET IS WELL SOLD

Heavy Liquidation Causes a Drop in Wheat Prices.

Flax a Little Easier at the End of the Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 28.—Heavy liquidation caused the weakness in wheat today and all the American markets showed fractional losses, despite a rally, caused by shorts covering, just before the short session ended.

Until the last few minutes of the session, there was heavy selling of long lines of wheat. Most of the news favored the bears. The cables were weak and the rains in the Southwest, which they have not been general, have been sufficient to allay fears of a drought. The weakness was more noticeable in Minneapolis than in Chicago or any of the other markets. Minneapolis was just as keen about selling today as buying earlier in the week.

Liverpool closed ¼d lower, Berlin ⅝c lower, Budapest ¾c lower and Paris ½c to ⅝c lower.

The May option closed ⅝-⅞c lower in Duluth, ½-⅝c lower in Chicago, 1c lower in Minneapolis and ⅝c lower in New York and Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅝c lower in Duluth, ⅝-¼c lower in Chicago, ⅝c lower in Minneapolis, ½c lower in New York and ⅝c lower in Winnipeg.

May corn closed 1⅛-1¼c lower in Chicago, and ½d lower in Liverpool. May oats closed ⅝c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Dullness characterized the early dealings in wheat and values were ½d lower. Offerings were larger and mostly pressed for sale, stimulated by the easier American cables yesterday, predictions of rain in the American Southwest and the larger first-hand La Plata offerings. Toward the close shorts became nervous and covered some, which caused a slight steadiness in the market, and values at this time were 1d lower than Friday.

"Corn was quiet and ½d lower at the opening, and the market continued at this level all during the morning and was very dull. Pressure to sell resulted from the weaker American cables yesterday and a poor demand for spot."

Car receipts at Duluth were 57 against 91 last year, and at Minneapolis 502 against 575 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 559 against 666 last year. Chicago received 15 against 34 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 412,000 bus., last year, 1,060,000 bus. Shipments 532,000 bus., last year 324,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 280,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 884,000 bus., last year, 1,575,000 bus. Shipments 491,000 bus., last year 985,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 250,200 bus.

Wheat was active during the session of the Duluth market. May wheat opened a shade higher at $1.05⅝, declined to $1.03⅝ and reacted by the close to $1.04⅞, a loss of ⅞-1c from yesterday. July wheat opened 1c higher at $1.04⅜, declined to $1.03⅜ and closed at $1.03⅝, a loss of 1c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅞c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was dull and closed a little easier. May flax opened unchanged at $1.10⅞, rallied to $1.10⅝ and closed at that price, a loss of 1c from yesterday. July flax opened late at $1.13⅜, declined to $1.13⅛ and closed at $1.13⅜, a shade lower than yesterday.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Firm on Small Receipts, But Soon Declines.

Chicago, March 28.—The wheat market opened firm today because of small receipts in the Northwest, but soon declined to more than 1½ cents on general selling. Sentiment was bearish because of the situation in the Southwest which was considered favorable for the new crop. May wheat opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 91⅜@91⅝c, sold at 91c then declined to 89¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 274 cars against 408 cars last week and 823 cars one year ago.

The low point for May was 93⅝c, and the market was weak throughout the latter part of the day, in sympathy with corn. The close was weak, with May 1@1⅛c net lower, at 92⅝@92⅞c.

The corn market was easy because of lower cables and local receipts which were above the estimate. May corn opened unchanged at 66⅛c, sold at 66⅜c and then declined to 65⅝c. Local receipts were 221 cars with 41 of contract grade.

Prices slumped badly in the last hour, May declining to 64⅞@65c. The close was weak.

The oats market was steady but trade in the pit was almost at a standstill. May oats opened unchanged at 54⅛c and sold at 54c. Local receipts were 154 cars.

An advance of 15 to 25c in the price of live hogs caused a strong and active market for provisions. May pork was up 10 cents at $13.15 and sold at $13.22½. Lard was unchanged to 2½c lower at $8.20 to $8.22½ and sold at $8.25. Ribs were 2½c to 7½c higher at $7.07½@7.12½.

Close: Wheat—May, 93⅝@91c; July, 89@89c; Sept., 86½c. Corn—May, 65¼c to 65⅛c; July, 63½c; Sept., 62⅝@62¾c. Oats—May, old, 53⅝c; May, 52⅝c; July, old, 47-47½c; July, 46½c; Sept., 28½c. Pork—May, $13.17½. Lard—May, $8.22½; July, $8.47; Sept., $8.67½. Ribs—May, $7.10; July, $7.40; Sept., $7.67½. Rye—Cash, 75@77c. Barley—Cash, 59@86c. Timothy—March, $4.65. Clover—March, $22.25. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 95¼c; No. 3 red, 93¾c@97⅜c; No. 2 hard, 95¾c@$1.02; No. 3 hard, $01@99c; No. 3 spring, 97c@$1.07; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 62@62½c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Declines at Opening, But Makes Some Recovery.

Minneapolis, March 28.—Wheat made heavy decline today, but recovered part of it before the close. Rains in the Southwest and the prospects of more rain over Sunday started the decline. Minneapolis received only 202 cars against 578, but the comparisons were for one day this year against two days a year ago. The Minneapolis elevator stocks increased 115,380 bushels for the week, making the total 7,124,000 with another increase of 25,000 bushels for one day since compiling the weekly statement. There was heaviest selling in May option. Near the close May was strong on covering and up ¼c from low. May opened at $1.06⅛; high, $1.06¾; low, $1.04¼; close, $1.04⅜. July closed at $1.02⅛@1.02¼; September closed at 90⅞@90½c.

Cash wheat was dull and No. 1 northern brought 1½c over May, going principally to elevators. No. 2 northern sold ½c under May. Close:

No. 1 northern, $1.06 spot or to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.04 spot or to arrive; No. 3 spring, 97c@$1.01; No. 3 yellow corn, 61¼@61¾c; No. 3 white oats, 50c; No. 2 rye, 73¾@74¾c.

Barley was quiet zut fairly firm. Total business of the day was light. Close, 69c to 78c.

Flax was in good demand at Duluth May prices. Close: Flax, $1.10⅜. Bran, $21.75. Flour prices were reduced 10c all around. Demand is lighter. There was some increase in foreign inquiry, but no business of consequence.

Shipments, 20,240; first patents, $5.50; second patents, $5.35@5.50; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.30@3.40.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Walter W. Carr: The market has been somewhat irregular this morning in sympathy with the unsatisfactory tendency shown in New York prices. No great selling pressure is manifest and prices on the whole are holding fairly steady. The developments of the weakness have all been favorable to better prices. Our market is going on a higher level all the time and the best copper stocks have all shown good advances on the week's dealings. We are looking for a good trading market next week. North Butte, Copper Range, Old Dominion, Utah Copper and Utah Consolidated are being well bought and should be purchased on reactions. No change in metal prices have been reported.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: Traders took advantage of the bullish feeling today to sell stocks and the bull party simply stood aside and let the liquidation go on. Amalgamated and Union Pacific were the stocks sold generally as they have been the most speculative favorites lately. The weak holders will run on this reaction and the market will be all the better for it. On any further recession we advise the purchase of stocks.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade for the week has been evenly divided between the several classes. Consignments have been liberal. Several choice consignments of logging horses arrived in the market, which found ready takers. Dealers from points in the Dakotas and Canada placed several carload orders. Mules moved somewhat slow. Saddlers and carriage horses show considerably less in volume than for the same period a year ago. Large numbers of second-hand logging horses will arrive on the market for next week's auction.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices Fell Sharply When the Offerings Were Unloaded.

Heaviest Selling Took Place in the Recent Strong Stocks.

New York, March 28.—The opening movement of prices today was slightly irregular, but small gains predominated. There were sharp reactions in one or two Western stocks which were notably strong yesterday. Advances ran to a large fraction in Kansas & Texas, Anaconda and Republic Steel preferred. Canadian Pacific ran off 1½ and Chesapeake & Ohio ¾.

There was not enough demand to sustain the market and prices fell sharply when the offerings were unloaded. The heaviest selling was in recent strong stocks, such as Union Pacific, St. Paul, Reading and American Smelting, Republic Steel preferred advanced 2, which was lost, and North American 1⅝.

The market closed weak and dull. A rise of a point in Northern Pacific steadied the market temporarily, but it sold off sharply before increased offiecrings. The largest losers from the selling were Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, St. Paul, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, American Locomotive, Federal Mining preferred and Pressed Steel Car preferred. These declines ran from 1½ to 2. There were losses of a point or more in the trunk line group, Atchison, Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central, the United States Steel stocks, American Car, National Lead, Great Northern Ore and others.

FLIMFLAMMING A LIVING.

Bank Sneak Tells How He Worked the Short-Change Game.

Chicago Tribune: "Learning to be an all-round good thief is a good deal like learning to swim," remarked Rufus, as he raised a hand to shield his thick gray mustache from the match flame. "And some ways," he continued, "it's more like it. It's a question of getting accustomed to the element.

"The hardest work in the world is to do something easy—sometimes. You take my own graft, the bank sneak business. When a sneak gets so he can walk in and pick up a bundle of money and out with it, and act and feel as if he were only getting a paper-weight—why, he's got things mostly dead to rights, baring the tumble you've got to expect some time; ninety-nine men out of 100 are easy if they are approached just right, but the wise guy is going to turn up somewhere like the royal flush.

"What I started to say, reminds me that the first time I did any big work I didn't do it; that is to say, I got to the money, all right, while my pals were stalling the clerks with their nice game of talk, but I couldn't turn the trick. I couldn't forget those bundles were worth thousands. I shook like a leaf, and it was all I could do to take myself out—let alone the money.

"But I got all over that, and when we turned a bank in San Jose I didn't get any more nervous about walking out with a trayful of gold coin than I would over emptying a waste basket.

"This job I'm going to tell you about was a case of 'flimflam.' Generally speaking, it's a kind of confidence game, but if a man started in to describe all the con games that have been pulled off in this country he couldn't get started in a year. You see, a good man puts originality into his work. He's got to be inventing all the time or he'll be trying some game on a 'sucker' that the latter has already bit to—which makes it hard to explain.

"Along about that time there was a one-dollar bill in circulation that looked so much like a twenty anybody was apt to mistake one for the other in making change. In fact, the treasury department had stopped its issue for that reason. But there were still some floating around. I had some of my friends holding them out for me, and I used to buy them for $2 apiece. They brought me $20. No, I didn't 'raise' them; I made the 'sucker' think he had given me one in mistake for a twenty, and if he bit all right, he would go back to his drawer and dig up a genuine twenty for me, which, of course, put me $18 to the good. Why was I shy the $2? Why, you see, he naturally kept this one one-dollar bill that had cost me $2.

"Well, here's what that jewelryman gets 'for his' that forenoon. We'll call his name Jones. I steps in when he happens to be alone in his store. My face and manner and gait were full of confidence—no hesitation, no rush or bluster; I'm a business man of good standing and I take it for granted he sees all that in me. Just to make that bluff strong, I've taken off my scarf that and stuck it out of sight before I come in, so I'm barcheaded and have a pencil over my ear.

"I've just dropped in from my place a few doors up the street to ask him to change a fifty-dollar bill for me. I hand him a fifty, while I'm talking, as if there could be no possible objection.

"Mr. Jones dashes on me the smile of 'my brother in trade,' and goes to his cash drawer, carrying my fifty with him; so far everything is on the square. But—what I don't know just then is that all the bills he had in that cash drawer were two twenties and some fives—no ones at all—and he knew it before I came in. When he hands me two twenties and a five, I slip the one out of my sleeve and a twenty into my pocket, turn away casually counting my change and return to the counter with a confident smile on my face.

"'Guess you made a little mistake,' I says, looking amused and sort of expectant, as if I think he's going to join me in the laugh when he sees how he's blundered and given a one for a twenty—they looking so much alike. But if this Mr. Jones saw anything funny about it, he didn't show it. He takes the change when I hand it back to him. He looks at the one I point out to him lying against the twenty and resembling it considerably. He looks at it so hard I'm thinking he was trying to learn how to engrave one from memory. He opens the drawer and looks in it and peeks in the corners. Then he looks at the floor and up at the ceiling. Honest, that man's face was a study; it reminds me of somebody who has just felt a pain in some spot that never ached before. Next he comes out from behind the counter and walks up to me.

"This looks interesting to me, but I didn't show anything but quiet amusement and a sort of growing wonderment at his funny moves.

"'Do you know,' says Mr. Jones, 'this is a conundrum to me—it's inexplicable. Why, I was as sure I had just two twenties in that drawer as I was that I didn't have any ones. Now I've only got one twenty, and I've got a one I didn't know I had'—and he shows me the money.

"'Yes,' I says, 'that's what you've got, all right.'

"'I can't understand it,' he says.

"'Neither can I,' I tell him, and I let him hear in the tone of my voice that I'm not overly interested in the mysteries of his cash drawer.

"His boy came in just then, and he called to him: 'Johnny,' he says, 'you take this fifty-dollar bill and get it changed somewhere so I can give this gentleman $20.'

"I tried the same game once in a Chicago saloon. When the bartender handed me the change I switched in my $1 bill and got away with one of the twenties; then I looked surprised, handed him back the money, and pointed out his error.

"Right then I got a little nervous—it seemed to me there was something wrong with his expression. He was looking intently at the money, but he didn't seem much puzzled; he just looked sort of meditative, like it reminded him of something else. When he looked at me again he was sticking the bills down in his pocket.

"'Young man,' he says, 'I guess I'll just keep this where it won't get mixed up any worse.'

"I divined that he was on the wise list, all right, but I made a dying struggle to get back my $50 note. 'Well,' I says, 'if you can't change my bill give it back to me.'

"He just grinned at me and shook his head."

FINE FURNITURE VENEERED.

Washington Herald: "There is a great deal of so-called oak furniture sold nowadays," said Eugene J. Hicks. "A large part of this furniture is veneered. This is particularly true of parlor and ornamental furniture. Coarse and common furniture may be made of solid oak, but fine furniture is almost invariably veneered.

"This is because a much finer finish can be got from quartered oak veneer than from the solid wood. The grain comes out better, and it takes a higher polish. Where strength and durability are required, the solid wood is used, but for surfaces veneering is preferable. Indianapolis is the largest veneer manufacturing center in the world. The sycamore used to be regarded as a comparatively worthless tree, but it works up well in veneering, and finds many uses in the manufacture of furniture. It can be stained in imitation of cherry and other hard woods.

"There are two kinds of veneering—sawed and sliced—but it takes an expert to tell the difference. The process of manufacture is simple and interesting. The logs, delivered at the factory in the rough, about thirteen feet in length, are first cooked in hot water vats to make them soft and workable.

"It does not matter how green they are. After being thoroughly cooked they are placed on machines designed for the purpose, and either sliced by a powerful knife, the length of the log or cut by a circular saw into slabs about one-twentieth of an inch thick. These slabs are the full length of the log, and when first cut are so pliable that they can be bent double without breaking. The uniform thickness or thinness of the slabs is preserved by the action of the machinery, and does not vary so much as a hair's breadth in the entire length of the slab.

"After the slabs are sliced or sawed they are seasoned by steaming. This requires only about twenty-four hours, and then they are ready for the market. Some of the huge oak logs that comes to the factory show by the rings in them that the trees were from 250 to 400 years old."

REAL ESTATE MARKET IN ACTIVE CONDITION

Many Vacant Lots Are Being Purchased for Improvement This Year—A Number of Residence Properties Have Been Sold at Prices Ranging From $3,500 to $6,000, and Negotiations Will Likely be Terminated on Many More Next Week—Prices Are Well Maintained and Owners See No Reason for Offering Bargains.

The Duluth real estate market is in a fairly active condition, in fact the real estate men claim there is as much business being transacted now as during any previous spring in the past several years. Inquiry for vacant property is especially strong, and there are a large number of prospective purchasers who are planning on building homes this year. It is claimed by contractors and by those who are now making improvements to their property, that building operations can be carried on at a lower cost than last year, or in 1906, and some of those who were scared out of building in the past two years are taking steps to carry out their former plans. Quite a number of residence properties with values ranging from $3,000 to $6,000 are under negotiation for sale, but so far as can be learned, there is no tendency on the part of the owners to offer any bargains. Prices of local realty are well maintained and the brokers discourage the prediction of some would-be purchasers that there will be a slump in prices of certain properties before the end of the year. The general outlook for Duluth real estate is considered excellent, and there is every reason to believe that the home building movement this year will be a large one, not in one but in all parts of the city. The demand by outside parties for improved farm lands is steadily increasing, in fact, there is more inquiry for improved than for wild lands at the present time.

Announcement was made this week that the Folz building on Superior street, between First and Second avenues west, will be remodeled into a theater by Thomas Furniss. It will be occupied by the Mack-Leone company. Mr. Folz, the grocer, has bought out the grocery business of R. H. Rathbun, and will move into the quarters formerly occupied by the Rathbun company.

C. J. Rakowsky & Co. report the sales of several lots this week, at prices ranging from $1,300 to $1,500, and have a number of similar deals pending that will probably be closed next week. The firm notes a strong inquiry for vacant property, with a view to improvement this coming year. Many people who have been figuring on building plans expect to go ahead with the construction work this year, for the reason they can do so at a lower cost than a year ago. The firm has also had a good inquiry for farm lands.

A. W. Kuehnow, the land man, has had a good business in farm land sales this past week. Mr. Kuehnow says there is a strong demand for improved, or partially improved, farm lands rather than for wild lands. He has sold two quarter sections of land in 51-17 to a party at Milan, Minn.; a tract in section 26, 47-17, to an Iowa party, and a 20-acre improved farm, near Barnum, to a Birch, Mich., purchaser.

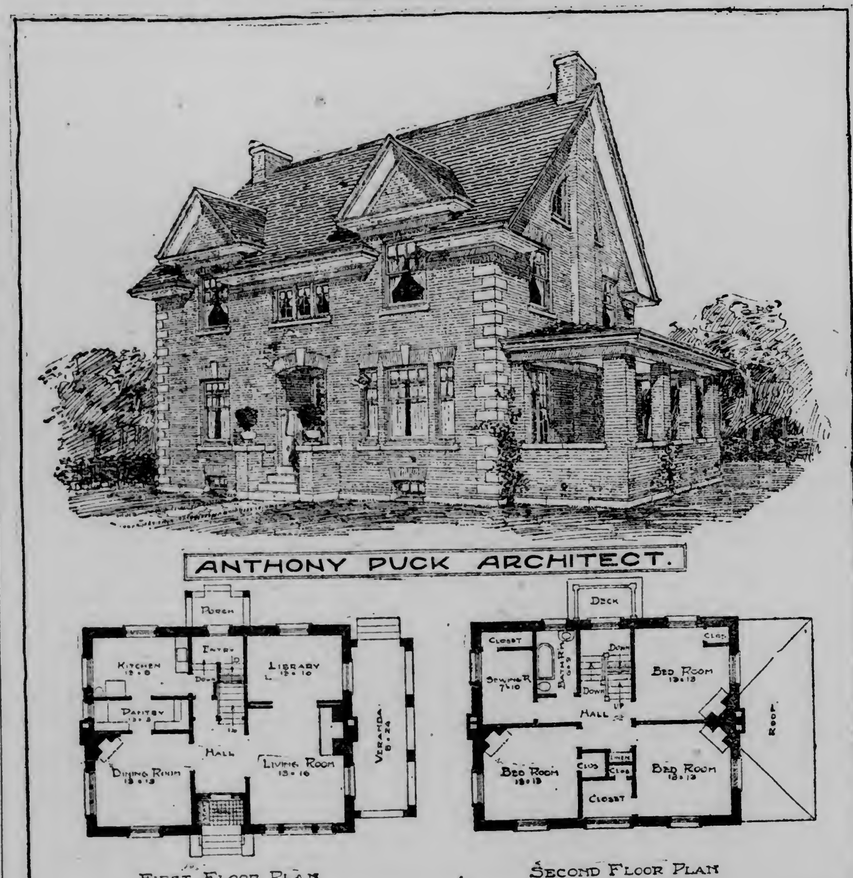
SUBSTANTIAL BRICK HOME WHICH WOULD COST $5,800, IN DULUTH



The above illustration is of an artistically designed and substantially constructed brick house of eight rooms. The general effect of the exterior design is that of a durable, cozy and homelike shelter. The exterior is of dark red brick with gray stone trimmings, white painted woodwork, and shingled roofs, stained a moss green. The object in view has been to plan a home of true domestic quality, consistent and attractive in style, to be well built and void of popular extremes.

The entrance is in the center, featured by a recessed porch with tile floor and seat. A spacious central hall provides convenient communication to all parts of the house. A large dining room and library separated by sliding doors are on the right. Both living room and library are connected to the veranda by French casement windows. The dining room and kitchen are on the left, connected by a large pantry. The rear entrance is conveniently combined with the cellar way under the landing of the main stairway to the second story. One doorway from the kitchen gives direct access therefrom to the front entrance, rear entrance and basement, an arrangement usually requiring three doorways.

The stairway to the second story is at the rear of the hall, and is in two flights, with a wide landing two-thirds of the way up. From the landing access is gained to the rear balcony, which is built over the main porch.

Three light and airy bedrooms, a sewing room and bathroom are planned in the second story. All rooms open directly into a large light hallway. Closets for every room and a linen closet off the hall are also provided. Though the roof appears low on the exterior view, all the walls in the second story extend vertically to the full height of ceiling.

Two additional bedrooms can be arranged in the attic, which is conveniently accessible by an easy stairway from the second story hall.

The basement has a cement floor and is divided into heater room, fuel room, laundry and cellar.

The outside dimensions of the building, exclusive of veranda are 37 feet front by 29 feet depth. The ceiling heights are 7 feet, 9 feet and 8 feet.

In Duluth and vicinity, a dwelling of the above design and description would cost to build, including heating and plumbing, $5,800. Anthony Puck, Architect, Duluth, Minn.
